Boys Get Together to Study Higher Ideals of Living

CONFERENCE AT TRENTON PRODUCTIVE OF MUCH GOOD—SNAPPY MEETINGS CONDUCTED BY BOYS THEMSELVES—TAYLOR STATTEN, THE SMALL BOY'S BIG BROTHER, ON THE JOB.

Friday evening, Jan. 28, in King Street Methodist Church, Trenton, there opened a convention at once unique in character and proportions, when nearly 500 boys between the ages of 15 and 20 years met in their annual Boys' Work Conference, representing the territory between York and Kingston. Previous to the regular conference session in the church, leaders in Boys' work among the Protestant churches to the number of about 100 sat down to a luncheon in the Masonic Hall when Rev. Frank Langford, B.A., representing the Methodist, and Rev. R. B. Ferris, representing the Presbyterian churches of Canada, briefly presented the aims of the Boys' Work Movement, and in particular that o' the age group represented at the conference, outlined the program for the sessions, and secured volunteers to assist in carrying through the program. At the full session of the conference, after the opening season of worship, with remarkable expedition, executive officers were elected, and the whole conference divided into groups of about 18 boys, who in turn organized by appointing their own officers corresponding to those for the whole gathering. The conference officers chosen were:—Grand Praetor, Paul McCullough, Cobourg; Deputy Praetor, Stanley Thorpe, Trenton; Grand Scriptor,—Douglas Ives, Colborne; Grand Comptor, Gerald Burley, Picton. The organization completed, the conference enjoyed an unexpected treat in a pictorial representation of phases of boy life by Canada's inimitable artist, Mr. J. W. Bengough, of Toronto. A few words from Rev. Mr. Langford concluded the opening session of what is predicted to be the greatest boys' conference in the Dominion.

Squaring Up.

The Saturday morning session opened at nine o'clock with the calling of the roll of groups, or squares as they are commonly called, and after the service of worship Rev. Mr. Langford led a discussion on organization of Tuxis Squares, that is, fifteen 18-year groups in the local church. The basis of organization is the Sunday School class. The executive is composed of a Praetor, a Deputy Praetor, Scriptor and Comptor, ordinarily known as President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer, with a Mentor, who is a sort of general director and is usually teacher of the class. Mr. Langford then illustrated the charting of a boy, which consists in taking a sort of inventory of his attainments and to some extent his habits of life at the time of joining a Tuxis Square.

Group Session.

The session was continued with a demonstration by Rev. Mr. Ferris of how to carry through a Sunday session of a group. The members of the group being arranged in a square, with one officer in the center of each side, and the class being called to order by the Praetor, the Scriptor reads the minutes of the mid-week service, someone reports on any group activities, and then the Mentor leads in the discussion of the scripture lesson for the day.

Following these demonstrations Mr. Langford addressed the conference on the subject, "The Four-Fold Life in the Home," pointing out how the intellectual and physical development of a boy's character may largely be attained in his home relationships, and how there also his life may find large expression in devotion and service.

The remainder of the morning session was devoted to conferences of the various denominational groups.

Taylor Statten Popular.

The afternoon session being regularly opened Mr. Taylor Statten, Secretary of the Canadian Boys' Work Board, was introduced, receiving roaring cheers of welcome from the boys, and after expressing a conviction, coming from interest evidenced by the gathering, that the boys of Canada are destined to put Canada in a position of world leadership, he proceeded to demonstrate how a mid-week service is conducted in a local group.

The remainder of the afternoon was taken up with a "hike" into the country where group games were engaged in in a large open field.

Treats and Eats.

At 6.30 five hundred boys sat down at a banquet in the school room of the conference church, after which a half hour or so was spent in songs of more or less serious vein, and expression of appreciation of the hospitality and kindness in general of the people of Trenton. Mr. Langford then addressed the conference on the subject, "A Boy's Choice of a Life's Work." There are three great choices which a man usually makes between the ages of 15 and 25, viz., the choice of a Saviour, the choice of a life's work, and the choice of a life partner. In choosing a life's work a man should choose the one that will call out the best that is in him, the one that he intends to adhere to as long as he lives. He should choose it in view of the world's greatest need. Mr. Langford most emphatically claimed that the Christian ministry meets all these guarantees of a good investment of a man's life.

The Jesus Way.

Mr. Langford was followed by Taylor Statten, who confidently affirmed that in the near future the Christian ministry will demand many men to be directors of religious education as well as for pulpit work. Proceeding he impressed upon his hearers that the law of successful living is not in making money but in service. It is the law of success in the business world in these days, and "the day" is coming when the GREAT men of Canada will be those whose habit of life will be living for others: "The Jesus Way is the Way of Life."

In order not to interfere with regular church services, the Sunday sessions were limited to one at 4.15 and a closing one at 8.15. In the afternoon session Mr. Taylor Statten appealed to the boys, taking the example of Jesus, to make decisions for a better life, and giving every boy a card on which to record a decision to take some advanced step. Probably hundreds of such cards were returned signed, with name and address.

Farewell Session.

The evening session was of the nature of a farewell. Brief but very solicitous addresses were made by Mr. I. F. Cox, Secretary of Billeting Committee, Rev. R. A. Whatam, who has been associated with this conference from its beginning, Rev. Mr. Cranston, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Rev. H. Frost, pastor of Grace Methodist church, and Rev. Capt. Clark, pastor of the conference church. The boys farewelled in a way peculiar to these conferences. The National Anthem was sung, the benediction pronounced, and the Grand Praetor declared the really great conference closed.

Over 500 delegates were registered. Plans were laid for two conferences next year, at Lindsay and Cobourg, and for a summer camp in the Kawartha Lakes in July.

Pope Urges Peace And Reconciliation

Encyclical on Seventh Centenary of St. Francis of Assisi.

Rome, Jan., 31.—Pope Benedict, on the occasion of the seventh centenary of the foundation of the third order of St. Francis of Assisi, addressed an encyclical to all bishops throughout the world which calls on all mankind to work for world peace and Christian reconciliation, invoking especially, the the assistance of all "children of Christian peace and those belonging to the third order."

"True peace," says the encyclical, "is impossible unless it is based on the tranquillity of the soul." There fore, Christian virtue is necessary. Tertiaries must diffuse Christian spirit and oppose the two worst contemporarily evils, namely, the insatiable avidity to possess worldly goods and the unquenchable thirst for pleasure. These evils show themselves in perpetual and the rich, as well as in immodesty of women's dresses and modern dancing.

"Let men follow St. Francis of Assisi, whose constant desire was to make himself Christlike in poverty, humility and self-sacrifice. Let women be convinced that they cannot better acquire merit toward the church and their mother country than by working for the correction of corrupt customs."

Hamilton Man Alleged Victim Of Deadly Drug

Inquest to be Held Into Death of Robt. B. Murtrie, Salesman

Canadian Press, Limited

Hamilton, Jan., 31.—Information alleging that someone administered deadly poison to Robert B. McMurtrie who died at the Mount Hamilton Hospital 20 minutes after being admitted last Thursday night, was laid with Chief Coroner Geo. S. Rennie.

While officials refused to discuss developments it was learned that the autopsy made this morning revealed sufficient evidence to warrant an inquest being held next Friday night. Three deadly pills which are missing are said to be the clue on which the police are concentrating their efforts.

Robert McMurtrie, who was 37 years of age and resided with his invalid mother at 14 Stinson street, was widely known. For many years he was a salesman for the Steel Company of Canada. His funeral, which was to have taken place on Saturday afternoon, was delayed by the order of Chief Coroner Rennie.

WAS ILL FOR A WEEK.

It was learned further to-night that the stomach of the deceased will be sent to the Provincial Analyst, who will determine if death was caused by the administration of some deadly drug. Mr. McMurtrie was sick for a week before death, and was said by Dr. A. S. Bueglass, one of the physicians who attended him, to be in a dying condition from pneumonia when removed to the Mount Hamilton Hospital.

Recommend Recall Of "Hanna Order"

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—The majority report of the Board of Conciliation which investigated the dispute between the employees and management of the Canadian National Railways, now in the hands of the Minister of Labor recommends the withdrawal of the "Hanna order," which was the cause of the dispute. The report is signed by J. M. Godfrey, chairman, and D. Campbell, representative of the men. F. H. McGuigan, representative of the employers, submits a minority report which is not yet available.

The recommendation is made in the majority report which practically means the withdrawal of the famous "no politics" order and permission to C.N.R. employees to engage in politics as long as the service of the railway is not in any way embarrassed. F. M. McGuigan, in the minority report, supports the declaration of policy by the President, D. B. Hanna, taking the attitude that the question opened up by his order is such a large one that it should, he understands, be decided by Parliament. He agrees, however, that the three C. N. R. employees dismissed as a result of the order should be reinstated as they had not been fully apprised of the order.

Germans Think Terms Fantastic

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Berlin, Feb. 1.—Germany regards the reparation terms agreed upon by the Supreme Allied Council in Paris last week as fantastic and impossible of execution, and it is the general opinion that the Government cannot agree to them. The Cabinet, which received the text of the Allied note yesterday, was in executive session until late last night and the note was not released for publication until too late for editorial comment. "Madness" is the term the leaders of the Reichstag used in discussing the reparation conditions. Foreign Minister Simons declared the execution of the terms would produce chaos not only in Germany, but throughout central Europe, as bankruptcy of Germany would also bankrupt part of Germany's war creditors, among whom is France.

Germany's Poor Mouth.

Berlin, Feb., 1.—Dr. Walter Simons, German foreign minister, will tell the Reichstag at its session this afternoon the Boersen Zeitung, states, that Germany cannot subscribe to allied reparation demands, on the grounds that they are not possible of fulfillment.

Bone Dry Prohibition Begins In Three Prairie Provinces

IMPORTATION OF LIQUOR PRIVILEGES CEASE IN PRAIRIE PROVINCES—SALE RESTRICTED TO SMALL QUANTITIES ON DOCTORS' PRESCRIPTIONS—MANITOBA MODERATION LEAGUE TO HOLD MEETINGS.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1.—Three Prairie Provinces are bone dry today, with interprovincial trading in liquor made illegal, and with liquor procurable by the general public only in limited quantities on doctors' prescriptions. No estimate is available of the value of the liquor now in possession of individuals in the west, but it will total a very large amount.

Manitoba has a newly-organized Moderation League which announces mass meetings early this month to protest against the present liquor legislation. In Alberta cities petitions are reported in circulation urging the Government to take steps towards the legal sale of liquor under Government control.

Rob Detroit Bank Of $10,000 in Bonds

Four Bandits Also Shoot Their Way Through Squad of Officers

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 31.—Despite one of the most thorough man-hunts ever undertaken by the local police, four bandits, who this morning robbed a downtown investment banking office of $10,000 in Liberty Bonds and then shot their way through a squad of officers, were still at liberty tonight.

Phillippe Ellenstein, one of three detectives wounded by the bandits died in a hospital this afternoon. The others, David Morris and Jos. Huskins, were said to have a chance for recovery. More than a dozen suspects were brought into police headquarters during the day but all were released after being questioned.

Marion Treasurer Admits Robbery

Confesses After Story Is Scouted By The Police

Marion, Ohio. Jan. 2.—Treasurer Harry C. Forrey, of Marion County, who reported Wednesday morning, that he had been robbed of $14,303 by two bandits who knocked him unconscious in his office in the Court House, was placed under arrest early to-day and confessed to the theft of the money, police announced to-day.

Not satisfied with his story of the robbery, police became suspicious of Forrey and late last night obtained a written confession from him, they say telling how he stole the money from the court house safe Tuesday night, taking it to his home where he hid it in a chest.

Forrey was placed under arrest early this morning, almost immediately following the arrival of a new baby at his home. He is the father of three other children. He is 35 years of age.

Wednesday morning Harley Benedict, entering the county treasurer's office to pay his taxes, found Forry lying on the floor, apparently unconscious. He rendered first aid and called a physician and the police. Forry said two youthful bandits had hit him over the head with a revolver and had walked off with the money, later found to be about $14,300.

In his signed confession, Forry said he framed the robbery story to cover his theft. He admitted having scratched his face and hit himself over the head with a hammer in order to make his robbery story more realistic.

Toronto Man Shot Woman Arrested

Toronto, Feb. 1.—In a fight which followed a quarrel over the price of drinks in an alleged "liquor dive" at 76 Huron street early Saturday evening, William Storey, aged 48 years, of 1,123 Dundas street west, was shot in the left side, the bullet lodging in the groin. Storey was removed to the Western Hospital, where on Sunday night his condition was stated to be slightly improved. Doctors intend to operate today to remove the bullet.

One hour after the affray Margaret Richards, aged 23 years, alias Mrs. Rosso, 76 Huron street, was arrested by Detectives Levitt and Mulholland on a charge of "shooting with intent." Bariento Rocco and Raffelo Rosso, both residing in the Huron street house, were arrested Sunday and are being held in custody as material witnesses.

Special Legislation Will Make it O.K.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Brockville, Ont., Feb. 1.—The Recorder and Times says today that it understands from reliable sources that special legislation will be introduced in the House of Commons to enable the Right Hon. Sir Thomas White to occupy his seat for Leeds and Brockville during the coming session, in view of his appointment to the G.T.R. Board of Arbitration, thus obviating the necessity for a by-election in that riding.

Fatally Injured In Auto Accident

Hamilton, Jan. 31.—Three hours after it was thought he had escaped practically unhurt from a fall of more than 50 feet over the escarpment of the Ancaster Mountain, Milton Stong of Lansing, near Toronto died in the hospital here.

When a front wheel of their motor car broke in rounding a sharp turn, Mr. Stong and his son Tuer shot over the escarpment of the mountain, and crashed on the rocks 50 feet below. Without assistance the two men scrambled clear of the wreckage, and the son assisting the father, they climbed up the steep bank a little to one side of the precipice over which they had fallen.

A passing motorist picked them up and took them to the Ancaster Hotel Both men were badly cut about the face. Beyond that little seemed to be wrong. But when a doctor was summoned he immediately sent Mr. Stong to a hospital. Two hours later the injured man died from severe concussion of the brain.

Mr. Stong was an implement agent at Lansing, near Thornhill. At the time the accident happened he was on his way home, after having been successful in making arrangements at Brantford to handle a new line of goods. He was about 60 years of age.

Last Minute Telegraph Briefs

Toronto, Feb. 1.—Premier Drury will this afternoon resume the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. He will reply to criticisms made by Hon. H. G. Ferguson and H. H. Dewart, K.C., regarding his "broadening out" proposals.

False Accusation Against Bishop

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer,

Rome, Feb. 1.—The Sacred Rota Tribunal has made public its findings in the defamation case broaght by Monsigner Fallon, Bishop of London, Ont., against Reverends Loiselle, L. Heureux, Langlois and St. Oyr, the last of whom is now dead, all ecclesiastics belonging to his diocese. In connection with this long standing case the tribunal says there were no libels on either side, but asserts that the affirmation of the ecclesiastics contained a false accusation against the Bishop. The tribunal recognizes the competence of the London ecclesiastical court in the case, but admits the advisability of holding the trial elsewhere because of the danger of local excitement.

Service Above Self is Key Note of Rotary Gospel

LADIES' NIGHT AT BELLEVILLE ROTARY CLUB ILLUMINATED BY DRAMATIC RECITAL, "THE SPIRIT OF ROTARY," GIVEN BY ROTARIAN JAMES H. HERON, OF NEW YORK—SERIOUS SIDE OF ROTARY.

It was quite fitting that "The Spirit of Rotary" should be unveiled at Ladies' Night of the Belleville Rotary Club in the Hotel Quinte, Monday Evening, so that the wives, sisters, sweethearts and friends of the Rotarians should learn just what the big attraction is and the big inspiration to good works which animates all true Rotarians. James H. Heron, (just Jim) of New York, gave an excellent portrayal of "The Spirit o fRotary", carrying out the three parts as written into a playlet by Roger Burnham, of the Rotary Club of Honolulu, Mr. Heron showed himself an emotional actor of no mean proportions as he enacted a dramatic little scene showing the conversion of a hard hearted businessman to the ideals and beliefs of Rotary as exemplified by the club's motto, "Service before Self," and "He profits most who serves best."

In the playlet there are three characters, John Jones, the modern young enterprising businessman who is a member of Rotary and who lives in its ideals; his wife, Mary Jones, who supports him in this belief; and a crabbed old hard hearted millionaire, Eli Hardweg.

Carries Three Roles

Mr. Heron caried out all three roles with exceptional ability. He first described the setting of the playlet which had been given before Rotary clubs scores of times and which was once presented at a theatre by one Rotary Club.

With no scenery of any kind but with a statue, symbolic of Rotary on a simple pedestal, Mr. Heron created a mind picture that will not soon be forgotten by the many Rotarians present. He showed the interior of the office of the manufacturing company where Jones was assistant general manager. Jones is just completing a hard days work in his office when his wife is announced. She enters bearing in her arms the Rotary statue. It stands about two feet in height, the figure representing Rotary atop a globe around which is a golden band symbolic of the Golden Rule. The figure of Rotary bears the sword of service held aloft representing service above self.

This statue is deposited on Jones' desk after which he explains the details of a deal which he handled with a fellow Rotarian representing a New York firm and which was the largest transaction ever made with the Hardweg firm. The Jones couple then talk over the possibilities of the future if the young man is appointed general manager of the plant as the man who had held that position had recently suffered from a stroke and was seriously ill.

At this point old Hardweg, a close fisted old Scotchman, enters and begins to discuss the deal with Jones. He announced the acceptance of the order with stipulations that it must be ready for shipment within 30 days. He gloats over how he will drive his factory men in order to have the shipment out on time and even says that he will go into the open market in order to fill the gigantic order sold by Jones.

Ideals of Rotary

Jones protests at this because the ideals of Rotary come before all other thoughts in his mind and even after the old millionaire has promoted him to the general manager's position he hands in his resignation at the thought of violating his ideals.

The old man is finally converted to the cause of Rotary and allows this spirit to be instilled in his men in the shops as he is now confident that the order will be filled if his men are given the proper treatment.

Square Deal Gospel

The play is symbolic of the way Rotary principles should be lived in business and everyday life, with fairness and honesty to all men, unselfish service in the cause of humanity, and a square deal for everybody. This is emphasized in the inscription upon the base of the statue, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them.—(Matthew 7-12).

Jim Heron is a great entertainer and was very much in the limelight the entire evening, beginning with the introduction of some new rollicking choruses, including the Farm song, which is a corker, a rapid fire barrage of Scotch jokes, and the Cockney Sergeant Major, concluding with "The Spirit of Rotary" which is at once an inspiration and a decided novelty.

Ladies' Auxiliary

The attendance was large and the spacious dining room of the Hotel Quinte was well filled with Rotarians their lady friends and other guests. It was hinted during the evening that the formation of a Ladies' Rotarian Auxiliary was on the cards, and this announcement met with approval.

President Gus Porter occupied the chair for the first part and filled in the spaces between courses with very entertaining numbers flavored with his own jolly quips and good cheer. For the second part Gordon Moffatt welded the gavel and introduced some "new stuff" which caused much laughter. Chairman Gord caught Charlie Reid and Andy Davie when they weren't looking and induced them to tell in two minutes some of the secrets of their courting days such and how, why, when and where and by what means I met my fate—my wife, etc. The ladies present seemed to enjoy this feature very much judging from the merriment and the men folks enjoyed it because they saw they had not been selected as the goats to unbare their hearts to the populace. Charlie certainly got off some good stuff and showed how easy it was for a young man to fall in love, but what a good thing it was for him after all.

Sergeant-at-Arms Bill McCreary was assisted by Mac Robertson and no guilty man was allowed to escape paying a fine.

Among the guests were Mrs. McKinnon, Miss Joy Higgs, Miss Phyllis Bogart, and Mr. Elliott, who rendered musical numbers in a charming manner. Sandy Burrows was on the job as usual and the night was full of music, of course.

Bill McCreary, D.S.B.

Secretary Oswald Scott read the announcements and correspondence including a letter of particular importance to Bill McCreary announcing that Bill had been granted the Distinguished Services Belt for great bravery in the face of heavy odds, when he tried to fine Mac Robertson one dollar for reading the Mail and Empire at lunch also showing such a marked improvement in character, demeanor, sociability and willingness to keep the home fires burning since becoming a Rotarian. Bill may give the boys a lunch, some day, when his hens begin to lay.

Ed. O'Flynn, represented the Lions' Club, and brought friendly greetings from that organization couched in Ed's customary witty vein.

Meet Jimmie—Billy

Jim Heron was introduced by Billy Doyle in one of Billy's best extemporaneous orations, and Billy did not have to waste any uncertain compliments for he has known Jim for some time, both being graduates from the dramatic profession, Jim having been a member of the original company which played "Bunty Pulls the Strings".

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Jim Heron at the conclusion of his recital, being moved by Owen Herity and seconded by Lorne Marsh.

ROTARY SPOKES

Gordon Moffatt told the gathering that while in Chicago recently conferring with the Rotary International chiefs helping to straighten out the transportation tangles in regard to the trip to Edinburgh, Scotland in June, that in company with Bill Schuster, he had the pleasure of becoming acquainted with Paul Harris, founder of Rotary, and Charles Sheldon, author of the Rotary Slogan, "He profits most who serves best."

The soul of America is in the Anglo-Saxon people over there, who represent 55 per cent. of the population of the United States, said Jim Heron. These people don't talk or bluff but they were in the war from the beginning, and think the same as Canada.

Canada and the Empire and the United States should shake hands and become closer united in the ideals for the salvation of the world. They would then hold the balance with the progress of the world in their hands. We must get together. Don't be swayed by the bluffers who yell "We won the war," but who do not represent the quiet common-sense people of the United States, the majority who rule.—Jim Heron.

MEMORIAL TABLET UNVEILED

At St. George's Cathedral a bronze tablet to the memory of 31 members of the congregation who were killed or died in the great war, and 278 other men, besides several nurses who served in the war was unveiled and dedicated. The unveiling was done by Richard Waldron, the oldest member of St. George's, whose son Major Stanley M. Waldron, fell in action. Bishop Farthing of Montreal formerly Dean of Ontario and rector of St. George's was the special preacher, and Bishop Bidwell conducted the dedicatory service.—Kingston Whig.

Music and Drama

PICTURE MADE IN TRENTON

Complying with the many requests received by Manager Forhan of Griffin's to present in Belleville the 7 part photoplay "The Great Shadow" the picture made by the Trenton Moving Picture Company in which some of the scenes were taken in Belleville and Marmora, arrangements have been completed for its exhibition at Griffin's this Thursday to Saturday, with a matinee Saturday.

Nothing could be more timely than a picture which shows the growth of unrest, the danger of Bolshevism as an influence making for disintegration between capital and labor, and the power of capital and labor working in harmony to bring prosperity out of chaos and ruin.

Such a picture is "The Great Shadow". The story is dramatic, and its working out on the screen is done to the accompaniment of thrills and tense moments. The dominating figure is the foreman of a big shipbuilding plant, played by one of the most distinguished actors on the English-speaking stage, Tyrone Power, well qualified both physically and otherwise to depict such a character, his work is distinguished by restraint, forcefulness and magnetism.

Miss Dorothy Bernard, leading woman of "The Great Shadow", is a capable actress who has appeared on the speaking stage and screen in many prominent parts. She is a beautiful girl and well-qualified for the part she portrays. A 2-reel comedy, Ditmars Animal Study, a Cartoon Comedy, George Seitz and Marguerite Courtrot in "Pirate Gold" and othre plays of interest will also be shown along with the above feature offering.

"Suds" Shows a Very Different Mary

Versatility of America's Sweetheart Shown by Her Amanda Afflict

That Mary Pickford is the greatest artist of the screen is again demonstrated to everyone's satisfaction at Griffin's in her appearance in her second United Artists Corporation production "Suds".

As Amanda Afflict, the little slavey in a French laundry in the slums of London, Miss Pickford is seen in an entirely different role in which she has heretofore appeared. Gone, except for occasional flashes, are the famous curls and beautiful clothes, and instead we have the scrawny, greasy faced, pug nosed frump, which for quite a while is difficult to recognize as our beautiful Mary. This above anything else proves she is an artist, for very few of our women of the films would sacrifice beauty, youth and clothes in order to give an artistic performance—but all this has Mary done, and more. But with her deft handling she makes this little nonentity of life a living breathing person—a type you have all seen but which you never cared to remember.

When Amanda tells the other girls in the laundry of her imaginary real station in life and describes scenes in her father's castle where Horace her imaginary lover actually and figuratively proves his devotion she had us screaming with laughter—and again, when the same little figure actually meets the lover of her dreams, and realizes that he would be ashamed to be seen with her in public, her audience was weeping copious tears. Never has a finer piece of character work been done than Miss Pickford's production of "Suds". Were she a man, the laurels of Theodore Roberts Tully Marshall and other famous character delineators would be torn from them and placed upon the brow of the world's sweetheart.

Miss Pickford is surrounded by an especially well selected cast and the street scenes in the London slums and interior settings are most lavishly built, and accurate as to detail. In fact one is typically transported to the throbbing heart of the English metropolis.

Letters to the Editor

WORKINGMAN COMPLAINS

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—There have been several communications lately in your valuable paper in reference to "Boost Belleville" but there has not been anything said to boost the labor question.

Let me cite you an instance which happened a few days ago almost at home.

The C.N.R. hired several men at Belleville through the Employment Bureau to go to Trenton to shovel coal at 40 cents per hour. After three days' work they were informed that their wages were cut 5 cents per hour. Those men were only allowed to work 8 hours and could not get home until 9.30 to 10 p.m. They naturally objected to the reduction in wages and they were simply discharged with a C. G. Check to be paid on their regular pay day. Let me ask if this is British Fair play.

The Labor men of Belleville do not spend their money in Toronto in the departmental store, but spend it here in this city and we fail to find the Merchants and Councilmen exerting any effort whatever to help the working class.

Did the working class turn against our country for the call of help when they asked for recruits in the late war? When our men ask for employment in any of the New Industries (which Boost Belleville) they are told by the foremen that we only engage experienced workmen.

Now we would like our city Fathers to try to induce some firm to come to Belleville who will give employment to the men who live here and spend their money here,

Thanking you for your valuable space in this paper,

I remain yours,
C. SLAUGHTER.

Columbia Extensions Show Confidence in Business Prospects

Gramophone Company Will Move Into Million Dollar Headquarters—Step

"Full steam ahead!" is the order of the day with the Columbia Graphophone Company.

Every branch of the mammoth pioneer house of the talking-machine industry is pulsing with an energy which betokens utmost confidence in the commercial outlook for 1921.

In Canada the rapidly growing establishment of the Columbia Company is keeping pace at every step with the forward movement inaugurated by the parent organization in New York.

A. E. Landon, General Manager of the Columbia's Canadian interests, is a stalwart and unwavering believer in the soundness of Canada's commercial position.

"For our company" says Mr. Landon, "the year 1921 in Canada will be a year of growth. Not only do we begin the year with optimism but we are translating our faith in the future into action every day by important extensions of our facilities for both manufacturing and merchandising."

New Million Dollar Home

To hundreds of thousands of Canadians, in whose homes Columbia Grafonolas and records have become an abiding institution, news of the Columbia's approaching move to its new million-dollar home in Columbus Circle New York City, will be of deep interest.

The erection of the magnificent 24-storey Gotham National Bank Building gave the Columbia Company an opportunity to obtain headquarters with facilities such as it had long been seeking. Eight entire floors of this new sky scraper have been set aside for the purpose.

The three top floors have been specially arranged with a view to ideal acoustic conditions for the recording of records. Aside from the wonderful rooms where music in all languages will be recorded by specialists, there will be a department given over to the reception of the many great artists whose music the Columbia Company reproduces.

Provisions of fitting "atmosphere" and surroundings for these famous stage and concert stars is recognized by the Columbia Company as essential to obtaining the best product of their talent.

Giant Signs to Flash

The new offices will make possible, as well, the concentration of the executive departments under one roof. From the top of the building will flash gigantic electric signs which will be noteworthy, even amidst the brilliant Manhattan displays, the greatest in the world.

Almost coincident with this move in New York is the transfer of the Canadian head office in Toronto to the Hugh C. McLean Building 347 Adelaide St West. Here Mr. Landon and his staff are already installed in modern commodious offices, offering every convenience for the handling of their increasing volume of business.

In Montreal, too, the company is in the midst of the forward movement. In that city a new branch office has been opened, under the management of Mr. Gerand. This office will form the distribution center for Quebec. A galaxy of French-Canadian artists already engaged in the recording of music in the French language for the Columbia Company.

Home Talent Encouraged

The production of these records is having a marked effect in encouraging the development of French-Canadian musical talent.

But from the music-lover's standpoint, perhaps, none of the present extensions will be of greater interest than the rapid development of the record manufacturing facilities in the company's factory in Toronto.

Relatively few Canadians, probably, are aware of the great scope and size of this Columbia industry which has grown up with amazing rapidity within the last few years. With its 235,000 square feet of floor space, the building is equipped in every detail for the manufacturing of records, cabinets, tone-arms, reproducers and motors, and is not only the largest plant of its kind in the British Empire, but is one of the largest plants of any description in Canada.

The manufacturing of talking-machines and records is regarded by many astute business men as a fairly accurate barometer of the condition of the nation's business. If this belief is well founded, Canadians must assuredly feel a glow of satisfaction in observing the present activities of the Columbia Graphophone Company.

Red Rose Tea costs more than other teas. It costs us more, costs the grocer more and costs you more. It should be better than other teas.

Cruise of the Typhoon

A GREAT November gale came up the Atlantic coast from the Gulf, drove coastwise shipping into port, and battered the big liners as they labored west. Out of this waste of driving scud and mountainous seas the little forty-five-foot ketch Typhoon under jib and mizzen ploughed into the port of New York, completing a record voyage to England and return which started last July from Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia.

A voyage of this sort undertaken by W. W. Nutting as captain and owner, assisted by a crew of four other adventurous spirits, obviously demands plenty of nerve and an absolute relish for the endurance of hardship, yet these quiet, young-hearted seadogs would be the first to disclaim any motive of heroics for their cruise. "My whole object in crossing in the Typhoon," said Capt. Nutting, "was to get the idea into the heads of yachtsmen that a sturdy small craft such as mine, manned by amateur sailors with a fair amount of experience, can get away with deep-water cruising without any great risk. There is too much wicker-chair harbor yachting on this side of the water, and not enough plain every-day sailing."

The fact that the Typhoon came back sound and seaworthy proves Mr. Nutting was right. A glance through the log of the return voyage shows him a little over-modest in his off-hand account of the adventure. So let us pick up the little vessel as she drops anchor at Cowes, Isle of Wight, when she made England last August after a record run of fifteen days in crossing the Atlantic under sail.

Here is the "Log of the yacht Typhoon, designed by William Atkin after suggestions by William Nutting and built at the shop of Dr. Graham Bell's Laboratory, Baddeck, Cape Breton Island, N.S. Keel laid in March; delivered July 3, 1920."

On Monday, August 9, the tired but happy crew of the Typhoon made the Solent and sailed into the harbor at Cowes, anchoring alongside the royal yacht Britannia at 4 a.m. At 8 the next morning the little craft was boarded by expectant newspaper men. "Overwhelmed," the log reads; then further, "We seem to have been more or less awaited and notorious—we gave them all a drink in the cabin." Among other noted visitors registered on board at the Isle of Wight was Lord Dunraven, the famous yachtsman, who challenged for the America's Cup before the day of Sir Thomas Lipton.

On the afternoon of the last day of August the Typhoon headed for the nearest point in France, the Isle de Bas of Brittany. Roscoff, a little rockbound fishing village, was the first place touched on the Brittany coast. No one on board knew French and supper was waiting. Necessity was made a mother. Uffa Fox, an English lad picked up at Cowes for the return passage, so the entry reads, "dressed in shorts, rowed into the harbor, where the curious natives had assembled to view our strange craft." Fox took with him a paper plate and a pencil. He drew a symbolic mackerel on the paper plate, and the natives "faded" him with six big fish. There was a very friendly reception at Roscoff, with tennis and wine on shore.

The auxiliary oil motor which had been experimentally installed on the Typhoon sputtered and failed in kicking out of the harbor on the next leg of the voyage, with Spain as an objective. One of the few discouraged entries in the log appears under September 7: "Still slatting—a maddening experience." Slatting occurs when the great ground swells roll by in monotonous, greasy procession, shaking and tossing the ship's gear, with not a breath of wind to fill the helpless sails. According to Capt. Nutting, the hell of deep-water cruising is paved with ground swells.

But the wind picks up and France slides by hull down to the eastward. The evening of the next day Ushant is sighted. The rocky islands of this part of the coast "suddenly appear through the fog as if hung in the sky, and then gradually melt into mass with the mainland."

September 13 and 14 were spent in refitting and taking on fresh supplies in Ferrol. Port had been made the night before under rather harrowing conditions, after beating along a strange and rocky coast with no large-scale map. It was near Ferrol that the Spanish fishermen came on board with wine and lobsters and stayed until they fell asleep.

On the 17th the Typhoon made her last stop in Spain at the famous port of Corunna, then headed west into the wide Atlantic for the Azores, the final port before reaching home. Trouble in the guise of head gales and nasty weather developed as the little boat approached the islands. In the midst of this turmoil of driven seas and rain-scud occurred one of nature's miracles that seem most to favor sailor men. Four hundred miles off Ponta Delgada, a little island song bird was blown on board half dead with thirst and hunger. This little bird showed no fear whatsoever, and after carefully inspecting the ship from peak to cabin settled on the shoulder of Charles Hookey, the young Englishman picked up at Cowes, and ate a great meal of breadcrumbs from his hand. Stranger yet, that night when he turned in the bird perched on his bunk with his head under his wing and slept out the watch with him.

The daring journey was continued in spite of November gales and ended safely.

The Turk thinks amber removes all injurious effects of nicotine.

Jean Marecesko, of Cleveland, had heard about New York's crime wave, and decided the other night to try and give away $500 in bills to avoid having it stolen from him. The arrival of a patrolman saved his roll and averted a riot. He is under observation.

Belleville Win From Frontenacs

Belleville Intermediates Win Round in Grand Style

On Monday night the largest crowd ever witnessed in Belleville filled the Arena to overflowing to see Belleville defeat Jimmy Sutherland's crack team of the Limestone city by the score of 5 to 3. The first period ended one all. The second period was 4 to 3 in favor of Belleville . In the third and last period, Daw Whelan scored the only tally of that period.

Daw Whelan played his usual steady game and was by far the most outstanding man on the ice, while Brown Kingston's defence man starred for that aggregation. The G. W. V. A. band was there to enliven the proceedings and their selections were most acceptable.

Boland in goal for the locals players the most spectacular game of his carreer. He certainly is the right man in the right place. Swayne as substitute deserves special mention having one goal to his credit.

The game by periods.

First Period

Bill Green after ten minutes of fast and furious playing scored Belleville's first counter. Not to be outdone in this respect, Fred Brown in a neat pass from Stewart to Browse scored for Kingston. Both teams worked hard but were unable to score again in this period. Belleville's defence repeatedly broke up Kingston's grand rushes.

Second Period

After one minute of play Sammy Symons, Belleville's veteran scored Belleville's second goal. Afterwards Arnott repeated this performance, Swayne was instrumental in securing Belleville's last tally of this period., F. Brown, Kingston's star man in a rush from centre ice scored for Kingston Smith the left wing man for Kingston scored the last goal for that team.

Penalties were frequent in this period. Kingston being the most frequent offenders in this respect. Tobin in goal drew two, and the sooner he learns it is against the rules to fall to his knees the better for him though by so doing he saved two sure goals. F. Brown also drew two penalties and L. Brown one. Whalen, Arnott and Weir each drew a two-minute rest. Of course it is well known that Weir is a light offender. It was only by accident that he gave Stewart the boards in such a manner as to lay him off the rest of the game.

Third Period

In the third period Bouncer Browse and "Gunner" Arnott started off with a two minute rest ad with about seven minutes to play "Daw" Whalen secured the last and only goal in this period thus making the final score 5-3 in favor of Belleville. Tom Munro of London refereed the game to the satisfaction of all present.

The line up was as follows—

Belleville	position	Kingston
Boland	goal	Tobin
Green and Goyer	defence	Brown and Browse
Arnott	centre	Stewart
Whalen and Symons	wings	Smith and Brown
Swayne and Weir	subs	Berry and Reid

NOTES

The "Stonewall" defence Bill Green and Soup Goyer were all there last night. Bill playing one of his best games. "Soup" was good, but on account of his former brilliant playing, the Kingston men were on him like a ton of bricks as soon as he showed signs of breaking through.

"Daw" Whalen was unsurpassable last night playing first class hockey all the time.

Pat Boland in goal, was surely wonderful, as the Belleville goal was peppered with shots, but "Pat" remained cool and steady through it all.

The new nets and better lights were matters for frequent favorable comment.

"Gunner" Arnott worked hard, but was not up to his usual standard. He also was closely watched.

"Sammy" Symons our veteran is still playing the game in the right spirit.

Fred Brown, star player for the Frontenacs played a fast and steady game, having two of the three goals obtained to his credit.

After the game Kingston fans delighted the victors and the vanquished by providing a royal spread at the Royal Cafe.

The Kingston fans who were considerable in numbers have nothing on the local crowd for lusty cheering.

The ice was in a fair condition which helped some.

In the progress of the game "Soup" Goyer received a nasty knock over the eye, but no penalties were handed out as the accident did not prove serious.

The management of the Arena have apparently forgotten that press representatives are usually present at a Hockey match. At least the extremely poor accommodation provided looks that way.

THE REINDEER QUEEN.

Mary Antisariok Has Unique Position In Far North.

When in 1893 the United States Government decided to import reindeer from Siberia to Alaska and had sent Lieut. Bertholf, in the revenue cutter Bear, to negotiate the purchase, Mary Antisariok, half Russian, half Eskimo, was a round-faced, bright-eyed, sleek-haired young woman; pretty and a newly married bride. He needed an interpreter, speaking both Russian and Eskimo, and Mary was engaged.

She was glad of the opportunity, but unwilling to leave her husband; so he was engaged, too, as a sort of odd job man aboard; but Mary was the recognized head of the Antisariok firm. She made herself intelligently and successfully useful among the natives with whom it was necessary to deal, and on returning to Alaska she was well paid with a goodly number of reindeer.

These animals, according to the Sunset Magazine, were the origin of a herd that flourished and increased amazingly, and became, indeed, several herds. Mary is now raising deer enough to supply thousands of consumers, and reindeer meat is tender, palatable and delicious, so much so that, but for the difficulties of transportation, it would probably become a staple food throughout the country. Mary is a rich woman, but she lives simply in a cluster of cabins, perched upon a rocky promontory thrusting seaward, fringed with ever beating surf.

It is known that, although openhanded and free, Mary is a shrewd bargainer and possesses remarkable commercial sagacity. Few traders, if any, have been able to get the advantage of her in a business deal.

Toward the hungry, the helpless, and little children her tenderness is unfailing and her bounty lavish. She has no children of her own, but she has adopted a numerous family—not a pretty baby or two carefully selected for health and charm and promise, but such forlorn, abandoned, and neglected waifs and strays as came under her notice in a remote and lawless zone. There are all races and colors, declares her biographer, Nona Marquis Snyder, but Mary is mercifully color blind!

One deed of generosity, dating back to the earlier years of her prosperity will never be forgotten in Alaska. In 1898, only five years after the founding of her herd of reindeer, word came that more than 400 whalers had been caught in the ice packs of Point Barrow and were slowly freezing and starving. They were 500 miles away from Mary Antisariok's snow-covered cabin; they were many more miles distant—and miles of the Northern wilderness, icy, rocky, storm-swept, and terrible—from sources of civilized supply. Quite simply and as a matter of course, Mary, reserving only a few head for domestic necessity, started her whole herd of reindeer northward to the rescue. She received no personal appeal, asked no advice, awaited no instructions, made neither bargain nor effort to protect her interests. She saw her chance for first aid, and gave it, instantly and wholeheartedly.

Later the Government replaced the sacrificed deer with interest and gave her the thanks she deserved. But since that day it is for more than her business ability that the reindeer queen is respected throughout Alaska.

Explorers.

Knud Rasmussen, Danish explorer, returned from the east coast of Greenland, late in 1919, after a study of the Eskimo tribes. He is preparing for another expedition to Greenland of five years' duration.

Another expedition, which will complete the Danish exploration of North Greenland, is under the leadership of Large Koch. His object, aside from scientific purposes, is to establish Danish sovereignty of all Greenland.

Baffin Land, considered by scientists to be one of the richest fields of research in the Far North, will be the objective of the Donald B. MacMillan expedition, planned to start next year. Mr. MacMillan visited that region last summer to complete his plans for the work of the two years he will spend there. The circumnavigation of Baffin Land has not been attempted in almost a century, and the 1,500 miles of its western coast is new territory for this explorer. His camp will probably be established about 700 miles south of Etah, on the shore of northwestern Greenland, where MacMillan's Crocker Land expedition passed four winters.

A Norwegian natural science and geological expedition is in process of organization by Dr. Olaf Holtedahl of Christiania University to Nova Zembla for next summer.

Our Beaver Ridiculed.

Ribald comment by sailors of the world has caused the Government to have the house flag of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine changed. So far the house flag has displayed on it the Canadian beaver, but the likeness of this industrious animal to another rodent caused sailors the world over to refer to the Canadian Government service as "the Rat Line." Hereafter the house flag will display in place of the beaver a cross enclosed in a circle.

Our Woolens.

Canada's woolen industry had in 1918 75 mills, employing 5,557, one-half being women. Capital invested, $19,268,202; annual production value, $25,053,515. Cotton industry had 26 plants, employing 16,000. Capital invested, $53,796,394; annual production value, $66,[illegible].

Our Paper Mills.

Canada ranks as the second largest paper-producing country in the world. Production now exceeds $100,000,000 a year, mostly exported; $200,000,000 is invested in over 100 concerns.

G. W. V. A. ORGAN ON SOLDIER LAND SETTLEMENT.

The Veteran, official organ of the Dominion G.W.V.A., and not always friendly to the Government, has a notable tribute in its current issue to the work of the Soldier Land Settlement Board. After observing that reports from all parts of the Dominion show that soldier settlers are meeting their payments as soon as due and that many settlers have already returned to the Board the entire amount they borrowed, the Veteran goes on to say:

> The total amount loaned by the Board up to the end of the year exceeds $80,000,000, and there are approximately 20,000 soldiers who have taken up land. A great deal of this land has been brought under cultivation for the first time. In the West alone soldier settlers have taken up 3,100,000 acres of land, and in the past two years they have brought under cultivation 202,730 acres of new land.

An estimate of the chairman of the Board, Major Barnett, gives the production of wheat in the Western Provinces by soldier settlers as 2,627,000 bushels; oats 6,027,000; hay, 267,710 tons, with other commodities in proportion. "These figures," says the Veteran, "demonstrate the significance and far-reaching effect of this new land policy on the future of the Dominion," because, "the bringing into productivity of farms that have not been previously cultivated will have a tonic effect on our rural communities which will contribute to the lasting benefit of the country."

Unquestionably, the work of the Soldier Land Settlement Board has been one of the finest achievements which any Canadian Government has to its credit. It was a work begun on behalf of our returned men when re-establishment policies in most countries had not even been considered, has been carried out with conspicuous success and with lasting benefit to returned men, and, last but not least, (this should be pondered by the cynics who are forever sneering the motives of public men) it has seen an expenditure of 80 millions of dollars without even a hint of suspicion of graft.—Ottawa Journal.

CHESTERTON ON WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE WORLD.

Gilbert K. Chesterton, the famous English author and wit, is touring as a lecturer through the United States, and with as much delight to his audiences as gain to himself. One of his books, "What's Wrong With the World?" published in 1910, speaks thus of "the fear of the past":—

"We often read nowadays of the valor or audacity with which some rebel attacks a hoary tyranny or an antiquated superstition. There is really not any courage at all in attacking hoary or antiquated things, any more than in offering to fight one's grandmother. The really courageous man is he who defies tyranny young as the morning and superstition fresh as the first flowers. The only true freethinker is he whose intellect is as much free from the future as from the past. He cares as little for what will be as for what has been; he cares only for what ought to be. And for my present purpose I insist on this abstract independence. If I am to discuss what is wrong, one of the first things that are wrong is this: the deep and silent assumption that past things have become impossible. There is one metaphor of which the moderns are very fond; they are always saying, 'You cannot put the clock back.' The simple and obvious answer is 'You can.' A clock, being a piece of human construction, can be restored by the human finger to any figure or hour. In the same way society, being a piece of human construction, can be reconstructed on any plan that ever existed."

In his chapter on "The Common Vision," he talks about good talkers:—

". . . . Johnson, so far from being king of his company, was a sort of Irish Member in his own Parliament. Addison was a courteous superior and was hated. Johnson was an insolent equal and therefore was loved by all who knew him, and handed down in a marvellous book, which is one of the miracles of love.

"This doctrine of equality is essential to conversation; so much may be admitted by anyone who knows what conversation is. Once arguing at a table in a tavern the most famous man on earth would wish to be obscure, so that his brilliant remarks might blaze like stars on the background of his obscurity. To anything worth calling a man nothing can be conceived more cold or cheerless than to be king of your company. But it may be said that in masculine sports and games, other than the great game of debate, there is definite emulation and eclipse. There is indeed emulation, but this is only an ardent sort of equality. Games are competitive, because that is the only way of making them exciting. But if anyone doubts that men must forever return to the ideal of equality, it is only necessary to answer that there is such a thing as a handicap. If men exulted in mere superiority, they would seek to see how far such superiority could go; they would be glad when one strong runner came in miles ahead of all the rest. But what men like is not the triumph of superiors, but the struggle of equals; and, therefore, they introduce even into their competitive sports an artificial equality."

CRISP COMMENT

Up in West Peterborough they are calling Burnham, ex-M.P. HAM, and after February 7 it will be known whether he is cooked Ham, Ham-and, or Ham M.P.

With two Conservatives running in West Peterborough it looks as if the the Liberal candidate, assisted by the Labor and U.F.O. candidates, might have a look-in.

A little crippled boy at the Children's Shelter is waiting anxiously for some Good Samaritan to give him a good start on life's journey, a regular home and a chance to get a vocational education to fit him to earn his own living. He is eleven years of age and on account of a crippled foot is not fitted for farm or heavy work. He is bright mentally, however, and will grow in physical strength as he gets older. All the boy needs is opportunity to develop into a useful citizen. What a splendid chance for an individual or organization to be a Big Brother in deed and in truth.

LIKES LORD BURNHAM

Ottawa Journal

We do not know whether Lord Burnham has been seriously suggested by anybody for Governor-General of Canada. But that such suggestions should be published is not a bad thing; it enables discussion. As for the merits of Lord Burnham, The Journal's opinion is that he is one of the best suggestions for Governor-General that have been made since Confederation, bar none. Lord Burnham has given proof of the possession of great ability and great public spirit. His name is a household word in every good cause in London. He is a notable business man and an excellent speaker, and, above all, he is a real, live, human being without either frills or prejudices and with ample common sense. He is the sort of man Canadians should like to see at Rideau Hall.

THE STUFF DREAMS ARE MADE OF

Philadelphia Record

The twenty-year-old daughter of Aguinaldo, the insurrectionist leader of the Phillippines at about the time this young woman was born, has entered Wellesley College. She says it is her hope to secure through education what her father failed to achieve by force of arms. Aguinaldo is now a peaceful farmer, seemingly taking no interest in Philippine politics. In fact, no one in the Philippines now has any thought of violent rebellion against the United States, though there are many who are working for the complete independence of the islands. That independence, indeed, may come before Miss Carmen Aguinaldo's name appears upon the roster of sweet girl graduates at Wellesley.

POETS' CORNER

IN THE COOL OF THE EVENING

In the cool of the evening when the low sweet whispers waken,
When the laborers turn homeward, and the weary have their will,
When the censers of the roses o'er the forest aisles are shaken,
Is it but the wind that cometh o'er the far green hill?

For they say 'tis but the sunset winds that wander through the heather,
Rustle all the meadow grass and bend the dewy fern;
They say 'tis the winds that bow the reeds in prayer together,
And fill the shaken pods with fire along the shadowy burn.

In the beauty of the twilight, in the garden that He loveth,
They have veiled His lovely vesture with the darkness of a name.
Through His garden, through His garden, it is but the wind that moveth
No more. But O, the miracle the miracle is the same.

In the cool of the evening, when the sky is an old story,
Slowly dying, but remembered, aye and loved with passions still . . .
Hush. . . . the fringe of His garment in the fading golden glory
Softly rustling as He cometh o'er the far green hill.

Canada's Three Representatives at the League of Nations.

Even as Canada was a force to reckon with during the war, so has it proved in peace; specifically, at the Assembly of the League of Nations.

European, Spanish American and North American papers have been commenting upon Canada's prominence in the sessions.

All three of Canada's delegates worked hard at the Assembly, and they all chose live subjects to discuss, rather than the platitudes which are so easy to utter in all assemblies.

Hon. C. J. Doherty is a quiet gentleman, but he managed to arouse Geneva with a noise that has echoed far when he declared that Article X of the covenant was "humbug," and moved, on behalf of Canada, to strike it out.

Sir George Foster isn't as quiet a man as Doherty, although he, too, in his later days, talks softly. Even his soft voice, however, is heard far when he declares that, with all the talk of humanity and all the promises made, only Canada and Siam had paid cash contributions to fight the typhus menace.

And a private Canadian citizen who, by chance, had been living in Geneva for the past ten years, and who hadn't heard Mr. Rowell since the days when, in softly modulated voice, he used to speak at Methodist conferences in Ontario, would sit up in amazement when he heard the same man, with the ringing tones of first-class logical and passionate oratory, assail European diplomacy and call for a more modern and democratic way of doing international business.

In discussing the Assembly, Le Soleil (Quebec) has nothing to say against Doherty, Foster and Rowell, who it believes would represent their country with dignity, tact and honor.

"But why," it asks, "did Mr. Meighen ignore the French-Canadians? Not one of their representatives was invited to act as delegate. Among possible appointees Le Soleil mentioned Beland, Lemieux or Lapointe."

In discussing the Canadian delegation's opposition to Article X, the Los Angeles Times thinks public interest in the acceptance or rejection of the League of Nations has never been as intense in Canada as in the United States. There was some opposition to joining the League, but it was slight and scattered. On the other hand, a distinct indifference, shown during the Parliamentary debate, was probably a reflection of public opinion outside.

At the same time this American paper believes, if any real move to keep Canada out of the League had been launched, opinion would have rallied strongly to the League's side.

In the country at large there was not much discussion at the time about Article X and its commitments, but the Government, when the covenant was up for ratification, did say that no military action could be taken under that clause without sanction of the Canadian Parliament. There were mental reservations, such as Mr. Doherty now indicates more fully.

There was some feeling in Canada that the difficulties were being slurred over rather than met boldly. Canada, however, shares the traditional British political principle of compromise. The Government believed in the League as a whole, it felt the people of Canada did so, too, and it would not go so far as to reject the covenant and the peace through dislike of Article X.

Contrast between the action of the Argentine and Canada is emphasized by the Vancouver Province. The former left the League because its proposed amendments were not accepted. Canada also introduced amendments which were not accepted, for the time at least, but Canada did not bolt.

"Canada," says the Province, "intends to play the game in reconstruction as she played it in the war. The stage in the operation of the League is not the time for an ultimatum from any single nation which cannot persuade the majority by argument and reason in the best discussion."

Holes in Cheese.

The joke about holes in Swiss cheese had whiskers long ago. But it is a fact that the genuine Roquefort, now scientifically manufactured in this country, undergoes a process of perforation that is deemed highly important for best results. A machine is used for the purpose, by which each cheese is punctured with a number of steel rods of small diameter, pressed through it by a downward movement of a lever. A heavy spring retracts the rods, and the operation is repeated on the next cheese.

The object of this treatment is to aerate the interior of the cheese, and so quicken the growth of the peculiar fungus which gives to Roquefort its greenish spots and much-appreciated flavor.

Salmon Fishing.

Fishing for salmon is prohibited at the present time in nearly all the rivers of Alaska and altogether in the southeastern part of the territory.

Meanwhile the fishery goes on, but it is marine fishery. The salmon are caught on their feeding grounds out at sea with purse seines, gill nets, floating traps and fish lines.

Trolling for salmon is great sport and is particularly fine off the straits of San Juan de Fuca.

The Welland Canal.

The new Welland ship canal is the third to be built between Lakes Erie and Ontario. It will be 25 miles long, and will have seven enormous locks, with 30 feet of water for vessels 800 feet long and 80 feet wide. It is an undertaking of magnitude second only to the Panama Canal.

The American fall of the Niagara river recedes at the rate of six inches annually and the Horseshoe fall three to five feet a year.

HEROES LIE BURIED IN GREENWICH CRYPT

Toronto, Jan., 31.—Mrs. W. D. Read, widow of the late Lieut. Walter Douglas Read, the anniversary of whose death was honored in the Greenwich parish church in England by the unveiling of a tablet in the crypt where lie the remains of General Wolfe said that, the flag which veiled the tablet had been furnished by herself.

Mrs. Read, who is visiting her brother-in-law, Lionel Read of Oakville, said that she had been informed by the rector of the Greenwich church Rev. S. J. Tackley, that a tablet was to be placed in his church. "Mr. Tackley stated that he was 'looking after the tablet when he notified me." said Mrs. Read. The tablet reads: "In memory of W. D. Read, lieutenant in the 21st Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force."

Mrs. Read stated that the rector of the historical old Anglican church at Greenwich, Mr. Tackley, was a friend of the family, and had a great liking for the late Lieut. Read. "The service held was to commemorate the anniversary of his death," said Mrs. Read. "The tablet was to be placed at the side of the window."

As she spoke those words, which began in sarcasm but ended in a queer, uncertain tone of suspicion, as if she had blundered on a reason to soothe her vanity for the recoil of my lips from hers, an ugly gleam shot from under her lowered lashes.

"I am the son of the house of Carruthers as well as of Grez and Bye, beautiful madam, and I cannot endure that you put upon my very good uncle, the General Carruthers, an unfriendliness to France!" I exclaimed with a quickness of my brain that I had not before discovered. "On points of honor I have that sensitiveness that you say to be—be of a woman."

"Oh, my darling boy! I didn't mean to hurt you about that absurd old feud of"— And as she spoke the beautiful Madam Patricia rose and came upon me with outstretched arms for another abhorred embrace, which it was to my good fortune to have interrupted. But I had a fear of that suspicion I had seen flashed into her mind even though lulled by my fine assumption of the attitude of a man of honor.

"Lovely and beautiful madam," I made a beginning to say, when—

"Oh, yes, Mr. Carruthers is here, for I have an appointment to call for him," an interruption came in the voice of my Buzz in remonstrance with the black maid of Madam Whitworth in the hall of her house.

"Come in, Buzz, dear," called that beautiful Madam Whitworth as in one small instant she changed both her position with arms on my shoulder and her countenance of anger and anxiety. She was a very wise and beautiful and much experienced woman, was that Madam Whitworth, but she had given to me, unlessoned as I was in the art of politics, the fact that I most wanted: that the two papers containing the specifications concerning the mules had been mistranslated by her.

"Put a shawl around you, Madam Pat, and come out here to the street a minute to see what is going to happen to the Prince of Carruthers," said my rescuer as he inserted his head into the room for one little minute and beckoned us to follow him.

And what did I find out there upon that street?

I then experienced a surprise that gave to me a very great pleasure and which made my heart to expand until it almost burst the restraint of that towel of the bath under the bag of my brown cheviot coat. Before the door of the house of the beautiful Madam Whitworth stood the gray racing car of my Buzz, and before it stood a slim car of a similar make, only it was of the darkest amethyst that seemed to be almost a black, while behind it stood one of equal if not superior elegance of shape which had the beautiful blackness of jet. That was not all. Across the street stood also a car of a golden brown and to the front of it one of the red of a very dark cherry.

"There you are," said my Buzz, with a wave of his hand. "Pick one, with the compliments of the general. I think the amethyst is a jewel."

"Oh, it is not possible to me to accept a present of such delight from my good uncle, the General Robert. I must go to him and say that I am not worthy!" I exclaimed, with a large faltering in my voice.

"All right. Just jump into the one you like best and drive on down to the Old Hickory club and say it to him. Sorry that you can't come along, Mrs. Pat, but that glad rag you've got on is too great a beauty with which to appear in public. Better take it into the house before you catch a cold in this breeze."

"Yes, I must run in," answered Madam Whitworth, with a slight shivering in her gown of great thinness. "They are perfectly wonderful, boy, and I say choose the brown darling."

"Governor Bill picked the cherry from the catalogue for us day before yesterday, but I think the amethyst has got it beat," answered my Buzz as he started toward his own car. "Jump into your choice and lead me on down to hear you refuse it to old forty-two centimeter. And, mind, I have arranged a little dinner for you tonight."

Then without further remark I followed him down the steps and got into that car which was the color of the heart of the cherry, and I raced that Mr. Bumblebee through the city of Hayesville in a manner which put to flight a large population thereof.

I had not had my hands on the wheel of a racing car for the many months since my father in his bad left the small Pierre and Nannette and me weeping on the terrace of the Chateau de Grez when he went to the battlefield of the Marne, and I drove with all of that accumulated fury within me.

And this is what my uncle, the General Robert, answered to me as I told him of my unworthiness of his gift of the most beautiful cherry car:

"That is a just return for your consideration for me in being born a boy, and I hope you'll break the necks of about two dozen young females in this town before the week's out. Begin on that baggage, Susan, right away." And as he spoke my uncle, the General Robert, came down the steps of the great club of Old Hickory with the Gouverneur Falkner and stood beside my Cherry with me.

"He's no better man than I, general, and I've been trying it all year," answered my Buzz, with one of those delectable grinnings upon his face.

"Indeed, my much loved Uncle Robert, it is impossible that I accept your gift in gratitude that I am not a woman, because for the good reason"— and my honor was about to rise up in arms and betray the daredevil and her schemes within me when that good and most beloved Gouverneur Faulkner interrupted me by stepping into the cherry beside me with a laugh.

"Thank you, general. This is just what I need in all of my business with Robert. We'll be back in time to dine with you at 7 here at the club. Go out to the West End, Robert." And with his hand on the spark he started the cherry, and I was forced to sweep away from my Buzz and my uncle, the General Robert, into the traffic and away from the club of Old Hickory, which is named for a very great general of America and is a club of much fashion and some bad behavior, my Buzz has said to me.

"I really didn't mean to kidnap you and the car, youngster, but I've had a pain under my left pocket all day and I have got to operate on it. A sudden impulse told me that it would be easier if I took you with me to—to sort of stand by," said my beautiful Gouverneur Faulkner in a grave tone of voice as I whirled him out the broad avenue that led to the west end of the city.

MARRIAGE BEE STINGS 3 IN AN ELOPING FAMILY

Atlantic City Jan 31 — A triple elopement involving three members of one household none of whom knew of the other's intentions, was disclosed with the announcement that William Chase, retired New York manufacturer, and his daughters, Edith and Evelyn had married their respective betrothed within 24 hours.

Miss Edith Chase started the matrimonial race by slipping away from home, ostensibly for a shopping trip. She married Robert Crofts.

Mr. Chase quietly left home to meet Mrs. Elizabeth Obergfell. They were married. On returning home they were greeted by Mr. Chase's other daughter, Evelyn, who had become the bride at Greenwich, Conn., of Donald Riddle, eldest son of former Mayor Riddle.

On Snowshoes, Skis and Skates in Old Quebec

With the object of making Quebec the leading winter sport city on this continent, a very attractive and varied programme of matches, races and competitions, some of international character, has been arranged for the season of 1921, and visitors to this beautiful city will have a wonderful opportunity of witnessing or participating in a giddy round of ski races, hockey games, snowshoe tramps, curling matches, skating events, indoor and outdoor festivities and entertainments all in a historic setting without parallel in North America.

The Chateau F[illegible] which is the traditional social centre of the city has co-operated heartily by the contribution not only of a triple toboggan slide, a sheltered skating rink within the spacious courtyard of the hotel, and a curling rink in the Palm Court, but also of a cup for competition between local amateur hockey clubs of the city and of prizes for competition between the ski-clubs and snowshoe clubs.

The whole city with its hilly streets, its fine public rinks, its beautiful park on the Plains of Abraham, its proximity to quaint old French Canadian villages and natural scenery of spectacular beauty such as Montmorency Falls, its atmosphere of hospitality and gaiety and charm, offers to those who love to tramp on snowshoes or glide on skis, or hurtle down on toboggans or drive, wrapped in furs, to the jingle of sleigh-bells a choice of outdoor winter recreation such as would be difficult to rival.

The population of Quebec revels in its glorious winter, from the cradle to the grave. Hardly can the Quebec child toddle than it takes to snowshoes and very soon after that you find it on skates or on a toboggan or on skis. As the years pass he or she joins a club and plays hockey, and many with the approach of maturity learn to wield the broom and the curling stone and "soap her up." A dog sleigh is a step on the ladder to a sleigh driven by a fast trotter.

Winter Sport is thus native to Quebec, and the guest at the Chateau will quickly find himself infected by the spirit of the place. The snowshoe clubs extend their invitations to their outings and plan to hold many of their outings on Dufferin Terrace, just at the Chateau doors. A big curling Bonspiel is scheduled for this season, in which teams from many points in both Canada and the United States will participate. Within the hotel there will be indoor golf, billiards, music and an excellent floor for dancing. The convenience of having both a skating rink and a curling rink actually within the Chateau walls need only be mentioned to be appreciated, while the toboggan slide on Dufferin Terrace and a ski-jump are within less than two hundred yards of the door of the hotel.

MARRIAGES IN ONTARIO.

Some Interesting Facts That the Statistics Disclose.

In plain figures here they are—and bear in mind that figures do not lie, nor compromise, neither do they hold out false promises nor in the present instance at any rate, dash the hopes of maid, widow, or divorced woman. With such an absorbing and appealing topic even arid statistics take on a compelling glamor and so we tender no apologies for them.

The City of Toronto had 6,495 marriages last year which, taking 499,300 as the most conservative estimate of population, gives a mean ratio per thousand of 13.0. Certain months in the year averaged a much higher marriage rate than others. Thus, January brought in 325, February accounted for 330, March 382, April 490, and May 419. In June, the month of brides, the figures, as would be expected, take a distinct jump, 832 blushing maidens or widows having been led to the altar in that halcyon period. In July the market experienced a slump, with only 495, but things began to look up again in August, for 586 is the figure recorded for it, and September rallied round with no less than 739, which proves it the year's second favorite. October did well, too, bringing 643, and November didn't do so badly considering the "no sun, no moon, no proper time of day" reputation it bears, for 676 couples accepted the life-sentence then and no doubt enjoyed a happy honeymoon in spite of the weather. December reported 578 marriages.

Before going on with Toronto, let us diverge a moment to show figures for a few sister cities and towns. Hamilton married 1,340 couples last year, which amply proves its right to the title of "ambitious." Ottawa sent 1,220 on their way rejoicing. London kept its ministers and magistrates busy tying 787 knots, Kingston was a little shy, with 379, and Kitchener celebrated to the tune of 274. After further close consultation with the records of the registrar-general we established the rather interesting fact that Niagara Falls had the highest ratio per population, with 22.7. In plainer parlance, 22 women out of every thousand in that city were married last year. Windsor came next with a ratio of 19.9 and Sarnia followed with 14.5. Then five places tied for fourth position with 13. These were Toronto, Galt, Stratford, St. Thomas and London. We must send Fort William into the corner with the dunce's cap. She brought up the rear, with 9.8 and three other backsliders were Peterboro, Brantford and Belleville, none of which rose above the 10. point. Ottawa registered 11.7. Therefore, the woman living in Niagara Falls has exactly twice the number of chances for marriage that the one resident in the Dominion capital can boast, and the Windsor girl has double the prospects that the Fort William damsel possesses.

But let the city at the head of the Great Lakes cheer up. She is down in the records as the leader in births for that year, the ratio being 35.1. Chatham has the lowest, with 15.9. Woodstock and London run neck-and-neck with the highest death rate, 17, and Kitchener, with 7.8 must be a very poor place for the undertaking business. She has the lowest death rate of all.

In Toronto the marriages according to religious denomination demonstrate 2,095 brides and 2,068 grooms of the Anglican faith, 1,490 brides and 1,539 grooms married under Presbyterian auspices, 1,312 brides and 1,273 grooms blessed by the Methodist Church. Baptist figures are 402 brides, 360 grooms. The Roman Catholics married 682 and 708, the Hebrews 282 and 289, the Salvation Army 38 and 36, the Congregationalists 46 and 51, the Lutherans 20 and 42, and Evangelical Association 3 and 5. Under the head of "not given" were 125 and 129.

The Province of Ontario records 26,328 couples married last year—by which we mean 1919, of course, the report on 1920 not being available yet—and of this number 14,444 were from cities. The towns furnished 1,828, and the rural municipalities 10,056. The provincial ratio was 9.3, or 18.6 persons per thousand of population. This is the highest rate since 1913, and an increase of 6,083. It does not, however, reach the level for the decade prior to the war, which was 9.7, and it was higher still for the five years immediately preceding the war, being 10.4. A glance at the 1919 birth records reveals 729 pairs of twins born, of which 758 were boys and 700 girls. There were nine cases of triplets—17 male and 10 female. More births are found in March than in any other month, and the statistics add the interesting information, "as usual," in quite a casual way, as though everybody must be aware of this. The least number occur in July.

No woman need despair. There were 42 over the half-century mark married last year, nine of sixty and over, one of sixty-five. Between the ages of fifty-five and fifty-nine there were 24 who entered wedlock, the majority being widows. Most marriages take place between bachelors and spinsters, naturally, but widowers and widows have an increasingly large prospect for re-entering matrimony. Sometimes they marry each other, but more frequently the widower chooses a spinster. Over 35 years of age the widow's outlook is better than that of the single woman. Between fifteen and nineteen years of age the books show 976 brides and 198 grooms. The age-period of twenty to twenty-four has the greatest preponderance of brides, 2,569, and 1,835 grooms, but the latter tally highest in the next lap with 2,120 as against 1,645 women of twenty-five to thirty. From thirty-one to thirty-five 647 women became brides and 1,091 men grooms. At forty years of age the widows come into their own again and keep on coming.

CENTENARY.

The annual meeting of the Sidney Bell Telephone Association was held on Wednesday night at the school house and was largely attended. The association has a membership of 85. Mr. Oden Fenn, President. Mr. Geo. Cumming, Sec.-Treas.

The last meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Jas. Radford, Rev. Mrs. Mutton in charge. A good programme was given after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and all report a very pleasant and profitable time.

Miss Myrtle Francis has returned from an extended visit with friends in Thurlow.

Mr. Will Cummings, who has been visiting his parents since Christmas, returned on Saturday to Detroit.

Miss Flesha Hubble and Miss Stella Wellman attended the students' banquet at Bridge Street Church, Belleville, on Friday night.

Miss Jones and Miss Stephens, of Belleville spent the week-end with the former's sister, Mrs. Fred Aikens.

Mr. Duetta, evangelist, of Trenton, with the pastor, Rev. Mr. Mutton, will conduct special services here all next week. Mrs. Duetta will assist her husband in the singing.

Miss Ethel Eggleton has taken a school near Cobourg.

Quarterly communion services will be conducted at this church on Sunday next.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Thrasher on Friday night when about seventy of the neighbors and friends gathered there to bid them farewell ere they left for their new home in Belleville. Mr. Thrasher has been a resident here for over half a century—his father before him being one the early settlers here—and we regret the departure of the old stand-bys who have made the country what it is; but this old pioneer family will still be represented at Centenary by the son, Mr. Roy Thrasher, who remains on the old homestead.

The gathering was called together and Mrs. Judson Kelley read an address while Mr. Eggleton presented Mr. and Mrs. Thrasher and daughter Lizzie with a handsome electric lamp. Mr. Thrasher made a very feeling reply for one so taken by surprise, and with his daughter thanked the donors for so appropriate a gift. Luncheon was served by the ladies and a jolly good time spent by all. Following is the address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Thrasher and Lizzie,—

It is with mingled feelings of joy and regret we, your friends and neighbors, have gathered here tonight to spend a social hour with you ere you leave the old home.

With joy because of the pleasant times we have spent together; with regret because we learn the painful fact that you are about to move from our midst.

Mr. Thrasher, as steward of Centenary Church and Superintendent of our Sunday School, you have ever been faithful in your duties and we felt you had our best interests at heart, and what you did was for the glory of the Master you love and the upbuilding of His cause. Many here tonight have been your comrades from early childhood, e'en up to middle age, and as a church and community we will miss you, but we feel proud of you as one of the Sidney boys who has "made good."

Mrs. Thrasher, we have learned to love you for your noble Christian life, ever ready to help in the Ladies' Aid or the W. M. S. when health permitted. Always a true friend in every time of need, your place will be hard to fill and we feel that our loss is another's gain.

Lizzie, we will miss your bright smile and genial companionship, especially your young associates, but as you are not moving so far away we can retain the pleasing prospect of seeing your pleasant face again and renewing that fellowship with you we have prized so much.

We feel we cannot let you go without showing in some slight manner our appreciation of your kindness and your kindness and your lives among us and our feeling of good will and friendship for you.

We therefore, Mr. and Mrs. Thrasher and Lizzie, ask you to kindly accept this lamp as but a slight token of our esteem and respect and we trust this gift will find a corner by your fireside and as you look upon it, it will remind you of the old friends and associates of Centenary.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors by

W. EGGLETON.

SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC IS STILL HOLDING ITS OWN IN OTTAWA

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—The smallpox epidemic is still holding its own. Seven new cases were reported yesterday and five this morning. Yesterday five additional houses were placed under quarantine and seven houses released. Three patients were admitted to Hopewell Hospital and three released. The approximate number of cases in Ottawa at noon to-day was 150.

An easy way to get rid of headaches and break up colds.

If you are subject to Headaches; often have attacks of Neuralgia; or take cold very easily; you will naturally welcome information of any remedy which has been tested in hundreds of cases just like yours and has given thoroughly satisfactory results.

During the last Influenza epidemic, and the wet, slushy days of last spring, DOMINION C. B. Q. TABLETS were recommended to be taken at the first sign of cold; when one felt a Headache or Neuralgia coming on.

Those who wisely followed this advice found that one or two tablets relieved the pain, reduced the fever, and broke up the cold.

DOMINION C. B. Q. TABLETS are a combination of Cascara, Bromide and Quinine and are sold by all druggists.

They were originated by the National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited, an assurance in itself of the purity and efficiency of the ingredients.

Insist on having Dominion C.B.Q. Tablets. 21

RED CROSS KITCHEN FEED 50,000 CHILDREN

An American Red Cross kitchen has been opened at Budapest to feed 50,000 children but the misery among adults, according to Captain Pedlow of the Red Cross, surpasses even that in Vienna.

"They hide their suffering through pride and they revolt at the idea of asking help from foreigners," Captain Pedlow said. "To help them one must conceal the charitable aspect of the work.

"I have seen much poverty but never anything like that of Budapest."

In Vienna, he said, American and other foreign aid had brought some relief while virtually nothing had been done by the outside world here.

Lashed by the Whip of Circumstances

To be lashed into action by the Whips of Circumstance is not an evil.

One needs it periodically to overcome the flatulence of prosperity.

Let us be frank with each other.

Manufacturers, Merchants, Newspaper Proprietors, and Public, we have all had a succession of FAT YEARS. Now some of us are timorous at the thought of LEAN MONTHS.

Well, lean months and lean years would be in store if we sat still and waited—but not if we show fight.

We are pleased to see fighting spirit awakening.

It is shown by the renewal of Daily Newspaper Advertising Contracts for increased space this year.

But, greater evidence than that — New advertisers are planning to use daily newspapers to reach out for new business with old lines, and to introduce new lines into old established fields.

While such vision, and faith, and courage, is alive in men, there can be no fear for the future.

What of YOUR fighting spirt? What are YOUR ambitions?

Are you going to reach out and fight for business? Well, then, you have one mighty force to aid you—that is Daily Newspaper Advertising.

These splendid results have benefitted the policy holders as well as the Company as they receive a generous apportionment.

UNIOR LEAGUE ENTERTAIN

The young people of Bridge Street League were entertained by a splendid program put on by the Junior Department of this organization. Mr. Ralph Hutchison was in the chair. The program was of a very high order and Miss Berkley is to be congratulated on her thorough training of the young Leaguers. The Bridge street Young People's Society are greatly elated over the success of their Students Reception and are very grateful to all who contributed towards its success especially for the untiring efforts of Mr. I. H. Moore and Miss Clara Ridley and their committee who had charge of the refreshments. At last evening's meeting Mrs. Chas. Hyde moved a vote of thanks to the orchestra seconded by Mr. Samuel Cherry.

BREAD WAR.

The drop in the price of bread Monday morning from twenty-four cents to twenty-two, followed by a further drop by one baker to twenty, was followed by a general reduction to twenty cents. To-day it is reported that a bread war is on and that bread can be purchased as low as eighteen cents retail while even sixteen cents is spoken of as a low water mark. While householders as a rule have no desire to see bakers sell below cost of production there does not seem to be any general demand for an armistice if there is to be a war over the price of the staff of life.

Over $2,200,000 Already Paid in

Anglican Churches Have Redeemed 63.5 Per Cent. of Pledges to The Fund

Toronto, Feb. 1.—Payments to date on the $3,465,000 subscribed to church of England Forward Movement by the Anglican churches of Canada total $2,200,000, or 63.5 per cent.—a very creditable showing when compared with the collections reported by the other Protestant churches. In view of the fact that this amount is made up of amounts received on only two out of the four payments, Commissioner Evelyn Macrae, who is in charge of the collections, expressed himself as well satisfied with the returns. He stated that of the two million, two hundred thousand already paid in, $1,900,000 has been turned over to the various beneficiary funds to be used in connection with extention activities of the different departments of the church. To date the whole of the organization, administration and collection expenses of the Anglican Forward Movement have cost 3.72 per cent.

Of the sums already distributed, $600,000 has been given to the 25 dioceses of the Dominion for use within their respective boundaries. For the establishment of a national fund for aged and infirm clergy, and widows and orphans, the beneficiary fund of the General Synod, has received $375,000, of its $750,000 assignment from the campaign funds. The General Synod fund thus being established will provide for annuity payments to retired clergy in those dioceses which have not a local beneficiary fund. Other amounts which have been paid out are; Settlers Church Extension Fund, $75,000; Foreign Mission Work, $95,000; Women's Auxiliary, $75,000; General Synod Executive Council, $30,000; Primacy Fund, $25,000; Council of Social Service, $25,000; and War Service Contingency Fund, $5,000.

Pittsburgh, Pa., January 27.—Mrs. Lillian Bangham pressed the muzzle of a pistol to the side of Wm. Forty or fifty women, assembled in the court room, cried "Kill him!" and "We'll stand by you."

2nd Battalion Colors Deposited

Depositing Colors of 2nd Battalion, Eastern Ontario Regiment—Re-Union of War Veterans

The Colors of the 2nd Battalion, Eastern Ontario Regiment were very suitably deposited in St. Paul's Church, Bowmanville, the home town of their commanding officer, Colonel L. T. McLaughlin, C.M.G., D.S.O. and two bars, who left Belleville with the 39th Battalion, C.E.F., and afterwards served with great distinction in the field, most of the time at the head of the "Old Iron Second", a nick name the 2nd had earned through dogged determination in overcoming all tasks alloted to it. Lieut.-Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, D.S.O. now commanding The Argyle Light Infantry at Belleville, and who like Col. McLaughlin, left Belleville with the 39th Battalion and served at Second in Command, and also as Commanding Officer of the Good Old Iron Second for upwards of three years in France, Belgium and Germany and who also was decorated with the D.S.O. for leading the successful attack at the spearhead of the Canadians on the Somme in 1916 was present at the ceremony and took charge of the parade.

There was a most successful banquet the night preceding the Color ceremony at which the following were present, in addition to some 100 ex-2nd Battalion Officers, N.C.O.'s and men.

Kemp, K.C.M.G., Minister of Overseas Military Forces of Canada, on the 9th of April, 1919, the second anniversary of Vimy Ridge and in which battle, the 2nd Battalion took a prominent part.

The Colors escort was selected from Officers and N.C.O.'s of the Argyle Light Infantry who had served with distinction in the 2nd Battalion. The King's Colors was carried by Capt. R. N. Broad, M.C., M.M. The Regimental Colors was carried by Lieut. W. C. Jack, D.C.M., M.M., and Bar.

The drill ceremony was arranged by Capt. D. Thos. McManus, and was very creditably carried out and reflects great credit on Capt. Cooper and Officers and Warrant Officers under his command.

Capt. Sid. Gilmour and Mr. James Booth, both of Belleville, who had served in the 2nd Battalion, and also Capt. Dan. A. Cameron, M.C., formerly of Belleville, and now of Ottawa were also present. "Fortunately We Had Zam-Buk in the House"

THINK of the pain and dollars saved by always having handy a box of this magic herbal healer.

Zam-Buk has such a wide range of usefulness. It is a real purifying and healing agent. It conquers eczema, ulcers, piles, and ringworm as surely as it grows new skin over a scald or cut, or place chapped with cold. It is also splendid to rub in for rheumatism and muscular pains.

Zam-Buk is healing, soothing, and antiseptic, and it draws all germ poison from the tissues. All these wonderful properties come from certain rare and costly herbal extracts, which are prepared in a unique scientific way. Free from animal fat, Zam-Buk is the most wonderful healing balm ever discovered.

SCALDS & POISONED WOUNDS

Mrs. A. Sawyer, Midland, Ont.:—"My little son was badly scalded by pulling over a pan of boiling water. I found Zam-Buk wonderful. It brought ease as soon as applied and it took out all pain and soreness. Perseverance grew new skin over all the scalds."

Miss Pearl Helm, R.R. No. 1 Tidnish River, N.S.:—"Through a splinter my mother's hand turned festered and poisoned. After a week's treatment with Zam-Buk the hand was wonderfully improved. All pain was taken out and the sore healed completely."

ECZEMA

Mrs. L. Bonin, West Arichat, N.S.:—"My baby and I suffered awfully with eczema. Through winter I scarcely dare put my hands in water. Zam-Buk proved simply splendid. It soon thoroughly rid us both of every trace of eczema."

BURNS

Miss A. Bottrel, East Burnaby P.O., B.C. —"Zam-Buk is simply splendid for burns. One day I slipped and fell with my hand across the stove. Zam-Buk relieved the pain and healed my severe burns without leaving a scar."

CHILBLAINS

Miss A. Lepard, Beaverdale, Ont.:—"For a long time I suffered agonies from chilblains. Nothing brought ease until I used Zam-Buk. Perseverance with the fine healer speedily ended my painful ailment."

GASHED THUMB

Mr. N. Carroll, 928, Clark St., Montreal:—"When opening tomatoes the can-opener slipped and gashed my thumb. Fortunately a friend told me of Zam-Buk. Soon after applying it the pain ceased and the wound healed perfectly."

50c. box all dealers. 3 for $1.25.

THREW ALL WHISKY OVER ICE OF RIVER

Cornwall, Jan. 31.—Special Revenue Inspector S. W. Day, who is in charge of the collection of all revenue along the south side of the river, states that a farmer named Southwick, who owns a farm near Champlain, hired a couple of men to work for him. Hearing that his helpers were engaged as go-betweens for rum-runners, Mr. Southwick confronted the men with the charge, but it was denied. The owner decided to investigate for himself and began a hunt about the barns.

Raising part of the floor in one barn he uncovered 60 cases of Canadian whiskey. He did not notify the officers, but took the matter into his own hands, harnessed a team to a sleigh and drove the liquor to the river.

He then took an ax and smashed every bottle, letting the contents run over the ice.

NOTED MUSICAL COMPANY.

Mr. Zedeler, who formerly was 'cello soloist of the Stockholm (Sweden) Symphony Orchestra, and later with Bendix New York Symphony Orchestra, and is one of the best known 'cellists of the day. He insists on a high standard in the programs of his company. A combination of violin, 'cello and piano and a specially constructed reed organ, is used to obtain symphonic effects never before heard in the work of so small a company. Musical critics are constantly amazed with the volume and character of the numbers offered by the Zedelers. The members of this organization are, in addition to Mr. Zedeler, Salvador Sala, the young Spanish violinist; Isador Karon, the young Russian artist of the violin; Miss Ella Portune, soloist, and Miriam Zedeler, accompanist. This company will appear at the Y. M. C. A. Feb. 4th.

Germany's Gold To Help Rebuild Northern France

Reconstruction Plans of French Provide for Huge Yearly Expenditure

Paris, Feb. 1.—Satisfaction of the general public of France over the plan for the collection of German reparations decided upon by the allies arises in great part from the expectation that the first effective payments by Germany will make available for negotiations or for use as security the French share of the 60,000,000,000 gold marks in bond already delivered by the Germans to the Reparations Commission.

The British agreement not to utilize Great Britain's claim upon Germany as a basis of loans during the next five years, leaves the financial market open to France for that period. She intends to make use not only of her share of the bonds, but also her part of the twelve per cent. tax on Germany's exportations to raise money to continue the work of reconstruction in northern France.

French reconstruction plans provide for the expenditure of 20,000,000,000 gold francs yearly for five years. As a guarantee for the payment of interest and provision for a sinking fund she would have under the reparation plan the equivalent of 250,000,000 gold marks yearly in cash and 52 per cent. of the twelve per cent. tax on Germany's exports. This tax, which will be collected in the money of the countries to which Germany makes exports estimated on the basis of her foreign trade in 1913, will bring in 2,000,000,000 gold marks annually, giving France 1,100,000,000 and making the total available as a basis for loans 1,350,000,000 gold marks the first two years and 1,900,000,000 the following three years, providing Germany pays the fixed annuities half in cash as provided in the allied plan.

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—Mayor Plant, who threatened to go to jail rather than submit to compulsory vaccination when the question of enforcing compulsory vaccination in the city was discussed at a meeting of the board of control on January 13, has been vaccinated. His wife and two children were also vaccinated yesterday.

Close Quarantine is Put upon Corn

Danger of Spreading the Borer From Certain Townships

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—Official notice is given by the Department of Agriculture of a quarantine of "corn fodder or corn stalks, including broom corn, whether used for packing or other purposes, green sweet corn, roasting ears, corn on the cob of corn cobs," grown in certain townships of Welland, Haldimand, Oxford, Huron, Elgin, Middlesex and Kent counties in Ontario, because of the prevalence of the European corn borer in those townships and the danger of its introduction into other portions of the Province by reason of the shipment of the corn and corn products.

U.S. Corporal Found Killed

Mystery Surrounds Gruesome Discovery at Niagara Falls This Morning

Niargara Falls, N.Y., Feb. 2.—Rola House, 24 years old, a corporal in the supply company attached to the 22nd Infantry stationed at Fort Niagara, 14 miles from here, was found in an alley way in the downtown business section at 12-45 this morning with his throat cut. He died at 1-40 o'clock this morning in Mount Saint Mary's Hospital.

House is said to have been in a Riverway hotel with several other soldiers from the Fort early in the evening. He became involved in an argument with an Italian. His friends took him out of the place and returned later without him. The Italian, whose name the police have not obtained, is said to have disappeared and was not in the place when House's friends returned. The police are searching for him.

Several men and women who were in the hotel where House was last seen alive have been arrested.

Blame Railway For Forest Fires

Arbitration Board to Hear Argument As to Cause of Fires

Matheson, Feb. 2.—A start is to be made this week in the long-delayed arbitration proceedings between this municipality and the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission regarding the responsibility for the destruction of the town in the forest fires of 1916. The board of arbitration, composed of Judge Denton, Toronto, chairman; William Milne, lumber man, North Bay, representing the railway, and Dr. Kenzie, Hearst, for the town of Matheson, is to sit here on Wednesday, Thursday and Fiday next, and in that time it is expected all evidence for the town will be put in. An adjournment will be made Friday night to permit the chairman to return to Toronto, where he has to hold court next week.

Matheson was wiped out by bush fires on July 29, 1916 when the whole countryside was a seething mass of flames. It is alleged by the townspeople that the T. and N.O. did not observe sufficient precautions in lighting fires along their right of way, and that it was from these and not from the bush fires, that the town met destruction. Claims put in for damages are for more than $200,000 and there are over 100 witnesses for the town and almost as many for the railway.

No Politics Order A Storm Centre

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—Official action by either the management of the Canadian National Railways or employes on findings of Board of Conciliation investigating the "no politics" order of President Hanna is not expected by the labor department for some days. It was said this morning that the findings would be officially received by President Hanna today and by the employes later in the week as copies of the findings were forwarded to the latters headquarters in Winnipeg. The finding has created an interesting situation in official circles and it is expected that the "order" will continue a storm centre for a considerable period yet.

May Make Changes.

London, Feb. 2—The conference called by the Supreme Council to be held in London, February 28, to which the Germans would be invited, will not be for the purpose of pronouncing irrevocable sentence regarding reparations from which the Germans will not be able to appeal, it was authoritatively stated here today. The conference, rather, would be held to produce a declaration of principles of Germany's indebtedness. It is even probable, it is stated, that the twelve per cent. tax on Germany's exports may be altered by conferees, although the principle of the right to impose such a tax will be retained. The export tax measure, it is asserted here, was strictly a French proposal, advanced to guarantee the fullest protection against future German aggression.

G.T.R. Up-to-Date

Montreal, Feb. 2. Continuing testimony this morning before Grand Trunk Railway Commission which is to fix value of preferred and common stock of company now taken over by Federal Government Howard G. Kelley president of the railroad, contended it compared favorably with the best roads in the United States. He gave an account of what had been done to make the railway a thorough up-to-date transportation system.

Grand Trunk Head Gives the History Of the Railway

Evidence Is Being Heard at Montreal By Three Distinguished Men

Montreal, Feb. 2.—The initial session was held this morning of the Grand Trunk Arbitration Board, appointed by the Federal Government "to determine the value, if any, of the first, second and third preference stocks of the Grand Trunk, now issued and outstanding," with a provision that the amount to be paid to the stockholders, including the owners of the present guaranteed stock, shall not exceed $64,166,666. The board consists of Sir Walter Cassels (chairman) Hon. William Howard Taft, and Sir Thomas White. A great battery of legal talent was present for the opening meeting. The first witness was Howard G. Kelley, president of the Grand Trunk Railway, who read a short history of the line and its affiliated companies.

It was decided to leave discussion as to the Grand Trunk Pacific so as to form a separate phase of the arbitration proceedings.

Mr. Kelley's recital had been carefully prepared and practically comprised a complete history of the feeble beginnings of railway work in Canada with small lines whose incorporation dated as far back as 1836 and covering a number of decades thereafter, until all these little lines were consolidated to form the Grand Trunk. Its last important amalgamation in Canada being the acquisition of the Canada Atlantic Railway in 1914.

Mr. Kelley described the consolidations made by the Grand Trunk to form the Grand Trunk Western in the United States, a seperate corporation with 333 miles of track from Port Huron to Chicago, but, while a separate corporation, all the stock was owned by the Grand Trunk, which completed their system from Montreal to Chicago He also described the various other branches of the Grand Trunk in the United States which were operated as separate companies. The subsidiary companies operating in the United States also including several steamship lines on the Great Lakes. Mr. Kelley also described the physical assets of the Grand Trunk

He did this in order to demonstrate its earning capacity. He started his summary with a description of the company's terminal facilities at Chicago which he characterized as among the best in the United States. The Grand Trunk was in position to give good service to all important industries of Chicago.

The Grand Trunk was represented by W. H. Biggar, K.C., Eugene Lafleur, K.C., Hon A. W. Atwater, K.C., and F. H. Phippen, K.C. The Federal Government was represented by W N. Tilley, K.C., chief counsel, with Pierce Butler, St Paul Minn., H. A. Lovett, K.C., Hector McInnes, K.C., Halifax, and C. F. Newcomber, Ottawa.

Eugene V. Debs Must Stay in Jail

President Wilson Refuses to Commute Ten-year Sentence of Socialist Leader

Washington, Feb. 2.—President Wilson refused to commute the ten year sentence imposed upon Eugene V. Debs for violation of the Espionage Act. The president disapproved a recommendation of the department of justice that Debs' sentence be commuted to expire on next February 12.

Debs, many times candidate of the Socialist party for president of the United States, entered the penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., on June 15, 1919, to serve a ten years' sentence imposed following conviction by a federal jury at Cleveland, for violation of the Espionage Act. Specially the charges included attempting to incite insubordination in the military forces and obstructing recruiting.

Debs' conviction was sustained by the United States Supreme Court which on motion of the Government advanced the case on its docket.

He was 39 years old, and a son of the late Peter McGill of Toronto.

COMING EVENTS CAST THEIR SHADOWS BEFORE—SOMETIMES

Today is Candelmas Day, and the bear is supposed to come out, and, if he sees his shadow, go in again for six weeks. But it begins to be suspected that bears and groundhogs don't know as much about the weather as they used to. Another old version of the tradition is from Scotland, and runs thus:

"If Candlemas is chill and clear,
There'll be two winters in the year."

Missing Letters Are Recovered

Related to Proposed Land Grant to Spanish River Pulp and Paper Co.

Toronto, Feb. 2.—Commissioners Riddell and Latchford yesterday at the timber enquiry were flooded with information concerning three letters which mysteriously found their way into the official files of the Government at Queen's Park after having been allowed to rest for five months unnoticed in a "miscellaneous transfer basket." The letters has caused the former counsel Mr. R. T. Harding, much concern as to their whereabouts. On January 15 Mr. Shirley Denison, K.C who succeeded Mr Harding as Crown counsel, had occasion to look over certain files in the Records Department at the Parliament Buildings, on which date the letters in question did not appear as having been filed. Subsequently a clerk called the attention of the Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests, Albert Grigg, to the fact that the letters, which subsequently had been filed, had been handed over by C. C. Hele, private secretary to Hon G. Howard Ferguson.

Briefly these letters contained information respecting a loan of $3,500,000 which the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company, Limited, had floated on the strength of a promise made by Hon G Howard Ferguson, who on October 30, 1919, prior to the defeat of the Hearst Administration, had set aside a certain area of land for the company, which land was to be held pending further negotiations The land was not to be disposed of until the company, whose supply of wood in the Sturgeon Bay district was gradually becoming exhausted, had had an opportunity of putting in a tender for the property Before retiring from office Hon. Mr Ferguson wrote Mr. Geo. H. Meade, president of the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Co., stating "that while he regretted to have to sever pleasant relations following an election no doubt the new Government would realize the importance of the pulp industry."

Australia to Educate Soldiers Children

At Least 12,000 Kiddies Expected to Benefit—Fund of $6,500,000 Has Already been Secured

Melbourne, Feb. 2.—The Australian Government has undertaken to educate the children of Australia soldiers killed or totally incapacitated in the world war. At least 12,000 children are expected to benefifit.

The plan covers the whole range of the educational curriculum, in industrial, agricultural and professional courses, together, where necessary, with periods of apprenticeship and a subsidy by the way of sustenance while undergoing such training. A fund of approximately $6,500,000 is on hand, which includes a grant from the Federal Government of $4,000,000 and a transfer from the Repatriation Trust Fund of approximately $650,000. Large contributions are assured from other sources.

Would Prevent The Collapse of Loan Companies

New Legislation to Provide for Reserves and Clear Financial Reports

Important new regulations that will encourage the public to deposit their savings in loan companies and at the same time give the people better protection are to be enacted by the legislature at the present session. The main features of the legislation as drafted provide:

1. For the doubling of the amount of deposits that loan companies may receive by making the limit twice their capital and reserve.

2. That loan companies must keep a reserve of liquid assets equal to one-quarter of their deposits which is an entirely new provision.

3. That loan companies shall be regularly inspected by provincial officers and provide each shareholder, debenture holder and depositor of $100 or more with a statement clearly setting forth the financial position of the company.

How Disaster Might Be Avoided

"There can be no doubt," says V. Evan Gray, the registrar of loan companies, in his annual report, just completed, that "the affairs of the two Ontario loan corporations which recently went into liquidation could never have reached the stage at which they were finally wound up if the shareholders had been able to ascertain from the annual statements which they received the real position of the affairs of the companies. The annual report of the registrar of loan corporations reaches a limited number of persons, and therefore the detailed information which it contains does not entirely fulfill its purpose of disclosing to the general public the full condition of the affairs of the companies. On the other hand, the published annual statement of the company which is put into the hands of every shareholder and of the debenture holders and depositors above mentioned, receives not only a wider circulation but close scrutiny. This new form of statement has, therefore, in the opinion of the department a very high value in preventing the investing public from being deceived by a form of statement which conceals weaknesses of the companies' affairs.

Urges Dominion Inspection System

"After a very careful survey of the general situation, the department has reached the conclusion that a system of inspection such as the Dominion has adopted can, when efficiently administered, prove a most valuable safe guard of the public interest and prevent the recurrence of such failures of loan companies as those recently experienced. At the present time the registrar has, under the provisions of the Ontario act, the authority to make an examination of the affairs of a company when he deems necesary. Such an examination, however, is attended with very real danger. As it is an extraordinary proceeding, it cannot be undertaken without causing public comment and alarm for the security of the company concerned."

Banks Won't Oppose

It is understood that the chartered banks will not oppose the plan to allow loan companies to accept deposits equal to twice their capital and reserve. The banks take deposits up to ten times their capital and the olan companies do not show up unfavorably as compared with banks in the number of failures. Present financial conditions make it a peculiar hardship that a loan company should have to take deposits of its clients and turn them over to a bank simply because its deposits already equal its capital.

FIND MEN SLEEPING WITH HORSES IN CAMP

Quebec, Jan. 31.—That the sanitary condition in many of the lumber camps in the Province are appalling was the statement made here tonight by Dr. C. R. Pacquin, Chief City Medical Officer, who had just returned from an inspection of lumber camps north of Lake Beauport on behalf of the Superior Board of Health.

Dr. Pacquin said the camps were not fit for human beings. They were too small, badly ventilated and badly lighted. There were no beds or bunks but the men slept on the floor on boughs. In one camp, he said he found men and horses all housed together. There was no partition, the horses and men fed and slept in the same apartment.

Toronto's Old Man Died at Age of 110

Jos. Mantell is Dead—For Many Years A Resident of Toronto

Toronto Feb. 1—Toronto's remarkable old man, and one of the oldest men in the country, passed away today in the person of Joseph Mantell in his 111 year. Mr. Mantell was born in Edmonton, England, in 1810, and was christened in the old church of Hendon, then near London, but now a suburb of the city. He could recall the Napoleonic war, the Russian war, and other numerous smaller wars. He has seen houses rent for $1 a month and meat selling at 75 cents a cwt., or three-quarters of a cent a pound.

Eighty-two years ago he came to Canada and walked from Quebec to Toronto. For a number of years he lived in London, Ont., and also in Tillsonburg and finally came to Toronto. He was hale and hearty and in the full possession of all his faculties almost up to the time of his death For many years he lived at 49 Rainsford road, where his death occurred. He could be seen every spring busily engaged in his garden. He attributed his long life to freedom from worry and excercise.

The funeral will be held to Tillsonburg under the auspices of the Masonic order. His granddaughter, Mrs J. C. Edwards, lives at 49 Rainsford road.

No Stool Pigeons Says Premier Drury

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Toronto, Feb. 2.—Premier Drury's bitter condemnation of the employment of "Stool Pigeons" to secure evidence for prosecution in Ontario Temperance Act cases was the chief feature, of this morning's sitting of the committee appointed by the Legislature to consider the workings of the O.T.A. and to suggest possible amendments. The Sub-Committee had declared itself as realizing that in the enforcing of the O.T.A. it is necessary that they obtain evidence of violations of the Act by emuloying individuals who will place themselves in a position to obtain such evidence.

"I don't like that" said Premier Drury promptly, "we don't stand for stool pigeons, said Dr Forbes Godfrey, "Mr. Flavelle told us that it was absolutely impossible to get necessary evidence without employing individuals of this kind." "My own opinion is that if you want to enforce an Act you have got to get popular sympathy and you cannot do it by methods of this sort." said the Premier.

Hon W. E. Raney said that the whole of the O.T.A. would be recast after the referendum next Spring. The Attorney-General stated that there was a whole lot of deadwood in the Act. The Committee will recommend to the Legislature that standard hotels should not be given an exclusive right to sell malt products and were of the opinion that there should not be any limitation to hours within which standard hotels should be able to sell temperance beverages. The Committee reports that it had not received any information to justify the statements that bars in standard hotels are conducted in a disreputable menner. The Committee turned down the suggestion to close standard bars on Sundays, and also considered the advisability of recommending a system of Government control of the sale of liquor but having regard to the expressed will of the people in the referendum taken in October 1919, the Committee concluded that they could not without disregarding the referendum in any way recommend any such change.

SAYS CATTLE EMBARGO WILL SOON BE LIFTED

London, Feb. 2.—Another meeting of the London Meat Traders was held to-day, and a resolution was passed condemning the embargo on Canadian cattle and calling for its removal, Sir William Bull, member of Parliament, speaking at the meeting, said the Ministry of Agriculture had been brought round to their point of view, and he believed that the embargo would be withdrawn at an early date.

Puts Soft Pedal On Broadening Out Policy

Premier Drury Unwilling to Provoke Mr. Morrison Again

Toronto, Feb. 2.—Some days ago the Farmers' Sun announced that as the result of the round-table discussion of the differences between Premier Drury and Secretary J. J. Morrison there would be no further platform deliverances on the subject of "broadening out" by either combatant. The announcement was received with a good deal of skepticism among those who could not believe that the Prime Minister of Ontario in his discussion of matters he believed of public interest would accept direction from the U.F.O. executive. When both H. Hartley Dewart, K.C., and Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, the Opposition leaders, devoted so much attention to the 'broadening out" proposal it was taken for granted that Mr. Drury would follow his own course and throw back a few of the barbs tossed his way.

Yesterday he took the floor to reply to the Conservative and Liberal leaders, but the crowds which gathered to hear him had to listen to an excellent speech that covered a variety of matters ably and just touched, and no more, the matter at issue between Morrison and himself. This does not mean that the Premier has taken any "back water." He made it clear to the House that he stood exactly where he stood when he took up the burdens of leadership—firmly a believer in the broadening of the political movement started by the farmers, until it took in all those of like ideals, irrespective of class or previous party affiliations. But as to the merits of the proposed "People's Party" he was silent. His whole attitude was that of a man who has not deviated in his course, but for reasons—fairly obvious reasons—leaves the subject alone.

Little Criticism

The Premier at the outset took some comfort from the fact that his opponents refrained from criticising the administrative record of his Government He met Mr. Dewart's criticism of the Civil Service Commissioner by explaining that that official was a heritage from the late government, but where a year ago he rather slightingly termed Mr. McCutcheon at best a "good secretary." he now finds him "a convenient officer with a real zeal for the public service."

The Premier treated lightly some of the complaints of his critics about the status of the coalition as a minority Government. He thought they had failed to see the true significance of the verdict of the last general election. The trouble with the old parties had been a lack of sincerity, and apparently it was still one of their shortcomings. He pointed his remark very neatly at Mr. Dewarts expense. It will be remembered that when "the great Liberal party" met in convention in June, 1919, it adopted a platform an all-embracing platform that left nothing to be desired. One of the planks favored local option for municipalities in taxing improvements, including buildings, business and income, on a lower basis than land.

"But last Winter when a measure of that description came before the House, to my astonshment my friend from South-West Toronto opposed it," commented Mr. Drury amid laughter and applause, in which Mr. Dewart, for some reason, did not join.

R. at Wetaskwin Alta., when he was struck by a locomotive and instantly killed. His widow, Emma Elizabeth Pritchard, Edmonton, brought action against the C. P. R. for $20,000 damages for alleged negligence, claiming that the locomotive was travelling at an excess rate of speed that the brakes were not applied and that no warning was sounded. Shortly after the action was started recently in the supreme court at Edmonton the disputants reached a settlement, the defendant company agreeing to pay $4,500 damages and $300 costs.

Toronto Citizen Declares Tanlac Was The Best Investment He Ever Made

"Tanlac has them all beat it certainly does the work," said James Brace, of 172 Hampton Ave., Toronto., foreman for the Christie Brown Bakery.

"Six years is a long time for a man to suffer with stomach trouble, but that is exactly what I did. I underwent agonies from indigestion, everything I ate soured and formed gas that gave me awful pains through the chest. I didn't dare to eat anything and just forced down enough to keep alive.

"I had to give up eating all heavy foods and didn't dare to eat cabbage, potatoes or even eggs. If it hadn't been for my wife I possibly would have indigestion yet, but she persuaded me to try Tanlac. I think the little money this medicine cost me was the best investment I ever made in my life.

"I am like a new man now and my appetite is so good that I can eat meats, cabbage, potatoes or just anything I want and never have a particle of trouble afterwards. Tanlac is wonderful, I have never known another medicine like it. I never miss a chance to recommend it as the best of all medicines, and my wife thinks so too."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Osborn's Drug Store, and by the leading druggists in every town.

MANY NEW APPLICATIONS FOR MOTHERS' PENSIONS

Toronto, Feb. 2.—The Mothers' Allowance Commission found upon resuming their sittings that between three and four hundred new applications had come to headquarters from all parts of the province from widows desiring mothers' pensions. In many of these cases there were four, five and six children and the mother had no income except what she could earn by day labor. The local boards first investigate the cases, visiting the homes and securing reliable information from the family minister, the employers and friends.

The Commission worked day and night up until the middle of last week so that all cases in hand might be passed and cheques sent out.

PRINCE OF WALES TO EX-SERVICE MEN

London, Feb. 1.—The Prince of Wales has sent a message to the all Empire Conference or representative ex-service men, to be held at Cape Town on February 23, and which will be attended by Field-Marshal Lord Haig:

"Since the armistice," says the Prince, "it has been my good fortune to meet many old friends and to make many new ones among ex-service men both in the old country and during my recent travels in the dominions and colonies. I trust that at the coming gathering all ex-service men of the Empire will be represented, thereby enabling the conference to strengthen those bonds of comradeship which we knew so well on active service."

Music and Drama

POPULARIZED MUSIC OF THE REAL MASTERS

The Zedeler Quintet which is to appear here on the evening of Feb. 4th at 8.15 is a company of brilliant artists which correctly interprets the music of the masters. It is the one organization now doing public work which has fearlessly eliminated all so-called popular numbers from its programs—in spite of the present age being the era of so-called "jazz."

Nicolai Zedeler, the director of this noted Quintet, carried out an ideal in the organization of this country. He implicitly believed that the masses really love good music, and he has shown conclusively that the plain, common, everyday people really do appreciate the best in music. He has gathered a company of five very distinguished instrumentalists.

THE TALE OF A LOVER'S SHIRT

"Suds," Mary Pickford's production for United Artists which will be seen at Griffin's Tonight for the last time, might well be termed "The Tale of a Shirt," for the scenes are all laid in a little laundry in the slums of London, and Miss Pickford, as Amanda Afflick, weaves such a romance about the shirt which has been left by a casual customer that even her girl chums believe it almost as much as herself.

Having preached the philosophy of gladness in "Pollyanna," Mary Pickford in "Suds" teaches the advantages and consolations of a vivid imagination, and when Lavender the delivery horse, is about to be sold for glue, she rescues him, takes him up two flights of stairs to her room and tells him such wonderful tales that even this poor old animal believes it.

But with all Amanda Affick is a little figure true to life and with Miss Pickford's deft touches she brings the audience back from laughter to tears and back again with her wonderful tales to the tragic termination of her romance.

A 2 reel Capitol comedy "Why Divorce" featuring Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven, a topical reel of interest, a Burton Holmes Travelogue, and Eileen Percy in "The Third Eye" are also being screened on the same program.

CAPITAL AND LABOR

No matter how grave the difficulty between capital and labor, there is always a chance to settle their difference without resorting to drastic means. This is the keynote of the big drama "The Great Shadow" produced by the Trenton Moving Picture Company in which some of the scenes were taken in Belleville and Marmora.

This play takes the capital and labor question and handles it in a sensible manner, showing up the Red propaganda that is eating its way into the Canadian and American Unions and undermining the conservative element.

Just how the Bolsheviki are secretly working among the workmen, and what might happen if their plans were consummated, are also shown in a highly dramatic manner, and the possible solution is also given.

The featured player in this big and timely subject is Tyrone Power, whose years of success on the speaking stage have given him a world-wide reputation. He is supported by Dorothy Bernard.

There are many big moments in "The Great Shadow," and the suspense lasts from the first to the last reel.

"A Kick in High Life" a funny 2 reel comedy, a Ditmars animal study, George Seitz and Marguerite Courtot in the thrilling adventure picture "Pirate Gold" and, others of interest have been arranged for exhibition in addition to the above offering.

Y.M.C.A. BOWLING

Monday afternoon the Merchants and Teachers met in a game of Bowling. The latter team was badly beaten by the Merchants by the score of 597. The Teachers may be very "Larn'd" but the Merchants have it all over them when it comes to Bowling, however, the seasons games are not over yet, and we might get a big surprise one of these days from the Teachers. Here's hoping. Martin of the Merchants team was both high single and high three string man. His high single score was 190, his high three string, 482.

TOOK THEIR MEDICINE QUITE GRACEFULLY

Says the Kingston Standard: Away in the distant past, so long ago that cobwebs have been forming over the records, Belleville won group honors from Kingston. Since that time, when Belleville was becoming known as a pretty little Quinte village, hockeyists from the western village have been striving and putting forth every effort to beat Kingston. Nothing else matters so long as Kingston is defeated, and last night in Belleville their cup of joy was filled to the brim when the Belleville team won from Frontenacs by the score of 5 to 3 in one of the fastest and finest games the Bellevillians have been privileged to see. With the battle over and the laurels resting in Belleville, no alibis for the loss are offered. Belleville played together a little better than Kingston and had all the breaks of the game, but apart from that, the players individually were on a par.

Tom Munro, of London handled the game and gave the utmost of satisfaction. His refereeing was above dispute and he showed himself to be the best referee in Ontario today, without exception. Only one cause for dispute arose and that was at the end of the second period, when the Frontenacs scored after the timers had sounded the end of the period, but it later developed that Munro had sounded his bell before the timers did, for an offside.

After the game Belleville went wild. It seemed as if they had won the championship, the way they raised a holler, and clearly the victory was like soothing syrup to a baby. Belleville has a rattling good team, and while they will give a merry battle to their next opponents, Oshawa is picked to defeat them.

QUEEN'S PLAY CORNWALL

By their win over R. M. C. Monday night, Queen's juniors won the championship of section A. of their group. They will now have to play Cornwall for the championship of the group, and the winners will then play the winners of the Belleville-Lindsay play-off.

To Cross Ocean In Twelve Hours

Britain Now Has 1,000 H.P. Airplane Motor Under Test

London, Feb. 2.—The successful testing of a 1,000-horsepower aero engine, which is said to be the most powerful known, has opened up claims by experts of the possibility of a regular London-New York aerial service, and a complete passage within 24 hours, either direct or by changing aircraft at the Azores Islands.

It is being recalled by the experts that Capt. John Alcock in 1919 flew from Newfoundland to Ireland in less than 16 hours, using two 375-horsepower engines. The new engine is called the "Cub". It was ordered by the Royal Air Force. It is understood that the Titania, a flying boat destroyer which is to be used in long-distance patrols, will be equipped with two "Cubs," and have a range of 1,500 miles. For war time the crew will number ten, and for civilian use the craft can accommodate 50 passengers.

The Cub's 18 cylinder on a test indicated 1,057 horse power in 29 hours of running. The engine weighs nearly a ton, and costs about $35,000.

Sir Thos. White To Resign Seat

Report of Special Act to Have Him Member Is Wrong

Ottawa, Feb. 2—Sir Thomas White's resignation as a member of the House of Commons for Leeds is expected to be announced before the session opens.

The report that a special act will be introduced at the coming session to make it unnecessary in his case to resign because he holds an office of emolument under the Crown as one of the arbitrators on the Grand Trunk Board of Arbitration is unfounded.

On good legal authority it is stated here that if Sir Thomas does not himself resign, the seat would become automatically vacant by the commencement of the session, and that no special act can elect a member to any seat.

At any rate Sir Thomas does not himself personally wish to remain a member, and the only object of staying there as long as he has been without resigning was to defer the evil day of another by-election.

THE LASH AND PRISON FOR HIGHWAY ROBBER

Dover, Del., Feb. 2.—The Delaware State Senate has just passed a bill making the penalty for highway robbery forty lashes on the bare back, not less than twenty years' imprisonment and a fine of $500.

The vote on the measure was unanimous.

WEST PETERBORO' ELECTION IS FULL OF INTEREST.

The West Peterboro' by-election continues to attract much attention, although much of its political significance has been eliminated, says the Toronto World. Roland Denne, the Government candidate, is upholding the standard of protection, but the other candidates seem to have got hold of the same flag or one so like it that the ordinary observer cannot see any difference. In short, everybody in the city of Peterboro' being a high tariff man, the candidates agree pretty well on protection and talk about everything else. So far they have refrained from personalities. Roland Denne and G. N. Gordon, the Government and Liberal candidates respectively, are personal friends, and neither of them have a word to say against J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P. Indeed, everybody speaks of "Ham" in a most resfpectful way, and if he be really asleep there is no desire to wake him up. From the Prime Minister down everybody has spoken in almost honeyed phrases about the man who put the by in by-election. Not in forty years has Ham been so often referred to as "Mr." Burnham as during the last four weeks.

Ham, however, is going to break his silence and hold a public meeting on Wednesday night, to which all the other candidates are invited. They will be in a quandary whether to go or stay away. The man who stays away may invite a terrible tanning, and the man who goes may suffer some mortification.

It is still the impression that McMurray, the Labor candidate, and Campbell, the U.F.O., will be left at the post, says the World. If McMurray does make the run he hopes to make and finish among the leaders he will draw support upon which Gordon, the Liberal candidate is counting. On the other hand, if Burnham gets more votes than McMurray, and some people say he will, it will be at the expense of the Government candidate. Denne and Gordon expect to poll between them 80 per cent. of the total vote. Some say that Burnham will get only a complimentary vote of a few hundred, while others insist that he may actually win the election, or at least poll a surprising vote. Nearly every person you meet in the city of Peterboro' however, is either for Denne or Gordon.

A DEVIL OR A VENOMOUS FOOL HE WHO STIRS UP STRIFE.

"Great Britain has repeatedly shown that she will take from us (the United States) what, coming from any other people, would mobilize her fleets in twenty-four hours," declared Dr. Paul Shorey of Chicago University, in discussing before the Toronto Canadian Club the subject, "Liberal Rhetoric and Radical Propaganda."

Dr. Shorey's admirable presentation of the necessity for close British-American relations was given a rousing reception by the club members. In the midst of one of his denunciations of anti-British agitators in the United States Dr. Shorey declared: "When the back of either Britain or the United States is against the wall we both know that, in the end, we stand together." Members applauded the statement for a full minute.

Pestilent Minority.

"But even so," he continued, "it is possible—not probable, but barely possible—that we might go too far. The roar of the pestilent minority among us might cause Britons to get their backs up against the wall, might throw them into the arms of an unlimited offensive or defensive alliance with Japan. And that would be the end of civilization and the beginning of a dark age whose end no man could foresee.

"In view of the situation," Dr. Shorey went on, "I will say here, as I have practically said in Chicago, the educated American who, to indulge a personal prejudice or for political or journalistic ends, deliberately tries to breed bad blood between America and the British Empire deserves no place on any platform or at any private dinner table. He is either a devil or a venomous fool."

Speak in Charity.

The speaker pleaded with Britons to resist the temptation to retort in kind to the pro-German, Sinn Fein and other anti-British propagandists in the United States. "You cannot possibly deem The Nation newspaper, the Committee of One Hundred to Investigate the Affairs of Ireland, a greater outrage of the courtesies due friendly people than I do. You cannot possibly think worse than I do of any American who accepts membership on that precious committee. But you had better leave it to be said by Americans of my way of thinking.

"Every sharp answer, every smart retort, every justifiable or irresistible epigram at the expense of the States by a British subject makes it harder for your friends there, and plays into the hands of the Germans, Russian Jews and the Sinn Feiners, and provides red headlines for the yellow Hearst newspapers.

Fleets Do Not Matter.

The relative size of the British and American fleets can not matter a pin's head. It will never be any safer than it was in Manilla Bay for any other navy to reckon on dealing with either alone. And when the German fleet was backed up in the Kiel Canal, even the most anti-British Americans were rather glad that Britain ruled the waves."

All the anti-American element in the United States, said Dr. Shorey, was lined up in intense hatred of Britain. "Pro-German, pro-Russian, Radical, the Bolshevist, emissaries to the dark Arab, the Indian, and the Chinamen, the immigrant who does not wish to be Americanized, and all the preachers of social unrest,—they are all at one in their virulent hatred of England.

Must Live in Amity.

"We are united to the British by language, literature, law and political methods. If we cannot live in amity with the British we cannot live in amity with anybody. If we break with them, we break with everybody.

"The British Empire, on the whole, has been an instrument of good. We in the United States would find ourselves very lonely without it, in a world made up of Russia, Germany, Japan, China and an India abandoned to anarchy. Our friendly co-operation with it, in short, is the world's last chance to preserve civilization."

The Liberal candidate in West Peterboro, says the Brantford Expositor, refuses to dance to the party's tune when it comes to the tariff. The explanation, of course, is that Peterboro', like other centres of population, is a manufacturing city, and it not prepared to stand on a platform constructed by western farmers.

An American cartoonist makes a two-base hit with two pictures, side by side, one showing sixty servants waiting on William Hohenzollern, the ex-Butcher of Berlin, the other depicting one nurse trying to care for sixty United States soldiers disabled in the war. Germany wails that she cannot afford to pay for the damages caused by the attempt of the Kaiser to dominate the world, but Germany has no hesitation in supporting the ex-Kaiser in the most luxurious fashion. The United States, bloated with war profits, apparently cannot afford to care for its disabled soldiers as they should be cared for.

THE SMOKE NUISANCE
Chicago Tribune

The smoke nuisance is almost altogether bad firing. To cure it does not take millions in new furnaces or smoke devices. It takes a little conscience on the part of the men who feed the fire-boxes. At present these men are wasting millions of dollars yearly, and this waste they help to pay for. The heat which goes off in gases through bad firing, doing no one any good, adds to the high cost of living for every one of us, including the careless fireman. The unconsumed soot blackens our clothing and our dwellings, costing thousands of dollars in unnecessary laundry work. It fouls our buildings, gets into our lungs darkens our sky, and makes Chicago less attractive to the visitors we wish to bring to our shop and markets. In short, the man who fires carelessly is a public nuisance and a bad citizen who is cheating himself, his family and his neighbors of their right to fair treatment and a decent place of habitation.

THE DOOM OF AN UNPOPULAR TAX
London Daily Express

Unless the government exercise a prerogative shared with women and change their determined mind, the excess profits duty will disappear in April. None will mourn a tax which has played so large a part in damaging trade, injuring credit, and adding to unemployment. During the war, when vast profits were made, the tax was reasonable and timely. With peace it became, as the Daily Express has show so consistently, a clog to the machinery of reconstruction.

IN LIFE

O God, forgive
That now I live
As if I might sometime return
To bless the weary ones who yearn
For help and comfort every day.
For such there be along the way;
O God, forgive that I have seen
The beauty only, have not been
Awake to sorrow such as this,
That I have drunk the cup of bliss,
Remembering not that those there be
Who drink the dregs of misery
But since I may not let me spend
My strength for others to the end,
For those who tread on rock and stone
And bear their burdens all alone,
A larger kindness give to me
A deeper love and sympathy.
Then oh! one day
May some one say
Remembering a lessened pain,
"Would she could pass this way again"

"Oh, my Gouverneur Faulkner, is it that you are ill, perhaps to die by a knife?" I exclaimed, and for a second I let that wild cherry run in a very dangerous manner almost upon another large car in the act of turning into the street.

"No, not that, Robert," he answered me quickly, and he laid his hand on my arm beside him for an instant as if to give a steadiness to me. "I want you to take me out to the state prison. I want to talk face to face with a man who killed his own brother in cold blood, it is said. A pretty powerful influence is at me day and night for a reprieve, and I—I don't know what to do about it. It is a difficult case. If I went in my official capacity to see the man it might give his friends undue hopes, and suddenly I felt that I could run away from the whole bunch at this hour of the day and see the man himself without anybody's knowing it save the superintendent of the prison and myself. You don't count, because in this case you are myself."

"Always I would be yourself to you, my reverenced Gouverneur Faulkner," I made reply to him as I raised my eyes to his deep ones that smiled down into them.

"I wonder if that is as good as it sounds, boy?" asked my Gouverneur Faulkner gently as he looked down at me with both a laugh and a sadness influencing the smile of his mouth. "Sometimes I badly need two of myself. They are at me from waking to sleeping, and I often feel cut into little bits and I can't even say so. In fact, youngster, I'm squealing to you more than I've let myself do since I became the chief executive of this state of Harpeth. Now, turn off into this road and go straight ahead. The prison is about a mile back there at the foot of that hill."

"I—I like those squeals," I answered to his smile as I put my cherry against the spring wind and raced down that long road at a great speed that prevented any more conversation at that moment. My pride bade me show to that gouverneur of Harpeth what good driving in a fine car I was able to accomplish.

Therefore it was not many minutes before we stood within the doors of that very grim and terrible home of the human beings who have sinned with a great crime. I know that I am never to forget that hour and am to carry forever the wound that it inflicted upon my heart as I walked through the dimness and grayness and stillness of that dark house.

At last, with many unlockings of heavy doors by the director of that prison, we stood in a room that was as a cage in which to keep the human animal that crouched down upon a hard bed in one of its corners and leaned a head shaved bare of any hair upon a very thin and white hand.

"Leave me, superintendent, for a few minutes. The young man will stay by the door to let you know when I want you," said that Gouverneur Faulkner to the superintendent, who nodded and left the room as I took a position over beside the heavy iron bars that swung together after him.

"My man," said the Gouverneur Faulkner in a voice that was so gentle as that which a mother uses to a child in severe illness, "I want you to let me sit down on your cot beside you and talk to you about your trouble."

"Got nothing to say, parson. I done it, and I want to swing as quick as the law sends me," answered the poor human from behind his hands without even raising his bowed head.

"I am not a minister, and I've come to talk to you because some of your neighbors and friends think that there may be a reason why you should not be hanged for the death of your brother.

"It is my duty to help them keep you from the penalty of the law, which you may not deserve even if you desire it. Can you tell me your story as man to man, with the hope that it will help you to a reprieve?" And as he spoke I observed a tone of command come into the voice of my Gouverneur Faulkner that was as clear and beautiful as the call of the bugle to men for a battle.

"I done what I had to, and I'm ready to die for it. I've got nothing to say," answered the man, with still more of the determination of misery in his voice. "My neighbors don't know nothing about it, and I don't want 'em to. Just let them keep quiet and let it all die when the state swings me."

"So there is some secret about the matter that you are willing to die to keep, is there?" asked the Gouverneur Faulkner, with a quickness of command in his voice. "What had your brother done to Mary Brown that you killed him for doing?"

"Curse you! What's that to you?" snarled the man as he sprang up from beside the gouverneur and leaned, crouched and panting, against the bars of the cage in which the three of us were inclosed. "Who are you anyway? My state has said I was to swing for killing him, and there's no more to question about it."

"I done it!"

"I am the governor of your state," answered that Gouverneur Faulkner as he rose and stood, tall and commanding, before the poor human being who was cowering as a dog that had felt the lash of a whip. "You are my son because you are a son of the state of Harpeth, and as a representative of that state I am going to exercise my guardianship and if possible prevent the state from the crime of taking your life if you do not deserve punishment."

"I'm condemned by the laws of the state. You can't go back on that, governor or no governor," made answer the man, with a panting of misery in his voice.

"As you know, there are certain unwritten laws which have more influence in some cases as to the guilt of a murderer than any on the statute books," said the Gouverneur Faulkner with a very great slowness, so that the poor human dog might comprehend him. "If you killed your brother to save—save Mary Brown from worse than death then you have not the right to demand execution from your state to shelter her from publicity when she is no longer in danger of anything worse. Did you get to her in time to save her or"—

"Yes, I did and I had. Curse you! I'll have to kill you for getting words out of me that all the lawyers have tried to make me say all this time." And with the oath and a snarl the man made a lunge at my Gouverneur Faulkner with something keen and shining that he had drawn from the top of his coarse boot. But that poor human being of the prison was not of enough quickness to do the killing of his desire in the face of Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, who had twice with her foil pricked the red cloth heart of the young Count de Courtoir, the best swordsman of France, in gay combat in the great hall of the old Chateau de Grez. With my walking cane of a young gentleman of American fashion, which I had taken with me to call upon the beautiful Madam Whitworth before my cherry had befallen me as a gift and which I had without thought brought into that prison with me, I parried the blow of the knife at my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner, but not in such a manner as to prevent a glancing of that knife, which inflicted a scratch of considerable depth upon my forearm under its sleeve of brown cheviot.

I Parried the Blow of the Knife.

British Oppose Return To Old Scarlet Uniforms, As They Prefer the Khaki

THE British War Office has decided to restore scarlet as the full dress uniform of the army. The plan is now attacked by the noted military expert, Maj.-Gen. Sir Frederic Maurice in the London News. The general writes:

"I have been trying to test the opinions of those who have to wear uniforms on the question of the reintroduction of some form of the old full dress. It is commonly assumed that the change is advocated by the old regular officers, but I can find no evidence of this among those of them who are still serving.

"At a recent gathering of regular officers I took the opinion of 21 who had worn scarlet tunics and may have to wear them again, and I found that 19 of them were in favor of keeping khaki as the full dress of the army. The old regular officer will, in fact, be much harder hit in his pocket by the change than will the ranker, for the grant which the War Office proposes to make to those who have received commissions since 1914 is liberal and should cover the initial expenses, but the officer who was serving before the war will get nothing.

"The slim subaltern of 1914 does not often find when he goes to his tailor in 1920 that his waist measurement is what it was, and most men when they take their tunics out of camphor, will find some difficulty in buttoning them. This will mean a new tunic at double the pre-war price, and without official help to meet the cost, so that from the narrowest and most personal point of view there is ground for asking, Is it worth it?

"The idea that a scarlet coat will help recruiting is laughed at. Many regular officers believe that it will have the exactly contrary effect. The modern soldiers hate wasting time over 'spit and polish,' and the old full dress meant hours of work with button-stick, brass polish and and blanco, the 'real soldiering' of the pre-war sergeant-major. When he goes out for a walk he wants to be reasonably comfortable, but if he is in a red coat he has to be thinking all the time of what he is doing. If he puts his elbow on a dirty bar or leans against a greasy counter he has to send his coat to the tailor's shop and pay for having it cleaned.

"The pleasure of ogling nursemaids in a fancy kit does not compensate for its disadvantages, and I believe it to be an illusion that full dress of the old type is popular with the men. Recruiting will be helped by giving the soldier while he is serving the chance of fitting himself for civil life when he leaves the army, and by finding for him an assured position when he has taken the chance. The worst enemies of the recruiting sergeant are the unemployed ex-service man and the man who through no fault of his own has suffered from the war.

"This brings me to one of the arguments against spending money on scarlet which appeals most strongly to the serving soldier. He knows that there are to-day thousands of disabled and thousands of widows who are in dire distress. He knows also that the sum of $15,000,000, even if its expenditure were spread over a term of years, as the War Office proposes in the case of the new uniforms, would go a very long way to relieve this distress.

"The Prime Minister tells deputations of ex-service men that we simply cannot afford to do more than has been done for those who have suffered fighting for their country, and says, as is the case, that we are doing more for the sufferers than other countries.

"These statements convince no one while money can be found for scarlet cloth and trimmings. Lord Haig has given up his hard-earned leisure and has never lost an opportunity of appealing to the Government to raise the allowances of the disabled, the widow, and the orphan to a scale which will allow them to live in decency. As he has not been able to get this done, he is asking the public to come forward. Only those who, like myself, are in daily touch with the conditions, know how great the need is, but obviously the charitable will think twice before giving when money is to be found to dress soldiers and is not to be had for distressed soldiers.

"There is another argument against the change which has great weight with the army of to-day. The scarlet coat was the full dress of the army because it was the battle dress of the army. The tailors in peace time altered it almost out of recognition in the search for smartness, but every loop and button at one time had a meaning. Helmets and busbies were worn for exactly the same reason as the 'tin hat' — to save the head, not merely to look pretty. The raison d'etre of the red coat was that it had been worn at Blenheim, Minden, Vittoria, Waterloo and Inkerman.

"The raison d'etre of the khaki tunic is that it was worn at the Marne, Ypres, the Somme, Amiens and Cambrai. The old tunic has become a fancy dress, khaki has won its place as the historic dress of the British army. It is respected throughout the world and on that ground alone it should be the soldier's dress of honor."

Grow Glass Flowers.

Perhaps, before very long, instead of bouquets of flowers being presented to our famous ladies upon occasions of ceremony, it will become the custom to present bouquets of glass.

Glass flowers for table decoration are becoming more and more popular, for, while the necessary brilliance of coloring can be embodied in these glass flowers, they do not fade as do real flowers, and therefore do not need renewing, unless a breakage occurs. An extension to the use of glass bouquets is only a step.

Not only is glass extending its use from the decorative point of view, but it is also finding wider scope.

The very latest use to which glass has been put is in the manufacture of baths of colored glass, which will harmonize with the scheme of decoration favored in the bathroom.

Theodosius the Great issued an edict in 391 which abolished paganism throughout the Roman empire.

CHATHAM, ONT.—"For many years I suffered with stomach trouble, and I tried many remedies, but they seemed to be a failure—I seemed to be getting worse instead of better. One day I came into possession of a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and took it, and my stomach trouble seemed completely cured. I have great faith in this medicine, and hope any sufferer that reads this will give the 'Discovery' a trial. Once tried, you will never be without it."—G. TITUS, JR., 28 Duke st.

Rush Whiskey Ashore to Get Within the Law

Eighteen Thousand Cases on Board Overdue Steamer at Halifax.

Halifax, Jan. 31.—Eighteen thousand cases of whiskey are being rushed ashore from the hold of the Canadian government merchant marine steamer, Canadian Runner, which arrived in port last night, fifteen days over-due, twenty-four hours before legal importation of liquor into the Province of Nova Scotia ceases. A good part of the whiskey aboard the Canadian Runner is consigned to Nova Scotians and the delay in arrival of the vessel has caused considerable anxiety to those who had shares in her cargo.

When the photo was taken he was exactly two years and eleven months of age, and his real enjoyment and absolute lack of fear while swiftly gliding down the snowy slope, is clearly depicted by his expression. His father is ski-ing instructer at St. Margarets in the Canadian Laurentian Mountains, which accounts for the fact that he learned to ski as soon as he learned to walk.

AMONG THE POPPIES AT THE CHATEAU LAKE LOUISE

When the Duke of Argle was Governor-General of Canada, his Duchess the Princess Louise was fascinated by the beauty of the Canadian Rockies, and it was accepted as a very happy compliment when a new lake of exceptional beauty, discovered in 1882 by Tom Wilson, a famous guide at Banff, was named after Her Royal Highness. The lake does indeed appear to have been known to the Indians who called it the "Lake of Little Fishes." To-day the Indians would [illegible] describe it as the "Lake of Golden Poppies," for the C. P. R. has planted vast quantities of beautiful Iceland Poppies on the shores and banks surrounding the great Chateau Hotel, and in summer there is a blaze of brilliant poppy blossom.

When the delegates to the Imperial Press Conference returned last fall from Canada to England, Miss Billington, the one woman delegate, mentioned the exceptional beauty of these poppies to Princess Louise, who expressed a desire to obtain some of the seeds. These were sent to Her Royal Highness in a specially made box of Canadian Maple wood, and were accepted with expressions of great delight. The tale of Lake Louise's poppies came to the ears of the Queen, who also received a consignment. Her Majesty was equally delighted and gave orders that the seeds should be planted in the Royal Gardens at Balmoral. There, for many a summer to come, the Royal Family will be pleasantly reminded of the most exquisitely beautiful spot in the Canadian Rockies.

LIVE COUNCIL.

The action of the Council in voting twenty-five dollars per month to the band will meet with the approval of our citizens. A band is a big asset to any town and Port Hope has the talent for one of the best bands in the province.—Port Hope Guide.

PAYING PROPOSITION.

Excavation under the Port Hope Methodist church was carried on for three days last week and during that time one hundred and thirty-seven loads of earth were removed. The earth was sold to the Park Commission at twenty-five cents per load.

WHAT ABOUT IT?

If Belleville bakers were slow, what can be said of Port Hope? Bread has been sold in Port Hope as high as 28 cents per loaf, and is now selling at 24 cents. Peterborough papers advertised Port Hope bread at a lower price than it was selling for in Port Hope. Port Hope bakers did not display the same hesitancy in boosting the price as they do in lowering it. The old adage of "whatever goes up must come down" is evidently not applicable to the Port Hope bakers.—Port Hope Guide.

HEAVY DUTY.

A duty of $72,000 was paid by the Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., to the Canadian Government when the register of the steamer Rochester was changed from American to Canadian. The boat is now called the Cape Eternity. It was built to run from Ogdensburg to Lewiston along the south shore of Lake Ontario, but did not prove a paying proposition.

NO PATRONAGE

As the result of too many counter attractions, Mr. Johnston has decided to close his skating rink at Tweed. The young people have not been liberal in their patronage. Mr. Johnston went to considerable expense in fitting up the rink, and naturally feels that he has been treated rather unfairly. If he carries out his intention it will put the hockey club out of business.

"DOUG" IS CASUALTY WHEN "STUNT" FAILS

New York, Jan., 31.—Douglas Fairbanks will be unable to perform movie stunts for at least a month, as the result of a fall.

While attempting to leap from a window during one of his famous antics "Doug" caught his foot and fell six feet to the pavement, sustaining the following casualties: Wrenched back; twisted neck; broken finger.

Fairbanks was taken to his home where physicians said he would have to remain in bed.

HOW SIMPLE IT IS TO STOP HICCOUGHS

Paris, Feb. 2.—The official method of preventing or stopping the hiccoughs has been announced by the Medical Society of French Hospitals.

It's the simplest thing in the world. Even a child can operate it. Here is all there is to it, as put by the famous French doctors:

"Place the index finger on the left subclavicular hollow several fractions of an inch above the middle clavicle. Then press carefully the fifth cervicular nerve, whereupon the hiccoughing will cease."

Mrs. Ruby Cross Dies of Wounds

Toronto, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Ruby Cross, who was shot while in her home at 12 Wood Street by a revolver in the hand of Stanley Hallam on January 23, died in St. Michael's Hospital at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It is understood that Hallam will be charged with murder when he reappears in the Police Court for trial. The present charge against him is wounding.

Mrs. Cross, who was 23 years of age, was shot in the abdomen by a bullet which penetrated a partition between the living quarters of the Hallam and Cross families at the Wood Street house. From the first little hope was held for Mrs. Cross' recovery, although an attempt to save her was made by a blood transfusion from the veins of her father, G. L. Stephens. Mrs. Cross is survived by her husband and one child.

Farmer Ends Life; His Mind Affected

He Had Been Kicked on Head by Horse Two Years Ago

Cornwall, Feb. 2.—While his mind was temporarily affected as the result of being kicked on the head by a horse a couple of years ago, Alex. McNaughton, a farmer of Finch township, committed suicide by hanging himself in a barn on his farm Monday, according to a report received by J. G. Harkness, County Crown Attorney, from the Coroner, Dr. Gormley of Crysler.

Mr. McNaughton was 50 years of age. He lived with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Park, on the old McNaughton homestead, near the village of Finch, and was a bachelor.

THE FACE PASSPORT

By GEORGE E. COBB

To be environed by dangerous enemies on every hand, to have love and fortune at the hazard of a discovery which meant certain death, to be three hundred miles from friends and safety amid the most perilous environment one could conceive—this was the predicament of Arthur Vernon one summer afternoon in the wildest, wickedest part of Mexico.

He was in the service of an engineering firm at New York and with warfare and riot rife in the southern republic it had become necessary for someone to go thither and secure certain records, or copies of them, to validate the ownership of a group of rich mining claims. It might be years before existing turbulency subsided, but in the meantime Mexican home interests might destroy the records, seize the properties, and when the war was over the rightful American owners of the same would find it difficult to re-establish tenancy.

Vernon penetrated the unsafe district and performed his mission excellently well. All the records of the district were kept by some monks at a monastery and they proved fair and honorable brethren. Vernon paid liberally for certified copies of the documents, stowed them safely in a secret inner pocket and made preparations to return to his native country.

He was delayed on account of railroad difficulties and secluded himself in an obscure little hostelry, going out rarely in the daytime and with his face well muffled at night. It was a secret society composed of robber assassins and raiders that he feared. They were all powerful in the district and called themselves "The Pesado." Vernon had positively learned that members of this dangerous combination had come into collusion with the head group of semi-capitalists, who were plotting to acquire the mining properties. Half a dozen times he escaped an ambush, twice he was fired at. He realized that he must get across an extensive stretch of territory before the general hue and cry against him was aroused. He became certain that the hotel had several within it who had him under surveillance. It was at midnight that he started on the long, arduous tramp. The rich reward he would receive should he succeed in conveying the papers safely was a great incentive to courage and daring, and meant also that he need no longer defer marriage with the gentle, loyal idol of his soul, Adele Foster.

Vernon was assured that from one end of the district to the other the Pesado had been apprized of his movements. Twice he blundered into taverns where he was suspiciously regarded by sombre, sinister, looking men, and in the latest instance he just managed to escape by a rear exit.

It was one afternoon when he had been kept busy evading a number of suspicious looking trailers that there came a climax. Vernon was resting in a copse by the wayside when five men appeared. Their voices were high and they seemed to be quarreling over some money paid by the Pesado to one of its members for some secret service. A heavy-set man, from whom the quartette demanded a division, Vernon knew from a badge he wore was of the Pesado. Suddenly the quartette made a concerted spring at the man. Four murderous looking knives gleamed in the air and the victim went down weltering in his life's blood. His assailants were about to finish up and despoil him when Vernon, unable to resist an impulse of fairness, even at risk to himself, leaped into view.

The baffled four armed with knives drew back as he menaced them with his leveled revolver. He drove them away; they went toward the town. Vernon bent over the prostrate man.

"You are badly hurt!" he inquired.

"It is my end," came the definite answer. "I am faint, helpless. Drag me to my little hut beyond the path in the timber yonder, and let me die in the arms of my wife. The traitors! The Pesado shall avenge me."

Vernon was thoroughly exhausted when, after carrying the wounded man on his shoulders nearly half a mile over a rocky trail, he reached the hut indicated. The wife of the victim greeted her husband with distracted cries. He was borne into the house and she set at work to attend to his wounds. She came to Vernon after a spell, a singular expression upon her face.

"He may live," she told him, "and you bravely aided him. He knows you. He was looking for you, and the money paid by the Pesado to him to find you was what those others were after. You must not delay here. It is at your peril. My husband and I would save you. Let me act quickly. Then you can go in safety."

The woman secured a brush and a pot containing some dark substances with staining qualities. Across one cheek of Vernon she traced several cabalistic signs.

"No Pesado will question that passport sign of the order," she said, and Vernon understood.

Thrice he was challenged during the half week that was consumed in reaching the border. One glance, however, at the sign manual of the powerful Pesado, and he was allowed to proceed on his way, to safety, to an opulent compensation for his services, and to anxious, waiting Adele, his betrothed.

New Method for Killing Irish Policemen

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Dublin, Feb. 3.—Four men are dead, as a result of the ambush of a squad of auxiliary police at Ballinalee, near here yesterday. Two of the wounded having died later last night. Details of the attack have not been received here, but it is known that one of the two motor lorries was blown up by a mine set in the road, it being said that this was the first time such methods of attack had been used against the Crown forces in Ireland.

Three lorries loaded with police were attacked here last night several bombs being thrown at them. The officers on board returned the fire, two civilians being wounded. A constable in plainclothes who was cycling along Trinity street was shot dead during the evening.

Canada's Claim Will be Enormous

Her Share of the German Indemnity Should Total $500,000,000
(Montreal Gazette)

London, Feb. 3.—Canada will comparatively soon receive the first payments upon her share of the German reparations. These will not be drawn from the indemnity sums fixed upon in Paris last week, but will be part of the proceeds from the sale of the German ships in England. Inquiry by your correspondent reveals that a considerable sum has already been realized through this channel and is now in the possession of the British Government, and that Canada will receive a portion of it.

The next payment in which Canada will share will be for expenditures in connection with the Dominion's portion of the army of occupation on the Rhine, which will be a first charge on the German indemnity payments after Allied advances in connection with German coal shipments have been met. After this the Belgians claims have priority then comes the general division. In this general apportionment, Canada will share according to the proportion which her total claim bears to the claims of other portions of the Empire.

In fixing the amount of Canada's total claim, only shipping losses, pension and separation allowances, charges, loss of life sustained by the sinking ships and hardship caused by the internment of Canadians in Germany will be considered. The Dominion's general military expenditures on pay, munitions, etc., do not enter into the matter.

The Canadian claim, like the others, must be presented to the Reparations Commission by February 12. So far only an approximate sum has been mentioned, but the Government at Ottawa has been busily engaged in capitalizing its pension charges with a view to presenting its exact claim. The Canadian demand will be the largest of any of the Dominions, as Canada alone received no accession of territory or other compensation. It should total half a billion dollars.

No More Crime Films

Wellington, N. Z., Feb. 3.—The New Zealand Government by proclammation has ordered that no motion picture film depicting thieving, robbery, Murder or suicide will be permitted to be shown in the Dominion of New Zealand after May 1 next. Importers of films have been thrown into consternation by the order.

ADVOCATE A "WARRIOR DAY" FOR THE ENTIRE EMPIRE

The Kingston Branch of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, following the example set in England, will endeavor to get the various military organizations in Canada to support the idea of a "Warrior Day" on March 31. Every place of amusement will give the receipts of one performance to the cause of the returned soldiers. A cable has been sent to the Prince of Wales, who is at the head of the British movement, asking him to extend his patronage to Canada, and urging that there be a Warrior Day for the entire Empire.

SEIZURE OF GERMAN PORTS WILL FOLLOW REFUSAL TO PAY.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—In the event of a flat refusal by Germany to pay the allied reparation demands, seizure of German ports and forcible collection of customs is contemplated. This, it was admitted, might lead to armed clashes.

Canadian Engineers Solve Great Problems

President Beatty, of C.P.R., Gives Credit to Ability of Canadian Engineers.

Toronto, Feb. 2. At the banquet held tonight under the auspices of the Engineering Institute of Canada, Mr. J. M. R. Fairbairn, Chief Engineer of the C.P.R., and the newly-elected president of the Institute, presided. The guest of honor was Mr. E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway. There were over 500 engineers present from all parts of the Dominion from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

President Fairbairn said that the railways are often spoken of as the arteries of a country. These veins through which the streams of commerce flow throughout the land carry raw materials to the manufacturing districts and distribute the finished products to the farthest centres of population. They have, however, another most important function as well in that they make possible freedom of intercourse between the peoples in various parts of any country, encouraging and fostering a knowledge and understanding of one another which without railway communication would be impossible. It has been part of our business as engineers to explore for, locate, construct and finally maintain the railways of our native land, and in this way we have come claim to consider ourselves as the pathfinders of commerce, modern civilization, and that political unity which has united the component parts of this great Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Following the engineers who construct a railway and its equipment come the men who maintain and operate it. Those who sell its one great, and I may say, valuable product, transportation, as well as those who collect its funds, pay its debts, purchase its supplies, keep its accounts and a host of others, all of whom serve the great organization which though divided into so many departments having so many and varied duties has on the other hand heads to all those departments and over these executive officers directing whole groups of departments, subsidiary lines, steamers, telegraphs, express service and the like.

These again are responsible to vice-presidents, whose various functions, no matter how important ultimately culminate in the one directing head of every railway.

Great Engineering Triumphs.

The president, the man who carries responsibility for the whole enterprise and who forms the one connecting link between the owners and their property, Mr. E. W. Beatty, in reply to the toast, said:

The debt of gratitude which the big Canadian systems owe to the engineering profession is difficult to estimate accurately. In fact any estimate would almost be as inaccurate as some of your own which I have been unfortunate enough to see. But the fact is that the Canadian Pacific would never have pierced the mountains without the assistance of engineers of the highest skill and none of the larger facilities which have since been proved would have been possible had not your profession numbered among its membership men of conspicuous ability and even genius. In order to ensure the proper development of territory tributary to the company's lines irrigation works of great magnitude were undertaken adjacent to Calgary and Lethbridge. The original location and final construction of these projects had been the work entirely of Canadian engineers, but they were entirely new in character in Canada and were in fact originated by the undertakings themselves, experts in irrigation engineering from the United States and Great Britain were consulted. In every case however these experts confirmed the opinion and recommendations of the Canadian en-

Six Sinn Feins Killed Attacking Police

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Skibbereen, County Cork, Feb. 3.—Six members of a party, said to number several hundred Sinn Feiners, were killed and several others were injured in an attack last night upon a detachment of fifteen police near Rosscarbery, according to a report from police sources reaching here this morning. The attacking party was beaten off after fierce fighting, abandoning a quantity of ammunition. Police reports declare they sustained no casualties.

Bread Drops to Sixteen Cents

Bread War Still Wages and Price of Staff of Life Drops.

Bakers battle, and the people get cheap bread! The bread war still wages merrily and Thursday the low level of sixteen cents was reached a spectacular drop from last Saturday's price of twenty-four cents. Monday the break came and the bakers decided to sell for twenty-two cents, but one baker went two better and sold for twenty cents, then the other bakers got mad and lowered the retail price to eighteen. Now the news comes that bread is being sold at sixteen cents, and nobody is kicking except the bakers, and they are kicking themselves.

DIED OF HUNGER.

In a further appeal for relief for the families of needy veterans, President Breakell, of the Brockville branch of the G.W.V.A., claims through unemployment starvation is actually facing some families. One child, he says, has died of starvation, and others are in equally bad circumstances.

Promote Projects In Reforestation

Hon. Beniah Bowman Says He Will Introduce Bill in Legislature

Toronto, Feb. 2.—Announcement that he would introduce at this session of the Legislature a bill to empower the Government to proceed with reforestration plans on certain lands in Northern Ontario was made by Hon. Beniah Bowman, Minister of Forests and Lands, in addressing the Board of Trade at noon yesterday. The Minister outlined the methods employed by the Government for the protection of the pulp and lumber industry of the province, and employed by the Government for the protection of the pulp and lumber industry of the province, and emphasized the importance of this business. Pulpwood exports, he believed, had been a material factor in avoiding a still worse exchange situation.

Mr. Bowman hoped to have more reforestation stations in the near future. He thought the proper way to ensure supplies of pulp and lumber timber for the future was to set aside certain tracts for reforestration. In the new bill provision would be made not only for work along this line by the Government, but also by private individuals. He also planned steps to prevent wastage through improper cutting and for properly guarding cut-over areas in order that nature might be allowed to carry on her own processes of reforestration.

France Will See That Germany Pays

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Paris, Feb. 3.—France still intends to see that Germany is made to pay her debt in full, if her economic condition permits of such payment, Premier Briand informed the Chamber of Deputies today in presenting declaration of his ministry on the reparation question. "The French Government" said the Premier, in reviewing the decisions reached at Paris, has in no wise renounced the purpose of collecting the entire debt due from Germany if she recovers her economic prosperity. Decision of the Supreme Council, M. Briand explained, meant payment by Germany to the limit of her economic capacity. Principal measure towards which is the development of her exportations.

Fuel Famine Plagues Budapest

Twenty-Five Carloads of Wood Stolen From Train—Population Suffers From Cold

Many of the poor people of Budapest are being driven to wholesale thievery by the fuel shortage. The recent theft of 25 carloads of wood from one train of 100 carloads as it entered the city shows the extent to which the stealing is going on.

Wood is so scarce that when a wagonload is driven through the streets people stop to gaze after it until it is out of sight.

Daring small boys are ever on the alert for a stray piece of wood or anything that will give heat at home. They scamper after every passing wood wagon but are soon frightened away by long whips in the hands of two women who sit on guard astride the load.

The operation of unloading a ton of Hungary's inferior brown coal before a house attracts many neighbors who make a pathetic picture as they watch basketful after basketful disappear in the coal bin of the more fortunate one.

Because of the urgency to obtain fuel by dishonest means, if honest ones are of no avail the juvenile courts were never so crowded with youthful offenders.

The scarcity of fuel become more acute daily as winter advances. The street railway service has been sharply curtailed and people wait for hours exposed to the bitter cold. The worst operated American street car never tolerated such crowding.

Gas factories are provided with coal for only 24 hours at a time and the gas is turned on only at noon and after 6 o'clock. Only one light is permitted in a room and not more than three rooms in a house or single apartment may be lighted at the same time. Even at the most expensive hotels there is no running hot water. Saturday is bathing day. On other days baths can only be had at public baths for which Budapest is famous.

One of the latest and most drastic steps of the new government is the deportation of undesirable citizens, those suspected of Bolshevik tendencies are known to be opposed to the present form of government. Hundreds of these have come to Hungary since the outbreak of the war. Now their houses and flats are being commandeered and turned over to homeless refugees from Transylvania and other sections who have been living in freight cars in the railroad yards.

The majority of the people have parted company with the last of their articles of jewelery and the dealers from other lands are not getting many takers of their offers of fabulous prices for gold and silver. What is called the State Bureau, a sort of national pawnshop, has paid as high as 80,000 crowns for a kilogram (of 2.20 pounds) of scrap gold and dealers are offering 120,000 crowns in an effort to coax another kilogram from people who may be hoarding their precious metal. For pure gold 250,000 crowns a kilogram is offered with no takers. The explanation is that most of the gold has been smuggled to other countries where the money has more value.

Provinces Dry For Three Years

Ontario Will Be in Same Position If Province Carries Referenlum

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—Three dry years at least are before the people of the Prairie Provinces and Nova Scotia. In those provinces the amended Canada Temperance Act, forbidding importation of intoxicants for beverages, became operative yesterday. Only for medical, sacramental or industrial purposes or for use in the arts can liquor of greater alcholic strength than the provincial laws prescribe be shipped into Nova Scotia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The prohibition of importation is the result of referendums which were held by the Dominion Government in response to resolutions passed by the Provincial Legislatures in accordance with the provisions of the Canada Temperance Act amendments passed by the Federal Parliament in 1919. Repeal of the prohibition can only take place in consequence of another referendum also to be held upon the petition of the Provincial Legislatures.

United Farmers Meet Down by the Sea

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Fredericton, N.B., Feb. 3.—Considerable progress was made yesterday at sessions of the Annual Convention of New Brunswick United Farmers in a revision of their platform and agreeing on certain principles. Thomas W. Caldwell, M.P., was unanimously re-elected President. Complaints were registered at the boycott of their paper by industrial interests and lack of sympathy by some sections of the daily press, spoken of as being due to the pressure of powerful organizations.

Gov't to Appoint 15,000 Enumerators

Task of Selecting 15,00 Persons to Serve in Taking the Census is Felt to be too Onerous For the Civil Service Commission

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—Appointments of enumerators to take the decennial census in June next will be made by the Dominion Government. Three years ago the duty of making appointments to the public service, both in the departmental offices in Ottawa and throughout the country, was entrusted to the Civil Service Commission.

To select and appoint 15,000 persons to serve for a short time as census enumerators would, it felt, be a heavy task for the Commission, which is kept occupied in the performance of its regular duties. Census enumerators will be appointed, therefore, by the Government directly on the recommendation of the census commissioners for the various counties.

Express Rates Have Been Increased

Rate on All Spirituous Liquors to be Increased to First-Class.

Ottawa, Feb. 3. The judgment of the Board of Railway Commissioners in the express rates case has been issued. The companies applied for a flat increase of forty per cent. on all rates. The judgment grants an increase of 35 per cent. on first class and charges, 25 per cent. on second class and 20 per cent. on commodities including principally cream, fish and fruit.

The rate on all spirituous liquors in the future is to be increased to first class. The cartage differential at noncartage points as established by the last judgment has been eliminated, which in other words means that express charges shall be the same to all points, whether city, town or country.

It was found that the concession granted by the last judgment worked to a much greater extent in the interests of the mail order houses and shippers in cities and towns than in those living in rural districts who were expected to profit thereby.

With reference to the time at which the increases go into effect, the judgment of the board is as follows:

"The increases herein authorized may be provided for by the publication and filing, on one day's notice at all express offices, blanket supplements to the existing tariffs.

Treat All Alike.

The express companies are directed to treat all commodities the same in their method of carrying fruit, that is, if they continue the distribution privileges heretofore enjoyed by the Niagara peninsula producers, then the same privilege must be granted to all other localities.

The average rate of increase would amount to 26 2-3 per cent., but on account of the greater percentage being carried at first-class rates, it would produce slightly more than that average increase to the express companies.

The express companies are instructed that, in the future, profits from investments and money order business shall be accounted for as revenue, and, taking these into consideration, the increases are expected to produce only sufficient revenue to take care of operation and depreciation and provide a sufficient sum with which to pay interest on investments at seven per cent.

London, Feb. 3.—A British outpost in northwest Persia was attacked last Sunday by a Bolshevik detachment, which was repulsed with heavy losses, according to a telegram from Teheran. The British counter attacked, Killing twelve of the Bolsheviki and capturing 27 of the remainder. The British the message started, suffered no casualties.

Liquor Prices Take Big Drop

Quebec Government Refuses to Take Over Dealers Stocks and Prices Tumble

Montreal, Feb. 2.—With the announcement that the Provincial Government would take complete charge of liquor on May 1 handling it through retail stores and importing directly from the distilleries a noticeable decrease in price has resulted. The greatest decrease is shown in that of brandy. On December 1, the very best brands of brandy were advertised at $25 and $40 per case. Yesterday these same brands were advertised at $28 and $30 per case, a decrease of twenty five per cent.

Scotch whiskies, gins, Canadian whiskey, in fact every kind of "hard drink," has been reduced in price by the wholesalers shipping to Ontario and other provinces. New price lists are being prepared by all these firms, and one says that it is quite possible prices will be still further reduced. The Ontario consumers are not buying as heavily as formerly either owing to the high prices or to the fact that they have large stores in stock.

One brand of Scotch whiskey, which liquor after all, is the favorite, has dropped from $41 per case to $35 per case. Another well known brand has come down in price $5 per case. Prices on nearly all brands of Scotch are on the decline. Heavy stocks are held in Montreal and with the shutting off from interprovincial trade of Manitoba, Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan, today it is thought a further decline in the whiskey market can be looked for. Large stocks are held by export liquor houses in these provinces, and it will be necessary for them to dispose of these stocks before May 1, as the Government has announced it will not take them over. Canadian whiskey shows a sharp decline. One of the largest distillers yesterday announced to their agents in Montreal that a drop of $1.50 per case would go into effect today. This means the distilleries are now selling the best Canadian whiskey at $19 per case.

Irish whiskey is perhaps the steadiest at present, only a drop of $2 a case being registered against one brand.

Despite the cut in prices by the wholesalers and distilleries the price to be paid when presenting a "prescription" to a Montreal vendor has not decreased. The prices and formalities remain the same. As an evidence of this fact The Star is informed that liquor which is sold by the wholesaler at $28 per case is retailed by the vendors at $4.75 per bottle, or $57 per case, a very fair margin of profit.

Great interest is centred locally in the liquor situation, and one thing certain is that the number of mail order houses which sprung up in Montreal, like mushrooms, at the beginning of last year are finding the going pretty hard at the present time. The big interests are controlling the price and are endeavoring to get everything out of the business they can during the last dying months, say the smaller men.

RAILWAYMAN AND WIFE ALSO START LONG HIKE

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 1.—F. C. Dill, a former Canadian Pacific Railway brakeman, and his wife Jenny Dill, both well known in athletic circles in Nova Scotia, left the City Hall at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning on a walking expedition to the Pacific coast. The Dills are the third team to leave Halifax within the past two weeks on a trans-continental hike, promoted by The Halifax Herald. Charles Burkman of the first team, was reported Monday night at Welsford, N.B., 24 miles west of St. John, on the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the Behans, father and son, the second team to leave, are headed for Moncton having spent the first night at Dor-

Bill Introduced To Provide for Illegitimates

If Parents Marry Child Shall Be Deemed to Have Full Status

Toronto, Feb. 2.—In the legislature this afternoon Attorney-General Raney introduced a bill providing that, if the parents of any child heretofore or hereafter, born out of lawful wedlock, have heretofore married or hereafter intermarry, such child shall, for all purposes, be deemed to be and have legimite status from the time of birth.

Nothing in the act shall affect any right, title or interest in property if such right, title or interest has vested in any person, (a) prior to the passing of this act in the case of any such intermarriage, which has heretofore taken place, or (b) prior to such intermarriage which hereafter takes place. The act shall come into force on June 1st, 1921.

R. L. Brackin, the Liberal member for West Kent, brought in a bill to provide free books in schools.

Dr. H. A. Stevenson, London, introduced a measure so that commercial travelers will have the same privileges as railway employes in voting previous to the municipal election

CHANGE ELECTION DATE

Lieut. Col. Price of Parkdale, introduced a bill to amend the Trustee Act.

Dr. H. A. Stevenson, of London, introduced an amendment to the Municipal Act to permit municipalities to [illegible] day other than January 1. He suggested Dec. 1 as the date.

Resuming the debate on the speech from the throne, M. M. MacBride, of Brantford, paid his respects to the speaker, the clerk and the sergeant-at-arms. He commended the "astuteness and political sagacity" of Premier Drury on "skating round" his broadening-out policy. He likened Mr. Drury to an Indian chief named "Man Ashamed of His Horse," declaring that the premier was very much ashamed of the horse on which he had ridden into power.

"Not at all!" interjected Premier Drury.

"Since moving from Crown Hill to the bright lights of Toronto the premier has no doubt learned the hesitation waltz—(laughter)—the foxtrot and the shimmy dance."

TAKES ISSUE WITH DRURY

Mr. MacBride took issue with the prime minister on the latter's remarks regarding earnestness, declaring that Mr. Drury had implied that all previous political leaders in Canadian history had lacked that quality. He referred to Sir John A. MacDonald, declaring that no "untried man only a year in power and undiscovered eighteen months ago," should thus slight the memory of so able and earnest a leader. He recalled that Mr. Drury had been defeated in his own riding in a previous election.

TUXIS BOYS AND TRAIL RANGERS

BY Firelighter

ARE YOU THE CHIEF RANGER OR PRETOR?

If you are, I want a little chat with you. If you are not, read this just the same, as some day you may be.

What is the Chief Ranger or Pretor supposed to do?

He is supposed to preside at all the meetings, and that means to preside, not simply to sit listlessly at the front for the admiration of all present while he listens to an impromptu debate or wrangle carried on by the boys in front of him. He should see to it that the meeting goes forward as if there were someone in charge of it rather than allowing it to drift like a helpless canoe down the stream.

He should preserve order. Yes, sir, Mr. Pretor or Chief Ranger, it is up to you to see that your bunch of boys conduct themselves in such a way that you would be willing for any "big gun" to step in and pay you a visit at any time. If you get up against it, appoint a sergeant-at-arms and appeal to the members of the group to support you in seeing that order is maintained. They will stand by you if they see that you really are anxious for an orderly meeting.

Here is an important point. See that only one member speaks at a time. Many group meetings are spoiled because whenever one fellow says something in his speech that someone else does not agree with you will hear such murmured protests as "Aw, cut it out", "Sit down." You are all off." Make it plain to the whole group that if they have anything to say they must wait until the one who is on the floor has finished and then receive the recognition of the presiding officer.

Learn something about the rules of order for carrying on a business meeting. It lends dignity and value to a meeting if any person with anything to say stands and addresses the Chair by saying Mr. Pretor or Mr. Chief Ranger.

Here is an important thing. Keep your program moving so as not to lose time. Go from one item to another as quickly as possible. Discourage useless talk and discussion, have definite items to bring before the meeting and have them settled as quickly as possible.

Call the program committee together as often as may be necessary to keep a program mapped out at least a month in advance.

Talk over the whole work frequently with the Mentor of your Group.

Happy is the C.S.E.T. camp or squad that has a worthwhile Chief Ranger or Pretor.

We doff our hats to these young presiding officers throughout Canada.

An open window at night means open eyes and a wide-awake mind by day. January is "Health" month for Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers.

FIVE MILLION DOLLAR ACTION AGAINST FORD

Chicago, Feb. 3. The complaint in a $5,000,000 damage suit against Henry Ford and his paper the Dearborn Independent, was filed in circuit court, by Morris Gest, theatrical producer, who alleged that an article in the Independent, on January 22, 1921, contained "libelous, slanderous and false statements" concerning Mr. Gest and certain stage productions he has handled.

O. J. Ford, Edsel B. Ford and W. J. Cameron, manager of the Dearborn Independent, also were made codefendants in the suit.

Mr. Gest's only comment on the suit was a statement that he intended "to make Henry Ford eat his own words."

Called By Death

PROF. G. A. SWAYZE

Prof. George A. Swayze a former well known resident of Belleville passed away yesterday at his late home Aylmer, Ont. Deceased was in his 78th year having been born in the County of Haldimand on May 11th, 1843. Mr. Swayze was a professor of commercial science and penmanship for some time at Albert College, here and was also connected with the Belleville Business College here during its existence. For some time he taught penmanship in our public school. He was a member of the Methodist church. A paralytic stroke a few days ago caused his demise. A widow and four daughters survive. Miss Mabel Harrison of this city is a granddaughter of deceased.

ARCLEN F. BLAKELY

The many friends of Mr. Arclen F. Blakely will regret exceedingly to learn of that gentleman's death, which occurred Thursday morning after a brief illness from pneumonia. Mr. Blakely has been a resident of Belleville less than three years but during that time made many friends who will deeply sympathize with the family in their sudden and sad bereavement. Mr. Blakely was the District Manager for the Canada Life Insurance Co., for Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington Counties, and was a keen and capable business man much prized by the company officials. He was a member of the Lions' Club and one of the most popular members of that energetic organization. Deceased was a member of Moira Lodge A.F. & A.M. and of Moira Chapter. In religion he was a Methodist, being a member of Bridge street church. At a recent meeting of the Belleville branch of the Life Underwriters Association, Mr. Blakely was elected President. A widow and four children survive, also the parents who reside at Consecon, Prince Edward County, where Mr. Blakely was born.

MISS SARAH E. RICHARDS

After being ill for some time Miss Sarah E. Richards who was well and favorably known passed away this morning at the family residence 247 John street city. Deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. James Richards and had lived in this city all her life. She was a member of Bridge Street Methodist church. GROCERS TAKING LESS PROFIT ON MANY LINES

Red Rose Tea People Make a Further Statement

Some of our friends among the grocers, in speaking of our letter to the press on grocers' profits, have indicated that apparently it has been construed by some readers to mean that Red Rose Tea was the only article on which the grocer takes a smaller profit, in order to give his customers a higher quality.

It was not our intention to convey such an impression, as we know that most grocers sell well known brands of other goods at less profit than they could make on some brands equally well known, and for the same reason that they recommend Red Rose Tea, simply to give their customers the best possible value.

In our letter we mention Red Rose Tea because it naturally came first to our mind and because we knew that grocers were selling it at a less profit than they make on other teas.—T. H. Estabrooks Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

HOLSTEIN-FRIESIAN BREEDERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the Belleville district Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Club was held in this city Wednesday afternoon presided over by Mr. A. E. Phillips, President. There was a large attendance of members and the chief business for consideration was the date of holding the annual consignment sale and the election of officers.

After some discussion Wednesday, March 3th, was the date selected for the annual sale of cattle to be held here at the Albion Hotel premises. As to the number of cattle to be sold there was considerable discussion, the general concensus of opinion being that 50 head was sufficient.

Mr. D. A. Foster suggested that it be a cash sale instead of a credit sale.

Mr. John Elliott who was present, said that was an important matter. Last year there had been some trouble with two or three parties in regard to some payments but eventually the matters had been satisfactorily settled. After discussing the matter at some length it was decided to have the sale conducted on the same plan as previous sales, namely, credit, on the usual terms.

The arrangement of the sale catalogue was left in the hands of Mr. J. A. Caskey, sale manager.

Mr. John Elliott being called upon expressed his pleasure at being present at the meeting of the Association in which he was deeply interested. He had always in the past and would in the future do all he could for the Holstein breeders. The speaker referred to the annual meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade, which was held in this city, stating that it was a meeting from which much good to the city would be derived. It was a great advertisement for the city of Belleville and vicinity. The Chamber of Commerce of the city was also accomplishing much good and he (the speaker) as chairman of the rural relations committee would do what was in his power for those of the rural municipalities. His services were ever ready to render any assistance to this Association and he hoped the sale of 1921 would be a success.

Arranging Sales

It was decided that a change would be made as to the selling of cattle at the consignment sale, the even numbered to be sold first and the odd numbered second.

The Association decided to have a short course in connection with the sale, to be held on the morning of the sale.

Officers Elected

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Carman Baker.

First Vice-President—P. P. Nelson.

Second Vice-President—Clarence Malloy.

Secretary-Treasurer—F. B. Mallory.

Auditors—S. L. Terrill and S. J. Foster.

Sale Manager—J. A. Caskey.

The selection of an auctioneer to conduct the sale was left to the consignors to vote upon.

Music and Drama

THE GREAT SHADOW

Dorothy Bernard, a screen beauty, is leading woman of "The Great Shadow," a big powerful drama, in which some of the scenes were taken in Belleville, Trenton and Marmora is being screened at Griffin's Tonight to Saturday, with a matinee Saturday.

Tyrone Power the eminent English actor portrays the leading role. Miss Bernard had a successful career on the English stage before stepping into pictures.

In "The Great Shadow" there are several big moments that carry real thrills. One of them, where an automobile, loaded with men, is driven over an embankment, carrying its occupants with it, rolling to the bottom of the ravine and catching fire, is hair-raising.

The subject is a big one, having to do with the settlement of the difficulties between capital and labor, and the solution of the present social and industrial unrest, and there is a chance that this very film, by showing both sides in their true light, may be a successful apostle of peace between capital and labor.

The story is clear cut and holds tense interest from start to finish. Its theme is vital and is presented in an entertaining manner.

"A Kick in High Life" an original and amusing 2 reel comedy, a Ditmars animal study, and George Seitz and Marguerite Courtot in the gripping adventure play will also be screened.

"SUDS" A CHARACTER STUDY

Dear, delightful Mary Pickford, America's Sweetheart, has given her many admirers a tantalizing problem in "Suds". In fact Mary is so absorbed in the character of the poor little laundry slavey with the big heart and bigger imagination that she is hardly recognizable, and some of her followers say it cannot be Mary at all. Then the picture abruptly leaves Mary in the midst of a pond where old Lavender, her equine friend very inconsiderately dumped her after a gallop over the down. "Suds" is unique in that it does not begin in the washtub and finish at the piano, nor does it fade out in the usual clinch and osculatory performance. It is a picture, sordid in background but illuminated with a wonderful imagination which makes a cellar laundry in a London slum a palace with brave knights and fair ladies, and illustrates the fact that kindly thoughts and deeds are born and develop into beautiful flowers in the lowly places as well as in the homes of comfort, wealth and luxury. Those who desire that every story and every picture should come out all right in the end may be disappointed in Mary Pickford's "Suds," but the little portrayer of humanity in rags and tatters certainly is deserving of credit for producing a screen story far above the ruck of ordinary motion picture offerings.

"Shaving Feast" Given Babies.

A month after a child's birth in China its parents give what is called the "shaving feast." On this eventful occasion the barber comes and shaves off all of its hair except a small tuft on the fore-part of the head.

At length, when the little one is old enough to play with toys, the fond parents place before it on a table a sword, a book, etc., and allow it to take up whatever appeals to it most. The idea is that the youngster's choice betokens the occupation or business it will follow when it grows to maturity. If it chooses a pen, the supposition is that it will be a writer; if a book, it will be a scholar; if a sword, it will be a soldier, and so on.

If the child at any time becomes gravely ill its mother hastens to the temple and solemnly promises the gods to consecrate its life to their service if they will intervene to save its life. Thus it often happens that young Chinese become monks very much against their wills.

The child's first birthday is made the occasion of great festivities. Often great quantities of "mien"—noodles — are prepared and sent about to all the relatives and friends. Succeeding birthdays are scarcely noticed until the tenth. Then a great celebration is held.

"I think it's a mistake, old man, to quarrel with everybody in town."

"What do I care?"

"You may care if you ever want a jury trial for anything." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

Marriages In Italy.

No Italian girl will consent to be married in May. Certain days of the week, too, are prohibited — Monday, for instance, is held to be unlucky to future generations; Saturday is reserved for widows; Tuesday is considered impossible on account of its being a day devoted to witches and evil spells, and Friday and Wednesday are fast days. Sunday, therefore, is the day almost always chosen for the celebration.

CANADIAN ENGINEER SOLVES BIG PROBLEM

gineers. The largest of the enterprises was an irrigation attempted east of Calgary which involved engineering features which have attracted considerable attention among your profession. They include a large dam and diversion weir across the Bow River, a large dam at Bassano of a length of two miles, and the remarkable structure of the Brooks aqueduct with reinforced concrete throughout its two miles of length. The construction of these systems involved the completion of over 5,000 miles of canals and ditches, serving a total area of approximately 750,000 acres of irrigable land and represented in construction and maintenance an expenditure of over $15,000,000.

Western Snowsheds.

Some years ago in order to reduce curvature and grades and eliminate four and one-half miles of expensive snowsheds it became necessary to penetrate the Selkirks under Mount MacDonald, 85 miles west of Field, at a point about 5,690 feet below the peak. The work was carried on under the supervision of Canadian engineers with an exactitude that speaks highly of their skill. The tunnel is five miles in length, 29 feet wide, with a maximum height of 24 feet. The method of construction was interesting and unique. The work was started in 1914 and the completed tunnel put in operation in 1916, the total time of construction being two and a half years, and the total cost $6,500,000.

St. Lawrence Bridge.

I might mention two almost equally interesting but different types of construction which were undertaken by Canadian engineers for the company, the rebuilding of the St. Lawrence bridge in 1911, having a length of 3,657 feet and two main spans over the navigation channels of 410 feet long and 60 feet above the water level.

At the time of the construction of the original bridge it was considered one of the most graceful and professionally notable in the world, and its reconstruction was due to the use of heavy locomotives. Here again the method of construction by reason of the local conditions was original. Reconstruction took three years, during which time not a single passenger train was delayed and no serious accident reported. The total weight of steel was 28,500,000 pounds and the total cost $2,000,000.

Lethbridge Viaduct.

The third interesting undertaking was the construction of the Lethbridge viaduct, a steel trestle of 67 spans on steel towers and concrete substructure. Its length is slightly over a mile and height over two-thirds of its length, 800 feet. It is unique in two features in that its height is nearly twice the height of the Royal Bank building at the corner of King and Yonge streets, and that its construction eliminated over five miles of distance, many degrees of curvature, and twenty wooden bridges aggregating three miles in length, some of them over 100 feet high. The weight of steel used in its construction was 12,300 tons and the cost approximately $1,500,000. The development of this country is bound to put upon you the responsibility for solving many problems. The influx of population will be great and I hope will be accompanied by the proper supervision which will prevent the admission of undesirables who by reason of race or religion peculiarities or some other disqualification are prevented from mixing with our own people and becoming in time Canadian citizens in every sense of the word. Municipal and provincial authorities will no doubt require to take steps to anticipate some of the difficulties that will undoubtedly arise from the rapid increase of our population and particularly the problem of housing. We in Montreal already find this problem acute, having seen a population of 500,000 in 1910 grow to 900,000 in 1921 and the effect of overcrowding conditions particularly on the younger generation occasions natural concern

"Great heavens, boy!" exclaimed that Gouverneur Faulkner as he caught the knife from the floor where it had fallen from the hand of the poor man, who had sunk down on the cot, trembling and panting. "Two inches to the left and a little more force and the knife would have stuck in your heart."

"Is it not better my heart than yours, my great Gouverneur Faulkner? And, behold, it is the heart of neither and only a small scratch upon my humble arm, which will not even prevent the driving of that new Cherry car," I answered him as I put that arm behind me and pressed it close in its sleeve of brown cheviot so that there would be no drippings of blood.

CHAPTER X.

To Bear Men and to Save Them.

"I DIDN'T go to hurt the young gentleman nor you either, governor," said the man from the cot as he sobbed and buried his head in his arms. "I was always a good man, and now I"—

"Don't say another word, Timms," interrupted my Gouverneur Faulkner in a voice that was as gentle as that father of state which he had said himself to be to Timms. "Nobody will know of this, for your sake. I was—was baiting you. I know what I want to know now, and you'll not hang on the 16th. The state will try you again. Call the superintendent, Robert."

"Don't try nothing to hurt Mary, governor. Jest let me hang and I won't never care what"— the poor human began to plead.

"I'll look after Mary—and you too, Timms. I'll see to it that"—my Gouverneur Faulkner was answering the trembling plea for his mercy when the superintendent came in and unlocked the cage.

"Don't let him know of the—accident, youngster," whispered the Gouverneur Faulkner to me, and in a very few minutes we were out of that prison into the cherry car and whirling with great rapidity down the country road with its tall trees upon both sides.

"Stop, Robert," commanded his excellency as we came under a large group of very old trees which made a thick shelter of their green leaves as they leaned together over the stone wall that bordered the side of the road. "Now let me see just what did happen to that arm which came between poor Timms' sharpened case knife and my life. We are out of sight of the prison now. It would have all been up with Timms if that attack upon me had been discovered. Your pluck will have saved Timms, if he's saved, as well as your governor. Here, turn toward me and let me see that arm." And as he spoke my Gouverneur Faulkner put his arm across my shoulder and turned me toward him so that he could put his right hand on the sleeve of that cheviot bag in which was a long slash from the knife and which was now wet with my blood.

"I very much fear my beloved brown cheviot, which I have worn only a few times, is now dead, and how will I find another for my need!" I exclaimed with a great alarm when I saw that that knife had thus devastated my good clothing, of which I had not many and for the procuring of which I was many thousand miles from my good friend and tailor in New York. If I sought another suit in the city of Hayesville might there not be dangers of discoveries in the adjustment thereof? "Is it not a vexation?" I asked as the Gouverneur Faulkner attempted to push back that murdered sleeve from my forearm.

"In the language of my friend Buzz, you are one sport, Robert. Shell out of that coat immediately. I want to see just how much of a scratch that is, and I can't get the sleeve up high enough," commanded my Gouverneur Faulkner. The tone of his voice was the same he had used to me in commanding that I take his mail to his nice lady stenographer, but his face was very white, and his hand that he laid upon the collar of my coat for assisting me to lay it aside trembled with a great degree of violence.

"Indeed, my Gouverneur Faulkner, it is but a scratch, and"—

"Get out of that coat!"

"But"—

"Off with that coat, Robert!" he commanded me, and before I could make resistance my coat was almost completely off me by his aid, and I was obliged to let it slip into his hands He laid it on the back of the seat behind him, and with hands that were as gentle as those of old Nannette when dealing with one of my injuries of a great number in childhood he rolled up the sleeve of my nice white shirt with the brown strip of coloring in accord with that beloved and regretted cheviot and bared my forearm, which was very strong and white, but which also appeared to me to be dangerously rounded for his gaze. I was glad that arm was covered with a nice gore which had come from the long slit, but which had now well nigh ceased to run from me, so that he could not observe that it was of such a feminine mold.

"Yes, just a deep scratch that I can fix all right myself in my own bathroom when we get back to the mansion in time for dinner with the general, by 7:30, I hope," said my beloved gouverneur as he helped me again to assume the ruined garment of cheviot. "I was born in the mountains of the state of Harpeth, boy, where when one sheds his blood for the life of another that other is said to be under bond to his rescuer, and that means a tie closer than the ordinary one of brother by birth. I acknowledge the bond to you for all time, little brother. Now drive on quickly to the mansion before we are in danger of being late for dinner with the general. It will take me some few minutes to get you out of that shirt and into your dinner coat. I'll send for it, and you can dress with me."

"Oh, no, my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner! I must go immediately to home and there make myself presentable for a dinner that my Buzz has arranged for me. That nice black lady, Kizzie, will with joy attend on this scratch upon my arm," I exclaimed, with great alarm for fear that that very strong mind of my gouverneur would command me to make my toilet in his company in the mansion. "Please do not command me that I shall not so do."

"Of course, youngster, go to your frolic with the rest of the babes and sucklings, only remember that I always like to have you with me, but never command you when it is not your pleasure," answered that Gouverneur Faulkner to me, with gentleness.

"It is always my pleasure to be with you, my gouverneur, and I do like that you command me," I said to him in answer to that gentleness that had something of a sad longing in it. "And may I not return immediately after that supper to that club of Old Hickory for conversation with you and my uncle, the General Robert?" I asked, with eagerness.

"Boy, by the time you have eaten that fatted calf and danced at least a portion of it off your system I'll be—be burning the midnight oil going over the papers in the case of Timms. I want to weigh all the testimony carefully in the case given in court about his own and his brother's relations with the woman Mary Brown. As long as I am the governor of the state of Harpeth no honest man is going to swing for protecting a good woman from the outrages of a brute. And yet Timms confessed the crime and denied the motive. Cross examination failed to get the statement from the woman that would justify my reprieving or pardoning him. I cannot even seem to dishonor the proceedings of the courts of the state, and, boy, I'm just plain—up—against—it. Here we are at my own side door. Good night and make a lightning toilet if you want to get to that dinner on time. Good night again!" And with those words, which explained his very deep trouble to me, my Gouverneur Faulkner descended from the seat beside me in the Cherry to the pavement beside his mansion and bade me hurry from him.

G. T. R. 4.—RAMBLERS 4

At the Arena last night a very exciting and peppy game of hockey was played, the contestants being a G. T. R. team and the Ramblers. The puck was faced off at 6-15 and there was a fine exhibition of stick handling. There was nothing but a rush from one end to the other at first. When the Ramblers managed to score, the G. T. R. in return rushed down the ice and through clever stick handling landed a goal, making the score 1-1. Both teams then seemed to take a new interest in the game and after about 5 minutes of fast play the G. T. R. boys outskated the Ramblers and as the goal tender happened to be taking a "nap", another goal was credited to the G. T. R. This sure made the game a whole lot more interesting to the spectators, at least, as the boys seemed to wake up and played fast hockey. But the Ramblers could not stand up before the stiff checking of the opposing team and thus ended the first period.

The second period started off with a lot of back-checking, neither side seeming to be able to score, but finally the Ramblers made two long shots and scored, making the score 3-2. Then it began to look as if the G. T. R. would have a walk-away as the Ramblers went all to pieces, but they have a wonderful way of picking up judging from the way they came back after a few minutes of slackness, the heavy checking of the G. T. men whirled them off their feet, and this gave the G. T. their chance and they made the most of it by scoring two more goals making the score 4-3. Then the Ramblers scored on a rolling shot making the result of the game a tie, much to the disappointment of members of both teams.

Both teams were outfitted most gorgeously, but they must remember that costumes are the least important factors in a game of hockey as the spectators go to the Arena to see a good game not to admire the beauty of the players. The G. T. boys have ordered an emblem of the 5200 class of Locomotive for the fronts of their sweaters. The line-up was as follows: G. T. R.—J. Miles, F. Goyer, H. H. Lawrence, V. Morris, D. Welch, H. Bone, C. Follwell. Ramblers—W. Busker, J. Cook, S. Goyer, M. Townsley, J. Murray, H. Cummings, H. Bullhead, E. Shrider refereed in a most satisfactor manner.

Shops was high single man with 201, while Woodley of the Excelsiors was high three string with 479. The game tonight is Ritchie's vs. G.T.R. Yards.

HEARST'S HAMMER HELPS THE HAMMERED.

Rev. Dr. Wm. T. Manning, recently elected Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York, once refused to serve on any committee of which Wm. Randolph Hearst, the British-hater, was a member; consequently the Hearst newspapers turned their vials of wrath upon Dr. Manning and objected viciously to his being elected Bishop because he had been born in England. Dr. Manning was elected notwithstanding the Hearst opposition, and the comment of some of the other New York papers during the controversy was interesting.

"Vote for every one whom Hearst bitterly attacks and you can't go far wrong," said the Tribune in an editorial dealing with the futile attempt of the Hearst newspapers to prejudice the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York against the election of Rev. Dr. Wm. T. Manning as bishop. Rev. Mr. Manning was born in England and came to the United States when 16 years of age, being educated in institutions on this continent.

"It is tough luck the way every one, even a diocesan convention, picks on Mr. Hearst," the Tribune said. "Any one for whom that great editor says a kind word is promptly mown down by the voters; or if condemned he is at once promoted. Every knock is certainly a boost when Mr. Hearst swings the hammer.

"There is some reason in all this: Mr. Hearst is the greatest living anti. He is anti-British, anti-Japanese, anti-Wilson, anti-almost—everything. The only notable exception is his tendency to be pro-Hearst. He spends too much of his time trying to get even with his enemies ever to make friends. His opposition is purely personal and vindictive—closely resembling the gesture of a small boy putting his fingers to his nose—and endeavoring to retort for a deserved thrashing.

"There is only one matter in which this assertion does Mr. Hearst a grievous wrong. In that field he has never been charged with a negative destructive policy. Nobody has yet accused Mr. Hearst of being anti-German."

The Times says that Hearst seems to think that the business in hand was not the election of a bishop, but the canonization of a saint, when it is customary for a devil's advocate to come forward with the worst that can be said.

"At any rate, he came forward in that guise with his usual vociferated slander," the Times says.

The World says: "Bishop Manning presumably will never receive the freedom of the city from Mr. Hearst's mayor, but he has the satisfaction of knowing that it is not yet regarded as a crime in this community to have been born on British soil outside of Ireland. That establishes some sort of standard, and the precedent may not be without its after uses."

SMALLPOX BROUGHT FROM CHICAGO IN A PULLMAN CAR.

Montreal had a bitter experience in 1885 with a smallpox epidemic which furnished an object lesson never to be forgotten. In a review of the medical history of the nineteenth century, written not long before his death, the late Sir William Osler cited the story of the Montreal epidemic. He said:

"For eight or ten years vaccination had been neglected, particularly among the French-Canadians. On February 28, 1885, a Pullman car conductor, who came from Chicago, where the disease had been slightly prevalent, was admitted into the Hotel Dieu. Isolation was not carried out, and on the first of April a servant in the hospital died of smallpox. Following her death the authorities of the hospital sent to their homes all patients who presented no symptoms of the disease. Like fire in dry grass the contagion spread, and within nine months there died of smallpox three thousand one hundred and sixty-four persons. It ruined the trade of the city for the winter, and cost millions of dollars. There are no reasonable objections to vaccination, which is a simple process, by which a mild and harmless disease is introduced. The use of the animal vaccine does away with the possibility of introduction of other disorders."

BEAVER CUT TREE DOWN TO HELP BRER WOLF.

A correspondent having written a letter expressing doubt as to the truth of the story that wolves, having chased a man up a tree, went away and brought back a beaver to cut down the tree for them so they could get the man, we have been much impressed by the number of witnesses, especially of old-timers in New Ontario, who are sending us letters tending to add authenticity to the story, says the Toronto Star.

Wild animals, these witnesses declare, are strong in instinct, and work out problems instantly which one would suppose could only be done by arithmetic. In another letter to the Star a writer, who lives in the Cochrane district, gives his theory as to the manner in which the wolves got the beaver to the tree. According to the story a dozen wolves went off on this errand. This number went in order that they might kill a deer and use its hide as a toboggan on which to haul the beaver to the spot and take him back again after he had felled the tree for them. This theory must be accepted as ingenious and interesting.

Since the correspondent who wrote expressing doubt of the truth of the wolf story is receiving so much cheerful assistance in dispelling his doubts, we await with a new interest the book which the American balloonists expect to publish. If Lieut. Hinton thinks there are Eskimos at Moose Factory and Mattice; if he thinks Mr. Sainsbury, of Toronto, is an Arctic explorer; if he thinks the foxes he heard were grizzly bears seeking their prey; no doubt there are old-timers up north who know where he got these startling ideas, and perhaps many others of the same kind.

When a lonesome old trapper gets three fresh young minds to fill up—and these three were particularly fresh—he sometimes does it with the zest of a true artist.

If we are keen to see the book the balloonists write, up along the trail there are probably two or three old-timers who are even keener to see it than we are. If a city man wants information it takes a pioneer to let him have plenty of it, or better still, two pioneers, one to sort of vouch for the other and help out in a pinch.

UNCONQUERED EVEREST

Westminster Gazette

The intrepid men who are planning the ascent of Everest will have to be physically fit to endure the conditions which obtain at the altitudes they will have to scale. The highest point yet reached in that region—the world's record—stands to the credit of the Duke of Abruzzi, who, in June, 1909, stood 24,577 feet above sea level, on Mount Godwin Austen, and was prevented from reaching the actual summit, 450 feet higher, by avalanches and bad weather. On the ascent no inconvenience was felt up to 16,400 feet, but during the next 3,000 feet the increasing rarefaction of the air caused much insomnia, loss of appetite, and rapid pulse movements. Beyond that height there was a marked increase of physical fitness, though the quickening of the pulse continued. The Duke's experience convinced him that, provided the actual ascent of Everest should prove possible, a perfectly fit man could endure the greatly reduced atmospheric pressure, and the slight density of the air, which on the top of Everest, 29,000 feet above sea level, is barely a quarter of the normal density and pressure at sea level. And probably the temperature on the summit of the famous mountain is always at least 40 degrees below zero, or 72 degrees of frost.

A woe-begone specimen of the tramp tribe made a call at a rural residence to ask for aid. The door was opened by a woman of angular proportions, severe in demeanor, and uncertain age and temper. Having speedily ascertained the object of the unexpected visit, in raspy tones she observed:

"I shall not give you anything. If you had been wise you would not have come here. Do you know who I am?"

The weary wanderer replied that he had not the pleasure of knowing.

CARS DERAILED

Two cars on Grand Trunk fast freight No. 490 were derailed in Prescott yard late Tuesday afternoon through a dragging brake-beam, one car turning over on its side and blocking both tracks of the main line. The train in charge of Conductor William E. Newton, 55, Hubbell street, with Samuel Easter, 38 Hubbell street, as engineer, was proceeding to St. Albans, Vt., with Chicago freight en route to Boston when a dragging brake-beam became caught in a switch point near Edward street crossing, Prescott, derailing two cars, one containing butter and the other beef. The car with butter turned on its side and blocked the westbound track, while the eastbound track was also blocked by the other car. As trains were routed over a passing track in the yard there was no delay to traffic. The Montreal steam derrick and the Brockville auxiliary were called and the wreck was cleared up during the night.

POSITION ABOLISHED

According to a circular issued by J. C. Garden, acting general superintendent of motive power and car departments, Grand Trunk Railway, the position of general master car builder at Montreal has been abolished and officers heretofore reporting to the general master car builder will in future report to Mr. Garden.

NEW LOCOMOTIVES

Delivery to the Tamiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway of ten new locomotives of the most modern type, built by the Kingston Locomotive Works, is promised before March 1. Some are new passenger locomotives of the latest type and the remainder Mikado freight locomotives.

LEG BURNED

Joseph Coons, of Brockville, Grand Trunk car inspector, received burns about the ankle of his right leg while unfastening steam hose on a passenger coach in Brockville yard a few nights ago. He is now able to resume his duties.

The Sudbury officer met the Deseronto chief in Toronto, but the prisoner was not, nor never had been, a Deserontonian.

Government Report On Crop Conditions

Ontario Department of Agriculture—Report of Farm Conditions February 1st, 1921

The following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture;—

Although fall wheat has been unduly exposed during the greater part of January, owing to the almost entire absence of snow, no report of definite loss has so far been received. The following comments on the condition of the crop have been received;—

Kent: "Wheat has been uncovered practically all along, but it is all right so far."

York: "Fall wheat seems to be living, and is in fairly good shape."

Kent reports hogs coming into the market in considerable numbers at $14.50 cwt. but adds that dealers are complaining that many of the animals are too heavy. A carload sold in Essex averaged 300 lbs. Other representatives refer to the tendency of feeders to hold their hogs too long.

Leeds describes the marketing of live stock as being about as usual for the season of the year.

The milk supply is practically normal, and winter prices are prevailing.

Middlesex reports the shipment of a few carloads of horses during the past week

Middlesex reports the shipment of a few carloads of horses during the past few weeks.

Hay is scarce in most localities. Prices range from $25 to $35 a ton, largely depending upon ease of delivery to the best markets. Farmers, however, feel secure with a good supply of ensilage and straw on hand.

Kent states that considerable corn has been sold in Merlin for food at a cent a lb. on the car.

Renfrew reports dry hardwood for fuel selling at from $10.50 to $12 a cord.

Leeds describes labor conditions are being somewhat improved. Middlesex states that farmers are picking men at from $30 to $40 a month. Kent reports that a number of men have returned to the country for work at reduced figures.

The open winter also has permitted farmers to do a number of jobs around their property that have been neglected during the year, owing to lack of labor.

K-KATY IN THE KITCHEN PACKED UP HER TROUBLES

Vocal Duel Amused the Lions—No Casualties

Vocal solos by Eddie O'Flynn and Bobbie Gorman featured the Lion's Club mid-week luncheon party Wednesday at Hotel Quinte. This was to be a duel to the death but fortunately nobody expired although the dining room girls nearly died laughing. Bob challenged Eddie to mortal combat and Eddie chose vocal music as the weapons, so each mounted a chair and sang the song of his choice while the first aid section gathered close to attend to anyone who might be in danger of choking to death. "Katy, Beautiful Katy" was the choice of the O'Flynn, while the O'Gorman unmasked a battery of "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag." There were no casualties but several grace notes were badly dislocated.

Cub O'Herity occupied the chair and absentees of Charter Night were put on the griddle and asked for explanations. Cub Art Pratt, having been at Montreal for the Motor Show, had a good excuse and gave a very illuminating description of the Lights and Shadows of the great city where thirst is never known. Joe Chant was indisposed so his case was quickly disposed of but there are several others who may have to go to clink.

Cub Ev. Liddle, G.W.V.A. Secretary, was introduced into Jungoland by Cub Dick Ponton, Cub Jack McIntosh did a thriving business taking orders for flashlight photographs of the Charter Night bunch, spirit pictures, Cub Jim O'Callaghan giving an interesting description of how photographers are caught and trained and tamed and how flashlight pictures are taken while you wait if your good .

Cub Zufelt called the roll of absentees and it was decided to enforce the law that three times absent meant suspension and unless a reasonable excuse was given, cancellation of membership.

Cubs Herity, Cherry and Ponton were appointed a committee on constitution and by-laws. Cubs Stewart and O'Flynn were appointed auditors.

Cub Ponton asked the Lions to get behind the Belleville Fair and help to make it worthy of the city. A resolution was passed promising co-operation.

What About the Schools of Belleville?

Citizens Meeting to Discuss Educational Matters—Preceded By Debate

Are Belleville's schools up-to-date or are they hopeless back numbers? Are the teachers qualified and are they giving us value for the salaries they receive? Are the pupils making satisfactory progress, is their deportment mannerly and respectful and do they generally show the effects of good discipline?

These and a number of similar questions will be debated in the open forum meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce to be held Monday Evening at City Hall. This will be the second of the "Know Belleville" meetings and will also take the form of a debate.

The Leaders

The affirmative of the discussion will be led by Mr. W. C. Mikel, K. C., one of the best informed and most brilliant speakers among the barristers of Ontario. The negative will be taken by Mr. P. C. MacLaurin, B.A., Principal of Belleville High school also an incisive debater and a man thoroughly acquainted with his subject.

Following the main address the meeting will be thrown open for general discussion. Anybody in the audience will be given the opportunity to speak. These later addresses will also be taken into account by the judges.

Our Educational Facilities

Belleville's "Educational Facilites" will be the subject for discusion and investigation. This will be considered under ten heads for which values representing the ideal condition will be assigned as follows: (1) School sites and grounds, 50; (2) Buildings, 125; (3) Accommodation and equipment, 125; (4) Teaching staff, 100; (5) Pupils, 100; (6) Parents and Trustees, 50; (7) Primary schools, 150; (8) Secondary schools, 125; (9) Technical schools, 75; (10) Miscellaneous, 125; a total of 1,000 points in all.

Ideal Sites and Grounds

To fill the ideal condition the sites chosen for school buildings should be free from unsanitary surroundings, noxious odors, noises, dust and undue exposure to the elements. The site should also be within reasonable distance of the pupils homes. The grounds should be levelled, well drained and beautiful with trees, shrubs, flowers and lawns and sufficiently spacious to give ample room for recreation.

Proper School Buildings

Proper school buildings are beautiful architecturally, given an appropriate setting by being placed the right distance from the street, built of fireproof or slow-burning material with assembly room and class rooms large enough to give plenty of space for each pupil.

Accommodation and Equipment

The ideal school will have plenty of pure water and pure air, be well-lighted, heated and ventilated. There should be a sufficiency of all kinds of furniture and equipment to enable teachers and pupils to do their best work.

Teachers, Pupils, Parents, Trustees

Good teachers must be well qualified in an academic sense, men and women of good character, lovers of children, good mixers, strong physically, fond of games, and have sufficient force of character to bring about good discipline without resort to corporal punishment.

If pupils are well taught they will be respectful in manner, kind and courteous to their fellow pupils, punctual and regular in attendance, diligent obedient and proficient; under proper conditions they will also be clean and healthy.

Parents and Trustees should co-operate with the teachers and keep well informed as to conditions in the schools and courses of study. It is well to form "Home and School" clubs.

Primary, Secondary and Technical Schools

Belleville is undoubtedly well equipped with secondary schools. Aside from its high school, St. Agnes School for Girls, Albert College, the Ontario Business College and the Ontario School for the Deaf are leaders among their various kinds.

We are well to the fore in our public schools but have scarcely made a start in technical education.

Medical inspection, dental inspection, supervision of playgrounds, classes for backward pupils, athletics and drills are subjects that are now receiving much attention and will be fully discussed at the Open Forum Meeting.

The Judges

The judges who will assign values for the various points scored will be Messrs F. E. O'Flynn, barrister, Harry J. Clarke, B.A., Inspector of Schools and ex-alderman Jas. Duckworth, a gentleman of wide general information.

The committee to report is composed of Messrs. W. B. Riggs, F. S. Deacon and N. D. MacFadyen.

Community Singing

Mr. Harold Barrett, Belleville's well known baritone, will lead the community singing. Song sheets will be distributed through the audience and many popular airs will be sung. The meeting will open promptly at 8 o'clock with the community singing and will close not later than 10 o'clock.

Mr. Howard J. Clarke will occupy the chair.

The Report Committee of the previous "Know Belleville" meeting, Rev. Geo. Marshall and Messrs Geo. B. Jones and P. C. MacLaurin will present their report on Belleville's "Attractiveness" and make recommendations.

Come Early

Those who desire to obtain seats will do well to come early. At the first Forum meeting the City Hall was filled almost to capacity. At the coming meeting it is expected that far more will apply for admittance than can be accommodated. The invitation is to men, women and children, whether members of the Chamber of Commerce or not. All are welcome. Come and bring a friend tnd be prepared to take part in the discussion. Watch for advertising announcements in a day or two.

Masonic At Home Delightful Affair

Belleville Lodge, A.F. & A.M. Score Decided Success in Social Function

An evening of rare pleasure was enjoyed by the many guests of the officers and members of The Belleville Lodge, No. 123, A.F. and A.M., at their first "At Home" held Wednesday evening in Johnstone's Academy. The attendance was very large there being in the neighborhood of two hundred couples present and the spacious dancing floor was a scene of brightness and beauty with pretty gowns enchancing the charms of handsome ladies and the bright colors flashing here and there in the measures of the dance keeping step to the strains of Strathdee's splendid orchestra which, located in the centre of the dancing floor rendered an excellent program of the latest dance music. Some of the guests danced a while, and played cards a while and some danced all the while and some played cards all the while but everyone present had a delightful time and the function was voted one of the very best of the season. Dainty refreshments were served and no efforts were spared to have everyone present enjoy themselves to the limit.

Col. Herb. R. Wilson was chairman of the committee of arrangements and much credit is due to Col. Wilson and the gentlemen associated with him on the committee for the perfect arrangements made. Mr. W. J. Hume, Master of the Lodge, was unable to be present on account of illness, much to his own regret and the regret of his many friends. The committee was as follows: Messrs. W. J. Hume, J. S. McKeown, Dr. J. A. Faulkner, R. L. Zufelt, W. O. Adams, A. P. Allen, F. H. Chesher, J. G. Moffat, D. Barragar, J. A. Diamond, R. D. Ponton, A. McGie, B. Bottum, R. A. Backus, A. F. White H. L. INVISIBLE MAN MAY YET COME TRUE

Paris, Feb. 2.—The invisible man of the fairy tales is likely to come true if the experiments now being conducted by Dr. Vassilieff are entirely successful. Dr. Vassilieff, a well-known Russian professor of anatomy, who startled the medical world with his discovery of a process for rendering dead human tissue transparent, is attempting to apply his discovery to the living human body. He is now busy in his Paris laboratory working and dreaming of the time when the living human being can be made almost transparent, if not entirely invisible.

Jack Putman, aged 38, of Detroit, shot himself on the rail of the ferry boat Promise, and fell into the river.

BELL'S EARLY DAYS.

He Invented Machine for Taking Husks Off Wheat.

Brantford may be the place where Dr. Graham Bell invented the telephone but Edinburgh can claim to be the city of his birth. The Scottish capital recently gladly acknowledged the claim by honoring the scientist with the freedom of the city.

Before the civic ceremony he and Mrs. Graham Bell paid a visit to the Royal High School, where Dr. Bell was a scholar at the time when King Edward, then Prince of Wales, attended classes in the famous old school, and when he also had as class fellows three French princes. The visit of the distinguished old boy to the school was the occasion of a great reception from the present pupils.

Dr. Bell, in an interesting speech to the boys, said it was when he was at school that his inventive career began. He told of a visit to a flour mill with a schoolfellow, the son of the miller. When the latter suggested that the boys should try taking the husks off the wheat Dr. Bell took a handful home and thought he would try scraping the husks off with a nailbrush. The husks came off like magic. He told Mr. Hardman, the miller, what he had done and suggested that if he had a machine into which to throw the wheat it might be brushed as it was by the nailbrush. Mr. Hardman tried the process in a machine and it worked, and he did not know but that they still had that machine. Dr. Bell then told the story of the invention of the first form of wireless telephony.

Referring to its most recent developments, he described again the experimental conversation between Washington and the Eiffel Tower, which was overheard at Honolulu, an experiment he thought foreshadowed the day they might live to see, when a man in any part of the world might be able to telephone to any other part of the world without wires at all.

Young Eagles at Play.

China Lake is a beautiful twelve-mile sheet of water near the Atlantic coast that is deeply cut into inlets, coves, and bays.

"Our camp on the shore of the lake," writes Mr. M. B. Townsend in the "Guide to Nature," is built at the narrowest part of an isthmus that connects a peninsula of considerable size with the mainland.

"One day, as I sat quietly fishing from a boat, I saw a curious performance. Two young bald eagles, virtually full grown, met in mid-air. The one below half turned and, clutching upward, seized the other by the talons. With claws locked and with a tremendous flopping of great wings, the birds fell through the air and turned repeated somersaults until they almost touched the water. Then they flew away.

"What could it mean? I thought at first that one might have a fish that the other was trying to steal. But no; the field glass showed that there was no fish. Then I made up my mind that the eaglets were simply playing. The air was their playground. They were indulging in a friendly tussle, a wrestling match, just as two boys on the way home from school will clinch and struggle and roll over on the greensward from pure exuberance of animal spirits. It is natural for all young creatures to tussle."

The Decline of the Waits.

The decline of the Waits—those picturesque nocturnal figures with lanterns and flutes and clarionettes, whose carolling made the Dickensy Christmas ring so true—began with the extension of carol-singing in churches. Organs supplanted the instrumentalists of the West Gallery, and we are only now beginning to discover that — however primitive their music—the disappearance of these old village orchestras was a calamity. Their musical performances may have been crude, says a well-known doctor of music, but so was the singing of the village choir. The Waits did at least keep the folk-carol alive. Their decline synchronized with the decline of the folk-carol. A noble attempt to preserve ancient carols was made in those days by Thomas Helmore, but the spirit of the time was against it, and his collection soon gave way before the output of modern composition.

Canada's Immense Coalfields.

Unless we learn to use our coal less wastefully, the coal mines of the British Isles will, it is said, be exhausted in 300 years. Meanwhile the Admiralty is reported to be negotiating the purchase of a coalfield in Canada covering something like 2,000 square miles, from which an almost unlimited supply of the best smokeless coal can be obtained. Canada can spare it. The whole of Southern Alberta is underlaid with coal, and it is estimated that in one district alone, from which at present 2,000,000 tons are taken yearly, there are over 20,000,000,000 tons waiting to be mined. At the present rate of depletion the Alberta coalfield will last 10,000 years.

The Reason Why.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, the Irish Secretary, possesses the knack, in a very advanced degree, of turning the laugh against his tormentors. Soon after he began political work in England, and when his trans-Atlantic accent was much more pronounced than it is to-day, he was interrupted by a question, "Why do you wear American-made boots?" Quick as thought the Canadian-born speaker retorted, "Because my feet were made in America."

Same Difference.

"What is the distinction," asked the teacher, "between caution and cowardice?"

Johnny, who observed things carefully for so youthful a person, answered: "Caution is when you're afraid, and cowardice is when the other fellow's afraid."

Vigorous Development Policy Urged for Hastings Minerals

BANQUET AND BUSINESS MEETING OF HASTINGS BRANCH OF CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF MINING AID METALLURGY INTERESTING EVENT—SPEAKERS POINT OUT NECESSITY OF GOVERNMENT ASSISTANCE IN DEVELOPING MINERAL RESOURCES OF HASTINGS COUNTY.

The first annual banquet of the Hastings branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy was held last evening at the Hotel Quinte and it was a most enjoyable function. Members of the branch were out in large numbers, whilst several invited guests were also present. At the conclusion of the banquet the annual meeting was held when officers for the year were selected. Mine host J. V. Jenkins, provided an excellent repast which was served in a faultless manner. The addresses given were interesting and instructive and were interspersed with vocal and instrumental selections which were well rendered.

Hastings Rich in Minerals

Mr. G. H. Gillespie, chairman of the local branch, occupied the chair, and at the conclusion of the supper gave a brief but appropriate address.

The President referred to the fact that the Hastings branch of the Institute represented the production of many minerals. At present there was a depreciation of currency, but matters would in the future adjust themselves. The Mining Institute of Canada should show our Government what it means and what it desires. The Institute should be an organization to show the Government what the operator means. If this was done some mining plants would not be shut down as they are at present. We want the Government to protect the Canadian mining interests.

Business Meeting

At this stage of the proceedings, the business of the Branch was transacted, minutes of the last meeting was read by the secretary, Mr. R. A. Elliott and were endorsed and some communications were read and disposed of.

Secretary Elliott presented his annual report which referred to the meetings held during the year and the visits to places of interest to the members including a visit to the Canada Cement works at Point Anne. There were 36 active members. This is an increase of 9 over the year previous. It was suggested to have an annual banquet at Belleville at the annual meetings.

The health of the secretary was enthusiastically proposed and was appropriately acknowledged by Mr. Elliott. In the course of his remarks, the secretary enjoined upon the members to attend meetings and present papers for discusion.

Mr. Elliott presented the treasurer's report which showed a balance of $11.27. The report was adopted.

Bonus on Iron Ore

Mr. J. W. Evans referred to the fact that he considered it necessary to have a committee appointed to investigate our iron ore deposits and he sugested that the Government should place a bonus of $1 per ton on iron ore mined.

Mr. F. S. Pearce of Marmora said he would like to see something done to develop the iron ore in Hastings County. The speaker read a letter which showed that many properties where iron ore is deposited would remain idle unless Government help is secured. In the vicinity of Coe Hill, Hastings County it is estimated that there are 300,000 tons of iron ore. This would mean the employment of many men. Mr. Pearce said this was a matter of vital importance to this section of the country and the Government should be backed up in the proposition to place a bonus on iron ore mined.

Mr. Southworth, a managing Director of the Deloro Smelting plant thought the matter should be carefully considered and all necessary information obtained as to the supply. The branch should discuss the report the committee may make before it goes to the parent body for submission to the Government.

Mr. C. C. Mackenzie, secretary of the Canadian Institute of Maning and Metallurgy stated that the Dominion Government had been approached by a deputation form the Mining Institute of British Columbia and asked to place a bonus on iron ore mined. Upon investigation it was turned down The Federal Government must be convinced in this matter and all Provinces must be interested. A strong case must be made out to the Government in order to get what is asked for.

A motion to appoint a committee was carried and Dr. C. W. Drury, Mr. J. W. Evans and Mr. F. S. Pearce were named a committee to attend to the matter.

Officers Elected

Mr. J. W. Evans was elected chairman of the branch and in accepting the office referred to Hastings County being rich in mineral wealth. We have in this county a great future and the branch should do all in its power to assist in developing its ore deposits of the county.

Vice-Chairman—Dr. C. W. Drury, of Kingston.

Secretary-Treasurer—R. A. Elliott, Deloro.

Representative on Council—Deloro, C. Buskard; Madoc, G. H. Gillespie; Kingston, Prof. Graham; Belleville, Wm. Embury; Sulphide, Mr. W. H. Du Blois; Cordova, Geo. W. Payne.

Toast Honored

Our County—This toast was proposed by Dr. C. W. Drury, of Kingston, who stated that Canada was a great country and presents great opportunities. We have advantages in this country which other countries do not enjoy.

Capt. W. M. Goodwin, M.C., of Kingston responding to the toast, said Canada was progressing in many respects and as Canadians we should be proud of our country. In speaking of technologists, Capt. Goodwin said it was not necessary to import them as we have them in Hastings county. We should conserve these technologists and use them for the betterment of the country. The speaker referred to the mineral wealth of Canada specializing that of Cobalt. Hastings county was also rich in minerals, and the developing of same was necessary.

Song.—Capt. A. D. Harper, M.C., "My Love is Like a Red, Red Rose."

The Canadian Institute of Mining Metallurgy—This toast was appropriately proposed by Mr. S. B. Wright of Deloro, who stated the Institute was 23 years old and he was one of the oldest members. The formation of local branches was an inspiration and should be fostered.

Secretary of Canadian Institute

Piano Duet—Miss Evans and Prof. Wheatley.

Mr. C. C. Mackenzie, of Montreal, Secretary of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, responded to the toast and in his opening remarks expressed pleasure at this, the first opportunity of meeting the members of the Hastings branch, a branch which was lively in every respect, and one worthy to be proud of by every member. The keynote of his address was service; service within the Institute. We were members of an ancient and honorable profession, we date a long way back to Solomon time. Many do not realize what the engineering profession means to this country. Politicians are not always fond of expert opinion, but we are advancing and it will not be long before this profession will take a step forward and will be more recognized in the future than in the past. At the present session of the Legislature a mining bill will be introduced which will no doubt prove beneficial to the profession. In speaking of mining operations the speaker said at the present time gold mining and asbestos mining were being vigerously prosecuted. Local branches can do much to stimulate the work of the parent body. In referring to moulding sand which is used extensively by the steel plants of Canada, Mr. Mackenzie said it was all imported from the United States, whilst he believed this sand could be found in Hastings County or on the shores of Lake Ontario. The children of our public schools should be instructed as to the manufacture of a steel range, how an asbestos table cloth is made, and other articles. This could be imparted by slides and would not only prove interesting but profitable. We should take an active part in practical politics and practical mining. Adopt a platform upon whic hall can stand and let there be concentrated action.

Piano Solo—Miss Evans.

Our Visitors—This toast was proposed by Prof. Graham of Kingston.

Mr. E. G. Porter, K.C., M.P., was first called upon to respond to the

Belleville Bread Drops to 14 Cents

Bakers' War Means Large Saving for Householders—Drop of Ten Cents in Less Than Week.

Bread took another drop in price Friday with a quotation of fourteen cents, making a reduction of ten cents per loaf in less than a week. The war among the bakers continues without any indications of peace, and householders are happy in the opportunity for saving a few shekels on this most important article of diet; but strange to say grocers declare that the demand for bread has decreased since the price started to drop.

Some of the bakers are not pushing their sales to any great extent, feeling, no doubt, that the less they sell the less money they lose. No tickets are being sold and cash is demanded on all sales. Some householders who purchased a supply of tickets before the drop are saving the tickets and paying cash each day for their bread requirements in order to take full advantage of the low prices.

Conservative Leader Charges Falsehood

Takes a Whack at Commissioners at the Timber Probe

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, the Conservative leader, made a statement in the Legislature in regard to an article appearing in the Farmers' Sun under the caption "Hon. G. Howard Ferguson gives away 5,000 square miles by letter." In the course of his statement Mr. Ferguson said: "This startling headline is a glaring falsehood, without a shadow of foundation, and the article following is very largely a tissue of falsehoods.

"The article in the Sun reads 'A most extraordinary circumstance,' was the way Mr. Justice Riddell described the manner in which three letters had been taken from the fyles of the department of lands, forests, and mines, and later returned. These letters contained the promise of the Honorable Howard Ferguson to give away 5,000 square miles of forest to the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company.

CALLS IT SLANDER

"Again I say, this is the vilest kind of slander. There were no letters removed from the fyles of the department, and no letter contained a promise to give any territory to any company.

"A letter written to Mr. Meade on October 30th, after the election, was put into the distribution drawer and evidently was inadvertently carried away with my private fyles. When my secretary discovered it he immediately took it to the department and left with his explanation. The contemptible insinuation that there was an attempt to suppress something is almost beneath notice. I would like to draw attention of the public to the postscript in my letter to Mr. Meade in which I specifically said that I was retaining a copy of Mr. Smith's letter for the office fyles.

"Ordinarily it would be difficult for one to understand how such gross misstatements of fact could be made. In the present instance, however, it can readily be accounted for from the comment and conduct of the commissioners conducting this so-called enquiry, which undoubtedly were made to inflame the public mind for political purposes. Here is a sample. Mr. Justice Latchford, without waiting or looking to the merits or getting particulars of this matter says: 'The grant of 5,500 miles of timber limit just on the eve of election is a matter that should be promptly investigated.'"

DRURY OBJECTS.

Premier Drury arose to object to the member in putting motives to the judges, in the house, and intimated that Mr. Ferguson would have an opportunity of making his objections to the commission.

The speaker upheld the premier's objection and Hon. Mr. Ferguson stated that he would have more to say at a further date.

Sergt. Major McNamara will move in the legislature, that the prime minister or a committee of the legislature shall be appointed to confer with the Dominion government upon the necessity "for an immediate and comprehensive permanent system of unemployment insurance to cope with any calamitous industrial issues that

Parliament Will Open With Pre-War Pomp

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—Parliament opens on Monday (Feb. 14) with the pomp and circumstance of pre-war days. Last year, owing to the condition of the Senate Chamber, the House of Commons was utilized for the opening ceremony. This session, the Speech from the Throne will be read in the Senate chamber itself, members of the House standing meanwhile at the bar. Since prorogation much work has been done in the new Parliament buildings. With the exception of furnishings, the Commons Chamber has been completed. The temporary ceiling has given place to considerably unfinished condition, with the exception of the end work near the library entrance; and in the Senate, a good deal of elaborate carving and other decorative work remains to be done. Yet with all the drawbacks of an unfinished building, the ceremony promises to lack nothing in display.

The first of the Meighen administration, the session will have features of peculiar interest. Some familiar figures will no longer be in their accustomed places. Sir Robert Borden, who led the House through the years of war, will move from his old place near the head of the table and Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen will occupy the Prime Minister's chair. Hon. N. W. Rowell who sat on Sir Robert's left will also move down the House. Hon. Martin Burrell has left the parliamentary arena and his seat will probably be occupied by Hon. Rupert Wigmore. Rt. Hon. A. L. Sifton has succumbed to the illness from which he suffered so long. Since last session, also, Lieut.-Col. McLeod who sat on the Government side and Joseph Gladu who supported the Opposition have passed on to the majority. There will, too, be three new faces—the successful candidates in Yale, B. C., East Elgin and West Peterboro.

The Tariff revision will be paramount among Government business to be submitted during the session. The proposals in this regard are not expected to be drastic. They will be based essentially on the protection and encouragement of home industries, the securing of adequate revenues; development of inter-Imprial trade and of Canadian national resources. Since last session, a committee of Cabinet, headed by Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, has toured the country and collected evidence. The committee has since been busy in the preparation of its recommendations for the Cabinet. The Government will eventually make its proposals known to the House in the budget speech.

With the whole tariff thus thrown into the arena, the budget debate may be expected this year to be long and result, probably, in some close divisions. Throughout the session, in fact, there is liklihood of keen fighting.

It will be the fifth session of the thirteenth parliament of Canada.

Turkey Makes Demands On London Conference

Third—Maintenance of Turkish ence in London—Wants an Army

Constantinople, Feb. 4.—The Turkish demands to be presented at the coming conference in London on the Near Eastern question will be five in number according to the Turkish press. The demands are listed thus:

First—Abrogation of the privileges of Greece in the Smyrna region under the treaty of Sevres.

Second—Autonomy for Thrace sovereignty over territory awarded to Armenia.

Fourth—Modification of the economic clauses of the treaty which infringe upon Turkish sovereignty and independence.

Fifth—Modification of the military clauses so that Turkey will be enabled to retain a "defensive army".

CHINESE EGGS MENACE TO CANADIAN FARMER

Ottawa, Fb. 2.—Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, informed the members of the Ottawa Poultry Association at their regular meeting that the influx of Chinese eggs into this country was proving to be a menace to the Canadian poultry men. Coming from the western coast he was fully alive to the situation. "No Canadian can compete with the Chinamen and I intend looking into the question." The Chinese egg was a cheaply produced low grade product.

Rich Haul of Cloth Is Made in Montreal

Thieves Got Away with Goods Valued At Over $15,000

Montreal, Feb. 3.—Nearly fifteen thousand dollars worth of valuable cloth has been stolen from the premises occupied by the Manufacturers Sponging Company, 373 Aqueduct street. Entrance to the building was gained by the use of false keys. Messrs Barsky and Block have their sponging establishment on the top floor of the building, and it was necessary to the thieves to carry the cloth down to the street, which must have taken considerable time.

The goods stolen belonged to a number of firms in Montreal, ten already reported having goods in the hands of the sponging company at the time.

When the theft occurred the thieves picked out the most valuable rolls of cloth. According to the owners there was in stock on the top floor over $150,000 worth of all kinds consisting of serges and goods for women's wear The detective department has examined the doors and is investigating.

Montreal Plans Municipal Reform

Montreal, Feb. 2.—The main principles of a bill to be introduced into the Quebec Legislature remodelling the municipal government of Montreal, and based on the recommendations of a Commission, are as follows:—

1—One single electoral district.

2—The City Council to be composed of nine members elected for four years.

3—Election of all the Councilors by all the electors in the city, through proportional representation, with certain dispositions to prevent by-elections.

4—The Mayor to be chosen by the Councilors from their own ranks.

5—A general manager, appointed by the Council and responsible to the Council only, to administer the City.

6—The non-interference of Councilors in administrative services.

7—A recall clause for dishonest Councilors.

9—Extension of the franchise to women and to all persons who have paid at least $10 in taxes and who are not already qualified as landlords or tenants.

10—The abolition of the election deposit, but the obligation for a candidate to have at least 200 signatures of electors on his nomination papers.

To Balance Budget Of Germany Easy

How Large Deficit in 1920 Estimates May Be Eliminated

Paris, Feb.2.—Germany is told exactly how to eliminate the 76,000,000,000 marks deficit in her 1920 budget in the report to the Allies of the conference of financial experts held in Brussels, made public to-day.

Certain German expenses are declared to have been multiplied 75 times over those of 1919 and certain German taxes are shown to be far below those the Allied population are paying. The report says,

"Many figures in the ordinary budget seem to have been established by an administration and parliament equally resirous of showing the world the precarious financial condition of Germany and her difficult situation."

If the varied recommendations made are followed, the budget should be speedily balanced, says the report Thus, with continuation of Germany's economic recovery, the experts declare that Germany, "In a relatively short period can meet her treaty obligations through taxation, without continuing to increase her floating debt or inflate her currency."

The report says the 1919 and 1920 budgets of Germany carried a number of credits which were only partially disbursed such as 16,500,000,000 marks for the Allied armies of occupation expenses, of which only 4,500,000,000 marks was spent. The budget for 1920 carried 42,000,000,000 marks for execution of the peace treaty, while only 17,000,000,000 marks had been paid out up to December last.

Mystery Still Unsolved Of Submarine Disaster

NO SURVIVORS AND WRECKAGE GIVE NO CLUE AS TO CAUSE OF SINKING OF K-5 OFF LAND'S END WITH ALL ON BOARD—DUBLIN REPORTS RIDICULED.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The enquiry by the Admiralty into the loss of Submarine K-5, which sank with all hands off Land's End a fortnight ago, has failed to clear up the mystery which surrounds the cause of the sinking, as there were no survivors and the wreckage gave no clue, but reports originating in Dublin attributing the disaster to a new electrically controlled projectile from Irish Sea craft were ridiculed today by the Admiralty. Officials say the idea is faptastic.

Ocean Steamship Stoked by Elite

New York, Feb. 3.—The Swedish Gothenberg steamed into New York today under power furnished by the brawn of millionaire clubmen, college professors and the general elite of Sweden. Sigurd B. Jorkstrum, port engineer at Gothenberg, and a director of the Swedish-American line, which controls the vessel, was the chief engineer, and his twelve stokers were recruited among the aristocracy of Gothenberg when the regular crew of fifteen struck for higher wages.

The former chief engineer of the vessel had demanded that his salary of 14,000 kronen a year be doubled. If his demands had been met, steamship officials said his salary would have exceeded by 3,000 kronen that of the Swedish Minister to the United States.

The aristocracy of the boiler room tonight removed their denims, donned more formal clothing and started out to see New York.

Last Minute Telegraph Briefs

Another 'Quake Recorded.

Washington, Feb. 4.—A severe earthquake shock, even more intense than that recorded on December 16th last, was registered this morning at the Georgetown observatory. It was estimated that the disturbance was in South America. The scene of the December disturbance was never definitely established.

Leader of Ulster Unionists.

Belfast, Feb. 4.—The Ulster Unionist Council today elected Sir James Craig, M.P., leader of the party in the new parliament to be set up for Ulster under the Irish Home Rule Act. Sir Edward Carson presided over the council session.

Hay Price Falling

London, Ont., Feb. 4.—Hay prices on the local market were the lowest today in two years, highest grade being quoted at twenty dollars per ton. One year ago the same quality was selling readily at $35 to $38 per ton, with large supplies still on hand farmers expect still further slump in price.

To Take Iniative

Toronto, Feb. 4.—Hon. W. R. Rollo this morning told a deputation from Toronto and district trades and labor council that the Ontario government proposed to take the initiative in calling a conference of Provincial Premiers for the purpose of considering the old age pension question and also the best means of dealing with the employment situation.

Farmers Charged With Rum Running

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

St. Catherines, Feb. 4.—Charges of violating the Ontario Temperance Act it is understood, will be laid against four prominent farmers of Niagara township as a result of an investigation conducted by license officials in that district. Smuggling is being carried on between Canadians and Americans it is stated, and evidence has been obtained regarding the operations. Considerable rum-running, it is alleged has been carried on below the whirlpool in Niagara river small boats plying regularly throughout the winter from the Canadian to the American side. The open season has permitted this class of navigation.

May Establish Divorce Courts

Bill to Be Introduced at Ottawa Erecting Them in the Provinces.

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—The divorce mill will need to grind fairly steadily this coming session if all the applications of which notice has already been given are to receive their full measure of attention. To date the number of applications is 121, and while this is still 17 short of last year's crop, there is yet time for the 1920 figure to be equalled, if not passed. Most of the applications are from men or women residing in Toronto.

Last year the Senate Committee on divorce sat through most of the recess in the effort to get through all the applications before it. This year it looks as though the same procedure will have to be followed.

Alleges Labor Remiss in Duty On 8-Hour Day

MacBride of Brantford Says There's Pact Not to Embarass Farmers

Toronto Feb. 3—Speaking for the first time from the Opposition benches in the Legislature, to which he moved at the beginning of the session, M. M. MacBride, Independent Labor member for South Brant, bitterly attacked Labor's representatives, in the Drury Cabinet for their failure to bring before the House eight-hour-day legislation.

He charged them with being under a pact with the Premier not to embarass the Government by its introduction, and declared that in so doing they had jumped the principal plank upon which they were elected. Referring to the eight-hour national working day clause in the Peace Treaty, he declared: "We are a thousand times worse than the United States if we sign the peace pact and refuse to carry out the terms it contains."

MUTUAL ADMIRATION.

In opening his address Mr. MacBride said the general tenor of the debate so far had been that of a mutual admiration society.

Heavy Sentences For Sinn Feiners

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Belfast, Feb. 4.—Sentences of six years penal servitude each, were imposed to-day upon eight men who were arrested October last, when discovered on Kingston mail boat wearing Irish Volunteers' uniforms on their way to attend the funeral in London of Lord Mayor MacSweney of Cork.

The sentences, however, were three years in each case, three years being remitted. Three men were found with revolvers at a recent Kingston dance were sentenced to ten years in prison, of which five years was remitted.

Halliday has a previous criminal record, being sentenced at the Toronto Sessions last August to five months for shopbreaking and theft.

"Chaps"—Read This

Once you know how "chaps" are caused, you will appreciate why your skin needs Zam-Buk. The keen frosty winds of winter and early spring dry up the skin—make it hard, brittle and without elasticity. Thus the outer tissues break open into smarting cracks and painful sores. That's how the trouble starts.

In cracked hands, chilblains, frost-bite, eczema and other obstinate skin troubles, use nothing but Zam-Buk. This unique healing balm, derived from a blending of rich herbal essences supplies the skin's deficiency of natural oils. If your trouble is on the hands, use Zam-Buk at night and slip on a pair of old gloves with Zam-Buk smeared inside. This precious balm will soothe away pain, inflammation and irritation, and grow new soft flexible skin.

Redness, roughness, smarting or soreness is readily healed, through Zam-Buk's refined herbal ingredients being absorbed into the underlying tissues. Zam-Buk is powerfully antiseptic. The germs of skin trouble simply can't exist wherever it penetrates.

Keep Zam-Buk always at hand for dealing with cuts, burns, scalds, scalp sores, ulcers, abscesses, piles, eczema, poisoned wounds, salt rheum and all skin sores and injuries. All dealers 50c. box, 3 for $1.25. For TRIAL SAMPLE send 1c. stamp to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

RELIEVES PAIN

is the complaint of many a woman in the household, office or factory. After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable and contains no alcohol.

Druggists sell it in tablets or liquid, or send Doctor Pierce, at Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., 10 cents for trial package.

BARRIE, ONTARIO.—"I was suffering from a run-down system some time ago, was unfit to perform my daily duties, and was advised to try Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I tried it, took two bottles, and was restored to my natural strength. I cannot praise Doctor Pierce's medicines too highly, and will be willing to write to anyone sending a stamped envelope."—MRS. Tyrone Power in Moving Picture

The Great Shadow Deals a Powerful Blow at Bolsheviki Propaganda

A powerful blow at the insidious propaganda of the Bolshevists, and the influence they are gaining among the laboring classes is the story of "The Great Shadow," the Canadian Film made in Trenton which began a three days engagement with a matinee Saturday, at Griffin's last night.

What would happen if their doctrines were put into practice is clearly conveyed in a dramatic manner, and the solution of the trouble when capital and labor get together and agree to work out a peaceful scheme for the welfare of both without poisonous outside influences is also demonstrated.

"The Great Shadow" portrays the effect of a great strike, called through Bolshevik agents in this country. But as a result of efforts of the moderate elements of the labor party, public spirit is stirred that reason begins to assert itself and an armistice for a year between capital and labor is agreed upon, both sides pledging themselves to co-operate in working out a peaceful solution of the big problems of the day.

Tyrone power plays the part of the shipyard foreman and labor leader, and a capable cast supports Mr. Power. His leading woman is Dorothy Bernard, last seen on the screen in "Little Women."

"A Kick in High Life" a funny 2 reel Lehrman comedy, a very interesting Travelogue of life among the Indians in the far West titled "The Passing of the Crow," and an interesting chapter of "Pirate Gold" complete an entertaining bill of screen entertainment.

The Daredevil

By
Maria Thompson Daviess
Author of "The Melting of Molly"

Copyright, 1916, by the Reilly & Britton Co.

All of those very gay and nice "babes and sucklings" which the Gouverneur Faulkner had mentioned were with me at the table with very much laughter and merriment, also much conversation. And in that conversation were very many jokes upon my Buzz because he had been transported to the capitol by my uncle, the General Robert, and given hard labor until almost the time to arrive for that nice supper which he was eating with much hunger.

"Well, it's not my fault that Timms up and biffed his brother into eternity all for buzzing pretty Mary Brown, and I don't see why I had to be rung in to sort out of a million sheets of trial evidence the lies he told about it for poor old Governor Bill to moll over all night. I say when a man wants to be hanged as badly as that he ought to get what he's crying for and not butt in on a perfectly innocent man's afternoon fox trot." was that Mr. Buzz Clendenning's wailing to all of the company. "Look the other way, Sue, so as not to turn this muffin cold until I get it buttered."

"I told my washwoman, who is Mary's sister, that Mary ought to be made to tell just what did happen, and then it could all be arranged so that the poor man could be saved to her. I think it is hard on Mary to lose both lovers," said that very intelligent Mildred Summers.

"They live just over beyond the back gate. Suppose we all go and put it up to the attractive Mary to speak up and keep Buzz from the danger of overwork a second time," said a nice young gentleman with what I considered a great intelligence, but which caused much laughter.

And at that suggestion which caused the much merriment that daredevil within Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, again arose and commanded me to attention.

"Go, Robert Carruthers, and obtain that paper of statement from that Mary, so that your chief, that good Gouverneur Faulkner, does not work in the night, which is for rest, and that your beloved Buzz may not again have to work in his afternoon, which is for dancing. Go and find that Mary as soon as this dinner is at an end."

And what was it possible for me to do but to answer the command of the daredevil person within me? All of which I did. I made excuse of myself on account of a lie which involved my attendance on my uncle, the General Robert, and departed after I had had but one nice slide with the lovely Sue, but had obtained a promise of one from Mlle. Belle if I found it possible to return by the hour of 10 o'clock.

After many inquiries in small streets I was at last led to the home of the Mary Brown. All was dark within the very small house, but upon the steps, in the light from the moon and also a street arc, sat the person that a man of whom I had asked guidance said to be the woman whom I sought. She rested her head in her hands, as had done that poor human in the cage in that state prison, and from her I heard the sounds of slow weeping.

"There are just two things that are the duty of women, Mary."

"What is it that I shall say to her?" I asked of myself. And then suddenly something answered from within me from the same place that had arisen that knowledge to spring in between my Gouverneur Faulkner and the bright knife I had not even seen. That place is located in the heart of Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, and not in that daredevil.

"Mary Brown," I said to her, with all of the gentleness in my voice that was commanded by my sympathy for her, "if a person were going to kill with a rope the man I loved I would lay down my own life that he should live. If you write one little paper to say that he murdered in defense of you the good Gouverneur Faulkner will save him to you. Give to me that paper."

"Go away!" she moaned as she shook her head and cried into her arms.

EACH NEW TEST PROVES THE POWERS OF TANLAC

Statement of Frank Crossman Typical of What is Being accomplished Here by Master Medicine

The gratifying results being obtained from the use of Tanlac is further evidenced in the case of Frank Crossman, of 20 Park street, Hamilton, Ont. Mr. Crossman is a well-known clerk for the Steel Company of Canada, and is also a veteran of the recent world war.

"I have already told lots of others about the wonderful good Tanlac has done me," he continued, "and I'm only too glad to give the medicine my public endorsement. While serving overseas in France I received a wound in the abdomen and was down in the hospital for five months. When I returned home I was weak and run-down and although my wound had healed my stomach was all out of order. I had no appetite and gas formed in such quantities it pressed against my heart and made breathing very difficult for me. I also suffered a great deal from constipation, headaches and billiousness. My nerves were all upset and at night I was restless and wakeful.

"I kept seeing Tanlac so highly recommended I started taking it, and on the second bottle I noticed my appetite began to pick up. My food did me more good and my whole system seemed to be building up. Well, sir, the third bottle found me greatly improved in every way and feeling more like I ought to. In all I have taken six bottles of Tanlac and it has fixed me up so fine I want to let others know what a great medicine it is."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store, and by the leading druggists in every town.

Dean Starr Urges Personal Service

Inspiring Address by Dean of Ontario at Christ Church Men's Banquet.

The Men's Banquet in Christ Church Parish Hall Thursday evening was in every respect a most gratifying success, with an attendance, despite the many counter attractions, of nearly one hundred. Under the management of the Parish Guild the ladies of the congregation fairly excelled their well known reputation in the excellence of the menu provided. In recognition of this a hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Oswald Scott, seconded by Mr. Frank Thompson, and tendered the ladies for their efforts in providing such an excellent spread. The motion was carried unanimously.

After the toast to The King had been duly honored and songs well sung by Mr. Herchmer Aylesworth, the Rector, Rev. Rural Dean Swayne, in a few remarks reminiscent of their college days, introduced the speaker of the evening, the Very Rev. G. Lothrop Starr, D.D., Dean of Ontario.

The Dean made the subject of his address "Optimism and Opportunity." After telling some amusing stories illustrating optimism he pointed out the reason why we should look hopefully, even though conditions were serious and in a measure disquieting at the present time. He took the war as an illustration and pointed to history as a tonic for fainting hearts. Dean Starr then dwelt upon the splendid opportunity of the present hour under three heads:

The Challenge of God.
The Challenge of the Church.
The Challenge of Personal Responsibility.

Dean Starr congratulated the Rector and men of Christ Church on their fine record and concluded with a strong appeal for personal service in the present campaign for better church attendance.

Try Magnesia for Stomach Trouble

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, pancreatin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, or milk, but the pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a tea-spoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little Bisurated Magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

KINGSTON A HAS-BEEN, BELLEVILLE A COMER

Kingston Standard sporting editor devotes considerable space to an article designed to take the sting out of the defeat administered Kingston hockey teams by Belleville puckchasers.

Kingston's ancient athletic glories are played up and Belleville's shortcomings featured in the article, but this only goes to show that Kingston is a has-been, while Belleville is a comer. However, here is the sad, sad story of Kingston's ancient athletic glory and its latter-day decline and fall in sporting circles:

"All hail to Belleville, intermediate group winners! The title must be a strange one for the western town. Resting serenely amidst the hills and cold breezes, mostly breezes, the innocent little hamlet has, after years of effort, won group honors from Kingston. In the past twenty years, Belleville teams, both junior and intermediate, have succeeded in defeating Kingston teams only four times, in 1901, 1907, 1916 and 1919, the latter three years being junior wins, while the intermediates have only felt defeat from Belleville once, prior to Monday night. Truly, it is an enviable record for the coming town.

"Away back in 1900, when Belleville was emerging from its lethargy to such an extent that it entered teams in the O.H.A., just ten years later than Kingston, the Belleville team reached the finals with London in the intermediate series, being defeated on the round by 3 to 1. Those two goals mark the closest Belleville ever came to the championship in any series. After that they did not know what the finals were or what it was to beat Kingston until 1907. In that year they defeated Frontenac-Beachgroves in the first group, but were soon put away by Lindsay. Ten long and lean years intervened before Belleville could emerge from the mire of defeat, and in 1916, when Kingston had no intermediate team, they went through to the finals with Sarnia. In the first game in Belleville the home team won by the score of 14 to 5, enough for any team to win, but whatever the fly in the ointment was is not known, and the return game saw Sarnia win by the score of 14 to 4, winning the championship by one goal. In that year Belleville juniors had a chance to holler when they put away K. C. I. by the score of 13-8 on the round.

"It has really been a lean score of years for Belleville in their contests with Kingston, and their victory of Monday night gives them ample opportunity to shout.

"Since 1917, when Kingston returned to the intermediate series, the Belleville-Kingston games have resulted as follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Kingston	2	0
Belleville	0	2

1918.

1919.

	Won.	Lost.
Belleville	2	2

(Kingston won round.)

1920.

	Won.	Lost.
Kingston	2	0
Belleville	0	2

1921

	Won.	Lost.
Belleville	1	1
Kingston	1	1

"In these ten games played, Kingston scored an aggregate of 56 goals, while Belleville have scored 31. Something for Belleville to cheer about!

"The only fear one can have for Belleville is that they might reach the finals again this year and may be afflicted with the same palsy of the hockey stick as they were in 1916. Here's hoping they don't.

"The junior series since 1910 unfold a tale almost too sad to relate. Here and there during the span of eleven years the Belleville teams have won from Kingston, but they have been few and far between. For comparison the following results of games since 1910 in the junior series, in the years in which Belleville was in the same group with Kingston (including Frontenacs, Kingston and K.C.I.), the following records are given with the goals scored by each.

	Won.	Lost.	For.	Agst.
Kingston	2	0	13	7
Belleville	0	2	7	13

1911

	Won.	Lost.	For.	Agst.
Kingston	2	0	13	7
Belleville	0	2	2	33

	Won.	Lost.	For.	Agst.
Kingston	1	1	19	15
Belleville	1	1	15	19

1914

	Won.	Lost.	For.	Agst.
Kingston	2	2	15	23
Belleville	2	2	23	15

1915.

	Won.	Lost.	For.	Agst.
Kingston	2	0	9	6
Belleville	0	2	6	9

1916.

	Won.	Lost.	For.	Agst.
Kingston	1	1	8	13
Belleville	1	1	13	8

1917.

	Won.	Lost.	For.	Agst.
Kingston	2	0	12	7
Belleville	0	2	7	12

"Since 1917 the junior teams of Belleville and Kingston have not played together, so that in seven years Kingston and Belleville have played 16 games, of which Kingston has won 12 and lost 4, while Kingston teams in these games have scored 109 goals and Belleville 73 goals. Comparisons, they say, are odious, so out of respect to the feelings of the Belleville teams, no more records will be given, but a hearty wish extended to the Belleville intermediate team to go the pace through their series and not crack until after they have hung up a championship banner in Belleville.

HOCKEY FINE PAID -BY THE OTTAWA CLUB

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—Tommy German, who is one of the owners of the Ottawa hockey franchise, writes in the Citizen as follows:

Officers of the Ottawa club stated that they had no alternative but to pay the $500 fine levied by the National Hockey League, as a result of the fiasco in the Canadian game at Montreal last week. One Montreal report last night was to the effect that the Ottawas would refuse to continue the National League. This was incorrect. The National League has already been handed $250 on account and the balance must be sent to President Calder before February 15.

Naturally there was a big protest from the Ottawa club, as they claimed that had not been consulted before Referee Smeaton called the celebrated game off, but the league held the officers responsible for the actions of the players and acted accordingly.

George Kennedy wanted to go further and suspend Eddie Gerard and Cy Dennenay, but was unable to go through with it. Ottawas are the meal ticket in the big pro circuit and have been filling the rinks wherever they played, but they are also in the position of "top-dog," and on that account have been made a regular football ever since the race got under way.

Belleville 5—Lindsay 2

On Thursday night at the Arena a fairly good crowd for a Junior game witnessed Belleville Juniors defeat the Lindsay Midgets by a score of 5-2. The game was fast and furious especially in the last period, the result being a riddle until the last few minutes. It is probable that the score would have been higher had not two of Belleville's best men been sick.

The play was at the Lindsay end most of the time and although they only managed to score two goals it isn't because they didn't put the shots to Jimmy Hunter, Belleville's crack junior goal tender, who played a splendid game all the way through, being cool and steady at all times. There were few penalties and no accidents to speak of. The score at the end of the first period was 1-all, the second, 3-2, and the last period 5-2. Tom Munro, of London refereed the game in a satisfactory maner, his decisions being impartial. The game by periods:

First Period

Puck faced at 8:20. From the face-off Holway in a rush from the defence line managed to work past the forward line and shot but missed by a small margin. This seemed like a tonic for Belleville and the play was at the Lindsay end of the ice till the gong sounded at the end of the third period. McClory, the Midget's goal-tender, was then handed a penalty for going to his knees. Bill Canning in a grand rush from the defence line scored the first goal for Belleville after about 15 minutes play. Chambers, the Lindsay captain not to be outdone in that respect scored for Lindsay. This was all the scoring in the first period.

Second Period

Swayne, who played the greatest game of his career so far scored for Belleville in a rebound after about 30 seconds play. Hall, Coone and Hagerman were each given a 2-minute rest. It seemed to revive Johnny Coone wonderfully and after 10 minutes play he scored the local's third goal. Chambers scored Lindsay's second and last goal.

Third Period

With about 5 minutes to play both teams seemed to come back to life with lots of pep and again the game was both fast and furious. Gilly Goyer, with about 2 minutes to play, scored for Belleville in a general mix-up in front of Lindsay's goal. Army Armstrong subbing for the locals, in order to uphold his good record scored in a pass from Coone. Thus the game ended with a score of 5-2 in favor of Belleville.

NOTES

Swayne, Belleville's centre man, played the best game in his career, his back checking and sensational rushes being wonderful, which seemed to inspire the remainder of the team.

Although Stan Hagerman was not feeling well he played a good game of hockey, but nothing like his usual game.

Holway and Canning, Belleville's defence broke up the Lindsay rushes repeatedly and in turn made some fine rushes.

Goyer, another sub, played hockey all the time and seems to have the right material in his make-up.

Chambers, Lindsay's captain, starred for that aggregation.

The Lindsay rooters were few in number and when the Midgets scored a goal it was the tender-hearted fans of Belleville who gave them the cheers.

Jimmy Hunter played one of his finest games, being ever on the alert.

With the material which the Belleville Juniors possess they should go a long way before being stopped. They play a return game in Lindsay on Monday night, and should with any luck be able to bring home a victory.

On account of the poor train connections in getting to Lindsay it makes it difficult for the fans to follow up. But no doubt there will be a few to cheer the boys along.

Lindsay and Belleville Juniors are pretty evenly matched for speed, although Lindsay plays a little more combination and have a slight advantange in weight.

VISION OF DRURY MINISTERS BROADENS OUT.

It hasn't taken long for the Provincial Minister of Highways to become possessed of the economic value of good roads, says the Guelph Herald, and as a consequence Hon. Mr. Biggs promises to outdo the well-intentioned programme of his predecessor in office, even though that policy came in for a share of criticism from rural sections who averred that too much money was being expended. A few months ago Mr. Biggs appeared to share those narrow views, but he has evidently learned to appreciate the value of good roads since then.

In his address to the Ontario Motor League in Toronto he displayed an improved vision. He was ready to predict, he said, that if Ontario spent $20,000,000 on highway improvement in the next five years, the investment with interest would be returned from money brought in and spent in this country by tourists from the United States. There is no doubt that American tourists will bring millions of dollars to Ontario as soon as our roads are ready to accommodate them. And their coming will profit Canada in another way than through the money they will spend here. They will advertise the country where advertising will be of value. If tourist traffic is to pay for the highways the requirements of tourists in the matter of the character of the roads should have due consideration in the highway construction policy of the province.

WHAT'S A FEW BLACK FLIES MORE OR LESS?

The Toronto Star continues its investigations into conditions in Ontario north of the C. P. R. main line and reports as follows:

> Old Sam Martin, the prespector and trapper, whom the Sault Ste. Marie Daily Star consults as an expert on questions of pioneer life, was shown certain comments made on this page the other day and he made reply in an interview in the Soo paper. We had said that Mr. Martin, in praising the north country, rather gave its climate an accidental knock when he told how he had broken the ice in the morning to wash his face and had to wear mosquito netting at noon on account of the black flies. This is Old Sam Martin's reply to our comment:
> "Didn't I admit it? Sure it's true! But does that paper think it signifies at all? Well, it don't. Mister, I can tell that paper that May and June on the Missinabie are mighty little different to May or June on the Severn. Didn't I use' to lumber for Big Aleck McKay back in Longford Township 35 years ago, and the flies there was just as bad as you get at Kapuskasing now—worse, I believe. This Loot Hinton said he landed in 'a dense forest.' Anywhere that trees grow well, man can farm. A dense growth makes flies because the ground keeps damp.
> "Boy, anybody knows a new wood country always has flies and ice in their season. I bet right now, there's mornings in May when ye need to wear more than yer pyjamas before sunrise in the bush back of Peterboro. Just ask Tim Clement, of Marmora."
> All this we readily assent to without troubling Tim Clement of Marmora for corroborative evidence, which, no doubt, he would readily give. The country up north is a fine country with a great agricultural future. But this business of breaking ice in a creek that runs into the Frederick House to wash your hands in the morning and then wearing mosquito netting to keep off the black flies at noon, does not strike us as good advertising for the climate. We were surprised that Old Sam Martin spoke of it at all. We remain surprised, and we would like to ask Pete Jones of Seabright and Tim Clement of Marmora what they think of Old Sam Martin wearing mosquito netting in frosty or any other weather, to keep off black flies?
> Mr Martin, in his interview, speaks slightingly of shoe store clerks who allow the flies to annoy them, but if this old-timer himself wears mosquito netting what must other old-timers think of him? Pushing through the underbrush with a veil on must tax an old-timer's patience. The north, he says, produces everything, and produces it big:
> "The funny thing about these mosquitos is that the further north they breed, the bigger and huskier they are. York Factory mosquitos, I hear, have to diet themselves. But these big fellows don't hang on up here like they do down round Muskoka. You clear a place at Mattice and you are done with 'em for good at that place. Get rid of the moss and they quit. It's different on the Humber." Sam insisted that a few flies would hurt nobody.
> If they would hurt nobody, why did he put on mosquito netting at noon that day on the creek that runs into the Frederick House? Until we learned of that incident in his career we were prepared to accept him as an authority on the great north, a hard-fisted old campaigner who had roughed it everywhere. But unless Old Sam Martin can explain away the wearing of a veil on the trail our confidence in him has gone.

CRISP COMMENT

"Daddy," piped the little darling, "is the sea a mile deep?" Daddy, who was also an editor, glanced up irritably from a huge pile of manuscript. "I don't know," he snapped. The little one looked disappointed. A little later she inquired: "Is the moon really made of cheese, daddy?" Again came the response, "I don't know." Another look of disappointment, another silence, and another question: "Do cannibals use postage stamps?" No less savage than the cannibals themselves was the distracted manuscript reader as he roared for the third time: "I don't know." "Well, I say, daddy," exclaimed the youthful inquirer, very seriously, "who made you editor "—Exchange.

Greater Albert Endorsed By C.of C.

Large Sum Subscribed and Prospects Excellent for Early Start on New Building.

"That we, the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, hail with delight the statements of the Albert College Board that they intend to begin operations on the new Albert College in the spring of 1921 and continue the work until finished to the extent that they are justified by the subscriptions and money on hand for this purpose. We congratulate them on having $325,000 subscribed. We assure the Board of Albert College that we not only sympathize with this great work, but, believing it to be in the interests of the City of Belleville and the community, will support it in every way possible."

The above resolution, moved by Mr. D. V. Sinclair and seconded by Mr. O. H. Scott, signifies the hearty cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce in the work of promoting the new Albert College that is shortly to arise upon the shore of the Bay of Quinte immediately to the west of our city.

Rev. Dr. T. N. Baker appeared at the regular weekly meeting of the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon and presented a glowing report of his success in furthering the idea of a greater Albert College. As the months have gone by the plans have extended. The original proposal was for a college to cost a quarter of a million dollars. The quarter of a million grew to half a million. But now promoters are talking of nothing less than a million. Dr. Baker started out under very discouraging auspices, prior to the war, to secure his first subscriptions. They came slowly. But now he informed the Directors he had no less than $450,000 actually in sight or promised. He has the utmost faith that the million dollars will come.

He enlarged upon the importance of this college as a cold business proposition to our city. The students from the expected enrollment would leave in Belleville about one-quarter of a million dollars per annum. Albert College and the Ontario Business College were the best advertising features we had in Belleville. Their name and fame were known wherever the English tongue was spoken.

Mr. R. J. Graham, who was present and who is a generous subscriber towards the new "Albert", gave hearty endorsement to Dr. Baker's statements. He thought the Chamber of Commerce should get behind the movement for securing here a high-class college, as it would mean so much for our city. Albert College would bring to Belleville a fine type of people. Years ago he had thought only of a bigger Belleville; now he was thinking more of a better Belleville. We didn't want too large a proportion of the foreign element to come here to reside. Places where the foreigners predominate have had great trouble with the maintenance of law and order and the preservation of Anglo-Saxon ideals of government.

After a brief discussion among the Directors the resolution recorded above was unanimously adopted.

OTHER VIEWS

A RIDICULOUS CLAIM

London Free Press

In an effort to meet the criticism that the City of Toronto is the greatest benefactor from Toronto University and yet contributes nothing to its coffers, a statement was recently sent out over the Canadian Press wires to the effect that the city exempted the university grounds and buildings from taxation. Credit was taken for this as amounting to the same as a grant and as offsetting the City of London's annual contribution of $55,000.

The City of Toronto, with its usual modesty, is claiming credit where none is due. The facts are that the University of Toronto is located on Crown lands and the city cannot do otherwise than exempt the property from taxation. Toronto has no alternative. London grants exemption to Western University, as well as votes an appropriation, but here the buildings are on taxable property. On a population basis Toronto would have to vote $700,000 per annum to equal London's grant.

It cannot be denied that the City of Toronto derives the greatest benefit from the presence of the university in its midst. This is proven by the abnormally large percentage of students attending the institution whose homes are in the Queen City. The whole of the Province is taxed for its maintainence; the city pays not a solitary cent to the university's treasury, nor have the citizens shown the generosity of Montreal's wealthy men toward McGill.

A NIGHT WITH KNIGHTS

Lindsay Warder—A delightful social evening unique as well as decidedly interesting and entertaining, was spent in the newly opened and attractive rooms of the Lindsay Knights of Columbus last week when the guests of the evening included members of the County Council, Lindsay Town Council, Ops Township Council and others. As a pure and simple evening of uninterrupted enjoyment it would be hard to surpass that furnished by the Lindsay Knights. Everybody enjoyed themselves every minute. An entertainer from Toronto, Jules Brazil had charge of the song and joke fest, and was assisted by Mr. Harold Barrett of Belleville and Messrs. Hi. Meehan and Norman Bissette, of Lindsay. Following the song and joke fest, lunch was served, after which all repaired to the recreation room to enjoy billiards, pool and cards.

JAILED FOR NON-SUPPORT

A non-support case was aired by Magistrate Page at the Brockville police court resulting in the defendand being committed to the counties jail for a period of 10 days in default of $14, which at the rate of $7 per week the magistrate previously had ordered him to pay his wife, an order which the defendant refused to obey.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

At Bancroft on Wednesday, Police Magistrate Jarman conducted a juvenile court. A boy of tenred years was charged with entering the post office at Fort Stewart, North Hastings and stealing some stamps and money. Owing to the culprit's age a suspended sentence of one year was imposed. Mr. Carnew representd the Crown in the case and special County Constable Ward was the informant.

CIVIC RECOMMENDATIONS

At a meeting of the various civic committees held last evening a number of accounts were passed and the following recommendations made.

The Light Committee recommended that the Hydro Electric Commission be requested to place a light at the west end of Lewis street and at the corner of Wallbridge and Harriet streets. The Water Committee made a recommendation that all necessary repairs be made to the covering over of the well at the pumping station. The street foreman will henceforth receive all orders of every description regarding expenditures in public works from the chairman of the Public Works Committee.

SPECIAL ARMY SERVICES

At the Salvation Army Citadel here special revival services are being held and Adjutant Cavender in charge reports that much good is resulting. The meetings nightly grow in attendance and interest.

CHARGE DISMISSED.

Before Magistrate Masson this morning, the case of Mr. Levi J. Buckley, of this city, charged with an infraction of the Ontario Temperance Act, was tried, with the result that the accused was acquitted. It was alleged that Mr. Buckley kept liquor in a place other than his residence, but this was disproven. Mr. Carnew represented the Inspector in the case, and E. G. Porter, K.C., was present in the interests of Mr. Buckley.

POST OFFICE BURGLARIZED.

On Wednesday evening while Mr. Henry Blakely, postmaster at Thomasburg, and his family were absent at a concert, sneak thieves entered the store, in which the post office is located, and stole $130. The money was made up ready to send to the bank next day, and the thief or thieves must have been familiar with the premises. So far Mr. Blakely has no clue as to who the guilty parties are.

TO BEAUTIFY COMPLEXION

All You Need is Stuart's Calcium Wafers to Clear the Skin of Pimples, Rash, Blackheads and Such Local Skin Eruptions

The calcium sulfide in Stuart's Calcium Wafers is nature's contribution to skin health. It is the substance that seeks the skin, assists it in its activity to prevent stagnant pores, to stimulate circulation and divert impurities from finding lodgment in the skin texture. It sweeps its way through the bowels, removing wastes that otherwise may be absorbed into the circulation and thus try to escape through the skin. Use these wafers regularly for a few days and notice how the skin clears, how pimples, blackheads and such kinds of skin eruptions are removed. They simply cannot remain. Their redness and itching disappear. Proper food and Stuart's Calcium Wafers will surely take the place of all your creams and lotions and you won't need your powder puff. Get a 60-cent box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers today at any drug store and join the ever-growing throng of American complexion beauties.

Better High School Facilities Needed

Inspector Terminates Visit at High School — Points Out the Need of a New Collegiate.

Thursday afternoon Mr. Levan, the Inspector of High Schools for this district, concluded his brief examination of Belleville High School. When he was leaving he addressed the student body assembled in the auditorium. In his remarks he pointed out the need of a new and better High School building for Belleville and said he was disappointed in finding the pupils working under such unfavorable conditions.

Belleville has many educational advantages over other cities, some much larger than itself, but it lacks a good up to date High School, he said. He also emphasized the fact that, having such splendid teachers in our midst the pupils should take every advantage and make the best of their opportunities along educational lines. He then wished all success during the ensuing year and hoped that the next time he comes to Belleville he will see the students safely installed in a new Collegiate.

Before leaving he had an interview with some of the members of the Board of Education and pointed out to them the inadequacy of heating facilities, ventilation and class-room space in our present school. He also said that the influx of pupils during the coming school year would be very great as day and night classes were now in full swing and better accommodation should and must be provided.

Vigorous Development For Hastings County

toast and did so in his usual affable and able manner. He appreciated the honor which had been conferred upon him and fellow visitors, in being guests at this, the first annual banquet of Hastings County Branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining. Hastings County was the cradle of the mining industry of the Province of Ontario. The first gold mine worked in Ontario was in Hastings County also the first iron mine. Talc was also produced here. In speaking of the attitude of the Government upon the mining industry, the whole of this country was to-day in a rather peculiar state, said Mr. Porter.

We have just emerged from a great war, and Canada is in as good if not a better condition than many countries. She has to assume obligations which on the surface looks staggering to a population of eight millions of people. But she will aquit herself with credit and meet all responsibilities as she did in the war. Canadian manhood, he had the utmost confidence, would place Canada in the rank she is entitled to. Mr. Porter referred to the great assets of Canada in territory, but there is no room here for the Bolshevist, or the anarchists who would tear down its constitution. What possibilities this country has, she has great forests and mineral assets. It would be a good policy for the Parliament of the country to develop these assets to their fullest extent. This would mean employment for the artisan and the mechanic. He could not tell them how best the Government can assist the mining industry, but it might provide the necessary data that would mean the investment of capital. Private capital is somewhat skeptical, and the cure for that is to bring the Government a remedy in a concrete form. It is no use to go to the Government in a general way and ask for a bonus, but it should be backed up by the mining interests of the country. He wished the Belleville branch every success.

Mayor Hanna replied to the toast and on behalf of the city extended a hearty welcome to the members of the Hastings branch of the Canadian Mining Institute. He was interested in the development of mining in Hastings County and hoped it would prove prosperous.

Selection from the Quintette.

Mr. J. O. Herity, Industrial Commissioner for the city, spoke appropriately to the toast and expressed his pleasure at being present. As a representative of the Chamber of Commerce, he would be pleased to tender any assistance to the Hastings branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining.

A violin solo by Mr. S. B. Wright of Deloro was executed in a masterly manner.

A quartette composed of Messrs. E. Mouck, H. Moorman, M. Lavoie and W. Reed rendered selections to the delight of all present.

The pleasing function closed with the National Anthem and Auld Lang Syne.

Premier Meighen On Issues of Day

Expounds and Emphasizes Government's Policy at Banquet in Montreal

Montreal, Feb. 5.—The Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada, speaking as the guest of honor at the citizen's banquet held at the Windsor Hotel here, made it clear that he was not there to make any new pronouncements but that he would attempt to expound and emphasize the broad lines of policy the Government was following and in this connection referred to Canada's national position, pointing out that "the elevation of our status as a British nation has through all the years been a matter of growth rather than a change and so it will always be."

Speaking of racial misunderstanding the Premier said that he had not in all the years of his public life been a party to a statute that in a single line was unfair to English or to the French and he added that he was anxious for a fair distribution of the duties of Government which he stated did not exist to-day. He said that a fair distribution of public offices of every kind was a principle that both great races of Canada should recognize as essential.

Finance and Taxation

As to the policy of the Government in regard to finance and taxation, "I say look to your tax bills and wait for the budget speech," and he pointed out that the country was facing a two billion war debt which entailed alone 240,000,000 dollars of interest while its commitments in railways—"inescapably unremunerative for some years to come"— and other obligations made up a total of revenue required in the neighborhood of $400,000,000 yearly.

"The gospel I preach on this subject is the gospel of pay as you go. A program of expenditure and borrowing is usually more popular but we are just at the time when such a policy would be foolishness.

"To get money to pay as we go new taxes have been imposed and the principles we have followed are these: We have taken the broadest possible basis of taxation aiming first to have all, or nearly all, contribute a little."

Ability to pay would, he said, be mainly the principle of all taxation within the limit that success should not be penalized nor capital burdened.

Answers Fielding

Turning to the speech of Hon. W. S. Fielding on behalf of the Liberal candidate in the West Peterboro by-election, he said that the report of that speech in which Mr. Fielding did not suggest the lowering of a single duty in respect of goods manufactured in Peterboro was in direct contradiction of the Liberal tariff platform as enunciated at the Liberal convention in Ottawa eighteen months ago. He quoted from that platform showing that the Liberal party had pledged itself to a downward revision of the tariff on many goods which plants in Peterboro was manufacturing, and denounced Mr. Fielding's speech as "a proclamation of infidelity."

Deals With Tariff Policy

Dealing with the tariff issue, Mr. Meighen said in part;

"In one sense it is not necessary that I say anything to-night on the tariff policy of the Government. There is nobody in this country unless he is troubled with sleeping sickness, who is trying to find out what the policy of the Government is. Everybody knows what principle of tariff policy we believe in; they know it from our practice; they know it from our words they know also just as clearly the degree to which we think that principle should be applied. Our tariff for forty two years has been constructed on the protective principle and to that principle we are unwaveringly convinced this country must continue to adhere. We maintain to-day a protective tariff by no means high, the lowest indeed in all those forty years. Under present circumstances the same level as well as the same general principle should continue to apply. The schedules of our tariff need revision; they need revision to meet the altered conditions and currents of trade that thirteen years have brought about That revision is due and that revision by the most careful investigation we have prepared ourselves to make."

WAR ON MOSQUITOES

The extermination of the mosquito pest indirectly through the use of an airplane is being planned by the provincial government. An aerial survey of the Fraser river delta as the first step in a scheme to curb the annual appearance of swarms of mosquitoes has been ordered.

WHO WON THE WAR?

A newspaper is not altogether a charitable enterprise, although some people seem to think so.

The Intelligencer has been asked to make certain statements in regard to the bread war which the authors are not willing to have appear over their signatures or be named in connection therewith.

Let us remind our friends that a certain amount of revenue is necessary to any well regulated newspaper as well as a bakery, and that our advertising columns are open and form a connecting link between the counter and the kitchen which has no superior.

Advertising won the war for the Allies, it is said, and advertising can win the war for the bakers.

Take the public into your confidence, it will do you good, and they will appreciate it.

Suing Province for Forest Fire Losses

Says Railwaymen Blocked Warning of Dangerous Fires in Northern Ontario

Matheson, Ont., Feb 4.—Allegations that one employee on the Timiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway Commission disregarded warnings that fires burning on the railway right-of-way were menacing the town of Matheson and that another official refused to send a telegram to Commissioner George Lee advising him of the same danger, were made by R. A. Douglas, giving evidence before the Matheson Fire Arbitration Board here.

The proceedings arose out of the destruction of this town by fire on July 29, 1916, the day this section of the Province was swept by bush fires with heavy loss of life. Sixty-one separate claimants, all represented by Arthur G Slaght, are suing the T. & N.O. for damages that may approximate $150,000. Judge Denton is Chairman of the Arbitration Board and the other members are J. M. Ferguson, Toronto, and William Milne, North Bay.

The witnesses who gave evidence to-day agreed that the T. & N.O. employees were burning stumps for some weeks ahead of the destruction of the town. Mr. Douglas declared he had spoken to the section foreman about the danger to Matheson and the latter took no action, while he claimed the former station agent, a Mr. Bates, blocked his efforts to notify Commissioner Lee by wire because witness would not pay for the message, holding that as it was on railway business he should not be charged.

Norman Childs said there was one continuous ground-fire smoking for 350 feet on the station grounds for three weeks before July 29 and he declared he knew it was this fire which burned the town. This witness said at first he saw no sign of other fires but later admitted to R. H. Parmenter, counsel for the T. & N.O., he saw smoke at a distance which might be 20 miles away. He said he had seen chunks of burning muskeg fly across a street from the station fire to some vacant lots.

Promised to Marry Must Pay Price

Miss T. M. Rowe Is Awarder $600 by a Jury Tuesday

Toronto, Feb. 5.—A jury in the Assizes found for the plaintiff in the action brought by Estella M. Rowe, of Prescott, against Alexander J. Johnston, of Schreibner, for damages for breach of promise of marriage. Damages were assessed at $600. Mr. Justice Kelly entered judgment accordingly.

Defendant in his evidence, stated that the pact was broken by plaintiff in March, 1919, four years after the alleged promise was made.

In his summing up, Mr. Justice Kelly referred to the affectionate nature of letters subsequently written by defendant, and asked: "Are those letters from a man who had been discharged from his promise to marry?"

Defendant was married to another lady.

Trainman's Bravery At Coteau Junction Given Recognition

Brockville, Feb. 5.—For bravery in saving life at Coteau Junction, Que., on May 3rd last, Hugh Gallinger, 63 Perth street, a Grand Trunk railway trainman, was last night in the Board Room of the Point St. Charles shops, Montreal, presented with the bronze medal of the Royal Canadian Humane Society by H. R. Fish, general superintendent of eastern lines, Grand Trunk Railway. Ald. Robert H. Serviss, 207 Church street Grand Trunk conductor, who assisted in the incident for which Mr. Gallinger received recognition, was present, as were also Mrs. Gallinger and Mrs. Serviss.

The award of the Royal Canadian Humane Society medal was made to Mr. Gallinger for signal bravery in rescuing a child named Marie Laflamme from burning to death at Coteau Junction on the date mentioned. He was head end brakeman on a freight train proceeding from St. Alban's Vt. to Brockville, and when passing Coteau Junction observed flames issuing from a small building. Determining to investigate, he asked the engineer to assign the fireman to his duties, and on reaching the spot found that a two-story cottage near the right-of-way was burning briskly. Gallinger was told by onlookers that child was trapped in the building and, without hesitation and at the risk of his own life, entered it and succeeded in bringing the infant to safety from the upper story and restoring her to her mother. Had Mr. Gallinger not gone to the rescue the child would most certainly have met death, as the roof of the cottage collapsed immeditely after the rescue of the infant.

Conductor Serviss was one of the first to follow Gallinger and rendered him assistance.

Leading Officials Present

The presentation at Point St Charles was attended by several leading officials of the Grand Trunk. W. D. Robb, vice-president was originally slated to make the presentation, but was unavoidably absent. General Superintendent Fish took his place. P. C. Garden, general superintendent of motive power and car departments, presided, expressing his admiration of the conduct of Brakeman Gallinger and offering his congratulations. Others who were present included L. Harold general superintendent of transportation, and Mrs. Harold; J. J. Connolly, superintendent of the Montreal division, and Mrs. Connolly; George Cooper, trainmaster fifth district, and Mrs. Cooper, Brockville; Mrs. R. H. Fish, Miss Fish and their guest, Miss Keitha Donaldson, Brockville; Mrs. J. C. Garden, Lt.-Col. J. A. Hutcheson, chief medical officer; Dr. H. B. Carmichael, assistant chief medical officer; A. D. McCarthy, assistant superintendent of the Montreal division; G. M. Wilson, superintendent of motive power; F. A. Bourne, secretary of the superannuation, pension and provident society; and H. M. Call, organizer of first aid work.

The infant for the saving of whose life the medal was awarded was also present on the platform.

Brakeman Gallinger is one of the most popular employees of the Grand Trunk at this terminal and is in service between Brockville and S. Alban's Vt. There is widespread appreciation in railway circles at the suitable recognition of his act of bravery.

TILBURY FARMERS BEATEN BY GANG SEEKING LIQUOR

Chatham, Feb. 4.—The county police are investigating the alleged hold-up of two prominent farmers of Tilbury East township on Monday night, during which they were severely cut and bruised. It appears that a gang of ruffians on a hunt for liquor visited the home of one of the farmers. He was called to the door and the gang demanded liquor. The man stated that he didn't have any, whereupon he was dragged out into the yard, the muzzle of a revolver was placed at his mouth and threats were made to kill him if he did not tell where the liquor was. After beating him considerably the gang carried him to the home of a neighbor, where a similar demand was made for liquor. The neighbor also refused to accede to the request, and he was given the same treatment as the first. Finally the gang decided there was no liquor for them and made their escape. The victims say they can identify some of the assailants.

Toronto Policeman Shot by Crooks

Police Constable Left Wounded in a Lane Behind Drug Store

Toronto, Feb. 5.—In a gun battle with two burglars in a lane in the rear of A. W. Neal's branch drug store, 66 Vaughan road, at 3:35 this morning, Constable Thomas Forbes, of Markham street police station, was shot twice in the left leg. The robbers escaped, leaving their victim in the lane.

Forbes was inspecting the back lane and came on the two burglars as they stood at the back door of Neal's store. Just as he entered the lane from the west the two gunmen drew their revolvers and opened fire. Although wounded Forbes started shooting at the two men, who dashed away. The constable fired five shots, emptying his gun at the fleeing robbers, but it is not known whether he hit either of the men.

Wounded in the leg and his shin bone splintered, Forbes could hardly stand up and was unable to follow the robbers.

Forbes' cries of "Help! help" brought several neighbors to his side who heard the shooting.

Another Break in High Cost O' Flivving

Gasoline Prices Cut by Two to Five Cents—Welcome News to Motorists.

Montreal, Feb. 5.—A further drop in the price of gasoline was reported this morning by the British American Oil Company, whose price has dropped from 49 to 44 cents and from 46½ to 41½ cents per gallon, according to quality.

Toronto, Feb. 5.—In Toronto, the British American Oil Company is cutting the wholesale price of gasoline from 42 cents to 40 cents a gallon on the grade commonly sold by most garages. On "Peerless" gas, which is handled by only five or six garages in the city, the price has been reduced from 45 cents to 43 cents a gallon wholesale.

These changes are effective today and mean that ordinary grades of gas, which retailed yesterday for 45 cents, will now sell for 44 cents, while the Peerless, instead of retailing for 48 cents, will probably come down to 47 cents.

The Imperial Oil Company and other Ontario concerns also are making a cut of two cents on the wholesale price of ordinary grades of gasoline.

On the assumption that the 30,000 automobiles and motor trucks in the city of Toronto use an average of five gallons of gas a week, this cut of one cent a gallon will mean a saving to the Toronto consumers of $1,500 a week or $78,000 a year.

Foreigners Held up by Immigration Inspectors

A C.N.R. track foreman from Cochrane, Ont., a passenger on the Victorian, which reached St. John, N.B., last week, is still in the city as the result of the detention there by the immigration authorities of 19 fellow Scandinavians, whom he induced to come to Canada to go to work as railway track builders and repair men. The foremen left Cochrane early in the winter on a trip to Europe, and as there had been some difficulty in getting and holding unskilled railway labor in his section he offered to bring back with him to Canada a party of reliable Scandinavians. His superior told him to bring along the men, who arrived in due time at Sand Point. Here the immigration officials held the men up on the ground that the unemployed problem in Canada had reached serious proportions and that Canadian men should be given the first chance at work offered. The matter has been referred to Ottawa, and meanwhile the men are held in St. John.

Aged French Author Entertains Peasants

Anatole France, the aged French author and critic who has just announced his adherence to the Communist Party of France, lives in a large villa, about 25 minutes walk from the nearest tramway terminus running out of Tours, France and is known to the peasants for miles around for his democratic manner and his weekly receptions to which every one rich or poor, bourgeois or worker, peasant or city dweller is received on the same footing.

Sunday is the day of rest for the peasants and time hangs heavily on the hands of the hardy tillers of the soil. The father often proposes the moving picture house but the hard-working, centime-saving mother balks at spending 10 to 12 francs for tickets to the cinema and tries to compromise by suggesting the Zoological gardens.

The urchins, however, with visions of fruit cakes and candies and chocolates dispensed at the France Villa often settle the argument: "Let's go to Anatole's, they beg, and to Anatole they go.

The master, sitting in the large reception room, greets them all with cordiality and the children make themselves at home.

The servants and the gardener generally spent the whole day Monday, in repairing the damage and clearing the wreckage left behind by Anatole France's Sunday visitors.

Anatole France has long been a leading critic, is author of the opera "Thais" and of numerous works of fancy, fiction and satire. He is 76 years old, a member of the French Academy, and his real name is Jacques Thibault.

He served in the world war as a private, having prevailed upon the Premier to permit him to enlist. In October last he married Mlle. Emma La Prevotte.

For many years he has been a member of the French Socialist party. He announced his adherence to the French Communists after the French Socialists in their convention at Tours, in January, voted to join the Third Internationale.

Germany Must Pay War Bill in Full

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Birmingham, Feb. 5—Premier Lloyd George in a speech here to-day dealing with the recent meeting in Paris, of the Supreme Allied Council said that before the last election he laid down that Germany was morally bound to pay for all wanton damage she had inflicted, but that one could only get from a debtor what he was capable of paying. He asserted in this connection that Germany must not be allowed to pay in a way that would injure the country receiving the payment, by cheap goods for example. The Allies had reached certain conclusions last week, he said, and had presented the bill which was framed on the basis of German prosperity. If Germany was not prosperous she could not pay and if she were prosperous she could and must pay.

Judge to go to Jail Won't 'Peach' on Boy

Ben Lindsay Would Rather Rot Than Betray Child's Confidence

Judge Ben Lindsay, noted juvenile court judge, is under sentence of a year in jail for contempt of court because he refused to betray the confidence of a boy. He has refused to pay the alternative $500 fine, or let his boy friends pay it for him. Following is his own presentation of the case:

By Judge Ben. B. Lindsay

Denver, Feb. 4.—I would far rather go to jail and rot in the cell, than to betray the confidence of child.

The law in the case in which I have been adjudged in contempt of court, and sentenced to pay a fine of $500 or spend a year in jail, gives but two alternatives: to betray such a confidence or pay the penalty.

I have made my choice, and will go to jail. And if the same situation should ever arise again I would not hesitate to make the same choice.

In the midst of our work in the juvenile court here there came a mysterious murder. A woman was said to have killed her husband. Her small son surprised the authorities by suddenly appearing and declaring that he, not his mother, committed the crime.

Got the Truth

They said the boy was a liar. They brought him to me, as an expert in truth and falsehood. I got the truth out of that boy by lifting the spell of fear—promising I would not betray his confidence. But a well-meaning prosecuting attorney, in his zeal to prosecute the mother, called me as a witness to impeach the testimony of the boy, which had acquitted the mother.

I refused to betray the boy's confidences. I could only claim the privilege I had contended for: that this confidence should be respected by the courts in the interest of truth and justice.

The lower court disagreed with me. I was found guilty of contempt. On appeal to the supreme court of Colorado, four out of seven judges held that technically I should have betrayed the child. Three, in dissenting, held as I contended.

Appeal is Denied

The supreme court of the United States, I understand, has held, upon some technicality, that it could not review the decision. And so I have failed in my efforts to have a decision by an unbiased and unprejudiced court upon the merits of this great principle.

I can say this much now. Only two people in the world know who killed that man—the boy and myself. The mother accused of the murder does not know. Make out of this what you will.

Successful work in juvenile courts depends not so much upon statutes and law books as on the understanding of the psychology of child life. I can say in more than twenty years as a juvenile judge I have had very few, if any, children lie to me.

Children Not Liars

During my work in the war in courts in foreign countries, a common expression was: "These children are such extraordinary liars."

They were not liars. The courts were simply stupid institutions that promoted lies and perjury. They did not know how to lift the spell of fear that was the cause of the lies.

So, on behalf of the children of this country, I want to say that the charge that children are naturally liars is false and foul. It is the courts and society, with all their stupidities, that are responsible for most lies. It is the spell of fear.

Well Satisfied With Baby's Own Tablets

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she will use nothing else. Her use of them leads her to believe there is no other medicine to equal them for any of the many minor ailments of childhood. Concerning them Mrs Eugene Boisvert, East Aldfield, Que., writes: "My baby was terribly constipated, but after the use of Baby's Own Tablets he is entirely well again. I am so well satisfied with the Tablets that I lose no opportunity in recommending them to other mothers." MARQUIS WHEAT.

Millions of Bushels Descended From a Few Grains.

The story of Marquis wheat is as interesting as the plot of a novel, for the hundreds of millions of bushels that are now grown annually on the continent of North America are descended from a few isolated grains.

"In 1841," says a writer in Munsey's Magazine, "a Scotsman who had been working for David Fife, near Peterborough, Ont., returned to his native country under promise to send to his employer a Scottish bonnet, or Glengarry. As soon as he arrived in Glasgow he bought the bonnet, and while taking a stroll along the Broomielaw came upon a boat unloading a cargo of fine wheat. He filled the bonnet with a sample of the wheat, and sent it to his friend Fife in Canada.

"Fife sowed the seed in the spring of 1842, but cattle broke into his garden, and only three heads came to maturity. Being interested in his friend's gift, Fife saved the wheat, and in 1843 had a pint of seed, which multiplied as the years went by; and by 1870 Red Fife, as this new wheat was called after its color and its owner, became a favorite in Ontario. It was also known as Scotch Fife and as Glasgow wheat — though it was not grown in Scotland, and the experts, when they examined it, pronounced it a Galician variety. Investigation proved that the vessel in the Glasgow docks in 1841 had come with a cargo of wheat from Danzig, the chief outlet for Galician grain.

"Red Fife was the staple Canadian wheat in the seventies, but it was slow to ripen, and the early frosts blackened many a first-class field of it. In 1888 a botanist named Saunders crossed it with more than fifty other varieties, but failed to solve the problem. The flour thus produced was too yellow for the market. In 1903, however, his son, Dr. Charles E. Saunders, chanced to hit on an ear of Red Fife that his father had crossed with Hard Calcutta, and in the following year succeeded in growing twelve plants. The yield was less than a pound of seed, but it ripened early, and the grains were plump. He named is Marquis, after the Governor-General of Canada at that time—the Marquis of Lorne.

"In 1907 all the seed that could be spared—twenty-three pounds — was sent to the experimental station at Indian Head, Saskatchewan. It lived up to expectations, and two years later four hundred samples were distributed to Canadian farmers. Their reports were enthusiastic. The early wheat, so long sought, had been found. Since then its fame has spread widely, and Marquis wheat is now grown not only in Canada, but in Minnesota and the Dakotas, where rust has hitherto played havoc, and where early harvest prevent losses through frost."

A Japanese Letter.

A letter received by the Labor Department from far Japan is amusing because of the oddity of its phrasing and composition. It is from an officer of the Sumitomo Besshi Copper Mine, Tonaru, Suminomura, Nii-Gun, Yehime-Ken, Japan, and reads as follows:

"Messrs. the Government of Canada, Ottawa, Canada.

Dear Gentlemen: I have a interest to study the labor problem in the industrial world and I wish to know how you have resolved the your problems with the satisfactory result. So I hope you will write to me what books are good for that purpose in the country of Canada, and also please send me the catalogue with the price list, of the publications of the labor problems as your Government works, then I shall be very happy."

A Late Appreciation.

Although it is now over four years since Sir John French honored him by special mention in official despatches from the front, Lieut.-Col. John Pringle, of Sydney, N.S., has just been officially notified of the fact of honorary mention in a letter received on Jan. 13 from Winston Spencer Churchill, War Secretary, which reads:

"Canadian forces: Rev. J. Pringle, chaplain, was mentioned in a despatch from Field Marshal Sir John D. P. French, G. C. B., O. M., G.C.V.O., K.C.M.G., dated Nov. 30, 1915, for gallant and distinguished services on the field. I have it in command from the King to record his Majesty's high appreciation of the services rendered."

Congratulatory.

It was the day after the marriage that a friend of the family called, and took the father of the bride aside, saying confidentially. "Of course, I congratulate you, but you know that your son-in-law is a terribly bad case, and is overwhelmed with debts?" "No. You don't mean it?" "Yes. I am certain of it. Why, he has only taken your daughter to pay his creditors with her dowry." "And you didn't warn me before?" "Impossible, my dear sir, to do so until now—you see, he owed me a hundred dollars, and has just been to my office and paid it."

What He Had Read.

An Irishman recently went before a recruiting sergeant who tried to "kid" him. "Have you read the British North American Act?" the sergeant asked. "I hov not," said Pat. "Have you read the Magna Charta?" "I hov not, sir." The sergeant looked sternly at the applicant, and asked: "What have you read?" Patrick hesitated but the fraction of a second before replying, "I hov red hairs on me neck."

Bucolic Philosophy.

"What this country needs is more production."

"What this country needs," replied the old farmer, with a slight trace of irritation, "is less talk about what it needs an' more enthusiasm about delivering the goods.

An important and capable cast interprets the numerous roles in the big Canadian Film, made in Trenton, "The Great Shadow" which will be screened at Griffin's Twice Tonight at 7.30 and 9.10 p.m. It is the kind of play that requires talent to get it over, as every character is a strong one, and forms an important link in the story.

Heading the cast is Tyrone power, an actor of renown. Mr. Power gives a wonderful portrayal of Jim McDonald the shipyard foreman whose dominating personality saves the country from a great strike brought about by agents of the Russian Reds.

Supporting Mr. Power is Dorothy Bernard, an English actress, pretty and a possesser of much talent. Other members of the cast include Donald Hall, well known on the screen; John Rutherford, Louis Sterns, H. Emerson and E. Hornbostell. "A kick in High life" a funny 2 reel Lehrman comedy, a new chapter of "Pirate Gold" will also be screened on the same program.

DRURY LANE MELODRAMA

The famous Drury Melodrama, "The Best of Luck" by Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton, presented by an all star cast headed by Jack Holt and Kathryn Adams will be presented at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday "The Best of Luck" was converted to the silver sheet by Screen Classics, Inc. Upon its stage presentation at the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, London, in 1917, the play was described by British critics as containing more realistic effects and more thrills than any melodrama that had ever been produced before in that theatre, which is historic as the home of vivid action plays.

An outline of the plot of "The Best of Luck" gives an idea of the highly exciting nature of the story. The action revolves about a chest of Jewels, once the property of a Spanish Queen, which lies at the bottom of the sea in a wrecked galleon. Leslie MacLeod, a beautiful and daring Scottish girl, is pitted against General Lanzana, a rich and unscrupulous Spaniard, who seeks to possess not only the lost treasure but Leslie herself. Lanzana lures Leslie to his apartments and attempts to overcome her, but she escapes with a chart of the ocean bed where the Spanish wreck, the Santa Ginevra," lies five fathoms deep. With her sweetheart, Lord Glenayr, Leslie goes in quest of the treasure aboard a submarine. They find Lanzana in a diver's suit ahead of them and a thrilling conflict in the deep leads to a surprising climax. Harold Lloyd in his latest 2 reel scream, "Get out and Get Under," Screen snapshots, showing famous screen stars at work and play, Paramount Magazine with its varied topics of interest, and Eileen Percy in "The Third Eye" will also be screened.

With such a splendid bill of screen entertainment arranged for exhibition no doubt the popular playhouse will be favored with large patronage the first three days of next week.

A Clergyman's Wife Wants Women to Know Advantages of Internal Bathing

If women could only see the thousands of letters Dr. Tyrrell has received from grateful women in all parts of the world thanking him for his wonderful invention for Internal Bathing they would soon discard the medicine bottle and look to the real cause of their trouble. 95 per cent. of all human ills are due to accumulated waste in the Colon, or large lower intestine. Warm water, properly used with the J. B. L. Cascade, will relieve the cause of your troubles, and perfect health will follow.

A Winnipeg clergyman writes: "My wife is naturally sensitive having her name appear in public print, yet is anxious that others should know what the J.B.L. Cascade has done for her. It has really given her a new lease of life. For years she had been doctoring for Constipation, which became worse each year, since using the J.B.L. Cascade, first about four years ago, she has not been sick a day, and has become robust and strong again. Should any person wish this letter confirmed, you are at liberty to give my name in private."

The J. B. L. Cascade is shown and explained at J. S. McKeown, Druggist, Belleville. The J. B. L. Cascade is an invention perfected by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, and has done more during the past few years to restore health and lessen disease than all other means combined. Ask for booklet explaining all about Internal Bathing and what it has done for others. It is free, or write to Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College street, Toronto.

In making the above assertion I have no hesitation in saying it is the best remedy I ever came in contact with for heavy colds and bronchitis."—(Signed), Mrs. M. Letters to the Editor

THE HOME PAPER

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Dear Sir:—The Belleville Intelligencer is always a welcome paper as it is like getting a letter from home. We have had a very mild winter here only a couple of inches of snow, therefore no sleighing. We have had only a few cold snaps as yet 28 degrees below zero being the coldest. Young cattle have been able to run out of doors practically all winter and our horses are in excellent shape and have cost practically nothing for their keep. A great many have never been watered. We had an average crop this year but wheat took such a drop that it is below the cost of production as wages and machinery are so high, harness is still an enormous price with beef hides at 3c each.

We had a very wet fall so most every body is looking for a bumper crop in 1921. The weed question is a serious one out here as the raw prairie is full of seed when broken up, so it is a fight from the start.

I notice by your paper that Belleville and Hastings County are flourishing.

The United G. G. of Sask., are increasing very rapidly and one of the biggest conventions ever held in the province starts to-day 1st to 4th of Feb. inclusive.

Jaw on the C.N.R. we expect a branch of the C.P.R. to be started this summer from Dankirk to Amulett which will go through this section.

Yours respectively,

C. J. H. JORDISON.

Grace, Saskatchewan.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME.

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 teaspoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

HERE THERE AND EVERYWHERE

St. Michael's 5—St. Peter's 4

One of the fastest and most exciting junior hockey games of the season was played on Wednesday, Feb. 2 at Trenton; when the St. Michael's Academy team of Belleville met the St. Peter's school team on their home ice. The players were all in the best of condition and the spectators were very enthusiastic. The color scene on the ice was good, the St. Peter's boys wearing green and yellow which made a striking contrast with St. Michael's green and white.

The game started at 5-45 and was full of excitement until the bell rang at 7-15, after a three period game which resulted in a score of 5-4 in favor of St. Michael's. The St. Peter's boys all played well, the junior player, Amore, was surely a star and the goal tender was great, he being right on the spot when the puck came near. The St. Michael's boys played a good game. Bud Oakes headed the tally with a fine shot right into the net and Jim Hurley came next with a nice lone rush. Then the three forward men came up with a nice rush but were checked, then Hurley scored again, then Oakes scored the fourth goal, tieing the score, which remained a tie till one and a half minutes before the bell, when Oakes again scored bringing the honors to Belleville.

Donohue played a fine game but fate was against him. He and Gorman played pretty hockey but their shots were stopped. Scott played a great steady game, and Vanorman guarded the goal with the eye of an eagle. St. Mike's were not alone at Trenton as a large number of their supporters left Belleville on the 2-20 C. P. R. to root the boys to victory. The return game is expected to be played here on Tuesday night, when a full house is expected. The line-up was:

Trenton		Belleville

Burnard and Allore	defence	Donohue and J. Hurley
Kilahear and Bone	wings	Oakes and Gorman

A WIN FOR COBOURG

By the narrow margin of two shots the Cobourg curlers, yesterday afternoon, at the rink here, defeated the Belleville players. Four rinks from each club were competing and the game was in connection with the Central Ontario Curling League matches which are taking place for the possession of a trophy. The game throughout the afternoon was at all times close and exciting. When three rinks had played their eighteen ends the score boards showed that Cobourg was one up. The last end of the fourth rink was being played and it was confidently expected that Belleville would win out, but the Cobourg players secured one shot, making a total of 49 shots for the four rinks against 47 for Belleville. The players and scores by rinks was as follows:

G.W.V.A. 5—BANK BOYS 1

At the Front street rink Friday evening the G.W.V.A. Hockey team defeated the Bankers by a score of 5-1. Owing to the quality of the ice the game was not extra fast, but it is to be hoped that the ice is put in better shape. During the first period there was no scoring. At the beginning of the second period Vandervoort of the Bankers beat Clapper in goal, putting the disc by him, this aroused the Veterans, and Hay of the G.W.V.A. passed the puck by Jamieson of the Bank boys. This was followed by a shot by Spider Rayfield who succeeded in beating the Bankers' goal. The period ended with with the score 2-1 in favor of the G.W.V.A. The last period, the Veterans came on with their heavies and J. Alexander found the net, as the game continued the Veterans showed the Bankers that they had not forgotten how to play hockey. Alexander finding the net again, then came Bill Holway, beating Jamieson again, making the score 5-1.

Line up of G.W.V.A.—Goal, G. Clapper; Defense, Finkle and Holway; Centre, G. Hay; Left Wing, F. Rayfield; Right Wing, J. Alexander; Subs W. Allore and Loche.

Looking for Small Near Kemptville

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—Talking with the Canadian Press over the telephone this morning, P. T. Smith, chief of police at Kemptville, said his men were still working hard to locate the mysterious stranger seen there, who has been taken for the missing theatrical magnate, Ambrose Small, all they have to work on however, is the statement of a woman at whose home the man stayed, that it certainly looks like him from a picture of Small. Other people living in Kemptville are skeptical of the supposed discovery.

SENSATIONAL EVIDENCE EXPECTTD AT TRIAL

Kingston, Feb. 5.—Leo Rogers, the Portsmouth Penitentiary prisoner who assaulted and seriously injured Detective W. Duncan in Warden Ponsford's office, will be tried in the Supreme Court, which opens on Feb. 15. J. L. Whiting, K.C., County Crown Attorney, will the prosecutor. Some sensational evidence is expected to be disclosed at the trial of Rogers, who professes to hold some important information regarding the disappearance of Ambrose Small and also concerning the escape of two prisoners last summer in Warden Ponsford's own automobile. It was during an interview with the detective when the latter was endeavoring to obtain information on these important matters, that Rogers committed the assault.

CHARGES DRURY GOVERNMENT WITH SECRET PATRONAGE

Toronto, Feb. 5.—J. W. Seymour Corley, K.C., at a meeting of Ward 3 Conservative Association executive charged the Drury Government with practicing patronage secretly. In illustration of this, Mr. Corley cited some positions having been made for members-elect who had made way for Cabinet ministers looking for seats.

He said the Government had killed one opposition vote by appointing Nelson Parliament as Speaker of the House, and rumor had it, he said, that J. W. Curry, K.C., Liberal member for Southeast Toronto, was making a bid for the position of senion police magistrate of Toronto, to step into Magistrate Denison's position when it is vacated by Col. Denison.

"If that arrangement goes through," Mr. Corley said, "it means that another opposition vote has been killed, which is but another form of patronage."

WE OWE THE CHILDREN THE BEST EDUCATION POSSIBLE.

It is the part of wisdom for Belleville citizens to inform themselves as to the possibilities for improvement in the Belleville educational system and the meeting called by the Chamber of Commerce for Monday evening should throw considerable light on this important question. It is the duty of the citizens to provide the very best possible facilities for educating the future citizens.

The school children of today are the men and women of tomorrow and the foundation of their success in life and usefulness to the community and nation rests on a good training in the schools provided. That foundation should be the very best possible. Nothing less will fulfill our whole duty to the children, the community and the nation.

MANY USES FOR TALC LARGELY PRODUCED IN HASTINGS.

Among Canada's more useful non-metallic minerals, talc is probably the most adaptable and widely used, entering into the finishing process of some of the most common commodities.

Talc, sometimes designated soapstone, abestine, French chalk, mineral pulp, talclay and verdolite, is found in Cape Breton and Inverness counties in Nova Scotia; Frontenac, Hastings, Leeds, Lennox and Renfrew counties and Kenora district in Ontario; Beauce, Brome and Megantic counties in Quebec, and in the Leech River section of the Victoria mining division of British Columbia. In color it ranges from white to greyish green, while to the touch it has a soft and apparently greasy or slippery feeling. It is a non-conductor of heat and electricity and is resistant to most chemical action.

Its chief uses are as a filler in the finishing of book papers and as a dressing for white cottons, also in the finishing of window blind cloth. Talc is largely used in the manufacture of rubber goods and to overcome the friction between inner tubes and covers of bicycle and automobile tires. Finely powdered white talc is used in the making of enamel and other paints, while the poorer grades are dusted on roofing paper and tar felts before rolling, to prevent sticking.

In the preparation of toilet articles, however, talc is most generally known, being the base for talcum powders, tooth pastes and powders, shoe, glove and other lubricating powders, and as a filler or loader for cheaper grades of toilet soap.

The coarser grades of talc are used for electric switchboards, laboratory table tops, sanitary fittings, stove and furnace linings and acid tanks, and a dressing for fine leathers and as a lubricant.

Talc, owing to the ease with which it can be carved, is often used in the production of statues and ornaments, and can be sawn into slabs for surfacing. The adaptability of talc is constantly finding new uses for it, and an increasing production is evident. In 1919 18,642 tons was mined, of a value of $116,295. The greater portion was exported to the United States and Cuba, but a considerable portion was marketed in Canada.

ONE POLICY FOR ALL CANADA. SAYS PREMIER MEIGHEN.

Mackenzie King and some other political leaders preach a policy of free trade in some parts of the country, modified free trade in others, and in industrial sections try to soothe the protectionists with platitudes which sound good but are all sound and no substance, emanating from unsound convictions. There is no uncertainty about Premier Meighen's utterances, and the policy of his government is the same everywhere in Canada.

Speaking at the banquet tendered him by leading citizens of Montreal, Premier Meighen said:

Where Premier Stands.

"Here is where I stand:

"I want the goods we make in this country to be made here still—and more besides—even though they are the necessaries of life.

'I want the factories that are running in this country to keep on running—even though they are producing foodstuffs.

"I want the factories that are closed for a time under the stress of today to be able to open up as soon as any competitor—even though they are making implements.

"I want the workman and mechanic who is living here now to keep on living here and raising his children here—even though he is making boots and shoes.

"Can anyone tell me why these industries should be singled out and the hand of the state turned against them while others are differently treated.

"I want the unemployed in this country—we haven't nearly as many as other countries, but I would like a whole lot less—I want them to get back to work sooner here than anywhere else. I don't want the door barred against them—even though they are making clothing. I don't want the door barred against them by reckless fiscal legislation.

"I don't want a woollen industry or any other industry to get any greater protection than makes it pay to stay in Canada, but I don't want a line of Canadian industries closed up, in obedience to an arbitrary differential, merely because its chief competition is in England.

Not Merely Agricultural.

"We cannot succeed and we cannot grow as a one-sided field-products country. No nation in the world ever grew that way. The best service we can render to agriculture is to bring the biggest share we can of its market near to its place of production. We are gaining in that way in Canada. If we turn in the other direction agriculture will have harder times. The history of agriculture in the United States should be a lesson to agriculture in Canada.

"I would not like to be in the position of having praised a tariff as a low revenue tariff ten years ago and being compelled now, for want of a better cause, to denounce the same tariff reduced as a high protective tariff.

"I would not like to be in the position of having described a 28 per cent. tariff as reasonable when one hundred millions of revenue was needed, and now being compelled to describe a 23 per cent. tariff as excessive when four hundred millions is needed.

"I would not like to be in the position of having pledged myself by resolution to strip the productions of a long line of industries of every vestige of duty and then having to whisper through the press and on the eve of by-elections that no industry has any cause for alarm."

An Itinerant Policy.

"I would not like to have to keep dressing up an itinerant policy to suit the atmosphere from place to place, or to square the circle with a sterile peroration about a tariff for producers and consumers as if there was anybody else.

"And about the worst thing in the world would be to find myself at last so buffeted by contradictions that I dare not profess any policy at all, but go, as it were, into political bankruptcy with nothing left but the plea that I should be in and the other fellow out. That is what we are witnessing today.

"When an issue is joined—and our enemies have forced this issue—the only thing for each side to do is to declare its faith and by that faith consistently to abide. If either side fails to do that it can expect no confidence because it merits none."

OTHER VIEWS

MR. WINSTON CHURCHILL

Westminster Gazette

The statement that Mr. Winston Churchill is to go to the Colonial Office is made with every apearance of authority to-day. Considering his recent record, especially from the point of view of finance, Mr. Churchill's domination in the tremendous field of expenditure represented by the Middle East fills us with great anxiety. We should have infinitely preferred to hear that he was going to the Exchequer, to control rather than to initiate the spending of money. The Middle East has only recently come under the control of the Colonial Office, being taken from the hands of the Foreign Office. It is not a good augury that Mr. Churchill should be supreme in an area where his Russian policy may be revived—a policy the only result of which was to present many millions' worth of British stores to the Bolseviks.

A NEW CANADIAN AUTHOR

Toronto Star

Arthur Beverley Baxter is a young Toronto man who went overseas to the war and while invalided began to write short stories. Boldly venturing, he sent one of these to Chamber's Journal which accepted it and asked for more. He wrote several which appeared in the magazines, and have since been published in a volume, "The Blower of Bubbles." When the war ended Mr. Baxter wrote a novel which appeared serially in Chamber's, and Lord Beaverbrook engaged him as one of the editors of the London Daily Express, where he is at present.

POETS' CORNER

ROOKS

Like tattered scraps of paper they are fluttering and rising
And the jargon of their clamouring is very loud and shrill;
The ebon rooks of England are swift planing and capsizing
On the current of the silver wind that whistles from the hill.

Hills of jade, and silver wind and rain across the ridges,
Slim alders by the river, like a finely pencilled frieze;
The chuckling mirth of water under little rustic bridges;
And ricks and roofs and chimney smoke within a cloud of trees.

And over all the ebon rooks are tumbling and whirring,
And a phrase is whispered, whispered from the tops of ragged wings,
Till deep within my being I can feel a longing stirring,
For the sea's words and the white birds and heart-remembered things.

Oh! not for me the quiet roof, the firelight in the ingle,
Where men may wander drowsing down the easy ways of earth;
Full brother to the ocean, I have felt my pulses tingle,
For the broad phrase of the sea's ways has spoken of her worth.

Stress of stormy weather and the tang of spindrift flying;
The creak and groan of bulkheads that are straining to the roll—
Oh! daytimes worth the dawning!
Oh! the task well worth the trying!
The hand that rules the ocean has the ruling of my soul!

And so within the streamway, with its low and mellow laughter,
I seem to hear the waters lapping round the massive hulls;
And the vision wanders outward, yet my fancy follows after
Till the ebon rooks of England are a flock of silver gulls.

Good Health and Good Spirits

Depend Upon the Condition of the Blood—Keep it Rich, Red And Pure

When a doctor tells you that you are anaemic, he simply means, in plain English, that your blood is weak and watery. But this condition is one that may easily pass into a hopeless decline if prompt steps are not taken to enrich the blood. Poor blood, weak, watery blood is the cause of headaches and backaches, loss of appetite, poor digestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous, irritability and many other troubles. To poor blood is due the pimples and blotches, the muddy complexion that disfigures so many faces. To have good health, a good complexion and a cheerful manner, the blood must be kept rich, red and pure. This is easily done through the use of a blood enriching tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The whole mission of this medicine is to help enrich the blood which reaches every nerve and every organ in the body, bringing with it health, strength and new activity. That is why people who occasionally use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always feel bright, active and strong.

Mrs. E. E. Cook, Simcoe, Ont., gives strong testimony to the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when the blood is in an anaemic condition, she says: "I have been a sufferer for some years from a run down condition of the system. I suffered from pains in the back twitching of the nerves and muscles, my appetite was poor, I had indigestion and would get drowsy after eating. My hands and feet were almost always cold, and though I was constantly doctoring, the medicine I took did not help me. I had practically given up hope of good health, until a friend from Hamilton came to visit me, and urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It took some persuasion, but finally I consented to try them. I have reason to be grateful that I did, for after using seven boxes I felt like a new person. I have gained in weight have a better color and my work is now a pleasure. For this condition my thanks are due Dr. William's Pink Pills, and I cannot praise them too highly."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

When A Stomach Is Choked

When the nerves that lead from the spine to the stomach are choked at the lead-pencil-size hole between joints of the backbone—then the stomach is being weakened. Then it is not getting a normal supply of nervous energy.

The flow of impulse to the stomach muscles, tissues and glands is hindered and reduced. Digestive energy is lacking. The chiropractor making an adjustment by hand frees that pinched nerve. Health flows back into the stomach as naturally as the air surges back into the lungs when choking pressure on the throat is removed.

The Daredevil

By

Maria Thompson Daviess

Author of "The Melting of Molly"

Copyright, 1916, by the Reilly & Britton Co.

"See, Mary: Here is the pencil and the paper to write the words of life for Timms to that Gouverneur Faulkner," I said as I seated myself beside her and extracted my notebook and pencil from the pocket of my overcoat where I had placed them on leaving my room as is always best, I deemed, for a secretary. "There are just two things that are the duty of women, Mary—to bear men and to save them. Save yours now, Mary. Much will happen, it may be, but that Timms is a good man and must live."

"I dassent. He told me not to, Timms did."

"If a knife was aimed at Timms' heart, would you not throw yourself between him and its cut, Mary, even though commanded by him not to so save him?"

"Yes."

"The knife is aimed and here's the paper by which you can throw your person on that knife. Is it of such moment that it cut into your own heart, that you stand and let it give death to him?"

"I give up! I give up, mister! I can't let nobody murder him. Nobody ever put it that way to me. Give me that paper and let me git to him fer jest one minute tomorrow," she made answer to me as she seized the paper and pencil and began to write with the paper spread beside her upon the step.

"Will that do, mister?" she asked with anxiety. On that paper she had written:

> Hen Timms had locked me in the room and was attacking me when Gabe broke in and got me away from him. He had to bust his head with a flatiron to make him let go of me. I am a good woman.
> MARY BROWN.

"Yes, good Mary, this will shield Timms from that knife, I feel a certainty, and I will send for you and see that you go to an interview with him at 10 o'clock of the tomorrow morning. And now good night, with great respect to you for a brave woman," I said as I rose to my feet.

"Who are you, mister, that have spoke to my heart like they ain't nobody spoke to its suffering yet, though you ain't said many words, and them is curious-like?" she asked of me as I prepared to take a hurried departure.

"I am the secretary of the Gouverneur Faulkner, Mary, and—and I know—how women—love—men. I"—

"I bet a many of 'em have loved you. God bless your sweet eyes. Good night, sir!"

And with those kind words from the poor female, who was beginning again to sob, but with another motive in her weeping, I took my departure down the street—or up—I did not know in just which direction. I had the intention of returning to the house of the party to obtain the cherry, which I had left standing before the door, and in it convey the message to my Gouverneur Faulkner that should bring relief to his anxiety, but I soon found that I had lost myself upon streets that I had never seen before.

What was it that I should do? My heart suffered that my Gouverneur Faulkner should not know the relief of that paper I had in the pocket of my dinner coat, but I could not find myself, and I did not know exactly what questions I should ask. Then I bethought me of that telephone, which in America is so much used, but not in France. I entered into a store for medicines upon the corner of one of the streets in my wandering, looked diligently in a book to find the number of the mansion of the gouverneur, and, after many tellings of my desire, at last my Gouverneur Faulkner made an answer in my ear that was as beautiful in voice as the words he spoke to me in his presence.

"Well?" he asked me.

"This is Robert Carruthers who speaks."

"Oh, all right youngster! How did the party go?"

"That was a very nice party, your excellency, and I have a paper from that Mary Brown concerning the murder of the brother of good Timms for cruelty to Mary. I wish to give it to you."

"What do you mean, boy?"

"I have said it."

"Then bring it here to me at once and tell me how you got it."

"I cannot come to you."

"Then I'll come to you. Where are you?"

"I do not know. I am lost."

"Heavens, boy, what do you mean?"

"I am in a store of medicine that is many streets from that house of good Mary Brown and also from the house of the dinner party."

"You helpless young idiot, call a taxi and come right here to me."

"I am promised to a dance with Mlle. Belle by the hour of 10, of which it lacks now only a quarter. Cannot [illegible] that taxicab, which it is of much intelligence of you to suggest to me, and send by that taxicab to you the paper from Mary Brown while I stay to dance that dance?"

"Well I'll be— No, I can't say it over the telephone."

"What is it, my Gouverneur Faulkner?"

"I'll say it in the morning to you in person. I'll just hold up the wheels of state until that dance is over. Go ahead, youngster. Call the taxi and get back to Belle. I'll send Jenkins to get the paper, and you can—can tell me all about it in the morning. Will 9 o'clock be too early to call you from your rosy dreams?"

"I do not have coffee until 9 o'clock, my Gouverneur Faulkner, and I do not make a very hurried toilet, but I will come to you at the capitol at 9 o'clock if you so command, very gladly."

"Oh, no. We'll all of us just—just cool our heels until you get your coffee and toilet. Don't hurry, I beg of you. Good night, and beat it to Belle, as Buzz would say. Good night, you—you— But I'll say it all in the morning if it takes a half day. Good night again." And with that parting salutation my Gouverneur Faulkner's voice died from the telephone with what I thought had the sound of a very nice laugh.

CHAPTER XI.

"Behold, I Am a Spy."

WHEN I awakened the next morning, because of that dancing, behold, it was 10 of the clock and 11 thereto before I arrived in a very great hurry with much pinkness of cheeks in the office of the Gouverneur Faulkner at the capitol of the state of Harpeth.

"Good morning, Robert," he said to me with a laugh as he came and stood close beside me. That Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, will blush within me when that beloved gouverneur comes very close beside her, in a way that is an embarrassment to Robert Carruthers, his secretary. "And now tell me what you said to that stupid Mary Brown that made her see the light?" he asked me, with his fine eyes looking into mine with a great interest and something of admiration.

"I asked of her if she would not throw herself before that beloved good Timms if a knife was aimed at his heart, and she perceived from that question that she must give to me the paper. A heart that has felt a great tragedy draw near a beloved one can speak without words to another who sees also a beloved in danger. Is it that you slept in ease, my Gouverneur Faulkner, after you had received that paper? It grieved me that you should sit at work while I was at dancing." I answered to him as I drew nearer and laid my hand with timidity upon the sleeve of his coat.

"Heavens, boy! Do they grow many like you in France?" was the answer that the great Gouverneur Faulkner made to me as he looked down into the adoration of my eyes raised to his, with a question that was of deep bewilderment.

"Is it that you slept in ease?"

"France has grown many young and fine men who—who die, my Gouverneur Faulkner for her in the trenches, where I must soon go," I answered him, with my head drawn to its entire height in the likeness of the old marquis of Grez and Flanders.

"When you go into the trenches of France, youngster, the state of Harpeth will have a governor on leave in the same trench," answered me that Gouverneur Faulkner, with a very gentle hand laid on the sleeve of my coat above the bandages of my wound and a glow of the star in his eyes. "Brothers by bloodshed, Marquis of Grez and Bye."

"Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, how will you even gain the refuge of your petticoats and get away from these lies of dishonor if you are to be so pursued by"— I was asking of myself when my uncle, the General Robert, opened the door and said:

"Better see this pardon delegation now, governor. That other matter is going to go to the deuce as fast as it can if we don't scotch it. Robert, get those letters on your desk into United States as quickly as possible. That French deluge is upon us. Come back as soon as you can." With which I was dismissed into my own small anteroom.

A Philanthropic Angler.

A small boy was leaning over a bridge and staring down into the cold, turbid water with large eager eyes. In his hand he gripped a fishing line, and upon this the kindly glance of an old gentleman rested with evident interest. Said he to the boy: "Are you catching fish, my little man?"

"No, guv'nor; givin' 'em rations," was the caustic reply of the youth.

An Indian Art.

An art in sculpture not resembling any other in the world, unless possibly that of ancient Mexico, is found highly developed among the aboriginal natives of the Northwest coast.

Their material is always wood, and is furnished by huge trees from the forest, which are carved into the most fantastic shapes. In this style are sculptured the so-called "totem poles," which, often of great size and height, astonish the observer by the intricacy of their workmanship and the weird imaginativeness of their complex designs.

Early missionaries in that part of the world mistook the totem poles for idols. As a matter of fact, they possess no such significance, being merely heraldic colums. Each tribal clan has its own traditions and myths, which take the place of history, and these are symbolized by the extraordinary birds and other animals, sometimes human faces or figures, carved on the totem poles.

Thus the Bear clan will have its heraldic column topped by the sculptured figure of a bear. The raven shows up conspicuously as the totem, or crest, of the Raven clan; the whale for the Whale clan, and so on.

To you or me a totem pole would have no significance beyond its queerness, but it is in reality a whole story book carved in wood.

Costumed Appropriately.

When Aunt Helen kept company with a young lieutenant in the army she prevailed on her ten-year-old nephew to wear a soldier overcoat. The young lieutenant was succeeded by a boy scout executive, and Bobby received a boy scout uniform, which he had to wear to please his auntie. But the boy scout executive and Aunt Helen have disagreed and Bobby has been much interested in knowing who will be his successor in winning Aunt Helen's attentions. The other day he made a discovery, and came running in the house to tell mother about it. "Oh, mother," he began, "you might as well get me a Prince Albert coat, a white vest and a tie. Aunt Helen is beginning to warm up to the minister."

POISON IVY.

Dangerous Plant Is Common In Country Districts.

The poison of poison ivy is one of the most powerful known in the vegetable world. People have been known to die from too liberal a contact with it. It is present in all parts of the plant, and if taken internally is extremely dangerous. Children are sometimes poisoned by eating the ripe berries.

It is described as a violent irritant poison—an oily substance, the slightest trace of which on the skin will produce severe inflammation. Some persons are more sensitive to it than others, but nobody is immune.

Ivy poisoning may be contracted by touching shoes or clothing that has been in contact with the plant. Dogs or other animals may in like manner convey it. Even fire does not destroy the poison.

Often it happens that people gathering autumn leaves in the woods bring home with them branches of poison-ivy or poison sumac, and stick them around in vases. A whole family may thus become afflicted. The ivy and the sumac, by the way, are closely related, and both have the same poison.

No sooner is the character of the plants discovered—perhaps a day or two later, when symptoms develop—than, very likely, haste is made to throw them into the fire. This may make matters worse than ever, if anybody is exposed to the smoke, because the latter will carry the poison.

The usual symptoms of ivy-poison are itching and burning, with the formation of blisters. It is very distressing when severe. The thing to do, when exposure is suspected, is to wash the skin with a thick lather of laundry soap and hot water. The finger nails especially should receive attention, lest they transfer the poison to other parts of the body. But don't scrub, lest the poison be rubbed in. This is hard advice to follow.

The longest river in Japan is the Tone, its main course being about 200 miles long.

PROFITABLE FARMING

(1) Farmers breaking new ground in western Canada.
(2) Threshing contractors at work in Namaka, Alta.

Just how profitable careful, systematic farming can be made in Western Canada is instanced in the success of a disciple of Seager Wheeler, the wheat wizard of world renown, who has carefully followed in the footsteps of his model until as the result of this year's crop, he finds himself in a position to retire, make a world tour, and settle with his family at Nice, Southern France.

Coming from across the line, William Hopkins commenced farming at Kinhop, an elevator siding in Saskatchewan, on the Goose Lake Line, in 1905, and, in the course of his operations, acquired 1760 acres which he cultivated, summer fallowing 500 acres each summer. It speaks well for the country that in all these years he never experienced a crop failure and in the only poor year recorded, that of 1919, the yield of the farm cleared all expenses.

The Premier Producing Seed.

Three years ago Mr. Hopkins, a zealous student of scientific farming and a stern advocate of selective seed, purchased Red Bobs seed from Seager Wheeler paying $32.50 per bushel for it. A year later he bought a supply of the Kitchener strain from the same source at $10 per bushel. Mr. Wheeler's wheat, it may be stated, is the premier producing seed of the world, having secured for his farm at Rosthern, Sask., several international world's prizes and achieving a world's record yield of 85 bushels per acre.

Results in Mr. Hopkins case certainly justified the expenditure and the fine type of crops produced previously were considerably enhanced by the plump heavy seeds which weighed over 65 pounds to the bushel. This year, the crop consisted of 50 acres of Red Bobs which yielded 45 bushels to the acre and 480 acres of Kitchener which returned 40 bushels from every acre. In contrast, 480 acres seed to Marquis, which owing to circumstances it was found necessary to stubble in, gave a yield of 15 bushels to the acre.

This year, after threshing, having operated his land for fifteen years, Mr. Hopkins sold out to George Leonard, who had managed it for him for a number of years. The price of exchange was [illegible] per acre or a total of $140,800. His fifteen years' work has given him independence as well as a profitable income yearly. Toil for him and his family are over. This fall Mr. Hopkins and his family start out on a tour of Canada and the United States, the Mediterranean and other lands, and then will settle in the beautiful garden of the Riviera.

BRIGHTEN YOUR CHILD'S FUTURE

Make his outlook upon life the brightest and best possible. Don't let him go through life with eyes 75 per cent. efficient if we can make them 100 per cent. efficient. CITY AND COUNTRY

NEW "RESORT"

The Picton Gazette says that a syndicate composed of Toronto, Montreal and Belleville business men have taken an option on the Glenora property owned by Mr. Fred Wilson of Belleville. If the deal goes through the interested parties propose to put Glenora on the map as a summer resort. The beauties of that part of the bay shore are well known. The Lake on the Mountain has fine game fish for the follower of Izaak Walton and will furnish abundant power for lighting and household facilities. An electric lift has been considered as a means of overcoming the long difficult hill leading to the mountain top.

It appears that the above syndicate became interested in Glenora's possibilities on recent summer months spent there. The fine county road leading thereto makes the beautiful spot very accessible to motorists.

BRIGHT BABIES

There are six bright babies at the Children's Shelter awaiting foster homes, little bundles of blessings, Capt. Ruston calls 'em. The babies range from four months to three years in age and anyone who wishes to introduce added sunshine to their home should visit the Shelter and get acquainted with the wee tots.

OFFICIALS TAKE CHILDREN

Capt. Ruston, Inspector for the Children's Aid Society and Mr. Wm. Carnew, legal representative for the society, have returned from a visit to the northern part of the county with four children taken from surroundings not conducive to their well-being in the opinion of the officers of the society. The family in question has been under observation for two years, but, despite frequent warnings, no improvement has been made in the mode of living of the family. The children thus taken to the Shelter from this home range in age from two years to fifteen, two boys and two girls. The so-called home consists of a one room shack with very little furnishing, straw bags being used for bedding and clothing being very skimp. The children are reported to be undernourished and illiterate, the surroundings the reverse of clean, and the case one of the worst investigated by the society officials for some time.

ALLEGED THEFT OF BICYCLES

Stephen Flayler and Edward Vincent, two young men were last evening arrested on a charge of stealing bicycles. This morning Magistrate Masson remanded them to jail for a few days as the case was not ready to be proceeded with.

DROVE CARS TOO FAST.

Two citizens were yesterday afternoon cited before the Magistrate, charged with driving their autos on Front street faster than the law allows. Both were convicted and a fine of $2 and costs imposed. Magistrate Masson intimated that in future any person appearing before him charged with this offence would receive the extreme penalty upon conviction.

SIX MONTHS IN MERCER

Emily McKenna, who was arrested a week ago on a charge of vagrancy, was found guilty. Magistrate Masson sentenced her to six months in the Mercer Reformatory.

NOT HIS LIQUOR.

Magistrate Masson's court was filled with spectators yesterday afternoon when a liquor case was being investigated. Mr. Edley Jasper, of Marmora village, was charged with an infraction of the Ontario Temperance Act. It was alleged that the accused had liquor in a place other than his residence. It appears that some liquor was shipped to Marmora in the name of E. Jasper and it was found in a place other than the accused's residence. Mr. Jasper, in his evidence testified that he had never ordered any liquor and that it was not his beverage, and he was not even aware for whom it was intended. As a result of the investigation Mr. Jasper was honorably acquitted. Mr. Carnew for Inspector, and Mr. E. G. Porter, K.C. for the accused.

OBSTRUCTING PEACE OFFICERS

Before Magistrate Jarman of Bancroft, George Woodcock, of Faraday township was charged with obstructing peace officers in the discharge of their duties. It appears that Mr. T. D Ruston, inspector of the Children's Aid Society, and Capt. John Young were the officers interfered with by Woodcock. He was allowed his liberty on a suspended sentence and his four children were made wards of the Children's Aid Society

STORY HOUR.

"Children's Story Hour" at Corby Public Library, inaugurated last Saturday, was again held this (Saturday) morning with a large number of children in attendance. Miss Tuite held the close interest of the children with the recital of a fairy tale which was instructive as well as entertaining. The Saturday Morning Story Hours at the Library promise to become very popular.

ALLEGED BURGLARY

Before Judge Deroche today H. Holland was charged with entering James Roy's brewery in this city with intent to steal therefrom. It will be remembered that the accused with two other companions was committed for trial for this offence by the Police Magistrate Massop. The case was in progress this afternoon. Mr. Carnew for crown and Mr. C. A. Payne for the accused.

TODAY'S MARKETS.

There was not a large attendance upon the market today and nearly all products offered for sale were disposed of at remunerative prices. Fresh dairy butter brought 58c and 60c a pound fresh eggs 68c and 70c per dozen. A few basket lots were procured at a lower figure. Dressed fowls commanded good prices selling from $2 up to $4 a pair according to size and quality. A few ducks were sold at $1.50 each. Garden products were quite plentiful and considerable quantities were disposed of. Potatoes have taken a drop in price selling at $1.25 per bag as against $1.60 a week ago.

MEAT CHEAPER

Retail price of meat in Belleville has dropped from three to four cents per pound this week.

Called By Death

EMILY VERA MICHAUD.

Mrs. Emily V. Michaud wife of Mr. William Michaud of this city passed away last night. Deceased was in her 26th year and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eves residing on Ridley St. and had lived here all her life. She was a member of the Tabernacle Methodist church. In addition to the husband, three children survive.

Music and Drama

The third star entertainment in connection with the Star Course of the Y.M.C.A. of this city took place last evening at the auditorium of the Association and to music lovers it was a rare enjoyment . If posible, the artists which have been secured for this seasons course are of a more superior calibre than formerly. Five musicians last night filled the bill and the selections rendered were classic. The Zedeler Symphonic quintet presenting the programme is a company of brilliant artists who correctly interpret the music of Masters. The artits are Nicolai Zedeler, playing the cello, Paul Clark and Donald Innis, violins, Miriam Zedeler, pianist and Mabel Day, vocalist and organist. Miss Day rendered four selection and her fine voice of wonderful resonance and quality was heard to great advantage. In the selections given, the audience was not slow in expresing their apporal of the numbers given.

NEW CITIZENS COMING

MANY OF THE IMMIGRANTS ARE NOT DESIRABLE.

Serious Problem Must Be Faced In This Country as a Result of the Suffering and Unrest In Europe—Ten Millions of People Are Said To Be Anxious to Flock Across the Ocean During Present Year.

A GIGANTIC invasion of America is being planned. 'Tis said that fifteen million foreigners are headed this way. Already the vanguard is pouring into the port of New York at the rate of 3,000 a day. By the end of the fiscal year in 1921, one million emigrants will have landed on these shores. Determined to quit the poverty, the unrest and general wretchedness of life in European countries, this vast army has turned its eyes towards the United States, that land of fabled riches and fabulous freedom. Ten millions of these people are to-day waiting, ready to swarm across at the first opportunity. And Canada, which last year admitted a multitude, will surely find a proportion of these mighty hosts knocking for admittance at her eastern portals—Halifax, St. John, Quebec.

Will Canada be able to absorb all those who wish to enter the Dominion? Would it be wise considering the great unemployment problem now confronting her to permit others to enter with thousands of native-born Canadians out of work? Conditions will doubtless improve by spring, nevertheless a tremendous problem confronts the Government.

Unrestricted immigration has built up a mighty population in the States at the expense of good Americanism. To-day the masses of unassimilated foreigners all over that country, the many undesirables are worrying Uncle Sam. The meshes of the net have been drawn tighter at New York. In fact, says the New York Tribune, owing to the unemployment problem, all immigration to the States may be stopped by Congress until conditions in that country have become normal.

Seventeen steamship companies have reported to Frederick Wallis, Commissioner of Immigration for New York, the great port of entry, that hundreds of thousands have purchased tickets, that hosts of others are clamoring for passages. It is understood that Germany alone will send eight million if she can, that three million and a half Italians want to come, and that 600,000 Poles are clamoring for admission. In fact, four weeks ago 311,000 Polish applications for passports had been filled.

Only a few days ago a contingent of Poles arrived in Toronto. A cable from London states that the Canadian emigration authorities there are seriously alarmed at reports of a big intended emigration of Polish Jews to Canada. It seems that passports have been issued in Warsaw in ignorance of latest Canadian requirements. This is to be rectified. The Canadian emigration office in London also points out that special regulations were framed for the express purpose of preventing Polish Jews from the East End of London or the continent entering Canada.

"What are we to do with this tremendous influx?" asks Commissioner Wallis in despair. Many of these people are badly needed on farms, in mines, in cotton fields, but hosts of others will undoubtedly go to the cities and aggravate the present shortage of houses and dear food. Detroit and Buffalo have already asked him to divert emigrants from these congested cities to the farms.

That the literacy test is a farce for determining desirable emigrants Wallis declares. Some of the most dangerous anarchists and Bolshevists in the States can read and write several languages, could pass any literacy test. On the other hand, it sometimes bars many decent peasants who would make excellent farm workers. Wallis wishes that some preferential selective scheme might be established whereby thousands might be admitted to go on farms, but by which the barterers and the lazy, from which classes chiefly come the radicals, might be excluded.

Surveying the Roumanians, Greeks, Jews, Poles, Italians, French, Serbians, Turks, Arabians, etc., over at Ellis Island, the immigration depot off New York, Wallis remarked on a group of fine West Indians and then on a lot of brawny Norwegians ready to go to the lumber woods. "But back of them," said he, "came a group from North Central Europe, narrow chested, bent and miserable in comparison with the Norsemen, and, while they were obviously within the law of admission, they would never make constructive citizens. They were of a class that can never be more than parasites."

Canada could show some parallel cases.

Whatever the condition in the Canadian northwest, a North Dakota railway magnate assured Wallis that next season's wheat crop in North Dakota would be only 60 per cent. of last summer's, owing to farm labor shortage.

More rigid tests should be applied in Europe. Inspectors on the other side must examine each emigrant thoroughly. Swarms of undesirables were slipping into the country. Ships constantly brought stowaways. Dangerous men who would not go to the rural districts, where there was plenty of work, who refused to labor in the mines and factories, were too numerous. All they wanted was entrance to the country to start a campaign of radical education against the very land that was giving them a haven. Better send back a thousand good men than admit one of these wretches.

"'When in doubt deport' should be our slogan," quoth Commissioner Wallis. And the emigration problem of the United States finds a parallel in Canada.

IN MEMORIAM

BARNUM.—In ever loving memory of our dear son and brother, Harry R. Barnum, who was killed in Toronto one year ago to-day, Feb. 6th, 1920.

We, dear Hary, sadly miss you,
As it dawns another year;
In the lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are always near;
The happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memories still;
But now it leaves a vacancy,
The world can never fill.

Sadly missed by Mother, Father and sisters. 5-1td

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

On legal affidavit, John Hart Brittain, business man, certified to this: "My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth.

"Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs." Mr. Brittain certified further:

After hair growth

INDIAN'S SECRET OF HAIR GROWTH

"At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian 'medicine man' who had an elixir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly.

Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade.

I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved."

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

It has been proved in very many cases that hair roots did not die even when the hair fell out through dandruff, fever, alopecia areata or certain other hair or scalp disorders. Miss A. D. Otto reports: "About 8 years ago my hair began to fall out until my scalp in spots was almost entirely bald. I used everything that was recommended but was always disappointed until at last I came across Kotalko. My bald spots are being covered now; the growth is already about three inches." G. W. Mitchell reports: "I had spots completely bald, over which hair is now growing since I used Kotalko." Mrs. Matilda Maxwell reports: "The whole front of my head was as bald as the palm of my hand for about 15 years. Since using Kotalko, hair is growing all over the place that was bald." Many more splendid, convincing reports from satisfied users.

How Crippen Was Caught

IN spite of the fact that he was directly responsible for the solution of the mysteries surrounding the disappearance of the Duchess of Sutherland's jewels—valued at $100,000—the problem of Nicholson, one of the cleverest swindlers who ever deluded the British public, and the famous Druce identity puzzle; the detective fame of Walter Dew, chief inspector at Scotland Yard, rests principally upon the manner in which he handled the Belle Elmore affair, better known as the "Crippen Case."

The Elmore woman had disappeared some time before the matter was brought to the attention of the Yard, and then only because some American friends of the dead woman chanced to be in London and made inquiries about her. On the surface, the whole thing appeared to be perfectly straight. Miss Elmore, an American actress, had come to England, had been married to a Dr. Crippen, had returned hurriedly to the States, and while there had died.

But her friends maintained that there was something wrong.

"Belle was not one to travel around without letting us know where she was," said one of the Americans, who visited the Yard. "She wrote regularly, once or twice a week, up to a couple of months ago. Then all word suddenly ceased. If she did go back home she would certainly have gotten in touch with us, But we're afraid that something has happened to her, either over here or in the boat. That's the reason we came to headquarters."

It required only the most casual of investigations to convince Dew that "Miss Elmore's" friends were correct. Dr. Crippen, whom the chief inspector visited at his London offices, was apparently quite open and frank about the matter. His wife had been homesick, he said, and had returned to America some eight weeks previously. While there she had been taken suddenly ill and had died. That was really all there was to it.

But when Scotland Yard cabled to the city where Mrs. Crippen was supposed to be buried, the reply came back: "No such woman known here. Description does not apply to any death within the past year."

Where, then, was Belle Elmore? Dew felt certain that Crippen knew, but, under the law, it was impossible to secure his conviction unless the body were produced, and the evidence was too slight to warrant the authorities making a search on private property.

The chief inspector therefore contented himself with ordering that a close watch be kept on the American suspect, telling his operatives that they need not worry about concealing themselves.

"The doctor's nerve appears to be steady," said Dew, "but he'll give himself away before long when he realizes that he's being shadowed day and night. Keep a close watch upon the house and the office and let me know what happens."

The first development of importance occurred a day or two later when, in spite of the endeavors of the Scotland Yard men, Dr. Crippen disappeared. Dew, instead of being annoyed at this sudden turn in the case, merely smiled and said: "So much the better. He can't get away and his absence gives us an opportunity to search the house."

A thorough investigation of the house on Hilldrop crescent, Camden Town, followed. Buried in the dirt floor of one of the rooms, the body of Belle Elmore was found.

"But," demanded the public, "what good does that do when the murderer has been allowed to escape?"

Again Dew smiled, for he knew that the progress of modern science practically nullified the meaning of the word "escape." A man might hide for a week or a month or even a year. But the moment he showed himself he would be lost, for his description would have been flashed around the world far faster than he could travel, and hundreds of thousands of persons would be familiar with his features.

"No," said the chief inspector, as he gave orders that Crippen's identifying characteristics be sent out to all parts of the globe, "our man is free only for the moment. The cables, the wireless, the telephone or the telegraph will land him for us. The time has passed when a man can really vanish."

One of the ships to pick up the wireless description of the missing man was the Montrose, a slow boat en route from England to Canada. On this steamer was a clergyman who, by his peculiar actions and unclerical behavior, had attracted the attention of some of the passengers. Within a few hours after the message had been flashed from London, back came the reply from Captain Kendall, of the Montrose, "Feel certain that Crippen is on board, disguised as a minister." Then followed a detailed statement of the man's appearance and physical characteristics, coupled with several minor points which convinced Chief Inspector Dew that he had located his man.

When the Montrose docked at Father Point, Canada, the chief inspector of Scotland Yard was waiting for her, having made the trip in a fast boat, and it was the work of only a moment to identify the pseudo-clergyman as Dr. Crippen. Almost before the American realised that he was under suspicion, he was headed back to England, there to be tried and convicted—"Thanks," as Inspector Dew put it, "to wireless telegraphy?"

Famous Doctor Comes to Canada

Physician of Pasteur Institute to Join University of Montreal Staff

Montreal, Feb. 7.—One of the foremost medical lights of the day will soon take up his residence in Montreal, according to an announcement made by the authorities of the University of Montreal. Dr. Albert Peyron, of the Pasteur Institute in Paris, has been secured as a professor for the faculty of medicine, and is at present on the Atlantic on his way to Montreal. He is expected to arrive within a week or ten days.

Dr. Peyron is bringing with him two assistants, whom he has himself chosen from the staff of the Pasteur Institute. Professor Peyron and his two assistant professors will take over the direction of the department of Histology and of the department of Pathological Anatomy.

At the Pasteur Institute, Dr. Peyron was director of the cancer laboratory. He has earned a reputation as an expert on cancerous affections of the human body and as an experimenter in their treatment. For fifteen years, he has been striving to discover a remedy which would definitely cure a cancer. He has achieved some notable results, contributing to the alleviation of much suffering.

In addition to being director of the cancer laboratory at the Pasteur Institute, Dr. Peyron was professor at the University of Aix-Marseilles. He is a graduate of the University of Montpellier, where he studied under Dr. Grasset, the celebrated French biologist.

Dr. Peyron is not unknown in Montreal. He attended the congress of French-speaking Physicians and Surgeons of North America, which was held in Quebec last year. At this congress he was the offical representative of the French Government, and particularly of the Ministry of Public Instruction. Dr. Peyron spent some weeks in Montreal after the congress, staying at the Cercle Universitaire.

Says Mortality From Typhoid Can be Absolutely Abolished

FRENCH PHYSICIAN URGES HIS GOVERNMENT TO MAKE COMPULSORY THE INOCULATION OF ADOLESCENTS AGAINST THE DISEASE.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—Mortality from typhoid can be absolutely abolished. This is the contention of Dr. Chauffard, of the French Academy, who is urging the French Government to make compulsory the inoculation of adolescents against typhoid.

Professor Chauffard declared that the experience during the war with the inoculation of soldiers has proven that typhoid can be eradicated as easily as smallpox and diphtheria. Not only were the number of typhoid cases practically nil during the strenuous campaigns of the war following the introduction of inoculation, but hardly any have suffered from the disease since demobilization. Before the war those attacked were about 24 years old, according to Dr. Chauffard. Now the disease attacks the victims at the age of 17 and 18 for men and about 20 for women. He suggests that the first inoculation be given at the age of 15 and second at 18, and the third at 20 years.

Pershing Urges World Pow-Wow On Disarmament

Civilization Will Be Destroyed Unless Halt Called by All Nations.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Civilization will be destroyed unless the United States takes the leadership in calling the disarmament conference to prevent future wars, General John J. Pershing told the house naval affairs committee.

"The nation which declines to come into the conference should be viewed with suspicion," Pershing said.

Pershing also expressed the opinion that the world powers will receive very favorably a call from President elect Harding for this conference. He made light of reports that Germany has a heavy hidden strength, and said it was unlikely that she can start another war soon.

Continuing, Pershing indicated while he favored disarmament he did not believe the great powers could take the step immediately.

France cannot afford to disarm now he added.

"It would not be safe for her to do so until the Germany treaty condition are fulfilled. France is standing guard in Europe. Other nations should not expect her to reduce her strength very much at this time"

"Pershing added that England cannot safely reduce her military and naval strength immediately because of unsettled world conditions. However, he said, efforts should be made at once to bring about conferences that in a few years may bring about reductions in naval and military strength

Pershing pointed out that the century of peaceful relations between the United States and Britain shows what the powers of the world can do if they will

"A war between the United States and England is hardly conceivable," he said. "With that lesson before us an armament reduction meeting of the nations ought to be entered into very hopefully."

"Would you admit Japan, in view of her agreement with England?" asked Representative Britten

"Of course," replied Pershing emphatically. "All the powers must come in the meeting."

Pershing said civilians as well as army and navy men should represent all nations at the conference.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 7.—As the result of a quarrel, Derrick Tennant, aged 77, shot and killed Robert Woods, aged 45, in his house at Caintown, Leeds county, at seven o'clock this morning. It is alleged that the two men have frequently quarreled, and the disagreement culminated in the tragedy this morning. Tennant used a shotgun, his victim dying shortly after the shooting. Jolts and Gibes at Canada's Fight Bid

New York Papers Try to Think Montreal Bid For Big Fight is a Joke

Though negotiations now under way between Tex Richard and C. F. Graham, of Montreal, regarding the staging of the Dempsey-Carpentier bout in the Canadian City have been the subject of a good deal of comment in the New York papers. The majority of the local sport writers express the view that Rickard will not definitely accept the proposition which has been put up to him by the Montreal promoters at least until he has exhausted every effort to make it possible to hold the fight in New York. Meanwhile Rickard's negotiations with Mr. Graham and his associates have aroused widespread interest in Montreal's possibilities as a battleground for the fistic stars and the advantages which the Quebec city would offer to those who find the Volstead type of beverages not entirely to their taste.

The New York Times in a recent editorial linked up the proposal to hold the big fight in Montreal in a jocular vein with the Fordney Emergency Tariff Bill which would exclude Canadian wheat from the United States by imposing a prohibitive tariff. This article, which was headed "Our Lady of the Blows," declared that the Fordney bill "has stirred some of our Canadian friends into natural threats of commercial retaliation."

"If we won't let their stuff come in they'll keep ours out, snap their fingers at geography, and buy of the British manufacturers," continues the Times. "Now Canadian enterprise seeks to snatch from us a great national and international industry. The commercial exchange of thumps between Mr. John Dempsey, the American 'hero' and Mr. Georges Carpentier, the paladin of Gaul, is to be transferred to Dominion soil if the Northern graspers of American trade have their way. The exportation of these heavyweights means finance. The romantic sum of $700,000 is said to be the consideration. If the two egregious strikers ever do collide in Canada, what an amount of American money will go from here to there."

"Thousands of citizens are saving, no doubt some will even go so far as to steal, money for the purpose of witnessing the most expensive transaction in the history of slugging. There have been plenty of great fighters. To none has so lofty a financial program been offered. The price of a seat is a week's wages or more to the salariat. Who can calculate the amount of hotel bills, the hire of taxis, the wild American plunges into the soda and Scotch? Who can reckon the mighty aggregate of American assets that will be lost to the United States. The exportation of this memorable 'mill' may have a notable effect on Canadian exchange. Yet nobody raises a finger to protect our home industry, Dempsey the hero.

Nobody thinks of grabbing Mr. Carpentier, an imported industry to be fostered here, and of detaining the fat profits that might be made from his labors in the home market. With an edifying altruism Americans will watch the removal, if it takes place, of these two great sources of wealth, play joyfully at the new game enrich instead of beggar your neighbor and await with satisfaction and relief the inter-play of battering 'dukes' when

"Loud sound
"Their hollow sides; the battered chests ring back,
"As here and there the whistling strokes pelt round;
"Their ears and temples, and the jawbones crack."

Judge Latchford in timber probe scores Ontario colonization scheme.

MRS. SYLVIA FOSTER, of Buffalo, N.Y., who says she wishes she could go into every home and tell how Tanlac completely restored her health after she had lost all hope of ever being well again.

"They had given up all hopes of my ever being well again but thanks to Tanlac I am feeling as well now as I ever felt in my life and I only wish I had time to go to every home and tell every sick person about this grand medicine.

"A year ago last January I had a severe attack of influenza which left me in a terribly weakened condition and my appetite was so poor that I ate little more than enough to keep body and soul together.

"My heart palpitated so dreadfully at times that it seemed like it had stopped altogether and I would think my time had come. I was so weak that I couldn't go up the steps without holding to the railing. It was impossible for me to do any housework. I was so nervous that I couldn't drink my tea or coffee without spilling it.

"My sleep was restless and broken and I would have smothering spells and would just have to get up and go to the window so I could breathe.

"I finally started taking Tanlac on the advice of a friend and before I had finished taking the second bottle my neighbors could tell I was improving right along. Well, it has only taken five bottles to restore my health completely.

"My appetite is just splendid now, my nerves are strong and steady, my housework is a real pleasure and I can sleep like a child a night. In fact, I never felt better in my life than I do now."

The above remarkable statement was made by Mrs. Sylvia Foster, of 206 S. Division St., Buffalo, N. Y., a well-known and highly respected resident of that city.

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store, and by the leading druggists in every town.

Good Year For Mutual Life

Marked Increase In Business, Revenue And Assets By Mutual Life of Canada

The Annual Statement of The Mutual Life of Canada, which appears on another page, must be gratifying to the Directors and officers of the Company, and will doubtless be received by Policyholders from Coast to Coast with the deepest satisfaction.

Although the year 1919 excelled all its predecessors, yet every department of the Company's operations in 1920 shows a marked increase over that of the previous year. In income, assets, new assurances in force the year 1920 was a phenomenal success.

During the later months the Company had increased its assurances in force to $200,000,000, and at the close of the year the figures stood at over $206,000,000. To protect these obligations, the Company has accumulated assets of nearly $43,000,000, a sum which the surplus shows exceeds by $5,000,000 the amount necessary to guarantee the payment of all policies.

The success of a Life Insurance Company depends largely on its investments and it is noteworthy that while the reserves have been calculated on a 3% and 3½% basis, the Company has earned interest at the rate of 6.41%.

The excess interest, as well as all other profits, becomes the property of the policyholders of the Company and is used to reduce premiums, to increase the insurance, or is payable in cash.

The Mutual of Canada, as most of our readers are aware, is unique in that it is the only example of a Company which has been established and conducted in Canada on a strictly cooperative basis. This means that all the policyholders of the Company share equitably in its prosperity, and the experience of the Company during the year 1920 was such that, in spite of the heavy strain put on its resources during the last six years, the Directors felt justified in increasing the dividends for 1921 by 50% over those paid in 1920.

Altogether the 51st year has proven to be in every way the banner year in the long history of "Canada's Only Mutual," and we congratulate the Directors, Officers, and Policyholders of the Company on the splendid results achieved.

BIG CHANGE NOTED

Life in Country Today Compared to Twenty Years Ago.

Custom of Sleeping Outdoors, for Instance, Is Growing—What the "Movies" and "Canned Music" Have Accomplished.

Twenty years ago the inhabitants of entire villages, up in New York state at least, seemed to fear fresh air o' nights and slept with their windows closed. Night air was not healthful, they said—and a lot of them lived to be ninety-seven even on that theory. The window sashes were nailed down and stuffed with rags at the first sign of snow and we slept under those conditions.

In those days if anyone had practiced sleeping outdoors, even in summer weather, it would have caused a sensation. "Cracked, I swan!" the old farmers would have said.

The change came gradually, presumably because the sons and daughters of the old residents went to work in the large centers where opened windows were, if not the rule, surely not the exception, remarks a writer in the New York Evening Sun. Now the complete change hits one fairly in the face when he returns to the once airless districts of early youth.

Night and day now the windows are wide open and sometimes even doors are never closed; no one thinks of living without screens and mosquito netting, even the poor in hollows and bylanes. The families frequently eat outdoors under the old apple tree, on red and white table covers or oilcloth or a bare scrubbed board. Like the omnipresent flivver that carries the clerk and his family to picnics along the roadside, the outdoor-eating habit has done wonders for the health and happiness of all, particularly the country folk.

Out-of-doors sleeping is now well nigh a habit. Hardly a porch in that country nowadays is complete without a khaki swing couch, a made-up cot or one of the old time hard, haircloth "sofies" with pillows and a patchwork quilt or two, ready for the sleeper. Most of these were hung with mosquito net curtains, looped back by day.

Nowadays on these outdoor couches are seen reclining in daytime the old man of the family, lying at full length with his bare feet toasting in the sun. Twenty years ago he would have slept in the darkened parlor behind closed shutters; or, if very foolhardy, he might have been caught by watchful eyes of his family napping under the old apple tree.

Yes, the country has come on!

But outdoor sleeping by rural children has not yet arrived. Here the farmer's wife draws the line. It may be all right for grandpap and herself and husband, but she is not yet sure about the night air for little lungs. So children's cots are not seen upon the porches. They still sleep within four walls and a ceiling.

The city and large towns have come to this airy regime through years of propaganda in newspapers, in churches and in social centers. The country absorbed it through newspapers and magazines.

But if there has been a notable change in the attitude of farm and village folk toward fresh air there has been an even greater change in their social life. The small town of twenty years ago is not the small town of today. Then they had church sociables. They may still have them, but I do not know where. There used to be buggy rides and prayer meetings, and the greatest dissipation of the younger villagers was "going walking," with a possible "sody" at the corner drug store. Booth Tarkington depicts these rural scenes truthfully, but his pointed view is now out of date.

The movies and "canned" music have recreated village life. Even in those families where there is no automobile life is a far pleasanter thing than it was twenty years ago. The movies entertain the whole family. And in the evenings, when the movies fail, the average soda fountain draws not with ice-cream cones and candy alone but with a rollicking, jazzing mechanical player. The drug store has become largely a refreshment parlor; it is now a social center. Young and old meet there and strolling and loafing have gone into the discard.

The closing of saloons may have helped, but even before prohibition the lilting notes of music boxes in ice cream parlors began to woo the villagers.

Twenty years ago never was there such joyousness in country life, such clothes worn by the young girls, such sang-froid among the boys, such naive sophistication upon all. There spoke the screen in Mary Pickford curls, in styles of an extremity, in a youth's cane, in a girl's vampish slouch. And all the joy life. That is the secret of the change that has come over village habits of living. The cheap cost of the photoplay and the graphophone has taught the public in out-of-the-way places to get into the game; to live joyously.

To Help Farmers.

The Dominion Government votes nearly $5,000,000 a year in aid of agricultural development and production, or a total of over $36,000,000 from 1910-1920. For fiscal years ending in 1919 the total provincial expenditures in direct aid of agriculture would be close to $4,000,000, and the combined Federal and Provincial expenditures not less therefore, than $8,500,000.

Scotland Yard now employs X-rays in searching the wearing apparel of suspects for hidden papers, valuables, weapons and poisons.

CANADA'S WARSHIPS CONTINUING PACIFIC CRUISE

Orders issued by the Naval Department direct the destroyers Patriot and Patrician to proceed direct from Panama to Salina Cruse, and to arrive there February 13. They will then proceed to Acapulco, and rejoin the Aurora off that port. The united fleet will steam from Acapulco to Manzillo.

Our Export Problems

IN two years since the signing of the armistice there has been more money spent by Canadian manufacturers in endeavoring to develop export trade than in any ten years previous to the war. Not only has more money been spent, but more people have been engaged. Where there were probably between two hundred and three hundred manufacturers doing considerable amounts of export trade before the war, this figure will now easily exceed one thousand.

There have been many export organizations formed to facilitate trade between Canada and various other countries. Many branches of Canadian banks have also been established in foreign countries to assist in developing trade, "and the banks would not pursue this policy if they were not assured that the manufacturers of Canada were putting forth great efforts to maintain the trade for the future," said Mr. Marshall. "Increased Canadian shipping facilities granted by the Canadian Government Merchant Marine and private companies are another voucher for the earnestness of Canadian manufacturers in export trade.

The basis for all good export trade is the ability of the customer to pay. In large areas throughout the world to-day many business firms have neither the cash to finance transactions nor the requisite credit to enable the seller to assist in financing. And in many cases where the cash is available the seriously adverse exchange rates put a normal Canadian price beyond the economic limits on which resales can be made in the importing country. Immediately after the armistice there were great essential requirements that had to be fulfilled almost regardless of price. Many of these transactions were conducted during the period when exchange was pegged, and were, therefore, on a purely fictitious level exchange basis which temporarily facilitated business between Canada and Europe.

A comparison of the export records of the six months ending September 30, 1919, and the same period in 1920 shows that if the natural diminution of export to Great Britain is omitted, Canada's export trade to other parts of the British Empire has increased in the 1920 six months' period by $23,000,000, the greatest increases being noted in British West Indies, British South Africa, New Zealand, Australia, Hong Kong and Newfoundland, and the total Canadian trade with these countries is largely in manufactured goods.

In trade with foreign countries, France omitted, an increase of exports amounting to $77,000,000 for the six months ending September, 1920, over the same period in 1919 is shown. The principal increases occurred in trade with Argentine, Belgium, China, Cuba, what was formerly German Africa, United States, Greece, Italy, Norway, Spain and Sweden. Even assuming that all our increased exports to the United States were raw materials or foodstuffs, a fine balance of this increase is left to represent manufactured goods entering the other countries named.

The proportions of manufactured goods forming the exportations of Canada has steadily risen. In 1880 the proportion was only 5 per cent. of manufactured goods to the total volume of exports. In 1890 the proportion of manufactured goods was 7 per cent. In 1910 it had increased to 13 per cent., in 1916 to 32 per cent. and in 1919 to 43 per cent. This analysis cannot yet be made for 1920, but taking all things into consideration, it is safe to say that Canadian manufacturers need not be ashamed of the record that the figures will show. The record given here effectually disposes of the charge that Canadian manufacturers have not been diligent in seeking export trade.

One source, and possibly the only source, for better conditions and better economic relationship is the setting up of some administrative organization which can superintend credit operations based on bonds issued by individual countries now in financial straits covering the national assets which undoubtedly exist in each. This may be the only means of bringing goods and consumers together with anything like speed. Otherwise, in many of the countries, there will be a long siege of destitution and want until they can straighten things out on a national basis. The longer this process takes, the more adversely it will affect nations more happily placed.

It seems more or less incongruous that manufacturers should be blamed for not selling goods to Russia, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, the Serb-Croat-Slovens States and some other countries when in those very places millions of people are starving and the Canadian and American agricultural interests are having difficulty in finding a market for their wheat and other foodstuffs. If it is as simple a matter to develop export trade in manufactured goods with these countries and get payment for them, as some critics allege, surely it should be far easier to find abundant markets for foodstuffs among the starving nations in Middle Europe, yet the export figures do not reveal any considerable movement of foodstuffs from Canada to those countries.

Official figures prove that during the [illegible] quarter of 1920 there were 67,[illegible] more births than deaths. The births numbered 424,668; the death, 356,772. These figures include the devastated region and Alsace-Lorraine. The population of France is given as 41,476,000.

The Paris newspapers declare these figures the most encouraging symptom of the country's recovery from the ravages of the war, that has yet appeared.

Moving a mountain with a teaspoon may be possible, but the method is not to be recommended.

Establishing Provincial or Dominion-wide demand for one's goods may be possible without newspaper advertising, but again the method is not to be recommended. You can prove this for yourself by asking the first twenty persons you meet such questions as:

What brand of collars do you wear?
What kind of shaving soap do you use?
What breakfast food?
What tea?
What cocoa?
What coffee?
What underwear?
What chewing gum?
What tobacco?
What razor?
What cigars?
What mustard?
What sugar?
What shoes?
What motor car?
What tires?
What brand of anything?

Irrespective of location, the answers will reveal the names of products advertised in daily newspapers. This condition is not accidental. It is the result of ambition and vision and courage—particularly courage—upon the part of the manufacturers.

Daily newspaper advertising is not a venture to be undertaken lightly—but once started and persisted in, it will return Dividends of Demand that no power on earth can forestall,

JERRY'S MISTAKE

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

Jerry Linton came back to the modest little hamlet of Rossville after a week's stay in the city quite the lion of the hour among his juvenile acquaintances, until the first glamour of his embellished narrative of wonders seen and participated in had somewhat worn away. His relatives, the Mortons, had given him a good time indeed. They had a fine home, ample means, and Myrtle, a daughter, who, pleasant and sympathetic, had put herself out to see that Jerry was engaged in a constant round of metropolitan sight seeing.

Little did the artless, well-meaning lad realize that he had unconsciously, rewarded all the kindness and indulgence of his pretty cousin with a careless act that brought the darkest cloud of her life to her. She was particularly happy one memorable morning, for she had received a written invitation from Gerald Steele to afford him the pleasure and honor of her company to an entertainment the following week.

Myrtle's beautiful eyes had beamed as she scanned the little note. He was her ideal of a gentleman, young, handsome, intelligent, and the delicacy of his attentions charmed her quite. Forthwith Myrtle indited a reply and started down the stairs for her room intent upon throwing on a light wrap and mailing it. Fate altered her intentions, however, as she noticed Jerry in the front hall, packing into their box a pair of roller skates with which she had presented him that morning.

"Would you mind posting my letter for me, Jerry?" she asked.

"Oh, sure! Cousin Myrtle," replied Jerry with alacrity. "I'd do just anything for you. Where is the post office?"

"Oh, you don't have to go there," explained Myrtle. "You know there is a letter box at the corner?"

"Is there?" queried Jerry.

Jerry set forth at once and Myrtle tripped up to her room again, humming a happy air, in love with all the world, and tenderly wondering if the sender of the invitation would be as pleased as she was to reply to it. Jerry left for his native village at noon. Myrtle wandered about restlessly counting the hours, because she felt sure that Gerald Steele would call Friday evening, his usual occasion for coming around to spend the evening.

"Let me see," Myrtle whispered to herself, "he will receive the note tomorrow morning. Then there's only that day, and the next I shall see him. And he has selected an opera I once told him was my favorite. So he must think over and remember what I say, and I suppose thinks of me, too, once in a while."

Myrtle flitted away, flushing rapturously as a fugitive from the telltale thought, and laughed outright at the trivial deception she was playing on herself.

Gerald Steele did not put in an appearance Friday evening and thence until the following Tuesday was a period of gloom and unhappiness for Myrtle. The evening of the engagement arrived, and while Myrtle did not allude to it before her parents, she had everything in her room ready for quick dressing when Gerald should arrive. At seven o'clock she was in a fever of suspense. At eight her last hope faded away. By nine she was in bed, her face turned to the wall and crying as if her heart would break.

Then a dreary two weeks, during which time not a word was received from "the recreant lover!" Myrtle felt all the sorrowfulness of neglect and desertion. She could only consider that Gerald had no further desire for her company. Once in a while the pride and disdain of her nature came to the surface, and briefly she would resent the direct affront she had suffered, but her sensitive, tender heart would melt into a sense of forlornness as she realized how much Gerald Steele had been to her.

For a single hour, amid a sudden excitement and turmoil, Myrtle forgot her sorrows. An adjoining house caught fire and the Morton house was very nearly included in the blaze. As it was, smoke and water somewhat damaged the latter residence, and Myrtle was directing the servants in removing the traces of the occasion, when she stepped out upon the porch to fasten up a favorite flowering vine that the firemen had torn down.

She had never looked more charming than at that moment, her golden hair peeping out from the mob cap, her dress daintily pinned up, her face flushed with the animation of the moment.

"Miss Morton," spoke an altogether unexpected voice, and there stood Gerald Steele, smiling, a certain eager expectancy in his face. The bewildered Myrtle could not understand.

"Just received it," he continued, and he extended the envelope. "It was found in the fire alarm box, and they guessed that some inexperienced hand had placed it there instead of in the mail box. Even at this late date it must explain our mutual silence."

"Jerry!" uttered Myrtle, and wavered so that Gerald felt it necessary to support her for the moment.

Quite as familiarly Myrtle said "Gerald" the third call after that of her delighted lover, for the explanation brought relief and reunion and love fully developed.

Not a General Attack on Y.M.C.A.

Papal Delegates Explains the Pope's Warning to Catholics Against Y.M.C.A.

Washington, Feb. 7—"It is religious propaganda of the Y.M.C.A. in Italy that the Vatican objects to," said his Excellency the Most Reverend John Bonzano, papal delegate, discussing the document issued at the Vatican warning Catholics in Italy against the activities of the Y.M.C.A., and which was published some time ago.

"This is not a ban against the Y. M. C. A.," he explained. "The Y. M. C. A. is free, of course. But the Catholic Church stands for certain definite religious principles. When the Y. M. C. A. says it is above the churches and all religions, it becomes necessary to warn Catholics. The American Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross were welcomed to Italy, and there was no complaint against the Red Cross. All humanitarian work of all organizations is approved and only the proselytizing features of the Y. M. C. A. work in Italy are referred to in the Vatican's announcement."

A Friend of the Family

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in Pennsylvania and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. R. V. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N.Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores in the United States and Canada, so that the public could easily obtain this remarkable tonic, corrective, and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks without alcohol—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Introduce pure red blood into the system, and health is assured. When you feel run-down, out of sorts, blue and despondent try the energizing influence of this reliable tonic. You can obtain Golden Medical Discovery in tablet or liquid form at all drug stores, or send 10c for a trial package to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Health After Chronic Indigestion

MONDAY HEALTH TALK No. 10
By WM. P. REDICK, D.C. Ph. C.

When a disease persists for a great length of time it becomes what is known as chronic. Many persons have chronic indigestion without apparently being unhealthy. They have to be constantly watchful of what they eat, and some things they like must be avoided entirely.

When a disease becomes chronic it is a certain indication that the cause is deep-seated, that it lies in some structural defect of the body which can only be righted by chiropractic spinal adjustments. When the spinal joints at "stomach place" are out of alignment and are pressing upon the spinal nerve opening, there is a stomach weakness, either chronic or certain to become chronic, unless the structural defect is corrected by adjustments. This is the service the chiropractor of skill renders.

VERY BAD DIGESTION BECOMES VERY GOOD

"When I started with chiropractic adjustments I was suffering a second nervous breakdown. My digestion was very bad. I was much under weight. Today I am feeling fine, eat anything in reason and am up to normal weight."—Omer Porter, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1222H.

ACT TODAY.

Delay postpones good health. Consultation is without charge or obligation.

Nine Reasons Why Spinal Neglect is a crime

1. The backbone is the foundation of the body.
2. It is composed of 29 joints, 24 of which are movable.
3. From between these joints radiate the nerves of the body.
4. When these joints are in alignment the nerve openings are full sizes and the nerves deliver 100% of their power.
5. A nerve under pressure at the backbone opening causes disease in the part it serves.
6. Chiropractic removes the pressure by an adjustment by hand, and this adjustment opens the way for health (free nerve energy).
7. If chiropractic seems too simple to do all that it can do, remember that every phenomena of growth is caused by as simple a thing as heat.
8. To neglect the backbone invites disease, which is a crime because it is in violation of Nature's laws.
9. Don't be a criminal.

FARMER MUST BE A MECHANIC NOT A DAY LABORER.

The farmer of the future must be a mechanic rather than a day laborer, remarks D. D. Gray, Superintendent of the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, in the December number of the Agricultural Gazette of Canada. This of course must not be taken in a literal sense, but rather as suggesting that the future agriculturist must combine with a multitude of other things-he requires to know a greater knowledge of mechanics than he has formerly had. Accepting this suggestion as his text, Mr. Gray tells of records that have been kept at the Central Farm on the cost of operating three makes of tractors. The cost of operating the smaller tractor is shown to be greater than the cost of operating the larger, that is, in regard to horse power. The cost of discing with the smaller is shown to be less, due to greater speed possible than with the larger. The cost of ploughing with the smaller is more than with the larger. The lighter machine burned gasoline at a cost of 45 cents per gallon and the heavier machine kerosene at 28½ cents per gallon. Cylinder oil cost 85 cents per gallon.

DISABLED DOUGHBOYS CHOKED BY RED TAPE.

Occasionally mild criticism is heard in Canada of the method, in some cases, of administering governmental provisions regarding the welfare of returned soldiers and their dependents, pensions, re-establishment and care of disabled soldiers, but these criticisms are really psalms of praise compared to those launched by United States newspapers at the administration of soldiers' relief provisions in that country. "Simply rotten" is the term most generally used to describe the red tape with which official Washington has choked the administration of relief measures affecting the returned soldier. Soldiers have died, it is said, while their cases were being considered by the various departments concerned, and the feeling is general among United States editors that there is too much system and too little action.

Canadians have great cause for rejoicing that the government of the day has proved so efficient and sympathetic in dealing with returned soldiers' problems.

A memorial from the American Legion cites among others the following specific cases in a long list of charges against the administration:

Died Waiting for Assistance.

Clarence Gleason, although totally and permanently disabled, received no compensation whatsoever from the time of his discharge, July 3, 1919, until his death in November, 1920. Six weeks before he died his case came to the attention of the American Legion, who took the matter up by telegraph with Washington, but no settlement could be made. Gleason died in poverty, railing against the Government.

John Murray was wounded in October, 1918, and discharged from the army July 8, 1919, after his right leg had been amputated just below the hip, and suffering from tuberculosis contracted from exposure in the service. He was awarded compensation on a total temporary basis, but after protest, was again raised to total temporary rating in January, 1920. After repeated efforts Murray was declared, on March 16, 1920, to be totally and permanently disabled, though no payments were ever received by him on this award. On April 10 the Bureau of War Risk Insurance was telegraphed that "John Murray received no payment for last two months. Please expedite checks so he can sign them before he dies to pay funeral expenses." Murray died on April 16, but the checks did not arrive until six days later.

James Day submitted claim for compensation about eight months prior to his death but never received any settlement of it. He died still waiting upon investigation and examination necessary to complete "the data required."

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Shell-shocked veteran picked up on streets and remanded to jail. He was in a filthy cell five months without a hair cut. Later removed to insane asylum as charity patient.

Other typical cases have been gathered by J. W. Rixey Smith for The American Legion Weekly, from whose pages we quote the following:

Killed by Red Tape.

"One fine morning, some three years ago, John Claude Kellar, of Olean, New York, slung his pack on his back, marched aboard a transport, and put to sea, just as many thousand other good Americans did the same week. France, rest camps and training sectors and marching and mud and the trenches and then gas and influenza and the armistice—that was the war diary of Kellar, as it was of many thousand more.

"Finally Kellar came home. He was discharged from the army and went to work. He soon found that his lungs were going bad on him. He stopped work and went to a hospital. He put in a claim for compensation from the Government.

"The Government granted him about one-half the amount he thought he was entitled to under the law. Kellar protested. He protested in person to the government agents whom he could see; he protested in writing to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance in Washington. Weeks passed, and months. He was moved from one hospital to another, eventually being sent to one at Washington. His health was not improving. Worry and uncertainty over his claim for compensation aggravated his condition.

"Finally, early last month, his claim was allowed in full. The Government, in effect, admitted its error. There had been a technicality in the law. The point required a hair-line ruling by the Treasury Department. The Treasury Department, after pondering the matter for a year or two, had reached its decision. The day after Kellar's claim was granted—but before word reached him—Kellar walked into the ten-story headquarters of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance in Washington to make a last desperate personal appeal for his cause. Before he could voice his claim he was seized with a pulmonary hemorrhage and died.

Kellars Dead and Dying.

"But Kellar is dead," continues the American Legion weekly, "and there are many Kellars, casuals of misfortune, dying day by day. They are the victims of the combination of bad laws, inadequate facilities, technicalities, red tape, lack of co-ordination, and inefficiency which marks the Government's care of its disabled charges. Just as present conditions make possible such cases, they make impossible and fruitless any effort definitely to fix the blame for them. . . .

There are Kellars too weak to drag themselves to Washington, dying wherever their miserable lot happens to be, in almshouses, in insane asylums, in private hospitals and institutions run for profit, in tents, in cellars, in garrets, in jails.

"There are Kellars sick in bed who have appealed to the Government which they fought to preserve who have received twenty-five dollars, fifteen dollars, eight dollars, four dollars and a half a month.

"There are Kellars with grants of eighty dollars a month whose allowance without notice and without apparent reason has unexpectedly been cut to twenty dollars a month, to twelve dollars, and even less.

"There are Kellars who have appealed to the Government and who, after two, three, six, eight and twelve months, have received no answer at all.

"There are Kellars who have never received a government check, who have never felt the sheets of a government bed, Kellars dying whose loved ones can only sit by in destitution and watch them die. Kellars growing sicker day by day! Kellars without money. Kellars without hospital beds. Kellars just S. O. L.

"In Public Health Service Hospital No. 41 at New Haven, Conn., fourteen disabled ex-service men, nearly all of them tubercular, died while the Government debated the technicality of whether or not they could be granted the maximum allowance for total disability. Among the thousands of cases which came to the attention of the American Legion are many similar to these."

Says the Deseronto Post: It is a fine thing for Hastings County that its new Warden has gone on record as being in favor of the extension of the C. N. R. to Whitney. Belleville papers, Belleville Chamber of Commerce, E. Gus Porter, M.P., are all working towards the consummation of this connection. H. K. Denyes, M.P.P., W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., R. J. Cook, M.P.P., T. I. Thompson, M.P.—surely a fine array of men of weight—should lose no time in aligning themselves with the supporters of the scheme. From a Deseronto standpoint, or point of view, we can hardly see any benefit of the connection for this town, but then, in the aggregate anything that would benefit the county as a whole would benefit us in some way. We are strongly in favor of linking up the two roads at Whitney if for no other great reason at the present time than that it will provide employment, relieve minds that are distressed in not knowing where the next meal is coming from.

LIMITATION AND OUTPUT

Guelph Herald

By all accounts, the volume of unemployment in Great Britain has been rising rapidly and present indications are that it will be greater still. In England, as here, the limitation of output has long been believed by many if not a majority, of labor unionists to be a legitimate weapon, but during the war many cherished labor usages had to be relinquished in the face of imminent national peril. Some of these the sanest leaders and friends of labor recognize had better never return. Speaking of the unemployment difficulty recently, Mr. J. H. Thomas, the well-known British railway men's leader, said:

"Nothing is so fatal as the doctrine of doing as little as possible in order to find work for others. I think we shall recover from our present difficulties if for six months we have the spirit of 1914 again. Let us frankly recognize that both the employers and men are something to each other and both have to be together."

POETS' CORNER

"HAVEN'T GOT TIME."

Opportunity tapped at the door
With a chance for a brother within,
He rapped till his fingers were sore,
And muttered, "Come on, let me in"
Here is something I know you can do,
Here's a hill I know you can climb."
But the brother inside very quickly replied:
"Old fellow, I haven't got time."

Opportunity wandered along
In search of a man who would rise,
He said to the indolent throng:
"Here's a chance for the fellow who tried."
But each of them said with a smile:
"I wish I could do it, but I'm very busy to-day.
Very busy to-day, and I'm sorry to say
That I really haven't got time."

At last opportunity came To a man who was burdened with cares,
And said: "I now offer the same
Opportunity that has been theirs.
Heres a duty that ought to be done,
It's a chance, if you've got time to take it."
Said the man, with a grin. "Come along, pass it in!
I'll either find time or I'll make it."

Of all the excuses there are
By which this old world is accursed
This "Havent Got time," is by far
The poorest, the feeblest, the wort
A delusion it is, and a snare,
If the habit is yours you should shake it.
For if you want to do what is offered to you.
You'll find time to do it, or make it.

In 1920 the Company's investments showed the handsome average interest rate earned of 6.41%.

Surplus Earnings. The prosperity the Company enjoyed is best reflected in the surplus earnings of the year, which show an advance over the preceding year of $354,303, being an increase of 27%. This represents earnings of $38.67 for every $1,000.00 of total assets.

Increased Dividends to Policyholders. The rapid recovery shown by the statement of the year's operations from the effects of the war and the influenza epidemic is very gratifying, enabling, as it does, an increase in the distribution of dividends to policyholders in the current year of about 50% in excess of last year.

ELECTRIC POWER IN ONTARIO AND QUEBEC

By J. E. Middleton

At the Cedars Rapids on the St. Lawrence River a large hydraulic development plant has been constructed by private capital. Last year the average capacity was 88,719 horse-power. The Company holds a lease of the water-power from the Quebec Government at an annual rental of $1,600, and pays in royalties rather less than 20 cents per horse-power of energy generated. The Government received in revenue from The Cedars in 1918 $18,215.40.

The St. Maurice River has also been the scene of extensive hydraulic work. Shawinigan Falls has a capacity of 316,500 horse-power, and the Grand Mere Falls produces 120,000 horse-power. Other rapids capable of development are found on this river.

In order to stabilize the flow, the Government has constructed a great concrete dam near La Loutre Falls, 234 miles from the mouth of the River. The cost of this improvement is met by a royalty on horse-power production. The revenue to the Province for the first six months of 1918 reached $88,1[illegible].83; that is to say, an annual income of from $175,000 to $200,000 will be produced. If the developed capacity of the Saint Maurice is 336,000 horse-power, without counting the surplus energy made available by reason of the existence of the dam, it is obvious that the Government will receive less than $1 per horse-power for a privilege of enormous value.

The average charge to consumers of electric energy in Montreal and district is $30 per horse-power per annum. Therefore the big Power Merger will obtain from the St. Maurice and the Cedars together an annual revenue approximating $12,720,000. It is certain that this power can be generated, transmitted and distributed in Montreal for less than $15, even including the royalty payable to the Crown. Therefore it seems apparent that the shareholders of the Merger have a fairly good thing.

Quebec has a Public Utilities Board which is designed to regulate rates, but it investigates overcharges only upon complaint. It is not a self-starter. Possibly if a plain and shameless effort to bleed consumers were made, the Board might develop into a useful protective agency. For the present the charges in general are not such a pressing burden upon the individual customer that he is likely to file a complaint and appear, either personally or by counsel to press it.

The people of Quebec prefer this system of dealing with the hydraulic resources of the Province. They believe that by offering great inducements to private Capital, development of waterfalls, and distribution of electric energy may be hastened. There is a strain of caution and conservatism in our good neighbors which would make it impossible for them to favor any great scheme of public or municipal ownership, similar to the Hydro-Electric System of Ontario. For Quebec, undoubtedly, the existing policy is most satisfactory, although one wonders if the revenue obtained by the Province from the sale or lease of power-privileges is sufficient or even reasonable.

The success of the great municipal co-operative System of Ontario lies in the fact that the organizers determined to make it non-political. Sir Adam Beck and his associates of the Commission resolutely set their faces against any Party meddling whatsoever. The possibility of rate-discrimination by rival municipalities was eliminated by concentrating all rate-revision, central or local, in the hands of the Commission. A check on the Commission was provided in the publication of all rate-data in the Annual Report.

But Public Ownership can be a success only if the people and their leaders are determined to make it such. The record of the "Hydro" has been possible because the electors of the Province are not hostile towards experimentation, if they can be assured of the single-mindedness and good faith of their leaders. They have tested the members of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission and have found them reliable as to their promises, and vigorous as to their administration.

Already enormous benefits have come to the Province and people by reason of the existence of the Hydro-Electric System. Because a tradition of business-management and scientific accounting has been established, which no future administrators would dare destroy, those benefits will multiply as the years pass.

Ontario makes no criticism of Quebec because that Province follows another plan of action. If our neighbors prefer their own system that surely is their business. And what did I find in those letters? As I sat and held in my hand those papers, in which were two long messages, the one written in a very poor English and the other in a very elegant French, the woman Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, trembled with fear of a discovery of her woman's estate, while that daredevil Robert Carruthers raged within and also turned with a deadly hatred and distrust of the greatest gentleman that le bon Dieu had ever given to him to know. It was as I say and for this reason: In the letters were announcements of the arrival of the Lieutenant Count Edouard de Bourdon on that Tuesday which the Madam Whitworth had mentioned. They were written with great ceremony to my uncle, the General Robert Carruthers, as secretary of the state of Harpeth, to give to him that information to be conveyed to his excellency the Gouverneur Faulkner, in due form, though he already had that information.

"They make into a fool my revered uncle, the General Robert Carruthers, who would keep his state and the gouverneur of that state from dishonor!" I exclaimed to myself in my rage. "And this woman thinks to play with the life of French soldiers as she has with that same Gouverneur Faulkner, does she? No; there is Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, who is a soldier of her republique by appointment from the great capitaine, the Count de Lasselles, to both watch and further the interests of France, whom she must meet in combat first!"

And as I said these words to myself I made a rapid writing of both papers and with them asked admittance to the room of that Gouverneur Faulkner who had just dismissed the good men who had come to thank him for his mercy shown to that poor creature Timms.

"Vive la France and the state of Harpeth!"

In that room I found my uncle, the General Robert, and the Gouverneur Faulkner in deep consultation, and they both turned toward me with anxiety in their faces.

"What did you make of the letters, boy?" asked my uncle, the General Robert, with keen anxiety. The great gouverneur was silent, and for the first time since I had looked into his face my eyes did not glance in his direction.

"They both announce the arrival on Tuesday of the Lieutenant the Count de Bourdon to sign the contracts concerning the mules to be sold by the state of Harpeth to the republique of France, sir," I answered in a cold and formal voice and then stood at an attention for any more questions.

"The thunder they do!" exclaimed my uncle, the General Robert, while still the Gouverneur Faulkner was silent. "Do they give no excuse for being nearly ten days ahead of time, sir?"

"No, honored uncle," I answered. "Madam Whitworth said to me that the Gouverneur Faulkner had set that date for the arrival of the commission and had so informed her, and I think that to be the reason for absence of such excuses." And as I made that answer, which was one of great impertinence from a secretary to a chief who was a great gouverneur, I looked with cold calmness into the dark star eyes under their black lashes, which were darting lightnings of anger at my words.

"What!" exclaimed my uncle, the General Robert Carruthers. And he turned white with a trembling as he faced the lightning in those eyes of the stars. But it was not to his secretary of state that the great Gouverneur Faulkner made his denial, but to his humble secretary, Robert Carruthers, who looked without fear into the very depths of those lightnings.

"This is the first time I have heard of a change of date for the arrival of the commission, Robert," he said in a calm voice as for a second his eyes held mine, a second which was sufficient for a truth to pass from his heart and still the storm in mine. I did not understand all that his eyes said of a great hurt, but I knew that what he spoke was true and would always be.

"And what were you doing gossiping with that lying huzzy, sir?" demanded my uncle, the General Robert, with instant belief in the word of that Gouverneur Faulkner, turning his anger upon me, who stood and took it with such a joy in my heart from the truth that had come into it from those eyes of the night stars that I did not even feel its violence.

"Vive la France and the state of Harpeth! Behold! I am a spy!" I answered him as I drew myself to my greatest height and gave the salute which his old soldiers give to him at that raising of the banner of the cause that he had lost in his youth.

"You young daredevil, you, I'm a great mind to break every bone in your body, as I have said before," he said to me, but I could see a smile of pride making a lightning of the gloom in his countenance over the trouble of his affairs of state. "You keep away from"—

"Robert," was the interruption made by my great beloved Gouverneur Faulkner, "upon you will fall the task of making the plans for the entertainment of this countryman of yours. The general and I will be too busy getting ready to meet them on their own grounds to give any time to that. Remember, they will have to be shown the best grazing land in the valley in motorcars. When they are done sizing us up we'll be ready for them. The count and his secretaries will, of course, be entertained at the Mansion, and you can make arrangements at the hotel for the rest of the suite. Also will you please instruct my servants how to make them comfortable, and, Robert, will you confer with Mrs. Whitworth, who, as the wife of the treasurer of the state of Harpeth, while neither the general nor I has a wife, must be considered as the official social representative of the state as to what form the official entertainments must take?"

And as he asked that question of me my Gouverneur Faulkner did not so much as glance at my uncle, the General Robert, who gave an exclamation of contempt in his throat as he began a reading of the two papers which I had handed to him.

"Also I suppose this means I must give up all hope of services from that fly-up-the-creek Clendenning," he grumbled as he read.

"I will do as you bid me, my Gouverneur Faulkner, in all things, and I will be much helped by both my excellent Buzz and the beautiful Madam Whitworth," I made answer to the question and command given to me by the Gouverneur Faulkner, and as I mentioned the name of that lady I lowered my eyes to the floor and waited for my dismissal. I did not want to look into his eyes, for I did not know even then if I might not find that Madam Whitworth there. I only know that, whatever she did or was to him, his honor was inviolable.

"Well, get to it all," commanded my uncle, the General Robert. "Get vouchers for what you spend and pay with state department checks. Don't blow in a fortune, you young spendthrift, you, but also remember that the state of Harpeth is one of the richest in America and knows how to show France real hospitality."

"That state of Harpeth has shown that hospitality to one humble youth of France, my Uncle Robert, who has a great gratitude," I made answer to him as I laid my cheek upon the sleeve of his coat, which was of a cut in the best style for gentlemen of his age. Try as hard as Robert Carruthers will, he cannot force that Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, at all times to refrain from a caress to the uncle whom she so greatly loves.

Sir Walter Scott's Mother.

In the course of an interesting article in the Cornhill Magazine, Mr. Archibald Stalker, writing of Sir Walter Scott's mother, says:

"She had about £200 a year, of which a good third went in charities of her own. On the remainder she was able to keep a quietly hospitable house. Out of his superabundance Sir Walter often offered her assistance, which was scornfully and affectionately refused every time. She lived to see her lame son a baronet, to read not only his verses, but his novels, and to point out to her visitor the discrepancies between Walter's plots and the real stories.

"He attributed a good deal of his knowledge of the manners and habits of the two or three preceding generations to her conversation. She had a fine memory and a gift for telling stories, had all the Scottish passion for genealogy, and could rattle off the ancestry of everybody she knew or had ever heard of. She had proverbs also for every occasion, and two of them were often in Sir Walter's mouth. 'We must do as we do,' that is, as we can do, and

'Well betides
Her that bides.'

Both of these illustrate a patient mind and a happy knack of minimizing present trouble."

Beach Changes Color.

The beach of Snails island in the Gulf of Mexico changes its color twice daily, and for this reason is of great interest to travelers. The sands are really of a golden color, but when the tide is receding it has a pronounced purple tinge. This is due to the myriads of tiny snails crawling in the wake of the ebbing tide. The presence of these snails is what gives the island its name.

Bermuda to Celebrate.

Bermuda, the oldest remaining British "plantation," is preparing to celebrate its tercentenary this autumn, for which purpose £2,000 have been appropriated. Since the Prince of Wales announced the other day that he meant to pay a call on his loyal subjects, they hit on the scheme of combining two festive occasions and having one grand affair on October 7, when the Renown, with the heir to the throne aboard, is to cast anchor there.

It was August 1, 1620, that the Colonial Parliament held its first sitting, but as the royal engagements cannot very well be altered, it was thought wise to set back the gala date.

For nearly 300 years the business of governing this little outpost of the Empire has gone on under the same forms without material change. It is but natural that the 20,000 inhabitants of this twenty square miles of coral rock should wish to honor their aged constitution.

Originally founded by a shipwrecked company under Sir George Somers, destined for Virginia in 1609, these isolated islands have remained continuously under British rule.

Revenues are raised chiefly from tariff duties. No land taxes are levied by the colony. There is a very light tax on realty in the parishes and the proceeds are used for maintenance of the poor.

There are no divorce laws in Bermuda and only one breach-of-promise case was ever tried there. Most of the cases on the calendar involve bicycle stealing, assault, petty theft; there is little serious crime, though in a region where everyone rides a wheel the theft of a bicycle is regarded somewhat as horse stealing was in the West a few years ago.

There are old-timers who have never set eyes on a train or a trolley car; but of late they have had the satisfaction of seeing flying-boats circling through the air.

Innovations of any kind are apt to be looked on with some suspicion. The majority is conservative and that is perhaps why so much sentiment is attached to the coming celebration of the 300-year-old constitution.

A PESSIMIST SPEAKS

FEARS CANADA MAY BECOME A VASSAL STATE.

Prof. Archibald MacMechan Talks of the Danger of Peaceful Penetration and Tells How the United States Has Been Exerting Dangerous Influences on Our National Life.

A GLOOMY picture of Canadians slavishly imitating Americans and of Canada succumbing commercially and politically to the United States is limned by Archibald MacMechan in the Canadian Historical Review. While most red-blooded Canadians will resent his charges as overdrawn he nevertheless strikes some true notes. For American influence is strong in this country and Canada's debt of $400,000,000 to the United States for goods is tangible evidence of a commercial bondage, though only temporary.

But infinitely worse than this commercial serfdom in MacMechan's opinion is what he terms "the subjection of the Canadian nation's mind and soul to the mind and soul of the United States." —

Yet between 1913 and 1917 the last people in the world to have accused the Canadians of such weaknesses as "subjection of mind and soul" would have been those very Americans. Would they indeed so accuse us to-day?

Strong for the British connection MacMechan deplores the tendency of some Canadians to see despotic designs in every attempt of Britain to draw the Dominion into closer commercial union. "Does any sane man, woman or child in Canada really believe that Great Britain would send one ship or fire a single gun to retain this country in unwilling allegiance?" he asks. The great danger threatening Canada to-day, he insists—and not one of forcible conquest either, but the insidious peril of absorbtion—lies to the south. And Canadians for the most part seem unaware of it.

Though he doesn't mention them, evidently the masses of American settlers in the West are on Mr. MacMechan's mind when he harks back to annexation. He reminds one that in 1776 Nova Scotia sent delegates to the Philadelphia Congress, that there were tea riots in Halifax and active sympathy with the American revolutionists. That Gen. Cruickshank had trouble with disloyal American settlers in Ontario in 1813.

He said that had William Lyon Mackenzie and Papineau had their way in 1837 Ontario and Quebec would both to-day be states of the American union. He lastly submits that though the Canadian people rejected the national suicide of commercial union with the States in 1891 this end is being accomplished to-day by the far more subtle means of commercial and social penetration. But Mr. MacMechan might have added that in former times the United States attracted Britishers because it was an almost completely Anglo-Saxon country. To-day it is a vast polyglot nation and even American settlers in Canada are glad to be away from its complex problems.

"It is inevitable that the United States should exert a tremendous influence upon Canada," continues the author. "Our domains march together for 3,000 miles. The same speech, the same laws, the same religions prevail on both sides of the border as Goldwin Smith was never weary of preaching. Intercourse between the countries is easy. A standard gauge and common courtesy have made the continent one country for purposes of railway transportation. C.P.R. cars may be seen in Texas, and Omaha and Santa Fe in Cape Breton. Traffic between Canada and the United States is far easier than between the separate colonies of the Australian Commonwealth. Then our neighbors are many and rich; we are few in the land and until lately were very poor. Hundreds of thousands of Canadians have been drawn across the border because of the better opportunities of making a living and for making money, under the Stars and Stripes."

"All these are straws showing which way the wind blows," says he. "No Canadians even invents a new slang term. All our slang is brought in and distributed by American shows of one kind or another. We have imported Thanksgiving Day, a heathen festival of autumn as Goldwin Smith points out, Labor Day, Arbor Day, Mothers Day. As soon as our cousins south of the line decide to celebrate Great-grandmothers' Day we will uncritically adopt it too."

A wholesome but unpleasant truth has been uttered by an American historian, says Mr. MacMechan. At the end of his "True History of the American Revolution" Mr. Fisher speculates as to what Americans would have developed into had they not broken away from England. His judgment is: "We might have been a tamer, less inventive, people like the Canadians."

Had the American historian written his book after the Great War he would never have dreamed of tagging Canadians with that adjective "tame." Who is this Mr. Fisher anyway to pose as an authority? Readers will probably agree that Mr. MacMechan is far too pessimistic of his own country. They will also agree with his more cheerful conclusions that it is unthinkable that a country which produced the Canadian Army Corps could degenerate into a vassal state. No; Canada, which sprang to arms at the first clarion call, whose soldier sons thrilled the world with their glorious deeds; Canada whose men and women won universal respect for their bravery and devotion during those years of peril, has to-day within her the spirit of nationhood stronger than ever in her history.

What Hydro Has Done for Ontario

Ontario will be able to boast next summer of possessing the biggest power house in the world. It is now in course of construction and when it is completed it will be the last word in electrical and hydraulic equipment.

Here's the most vivid way of illustrating its size: If it were possible to place that power house immediately in front of the American or Horseshoe Falls that great sheet of falling water would be entirely hidden by the big structure. It is high enough to extend from the lower waters to the crest of the fall, and when completed it will be quite as wide as the American Falls.

The dimensions of the building will be approximately as follows: height, 180 feet; length 600 feet; depth 150 feet. To descend from the top of the cliff in front of which the power house will stand, down to the water level, would be like stepping off the top of the Toronto City Hall tower into Queen street.

The building will be of structural steel and concrete, and the floor is 60 feet above water level. The engineers expect to have some of the roof trusses ready in January. Whether the face of the cliff will be used as a natural roof is a point yet unsettled. The cliff runs up at an acute angle back of the front part of the building where the generators are constructed.

The power is generated at 12,000 volts and is stepped up by transformers to 110,000 volts and goes out for distribution from a variety of lines on the top of the bank. One of these generators—and there are five—will produce 55,000 horse power.

The rear part of the building will be used for storage purposes, equipment, offices and a supply of spare parts for the electrical apparatus, for the Hydro Commission believes in leaving nothing to chance.

Access to the power house, which by the way, is at the end of the Chippawa canal, near Queenston, is provided for at the top of the cliff. There is an elevator down to the half-way level and a tunnel leads to the generator room. The main generator room will be 60 feet high by 60 feet wide. The thrust bearings in these generators are designed to carry a load of 1,000,000 pounds. About 100,000 cubic feet of air per minute will be required to cool the generators at full load. The weight of air passing through the generator every three hours equals the weight of the generator itself.

The Hydro is strong on organization. The work of each branch is well defined. Chief Engineer F. A. Gaby supervises the whole work. The hydraulic end of the work is looked after by Harry G. Acres, hydraulic engineer, whose duty it is to take the water out of the river, convert it from hydraulic energy into electrical energy, and then comes in the electrical engineer, E. T. Brandon, who handles the generators and sends out the power to the Hydro customers over the myriad of transmission lines.

An interesting point is that nearly all the equipment for the electrical work is Canadian-made, the cost reaching close to $4,000,000.

It Is Not American.

In one of Stephen Leacock's latest Nonsense Novels he represents a New York editor as seizing a telephone and saying: "Hullo, Operator! Put me through to two, two, two, two, two."

In New York Life "B.M." protests that no New York editor would ever ask to be "put through," although a British editor would. The New Yorker would say "Give me" the number he wanted. In Canada we use the same telephone talk as they do across the border. In England they ask for "trunk lines" where we call for "long distance." But the writer in Life goes on to say:

"After all, the telephone is an American invention, lock, stock and barrel; its vocabulary is of our devising; and we cannot but feel fraternal grief when a Canadian trips over one of its technicalities."

This is too much. The telephone is a boon which Canada conferred on the world. Alexander Graham Bell is a Canadian, he invented the telephone at Brantford, Ont., and there first put it in successful operation, because of which fact Brantford is known as "the Telephone City." When the Americans lay claim to the telephone they must do it on about the same grounds as that on which the Germans lay claim to Shakespeare—on the ground that they profess to appreciate him better than anybody else does.—Toronto Star.

More Trees in Quebec

There are people who have never been east of Ottawa, who nevertheless speak wistfully of the Quebec Woods. They have been expecting to visit that inspiring wilderness for years, and will plan for it for years to come, whether they ever go or not. If they knew how dangerously those reaches of forest, though they seem almost endless, have been threatened by fire and the pulp mill's maw they would rejoice to hear that Quebec now is planting two pine or spruce trees for every one that is destroyed.

So the north woods will still be there when at last your hunting trip is made. Three million pines and spruces have been planted this year.

Improving the Watch.

A serious obstacle hitherto in the attainment of perfection and precision in the watchmaking industry has been what is called the "secondary error"—i.e., variations in time caused by changes in temperature which expand and contract the parts of the watch.

This trouble has been removed by the invention of a Swiss expert, C. E. Guillaume, who has found that by mounting in the watch a spiral of nickel-steel-chrome alloy the problem of compensation is solved.

THE HUMBLE CORNCOB.

Chemists Discover That It May Be Valuable.

From time immemorial the homely corncob, bereft of its gold or silver habiliment, has been left to bleach in the sun and rot in the rain all over this broad land, says the Minneapolis Tribune. It was treated with less respect than a squeezed lemon or a worm-eaten nut. While peach stones were being saved and mobilized by housewives and school boys and girls for purposes of national defence, the corncob was trod upon, reviled and made to feel it was no friend of the human race.

Now the corncob is coming within the sphere of recognized usefulness. It has other utilitarian missions than that of stoppering the vinegar jug or giving the cook stove a boost on a cold morning, or providing the smoker a hollow in which to stuff his long-cut. What these missions are we gather from a chronicle of our new Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Meredith.

Roughly speaking, for every bushel of corn there is a bushel of cobs. Two billion bushels of corn means 2,000,000,000 bushels of cobs. That is a lot of cobs to turn out on the American landscape each year, particularly if they are only ruthlessly burned to get rid of them or are committed to the slow fate of decomposing and mingling with the soil whence they came.

From corncobs is now made adhesive better for some important uses than any adhesive previously produced. Cellulose for the making of dynamite and other articles is extracted from cobs which also provide a filler for a good quality of paper. Cobs yield acetate of lime, from which acetic acid is made—and now for the grand climax. Chemists have discovered that corncobs, properly humored and dealt with, produce furfural—remember the word, furfural—which has been so rare and so valuable as to bring $29 a pound. A ton of cobs yields as much as thirty pounds of furfural. Six hundred dollars a ton! Whew. But hold! Chemists estimate that furfural can be produced in this way for 20 cents a pound. That estimate enhances the respect due the cob as a member of civilized society.

Furfural, if you ask, is a basic intermediary used in dyes. Out of it there are made as many kinds of dyes as there are ways proposed in grandma's scrapbook for cooking potatoes or using flour. A host of shades of cloth refer back to the lowly corncob for the source of their beauty and many paints and lacquers would not be what they are if there were no corncobs in the world.

"Selected Conscription For Church Work"

Text of Anniversary Sermon in Tabernacle Methodist Church

Anniversary services were held in the Tabernacle Methodist church Sunday and large congregations were in attendance at both services. Rev. S. W. Fallis of the Methodist Book Room Toronto was the preacher of the day and his discussions were of a high order. The special music rendered by the choir was most pleasing. In the evening Rev. Mr. Fallis' subject was "Selected Conscription for Church Work," and his text was from St. Luke 6th chapter, 13th verse:

"And when it was day, He called unto Him His disciples, and of them He chose twelve, whom He named Apostles."

Every important principle was involved in the appointment of the Apostles for the work of the Master. It was a divine commission enunciated by the Lord Jesus Christ. When virtually the whole world was involved in the recent great war, conscription was resorted to; but it did not come soon enough. It was the only democratic principle that should have been pursued from the first. In the time of a crisis it was called into play. Christ's warfare is a world-wide task and it is colossal. It will be a long and tedious task before the world is brought into the Kingdom of God, but it will eventually be accomplished.

Jesus warned His deciples that it would be a drawn-out warfare and the issue might be doubtful at times. He said to them that the Kingdom of God would come, after there had been failure. Jesus was looking over the world as a field with a diversity of soil for the sowing of the gospel seed. Some seed will grow some will not, according to the soil. In spite of discouragement Jesus says the Kingdom of God will come and recreate the whole world. Many are now outside the Kingdom, but all will be brought within the fold. Jesus Christ could not have accomplished His work alone and He called His disciples to prosecute the work. He had a right to call upon His disciples to carry on His work. His general principles were that His disciples were His followers and ambassadors.

As we bear allegiance to our earthly King, we should bear allegiance to the King of Kings. Everybody who becomes a participant of Christ's blessings should be a disciple of His. We should also accept the life of sacrifice. God never compels a man to come nto His Kingdom. If we are in it is voluntary on our part, and having come, accept the responsibilities whatever they are. Jesus Christ warned His disciples on this matter. Our young men went to war not because they liked war, but because they considered it to be their duty. Jesus did not like the cross, but it was only by the way of the cross that His mission could be accomplished. We are called to carry on as our young brave Canadians carried on in the great war. Self-sacrifice is what is desired and expected, if the task is to be accomplished. God expects all to do their duty, in order that all mankind may hear His gospel.

During the service Mrs. Brown sang with much effect a solo "I heard the Voice of Jesus Say," and the male quartette, H. Moorman, E. Mouck, M. Lavoie and P. Mitchell rendered a suitable selection. In the anthem "Lift Up Your Heads," Mrs. Grant sang the solo.

Make Alarm Clocks Out of Milkmen

Delaware Milkmen May Have to Waken their Customers

Dover, Del., Feb. 7.—A law requiring milkmen to become human alarm clocks is now being discussed by members of the Delaware legislature.

The House now has before it Senator Bennett's bill compelling telephone operators to give the time of day to any subscriber requesting it.

Certain legislators today proposed an amendment which would force milkmen to call customers when delivery is made in the morning, providing customers notify them of the time they wish to be awakened.

Some members opposed the amendment on the ground that it would be superfluous, as milkmen now awaken their customers whether the latter wish it or not.

While James Beckett, an employee of the Frost & Wood Company at Smith's Falls, was showing his wife and little son the operation of a drop hammer at the works, he accidentally stepped on the trip which released the big weight. It fell on Mrs. Beckett's arm, mangling it badly at the wrist. She is now at the Smith's Falls Public Hospital where the physicians are making an effort to save the arm.

TWO OLD PAPERS.

Picton Gazette and Brockville Recorder Reach Ripe Old Age.

To the Picton Gazette at 90 are to be extended the congratulations due, not to a hoary patriarch, but to a senior of the press whom time has touched but to improve. The years of a man can seldom exceed three score and ten, but who can say what shall be the span of life for a newspaper that never falls into bad hands? Editors may come and editors may go, but the newspaper that is well edited and well managed goes on forever. For it, length of days is an asset. All other conditions being the same, a newspaper at 90 has a stronger hold on life than the same newspaper had at 60. Most papers in this country have been subjected to severe tests in the last few years. The newspaper casualties of that period were numerous, and the papers that lost their identity through absorption by rivals were also considerable in number. The press has by no means come to smooth sailing yet, for the price of newsprint is higher than ever, and scarcely anything entering into the production of a newspaper costs less to-day than it did in the crisis of the war. Started as the Hallowell Free Press on December 20, 1830, the Picton paper became the Gazette six years afterwards. "Gazette" was a favorite name for early Canadian newspapers. In a letter to the editor of the paper Mr. Wellington Boulter, for many years one of the prominent business men of Prince Edward County, has this to say: "The Gazette has steadily been the organ of the grand old Liberal-Conservative Party, established by Canada's greatest statesman, the late Right Honorable Sir John A. Macdonald, who came to Prince Edward from Scotland." In its anniversary issue the Gazette has a poem in which the paper itself is represented as soliloquising. One stanza is as follows:

"By the flickering candle-light
I was read by dame and squire,
Or, when pine knots, blazing bright,
Served alike for light and fire."

On January 16 the Brockville Recorder rounded out a full century. A hundred years is a long time in the history of this province, and a little short of the whole stretch covered by the history of Ontario journalism. The Recorder's files reflect the joys and sorrows of pioneer life in a section of Ontario that from the first has taken an important part in the affairs of Ontario. The Brockville Recorder and Times is an enterprising and influential paper that is published every day. It has been owned and edited by men who have taken a prominent part in the work of promoting the interests of the newspaper business in the province. In 1863 Col. Wylie, who was the founder of the paper, was president of the Press Association of Ontario. He delivered his presidential address in verse. Hon. George P. Graham, who has conducted the paper since early in the nineties, is the president of the company by which it is owned. Throughout the hundred years of the Recorder's existence politics was a matter of polemics, in which that newspaper bore its due part on the Liberal side. Few Ontario Liberal papers published outside the principal cities were more widely quoted in political discussions than the Recorder.

Became a Canadian.

Rev. H. A. Berlis, who was elected on January 1 to be a school trustee in the city of Toronto, has had an eventful career. Born in the new Republic of Latvija, he is a descendant of the old French nobility. This little country has proved to be one of the most progressive of the European republics, and has already established a mercantile marine of its own. Its flag is red, with a white bar.

Mr. Berlis came to Canada in 1903 and was naturalized in 1906, when he entered Knox College and surprised everyone with the brilliance he exhibited in mastering the language of his adopted country. In 1909 he graduated and entered the Presbyterian ministry. His first charge was at Victoria Harbor, Ont., and from there he moved to the Robertson Memorial Church at Winnipeg. In May, 1917, he became pastor of Rhodes Avenue Presbyterian Church, Toronto, and has attracted such attention that his church is now overcrowded. Few persons would suspect that Mr. Berlin was of foreign birth; as in appearance, voice and manner he is thoroughly British. More than this, he is British in spirit, being imbued with the highest of British principles and enthusiastic for the well-being of the land of his adoption. During the recent elections he proved himself to be the most eloquent speaker on any of the platforms. At one meeting an opponent called out: "What nationality are you?" To which Mr. Berlis replied emphatically: "I am a Canadian."

Canada's Peat Bogs.

The peat bogs of Canada contain at least 9,000,000,000 tons of peat. It is not certain whether Canada's supply can be utilized enough to be a great commercial success. The countries which have met with the most success in putting peat on a paying basis are Germany, Sweden and Italy. Canada's product is quite up to the standard of the European, although the European countries have an advantage, as most of them have had specially constructed furnaces for the use of peat.

Poison Pistol.

One is not permitted to carry firearms, but a "poison pistol" is different. There is no law forbidding it.

It is a new idea, the invention of a Frenchman — most like an ordinary pistol in appearance, but without cartridges or bullets. Its handle, however, contains a poison gas fluid.

If a bandit comes along, you press the trigger, and the pistol shoots a thin stream of the fluid in his face. It puts him out of business instanter.

Premier Smuts Wins Battle Of Ballots in S. Africa

SECESSIONISTS DEFEATED AT THE POLLS, SHOWING THAT SOUTH AFRICANS PREFER REMAINING PART OF BRITISH EMPIRE TO BEING EXPLOITED BY DEMAGOGUES.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

CAPETOWN, Feb. 9.—An enormous majority was given the South African party in Durban and Capetown yesterday, while the Labor party suffered a severe reverse in the Rand district. In Capetown the South African party gained two seats, in Durban three, in the Rand eight, and in East London 1. The victory of the party headed by Premier Smuts is attributed to the fact that working men voted against the secession issue raised by General Hertzog and did not pay much attention to sectional issues raised by labor leaders.

In March of last year a general election was held in South Africa which resulted in the return to the House of Assembly of 41 members of the South African or Government party which is mainly composed of the Dutch speaking business and professional men, and other town dwellers; 44 Nationalists, led by General Hertzog, and supported mainly by the rural Boers; 25 Unionists, led by Sir Thomas Smartt, and representing English speaking electors; 21 Laborites and 3 Independents, who supported the Government. General Smut's Government was kept in office by the support of the Unionists, as the Government of General Botha was throughout the war.

Nevertheless General Smuts was not satisfied with the political situation, and early last Summer an attempt was made to reunite the two Dutch speaking parties, or find a basis for a compromise. A joint congress was held, attended by 600 delegates. A strong feeling in favor of racial reunion was manifested among the rank and file of the Nationalists, and the Dutch Reformed Church gave its influence to the movement for re-union. The Nationalist leaders, however, were opposed to any compromise of their position, and the economic antagonisms between the towns and country accentuated the differences between the two factions. General Hertzog and his principal colleagues made it clear that their program envisaged Republicanism and secession from the Empire, a prospect that to the Dutch speaking business men meant isolation and stagnation. At the same time the representatives of the rural Boers were indifferent to or shspicious of General Smuts' economic policies, which were intended to foster the development of manufacturing and the other industries in South Africa.

General Smuts' next move was to issue a manifesto "appealing to all right minded South Africans, irrespective of party or race to join a new party, which will be strong enough to safeguard the permanent interests of the Union against the disruptive and destructive policy of the Nationalists. Shortly after, in October last, a congress of the South African party was held, but the delegates declined to form a new party, and offered the Unionists and others the prospect of absorption, rather than partnership. When the Unionist convention was held two weeks later, Sir Thomas Smartt called upon his followers to sweep aside all considerations of party, all doubts and all thoughts of bargaining and "do the big thing in a big way." Although it was not an easy matter for the Unionists to efface themselves and abandon honorable and valued associations they decided to cast in their lot with the South African party with an enthusiasm and unanimity which was surprising. The spirit in which the sacrifice was made was evidently inspired by admiration of the role played by the South African Party during the war.

General Smuts, strengthened by the amalgamation, then began to proclaim the danger of the Nationalist policy and its possibilities of civil war. Hertzog answered that when the Nationalists talked of republicanism they were thinking of the remote future. "Neither I nor any Nationalists wants a blood bath," he declared. "It is merely one of Smuts' bogies." The Nationalist leaders then began to stress the economic issues, telling the farmers that bad conditions of the country were due to Smuts and his English friends.

As for the Labor Party, it has apparently confined its attention to economic issues, and shown hostilities to both the other parties. Colonel Cresswell, its leader, had a distinguished war record, and pledged himself to support the constitution. Apparently the Labor Party was convinced that election exigencies had magnified the dangers of the Nationalist policy.

Seized Railway Station in Dublin

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Dublin, Feb. 9.—One hundred Sinn Feiners gained control of the Great Northern railway station in this city last night and held it for more than an hour. A train going from Burtonport to Londonderry was derailed by unknown persons who placed boulders on the track, but there were no casualties. During the evening armed men entered a jewelry store on Wellington quay and carried off goods valued at three thousand pounds.

CHICAGO BANDITS STEAL STAGE MONEY

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Somewhere tonight a pair of automobile bandits are grinding their teeth and muttering vitriolic curses as they paw over about $1,000.00 worth of stage money, while at his home Clarence Beatty, collector for the A. and P. Stores, is wearing the smile that won't come off.

Beatty stepped from one of the company's stores this morning, his black bag bulging with money. He had proceeded only a few blocks when a mud-spattered car crowded his machine to the curb, and with two pistols levelled at Beatty's head, the occupants ordered him to hand over the black bag.

Beatty did as he was told. The bandits drove away at top speed, while the collector leisurely drove in the opposite direction, and a smile gradually spread over his countenance. "Fooled 'em that time," he told the police. Nothing in that bag but stage money. Carry the real stuff in my pocket."

And, as proof of his statement, he produced $500 in real money.

Capt. Janney to Fly To New Oil Fields

Calgary, Feb. 9.—Plans to provide transportation from Edmonton to Fort Norman oil fields by dirigible airships are under way, and C. K. Wollam, associated with Captain F. L. Janney, head of the concern which proposes to open up a quick route to the far north, is now in the United States completing arrangements for the delivery of the first "blimp" to be used in trial flights.

Mr. Wollam is convinced, after a meteorological survey and of a general search into the conditions prevailing in the north, of the absolute feasibility of the scheme, and is confident that in a short time a passenger service from Edmonton to Fort Norman and back in thirty hours will be an accomplished fact.

It is proposed that dirigibles capable of carrying 32 passengers shall be used.

Belleville Bread Boosted to 22c

The housewives of the city were today threatened with heart failure by shock when the baker called at their doors with the daily supply of the staff of life. Yesterday the price was 12 cents per loaf, wheras today the price asked and obtained was 22 cents a loaf an advance of 10 cents a loaf. Whilst it was generally anticipated that the low figure which bread reached could not be maintained it was not expected that the advance would be so great. We are, however, informed that one baker is selling it at 20 cents a loaf and will for the present not exceed that price.

Caudidate Elected On One-Third of Votes

Small Percentage of Ballots Cast Elects Liberal.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—Out of the confusion occasioned by the multiplication of candidates in the Federal by-election in West Peterboro, G. N. Gordon, the Liberal nominee, emerges elected to the House by approximately one-third of the total number of votes cast in the constituency. Although members of the Government are not inclined to commit themselves on the result of the polling; which reduces their following by one and adds on to the supporters of Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, the returns seem to indicate that J. H. Burnham ex-M.P., who contested the riding as an Independent Conservative, cut deeply into the vote which might otherwise have been recorded for the Government. Had Mr. Burnham not been in the field, Roland Denne, the Government candidate, would have had a substantial lead over Mr. Gordon. Conversely, had the former member's attitude been such that the Government could logically have endorsed his candidate, he might have carried the day against his Liberal, farmer and Labor opponents. The situation in West Peterboro was further complicated by the positions taken by Liberal and Farmer leaders and candidates, who participated in the contest. With respect to the fiscal issue, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and Hon. W. S. Fielding in a riding seventy-five per cent urban endeavored to convince the electors that the Liberal party, if returned to power, would propose no interference with the tariff until after a subsequent general election. J. C. Campbell in his address to the electors in the city of Peterboro presented a modified version of the Farmers' platform from which was omitted the denunciations of protection and the advocacy of free trade within the Empire in five years, which appear prominently in the resolution of the Dominion Council of Agriculture.

The result of the by-election in West Peterboro will probably tend to increase Hon. Mackenzie King's popularity with his followers in the Commons. Some of those followers were not greatly pleased with their leader's attitude during his tour of the Prairie Provinces last Summer when he seemed to be seeking an alliance with the organized farmers on the tariff question. Mr. King's course in West Peterboro, on the other hand will not add to his strength in the West.

West Peterboro has returned a Liberal member for the first time since 1908. In the war-time election of 1917 J. H. Burnham carried the constituency as a Unionist candidate by 2,200 majority of the total comprising civil and military votes. His majority as a Conservative candidate in 1911, however, was only 42. Speaking generally, in the period which began at Confederation and ended with the outbreak of war, West Peterboro was a fair fighting ground in which again a Liberal and now a Conservative triumphed. Majorities ran as high as three hundred or thereabouts either way. The late James Kendry, Conservative, won in 1900, by 351 votes. the late James R. Stratton carried the constituency in 1908, by 333.

Of thirteen by-elections held since the general election of 1917, the Government has carried Colchester, N.S., St. John, N.B.; Yale, B.C.; Victoria, B.C.; and Kingston, Ont. In four of these constituencies, Ministers were seeking election. All of those ridings had formerly been held by Conservatives. The Government lost North Ontario, East Elgin, Temiskaming and West Peterboro which had formerly been Conservative. The first two were carried by Farmer candidates the third by a Farmer-Labor candidate and the last by a Liberal: three seats, Assiniboia, Sask.; Glengarry, Ont.; and Carleton, N.B.; carried by Liberal Unionists in 1917, and previously held by Liberals, passed to the Farmer column; three Quebec seats, Quebec East, St. James' Division of Montreal and Kamouraska, returned Liberal members as before. Since Right Hon. Arthur Meighen has been Prime Minister, three by-elections, those in Colchester, N.S.; St. John, N.B.; and Yale, B.C., have been carried by the Government and two have been won by its opponents.

TOTAL PROHIBITION GREATER WIN THAN WAR

O.T.A. Reports Start Big Row In Legislature

Major Tolmie Upholds Right of Appeal to County Judge.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—For a brief moment yesterday it appeared as if the Legislature would divide on an issue as to whether the House should debate now or at some future time the minority report of the special committee on O. T. A. Legislations. Party whips consulted leaders and scurried hither and thither in anticipation of the impending vote. Then suddenly Hon. G. Howard Ferguson receded from his position alongside Mr. Dewart in pressing for discussion and the Liberal leader decided not to press his opposition to adjournment.

Attorney-General Raney introduced the main committee report, and Major J. C. Tolmie, Liberal member for Windsor, introduced that of eleven dissenters. The difference between them was that the main report recommended O. T. A. appeals to a high court on the evidence taken at the trial before the Magistrate; the minority report urged appeal to a County Court Judge, with no restriction as to evidence-taking. It was argued that the sub-committee had taken undue liberties in putting into the main report the recommendation it contained.

As mover of the minority report, Major Tolmie explained the convictions of the men who signed it. He declared emphatically that Attorney-General Raney, who opposes it, was present at the committee meeting which voted unanimously for County Court appeals. In moving the adjournment of the discussion the Attorney-General gave as his reason the fact that O. T. A. amendments were pending. He challenged the statement, however, of the member for Windsor, as to his presence at the committee when the matter at issue was discussed and carried, whereupon Major Tolmie promptly read from the verbatim reports of proceedings to contradict him. Mr. Dewart vigorously opposed adjournment of the debate, as did Hon. Mr. Ferguson, who alleged on the part of the Government another attempt to evade responsibility.

In introducing the report Major J. C. Tolmie pointed out that the eleven members signing it really constituted half of the number of committeemen considering O. T. A. matters. Of the 24 members originally named there were two who never attended a committee meeting. And on the day the vote was taken there were absent members who favored such an amendment to the O. T. A.

"While I am in favor of every move necessary for the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act," Major Tolmie declared, "I hesitate very much in having any act that acts in such a way as to leave the impression that the people of the community are not receiving a fair deal and a just trial.

FOOLISH RUMOR

London, Feb. 9.—The foreign office today issued a statement declaring to be without foundation. Reports published in the United States on Tuesday to the effect that an official of the foreign office had uttered a warning of increasing seriousness of Anglo-American relations. "On the Contrary" reads the statement the "foreign office is confident that any questions arising between Great Britain and the U.S. can, and will be settled without difficulty whether with existing or succeeding administration."

Gov't Supporters Consider Minority Report

Special Despatch to the Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Toronto, Feb. 9.—Supporters of the Drury Government today held a caucas at Queens Park to consider Tolmie minority report of the Ontario Temperance Act Committee which recommends that defendants in breaches of O.T.A. cases shall have a right to appeal to County Judge who shall hear evidence for himself. Hon. W. E. Raney was present at the caucas to vigorously protest against the suggestion of County Judge re-hearing evidence in these cases. Labor men will nearly all support Tolmie's suggestion.

Re-Establish Fit As Well as Disabled

G.W.V.A. Dominion Executive to Urge Parliamentary Committee.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—Complete re-establishment of the fit as well as the unfit will be urged on the Parliamentary committee dealing with soldiers' civil re-establishment by the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada. This was decided by the Dominion Executive of the association, which met in special session to consider the program to be placed before the committee at the coming session. This program includes an appeal for a Federal housing grant for returned men; industrial credits; re-education; increased and longer term pensions for tuberculosis patients and problem cases; a dollar per cent. pension policy; amendments to the Insurance Act; adjustments to the Workmen's Compensation Act, and unemployment Insurance. The Dominion Command reaffirmed its previous stand for measured compensation and will take full advantage of the offer made by Premier Meighen, when on his Western tour, to again fully plead the claims of the returned men before the Parliamentary Committee.

One of the special pleas to be made before the Parliamentary Committee will be that for the dollar per cent. policy of issuing pensions. Under this system a man with a 20 per cent. disability would receive $20 per month.

A plea also will be made to secure the full bonus and pension for pensioners living in the United States and the United Kingdom. This plea will include a clause looking toward saving pensioners in the United States the difference in the exchange between Canada and that country. The Dominion Command will ask that the present pension which includes a 50 per cent. high-cost-of-living bonus, be made permanent. This, if granted, would obviate the granting of the bonus from year to year.

Monkey-Gland Patient Awaits His Promised Rejuvenation

"I FEEL NO YOUNGER THAN BEFORE THE OPERATION," SAYS THE 74-YEAR-OLD ENGLISHMAN, AFTER VORONOFF TRANSFUSION—TOO SOON TO EXPECT RESULTS, STATES SURGEON.

Paris, Feb. 8.—"I feel no younger than I did before the operation," said Arthur Liardet, a seventy-four year old Englishban, upon whom Dr. Serge Voronoff on Monday performed his much advertised operation for restoration of youth, the basis of which is the transplanting of monkey glands in the human body.

"Yet, whatever I may feel in the future and whether my own case is a success or not, I am sure that Dr. Voronoff knows what he is about," Mr. Liardet added.

The surgeon himself denied vigorously that he had said the Englishman felt "already thirty years younger," explaining that it would take from three to six months for the effects of the operation to manifest themselves.

"It is ridiculous to speak so soon," he said. "I do not see why the newspapers make so much of this experiment, which has only begun, while nothing is said of other cases which have already proved successful. It takes months to determine the success or failure of such an operation.

"All we can say now," he added, with a smile at Mr. Liardet, "is that the operation occurred, and that the patient is not dead."

Mr. Liardet, an exceedingly intelligent and well preserved man, was formerly an actor, a dramatic and operatic impressario and an intimate friend of Joseph Jefferson, in whose company he appeared in Australia. He is the youngest of twenty children; his parents were first cousins and his mother was fifty-five years old at the time of his birth. In spite of these handicaps, as they are usually considered, he has undergone the operation perfectly and is now free from fever.

The surgeon is charging Mr. Liardet nothing for the operation itself. The patient was, until a few years ago, a wealthy man, but financial reverses have of late seriously impaired his fortune and he is at present directing a private hotel in the West End of London.

Dr. Voronoff refused to discuss the method of his operation or speak of others that he had performed.

Interest Aroused In Patronage Boom

Agitation for Discarding Examination System in Civil Service.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—Much interest in civil service has been aroused by the report here that action would probably be taken during the session to return appointments to the outside civil service to the patronage basis. While a resolution having that change in view is to be introduced by Sir Sam Hughes notice to that effect having already been given, it is hardly expected that the change will be brought about in that way.

Members of Parliament on both sides of the House have, in the past, voiced their dissatisfaction with the present method of making appointments to the civil Service and some of them wished for a return to something approaching the old order of things. The Government, however, has frowned down all such suggestions in the past.

At the same time, many members of the House and at least one member of the present cabinet, have expressed the opinion that under proper methods of nominating men for vacancies by committees operating in the districts where the vacancies exist, a more suitable employee could often be secured than is done by the present system of examination.

It is believed in many quarters, that if a resolution favoring the making of only the ouside service appointments by some method such as this, came from any fairly strong group of private members, that it would not meet with much opposition on either side of the House. So far as can be learned however, there is no intention to interfere with the Commission handling all inside service appointments.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

Peterboro, Feb. 9.—J. H. Burnham, defeated Independent candidate in the West Peterboro election, to-day reported to the chief electoral officer at Ottawa, that hundreds of names had been left off the voter's lists by apparent design on the part of some house-to house canvassers. He declares that some of the canvassers made it a point to find out how women intended to vote and by the production of type written pieces of paper bearing their names assured them they were on the lists, when the time came for them to vote their names were not on the regular lists.

VETERAN TRAINMAN, JOHN WALLACE, DIES

Toronto, Feb. 8.—The funeral of John Wallace, one of the oldest employees on the northern division of the G.T.R., will take place to-morrow at 2.30 p.m. to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Mr. Wallace had been ill for some time. He was born 72 years ago in Londonderry, Ireland, coming to Canada when he was quite young. He settled in Toronto and soon after took up railroading, entering the employ of the old Northern Railway as a brakeman. He later became a conductor on the Grand Trunk.

Before retiring, two years ago, Mr. Wallace had put in 47 years' service on the Northern Division. He belonged to the Order of Railway Conductors and the Irish Protestant Benevolent Society. He was also a member of Bloor Street Presbyterian Church.

Besides his wife, he leaves two sons, John of Montreal and Joseph of Toronto, and one daughter, Frances, at home.

Friends Notice a Big Change in Her

..O..—, xbzb , , (HTAD LDHMR DL "Tanlac Has Done Me a World Of Good," Declares Little Toronto Woman

"Since my friends are all telling me how much better I am looking, I think it's time for me to be recommending Tanlac," said Mrs. S. Ashman, of 227 Ashdale Avenue, Toronto, Ont.

"Up to about two years ago I always enjoyed splendid health, but from that time on I was in a terrible condition. My appetite was poor and my digestion bad. My nerves were all upset, I couldn't get any sound sleep and had constant pains in the back of my head. I fell off in weight and strength and the least effort would tire me out completely.

"What I needed most was a general all round building up, and Tanlac has certainly done that for me. By the time I had finished my fourth bottle all my troubles were gone too. I now eat heartily, sleep fine, have gained ten pounds in weight and feel like an entirely different person. Everybody notices the improvement in my condition. Tanlac has done me a world of good and I just feel like praising it to the skies."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store, and by the leading druggists in every town.

AN APPRECIATION

Consecon was shocked and grieved on Thursday, February 3rd, 1921, when the news reached here of the sudden death in Belleville of Mr. Arden Blakely, District Manager of The Canada Life Assurance Company. The deceased was the only son of Mr and Mrs. Richard Blakely of this village. He was born a few miles from here in the 4th Concession of Ameliasburg, where he resided in his beautiful farm until four years ago, when he changed his occupation of a successful young farmer to a commercial life. He was a bright, clever young man, and beloved by all who knew him. It was his pleasant manner and his winning way which helped to make his life as an insurance man so successful. In less than four years he rose to the position of manager of Hastings, Northumberland and Prince Edward Counties.

Just recently he had the honor of being made president of the Underwriters' Association

The funeral which was conducted from his residence, 213 George street, Belleville at 3 p.m., Saturday, was largely attended. The service was taken by Rev. Dr. Cleaver, Bridge street Methodist church of which deceased was a member, assisted by Rev. A. H. Foster, a former pastor of the deceased, who had married him some sixteen years ago to Miss Edith Ward daughter of J. J. Ward, Esq., Consecon, and grand-daughter of Peter Burr Esq., of Bloomfield. Professor Baker, B. D., M. A., of Albert College, Belleville opened the service with prayer, after which Professor Anglin (a friend of deceased), sang "Some Day". The remainder of the service was taken by Moira Lodge, A.F. & A.M., who attended in a body to pay their last respects to their departed Brother. Masons from Roblin's Mills, Consecon, Picton, Kingston, Trenton and other places were also in attendance. The deceased leaves a wife and four children, a father and mother, one sister, Mrs. Fred Adams, Norwood, and two nephews, Master C. Adams and Mr. W. Ferguson, bank manager at Lethbridge. Some of the mourners at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blakely, Consecon, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Adams, Norwood, Mr. W. Ferguson, Lethbridge, Mrs. Mary Ward and Mr. A. J. Ward, Consecon, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ward, Consecon, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ward, Kingston, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Ward, Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Burr, Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Baeter and Mr. C. Burr and Mrs. H. Burr, Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Waring, Picton.

The remains were taken to Belleville cemetery, where they received the last rites of the beautiful Masonic service. The sympathy of Consecon and community is extended to the bereaved relatives and friends. The floral offerings were numerous and very beautiful.

There is no death, the stars go down.
To rise upon some fairer shore;
Ha, we know not where his islands lift
Their fronded palms in air.
We only know He cannot drift beyond
His love and care.

STOLEN LIQUOR IS HIDDEN IN SPRACKLIN'S CHURCH

Windsor, Feb. 7.—In Police Court Chief of Police Pillon of Sandwich described the recovery of two cases of stolen rum, eight bottles of which were salvaged from the kitchen of the Sandwich Church. The Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, former License Inspector, is pastor of the church. The bottles had been hidden in the church by Robert Dehatre of Sandwich, who is said to have been concerned in the theft. The man declared he had gone there to clean up the place, although he was connected with the church in no official capacity. He was fined $50 by Magistrate Gundy.

Belleville's Opportunity in Technical Education

By. P. C. MacLaurin, B.A.

There is a grand opportunity at the present time to combine our new Collegiate building with a Technical and Industrial school. The work which has been carried on for the past few years in the night school classes has been in a large measure preparatory and the people have taken advantage and are taking advantage of the night classes this year, and with the proper accommodation to carry on classes in plumbing, auto mechanics, woodworking, metal working, home nursing, etc., this number could easily be increased to 400 or 500. The provincial government is now in a position to make liberal grants to assist in the building and equipment of Technical schools, these grants to be paid as the work progresses. If we do not take advantage of these grants very soon we will not be able to get them under such favorable conditions as many places have already taken advantage of them and the amount of money available for these grants is limited by the Federal Government. In order that we may understand clearly how very liberal these grants are I will quote them in detail under the headings of (1) Salaries, (2) Equipment, (3) Buildings.

SALARIES.

(a) A grant on salaries of the teaching staff approved by the Minister and calculated as follows on the total salaries of the said staff: 75 per cent. of the expenditure on salaries up to and including an expenditure of $2000 and the following percentages on all expenditures on salaries above that amount, 66 2-3 per cent. of the expenditures above $2,000 and up to and including $5,000, 50 per cent. of the expenditures above $5,000 and up to and including $10,000, 33 1-3 per cent. of the expenditures above $10,000 and up to and including $15,000, 25 per cent. of the expenditures above $15,000.

(b) The expenditure for salaries of persons with qualifications approved by the Minister appointed to perform the duties specified in Section 11 (5) of the Industrial Education Act may be included as part of the legitimate expenditure for salaries.

EQUIPMENT.

(a) Fifty per cent. of the cost of equipment especially provided in any year for Evening or Day Industrial Technical and Art schools and approved by the Minister.

(b) Boards shall be reimbursed for expenditures on equipment purchased previous to September 1st, 1919, on the basis set forth in Regulation 22 (3) of the regulations adopted in 1915, but

(c) A special grant not to exceed $20,000 may be paid on equipment purchased by a Board and approved by the Minister before October 31, 1919.

BUILDINGS.

(a) Fifty per cent. of the cost of buildings especially constructed for Day or Evening Industrial, Technical, and Art schools and approved by the Minister. The value of the land shall not be considered as entering into the cost of any building. The value of buildings already erected for any purpose, which are to be remodelled or added to, shall not be considered as entering into the cost of any building.

(b) Where an Industrial, Technical, or Art School is established as a department of a Continuation school, a High School or a Collegiate Institute, the grant of fifty per cent. will apply only to the cost of that part of the building which is to be used exclusively for industrial, technical, or art education. But, with the approval of the Minister, a grant of twenty-five per cent. will be paid on the cost of an Assembly hall, a gymnasium, a library, or laboratories used in common by pupils of the Industrial, Technical, or Art school and the pupils of the Continuation school, High school, or Collegiate Institute occupying the same building.

Letters to the Editor

OPEN AIR RINKS

To the Editor of The Intelligencer

Dear Sir,—Alderman Treverton says he has done his best to get the free skating rinks ready, and that he considers it a waste of money to carry on with the work. Yes, that's the same old story, just like the fine baseball grounds the Champion G.T.R. club was going to have!

I submit, sir, that Alderman Treverton and his men have NOT done their best to get ice because if they had we should have had it long ago. There has been (thanks to good old Mother Nature) skating for weeks and weeks on the Bay. If there could be weather cold enough to freeze the bay up, there is no real reason why the same weather wouldn't do for the rinks. The trouble is they haven't flooded when the weather WAS favorable, they haven't flooded often enough, they haven't worked at nights on the rinks, like the owners of private rinks do. It is freezing hard tonight, for instance, and what are the Public Works Dept doing about it? Nothing, of course, but waiting till it thaws again. I've seen plenty of good freezing days when they might have been flooded, but they never troubled till five o'clock at night, and then they flooded just in time to prevent a game of hockey which was scheduled to play in the evening. The time to flood is at ten o'clock at night immediately after play. It is then ready for use next day. It looks to me as if this work has been badly managed. I'm interested in the boys' hockey league and we've spent money on equipment, so has the city spent a lot on getting these rinks ready. Are we going to allow the work to stop now just when we have a good body of ice? We've only had the rink for use one night this winter. How many nights has the Turnbull street rink been open?

I trust that others will express themselves in this matter and see if we can't inject a little pep into our somnolescent public works.

I am, sir,
Yours respectfully,
H. J. PARKER

TALENTED AMATEURS

The Campbellford Herald makes the following reference to the recent visit of the Dramatic Club of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Belleville to that town. "An Old Fashioned Mother," played by the Dramatic Club of St. Andrew's Church, Belleville, in the Opera House here, on Friday night last, was a great success. The hall was well filled, testifying to the appreciation of the former efforts of the club, when they once before appeared before a Campbellford audience under the auspices of the young people of St. Andrew's Church of this town. It is needless to go into details of the various characters in the play "Jerry" the Comedian, whose obsession was "swapping" merited particular mention as being the "Star Performer." Miss Lillian Locke, as Aunt Debbie, did exceedingly well in a very difficult role. Gloriana acted her part in a very natural and unaffected manner. Mrs. Alyea the directress, gave two readings between the acts, which met with enthusiastic applause. The humor and the pathos of the play were well brought out by the various actors, and the morale was of a very high order. We would congratulate St. Andrew's church, Belleville, on having a club of young people with so much initiative and enterprise, also with such talent.

CHICKEN THIEVES BUSY

A number of the farmers of the vicinity of Orono have suffered losses by hen thieves, but none more effectually than C. F. Awde, whose farm is a little east of Renwicks' corners, nothing being left but a few tail-feathers of the twenty-six choice pullets that composed the flock. The wheels of a buggy were taken off and also carried away. The raid was made during Friday night.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Officers of Lydford Lodge, Sons of England of this city were last evening installed by District Deputy Grand President, Bro. J. W. Savage of Belleville. After the installation ceremony a social time was indulged in by all present. Brief addresses interspersed with vocal selections constituted the program. Refreshments were served at the close.

Y.M.C.A. DRIVE

MILLIONS KILLED IN ACTION

Wonderful news! Millions and millions of germs killed in action and thousands and thousands of victims relieved of bronchitis, asthma, coughs, and colds. There is great rejoicing in the fact that science has at last invented the world's surest death trap for germs—Buckley's Bronchitis Mixture. With the first dose this remedy gets right down to business, and never ceases in its destructive work until every trace of the disease is completely removed and the victim restored to normal health. Letters from all parts of Canada praising this wonderful mixture are literally pouring into headquarters. Read this letter:—"Years of suffering from that terrible affliction, bronchial asthma, ordered by all medical men to close my business in Montreal and go south to a warmer climate, but I noticed your ad. in the "Montreal Standard" for the above mixture and I said I would give one more trial to health before I leave my native town, and thank the good maker I did. My bronchial tubes are clear, the hacking cough has disappeared, the wheezing cough has ceased as if by magic, and all discomforts have gone since taking your wonderful mixture."—Herbert Corri, 417 McKay Street, Montreal. There is no reason whatever why you cannot be completely and speedily restored to health if you take this remedy. You are satisfied or the money is refunded, according to our guarantee. Don't delay. (What the Press Agents Say.)

VAUDEVILLE AT GRIFFIN'S

In order to save his wife's good name he was forced to rush up to the altar in the middle of his only child's wedding, and stop the ceremony. Can you imagine the consternation of all the guests, the fright of the bride at this wild interruption, the indignation of the groom? Yet Frederick Vroom, as the southern General, true to the traditions of a country which passes the honor of its women above all else, was compelled to this act of cruelty.

"The Kentucky Colonel," is presented by an all star cast, headed by the famous Joseph J. Dowling, "The Miracle Man of the Screen." Not since his tremendous success as the patriarch in "The Miracle Man" has this talented actor scored such an overwhelming success as that achieved by him in the title role of the stirring drama of the "Blue Grass State."

"The Kentucky Colonel" will be shown at Griffin's Tomorrow to Saturday with a matinee Saturday along with an excellent vaudeville act consisting of Fred Weedon and Company late of the "Dumbells" in a very funny farce comedy "Demobolization" as played by this talented company in France, a 2 reel classic comedy, vaudeville movies with its bill of vaudeville, "Pirate Gold" serial and a Ditmars animal study have been arranged for presentation on the same program.

ALL-STAR CAST IN BEST OF LUCK

A large audience were thrilled time and time again at Griffin's last night where "The Best of Luck" was the feature photoplay attraction, the picture is a filmization of the celebrated Drury Lane melodrama by Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton.

"The Best of Luck" is interpreted by an all-star cast. The leading roles are in the hands of such talented players as Kathryn Adams, Jack Holt, Fred Malatesta and Lillie Leslie. The action of the play revolves about a chest of jewels, once the property of a Spanish Queen, which lies at the bottom of the sea in a wrecked ship. The efforts of Leslie MacLeod, a courageous Scottish girl, and General Lanzana, an unscrupulous Spaniard, to regain possession of the rich treasure result in vivid action that causes the spectators to gasp in excitement and excitement and astonishment.

Harold Lloyd in a very funny 2 reel comedy "Get out and Get Under," Screen Snapshots showing famous screen stars at work and play, an interesting Burton Holmes Travelogue and Eileen percy in "The Third Eye" are also being screened in addition to the feature offering. The entire program will be shown again for the last time tonight.

And in my own heart was also a great excitement, for it seemed to me that I was fighting a great battle for France all alone. All day I could see that that Mr. Jefferson Whitworth and the other men of wealth who with him were seeking to be robbers to my country were first in consultation with themselves and then with my uncle, the General Robert, and also the Gouverneur Faulkner. Would their powerful wickedness prevail and be able to force a signing of that paper on the gouverneur? Was that in their power? I asked myself, and in my ignorance I did not know an answer and had no person to demand one from. There was no ease of heart to me when the days went by, and I was so at work with my Buzz that I had no time for words from my Gouverneur Faulkner or glance from those eyes of the dawn star. I could only murmur to myself:

"Vive la France and Harpeth America!"

CHAPTER XII.

"Immediately I Come to You!"

AND so the time passed until the morning upon which the same railroad train which had brought young Robert Carruthers down into the valley home of his forefathers, arrived with yet another son of France and his secretaries and servants. All were in attendance at the station of arrival, from the secretary of state, the General Carruthers, who in his large car was to take the Count de Bourdon to the gouverneur's mansion for immediate introduction, down to good Cato in a very new gray coat and a quite shiny black hat.

I heard the great railway train approaching, which was perhaps to bring me my dishonor, and I drew those tears back into my heart and stepped forward to the steps of the car, from which I could see a very slight and short but very distinguished looking Frenchman about to descend.

"I thank the good God I have never before encountered him," I said in my heart as I stood in front of him.

"Lieutenant the Count de Bourdon, I make you welcome to the state of Harpeth, in the name of my uncle, the secretary of that state," I said to him in the language of his own country as I clapped together my heels and gave to him the bow from the waist of a French gentleman who is not a soldier. "Will you permit that I lead you to that uncle?"

"Many thanks, monsieur, is it Carruthers I name you after your distinguished relative?" he made answer to me as he returned my bow with first one of its kind and then a military salute.

"Robert Carruthers, sir, and at your service," I made answer to him with a great formality. And as I spoke I saw that he gave me a glance of great curiosity and would have asked a question, but at that moment my uncle, the General Robert, stood beside us.

"I present to you the General Carruthers, secretary of the state of Harpeth. Monsieur the Lieutenant Count de Bourdon of the Forty-fourth chasseurs of the republic of France," I said with again a great ceremony and a very deep bow.

"I'm mighty glad to welcome you to old Harpeth, count. How did you make the trip down?" said my uncle, the General Robert, as he held out his large and beautiful old hand and gave to the Count Edouard de Bourdon such a clasp that must have been to him most painful.

"I thank you, monsieur the secretary of Harpeth; my journey was of great pleasure and comfort," were the words which he returned in very nice English.

"Then we'll go right up and see Governor Faulkner at the capitol before lunch, count, if that suits you," my uncle, the General Robert, said with a very evident relief at those words of English coming from that French mouth. "Here's my car over this way and this is Mr. Clendenning, who'll look after the rest of the gentlemen in your party and bring them on up to the capitol."

"Monsieur," said the Lieutenant Count de Bourdon, with another bow and then a quick recovery as he saw that he must take the hand of Buzz, held out to him in great cordiality. These handshakes of America are very confusing to those of Europe.

I saw a great laughter almost to explosion in the eyes of my Buzz at the very little man who had such a great manner, and I made a hurrying of him and my uncle, the General Robert, to the large car standing beside the station.

"I will precede you in my cherry," I said, as I saw both the gentlemen seated together upon the back seat of the large black machine.

"No you don't; you take your seat right in here with us to be on hand if any bridge of this international conversation breaks down under the count and me," answered my uncle, the General Robert, with stern command.

HOCKEY

Referring to the intermediate hockey match here on Friday evening between Belleville and Port Hope, the Port Hope Guide has the following:

"Now comes Belleville. The boys go to Belleville Friday night and the return game will be here on Monday. Commercial men say that Belleville have a very fast team and much heavier than Port Hope. But, it is said that Pete Darch and Roland Jex could stop a fast moving train, so why worry about the weight."

On Friday night at the arena here the Port Hope intermediate team will try conclusions with our boys and a battle royal is assured. Last night the Port Hope team at their home town defeated Oshawa by a score of 3 to 0 and won the round in the district.

JUNIORS WIN 2ND ROUND

The many Belleville admirers of our Junior Hockey team have reason to be proud of the success which has attended their efforts this far. The team were easy victors in the first round and have succeeded in winning the second round. On Thursday night of last week at the arena here the Lindsay Midgets were defeated to the tune of 5 to 2 and the return game took place last evening at Lindsay. Whilst our young players were defeated by one goal, they nevertheless won the round by two goals. In this game Belleville players scored their two goals in the first period, and the second and third periods Lindsay team secured three goals. The ice at the opening of the game was good but towards the close of the play it became heavy. Hunter the local goal tender saved a number of goals by good playing. Swayne was the star for Belleville whilst Hall and Mills played a good game for Lindsay. The line up of the teams was as follows:

Belleville—Goal, Hunter; defense, Canning and Holway; centre, Swayne; right wing, Coon; left wing, Hagerman; subs., Goyer and Armstrong.

Lindsay—Goal, McClory; defense, Hall and Reeves; centre, Mills; right wing, Williams; left wing, Chambers; subs., Bisette and White.

Referee—Munro of London.

Belleville and Cornwall teams will now play off for the third round and it is expected that the first game will be played here on Monday evening next.

BRITTON RETAINS TITLE

New York, Feb. 8.—Jack Britton, the world's welterweight champion, sustained his right to the title by giving his old rival Ted Lewis one of the worst beatings that Lewis has ever been subjected to. The bout went the limit of fifteen rounds, and with the exception of the opening frame the Englishman was on the end of a severe drubbing at the hands of the famous Chicago welterweight.

Doughnuts that melt in your mouth!

The EASIFIRST way

What is the secret? Well, the cook and the recipe both count, but the big factor is really the frying fat you use. You see, EASIFIRST will stand a high temperature—you can make it 100 degrees hotter than lard and 200 degrees hotter than butter before it smokes or burns. This means that when the doughnut is dropped into the hot EASIFIRST a protecting crust is instantly formed around it—no grease soaks in to make the doughnut heavy or soggy.

A DOUGHNUT RECIPE
that means Success

1 heaping teaspoonful EASIFIRST
2 eggs.
1 cup white sugar.
½ teaspoonful salt.
1 cup sweet milk.
3 level teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon nutmeg.
3 cups flour.

Mix sugar and EASIFIRST together. Add well beaten eggs, milk and nutmeg. Sift flour, baking powder and salt twice. Mix with above ingredients. Roll out, cut with doughnut cutter and fry in hot EASIFIRST.

The EASIFIRST that's left over may be used again without carrying any flavors.

Be sure you get EASIFIRST—your dealer will supply you. In cartons and tins. Costs less and goes farther than butter or lard.

WEST PETERBORO' STILL CONSERVATIVE

The Toronto Globe and lesser lights of Liberalism, Mackenzie King brand and otherwise, are indulging in hysterics because in a field of five candidates, including two Conservatives, a Liberal was elected in West Peterboro. The Globe adds together the votes of all the candidates other than Denne and says, "Behold, all these voted against the Government!"

By the same process of reasoning 8,8?5 voters cast their ballots against Mackenzie King and all his works.

If a Labor candidate had been elected he would in all probability have supported the Government of the day.

If the U. F. O. man had been elected he would have supported the Government generally in all matters except a Tariff for Farmers Only.

If Burnham had been elected he would have given the government at least an independent support.

Neither Conservative, Independent Conservative, Labor or U. F. O. would have supported Mackenzie King, so it is difficult to see where the Globe gets its dope on 9000 votes against the government plastered in big head lines across its front page.

It is safe to say that no Liberals voted for Burnham, and the stirring notes of the pipers of the new National party with the imposing name certainly did not attract Liberals to Denne's standard in numbers visible to the naked eye.

The bald fact revealed by the election is that West Peterboro constituency is still Conservative, 5,341 votes being recorded for the two Conservative candidates as against 4,165 for the Liberal.

The U. F. O. and Labor candidates certainly did not get many Liberal votes, and must have drawn heavily from the Conservative strength, so the net result of the election shows that under the system now in vogue a constituency with a large Conservative majority is to be represented by a Liberal member.

Ham Burnham polled a surprisingly large vote, another evidence that when a man is familiarly called by a nickname and is known as HAM to Tom, Dick, Harry and Jane, he has a following which must be reckoned with, a personal following, who, remembering past victories, cannot associate the idea of defeat with their friend until the record of the polls shows that as a political factor he has passed into the discard. Others who foresaw inevitable defeat, voted for Ham with the feeling that their vote would make little difference in the avalanche of ballots except to show the Old Man that he had a friend or two left yet. Others may have been persuaded that Burnham had taken the right course in forcing the by-election, and between them all he got a very sizable vote, and so seriously divided the Conservative vote that the Liberal candidate slipped in a victor.

It may be a little thing for Burnham to be the instrument of having a Conservative constituency represented by a Liberal, but to the Conservatives of West Peterboro' it will be an offence not soon forgotten.

CRISP COMMENT

Premier Drury's broadening out tonic seems to have given him the lock-jaw on one subject at least.

Ham Burnham, ex-M.P., ran as an independent Conservative and now he can be as independent as he likes as an also-ran.

General Smuts says Americans are slow to fight but terrible in action, but the Cleveland News counters with this homely truth: "Terrible inaction expresses our handling of the Treaty."

United States Government proposes to regulate the meat packers, but judging from past performances all the general public will get out of the government's interference with big business will be the squeal.

Belleville folks are getting a three-pound loaf of bread for 16 cents because of war between the bakers. Any fellow that can start a fight between the Toronto flour foundries will deserve well of citizens who pay 12 cents for a pound and a half loaf.—Toronto Telegram.

"That the snow cleaning be done by the city and that the cost of doing this be included in, but not added to, the present high rate of taxes," is a somewhat ambiguous recommendation made by the committee dealing with Ideal City conditions. Surely the committee does not expect the City Councillors to personally shoulder shovels and remove the snow as a labor of love and wholesome exercise.

You've got to hand it to Gordon for licking two Conservatives. Takes the Scotch to figure how to accomplish the seeming impossible. To lick two enemies at once, get them fighting each other.

Toronto Globe is having a joy-jag because a Liberal was elected. It is a long time between drinks for the Old Lady of Melinda street, so why begrudge her a little pleasure?

Another little drink won't do us any harm, so they took a little Gordon out behind the barn. Then they buried Ham in the U.F.O. Denne, while McMurray whistled "The Meighen Men."

One would think to hear the Globe's delirious joy song celebrating West Peterboro that a Liberal candidate had never been elected before. We must admit that there have been few Liberal candidates elected in English-speaking Canada of late, but Quebec can always be depended upon to pull off a Liberal victory as a spiteful brick against the government which expected Quebec to do its full bit in the war.

The Liberal candidate, Mr. Gordon, has been elected in West Peterboro. For this success he is indebted to the division of the Conservatives between Mr. Denne and Mr. Burnham. The total vote polled for the two Conservatives was about a thousand greater than the vote polled for the Liberal. It must be cheering to Mr. King to have at last won a seat in an English-speaking riding in one of the numerous by-elections that have been held since he took his place as Liberal leader in the House.—Mail and Empire.

A country with forests,—and no country is more richly blessed in this regard than Canada,—has a distinct obligation to see that these forests are conserved so that future generations shall not seriously lack one on the most important contributions to culture and comfort. Finland, like Canada, must depend in a large measure on the product of the forest to maintain and improve her economic status. To neglect this source of wealth is to invite national bankruptcy. It is most astonishing to us that Canadians have so largely failed to realize the absolute necessity for a proper forest policy for the whole Dominion.—Pulp and Paper Magazine.

OTHER VIEWS

OTTAWA MISREPRESENTED BY SCARE

Ottawa Citizen

The vote of the Ottawa city council on Tuesday night, against ordering compulsory vaccination, should help to correct misleading press reports that have been sent broadcast about conditions in this city. People in other cities have been led to believe a smallpox epidemic prevailed in Ottawa. Mayor Plant gave figures at the council meeting; there are 63 cases regarded as smallpox in the Hopewell hospital, and 87 cases are being treated in homes. Presumably the city medical officer, advocating compulsory vaccination, has overlooked no possible case. Consequently, at the very outside, the total is 150 cases. It should be understood, too, that the alleged disease is mild in form, with rapid recoveries.

BUSINESS, NOT SENTIMENT

Toronto World

We savagely discount the British pound sterling, and we suppose the British have the remedy in their hands, namely to quit buying from us. We cannot regard the Americans taking our dollar at a discount as betokening an unfriendly disposition, unless we admit that it is an unfriendly disposition which impels us to discount the pound sterling. It is business, and in business there is mighty little sentiment. We must produce more and import less if we are to keep our dollar at par. And we are the people who have to do something, not the people of the United States. Sir George made a good speech, but it should have been addressed to Canadians.

WINTER IN THE LAURENTIANS

The day is marked by colors bright—
Blue sky, white earth, and golden light,
And bands of green, where spruce and pine
Mark the horizon's lifted line.

A day of calm, no breath to blow
From the smooth path the powdered snow;
While bracing air gives vim and verve
And joy to every tingling nerve.

A day of silences, profound,
Pierced rarely through by shafts of sound;
As when the distant sleigh teams shake
Their bells, and silvery echoes wake

A glorious day, a day most fair,
Of finer timbre, finer air
Than lowland days. My heart o'erfills
And every fibre of my being thrills.

Toronto Man Wanted A Scottish Wife

Toronto Man Voices Objections to Canadian Girls.

The Weekly News, a popular London paper, devotes two columns of space to a story of a Toronto soldier said to be eager for a Scottish wife. Here is the tale:

Rupert Hamilton, a young Canadian ex-soldier who fought against the Germans in France, is dying for the love of a Scottish lassie!

At present Hamilton, who is 25 years of age, and lives in Toronto, seems keen to induce some nice Glasgow girl to join him in his Canadian home, and settle down comfortably. But so far Rupert, the Romeo, is still yearning for a Scottish bride.

The love affairs of this young Canadian were brought to light in rather a curious manner. While serving with the Canadians in France, Rupert Hamilton took part in seven battles, but except for shock he escaped actual injury from wounds. By some means he got into communication with a young lady employed in the Glasgow General Post Office, he wrote long and chatty letters to his unknown friend in the Scottish city.

Then followed a long interval of silence, and the young Glasgow lady had almost forgotten all about her Canadian correspondent. The young man from Toronto appears to have decided that his wife must be Scottish, good-looking, and with a touch of domesticity.

Following the respite from epistolary communication, the Glasgow G. P. O. lady was rather surprised to receive another letter the other day. In this Rupert says:

"I am sorry I quit writing, as you being Scottish I thought the more of you. I am doubtful if you are still working at the same place, but if you are not, then some other nice Scottish girl who has taken your place may answer this letter! The girl I would like to answer this is from 19 to 21, and pretty looking. If anybody wishes to answer, please send photo. I am about 25 years of age, and will send another back if the girl looks pretty good, and will pay second-class passage.

"As I know Scotland ain't without pretty girls, they won't mind answering this. I took the notion I would like to marry a pretty nice Scottish girl, and the girl that is game to take the chance will not regret it. Plenty of nice girls here, but the Scottish girls look so much nicer. I am good-looking and decent, and will be as good as possible. My wife won't have to work more than to cook a meal, and keep the house a bit tidy while the old hubby is at work. Don't be shy to come or afraid to answer this. I will be looking forward to hear from some of the nice Scottish girls. I went to France in the kilts, so I thought I was a real Scotsman."

In another letter the Canadian says: "I would like you to promise to marry me before I pay your passage. If you do I will take you at your word then. It would be a bit of hard luck if you turned me down for someone else when you got here. I don't think the girls in Scotland could do such a mean trick as some of the girls here do. No one likes a nice girl better than I do, but I would have no use for these we have out here with their faces white with powder."

None of the ladies who have so far written to him has deemed it expedient to cross the Atlantic, but the Toronto Romeo is a voluminous correspondent, and is apparently not easily daunted in his search for "a nice Scottish girl."

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Kathleen English, who died at Saranac Lake on February 9, 1920.

Just one year ago—
Yet it seems it must be more,
Since we bid a last farewell:
You're at Home with God and the Angels I know,
But, Oh Kathleen! my heart it is sore
And the longing for you I cannot tell

And o'er me to-night memory rolls, like a flood
And I live again those happy school days;
When friendship was first in the bud
When memory leads me and tenderly its finger lays
On each little instance, as friendship grew
And I remember, your were ever true.

There's a lonely mother and father
There's a friend who can't forget you;
Though life without you is drear
There's not one of them, I know, who
Would ask you to come back and bear
This earth's worries and its care
For they know God called you Home.

With Tennyson we cry—
Oh! for the touch of a vanished hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still;
And yet we know that we all must die,
So on this shore we'll meekly stand
Until our book of life we fill
And we hear God call to us, as He called to you.
— A School Mate, Wanda Reid

GRAND TRUNK SETTLES

The examination for discovery in the case of Mrs. William G. Hannah, of Rossmonnt, against the Grand Trunk Railway was heard in Cobourg last week. It will be remembered that when leaving the excursion train at Campbellcroft on July 12th last, that Mrs. Hannah fell beneath one of the cars. Both feet were so badly smashed that amputation was necessary. In her avidence at Cobourg Mrs Hannah stated that the train was travelling at a fast rate when her husband jumped with the baby. Mrs. Hannah followed and, according to her own admission, knew she was in great danger of meeting with an acident. Mr. Pratt represented the Grand Trunk and Mr. D. H. Chisholm represented Mrs. Hannah. An agreement was reached whereby the Grand Trunk pays Mrs. Hannah $1,500 and all costs including doctor's and hospital bills. The solicitor's fees is to be paid by Mrs. Hannah.

ALLEGED INFRACTION O.T.A.

Magistrate Masson and Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, J.P. this morning were called upon to investigate a case of alleged infraction of the O.T.A. from Madoc. The accused was Jack Silva a returned soldier who lost a leg during the war and who at present is endeavoring to make a living by repairing shoes. After the case had been gone into at some length an enlargement was made until March 1st. Silva was charged with having liquor in a place other than his residence. Inspector Collison for North Hastings was the informant in the case.

A COSTLY SHOT

Sunday last as a G.T.R. freight train was proceeding along the line near the second overhead bridge a small piece of steel penetrated the window of the caboose and narrowly escaped hitting the conductor in the face. Police Officers investigated the affair with the result that Cedric Powell a boy 17 years was before Magistrate Masson this morning charged with the offence and pleaded guilty. The missile was thrown from a catapult, with much force. For the offence the accused was liable to a term in the penitentiary but under a certain section of the Act a fine was permissable. In referring to a suspended sentence being imposed County Attorney Carnew stated that suspended sentences were becoming a farce here and should be stopped. As a result of his act it cost Powell $14, which was paid.

Social Evening At Moira Camp

Initiation Followed by Social Evening Speeches and Songs

Tuesday night at the Oddfellow's Temple, Front street, Moira Encampment, No. 59, I.O.O.F., held their regular meeting which was attended by a large number of members. One candidate was admitted to the Patriarchal Degree, which was exemplified for the usual efficient manner by the Moira Degree Staff under S. A. Barkley, P.C.P. After the regular business a banquet was provided and P. I. Sills, J.P.C., presided in the absence of the Chief Patriarch, Geo. W. Kerr.

The toast of the King was honored as usual by the singing of the National Anthem.

Patriarch I. Sills referred to the presence of His Worship Mayor Charles Hanna, a member of Moira Encampment, and on behalf of all present, congratulated him on his election to the Mayor's chair. Mayor Hanna who on rising to respond was received with musical honors and cheers, thanked the members for the reception they had given him, and expressed his admiration for the splendid manner in which the Degree had been conferred and congratulated Patriarch Barkley and the Degree Staff. He expressed his regrets at not being a more frequent attendant at the Encampment social evenings, but promised to attend more often in the future.

Patriarch J. O. Herity next addressed the members on some of the aims of the Chamber of Commerce.

Other speakers were Patriarchs S. A. Barkley, J. Duckworth and, G. G. Way. Patriarch W. Ralls delighted all present with a song. Capt. H. W. Lindstrum of Canton Belleville, No. 8, appealed on behalf of the Canton for more recruits for the Patriarch Militant Army. The singing of the National Anthem brought another enjoyable evening to a close.

Fire Losses in City During Year 1920

Three Fires Responsible for the Greatest Loss Sustained—Motor Truck Suggested

At the City Council on Monday evening Chief Brown of the Fire Department presented his annual report which is as follows:

To His Worship Mayor Hanna and Aldermen of the City Council.

Chief Brown, of the Fire Department.

Gentlemen—I beg to submit herewith my report of the Fire Department for the year 1920 ending December 31, 1920.

During the year the Department responded to forty alarms, as follows:

2 False alarms, (no damage)
2 Calls outside city (no record of damage).
3 Grass fires (no damage)
13 Dwellings,
5 Stores
2 Workshops and industries
2 Store Houses
3 City bridges
2 Garages
2 Theatres
1 Hotel
3 Otherproperties other than buildings.

1920
Total estimated value of property endangered	$510,700.00
Estimated damage	41,728.00
1919
Total estimated value of property endangered	$117,860.00
Estimated loss	10,014.19

You will note by comparison of the years 1919 and 1920 that there has been a very heavy increase in the actual fire loss during last year, but when compared on a percentage basis of actual loss to value of property endangered, we still have a record which I think will compare most favorable with any city in the Province. I might say that two fires causing heavy loss were the fires at the Palace Theatre and the sheds on the Grand Trunk Wharf. In both cases there were no walls or partitions by which the fire could be confined to any one particular part of the buildings, therefore the Department did not have a fighting chance and in case of the Theatre, the most of our efforts had to be directed to confining the fire to the one building.

In the case of the third fire causing heavy loss, the principal loss was from water damage to the stock of dry goods of Mr. D. V. Sinclair, this fire originated in apartments above Mr. Sinclair's store.

Owing to the extreme high prices of all classes of material, I have been, for the past few years, trying to purchase as little as possible. I believe it will be necessary to purchase some fire hose, also a few branch pipes.

Motor Apparatus

Another matter which should have your attention is the supplying of motor hose wagons to take the place of the present horse drawn hose carts. Two of the horses, which we now have are getting to the age where they have outlived their usefulness, and owing to the fact that our streets are being improved, I believe that possibly motor driven hose carts could be installed with a saving to the city.

Uniforms Needed

I also wish to bring to your attention the matter of purchasing the uniforms for the department. Previous to this year we have always waited until Spring and the tailors would all be busy, and in consequence the men would have to wait for about three months before their uniforms were finally completed. I would suggest to your honorable body that the uniforms be ordered during the months of February or March and thus the tailors would have time to complete same by the time the Department required them.

The health of the men of the department during the year has been very good.

We have received the same kind consideration and assistance from the members of the Police and Water Works Departments.

Yours respectfully,
W. J. BROWN
Chief Fire Department

Social Service Work For January

Emergency Relief Work Keep Welfare Bureau Busy

The following report of Social work for the month of January, was submitted to the City Council by Miss Myra H. Smith, who has charge of the Welfare Bureau at the City Hall.

Owing to the depression caused by the present unemployment wave and the great amount of sickness, the Social Work of this month is necessary characterized by Emergency Relief Work. We fully appreciate the dangers of pauperization which are attendant on the giving of relief but owing to existing conditions we have found a comparatively large number of cases, in which we feel that if we withheld relief we would be open to criticism. However, in cases of young couples with small families, where large burdens of debt are not already being carried, we feel it is best to insist on the Relief being given as a loan. The clients themselves often do not see the justice of such an arrangement, but we know it to be the wisest course since our greatest aim in Social Work is to assist our families to become self-respecting as well as self-supporting.

Ninety-Five Visits Made

In all 95 visits have been made during the month. Eight of these were made to the ministers of the city. The remaining 87 calls have been made on families reported for relief or in connection with them. Twenty-two visits have been made in company with the Ward convenors of Bleecker, Coleman, Baldwin, Foster and Ketcheson wards.

Forty-one complete investigations have been made and in thirty-three cases relief was sent. In nearly every case the family's poverty was brought about by lack of employment and in a large number of instances the unemployment situation was aggravated by sickness in the home. In other cases inadequate wages in large families, old age and misfortune have been the cause of the family falling below the poverty line. In the majority of cases relief has been given out of the civic funds but in several cases the G.W.V.A. have assisted. In one case the Bridge street church Benevolent Society sent coal and in a number of cases the St. Michael's Benevolent Society assisted with provisions.

Four half-tons of coal have been issued as a loan and in one case we have already been paid. Two small loans of cash have been made with the written promise of payment when work opens up again.

Employment Found

With the aid of the Government Employment Bureau it has been possible to give employment to a number of clients who were anxious for work. In trying to help a client to secure a position we are able to discover those who are really in earnest and those who are not. Unfortunately we find some who appear anxious to work but as soon as a job is offered immediately make excuses or become indifferent.

The Welfare Bureau Office is daily becoming better known and many personal applications for relief and advice are being made. During the month about fifty visits have been made at the office, the majority of these occurring in the last two weeks. A private office is most desirable; in fact the need of it becomes more imperative each day.

The advertisement asking for clothing, which appeared in both daily newspapers last week, has been very productive, a number of bundles of clothing in good condition having already been donated. The need however is great and more will be appreciated.

MYRA H. SMITH.

The residence of Mr. James Duckworth was the scene of a very happy event when at noon today his only daughter, Bessie M., became the bride of Mr. Joseph Bowman Raymer, eldest son of D. W. Raymer, of North Markham, Ont. The Rev. A. S. Kerr performed the ceremony before immediate relatives and friends, and Miss Kathleen Raymond ably acted as pianist. The bride was gowned in accordeon pleated georgette crepe with veil and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and sweet peas. Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served, after which the happy couple left for a honeymoon to Detroit and other American points. After their return they will reside at "The Oaks," Bain Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Mental Diseases Treated in Splendid Soldiers Hospital

PSYCHOPATHIC HOSPITAL OPERATED BY SOLDIERS' CIVIL RE-ESTABLISHMENT DEPARTMENT OF DOMINION GOVERNMENT NEAR LONDON, ONT., DOING SPLENDID WORK FOR WAR VETERANS SUFFERING FROM MENTAL TROUBLES.

Ottawa, Feb. 8. The Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment has, for some months past, been operating a Psychopathic hospital at Westminster, near London, Ontario. In this hospital the Department has provided the most approved and up-to-date methods of treatment for former members of the Forces suffering from mental diseases, ranging from those who merely require long periods of observation, to those who are violently insane.

A short time ago, a deputation of well-known neurologists, psychiatrists and representatives of veterans' associations, visited the hospital in order to study the situation. Among these were Dr. C. K. Clarke, Medical Director, Canadian National Committee for Mental Hygiene.

In a statement issued by Dr. Clarke, he says:

"Why should civilians not receive just as good care and advanced treatment? At this institution notable things are being accomplished, new ideals are being established, and everything possible is being done to place the care and treatment of the nervous and mental diseased on a scientific and humane basis. The war has brought to the surface the fact that the hard and fast lines heretofore laid down by neurologists and pschiatrists, in regard to certain types of nervous and mentally handicapped persons, were much too narrow and artificial. Neuro-psychiatry, as known today is practically a new field. It would be difficult to imagine a better equipped hospital from the standpoint of cleanliness, good housekeeping and management, and, while the buildings are substantial and well constructed nothing has been expended on useless ornamentation.

"The S.C.R. has recognized the important fact that in dealing with patients of the types admitted to Westminister, it is essential that the staff must, not only be sufficient in number, but properly qualified to do the work assigned to them efficiently and intelligently. It is not a case of so many patients, so many crude ward attendants, but rather an organization assigned to deal with each individual in a way likely to produce the best results in his case. Such an organization is expensive, but not more so than that of a general hospital, where it is taken for granted that a patient must receive every assistance that can reasonably be provided to ensure his recovery. The curse of most mental hospitals has been the fact that they have only too frequently been allowed to degenerate into nothing better than custodial institutions, simply because the cry of economy has thwarted medical staffs that would be efficient if given opportunity in their efforts to rise to standards demanded in general hospitals. In connection with this point it is interesting to study the composition of the Westminster staff.

"The moot point in regard to the organization of the Westminster Hospital is one much discused by neurologists and pschiatrists, and refers to the type of patient to be admitted there, some asserting that it must be detrimental to associate nervous cases with distinctly mental ones. It is a difficult question to decide, but the visit disarmed much of the criticism, it being so evident that the patients in the institution were being benefited, and in every instance, happy and content. Even the 'chronic kickers' refused to register a complaint, and spoke of the kind treatment received on every hand."

Dr. Clarke then referred to the excellence of the staff and the interest shown by its members, the nineteen nurses, all with overseas training, social service work ,the eighteen members of the occupational staff, sixteen trained ward aides, and sixty-three medical orderlies, who have been thoroughly instructed in routine ward work, hydrotherapy, the method of excited patients, acute cases and those who are intent on commiting suicide, and others, bringing the total number up to 192.

It is the aim of the Department of S.C.R., that this hospital and the hospital at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, which is operated along the same lines, shall set the pace for all others of a similar nature in Canada and beyond. The total number of insane patients undergoing treatment is 867, a reduction of 81 from the number in May, 1920.

SUNDAY OPENING TO COST $45,000

Montreal, Feb. 5.—The Montreal Art Association is anxious to open the public picture gallery here on Sunday, but, in order to do so, it must provide a substitute for the $45,000 legacy left the institution by Miss Elibeth C. Orkney, who stipulated in her will that the money must go to the Protestant Hospital for Insane, if the gallery was ever opened on the Sabbath Day Subscriptions will be asked for from the public by the Association

How to Make Belleville a More Attractive City

Some things Belleville requires in order to attain the status of an "Ideal City" in the line of attractiveness, reported by the Recommendation Committee at the Public Meeting Monday evening at the City Hall in the Second of the series being held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, make interesting reading and should prove of a helpful nature to the City Council.

The first of the series of meetings to discuss "The Ideal City" was devoted to "Attractiveness" and the Committee of Recommendations comprised Rev. Geo. Marshall, Mr. Geo. B. Jones and Mr. P. C. MacLaurin.

The report of the Committee was given by Mr. Geo. B. Jones at the Second of the Series Monday evening, with the following recommendations:

RECOMMENDATIONS

"That buildings, sanitation and plumbing be given careful inspection and by-laws be passed with restrictions as to the class of buildings to be erected in certain districts.

"That a recommendation be made to the Horticulture Society to offer prizes for the best kept lawns and gardens and that the city keep the boulevards in front of residences in good condition.

"That the snow cleaning be done by the city and that the cost of doing this be included in, but not added to, the present high rate of taxes.

"That when contracts are given for paving streets ,that the contractor be not permitted to leave material blocking any thoroughfare.

"That a committee on town planning be appointed.

"That a parks commissioner be appointed, and that a decided effort be made to have or secure a good Agricultural Park which would serve also as an athletic ground, and if possible, that an effort be made to work up an enthusiastic interest toward having a Fall Fair that would do credit to a City like Belleville.

"That no garbage be dumped on any vacant lot any place within the city and that garbage be collected between the hours of 9. p.m. and 9. a.m. and that empty cans be removed promptly.

"That rest-rooms be provided for ladies.

"Adopt some scheme of beautifying the shore along the Bay and also the banks along the Moira River.

"That an effort be made to enlist the co-operation of the various ministers in the adoption of a Civic Sunday.

"That the street lighting be improved at the earliest date and that the names of the streets be placed conspicuously at each corner.'

Charged With Murder of Eleven Women

Trial of Alleged Modern Bluebeard is Again Postponed

Henri Desire Landru, under indictment in Paris, charged with the murder of eleven women to whom at various times he had promised marriage, and whose trial before the French Assizes has been set for March 1st, has succeeded in obtaining another postponement of his trial. Landru has been in jail for two years and recently was sentenced to five years in jail and subsequent deportation for swindling.

Under French law, a man accused of crime has the right to take cognizance of the dossier in his case before facing the jury. He may make a fight upon the legality of any of the documents being submitted to the jury.

The dossier in Landru's case includes 7,000 documents, all of which have to be copied, as the Public Prosecutor does not trust the originals in the hands of the accused. The work of copying the documents will occupy more than a month.

Landru has informed the Court that he will require several weeks in which to study the documents as he intends to challenge all of them as irrelevant.

Landru has caused considerable worry and annoyance to Judge Bonin while the latter was investigating the case and now it has been turned over to the Prosecutor of the Republic he has adopted the same tactics.

To one of the assistants of the Prosecutor who reproached him with procrastination saying that French justice has other things to look after than the Landru case, the alleged Gambais Bluebeard replied:

"The why don't you let me go. I am perfectly willing." Then he added: "How I miss Judge Bonin. At least he was a gentleman."

Ottawa Talk of General Election

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—The imminence of a general election is widely discussed here as the probable result of the Liberal victory in West Peterboro. Although members of the Government decline to discuss the possibility of such an outcome, there is a strong wing among Government supporters which favors an appeal to the people, and the adoption of such a course would not cause much surprise in well informed circles. If the Government declines to dissolve, dissolution would probably come following the passing of supply. In the early days of last session the Opposition leader presented an amendment to the address calling for a general election. This was negatived by a majority of 31. Similar tactics are likely to be adopted again, and while Government supporters feel sure of a normal safe majority, it is admitted that the situation will need careful watching.

Government Majority 30

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—With the election of a Liberal in West Peterboro, interest in the Government's majority in the Commons has been greatly increased, at the present standing the Government will muster a majority of thirty against the combined opposition ,with a possibility of this figure being reduced by defect of three or possibly four members, and being further reduced by absentees from the House. Government supporters at present number 131.

$200,000 Fire in Toronto

Toronto, Feb. 8.—Fire this morning almost gutted a Wellington street building occupied by a number of manufacturers' agents. Loss to buildings and contents is estimated at two hundred thousand dollars.

Germany Will Participate

Berlin, Feb. 8.—The German Government has accepted the invitation ,to participate in the Allied Conference on reparations in London on March 1, it was announced here to-day.

G. N. Gordon, liberal, has thirteen hundred majority over Denne, government candidate in West Peterboro by election.

Millions in England In Need of Food

Terrible Situation in England, According to Daily Herald's Figures

London, Feb. 6.—Eight Million people are on the verge of starvation in England, according to the figures collected by the Daily Herald on unemployment

According to the Labor Ministry the total for unemployed is 1,060,800. The Herald declares that fully another million has not been reported, and that the grand total, with dependents, of people on the verge of privation is close to eight million.

The Government program of relief, it is predicted, will provide for generous State support.

Parnell's Widow Dies at Brighton

London, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Charles Stewart Parnell, widow of the great Irish Nationalist leader, died this morning at her home in Brighton, after a lingering illness. She was 76 years old.

Mrs. Parnell, known for many years to the world as "Mrs. Kitty O'Shea," was formerly the wife of Capt. William Henry O'Shea and was the youngest daughter of the Rev. Sir John Page Wood. She became involved in an intrigue with Mr. Parnell in 1881, which continued until late in 1889, when Capt. O'Shea brought suit for divorce against his wife.

Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea were married in June, 1891, but the Irish chieftain lived only a short time, dying early in October of the same year. In 1914 Mrs. Parnell published "the love story and political life of C. S. Parnell," the appearance of her book causing a notable controversy between the former adherents and opponents of the leading figure in the volume.

The Evening Standard is announcing the death, says of her career:

"One of the most romantic, and at the same time pathetic, figures of the Gladstone era passed away in the person of Mrs. Parnell. Thirty years ago the whole world was ringing with the names of Kitty O'Shea and Parnell. They were respondent and co-respondent in a divorce suit brought by the former's husband, Captain William Henry O'Shea, member of Parliament from County Clare. As a result of the episode Parnell's political career was ruined, but in Kitty O'Shea he found a devoted wife.

Suffering From Self Inflicted Wounds

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Brockville, Feb. 8.—Derrick Tennant, charged with the murder yesterday morning of Robert Wood at Caintown, is now a patient at the General Hospital, where his self-inflicted wounds are being treated. In spite of his 79 years no serious results are expected. He is being constantly guarded.

South African Election to-day

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Capetown, South Africa, Feb. 8.—Voting to select members for the new House of Assembly took place today throughout the Union of South Africa. This will be one of the most important general elections that have ever taken place in the British Empire, because the South African Premier, General Smuts, has fought his campaign directly on the issue of the continuance of British connection, which has been denounced by his chief opponent, General Hertzog, leader of the Nationalist party.

Five thousand miners in the Rand district have struck and their action on the eve of the election came as a thunderbolt. The belief was expressed that the strike was a political move designed to consolidate Labor ranks. There have been predictions that the Laborites would capture twenty seats in Parliament.

Liberal Candidate Majority Over 1300

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Peterboro, Feb. 8.—Peterboro this morning is slowly waking up to the fact that there has been a local political upheaval. Belated returns being received show that the Liberal gain in the West Peterboro by-election, made necessary by the resignation of J. H. Burnham, was more extensive than at first reported, as the lead of C. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate, has been increased to over 1,300 with only one poll to hear from.

The standing this morning was as follows: Gordon, 4165: Denne, (Govt.) 2841; Campbell (U.F.O.), 2197; Burnham (Ind. Conservative), 2197; McMurray (Labor), 1011.

Has Part to Play In Cementing Race

Rotary a Big Factor in Relationship Between Anglo-Saxon Nations.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—What Rotary had a big part of International significance to play in cementing the relations between Great Britain, the United States and Canada was the declaration made by President Gordon Moffat, of the Belleville Rotary Club, at the big intercity relationship banquet held under the auspices of the Toronto Rotarians at the King Edward Hotel last night and attended by representatives from five Ontario clubs and from Niagara Falls, N.Y. Mr. Moffat emphasized the important influence excercised by Rotary in the community and throughout the nation and pointed out that this influence extended even beyond national bounds into the realm of international relations. Rotary had it in its power to be an important force in binding together the whole Anglo-Saxon race.

Victory Won by Liberals In West Peterboro Riding

G. N. GORDON ELECTED BY OVER 1,200 PLURALITY, BUT BY ONE-THIRD OF THE VOTE POLLED, AFTER A BITTER CAMPAIGN WITH FIVE CANDIDATES IN THE FIELD, INCLUDING TWO CONSERVATIVES.

Peterboro, Ont., Feb. 7.—Victory in the West Peterboro by-election today rested with the cohorts of Hon. Mackenzie King, G. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate, being elected by a plurality of over 1,200. After the first twenty polls were in Mr. Denne conceded his defeat and thanked his workers assembled in the committee room for the co-operation and support. Mr. J. C. Campbell, defeated U.F.O. candidate, addressed his supporters in similar terms. He said he looked forward to re-entering the local political field at some future date after the redistribution promised by the Government. He said that one effect of the campaign was that farmers were never united so strongly as they are today. An appeal was then made for funds to help defray Mr. Campbell's election expenses and was well responded to.

The Labor candidate attributed his defeat to a general split in the Labor ranks. He said the Labor men did not stand together and the election forces of the Liberal and Government candidates were too large to cope with.

At ten o'clock the vote of the West Peterboro by-election stood as follows:

G. N. Gordon, Liberal	3,984
R. Denne, Government	2,697
J. C. Campbell	2,428
J. H. Burnham, Independent Conservative	2,416
Thomas McMurray, Labor	975

There were still five polls to hear from in the county.

G. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate, is elected by approximately one-third of the total number of votes cast in the constituency.

The combined vote of R. Denne, Government candidate, and J. H. Burnham, Independent Conservative, was 5,113, as against the Liberal candidate's vote of 3,984.

Improvement Needed in Educational Facilities

SECOND OPEN FORUM MEETING UNDER AUSPICES OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ON IDEAL CITY CONDITIONS PROVIDES INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE DISCUSSION ON BELLEVILLE'S EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES.

Belleville's educational facilities only represent seventy-one per cent. of what they should be in order to approximate ideal conditions, according to the report of the judges appointed to give their decision on local educational conditions as revealed by the debate staged at the City Hall Monday evening under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting was the second of a series based on the subject "How near does Belleville come to being an Ideal city." The previous meeting dealt with attractiveness and the decision of the judges on the debate of that occasion was that Belleville fell considerably short of being an ideal city in the line of attractiveness. Monday evening the Recommendation Committee of the previous meeting reported their views of what was needed to increase the attractiveness of Belleville. Mr. Geo. B. Jones, presented the report and supplemented it with brief sketches of communities which had devoted considerable time and pains very successfully to making civic surrounding more attractive with well-kept lawns, boulevards and parks. The report of the committee on some things Belleville needs to make it a more attractive city will be found in another column.

Monday evening's meeting, the second of the series, was devoted to Educational Facilities, and the attendance was very large showing that the citizens are taking a deeper interest than ever before in the question of improving the city. The feeling of the meeting as manifested in various ways was distinctly in favor of better educational facilities.

W. C. Mikel, K.C., was given the task of painting present educational facilities in Belleville in as bright colors as possible as the basis of the debate and he certainly made out a good case for the affirmative, arguing that expensive surroundings were not as valuable a factor in producing results in education as the spirit and the will to achieve, and mentioned a number of notable men who had achieved outstanding success with very limited means of acquiring an education such as is provided in the present day.

P. C. MacLaurin, B.A., Principal of the High School, vigorously attacked the arguments of Mr. Mikel and claimed that surroundings and improved facilities were a very helpful factor in the education of children. If Mr. Mikel made out a good case for putting up with present conditions, Mr. MacLaurin certainly made out a strong case for advancement along modern lines, and in this, outside of the rules of debate, he will find that Mr. Mikel will go a long way with him as he is nothing if not progressive.

Mr. Howard J. Clarke, of the Forum Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, officiated as Chairman in a very capable manner, while Mr. Harold Barrett led the community singing in his customary efficient manner, although it must be admitted that the absence of a piano in the City Hall makes community singing a rather difficult thing to lead.

The judges selected for the evening were F. E. O'Flynn, B.A., H. J. Clarke, B.A., and Ex-Alderman Jas. Duckworth.

The Recommendation Committee is comprised of Messrs. F. S. Deacon, ex-Chairman of Education, N. D. MacFadyen, Manager Merchants Bank, and I. L. Moore, Principal Ontario Business College, who will bring in a report at the next meeting of the series with recommendations.

Mr. J. O. Herity, Manager of the Chamber of Commerce gave a brief outline of the objects of these meetings.

The report of the Judges on the debate was given by Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, with the following percentages showing how near in their opinion after listening to the discussion Belleville approximates ideal condition in educational facilities. The first column of figures represents the maximum marks allotted to that particular phase and the second column the percentage of efficiency Belleville facilities are entitled to:

Educational Facilities

1.	Sites and Grounds	50	40
2.	Buildings	100	75
3.	Accommodation and Equipment	125	85
4.	Teaching Staff	100	90
5.	Pupils	100	80
6.	Parents and Trustees	50	30
7.	Primary Schools	150	120
8.	Secondary Schools	125	100
9.	Technical Schools	75	15
10.	Miscellaneous	125	65
		1000	710

Case For Affirmative

The debate was opened by Mr. Mikel who spoke in part as follows:

Belleville has five Primary Schools, four Public and one Separate, and five Secondary Schools, namely, Albert College, St. Agnes College, Ontario School for the Deaf, Ontario Business College and Belleville High School. It is the best equipped city of its size in Canada as regards Educational Institutions.

The Catholics started improvement in the Primary Schools by the erection of that magnificent school, St. Michaels' Academy, upon one of the best sites in the City, a site that had been a natural play ground for several generations. This was soon followed by the three public schools.

When any more schools are built they should be built of cement as Belleville will soon become the greatest cement city in Canada. It will advertise this product. This industry will help to make a Bigger, Better Belleville stretching from Point Ann on the East to Trenton on the West, and North to Corbyville and Foxboro.

But a short time ago our High School occupied only the upstairs, now it has the whole building, which is large enough for Belleville pupils. The pupils who come from outside will not help build a new High School and they only pay a part of the maintainance. Outside pupils should attend Albert College and St. Agnes. Belleville and Belleville parents have already maintained and educated 30,000 young people who have gone to build up other places, at a cost of $60,000,000.

Belleville started out to develop industrially, and notwithstanding its great natural advantages and means of transportation, has not achieved as much as was desired. Belleville did not start out to be a great Educational Centre but it has become one.

Belleville would probably stand 30th in the list of industrial communities in Canada and up near the top in the list of educational communities.

Results Good

Does Education educate? That is does our system of education impart useful knowledge and wisdom, because that is the recognised function of an Educational System. The results are the best test. When our schools and our colleges were not as well equipped as they are to-day, they produced splendid results. They supplied Judges to our Supreme Court Bench, and County Court Bench in Ontario, and other provinces, and to Courts of the U. S.. Doctors of eminence, members of the Clerical profession, who have earned renown through this Continent, successful mechanics, merchants and manufacturers, Senators, Members of Parliament and a Premier of Manitoba and a Premier of the Dominion were the product of our schools. Grier St. school and Albert College gave Canada one of its Chief Government Botanists. The surroundings of those institutions and the woods of the Township of Thurlow adjoining were roamed and scoured for Botanical specimens by the Macouns, father and son. The schools and educational institutions of no city of our size in the Province can show so good a result.

Spirit Makes the School

It is not the walls, ceilings, floors, benches, desks and material things that make good schools. It is the spirit of the teachers and of the scholars. Espirit de corps as the French say. The results of our schools and educational institutions demonstrates that our teachers and our scholars have that spirit. There is a Latin maxim: Discipulus est priori posterior dies—yesterday is the teacher of to-day. You have seen how good our results of yesterday were and as yesterday is our teacher for to-day, we know we have a good teacher with the right spirit.

There is another Latin maxim. Vigilantibus non dormientibus aequitas subvenit, which means that those who are awake get what is equitable and

RELIEVES PAIN

A Woman's Fear for Her Athlete

A woman's fear for her athletically inclined husband, son or sweetheart is needless worry most of the time, but is not altogether without reason.

A husky young football star, noted for his speed and ground-gaining ability, was downed in a scrimmage. He felt a twinge of pain between the shoulders, but went back into the game. Unknown to himself and unsuspected by others, he had displaced a joint of the spine and the lung nerves were almost paralyzed by the resulting pressure. He began running down in weight and the cause was pronounced "galloping consumption." It was his mother who insisted on his seeing a Chiropractor. Spinal adjustment corrected the trouble.

The accused pleaded not guilty and was remanded until Friday as the Crown was not prepared to proceed. Mr. Carnew represented the Crown.

The Daredevil

"Clear out, sir! Depart!" was the response I got to that caress. But always that wicked Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, finds in the face of her relative something that assures her that she can so venture at a later time.

And as I turned away from that coldness on the part of my august relative I found a glow of warmth for my reviving in the eyes of my beautiful Gouverneur Faulkner, who held out his hand to me as I started to the door for that departure commanded me.

"Blood brothers never doubt each other, Robert," he said to me as with one hand he grasped my right hand and laid the other on my arm above my bandage over the wound Timms had given to me, which was now almost entirely healed.

With the quickness of lightning I laid my cheek against the sleeve of his coat in exactly the caress I had given to my uncle, the General Robert, and then did depart with an equal rapidity.

"Can you beat him, Bill?" I heard my uncle, the General Robert, demand as I closed the door.

"Impossible!" was the answer I thought was returned.

And from that audience chamber I went quickly and alone in my good cherry to Twin Oaks, was admitted by Bonbon, whom I instructed not in any way to allow that I be interrupted, ascended to my own apartment and seated myself in a large chair before the glowing ashes of a small fire of fragrant chip twigs, which kind Madam Kizzie had had lighted against what she called a "May chill" during my toilet of the morning. Above me from the mantelshelf that Grandmamma Carruthers looked down with her great and noble smile, while the flame in her eyes seemed to answer that in my soul as I communed with myself.

"What is it that you will now do, Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye?" I asked of myself, with a slight shaking of my knees in their cheviot trousers. "It is hardly possible that you will escape from revealing your woman's estate to this Frenchman of your own class. Here all mistakes of a man's estate are forgiven you and laid to the fact of your being an alien, but that Lieutenant Count de Bourdon will ask questions of you and perhaps has a knowledge of your relatives and friends—indeed, must have. Also already that wicked Madam Whitworth entertains suspicions of you. What is it that you will do?"

I Sat and Looked Into the Eyes of that Grandmamma.

And after I had asked myself for a second time that question I sat and looked into the eyes of that Grandmamma Carruthers for many long moments and had an argument with myself. Then I answered to her as I rose to my feet so that my eyes came more nearly on a level with hers:

"No, Madam Ancestress, born of her whom not an Indian or a fierce beast could frighten away from her duty of protection to those of her affections, I will not flee. I will stay here by the side of my uncle, the General Robert, and my great chief, that Gouverneur Faulkner, to fight for their honor and to protect France from robbery. Then, if I be discovered and can do no more for them, I will go from their presence quickly in the night and be lost in the trenches of France before I am detained. And, if it be that I am not discovered before all is made well concerning those mules for transportation of food to the soldiers of France, then I will still go away to the battlefields of France before it is discovered by all who have given affection to Robert Carruthers that he is a—lie. I will leave love for me and for France in all of these kind hearts, which will comfort me when I fight for the republique or live for her during long years. I grieve exceedingly, but I go!"

I feel a certainty that if I should continue to be an American man for all of the days I may live, to that threescore and ten age, I would never be able to gain in any way even a small portion of what my fine Mr. Buzz Clendenning calls "hustle." I went at his side for the three days which intervened between the news of the arrival of that Lieutenant Count de Bourdon and that actual arrival, in what seemed to me to be the pace of a very fleet horse or even as the flight of a bird. And as fast as we went from the arrangement of one detail of entertainment to another the beautiful Madam Whitworth went with us, with her eyes of the flower blue very bright with a great excitement. I was glad that in all matters it was necessary that my fine Buzz also consult with her, and thus I was not exposed to any of her wickedness alone.

Drury Lane Drama Full of Action

"The Best of Luck" with an All-Star Cast, Thrills at Griffin's Theatre

"The Best of Luck", the Metro picturization of the celebrated Drury Lane Melodrama, was shown before a large audience at Griffin's last night. It proved to be a feature attraction of superlative merit. Done on a collesal scale, this swiftly-moving story is fairly packed with excitement, sustained action and spine-chilling thrills.

Cecil Raleigh, master of melodramatic plays; Henry Hamilton and Arthur Collins were responsible for the stage version of "The Best of Luck". At Drury Lane it created a furore.

"The Best of Luck" tells of a dashing heroine, Leslie Macleod, who foils the attempts of a villainous Spaniard General Lanzana, to compromise her lies in the hold of a Spanish galleon lies in the hold o fa Spanish galleon sunk a century before.

An all-star caste appears in "The Best of Luck" Jack Holt gives a fine performance as the young Lord Glenayr. Lille Leslie is the scheming Lady Westamere, who connives with Lanzana, played by Fred Malatesta, to outwit the heroine. Kathryn Adams is beautiful and fascinating as the darling Leslie. Harold Lloyd in a highly amusing 2-reel comedy, "Get Out and Get Under", Screen Snapshots showing the private and professional life of famous screen stars, a Burton Holmes Travelogue and Eileen Percy in "The Third Eye" serial are being shown in addition to the feature offering.

Canadians High In Transportation

Captain W. E. Schuster Speaks on Transportation at Rotary Noon Luncheon.

Captain Schuster spoke for five minutes at the conclusion of the Rotary luncheon Monday upon transportation, his subject being, "Why Canadians are recognized in transportation matters."

The principal feature brought out by Captain Schuster was that the Canadian Pacific Railway is a world famous transportation organization, that the name is a household word in every civilized part of the world, that it is a great compliment to Canadians to know that the executive officers of the world's most important transportation system are located in the city of Montreal, owned and directed by Canadians.

Captain Schuster also referred to the fact that in the city of Chicago the Grand Trunk Railway system is directly in competition with such great American trunk lines as the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Great Northern, the Illinois Central, the Chicago & North Western, and that the Grand Trunk owns the best equipped freight terminal in the city of Chicago. It is a great compliment to the Grand Trunk Railway officials that in the third largest city of the United States they should have secured years ago freight terminal facilities which place them in a formidable position respecting traffic matters in Chicago.

A resolution was passed asking the provincial Department of Highways to "take immediate steps to have a permanent surface of asphalt or concrete applied to the main provincial highway between Belleville and Trenton and Shannonville."

W. B. Deacon occupied the chair.

Boy Tells of Seeing Woman Murdered

Montreal Victim of Supposed Maniac Identified by Father

Montreal, Feb. 7.—The body of the young woman struck down by an axe in the hands of an unknown man Friday night on Prospect street Westmount, was yesterday identified by Joseph M. Malherbe as that of his daughter Adeline. Mr. Malherbe resides on Clandeboye avenue, near the scene of the murder. He told the police his daughter had been spending the evening with friends and was apparently returning home about 10-30 when killed. The police are of the opinion the murder was the work of a maniac.

John Norris, a 16-year-old boy, heard the scream of the murdered girl and also saw her fall to the sidewalk. Rushing to her assistance he saw a man run away. On the sidewalk was the girl, lying face downward in a pool of blood, as though the blow must have been struck from behind.

Council Endorsed Railway to Whitney

Brief Session of City Council—Routine Business Dealt With.

The business brought up at last night's session of the City Council was transacted expeditiously, the motion to adjourn being adopted after an hour's sitting. No new legislation, in particular, was adopted. A resolution prevailed endorsing the scheme for the opening up of railway communication between the city and the town of Whitney, also the proposition to petition the Provincial Minister of Highways to reface the highway between Trenton and Belleville and to Shannonville with either asphalt or concrete. Chief Brown of the fire department presented his annual report, which showed that in 1920 the fire losses were light, with the exception of the Palace Theatre blaze.

Members present were: Mayor Hanna, Aldermen Woodley, Ostrom, French, Bennett, Adams, Fisher, Ballinger, Wensley and Treverton.

After the reading and confirming of the minutes of the last meeting of the Council, the Council went into committee of the whole on reports, etc., Ald. Treverton in the chair.

Accounts recommended to be paid by the various committees were passed, also the following recommendations:

After some discussion the recommendation relative to the street foreman being given power to make certain purchases in case of necessity without consulting the chairman of public works. It was decided that the street foreman could make an expenditure of $10 when necessary without receiving orders from the chairman.

ST. LAWRENCE POWER.

A communication was read from the National Waterways Association relative to the power development of the St. Lawrence.—Ordered to be filed.

SOCIAL WORKER.

Miss S. Smith, social worker of the city, presented a monthly report which was ordered to be filed.

Chief Brown of the fire department presented his annual report, which was ordered to be filed.

GOOD ROADS.

The following resolution, adopted by the Chamber of Commerce, was unanimously endorsed.

That the Chamber of Commerce of Belleville, having in view the heavy demands of traffic on the new provincial highway, in the suburban district about Belleville, would respectfully urge upon the Minister of Public Works and the Department of Highways for Ontario the pressing necessity for taking immediate steps to have a permanent surface of asphalt or concrete applied to the main provincial highway between the city of Belleville and the town of Trenton and between the city of Belleville and the village of Shannonville.

The committee rose and reported. Report received and adopted.

INQUIRIES.

Ald. Treverton said he had done all he could to provide good ice on the city rinks. He believed it was a waste of money to spend any more, owing to weather conditions. He desired to know what he should do in the matter.

Mayor Hanna—Perhaps we will have cold weather in the future, when good ice can be made.

MOTIONS.

Ald. Woodley moved, seconded by Ald. Adams, that the bylaw covering licenses granted in the city be amended so as to read that all licenses granted must be approved by the Chief of Police before being issued.

Ald. Ballinger—Will the Council not have a voice in the matter of granting licenses? A party in the city now has a license and he had been convicted once or twice of breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act.

Ald. Woodley—The city treasurer issues the licenses and the Council can have a say in the matter.

The motion was adopted.

Ald. Treverton moved, seconded by Ald. Woodley, that tenders be advertised for, for the supplying sand to the city, the same to be delivered when and where required.

Ald. Treverton—Last year the sand was shipped from Crookston and he believed money could be saved by endorsing the motion.

The motion was adopted.

Moved by Ald. French, seconded by Ald. Bennett, that the Council of the city of Belleville, having in view the important interests to be served and the immense advantages to be gained respectfully urge upon the authorities concerned the practical necessity of establishing direct railway connection between the city of Belleville and the village of Whitney.—Carried.

Council adjourned.

Thou Art the Man Looks the Part

Drooping, Bedragged Figure, With Scraggy Grey Beard, Shuffles Through the Grounds of Doorn Estate.

Doorn, Feb. 8.—The former German war lord, glimpsed as he shuffled through the grounds of his estate here, looked like a peasant.

Observers could scarcely reconcile the lines of the drooping and bedraggled figure with the strutting imperialist, arrayed in brilliant uniform and sparkling polished metal. What they saw was a stooped figure clad in corduroys with clumsy rubber boots bagging the trousers about the knee. A dirty hued grey sweater the neck sagging under a scraggy grey beard, completed the royal raiment. The one hand in view was covered with a white cotton glove of the sort much used by laborers. The former kaiser looked old and shrunken beside the erect figure of a companion clad in the grey uniform of a German officer.

The former emperor was reported greatly worried over the condition of the kaiserin, who clings to life with surprising vitaliy. He spends much time in the sick room

MAY HAVE UNEARTHED THOS. SCOTT'S SKELTON

Winnipeg, Feb. 7.—A skelton unearthed by Workmen from a bed of gravel four miles east of Transcona may, in the opinion of some local historians, be that of Thomas Scott, who was shot by order of Louis Riel in 1860. An attempt to establish the facts of the matter will be made this week by a committee of Orangemen. The condition of the skeleton indicated rough and hasty burial.

The body of Scott was never recovered, and there has been much uncertainty as to its disposition by those responsible for death.

DISTRICT MAGISTRATES MAY REPLACE POLICE MAGISTRATES.

Recommendations made in an interim report made to the Provincial Government by a commission appointed for the purpose will, if adopted, work radical changes in the status of police magistrates. The report recommends that the province be divided into districts with a police magistrate for each district, specially qualified men who must devote their entire time to their magisterial duties. It is also recommended that payment of P. M.'s by fees be abolished. Fines and costs are to go to the provincial government except in certain specified cases, and the salary is to be paid half by the province and half by the municipality or municipalities affected. The commission reports against police magistrates being members of police commissions, and that the title Police Magistrate be changed to Provincial Magistrate, or District Magistrate.

There are fifteen recommendations in the report, as follows:

1. That the police magistrates' work be performed wholly by men specially qualified and [illegible] engaging in no other business, and that the [illegible] and one or more police magistrates be [illegible] and be given exclusive jurisdiction therein, [illegible] to the province [illegible] the Attorney-General may send in another magistrate whenever [illegible] to do so to try a certain case, or certain cases, or that the [illegible] himself may invite another magistrate to assist him.

2. That none of the present police magistrates shall have jurisdiction in any of the districts so created unless appointed therefor or requested to act therein by the district magistrate or the Attorney-General.

3. That the system of payment of police magistrates by fees be wholly abolished.

4. That the taking of information, issuing of summons and warrant and other proceedings prior to trial be conducted by a magistrate other than the one who tries the case (so far as the criminal code permits) except, possibly, in proceedings for breaches of municipal by-laws or cases of a trivial character.

5. That the fines imposed (other than those for breaches of municipal by-laws, for breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act where the municipality prosecutes, and the fines payable to the Dominion Government, together with police magistrates' costs), shall go to the province. That the salaries of district police magistrates be fixed by the Government and that one-half of the salaries of district police magistrates be paid by the province and the other half by the municipality or municipalities served.

6. That where conditions permit, county and district court judges be appointed to act as police magistrates for county or district towns and such other municipalities as they can cover, and shall receive reasonable compensation for services rendered as police magistrates.

7. That district police magistrates be retired when attaining the age of 70 years unless the term be extended by the Government and that such district police magistrates be removable only for cause.

8. That provision be made for the regular inspection of police magistrates' offices, the inspection and audit of books of all police magistrates and that all fines and costs to which the Government is entitled be paid direct to the Government. Provision should also be made for the performance of all obligations in respect of police magistrates placed upon municipalities by statute.

9. That section 247 of the Municipal Act be amended so far as to give power to municipalities to grant a retiring allowance to a police magistrates now holding office.

10. That police magistrates shall not be members of police commissions.

11. That magistrates trying cases arising on the Toronto and Hamilton highway be made absolutely independent of the Highway Commission and be placed under no obligation to it.

12. That civil jurisdiction up to $100 be conferred on police magistrates in unorganized districts by order-in-council whenever public interest may be served thereby.

13. That a stenographer when required be provided for a police magistrate and that the salary of the stenographer be paid by the municipality or municipalities comprising the police magistrate's district.

14. That conferences of police magistrates be held from time to time.

15. That the title "Police Magistrate" be changed to "Provincial Magistrate" or "District Magistrate."

CRISP COMMENT

Ham Burnham certainly spilled the beans in West Peterboro, and the only redeeming feature of the whole by-election fiasco is the fact that Burnham effectively spilled himself out of public life.

One good thing about Gordon, the successful candidate in West Peterboro', as distinguished from his predecessor, Burnham, there never will be any doubt as to where Gordon stands; he is an out and out Liberal and too good a man to do any pussyfooting.

The expected happened in West Peterboro', which will now be represented in the House of Commons by a minority candidate, Gordon, Liberal, getting the decision, Burnham taking enough Government votes away from Denne, the choice of the National party convention, to elect the Liberal candidate. Liberals have long profited by divisions in the ranks of the Government party and it is time this foolishness ceased and elections were waged on their merits. However, in Gordon, the Liberal candidate, West Peterboro' have a better representative than they had and one who will never give them any reason for doubt as to where he stands. They are well rid of Burnham the erratic.

It is said that Henry Ford is ripping his business organization to pieces from the top downward and that executive chiefs drawing seventy-five thousand dollars a year and thereabouts are being ruthlessly sacrificed by this god of the machine. Henry once prided himself upon the wonderful salary system he was building up but probably found that the system became so involved that it took so much time keeping the system in working order that there was no time left to produce automobiles.

How many centuries would it have taken France, the British Empire, the United States and Japan to pay off the tribute to Germany and raise the money for the rest of the world to pay, if the Battle of the Marne had not gone the way it did? asks the Montreal Herald.

OTHER VIEWS

GOOD NEIGHBORS
Seattle Post-Intelligencer

Consul-General Frederick M. Ryder at Vancouver, B.C., reports to this Government the astonishing fact that more than 250,000 tourists crossed the international border into Canada, Blaine, this State, during 1920. Americans have been on friendly terms with their Canadian relatives for a great many years. During the past three or four years the friendly ardor seems to have been greatly quickened. More and more, every month and every year, one has noted Americans packing up for a week-end in Canada, and possibly not getting back until the middle of the following week. The more we see of the Canadians on Canadian soil, very apparently, the better we like them. It is encouraging to those who seek permanent international peace to note the increasing friendliness of the border peoples. It would, of course, be additionally encouraging if the Canadian visitors were coming over here in like droves; but in any event, Americans are going to be sociable and friendly, whether they are given return visits. Whatever our relations may be with the nations overseas, it is very apparent that we are going to get along very nicely with the Canadian brethren. We are too close to be anything else than friends, and the boundary line is so trivial as to be almost unnoticeable.

THE NEED FOR DISARMAMENT
London Truth

More than three years ago that wise man, Count Czernin, when groping about for peace which might then have saved his country, declared that after the war disarmament would be a necessity of all the European nations. Are we not learning the truth of his words now? Yet since they were spoken Austria has been destroyed and Germany disarmed, and the way made that much easier for the other nations to move in the same direction. Surely, if we start off in the other, we shall deserve every consequence which such folly and perversity can bring upon us.

THE FATHERS NO PROHIBITIONISTS
Henry Simonson in the Springfield Union

Prohibition, as understood by our modern reformers, probably would not have been advocated by the men who were instrumental in writing the Holy Writ, for the reason that compulsory reformation is valueless from a biblical standpoint.

POETS' CORNER

CONSOLATION

What tho' the way be long, the end
Towards which we strive beyond our straining eyes,
The wooded heights that now before us rise
May hide an unexpected bend.

What tho' the light of day be fled,
Tho' shadows deepen, and our faltering feet
Stumble upon the way, one thought is sweet—
God's stars are shining overhead.

What tho' the heart be sick with fears,
Tho', many doubts oppress the weary brain,
Still may we see, in spite of all the pain,
God's rainbow light thro' falling tears.

With hearts that ache, and feet that bleed,
Some by the wayside in the shadows fall,
Still let us hold a hand to those who call,
Forgetting thus our own deep need!

A New Bloomer

Joan was a town-bred little girl, and the holiday she had been looking forward to with very great glee arrived, and she was allowed to go down to spend several weeks on her aunt's farm.

One morning while walking in the orchard, she saw a peacock for the first time, with its beautiful feathers spread out to its full extent.

Running to her aunt, the little maid cried:

Oh, auntie, do come and see! There's an old chicken in bloom!

Wedding Bells

BROWN—JONES

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the Methodist parsonage on Saturday, Feb. 5th, when Rev. A. H. Foster joined in the Holy Bonds of matrimony Mary Ina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jones, 52 Yeoman street, and Stanley H. Brown of this city. The bride looked very dainty and charming in her gown of taupe satin with hat to match. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left on the 2.2[illegible] C.P.R. train, amid showers of confetti and good wishes, for Toronto and Welland.

Upon their return they will reside in the city, where both are well and favorably known. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Brown join with the Intelligencer in wishing them a happy and prosperous married life.

LONGTIN—McCONNELL

T[illegible] "M[illegible] Cottage" was the scene of a quiet wedding on Monday Evening, when Joseph Longtin of Point Ann and Madeline McConnell of Belleville were united in the bonds of Holy Matrimony by Rev. Albert L. Geen, D.D. Mr. W. McDonald of Frankford performed the duties of bestman and Miss Nellie Hutchison assisted the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Longtin will reside in the city.

Hands were on FIRE

A Remarkable Case of Eczema.

"My hands broke out," says Mrs. Hector McDonald, of Oyster Ponds, N.S., "into a fiery irritable rash which the doctor called eczema. When his treatment failed to check the trouble I tried various salves and so-called blood-purifiers. But I got steadily worse and what were just isolated sores at first became one large mass of eczema. For over a year this went on, and you can imagine my suffering.

"Then I got Zam-Buk and I shall never forget how it soothed the dreadful fiery pain and itching. Even the first box of Zam-Buk effected wonderful improvement. Day by day the sores lessened and died away until, in time, the last sore healed. Zam-Buk banished every trace of disease."

(1) En route to Cameron Lake via the famous Malahat

(2) Cameron Lake, British Columbia.

There are just three houses at Cameron Lake; the Chalet, where you [illegible] and where the train stops; the telegraph operator's hut, and the one where the section [illegible].

The lake itself is four and a [illegible] River [illegible] out into [illegible] River at the East end. The [illegible] begins at the end of [illegible] till the end of August, [illegible] from May to September and sometimes well on into October.

For trolling there are so many hundreds of different spoons of silver, copper or both that it is hard to say which is best, but a Victoria spoon (made in London, England) used with a trailer worm on a trailer hook is one of the best in British Columbia, or else an ordinary Stewart spoon. As the larger fish very seldom rise to the surface, trolling for these must be done with a heavy sinker. The record trolling is thirty-eight pounds in one evening.

"Ye early fish" is an unknown quantity at Cameron Lake so it is not a bit of use getting up with the worm. But from noon until dark the going's good. As every fisherman knows he must learn his water and become acclimatized ere he lays down the law as to flies, so I give only a few of the general stand-bys which it is safe to bring along: 'March Brown,' 'Montreal,' 'Parmachene Belle,' 'Silver Doctor,' 'Coachman' (three kinds), 'Jock Scott,' and in early spring 'Black Ant.'

Both for trolling and for fly-fishing the tackle needs to be of the very finest on these still lakes.

It [illegible] to know that he [illegible] (there is only one road [illegible] train's round Cameron Lake; [illegible]) these there is [illegible] of his getting 'bushed.'

Vancouver Island is as long as Ireland and as [illegible] as Wales; only a bare half of it has been exploited and only half of that much is settled.

Therefore, lest any lake should become 'fished out' they are restocked from the Cowichan hatchery from time to time; in 1919 twenty thousand fry of mountain trout were put into Cameron Lake. The most numerous are the cut-throat, and one of the biggest of these caught weighed five and a half pounds. Then there are the Dolly Varden and a few Rainbows.

The following are some record catches recounted to me as authentic by one T. P. McBey, an old-timer and a well-known angler at the Lake.

Record catch:—Ninety-four fish in one evening ranging from quarter to two and a half pounds, fly-fishing, starting at 7 P.M.

Two rods caught one hundred and sixty fish in one evening. Frequently nineteen are caught in twenty minutes.

There is plenty of good trout fishing in both the Cameron and Qualicum Rivers, also in the near-by mountain-lakes, as yet unnamed most of them. There is one a quarter of a mile square with no inlet or outlet but stiff with trout too lazy to flap away.

For those who are keen on sea fishing there is Qualicum Beach only eleven miles away by road where the big fifty and sixty pounders of the tyee-salmon run every five years and in other years Cohoe, black cod and spring salmon put up quite a respectable game.

The tragic failure of the 1919 salmon season leads one to foretell the same fate for the salmon as befell the buffalo unless something is done for their immediate protection.

Gill nets, purse-seine nets, the sub-letting of licenses, the invasion of the much-too-expert Japanese fishermen are some of the reasons which our grand-children will give for the extinction of the salmon on the Pacific Coast. Last year eighty per cent of the trolling licenses on the West Coast of Vancouver Island were let to Japs; there were two thousand of them engaged in the fishing trade at Alberni alone.

Other of the industries in British Columbia are passing slowly, stealthily, surely into the hands of Orientals. Let the Britisher come out and see to it that the riches of his richest colony are not snatched away from him, and his very love of sport should move heaven and earth to prevent the spoiling of this paradise of game.—H. G. W.

what is good for them. Those who are vigilant have no difficulty in obtaining good results from our schools. In other words it is the spirit or determination of the individual to get there, that counts, not the external surroundings.

Education Out of School

Most of useful practical education is obtained outside of schools, even in the higher and bigger callings of life. There is no record of Shakespeare having gone to school, certainly not to college. Gibbon and Grote the two greatest historians were not University Graduates. Robert Burns attended school very little. George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Peter Cooper, the founder of Coopers' Institute, did not attend school more than a year each. Richard Artwright the inventor of spinning machinery attended school only a short time, so with Bunyan, and the schools attended by these men were very inferior as compared with ours.

If you pick out 100 men in any community who have become successful you will find scarcely any with a University degree outside those callings where such qualifications is prescribed and you will find many with little extended school attendance, not that these men are without education but as they have passed on in life they discovered the education they required and acquired it quickly. We can understand how men attain success and pick up education quickly who have attended at school very little when we consider the number of words in use in our language. Shakespeare used 12,000 words, Milton 11,000, Carlyle 9,000. Dr. Rosenthal the great linguist estimates that there are only 4,000 words in general use in the various walks of life. If, therefore, a person learned 12 words a day with their spelling and meanings, he would acquire the 4,000 words in year, and possess a good knowledge of geography, grammar, history, mathematics, science, art, medicine. It has often been said that there are only three books necessary to a first class education, the Bible, Shakespeare and a dictionary. Dr. Prendergast estimates that there are only 300 words in use in the common affairs of life.

Frills Not Essential

It is, however, wise to advance with advancing conditions. As the French say, boutez en avant—push forward. Still all change is not advancement and progress. As communities acquire wealth the people tend to take on the fussy things, the frills, the non-essentials. People want more elaborate clothing and personal ornaments, more attractive table-ware and food, bigger houses, elaborate furnishings, more expensive automobiles. The service and usefulness however are not always improved by these changes. The Ford runabout can go practically anywhere a $5000 car can go and can go as fast as the law allows and as fast as it is safe to travel. In advancing in matters of schools and education we must be careful to see that we are not getting the fussy things, the frills, the non-essentials, the things that do not educate. Some of the little red school houses on the country side roads have left an influence greater than the well equpped schools.

Schools of Athens

The schools of Ancient Athens were woefully deficient in walls, flooring, ceilings, desks, seats, material surroundings, comforts and conveniences as compared with our Belleville schools and educational institutions, yet their influence extended throughout the known world and has descended to our own times because they had the right spirit.

All the triumphs of truth and genius over the prejudice and power in every country and in every age have been the triumphs of the schools of Athens. The influence of these schools has been manifested at the Bar, in the Parliament, on the field of battle, in philosophy, medicine, art and science.

The material things about the schools of Ancient Athens have long since disappeared but the influence of those scholars upon the world has survived for over 200 centuries, and is still fresh in eternal youth exempt from mutability and decay immortal as the intellectual principle from which it took its origin and over which it exercises control.

If we view our Educational Institutions as stone and brick and sand, wood and iron, land and location, they are entitled to be marked high, but if we view them from the standpoint of the spirit they should mark higher.

If we desire them to have an influence that will last 20 centuries or 10 or one it will be wise to develope our splendid spirit rather than the material condition.

The Negative Side

P. C. MacLaurin, for the negative, said that if only the spirit was needed to provide a good education a whole lot of money had been wasted on St. Michael's Academy and the three fine public school buildings, but it was necessary to build up the body as well as the spirit and healthful, comfortable and beautiful surroundings were needed to inspire the children. School grounds should be improved, grass

FIVE THOUSAND SEATS IN NEW KITCHENER RINK

Kitchener, Ont, Feb. 7.—At a largely attended meeting of the provincial directors of the Twin City Arena Company, Ltd., together with the captains and canvassers, arrangements were completed to begin the canvas to raise at least $125,000 by stock subsciptions for the erection of the new artificial ice arena in this city during the summer months.

The directors submitted three possible locations for the new arena, all of which were ideal for the purpose, but it was the unanimous opinion that the offer of the Kitchener Auditorium Co., owners of the present auditorium, should be accepted and closed. It will necessitate the removal of the present rink, and the plans of the new arena provide for a seating capacity of 5,000 with an ice surface of 80 by 190 feet.

The provisional directors also reported that they have been offered a splendid ice plant, which will be of sufficient capacity to provide ice for the arena and manufacture it for domestic purposes. The committee in charge of canvassing were confident that the campaign would start on Thursday, with at least $50,000 stock subscribed. An energetic advertising campaign has been inaugurated in connection with the campaign.

EARL THOMPSON WINS BOSTON HIGH HURDLES

Boston, Feb 7.—Earl Thompson, the crack hurdler of the Canadian Olympic team, figured prominently in the annual indoor games of the Boston Athletic Association, when he carried Dartmouth College colors to victory in the 50-yard high hurdles. His time was 6 3-5 seconds.

Cecil Beath, who ran for Canada at Antwerp, represented New Hampshire College in the three-mile race for the Williams Cup, but was distanced. The winner was Gordon T. Nightingale, formerly of New Hampshire College, whose time was 14 minutes 56 4-5 seconds.

Harold C. Cutbill, a theological student running for the B.A.A., captured the Hunter mile from a fast field in 4 minutes 22 3-5 seconds. This is the feature event of the annual games.

Y.M.C.A. BOWLING

A very hard and fast game was bowled on the alleys last night between the Merchants and Iron teams. The latter team was in splendid condition and put up some very fine scores, which resulted in a win for them by the score of 38 points. Vermilyea of the Merchants was high single man with 220 and also high three string with 472. Wheeler of the Iron team was only one point behind him; his score was 471. The interest in the alleys is growing strong and every man is on his toes and anxious for their team to win. Tonight the Teachers bowl the Steel Co.

Escaped Convicts Again Behind Bars

Two Men Who Escaped from Kingston Penitentiary, Jailed Across Border.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—Albert Griggs and Joseph Hilton, two Toronto men, who escaped from Kingston Penitentiary last fall in the warden's automobile, are now serving time in American prisons, according to information received at police headquarters.

Griggs was arrested in Elmira, N. P., and sentenced to five years for the theft of an automobile on November 8, under the name of Edward Williams, while Hilton was arrested in Michigan for robbery. The escape of these men is now being investigated at Kingston and it was while Inspector George Duncan was examining prisoners regarding their getaway that he was brutally beaten over the head. The Dominion police have been searching for months for the two men and a large reward was offered for their capture.

AN ENJOYABLE FUNCTION

Within the past few months a number of "at homes" have been held in St. Michael's Academy, the object of which is to assist in raising funds for a new hospital, and all have been successful. Last night the final one for the season was held and it proved to be the best in every respect. The attendance was such that the ladies in charge were taxed to provide accommodation for their guests who desired to indulge in card playing. Everybody was, however, made welcome, and the evening proved to be one of rare enjoyment. In the early part of the evening card playing was indulged in, at the conclusion of which dainty refreshments were served. Later dancing was indulged in by many. MADE IN BELLEVILLE

Mr. Beaumont Jarvis, architect, has returned from a business trip to Toronto, Hamilton and Sarnia in the interest of his new invention of cellular building construction. The merits of the new method of construction were quickly grasped by architects and builders, enterprises in all parts of the province with the possibility of two plants being started for the manufacture of the material, one at Belleville. Mr. Jarvis is very much encouraged at the favorable attention his invention is receiving from prominent builders and architects.

IMPROVEMENTS NEEDED IN EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES

planted, shrubs and flowers, and terraces made.

If the High School should be kept for the city only why buy the Bay bridge, if Belleville is to be kept for Bellevillians only, what about the churches, business blocks, doctors, lawyers, etc. Good schools draw people to the city that is what is needed. The cement plant is not in the city so why quote that? If Belleville had produced so many fine men with indifferent educational facilities why is it not a leading industrial city? Because education along industrial lines has been neglected. Abraham Lincoln was born for a purpose, he studied by the light of a candle but would have been a better man with training. How many children of to-day would seek an education under the difficulties which faced Lincoln and other self-educated men of prominence?

From the schools of Athens came many of our best ideas on architecture and beauty and art, also physical culture, and the climate there permitted much instruction in the open air.

Too much time has been spent in the past in Belleville on educating for the professions; it was desirable that more attention should be paid to education for commerce, trades and industries and agriculture.

Mr. MacLaurin paid a high tribute to the efficiency of the Ontario Business College which was one of Belleville's greatest assets, attracting pupils from all parts of the world.

Mr. MacLaurin pointed out some things urgently needed in the various city schools to bring them up to a proper standard, improvement and enlargement of grounds, assembly rooms lockers, fire escapes as the schools were not up to government regulations in protection against loss of life from fire, cloak rooms are needed, more wash basins, modern blackboards, teachers rooms, staff rooms and equipment, and more attention paid to humidity of the air.

Teaching Staff

The teaching staff was well, qualified but should attend summer schools in Art, Physical Culture, Agriculture Upper school Work, Children's games, etc. The teachers should spend more time on the playgrounds with the children, should be good mixers and become acquainted with the parents, and should be better paid.

There is too much corporal punishment, better results can be obtained by sparing the rod.

There are too many studies and children are not sufficiently grounded in spelling and numbers, more attention should be paid to writing, manual training, sewing, cooking, physical culture, and less devoted to difficult problem in arithmatic in the public schools.

Duty of Parents

Parents should not permit their children to go to the movies and parties so often, Friday and Saturday evenings are sufficient for outings. The child should spend one hour in study at home and go to bed early. A little homework was beneficial.

Parents should visit the schools regularly and Home and Schools clubs should be organized.

Regular and punctual attendance should be encouraged.

The question of classes for backward children should be taken up.

Prizes encourage pupils to greater efforts.

Mr. MacLaurin covered the whole local school situation in a very comprehensive manner and in referring to the present High School building showed that it was poorly ventilated, poorly heated, and over-crowded, a serious condition in view of the early coming into effect of the new Adolescent Act under which the children will have to continue at school until sixteen years of age. He extended a hearty invitation to citizens to visit the High school and see conditions for themselves.

Mr. D. V. Sinclair, of the Board of Education, said that he had never attended a meeting in Belleville which promised so much for the future of the city. He congratulated Mr. Mikel in making such a good case out of the worst end of the debate. Mr. Sinclair earnestly advocated a new Collegiate Institute. Mr. Arthur McGie, Chairman of the Board of Education also made a brief address on educational matters.

Dominion Executive G.W.V.A. at Ottawa

Will Prepare Claims to be Presented Regarding Re-establishment.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—One of the most important meetings of the Dominion Executive, G.W.V.A., opened here yesterday. The sessions are being continued Monday. The members of the Executive, who represent the different Provinces, have before them resolutions from local commands in all parts of Canada. These are being carefully considered. Claims to be presented to the Parliamentary Committee on Re-establishment are being prepared for the impending session of Parliament. The date of the next Dominion convention will also be fixed.

S. Stafford, the vice-president of the Dominion Command presided over the meeting in the absence of the President, R. B. Maxwell, who is attending the Empire Conference of War Veterans in South Africa. All the Provinces were represented with the exception of Saskatchewan. A. C. Hill, the representative from that Province, broke his leg while boarding the train at Regina, and was forced to stay over for treatment at Winnipeg. He wired the National Secretary, C. G. MacNeil, that he would arrive in time for to-morrow's sessions.

G.W.V.A. Assembly Enjoyable Event

Splendid Music, Novel and Varied Program Furnish Pleasant Evening.

Last evening Johnstone's Academy was the scene of a very pretty dance under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. of this city. About one hundred couples were present and enjoyed the evening thoroughly. Dancing commenced about 8.30 and continued until the early hours of this morning. The music was provided by Grant's 6-piece orchestra, and was full of life, the encores being promptly responded to.

The Hall looked very pretty with decorations of toy balloons with red, white and blue streamers attached and being grouped under each light, round the mirrors and along the walls at intervals.

A beautiful silver cup which the G.W.V.A. won as a tug-of-war trophy elicited many remarks of admiration.

Luncheon was served about 11.30 consisting of varied sandwiches, cakes and coffee, the stewards, G. N. Irvine, L. G. Madden, F. W. D. Wiggins, J. H. Bateman, F. R. Rayfield, J. C. Horie, H. Anderson, E. C. Roberts, attending to the wants of the guests of the evening.

Immediately upon the conclusion of the luncheon a program of songs consisting of three numbers, was put on under the capable direction of Mrs. A. P. Allen. The first number was a comic song by that noted funmaker Billie Edwards. The second number was a vocal solo by Mrs. A. P. Allen, which was heartily encored. The third number was a vocal solo by Mrs. Singer. The accompanists were Miss Williams for the first number, Miss Fenn for the last two numbers.

An innovation then took place in the form of a "Balloon Dance" which was a one-step and in the course of the dance a string was pulled and balloons seemingly endless in number and varied in color, shot over the throng of dancers one balloon carrying a red satin ribbon the finder of which was entitled to a box of chocolates. Miss S. Johnson was the winner. The balloons were concealed in a large Union Jack which hung from the ceiling of the hall. The dancers carried their balloons during the following dances, the bright colors of which greatly enhanced the beauty of the ever shifting color scene, many pretty gowns being in evidence.

Owing to many counter attractions the crowd was not so large as expected, but those present were fully satisfied with having spent a delightful evening. The proceeds of this dance go toward the building of the new Memorial Home.

Canada Ready To Retaliate if Fordney Wins

Hon. Dr. Tolmie Says Tarriff Revision is at Present Under Way.

Hamilton, Feb. 8.—Intimating that if the Fordney Tariff Bill becomes operative in the United States the Federal Government will retaliate in kind, Hon. Dr. F. S. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, told members of the agricultural section of the Chamber of Commerce that they need not worry as the agricultural interests of Canada would be adequately protected.

Dr. Tolmie said that the Federal authorities, although keenly interested, could not announce any new fiscal policy until they first learned what Tarriff the United States would adopt. But as soon as this knowledge was obtained action would be taken

Revision of the Canadian tariff, so far as it affected all branches of agriculture, was under way at present, and would provide for higher protection contingent on the adoption of the proposed tariff in the United States.

Jersey Bandits Rob Eighteen Motorists

Wealthy People Returning From Golf Hit Barricaded Road

Newark, N. J., Feb. 7.—Eighteen men and women, motoring early today from the Battusrol Golf Club at Springfield, where they had been dinner guests of Thomas Dehevoise, former Mayor of Summit, were held up and robbed by three armed bandits who had blocked the road with logs, tree branches, stones and other obstacles.

Robert S. Huse of Elizabeth, who tried to drive off, was shot by one of the robbers. The bullet broke his arm

The occupants of the first automobile to reach the barricade were lined up quickly and their money taken from them. The robbers demanded cash only, paying no attention to the jewels worn by the fashionably-gowned women. Similar tactics were employed with the occupants of the other cars until all in the party had yielded their money. The highwaymen then ordered Jas. P. Thomas of Elizabeth to drive the car away. Mrs Thomas was in the car.

Two got in with her and the third stood on the running-board, shouting a final warning to the other victims to make no attempt to leave until they were out of sight. Thomas started his car containing the robbers and his wife, when Huse jumped into his own machine and tried to start it. The bandit riding on the running-board promptly fired at him, the bullet finding its mark.

Thomas increased his speed under threats of the robbers until near Kenilworth, when he was ordered to stop. The bandits then got out, held a brief whispered consultation and disappeared in the darkness. No trace of them has been found.

No Government Delay Says Premier E.C. Drury

"GOVERNMENT MATERIAL HAS BEEN READY NOW FOR TWENTY DAYS, AND YET THE DEBATE IS NOT FINISHED," ADDS GOVERNMENT HEAD—"IT'S NOT ON ORDER PAPER"—MR. FERGUSON.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—Criticism appearing in the Toronto papers of the length of the debate on the speech from the throne, were resented in the legislature this afternoon by Hon. G. H. Ferguson.

"I protest against newspapers alleging that members of this house are wasting the time of this house in the debate. I would point out that although the house met for the first time on January 25 the first government order did not appear on the order paper until February 1, and was not printed until February 8. If there has been any undue delay in the debate, therefore, it is due to the government not being ready to go on with its legislation. Never before, since I have been in the house, have we had to wait quite so long for legislation.

Mr. Ferguson referred to the Farmers' Sun as being controlled by Hon. Manning Doherty.

"De-controlled," interjected the Minister of Agriculture.

"No Item Before House"

Mr. Ferguson said, if they had adopted the suggestion of the Farmers Sun and closed the debate on the second day, the house might just as well have adjourned for a week's holiday, because there was not a solitary item of any kind before the house to be dealt with, and since he had been in the legislature, he did not think he had ever heard a debate carried on in such a high plane and such a valuable contribution to public affairs as that taken part in by the gentlemen, who have discussed matters this session.

Premier Drury said he did not know if the time had been wasted. He did not agree with Mr. Ferguson that the length of the debate was in any sense due to the lack of material. The government material had been ready now for 20 days and yet the debate was not finished.

Mr. Ferguson remarked the government material had not been on the order paper.

Maximum Work Day

A "maximum work-hour day act" was introduced by Sergt.-Major MacNamara, of Riverdale. Under the measure it shall be considered that the normal working days shall not exceed eight hours a day and not more than 48 hours a week, exclusive of meal time, in an industry otherwise herein after defined with the province.

There must be a period of rest of at least eight consecutive hours from the ending of work on any one day to the beginning of work on the next day. Systematic overtime shall be considered and declared to be illegal with the passing of the act, except in the case of necessity, when not more than 10 consecutive hours shall be worked.

A fine not exceeding $1,000 or in default of payment six months' imprisonment, is imposed in case of non-compliance with requirements.

No employed person shall remain or be allowed to remain at his or her work more than eight hours in any consecutive 24 hours, which eight hours shall be reckoned from the time he or she commenced work until the time of leaving, excepting superintendents, foremen, time-keepers, pumpmen elevator attendants, guards, watchmen hospital and nursing attendants, nor shall it apply to any person or persons working in case of emergency where life or property is in imminent danger.

A VERY PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Master Kenneth Fox, Barr- was untying a horse to take it to water, on Sunday, when it reared back and caught his right hand in the knot, burning it with the rope and tearing part of the flesh from his hand, one finger being burst open over an inch. It is very painful.

BIG BERTHA BOMB WAS ONLY A DUD

ANOTHER NEWSPAPER FAKE BY THE AUTHORS OF "THE ARMISTICE THAT WASN'T."

A report sent out by the United Press Service that an unnamed British diplomat had called a conference of United States newspaper men in London and issued a solemn warning that the United States was "treading the path that leads to war" with Great Britain by allowing enemies of the Empire to wantonly insult not only England and Englishmen, but the flag of the British Isles and the Dominions beyond the seas.

The Canadian Press, Limited, did not touch the story at all, but the United States papers played it up as a great sensation, and the Montreal Star featured it under startling headlines.

Foreign Office Denial.

The Canadian Press, Limited, sent out an emphatic denial from the British Foreign Office stating that the story was without foundation, and this was published in The Intelligencer, which paid no attention to the United Press alarming story, having still in vivid memory the fiasco created by the same United Press Service in sending out fake news of the armistice.

Simply a Pipe Dream.

Far from being any Truth in the story, the British Foreign Office states there is no reason to believe that any question arising between Great Britain and United States can not be settled without difficulty, with this or any succeeding administration.

At the same time the United States should realize that Britain has been more than patient with the safety-first tail-twisters who should be given to understand by Uncle Sam that insulting the flag of a friendly nation is a serious offence.

Mysterious Diplomat.

The whole yarn was based upon an "unnamed diplomat," surely an unstable foundation, and "so complete were the arrangements for the conference with the newspaper men that even paper and pencils were furnished." This was most thoughtful, for some of those absent minded beggars of Yankee newspapermen might have forgotten their notebooks and fountain pens and been forced to chew the words on their cuffs with their teeth.

Home-Brew Imagination.

That conference may have been a figment of home-brew imagination on the U. S. side of the Atlantic, or it may have been the result of a Scotch-and-soda party "over there" in which the "bally Englishman" did the spoofing.

Thus, another Yankee journalistic Big Bertha Bomb turned out to be a "Dud."

German Dyes Dumped Into United Kingdom

Many thousands of tons of German dyestuffs were poured into the United Kingdom in anticipation of the coming into force on January 15 of the Dyestuffs Act, which placed an embargo upon the importation of foreign dyes, except under a strict licensing system. This German dumping will now be stopped.

The embargo does not apply in the case of dyes entering this country for re-exportation or in transit.

The importation of single consignments may be authorized by the Board of Trade which issues a special license for this purpose, in each case subject to the approval of a committee of 11, consisting of three dye-stuff manufacturers, five consumers and three persons not connected with the dye industry.

Shipment of German dyes under the Reparations Act will not be affected by the new law, and the prescribed deliveries will continue to be made for distribution to the trade here.

The productive capacity of British dye manufacturers already exceeds 25,000 tons a year as compared with only 1,000 tons in 1913.

During the next decade, British chemists will be put on their mettle to secure for Great Britain complete independence from foreign producers, for the life of the present act is limited to ten years.

More Insurance Against Rainy Days

Ontario Fair Association May Get an Increase—Clem Ketcheson Elected Director of Provincial Association

Toronto, Feb. 9.—At the afternoon session of the Ontario Association of Fairs and Exhibition to-day, a deputation, appointed earlier in the day to wait on the government with the request that the wet weather insurance be increased, reported that the proposal of the convention, in all probability, would be acceded to. The deputation had also asked that the government grant of $85,000 be increased by $25,000, but the premier had declined to grant their request on the ground that the Ontario fair was receiving a larger grant than that given in any other province in the dominion.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, W. J. Connelly, Caledon, 1st Vice-president, J. Farrell, Forest, 2nd vice-president, W. J. Ault, Winchester, secretary, J. Lockie Wilson, Toronto, treasurer, J. E. Peart, Hamilton; auditor, G. Dew Green, Toronto; representative to Central Canada Exhibition, W. Hickson, Pobcaygeon; to Western Fair, W. Monteith, Stratford; to Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, W. J. Connelly, J. McLean and J. C. Ball. Directors were also elected as follows: Dr. A. T. Morrow, Maxville; W. E. Smallfield, Renfrew; Clem Ketcheson, Frankford; M. Calder, Beaverton, W. N. Scott, Milton, G. C. Johnston, Ancaster, Col. J. J. Craig, Fergus; Chas. W. Molland, Thorndale; W. A. Brock, Petrolia; Dr. W. H. Huck, Mildmay, R. Hill, Huntsvale, Jas. Tonkin, Fort William; A. E. Stephenson, New Liskeard, and A. R. Wood, Soo.

Soldiers Graves Being Looked After

The annual report of the Imperial War Graves Commission for 1919-20 states that the total number of graves registered up to September 30, 1920, was 582,426, and the number of burials registered was 187,705.

The extent of the work of exhumation and concentration of scattered graves in France and Belgium up to March 22, 1920, is indicated by the following figures—Re-interments, 128,577, already known, 55,508; indentified for first time, 6,273; unknown 66,796. The total number of graves in France and Belgium when the work has been completed would be probably over 500,000 and the number of cemeteries requiring architectural treatment in addition to the erection of headstones (which is practically all that will be required for graves in French Communal cemetries) will exceed 1,200.

The Manchester Guardian remarks that France and Belgium account for almost half a million registered and authentic graves.

It is here, of course that the task of reinterment in the appointed cemetries becomes the greatest—a vast amount of work is needed before these memorials of the British dead can be left to make their finished appeal to posterity. One difficulty that the Commission had to face has been the shortage of skilled labor for work on the headstones. The orders for these have been distributed throughout the United Kingdom, and it is significant of the way in which this pathetic undertaking has been approached that an attempt has been made to let every district see for itself examples of the chosen regimental designs. The task of the War Graves Commission is as great as it is significant, and its difficulties are many as regards both sentiment and administration. The present report is a dignified and encouraging reminder that the work has been entrusted to the right hands. The War Office states that, pending the consideration of the Erection of Permanent Headstones by the Imperial War Graves Commission, a temporary Wooden Cross of the type designed for all War Graves, if desired by the next-of-kin, will be erected at the public expense over the graves of all soldiers who fell in the Great War and are buried in Great Britain and Ireland.

The next-of-kin who desire the Cross to be erected should communicate, if they have not already done so, with the Director of Graves Registration and Enquiries, 82 Baker street, London, W. 1., within three months, giving full particulars as to the buried soldier's name, regimental number, regiment, date of death, cemetery, and row and number of grave.

Manufacturers May Have to Pay Tax

Government Will Make Test Case of Unpaid Taxes.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—The Dominion government will attempt to recover from all manufacturers selling direct to the retail trade the amount of the two per cent manufacturers tax which under the war revenue act of 1915, and amendments thereto, they are supposed to collect from their customers at time of sail.

Many manufacturers have refused to pay this impost since May 19 last and the government purposes to make a test case of the matter.

Smuts is Ahead In Bitter Fight In South Africa

Victory of Premier is Sure Over the Nationalist Party.

General Smuts' party (South African)	67
Nationalists	37
Labor	9
Democrat	1
Tied results	2

This gives the party led by Gen. Smuts a plurality of 18 seats, or reckoning in Democrats, ties and Nationalists, a majority over the "Secessionists" of 27 seats so far. With Labor counted as among the loyal element this majority would be 36.

Drury Advises All Interests To Take Loss

Only Solution for Unemployment is Undamming of Trade

Industrial unemployment, with its corelatives of dole systems and distress, occupied the attention of the Legislature. Resumption of the formal debate was set aside while members of all groups addressed themselves to the emergent question introduced by the statement of Hon. Manning Doherty upon British immigration.

Faced on all sides with requests to "do something at once," Premier Drury expressed his grave concern at the state of affairs in urban centres and invited the co-operation of all groups in formulating any scheme that might help to relieve the situation.

"The problem has given the Government serious concern," said the Premier, "and we regret exceedingly the extent of unemployment. There are some who think the Government has nothing to do but create work. That is not true. The credit of Ontario is not unlimited. Two millions per month is being spent on the Chippawa scheme alone—a very considerable expenditure which is helping a large number of men. I am convinced, however, that with all the work the Government might plan it would not do enough to wipe out the unemployment situation.

Commercial Stagnation

"That situation is the result of commercial stagnation. The longer we hold up the stream the more unemployment and the greater depression."

Producers and dealers in many lines the Premier declared, had taken their profits during a time of rising prices, and it was in the public interest that men who had so done should now take their share of loss. The farmers had done and still were doing this. Why should not all do their share?

"I think it would be a good thing if the influence of this House could be used to undam the channels of trade," continued Hon. Mr. Drury. "There is no unemployment in rural districts, though farmers are getting less for their products. If prices of other products were cut in half there would be no unemployment in other lines of industry either. I am convinced that if we could go ahead tomorrow and borrow twenty-five million dollars for immediate public works we could not wipe out unemployment."

Relief Mishandled

That much of the present "relief" had been mishandled was alleged by Hon. F. C. Biggs, who stated that some were receiving relief who had no need of help, while others actually had given up employment to secure financial assistance. In some cases, the Minister stated, assistance given had been bartered for gain. These remarks were taken exception to by several members ncludng Colonels Price and Cooper, who thought they saw in them a reflection upon the Relief Officer of Toronto, Sergt-Major Crighton.

"I want the Minister to withdraw that charge," declared Col. Cooper.

"I don't intend to withdraw it; I'd sooner substantiate it," was the warm retort of the Minister.

Two-Party Plan Safe Recipe For Efficient Government

WEST PETERBORO' REPRESENTED BY CANDIDATE WHO RECEIVED LESS THAN THIRD OF VOTES POLLED, TEACHES LESSON, SAYS DR. TOLMIE—TOO MANY PARTIES—WHAT GOOD GOVERNMENT CONSISTS OF.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—According to Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture in the Dominion Government, one plain and important lesson for Canada in the West Peterboro' election result is the necessity for a two-party plan as about the only safe recipe for securing and maintaining representative Government. Dr. Tolmie points out that the result of the contest for the riding of West Peterboro' by five nominees is that the winner goes to Ottawa on the strength of 4,091 votes polled for him out of a qualified list of fifteen thousand voters.

I am looking at that result, said Dr. Tolmie, not as a member of the Meighen Government nor as a politician. I am not a politician and never pretended to be one. My own idea of a good Government is one that does its best to apply sound business principles to the conduct of public affairs in the most efficient and economical way with the recognition of all opportunities for expanding our national business along common sense lines and in fairness to all interests and all classes in the community.

Rockfeller Income Tax on 32 Millions

Believed That Amount Came to John D. Rockefeller in 1918

Washington, Feb. 10.—One man in the United States reported an income of at least $32,371,821 for the tax year 1918, and paid on a net income of at least $20,456,524, after general deductions had been made. The tax on this personal income probably amounts to between $13,000,000 and $14,000,000.

There is one man listed as "single" who reported a personal income of more than $4,000,000. There were but three such incomes, one reported jointly by husband and wife, and one by a "single" man not listed as the "head of a family," and one by a "single woman."

John D. Rockefeller is a widower and therefore would be listed as "single." While the Internal Revenue Department refused to give any information as to the identity of the persons paying the taxes on these great incomes, it is obvious that Mr. Rockefeller is the only "single" man who fits the situation.

Toronto Location of Orange Orphanage

Will Cost $200,000—Large Sum Has Already Been Subscribed.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—At a meeting of the Loyal True Blue and Orange Orphanage to consider the plans prepared by the architect for the new building to be erected on Yonge street, just north of Richmond Hill, the plans as submitted by the architect were passed and the building will be commenced early in the spring. The approximate cost of the building is $200,000.

Mr. G. W. Farley, treasurer of the building fund, presented a financial statement, which shows the following up to December 31st, 1920, viz:

Total receipts	$110,059.83
Expenditures	11,863.58
Net amount on hand	$98,196.25

This leaves $82,696.25 for the building, together with an amount of $20,500 which has been promised as soon as building operations start, making a total available of $103,196.25.

Railway Men Threaten Strike

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

London, Feb. 10.—Premier Lloyd George today informed the locomotive engineers and firemen's union that its implied threat to bring on a general strike in Great Britain over the shooting of railway men at Mallow, Ireland last month would not influence the Government in considering the union's demands for an investigation. The union's intimation adopted by the executive at Leeds yesterday was that unless the Government granted an inquiry into the Mallow affair by Feb. 15th and gave a guarantee for the safety of union members a general strike would be called. The Premier announced that the resolution would be sent to Ireland for informative purposes by the Government.

FRANK WEEDON OF THE "DUMBELLS" AT GRIFFIN'S

Joseph Dowling, who since his wonderful delineation of the Patrician in "The Miracle Man," has come to be known as "The Miracle Man of the Screen," comes to Griffin's tonight for a three night's engagement, with matinee Saturday.

As the gallant old Kentucky Colonel in the picturization of Opie Read's well known novel, "The Kentucky Colonel," Joseph Dowling is said to ever surpass the marvelous characterization of the spiritualistic miracle man.

The story tells of the beautiful and imperishable friendship between two old Kentucky Gentlemen, one a General and the other a colonel [illegible] which they have born [illegible] war days. In spite of the supreme [illegible] which comes when the General [illegible] to believe that the Colonel has for many years been [illegible] and to his relations with Mrs. the General's wife [illegible] their love for each other continues [illegible] In the [illegible] when they meet to fight a duel neither [illegible] at the other. Instead they fire their [illegible] up into the air for neither [illegible] the courage or the desire to kill the other. Dry Dance With Wet Trimmings

Police Raid Dance—$100 Fines For Drinking Liquor, in Public Places.

A dance, for which invitations had evidently not been issued was in progress last night at the residence of Mrs. Kaiting, Pinnacle street, when the enjoyment of the guests was abruptly interfered with by the presence of members of the local police force. As the result of the visit of the blue coats, a man named Jonathan Elliott whose home is in the country, Wm. N. Clapper, Irene Davies and Edith Hinds were escorted to the police station where they were made as comfortable as circumstances would permit for the remainder of the night. The charge preferred against the male members of the quartette is that of drinking liquor in the place and the female are charged with a similar offense and also of being vagrants. The names of others were obtained and they will be asked to appear before the Magistrate to give an account of themselves. It is alleged that a small admittance fee was charged to those who attended the social function which was in a class by itself. When the case was brought up before Magistrate Masson, Mrs. Kaiting testified that she had previously conducted dances and charged an admission fee. She was not aware of any liquor being upon the premises. The result of the case was as follows. Mary Carson, Fred M. Letissier, Wm. N. Clapper and Ettie Hines were fined $100 and costs or in default three months in jail for drinking in a public place. Irene Davies on a charge of vagrancy was remanded for a week. Jonathan Elliot was charged with having liquor in a public place and his case was enlarged for a few days as was also the case against Ernest Farrell. Mr. Carnew represented the Crown and Mr. E. D. O'Flynn appeared for some of the accused.

Lions Learn The Meaning of Success

Belleville Lions Club is growing in numbers and enthusiasm and there was a large attendance at [illegible] luncheon at the Hotel Quinte Wednesday.

"Success" [illegible] the Lions by Rev. D. C. Ramsay [illegible] was the feature of the [illegible] Rev. Ramsay told some [illegible] truths in an interesting, witty and very [illegible] way which made a deep impression upon those present. Rev. [illegible] success was not to [illegible] people [illegible] The address [illegible] and illuminated with flashes of wit which added [illegible] Mr. Ramsay [illegible] that he had always had considerable sympathy for Daniel in the lions' den but on this occasion his sympathy went out to the Lions.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Rotarian Ramsay for his very helpful address, supplemented by enthusiastic remarks by Cub Dick Ponton. The resolution was seconded by Cub Ray Zwick and was emphasized by the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

A. G. Dixon presided as Good Fellowship Chairman, and at the opening of the meeting attention was called to the vacant chair at the board in mute memory of the late Archie Blakely, a member of the Lions Club, who departed this life since the last gathering. A tribute of respect was paid by the members assembled in standing with bowed heads while Rev. Mr. Ramsay offered a brief prayer in memory of the departed brother Lion. This was followed by the singing of "Till We Meet Again."

Cub Harold Barrett, music master, was absent, and this musical Lion was greatly missed in the community singing. Cub Russ Wotten forgot his music and was sentenced to sing a solo, which he did to the great amusement of all present.

Cubs Henty, Ponton and Cherry presented the report of the Constitution and By-Laws committee which was adopted.

Important Forest Trees in Canada

YELLOW BIRCH

(Betula Lutea)

The yellow birch has, during recent years, assumed much importance from a commercial standpoint, chiefly because it is being used as a substitute for oak.

The yellow birch is very easy to distinguish in the woods in younger trees up to 8 inches in diameter by its characteristic bark. This yellow, lustrous bark is parted in ribbonlike strips and hangs in fringes from the trees. The bark of yellow birch is not readily detachable like that of the paper birch, and the white bark of the latter easily distinguishes it. In old mature trees, the bark of the yellow birch has lost its yellowish fringes and splits into plates which curl up at the edges. This feature makes it resemble black birch (B. lenta), a tree occurring only along the Canadian boundary, and the two species are sometimes mistaken on this account. As the leaves of some of the species of birch resemble each other, one should be familiar with these in oredr to identify them.

There is approximately 20 billion board feet of yellow birch standing timber in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. Almost half of this is in Quebec, where the cut in one year reached 43 million board feet. The inventory of the forest resources of Ontario now being prepared by the Commission of Conservation will bring to light further details with regard to the yellow birch supply. The yellow birch is found from Newfoundland and the Maritime Provinces westward to the east side of Lake Superior, also from Fort William west along the Canada-United States boundary to the Lake of the Woods.

It is to be hoped that the question of transporting hardwood logs from the woods to the mill will soon be solved by operators, so that yellow birch may come into the market in quantities that will compensate for the scarcity of oak. Birch is easily the most important of our hardwoods, and the yellow birch forms the bulk of birch lumber in use. It is used largely in furniture, flooring, and planing mill products, also for vehicle stock, agricultural implements and in the spool industry. Large quantities of veneer are cut from yellow birch and only an expert can distinguish it from mahogany when it is thus finished. Other species of birch are the common paper birch (Betula papyrifera) and the western birch (Betula occidentalis) which is found in British Columbia.

The following manner of distinguishing birch is suggested by the United States Forest Products Laboratory: In birch, the medullary rays on a cut showing end grain are very fine, invisible without a lens. The pores are several times larger than the rays, usually being visible to the unaided eye as minute holes. The pores in birch are considerably larger, but the rays are considerably finer, than in beech and maple, with either of which it may be confused.

HOW YOU CAN REMOVE EVERY TRACE OF HAIR

(Toilet Talks)

A stiff paste made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining delatone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is delatone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

VALUABLE INFORMATION

It was stated at the Utilities Commission meeting yesterday afternoon that galvanized iron pipe, put down at the Barriefield hutments a year ago and recently taken up, had lost its galvanized coating, apparently owing to the acids in the ground. Mayor Nickle remarked that if this had occurred in the city it would have been claimed to be due to electrolysis. The information, he said, was very valuable.—Kingston Standard.

KEEP SMILING AND BUSINESS WILL GO ON.

A western Ontario manufacturing concern, realizing the importance of making the people of this country adopt an optimistic attitude towards the present industrial conditions, have started to preach optimism. In a circular which has been distributed throughout the length and breadth of Canada, what might be termed a "Sermon on Optimism" is being preached, and its contents hit so exactly the need of the present and the immediate future that they should be given a prominent place in the programme of every individual, community and business. The circular reads as follows:

"Business will go on.

"Whether prices go up or down, whether labor conditions grow better or worse, whether interest rates work higher or lower—

"Business will go on,—

"And those who are worthy are the ones who will do it. There are 8,000,000 people in Canada who must be fed and clothed and sheltered, and there will always be something to exchange for entertainment and luxuries. And through it all, the business that is worthy, that serves legitimate requirements persistently and consistently, will continue.

"There will always be men to do the world's work.

"There will be business men of clear vision, who not only talk service but give it—give it every day—and who never lose faith for a minute. Such men are responsible for the world's prosperity. They will continue in their success as surely as modern civilization endures.

"Therefore, don't cry hard times, but preach optimism.

"Keep smiling."

SIR WILLIAM GAGE WAS GREAT IN EVERY SENSE.

It would be difficult to frame an epitaph that would do full justice to the memory of the late Sir William Gage. The simple statement that by his efforts as a philanthropist, a business organizer and a sanitary educationist he had within a comparatively short term of years reduced the death rate from tuberculosis in Canada by fifty per cent., represents an achievement almost incredibly great. He was not only an inspired idealist who fought for the cause that many with superstitious fatalism had regarded as hopeless, and who had to combat the ignorance of the educated as well as the helplessness of the ignorant; but he was a great business man. Only an individual of vast organizing capacity could have given the fight against the "white plague" in Canada its splendid scope and effectiveness. He was a generous philanthropist, who gave not only unsparingly of his time, but went down into his pocket book to the extent of a quarter of a million dollars in known subscriptions. In reality his benefactions in the aggregate totalled more.

Wealthy as he was, Sir William was not a Croesus, and these gifts meant sacrifice. His intellectual grasp of the cause he had made his own was shown by the fact that he was not content with merely caring for the sick, but devoted great and inspiring energy to preventive methods and education. He influenced legislation on this vital matter very effectively, and helped to revolutionize thought on the subject of tuberculosis. The campaign he carried on for institutional treatment in various phases not only restored thousands of the sick who under the methods that prevailed thirty years ago would have passed on to early death; but by prevention saved countless others who in the old days of ignorance and despair would have become victims. With the enthusiasm of an evangelist he united the mind of a statesman, and the National Sanitarium Association, with its manifold activities, should be a monument "brighter than gold and more enduring than brass."

The great movement which Sir Willam Gage initiated in this country has suffered severely during the past decade through death. The late H. C. Hammond and the late W. P. Gundy fought nobly beside their chieftain, and their deaths increased the burden of its original founder. Now Sir William himself has gone; and let us hope that others equally indefatigable and enthusiastic will appear to carry on the battle.—Toronto Saturday Night.

CRISP COMMENT

President Wilson has sent a note to the League of Nations dealing with the Russian question and suggesting unified action by the Allies in dealing with Russia based on a "hands-off" policy. This leads the Paris Journal des Debats to ask: "Does Mr. Wilson think America can join the League of Nations for five or ten minutes whenever it wishes something?"

TRADE AND EXCHANGE

Ottawa Citizen

Sir George Foster appeals to Americans to buy as much from us as we have bought from them. They would without any urging, if we had the goods they require at the price they are prepared to pay. Why ask them to mix sentiment with business and buy from us 921 millions' worth of goods that they either do not want or can get elsewhere cheaper?

Sir George asks for more equality in exchange. Inequality in amount of trade as measured by dollars does not affect the rate of exchange. Canadian dollars are at a discount in the United States because they are not redeemable in gold. If our minister of trade and commerce would have the exchange rate equalized he should urge on his colleagues the necessity of restoring the gold standard. Britain had against her an "adverse" trade balance all through the war, but the pound sterling never depreciated until the "pegging" that kept it up to normal was withdrawn, or, in other words, until the gold standard was suspended as regards redemption.

A LONG SPOON NEEDED

Manitoba Free Press

In yesterday's paper the terms of the proposed trade arrangement between Great Britain and the Soviet government of Russia were published. By them Russia is pledged to abstain from stirring up trouble for Great Britain in Asia. In the adjoining column a despatch from Moscow told of a meeting there for the formation of a pan-Islamic league, whose chief activities will certainly be directed against the British Empire. "He who sups with the devil needs a long spoon."

Letters to the Editor

OPEN AIR RINKS

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—I noticed a letter in last night's Intelligencer, signed by H. J. Parker, strongly condemning the public works department for not having good ice on the hockey rink. I must say I am very sorry myself. I gave the Road Foreman orders to keep the rinks in good shape, especially the hockey rink below the market, and I believe he did his best to obtain good ice. Mr. Henderson worked all night in zero weather flooding that rink and the next day I went down to the rink to see how it was and found the sun shining bright and strong and the water running over a large portion of the ice. The reason is, the rink is bounded on the north side with a tight board fence, and north of the fence are a row of buildings, which keep the ice from freezing. Mr. Parker compares the bay, where the wind and cold have full sweep, to this rink, which is no comparison. He asks how many nights has the Turnbull street rink been open. My answer is, the Turnbull street rink is covered

I will do my best, weather permitting, to put the rink in shape. I think if Mr. Parker had spoken to me on the matter I could have satisfied him and saved him the trouble of writing.

In conclusion let me say that when I found we could get no results for the city's money I thought it wise to stop. My intention, as chairman of Public Works, is to use the city's money to the best advantage I possibly can. Mr. Parker says the public works wants more pep. I think there is enough pep to carry on public works, but it will take more pep than Mr. Parker and myself have got to prevent the warm weather and sun melting the ice on the hockey rink.

Yours respectfully,
S. H. TREVERTON.

A REGULAR TOWN

Complete and official returns of the Belleville-Port Hope game will be given at the Royal Opera House. Owing to the fact that there is no phone in the Belleville rink, the score will be almost impossible to obtain except by a special arrangement which the Royal management have made. Beginning about 8.30 at least two bulletins will be received in each period from an exclusive source of information and immediately announced. The program will last until the final score is in. No objection to any amount of noise, so be prepared for a big time; the boys will know you are "with" them.—Port Hope Guide.

DOG DERBY CREATES GREAT INTEREST

Northern Manitoba has gone completely "doggy" and every musher wants to drive a team in the forthcoming Hudson Bay Dog Derby to be held at The Pas, March 7. Nine entries are assured and there is a possibility of fifteen contestants facing the starter.

So far the teams and the number of dogs are: G. R. Bancroft, owner; Theo Dupas, driver, 7 dogs. C. B. Morgan, owner; Billy Winterton, driver, 9 or 11 dogs. Walter Goyne, owner and driver, 13 dogs. Larry McKay, owner and driver; 9 dogs. Sam Pranteau, owner and driver; 7 dogs. S. Bjorkman, Winnipeg, owner and driver; (no information). S. Stewart, owner; driver not named, 11 dogs. Bateese Campbell, owner and driver; 7 dogs.

Leonard Seppaia, the great Alaskan driver, and his team of 17 dogs, and Mrs. E. H. Harriman, with a string of 15 malamutes, are indicated as possible entries. Local men are talking of three other teams from further north that are laying back to size up the situation before making a move.

When is the team of Collingwood veterans going to fade off the hockey map? Everybody looked for the shipbuilders to go to pieces when they lost so many players to Welland, but they went right along and won last year's title again. Last night they put the [illegible] on Bracebridge in the group final and are now ready to take on Markdale in round two. They defeated a pretty fair team 10 to 2 last night when they defeated Bracebridge and they played good clean, clever hockey. How this team of old timers can do the Rip Van Winkle act year after year is a puzzler. The only new man on the team is a husky kid named Wood. The rest are all veterans. Frank Cook in goal and Rabbi Fryer are of course the real veterans—one is thirty and the other 34—both have been playing since the South African War. Cook is still the best goalkeeper in intermediate hockey—nurses himself along and gets goals when they are needed. Walton is going better than ever and Belcher and "Wink" Foulis make a pretty stout defence. Collingwood, however, is weak in substitutes. Jack Burns and Vic Draper have slowed up a lot. Still they are a pretty foxy pair and while they may not score many goals they'll keep their checks from doing much damage as long as they can stand the pace.

Y. M. C. A. BOWLING

Wednesday night's game between the G.T.R. Yard and K.V.A. was a very close one. The former team won the three games from the K.V.A.'s by a margin of 76 points. The Yards have been indefatigable in their efforts to win and their patience is now being rewarded, and while their scores are nothing to "brag" about, they are much better than in previous games and who knows, they may yet come out on top.

Munnings of the K.V.A.'s was both high single and high three string man. His high single score was 197, and his high three string 445.

RUSSIAN WINDOWS TO CENTRAL EUROPE

The Soviet Russian newspaper Pravda, reviewing the year 1920, says the Communists were unable to realize most of their practical aims because of the lack of both "people and means."

It proposes a revision of the party constitution as a practical measure for the building up of the state.

Reviewing the Soviet Russian foreign policy the Pravda recognizes that Esthonia and Latvia must be considered the Russian windows to Western Europe. Any future war with the border states must be avoided, it says, as the last war with them was very difficult and entailed many sacrifices on the part of Soviet Russia.

Other newspapers reprint rumors from the Western European press regarding a centration of troops on the Russian frontier and explain these rumors as the wish of the Western European powers to initiate more trouble.

MACDONALD'S CUT BRIER

¶ MACDONALD'S "BRIER" has become a Canadian institution. Smoked by the men who made history. In the bush, on the trail, in mining camps, prospectors' huts, factory yards, on trains, steamships, in the luxurious homes and downtown clubs of our Canadian cities—Macdonald's has always been recognized as the smoke.

¶ MACDONALD'S CUT "BRIER"—the same tobacco but in new form—maintains every Macdonald tradition since 1858, and gives to smokers—more tobacco for the money.

Alleging a breach of contract before she had an opportunity to embark was cancelled, Mrs. Tremain is well-cer, professionally known as Irene Cartle, filed suit in the supreme court to recover $20,000 damages from Charles B. In addition to this, Cochran, she claims, was to pay the transportation of herself, her secretary, and two maids, to England, and to provide her with a satisfactory dancing partner. She says that shortly after the contract was signed, and before it went into operation, Cochran notified her that it on the enterprise. Irene Tremain, dan known to many in this city.

AT HOLLOWAY STREET

At a reception service held in connection with the morning service at Holloway street church on Sunday thirty-five persons united with the faith or by transfer of letters. They were heartily welcomed into the church fellowship by the pastor and members of the official board. The Epworth League held its usual social hour at the close of the evening's service, after a bright service of song it was announced that the subjects of the evening "What a young girl expect of the church" and "What the church expects of the young girl" were to be taken respectively by Miss Maud Gillett and Miss I. Martin. The speakers did full justice to their subjects, each clearly bringing out her views. Miss Vallera Wrightmeyer gave much pleasure to those present. Ten minutes were given in which to get acquainted and the meeting was dismissed promptly at nine o'clock.

50TH ANNIVERSARY

A pleasant event took place at Napanee on Jan. 26th, when Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Valalstine celebrated their fiftieth anniversary. They were married in 1871, by Rev. Halstead, Selby, and lived in Richmond until eighteen years ago, when they retired and moved to Napanee. Their children and grandchildren were all present, being Miss Emma, at home; Mr. and Mrs. John F. Vankoughnet and family, Napanee, and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Vanalstine on the old homestead. After congratulating the bride and groom of the day, they all repaired to the dining room, where a well laden table of all that tempts the appetite awaited them and to which they all did ample justice. Toasts were rendered the happy couple and the afternoon passed pleasantly with games and music, after which the company dispersed, wishing the aged couple many more years of happy wedded life.

TABERNACLE SERVICES

The Evangelistic services at the Tabernacle church are increasing in Spiritual influence and power. The people attending are being stirred and moved with deeper desires for the religious welfare of those who are not following the Man of Galilee. This was splendidly manifested in the meeting last night. Rev. Mr. Millson's addresses are pointed, clear, forceful expressions of gospel truth, permeated with Spirit power. Such messages, warm from the heart of the speaker, cannot fail to help the hearers. Mr Millson preaches to-night and Friday night.

Could Save $20,000 On Coleman School

Interesting Demonstration of New Building System

Mr. Beaumont Jarvis, architect of this city, gave a most interesting demonstration of his new method of building construction at the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday afternoon to a group of officers and members of the Association. The molds for the construction of the building blocks have now been completed by the Springer Lock Works and one set was on exhibition. Eighteen blocks are cast simultaneously in the one set of molds—an operation that requires only about three minutes to complete. The new methods of cellular wall construction with concrete blocks was illustrated with working models and those present was greatly impressed by the practical nature of the invention which promises to revolutionize building methods now in use. It was shown that walls constructed in this way would require one third less material and be impervious to moisture or temperature changes.

Mr. Jarvis estimated that in the construction of such a building as the Coleman Ward school $20,000 could be saved by construction with the new building blocks and cellular wall. He showed a number of specimens that had been cast by different methods which gave a variety of finish for interior and exterior work, that cannot be surpassed even by natural stone.

A large Hamilton firm interested in the manufacture of concrete products is considering the advisability of taking up the new method and establishing a plant at Belleville.

Lady Loyal True Blue Lodge No. 51

Belleville Lady Loyal True Blue No. 51, Installation of Officers For 1921

It will long be remembered the big installation night of The Lady Loyal True Blue officers, which was held in the Prentice Boys' Hall, this city, on the 27th of January.

District Deputy Grand Mistress, Sister Mrs. J. Westlake acted in her official capacity, assisted by The Most Worshipful Supreme Grand Master, Bro. W. George Farley, Toronto. Needless to say the ceremony was delightfully performed, and to the satisfaction of the very large gathering. It was certainly a treat to all present and an honor to the officers to have the ceremony so ably conducted. The following officers will control the destinies of No. 51. L.T.B. for the year 1921.

Worshipful Mistress—Mrs. Lottie Robinson.
Deputy Mistress—Mrs. Mabel Weeks
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Rose Ainsworth.
Financial Secretary—Mrs. Blanche Woodcock
Treasurer—Miss Nellie Knott.
Chaplain—Mrs Augusta Thompson.
Director of ceremonies—Mrs. Lena Akey
Conductor—Miss Elizabeth Boothe
Auditors—Mrs. L. Robinson, Mrs A. Thompson
Committee—Mrs. J. Westlake, Mrs T. Wood, Mrs A. Thompson, Mrs E. Barriage, Mrs. M. Reid
Inside Tyler—Mrs. Edith Barriage.
Outside Tyler—Mrs Clara Westlake

Under the guidance of the above officers we venture to predict still further success to the above Lodge.

There were a number of visitors present from Toronto, Belleville, Sulphide and Trenton.

The most worshipful supreme Grand Master when rising to speak his opening remarks were of a very optimistic character, and he expressed great confidence in the future of the association and advised those present not to grow weary in well doing and increase their energies for the coming year.

In closing, he asked for co-operation to help raise funds for the new Loyal True Blue and Orange Home for children, as a memorial to our brethren who gave their lives for King and Country in the great war. This new building will be started in the Spring and built at Richmond Hill near Toronto and will cost $300,000 of which there is $100,000 subscribed, just one third of the amount required. Some of the other visitors spoke for the good of the Lodge and for the Order.

The new officers were inspired by the speakers. Watch this progressive Lodge grow.

Wedding Bells

COON—SEWARD

On Wednesday, Jan. 26th, at the home of Mr and Mrs. M. Seward 4th Cession of Sidney, was the scene of a pleasing event when their only daughter, Gladys, became the bride of Mr. Stanley W. Coon, of Kingston. Promptly at 12 o'clock to the strains of the Bridal Chorus by Loghengrin played by Miss Leah Seward, the bride entered the Parlor leaning on the arm of her father who led her to the groom who was awaiting her under a white Lattice banked with flowers, and little Miss Reta Badgley, cousin of the bride being flower girl. The wedding ceremony was solemnized by Rev. T. Wallace, Pastor at Wallbridge.

At the usual congratulations and the signing of the Register Mr. Geo. Pride sang "Sunshine of your Smile." The bride was gowned in white georgette Crepe embroidered with silver and yoke of silver beads and the customary bridal veil. After the congratulations they repaired to the dining room where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. After justice had been done to the inner man a toast was proposed for the Bride and Groom by Rev. T. Wallace and responded to by the groom, Mr. Seward, father of the bride, Mr. Reginald Sine and others after which all joined in singing "For he's a Jolly Good Fellow. They left by motor for Belleville where they entrained for Toronto and other points west where they will spend their honeymoon. The bride travelling in navy blue serge dress and navy velour coat and hat. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful purse, to the flower girl a gold ring.

The Wedding gifts were beautiful, consisting of Silverware, Cut Glass and fine China also four substantial cheques. Upon their return they will reside in Kingston. We wish the newlyweds happiness and prosperity as they sail over the matrimonial sea of life.

JOYCE—McKINNON

On Saturday, Feb. 5th, 1921, Miss Bessie Jean McKinnon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. McKinnon, and Mr. C. Dwight Joyce, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Y. Joyce of Napanee, were quietly married in Toronto.

Investigating Liquor Supply In Marmora

Police Magistrate Masson was today engaged in hearing liquor cases from the village of Marmora, in Hastings County. The first case called was that of Mr. Charles McWilliams, who was accused of keeping liquor for sale. Mr. Carnew for the Inspector, and Mr. E. G. Porter, K.C., for the accused.

Inspector Connor testified that on the 6th of January, in company with Inspector Naphin and County Constable Ward, he visited McWilliams' house in Marmora village, with a search warrant. Twenty-five gallons of whisky was found in McWilliams' house. Some of the cases were addressed to Fred Pinner, Geo. Shaver and the accused. There was also some gin. The liquor was taken away and brought to the city for safe keeping. He had no conversation with McWilliams in regard to the matter.

At the homes of Messrs. Narrie, Pinner and Lynn in Marmora village, 17 boxes of liquor were found addressed to C. McWilliams.

The defendant, in his evidence, denied that he had ever sold a drop of liquor. He always kept a quantity on hand. The cases which were found in the places named were left there by mistake. Some liquor found in the witness' place addressed to G. Shaver, were for his son-in-law.

As a result of the investigation the charge was dismissed, as were also similar charges preferred against Messrs. Pinner and Lynn. No evidence was submitted in the latter two cases.

Hamilton Man Ruthlessly Shot

Attacked by Bandit as He Was Locking Up Office.

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 11.—Another sensational shooting affray took place her shortly before ten o'clock last night, when an attempt was made by two armed bandits to hold up Benjamin Nunn, 60 years of age. Nunn who resides at 532 Main St., east and is employed by the consumers Gasoline Company, at the corner of Main and Walnut streets, was just about to lock up the office for the night when the gunmen stepped in and ordered him to throw up his hands. Before he had a chance to comply or resist, one of the bandits fired the shot going through Nunn's head. The robbers fled and made good their escape. Nunn was rushed to the City Hospital and doctors say he has a good chance for recovery Detectives Crocker, Buscombe and Speakman responded to the call but so far have no clue. The bullet entered Nunn's chin and came out his neck.

U. of T. Alumni Point Out Value of University

The following resolution was unanimously passed at a meeting of the Alumni of the University of Toronto held at High School Assembly Hall, Belleville, on Friday, February 4th, 1921. Rev. E. N. Baker, D.D. (Principal Albert College), in the chair.

This resolution was passed at a meeting of University graduates held in the High school, at which Br. Dunlop, M.A., of the University Extension Department delivered an address on the progress of the University work now being felt in every channel of Canadian life. New Faces at Cabinet Window

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—The Ottawa Journal, supporting the Government prints the following on its front page this morning:

"The Prime Minister, it is understood, has under consideration the reorganization of his Cabinet. While no official intimation has been given as to the character of the proposed change, the names of R. J. Manion (Fort William), J. A. Stewart (Perth) and H Stevens (Vancouver Centre) are prominently mentioned as likely to be taken into the ministry. All three men are parliamentarians of high ability young, active and aggressive and would unquestionably bring strength to the Cabinet. It is reported that there may be changes in the Cabinet, but of this there is nothing definite."

An official statement is possible over the week-end.

BORROWED TRIPLETS TO MAKE A RECORD

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 11.—Mrs. P. E. A South, who last month startled Atlanta with the announcement that at the age of 52 she had given birh to triplets, has acknowledged in a statement that the three children, together with six others in the South home were obtained from foundling institutions.

Wealth of Cabinet Totals $604,000,000

According to Democratic Leaders in Washington the Men in Line for The Incoming Official Family At the White House Will Be Exceptionally Rich

Washington Feb. 11.—Members of Congress have come to the realization that President-elect Harding's Cabinet will be composed in large part by millionaires or exceptionally rich men.

The wealth of the various men selected or under consideration was discussed in the cloak rooms to-day. The totals, which of course were guesses, that were given of the approximate wealth owned or directly controlled by the men in line for Cabinet places, ran as follows:

Charles Evans Hughes	$ 500,000
Andrew W. Mellon	500,000,000
John W. Weeks	5,000,000
Harry M. Daugherty	1,000,000
Will H. Hays	......
Frank O. Lowden	75,000,000
Albert B. Fall	2,000,000
Henry C. Wallace	500,000
John Hays Hammond	20,000,000
Total	$604,000,000

President Wilson's Cabinet, included, in the opinion of Congressmen, two millionaires, one of whom was appointed late in the last Administration. They are Albert Sidney Burleson and John Barton Payne. Most of the members of Wilson's Cabinet have been men of comfortable, but not great means.

Republican members who have discussed the appointment of Mr Mellon point to his success in business and finance with assurance that he will make a good executive.

No one ventured an estimate of the wealth of Will H. Hays, and no one really knew much about Mr Daugherty's wealth, although one Ohio Senator said he is in easy circumstances.

1000 More Suicides In U.S. in 1920

New York, Feb 11.—Suicides in the United States during the year 1920 numbered 6,171, including 707 children, according to Dr. H. M. Warren, president of the Save-a-Life League. This exceeded the figures of the previous year by more than 1,000 cases, he said. During the year 2,601 women lost through self-destruction. This is a large increase over the preceding year.

The increased percentage among women was ascribed to their entry into commercial and political life. Unhappy domestic relations and living conditions also were large contributing factors.

The youngest suicide in the United States during the past year was five years of age while the oldest was 103. More than 100 soldiers have taken their lives since the termination of the war, Dr. Warren reports.

Classified among the cases of self-destruction in 1920 were 75 presidents and managers of large business concerns, 36 men reputed to be millionaires, 23 wealthy women, 24 lawyers, 4 judges, 51 doctors, 40 actors and actresses, 34 college professors and teachers, 27 college students, 24 brokers, 59 bankers, including 11 bank presidents, 12 clergymen, 2 evangelists and 1 Y.M.C.A. secretary.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Berlin, Feb. 11. The Ministry of Finance has reached the conclusion that the utmost Germany can pay in reparations is one hundred and fifty billion marks, this including all she has so far paid in cash and goods, according to information which the Deutsche Zeitung says it has received from special sources. This amount would be paid off in thirty years under the plan outlined by the newspaper informant, who also is quoted as declaring that the proposal to pay it would be submitted to the authorities in Paris to learn whether the coming London conference on reparations will permit of its consideration along with the allied proposals adopted at the Paris conference.

Hastings M.P.P. Likes Beck Plan

The Proposal, However, Does Not Go Far Enough and Would be Too Slow in Development.

Toronto, Feb 9.—Sir Adam Beck's latest proposal that rural hydro power should be cheapened by the province making a grant of a quarter million dollars a year with which to pay one-third of the cost of country transmission lines is pleasing to J. R. Cooke, M.P.P., for North Hastings.

"But it does not go far enough," said Mr. Cooke today. "It would not give anything like the relief that the legislative committee of which I was secretary proposes, with 80 per cent. of the cost borne by the province. And it would be a long time before rural Ontario could be all supplied by the Beck method."

Sir Adam suggested that with a yearly government grant of $250,000 towards a total expenditure of $750,000, between 500 and 700 miles of transmission lines could be constructed every year. Mr Cooke estimates that rural Ontario could not be well equipped with transmission lines without 35,000 miles of lines, which cost about $35,000,000. Under the Beck proposal therefore, it would take nearly seventy years to cover these parts of the province now well settled.

FAMOUS MACE FOR NEW ULSTER PARLIAMENT

Negotiations are in progress to obtain the old Irish House of Commons mace and speaker's chair for the new Ulster Parliament. They are heirlooms of Lord Massereene at Antrim Castle. The offer of the use of Belfast City Hall as a temporary building for the new Parliament will be accepted.

Reformed Hold-up Man Was Robbed

Famous Outlaw of Other Days Says Modern Robber is No Gentleman

New York, Feb. 11.—"The modern bandit is no gentleman," Al Jennings, famous former outlaw, declared here to-day. Al based his assertion on his encounter with a hold-up man, who relieved him of his purse containing $84 and the treasured pardon granted him by President Roosevelt.

As a result of his experience, he said today, he has decided modern New York is too wild and wooly for him, and that he will spend the rest of his visit in his hotel, adding. "I'm not so sure I'll be safe even then."

Was No Gentleman

Asked to compare the technique of the present-day outlaw with the old timer, Jennings replied. "There is no comparison. In the old days a man might be an outlaw and still be a gentleman. The fellow I met treated me worse than a dog. I told him who I was and tried to kid him, thinking the situation would appeal to his sense of humor, or to his professional courtesy. His only response was to jab me painfully in the ribs with his gun and rip out a string of curses. I've been shot several times, and, believe me, right then I could smell gunpowder and see the morgue.

"He got my purse, leaving me only a dime, but it wasn't that I minded, in the purse was the pardon President Roosevelt granted me. I tried to tell him about it but he wouldn't listen.

"Now, in the old days, my outlaw and I would have talked things over like business men, with the result I would have retained the pardon and perhaps a fair share of the money. We would have parted the best of friends. And if I had been a fellow bandit he would have apologized for troubling me—and bought the drinks."

Jennings said the hold-up occurred Monday night while he was on his way to the old Caledonia hotel.

BOLSHEVIKI SEIZE VILLAS AND FARMS

General Wrangel's villa in Sebastopol has been nationalized by the Bolsheviki, says official wireless message from Moscow. Many other villas and privately owned farms as well as the farm of the Georgieff monastery have been converted into commercial property. Ten farms have been handed over to workers' guilds, and during the last two weeks the Sebastopol labor committee of the Soviet has put 4,400 "bourgeoise and speculators" to compulsory work.

Excited Attacks Beside the Mark

U.S. Must Pay Much-Debated $75,000,000 to Fulfil Pacts With Entente

Washington, Feb. 11.—The whole point in the present situation regarding Europe's indebtedness to us is in danger of being lost sight of in the excited attacks made in the House and Senate on further payments from our treasury in pursuance to agreements with our late allies.

Great Britain, France, and our other creditors are under obligation of a gentlemen's agreement to change the present form of the indebtedness into a form that would make the debt safer. They do not want to make that change and are holding off in the hope of reaching some kind of a diminution or modification of their liabilities.

At present the debts are in the form of demand obligations supplemented by informal understandings. As long as that form continues there is the basis for argument, for negotiation. If we have not done something that we have promised to do, there is a ground for arguing that the agreements have not been completed and that in fairness the whole set of understandings ought to be gone over and revised in the light of all the circumstances. The case of the American Government is that Europe is obligated to the full extent of the nine and a half billion dollars which is the total of the loans. In order to put these obligations into proper shape it has pushed to get the informal part of the agreements out of the way by executing them.

British Embargo on Apples to be Lifted

London, Jan 20.—(By mail, Canadian Associated Press) Writing to the Times in reference to the control of apples, which the Food Controller has announced will be lifted on March 31st, the Hon. F. C. Wade, Agent-General for British Columbia, says:

"If the apple control is to cease why is it necessary to postpone its obsequies till March 31? On October 11 the official information was that no price had been fixed for the sale of apples by the importer after November 14. In September large stocks of first-class British Columbia fruit were offered to importers here, but refused in some cases on the ground that in the absence of an order fixing the controlled price at which the importer could sell it was impossible to purchase. This had the effect of closing the market to overseas apples for the time being except to speculators, and more or less demoralized dealing in fruit from Canada. The reimposition of the retail control price has had two results. It has enabled the retail dealer to dispose of rubbish at the maximum retail price, making in some cases a profit of 90 per cent., while the best quality apples from Canada, which were selling freely in Covent Garden Market at 55s. a case, have been arbitrarily reduced to 30s. a case. As the British Columbia apples have to travel 6,000 miles to reach London, the shippers naturally object to being shut out of a willing market and arbitrarily deprived of business which would be theirs under natural conditions.

"What is the object of retaining the control at the present time? If it is protection to home markets surely it is protection misplaced. England's apple crop this year was, I understand, about 66 2-3 per cent. a failure, and there is no British fruit left to protect. Is the object to protect the consumer? Evidently not, because at the precise date fixed, March 31, the first cargoes of Australian fruit are booked to arrive, and at the same moment control ceases. Australia is to be congratulated, but what excuse can be given Canada for continuing the control to the very end of her season for export? It is bad enough to discourage trade within the Empire and shut out one of the Dominions, but a preference in effect of one over another, however unintentional, only adds to the injustice and confusion.

He was arresed early this morning at his shack about one mile from the scene of the murders.

SECOND READING OF LIQUOR BILL

Quebec, Feb. 10.—The Hon. Walter Mitchell, Provincial Treasurer, this afternoon moved the second reading of the Quebec Liquor Bill, and in the course of a lengthy speech again admitted that the prohibition law had been unworkable owing to the peculiar conditions existing.

Asked by Mr. Sauve why Mr. Mitchell said because 75 per cent. of the people of Montreal were against prohibition of any kind and it was an impossibility with all the police and detectives available to enforce the provisions of a law which prohibits them doing something they believed they had a moral right to do.

Mr Mitchell showed the failure of prohibitive legislation in other Provinces and States and after expressing the belief that no legislation was going to make a man either temperate or prohibitionist, the Provincial Treasurer summarized the bill and made the definite declaration that the Government will be the sole and only importer and seller of alchol.

The Government would have complete control and not even an individual will be allowed to import other than the commission acting for the Government.

Denies Liberals Have Accepted All U.F.O. Ideals

Major Tolmie Continues Debate on Speech From the Throne

Toronto, Feb 11.—Debate on the reply to the speech from the throne was resumed in the legislature this afternoon. Major J. C. Tolmie, Liberal member for Windsor, taking the floor. He denied any suggestion that because the Liberal party had supported certain government legislation, it had accepted all the ideals of the U.F.O. He referred particularly to Rev. Edgar Watson, U.F.O. member for North Victoria.

"Where does he get that idea," he demanded. "Some one got hold of my innocent friend—innocent because he belongs to the same profession as myself—and told him that the Liberals had adopted the U.F.O. ideals.

"Every ideal, every item in their platform, must have been taken from the Liberal platform—every item except one, which they are united in opposing—the recall. But so long as the right legislation is passed, what matter who gets the credit for it. If the Farmers want to crow, let them go ahead."

Major Tolmie opined that Premier Drury had acted "unadvisedly" when he took an unnecessary fling at the old government, and also at the Liberal party. "He thinks the Liberal party is dead,' the speaker declared, "There are some of us who think it is very much alive. But I should not dream of setting up my opinion against that of the premier, that Cincinnatus who was called from Crown Hill to assume the reigns of government. If he says we are dead, we must be."

Major Tolmie gave the Conservative party credit for passing the Adolescent School Attendance Act, recalling, however, that the Liberals had supported it. He described the measure as one of the most important pieces of legislation enacted in the last twenty-five years. He urged that the act be applied in a proper manner in order that the adolescent students might receive the proper training.

Protest Meeting Produced a Fight

Gathering Was One of the Most Disorderly in City's History.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—One of the spectacles which Toronto will doubtless regret when she has had an opportunity to cool off, is the disorderly affair which was staged in Massey Hall last night under the name of a "Protest Against Disloyalty."

DISLOYALTY.

Ordinarily a meeting of this type might be relied upon to drag through a long evening, but last night's affair became so unruly that Chairman Controller Nesbitt found that the only way to retain peace among the warring factions was the calling for the singing of the National Anthem long before the National Anthembgkq vbg vbgkqj ten o'clock. Even the National Anthem was not respected in a devoted manner by all present as its singing was the signal for many to rush out of the building without performing the customary formality of standing at attention, while a number were noticed through the audience who persisted in remaining seated until the last word had been sung. After that, they showed that they were not cripples by getting up and marching out.

Fireworks at Ottawa

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—It is expected that "Fireworks" will start early in the session which opens on Monday. Hon. MacKenzie King, leader of the Liberal opposition is expected to take part on Tuesday in the debate on address in reply to the speech from the Throne, and it is expected that he will probably end his address by introducing an amendment which will declare for an early election on the ground that the present administration has outlived its mandate.

Unemployment Insurance

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—Consideration is now being given to the situation in regard to unemployment insurance and it is probable that indication of the Government's intentions will be given in the speech from the Throne when Parliament opens on Monday. A curious situation has arisen in this regard, unemployment insurance figures as one of the recommendations of the Washington Labor Conference and under the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles, it is stated, members of the League of Nations are required to submit conventions and recommendations of Labor Conferences to their competent legislative authorities for acceptance or rejection.

Flag and Fleet Disowned

Toronto, Feb. 11.—Declining to comment on newspaper criticisms of his attitude, Hon. R. H. Grant, Minister of Education intimated that he would adhere to his intention of removing Lt.-Col. W. Woods' book "Flag and Fleet" from Ontario public schools next June, because of anti-american sentiment which it is alleged to contain. Premier Drury, when interviewed this morning, said he had not read the book. In his opinion any person who would intentionally try to create disunion between the two great Anglo-Saxon races would be traitors.

Cabinet Supports Application

Toronto, Feb. 11.—Representing the livestock interests of Eastern Canada, a deputation headed by W. F. Nickle, K.C., of Kingston, waited upon the Drury Cabinet to-day to draw the attention of the Government to high freight rates which, in view of falling prices and increased costs, are a serious handicap to the livestock business. The Prime Minister gave the deputation a sympathetic hearing and the Cabinet will likely give their support if the livestock men make an application for reduction of freight rates as applied to livestock.

Intense Hatred For French in Germany

Recrudescence of the war-spirit of the German people, which even as late as six months ago apparently had been completely banished, recently has assumed a new and noticeable aspect, particularly in relation to the French who generally are blamed for most of the post-war ills of the German nation.

Civilians and former soldiers alike frankly express the most intense hatred for the French and again are dreaming of a day when they can even-up in war what they have lost in peace. There is no evidence of ill-feeling against the English and toward the Americans, of whom much is expected, commercially, there is every indication of good will.

England on the whole has been credited with a desire for fair play in the execution of the Peace Treaty, but in many sources the opinion prevails that France is destined to have her way even at the expense of the integrity of the German nation. (This applied to the situation before the amount of the German indemnity was fixed.)

Agitation in certain French circles for an independent South Germany, probably under the domination of Bavaria; the alleged pro-Polish attitude of the French military in the Upper Silesian zone; the insistence of the French that the Einwohnerwehr and other "protective organizations" shall at once disarm; threats of a military occupation of the Ruhr district; and use of French negro troops in the occupied zone, all have contributed to this revival of race hatred.

Delivery of milch cows to the French has, in view of the milk shortage in Germany and the increase in infant mortality intensified the feeling among the civilian population against the French people.

A German government official with whom the correspondent discussed the situation did not agree with some men who once held high commissions in the army that "another struggle with France is inevitable" but expressed the opinion that "hatred of the French is a natural consequence of French conduct." He believed, however, that superficial aspects had led to exaggerated opinions of the war-spirit of the German people.

"For example German uniforms may be seen everywhere," he said, "and especially in the universities. The stranger immediately jumps to the conclusion that this is an exhibition of the military spirit. The fact are that many soldiers, and this applies particularly to students, are wearing uniforms to conceal the fact they have no shirts. They are too poor to buy other clothes."

"However, he thought, "that other things being equal" the Germans would be willing to promptly go about settling old scores with the French.

"Is it that the young M. Carruthers had an education in France?" asked the lieutenant, the Count de Bourdon. "He has the air of French—shall I say youth?" And as he spoke again I saw a gleam of deeply aroused interest in his eyes which made my knees to tremble in their tweed trousers.

"Born there; son of my brother, who died at the Marne," made answer to the question my uncle, the General Robert.

"It is now that I make a remembrance. That Capitaine Carruthers was the husband to the very beautiful Marquise de Grez and Bye. In her youth I was her friend. I did not know"— But as the Lieutenant the Count de Bourdon was making this discovery, which sent a thrill of fear into the toes of my very shoes, the car stopped at the main entrance of the capitol, and halfway down the long flight of steps stood his excellency the great Gouverneur Faulkner of the state of Harpeth waiting to receive the guest who came on a mission to him from a great land across the waters. Until I die and even into a space beyond that I shall take that picture of magnificence which was made by my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner as he stood in the May sunlight with his bronze hair in a gleaming. I thought him to be a great statue of Succor as he held out both of his strong hands to the smaller man who had come from a stricken land for his help.

"Le bon Dieu keep of his heart a friend of France," I prayed as I watched those hands clasp as my uncle, the General Robert, made the introduction.

And all the long hours of that long day were as dreams of sadness and fear to me as I went about the many duties of entertainment laid upon me. At luncheon at that club of Old Hickory I sat opposite the small Frenchman who sat on the right hand of my Gouverneur Faulkner, and opposite to me sat my uncle, the General Robert. No business was in discussion at that time, but I could see those eyes of French shrewdness make a darting from one face to another, and ever they came back to me with a great puzzle, which gave to me terrible fear. To all the plans for his entertainment he gave an assent of delight, and for that two days' journey down into the grazing lands of the Harpeth Valley he had a great eagerness until told that it was to be undertaken upon the morrow.

"Is it not that we will be occupied on the morning of tomorrow with the signing of those papers of importance, your excellency?" he asked, with a grave annoyance which was under a fine control.

"The secretary of state, General Carruthers, and I think it will be best that you see the grazing lands of Harpeth and some of the mules being put into condition before the signing of the contracts," was what was "handed out to him," as my Buzz would have expressed it, by my Gouverneur Faulkner with a great courtesy and kindliness as he helped himself to some excellent chicken prepared in a fry. I could see a great start of alarm come into the eyes of that small Lieutenant the Count de Bourdon at those calm words, but he gave not a sign of it. In my heart was a great hope that something had been discovered for the protection of my soldiers of France, and I also took to myself a portion of that excellent chicken and did make the attempt to consume it as I beheld all of those great gentlemen performing. I believe that under excitement men possess a much greater calmness of appetite than do women.

"M. le Gouverneur, it is not necessary that I behold those lands and those mules. The signature of the great gouverneur of the state of Harpeth will make a mule to grow from a desert in the eyes of the French government," he said with a smile of great charm spreading over his very small countenance.

But just at this moment, when a reply would have been of an awkwardness to make, the music, which is made by a most delightful band of black men for all eating in that club of Old Hickory, began to play the great Marseillaise, and with one motion all of the gentlemen in that dining room rose to their feet in respect to the distinguished guest of that Old Hickory club. Also many friendly glances were cast upon me, which I returned with a smile of great gratitude.

"Yes, the pen is mightier than the mule stick in his eyes, the scoundrel," remarked my uncle, the General Robert, as I drove to the capitol with him in his car, while the Gouverneur Faulkner took his guest with him in his.

"Is any proof been found that he shall not do this robbery to France, my Uncle Robert?" I asked with great eagerness.

"Trap is about ready to spring, but not quite. Gad, but Jeff Whitworth is a skilled thief! I know what he is up to, but I can't quite get it on the surface. Keep the French robber busy, boy, for a little longer, and I'll land him. Here we are at the onre! Now you get busy keeping them busy—and I'll land 'em. If not I'll go and show France what real fighting is, and I'll take you with me into the worst trench they've got. Battles, indeed—they ought to have been at Chickamauga. Now depart!" With which words my uncle, the General Robert, got out of the car and left me to direct it to wherever I chose.

It has been my good fortune to be one of the guests at many very brilliant receptions of much state in some of the very grand and ancient palaces of the different countries of Europe, but at none of them have I seen a greater brilliancy than at the one given in his mansion by the Gouverneur Faulkner of the state of Harpeth in America. Also I had never beheld women of a more loveliness than those of the state of Harpeth, who had come from many small cities near to Hayesville at an invitation of very careful selection for their beauty by my Buzz.

And most beautiful of all those beautiful grande dames was that Madam Patricia Whitworth, who with her husband stood at the side of his excellency the great Gouverneur Faulkner for the receiving of his guests. Her eyes of the blue flowers set in the snow of crystals were in a gleaming, and the costume that she wore was but a few wisps of gossamer used for the revealing of her radiant body. In my dark and stiff attire of the raven I stood near to the other hand of the Gouverneur Faulkner, and there was such an anger for her in my heart that it was difficult that I made a return of the smile she cast upon me at every few minutes. Was there a mockery in that smile, that she had discovered my woman's estate and was using her own beauty for a challenge to me? I could not tell nor could I judge exactly what the smile of boldness which the Lieutenant Count de Bourdon cast upon me might mean. And in doubt and anxiety I stood there in that great salon for many hours to make conversation with the guest of honor ease with those who came to him for presentation until at last I was so weary that I could not make even a good night to my uncle the General Robert, when we entered long after midnight the doors of Two Oaks.

I Stood There In the Great Salon For Many Hours.

When in my own apartment alone with the beautiful grandmamma I cast myself upon the bed upon which my father had had birth and wept with all my woman's heart, which beat so hard under that attire of the raven.

And then suddenly the telephone upon the table beside my bed gave a loud ringing in the darkness that was long after midnight. Very quickly from fear I covered my head with my pillow and waited with a great fluttering of heart.

Then a second time it rang with a great fury, and I perceived that I must make a response to it.

I arose and took that receiver into my hand and spoke with a fine though husky calmness.

"What is it?" I asked.

"Is that you, Robert?" came the voice of my beloved gouverneur, which made the heart of that anguished Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, beat into a sudden great happiness, though also alarm.

"Yes, your excellency."

"Can you dress very quietly, get your car and come up here to the mansion without letting anybody know of it?"

"I will do what you command."

"I need you, boy, and I need you quick."

"I come."

"Stop the car at the street beyond the side door and come in that way. Cato will let you in. Come to my bedroom quietly so as not to wake Jenkins. Can you find your way?"

"Immediately I come to you."

OPPOSE PASSING OF DIVORCE LEGISLATION

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—A strenuous protest against the passing of any divorce legislation at the coming sitting of Parliament is to be made to Hon. Arthur Meighen, on behalf of the Catholic Truth Society, and local Catholics as a whole. A petition is now in circulation.

The petition quotes five reasons why divorce legislation should not be passed, as follows:

That the principles of divorce are contrary to the teachings of Christ himself.

That divorce does injustice not only to the husband and wife, but to their children and other dependants.

That attempts to destroy the relationship created by marriage are vain and unnatural.

That possibilities of divorce encourage race suicide, and place a premium on immorality.

That an overwhelming majority of the people of Canada are opposed to divorce.

"Demobolization" is A Laughable Skit

Fred Weedon & Co. Have Laughable Skit in "Demobolization"

"Demobolization" the one'act farcial comedy which opened a three days engagement at Griffin's last night proved to be a decided hit with the capacity audience which filled the playhouse. In this act Fred Weedon & Co; late of the "Dumbells," have a skit that is one big laugh from start to finish and kept the audience in a continuous state of merriment. To any returned soldier who was acquainted with army methods, the act recalled many amusing incidents which were encountered during the great war, and the comedy was presented in such a way as to be very amusing to everyone else as well. The present portion of the program also proved very interesting and entertaining and consisted of an Outing Chester Travelogue, Vaudeville Movies showing 6 high class vaudeville acts performing before the camera, and an interesting chapter of the "Pirate Gold" serial. Owing to the non arrival of "The Kentucky Colonel" the advertised feature offering the management substituted with a 5 reel Goldwyn picture Pauline Frederick in "One Week of Life" which proved an acceptable offering. "The Kentucky Colonel" with the talented actor Joseph Dowling having arrived this morning will be shown tonight and Saturday matinee and night.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF SUN LIFE

The year 1921 marks the fiftieth anniversary of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada which in the half century of its existence had grown to be one of the largest and most successful life insurance companies in the world.

A comparison of the growth of the company's business by decades is perhaps the most convincing proof of the strength of its management and of the steady development of public confidence towards it.

One year after it was organized, in 1872, the company's income was $48,000, its assets, $96,461, and it had written policies for a total of $1,064,350. By the year 1880 the income had grown to $141,402, with assets $473,682 and insurance in force of $3,897,139. From this time onward the development of the company, not only in Canada but in stretching out to many other countries of the world, proceeded at a rapid pace as the tables for the next four decades indicates:

Income	$889,000
Assets	$2,473,000
Insurance in force	$16,759,000
1900
Income	$2,789,000
Assets	10,486,000
Insurance in force	57,980,000
1910
Income	$9,575,000
Assets	$38,164,000
Insurance in force	$143,549,000
1920
Income	$28,751,000
Assets	$114,839,000
Insurance in force	$486,641,000

Such a record stands alone in the annals of life insurance companies in Canada. Nor after such a great achievement is there any sign that the company has any intention of standing still on its laurels for during the past year there was written in new insurance upwards of $106,000,000 which in itself exceeds by $20,000,000 the high mark of 1919, which up to that date was a record for the company. It is interesting to note that during its fifty years of existance the Sun Life has paid out to its policy holders or their beneficiaries over $100,000,000. Details of the financial statement of this company for the past year appear elsewhere in this issue, and will be studied with more than usual interest in this its Jubilee year.

Toronto Citizen Murdered in Home

Assyrian Stabbed to Death and Money Belt Removed.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—With his head swathed in a piece of an old blanket and lying face downward on a blood-saturated bed in the centre room of an attic of 51 Simcoe street, the body of Joseph Chattelee, an Assyrian, was discovered by a friend, Sam Burrow, shortly after 7 o'clock last evening. Burrow immediately ran to the corner and brought P. C. Willis to the the scene, and along with Herman Dodge and Burrow, the officer investigated. When the blanket was removed it was found that Chattelee had been killed by two knife wounds in the head; one in the forehead and one in the left temple. The knife, in making this wound, had apparently touched the brain. The blanket had been wrapped around the victim's head after the stabbing, as there were no holes in the blanket corresponding to the wounds on Chattelee's head.

The pockets of the dead man were found turned inside out and his money belt taken.

AN INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE

Prof. A. H. McLennen who is a vegetable specialist in connection with the Ontario Department of Agriculture last evening in the City Hall here gave an illustrated lecture relative to vegetable growing which was both interesting and profitable. The attendance was not large, but those present who are engaged in the production of vegetables were much edified. The first two films shown, gave an excellent conception of the proper mode of setting out and caring for strawberries and raspberries. The proper time to place out strawberry plants was in the early part of the month of May, and the crown of the plant should be even with the soil. Bone meal was an excellent food for the young plants. In reply to questions more Prof. McLennen explained more explicitly the growing of these fruits. Whilst the Herbert was an excellent red berry the Cuthbert was no doubt the best. Films were also shown as to the mode of plantin and caring for vegetables of various kinds.

BROKE INTO A COTTAGE

Jas. Johnston of Chandos and his wife, Eve Johnston, appeared in the Peterboro County Police Court on Monday charged with breaking into the summer cottage of Andrew Carnegie of Pittsburg, on Loon Lake, and stealing $300 or $400 worth of goods therefrom. High County Constable Archie Moore arrested the couple, who have been living with Jos. Laplante. Moore had statements from both the accused admitting the robbery. The couple were committed for trial by Magistrate Langley.

MET WITH ACCIDENT

Ernest (Tad) Elliott of the B.H.S. had the misfortune to break his left arm when he was thrown to the floor of the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium in the course of a practice basketball game. He was taken to the general hospital where the fracture was attended to and then removed to his home on Yeoman street.

Stomach Troubles Are Due to Acidity

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisurated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antiacid, such as Bisurated Magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

Naval Suspension Proposed to U.S.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Great Britain made a formal proposal that the United States discontinue all capital ship contruction contained in its great 1916 naval program, including ten giant superdreadnoughts and six battle cruisers, it was learned from a high official source to-day. This proposition was made during the peace conference at Versailles. It is about to be repeated by Sir Auckland Geddes when he returns to the United States to discuss disarmament, according to information that has reached high officials of this Government.

"Whatever else may be contained in Great Britain's proposal this will be the fundamental principle involved. She has never deviated one hair's breadth from her plan first revealed at Versailles," said this authority to-day.

"Approximately $500,000,000 has been expended on the 1916 building program to date and it will require only $400,000,000 to complete it.

"It is our understanding of the proposition that Great Britain offers to destroy $500,000,000 of her naval construction to offset the potential naval power sacrificed by the United States."

HERE THERE AND EVERYWHERE

Ty Cobb Will be Detroit Manager

New York, Feb. 11.—Seven of the 16 clubs in the major leagues, three in the National and four in the American, will take the field for the 1921 campaign under the leadership of new managers. The opening of nearly every baseball season finds one or two new managers, but it is a long time since there has been such a general shakeup among the field generals of the major league clubs.

With all the changes of leaders that have been made from year to year there are two managers who stand out prominently in the history of baseball because of their long service with their respective clubs—Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics and John J. McGraw of the New York Giants. Mack has led the Athletics since they entered the American League in 1901 and has won six pennants and three world's championships. McGraw became manager of the Giants in 1902, and like Mack, has piloted his team to six pennants, but has won the world's championship only once.

One of the most notable changes among the managers for the coming season is the appointment of Ty Cobb to lead the Detroit Tigers as the successor of Hughey Jennings. The latter quit the Tigers after 14 years, during which time he won three pennants, to become assistant to Manager McGraw of the Giants. What Cobb will do as a major league manager will be closely watched by the fans throughout the country. As a player he has won about every honor the game affords with the exception of playing on a world's championship team, and has been proclaimed by all one of the greatest players in the history of baseball, and by some of the greatest.

HOCKEY

To-night's Games

Lovers of hockey in this city will be much interested in two games which will take place this evening. The intermediate team of the city will at the Arena here try conclusions with the Port Hope team, whilst our juniors have gone to Cornwall to play the speedy team of that town. Both games will no doubt attract many spectators and speculations are up as to the results.

The Port Hope intermediate team are winners of group No. 2, whilst Belleville is the winner of group No. 1. That our boys will give a good account of themselves there is not the slightest doubt. The ice will be in first-class shape for the game. Mr. Steve Vair will be the referee. It is expected that there will be a number of fans from Port Hope at the rink to encourage their players. The line up of the Belleville team will be as follows:

The junior game at Cornwall will be warmly contested as both teams are out to win the group. A few fans accompanied the boys to Cornwall. The line-up of the Belleville team will be as follows:

Hunter, goal; Canning and Holway, defence; Swayne, centre; Coon, right wing; Armstrong, left wing; Hagerman and Gover, subs.

A number of tickets were sent to Port Hope for fans who will accompany that team to this city in large numbers, assuring their boys of loyal suport.

Young Woman Thinks It Saved Her Life

"If it hadn't been for Tanlac I don't believe I would be alive to-day, much less enjoying the splendid health that I am," declared Miss Lillian Jinks, popular young lady residing at 883 Gerrard Street, East, Toronto, Ont., and employed by the Canadian General Electric Co.

"Two years ago this Fall a severe operation kept me in the hospital for several weeks, following which I had to remain in bed at home for nine month longer. Inflammatory rheumatism came on me, and I had a swelling in my hands and feet that caused me no end of trouble. My nerves seemed to be completely shattered and I was so nervous and worn out I felt like I would never be up and about again. I was simply miserable and was almost ready to give up in despair.

"My grandmother got me to try Tanlac, and the medicine has certainly proved a blessing to me, for it has given me a wonderful appetite and everything agrees with me so well I've actually gained fifteen pounds in weight. The rheumatism and swelling have completely disappeared and I'm entirely free from nervousness. I never even dreamed I could get so strong and healthy, for I never felt so well in all my life as I do now. Tanlac is certainly a grand medicine and if anybody wants to know anything about it just refer them to my case."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store, and by the leading druggists in every town.

the transferral of the administration of the act from the provincial secretary's department to that of the attorney general.

Major Tolmie referred next to the Hallam Brothers.

"Did the government employ the Hallam Brothers or did some local official?" demanded Hon. H. C. Nixon.

"I am surprised at the provincial secretary's asking such a question," rejoined Major Tolmie. "When they were appointed the mantle was still on his shoulders and whoever employed them the government paid their salaries."

Continuing, Major Tolmie said the Ontario Temperance Act had been enforced in his district in such a way as sometimes to bring fear to the innocent. Spotters were sent, and they did things that were a disgrace. Things were done that were shameful and disgraceful, where the accused [illegible] through the lying evidence given by a spotter.

After saying that the license board ought to be abolished altogether and the administration of the liquor business be placed under the provincial secretary and the enforcement of the law under the attorney general, Major Tolmie reverted to certain conditions in his county, saying that autos belonging to people attending church had been searched in the sheds and, in cases of people coming home from market, autos were stopped and they were searched. [illegible] was felt in the whole community.

At this stage Attorney General Raney [illegible] asked if Major Tolmie had complained to the license board.

"The honorable member did not," replied Major Tolmie, "but he talked these matters over more than once with the attorney general."

Mr. Raney: "In any one of these abominable outrages, did you send a letter to the attorney general?"

Major Tolmie: "I think the attorney general's memory is as unfortunate today as the other day."

Major Tolmie added that if Mr. Raney's memory were good it would answer the question.

Later on, Major Tolmie referred to Mr. Spracklin, saying he did not blame him if he made mistakes and was erratic in enforcing the law, but he blamed the man who appointed him, the attorney general.

THANKFUL TO ESCAPE THE ANGRY DEEP

St. John, N.B., Feb. 11.—"Thank God to be safely in Canada," was the statement of a passenger who disembarked from the C. P. O. S. liner Pretorian, which arrived here early to-day from Glasgow, Scotland. He said there were times when it seemed impossible for the ship to live, so terrible was the force of the mountainous combers which broke over her.

Smuts Obtains 22 Plurality

Loyalist's Party Secure at Helm in Important British Dominion.

London, Feb. 10.—Returns practically complete from the South African elections show a safe majority in the legislative assembly for Premier Jan Smuts, who himself was elected to the assembly from his home constituency.

Out of 134 constituencies the State parties, headed by General Smuts, elected a total of 79. General Hertzog and the Nationalists headed by him won 39 seats. The Labor [illegible] elected 9 and one Dominion [illegible]. There were also [illegible] results.

This gives the Loyalists a lead over the Secessionists and all others of twenty-two clear seats.

WATER—A TOAST.

A toast to "Water" was a unique feature of a Sports Banquet recently held in Toronto. A. E. Donovan, for many years representative in the Legislature for Brockville district, was selected to respond to the toast, probably because Mr. Donovan's former constituency was well watered on the south by the St. Lawrence river, a fact which should make the genial Ed a good judge of good water. In responding to the toast Mr. Donovan said:

> "Mr. chairman, ladies and gentlemen, you have asked me to respond to the toast of "Water," the purest and best of all things created. I want to say to you that I have seen it glisten in tiny tear drops on the sleeping lids of infancy, I have seen it trickle down the blushing cheeks of youth, and go in rushing torrents down the wrinkled cheeks of age. I have seen it in tiny drops on the blades of grass and leaves of trees, flashing like polished diamonds when the morning sun bursts in resplendent glory o'er the Easter hills. I have seen it trickle down the mountain sides in tiny rivulets with the music of liquid silver striking on beds of polished diamonds. I have seen it in the rushing river rippling over pebbly bottoms, purling about jutting stones, roaring over precipitous falls, in its mad rush to join the mother of waters, and in the mighty mother of waters I have seen it go in slow and majestic sweep to join the ocean, and I have seen it in the mighty ocean on whose broad bosom float the battle fleets of all nations and the commerce of the world. But ladies and gentlemen, I want to say to you now that as a beverage it is a question for discussion. In these dry days of prohibition many say it is a complete failure."

CLASS GOVERNMENT AND A THIRD PARTY.

Criticism of the developing group system in politics is a feature of press comment generally. Started by Mr. William Irvine's book on the farmers in politics, the advocacy of groups as opposed to parties as a means to securing perfection in government has been taken up by many who have turned against the old parties. The Farmers' Sun puts its view of the case as being that organized farmers "are not concerned primarily with obtaining power. They went into politics in order to obtain their just rights, and it makes very little difference to them whether they hold the reins of power or merely hold the balance of power. The majority of the U.F.O. believe that more good can be accomplished by the farmers retaining their class consciousness or class identity than by merging with others." To this the London Free Press retorts:

"If Mr. Morrison had his way there would be a party to represent every section of the community. There would be a farmers' party, a party of professional men, laboring men, manufacturers, etc. Why not [illegible] of Methodists, Presbyterians or Orangemen and Knights of Columbus? It is a system which if carried to its logical conclusion would foment class feeling and sectional differences. It would not make for the development of a broad national Canadian sentiment. To oppose group government does not say there cannot be more than two parties. Mr. Drury believes in a third party, but is of the opinion it should be a party looking for urban as well as rural support. A third party, national in its appeal and platform, as advocated by Mr. Drury, is a vastly different proposition from the group system proposed by Mr. Morrison."

CENTRAL HEATING PLANTS TO CONSERVE COAL.

The annual coal consumption in Canada for domestic purposes is nearly 7,000,000 tons which, if we allow a cost of $15 per ton, represents a yearly expenditure of some $105,000,000. With increasing population and the gradual extension of settlement northerly, this consumption will naturally increase; any effort, therefore having for its object a substantial reduction in our domestic heating bill, is worthy of public attention.

The hope of relief, entertained by some, through electric heating from our water-powers, has been definitely shattered by the fact that, outside of the question of cost, the demand would far exceed the supply available. For instance, in Quebec and Ontario alone, assuming a population of some 5,000,000, a total of probably not less than 10,000,000 h.p.—and costing from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 per annum—would be required to supply electrical heat. The power available within the more thickly populated portion of these two provinces, even including Canada's equity in the great possibilities of the St. Lawrence and Niagara Rivers—the greatest water-power rivers in the world—only amounts to about 5 1-2 million horse power.

The possibilities and economic efficiency of central heating plants appear particularly applicable to Canadian conditions or to any country with long winters. Due to the initial cost of the underground distribution piping system, the plants usually involve heavy overhead expenses, when the plant is used intensively and during long periods each year, the charges can be spread over longer periods than would be the case for systems only used during shorter periods, as in certain localities in the United States. Another economy would result from the possibility of using the cheaper grades of coal, instead of the expensive anthracite now commonly used in Eastern Canada. Suitable boilers with automatic stokers and smoke-consumers would overcome some of the present disabilities in the use of the inferior fuels.—L. G. Denis in Conservation.

CRISP COMMENT

There seems to be a difference of opinion as to the originator of the aphorism, "It isn't so much people's ignorance that does the harm as it is their knowing so many things that ain't so," but, whether it was Josh Billings or Artemus Ward, whoever said it said a mouthful, and it is just as true today as half a century ago when it was penned.

A well known orator declares he gets credit for only 25 per cent. of the after dinner speeches he actually makes. "Every time I accept an invitation to speak I really make four addresses," he says. "First is the speech I prepare in advance. That is pretty good. Second is the speech I really make. Third is the speech I make on the way home, which is the best of all; and fourth is the speech the newspapers next morning say I made, which bears no relation to any of the others."

"There are various ways," says a contemporary, "in which unemployment can be coped with." The method adopted in Chicago, where says Punch, according to a recent report, another five hundred men have been absorbed into the potted meat industry, sounds perhaps a little too drastic.

SYSTEMS OF GOVERNMENT

Victoria Colonist

The disposition of the people of a country apparently cannot be changed by changing the form of Government. Germany, under a so-called democracy is spending more for administrative purposes than it did under the rule of all the Hohenzollerns, from the first to the last. Russians are undergoing more oppression and suffering greater injustice under usurpers who call themselves deliverers from oppression and injustice, than ever they did under the autocracies of all the czars. Doubtless any people, given time, will work out their own political salvation. Conditions in the two countries mentioned, not to speak of others, simply demonstrate anew the differences between theory and practice.

BERNHARDT AN INSPIRATION

Ottawa Journal

Sarah Bernhardt has been made an officer of the Legion of Honor in recognition of her work in spreading abroad an appreciation of French art and culture. For many years she was regarded as eligible to a place in the Legion and became a member only after a wall of prejudice and opposition had been demolished by a multitude of friends and admirers of her art. The honor just conferred is further recognition of her intense and burning love for France, which, throughout the war, was an inspiration.

BATTLESHIPS AND PROTECTION

The battleships has now to face a further risk of attack by giant torpedoes controlled from the air or from land by wireless. The country needs a guarantee that all these new perils have been thoroughly studied. Unless it has such a guarantee it will never consent to spend forty or fifty millions on enormous ships, which are so costly that they have to be kept in harbor "under a glass case" for their safety, and so vulnerable that in battle they can only turn away from a half-beaten enemy, as at Jutland.

POETS' CORNER

WITH A WHIRR OF WINGS

And now, if the night shall be cold, across the sky,
Linnets and twites, in small flocks helter-skelter,
All the afternoon to the gardens fly.
From thistle-down pastures hurrying to gain the shelter
Of American rhododendron or cherry laurel;
And here and there, near chilly setting of the sun,
In an isolated tree a congregation
Of starlings chatter and chide,
Thickset as summer leaves, in garrulous quarrel;
Softly they hush as one,—
The tree top springs,—
And off, with a whirr of wings,
They fly by the score
To the holley-thicket, and there with myriads more
Dispute for the roosts; and from the unseen nation
A babel of tongues, like running water unceasing,
Makes live the wood.

Timber Famine a Possibility

GONE is the old-time Canadian lumberjack. Gone like the magnificent forests of white pine which once covered Muskoka, Hastings, Haliburton and all that territory. Gone are the rugged shantymen who swung their axes without punching the time-clock.

The industrial revolution has indeed pitched its tents amid the murmuring pines and the hemlocks. Yes, there are exceptions, but on the whole the lumberjack of to-day is mostly an unskilled laborer, a "hand" furnished by card index and number from the employment agencies. The lumberjack of bygone times who came back every autumn to the woods he loved is to-day submerged in the shifting sometimes stormy tides of heterogeneous "help" from all corners of the country, all crannies of the world.

Highly specialized machinery, the motor tractor and the results of mass production generally have tended towards the disappearance of the old-time shantyman who lived by lumbering, knew his job and looked his picturesque part. And who has replaced him? A conglomerate mass more or less alien—from the cities and the farms, from factories and villages. Physically he is smaller, swarthier, weaker; temperamentally he lacks the fearlessness and dogged determination of his hearty forerunners; mentally he is less alert; and industrially more conscious and better organized.

"Where they come from and where they go, Heaven only knows," remarked a New Brunswick lumberman discussing the labor problem. "I started on $12 a month back in 1890," said this lumberman, "and for years and years I ate nothing but pork and beans three times a day. We only heard of sugar vaguely in those days. We never saw it." Please note that no mention is made of molasses, which every Toronto schoolboy used to be taught was mixed in with the pork and beans

"To-day men doing the same sort of work," continued this old-timer, "—only much less—get $90 to $100 a month, also with board and lodging. But think of it, they get four meals a day—and different kinds—a sort of change of pace you might say. They insist on plenty of meat—and get it. Also butter, sugar, eggs, bacon, pastry, pies and other things that sound more like hotel life than camp. But they demand it—and we must give it to them." Here be is said that this year, in Ontario at least, such high wages are not being paid, nor is labor quite so scarce as the old bushman declares.

"When I was swinging an axe 30 years ago we were actually put in the woods at work by daylight, and we never quit before dark. Now they don't get out of their bunks until daybreak and they're back home before sunset. In my time the men were big, strapping lumberjacks—the kind we shall never see again. They were afraid of nothing — that was the only kind that could stand the pace. Year after year the same men came back to camp. But now. We always speak of them in bunches of threes—one coming, one staying, one going. The turnover is terrific. We're to send out labor scouts with dragnets to get them. We can't get much quality — we don't expect it. The old days are gone. It's nothing but 'hands' now."

But there was room for improvement. Even fifteen years ago expert axmen in Ontario got as low as $18 a month, and one man stated that he had to cook for a whole camp near Burk's Falls for the magnificent remuneration of $20 a month. Commensurate with the improvement in wages and food has been the betterment of the men's environment. Where they once slept in the same quarters where they ate, they now have a separate and sanitary bunk house. And one of the best developments in camp life has been the frontier college. "During the past year this organization sent out 60 men—university graduates and undergraduates — to work with the men during the day and to instruct and inspire them by night.

"Our instructors win out by personality and contact," declares Alfred Fitzpatrick, president of the institution, writing in the Canadian Lumberman and Woodworker. "At all times they stand for the best ideals of Canadian life. A foreigner often meets in these camps his first healthy-minded Canadian in the person of the instructor, who, to the amazement of the foreigner, is a laborer with him on the same tramping or skidding outfit."

The disappearance of the old-time lumberman of the last generation brings also the disquieting thought that with him have gone much of the mighty forests which we once thought so boundless and whose wastage by fire and reckless cutting is a lasting disgrace not merely here in Ontario, but all over the American continent.

"Frankly we do not know," said Hon. T. D. Puttullo, Minister of Lands and Forests for British Columbia, in rely to a question as to how long our timber would last. "We are facing a timber famine and the question is what can we do to avert it." was the flat declaration of C. Price-Green of Toronto, Commissioner of the Industrial Resources, Canadian National Railways. "The most important domestic question in this country in the very near future will be the conservation of the forest wealth, for I am of the opinion that when its rapid diminution is fully realized something like a wave of hyysteria will sweep over the whole country."

The Isle of Pines promises to become an important producer of iron, copper and other ores, as eleven mines have been located.

Cubs of Polar Bear Take Pneumonia Easily And Die in Warm Climate

THE announcement that two Polar bear cubs were born at the London Zoological Gardens last December aroused widespread interest, notwithstanding the fact that this was an event which has happened several times during the last few years, though so far no cubs have been raised. This reflects no discredit upon the parents, nor upon the management of the zoo, for the same lamentable end has overtaken almost all Polar bear cubs born south of the Arctic regions, while the young of other bears can be raised with relative ease. With each new brace of cubs born in the London Zoo a different method of treatment has been followed, in the hope of averting catastrophe. The mother has been shut up in a warm box, or allowed freedom and given a change of quarters. Hand-raising and the use of foster mothers of different kinds have each in turn been tried, but in vain. The cubs died.

It has been suggested that this inability on the part of captive Polar bears to raise their offspring is due to the utterly different environment in which the cubs are born. In a wild state the mother makes herself a sure retreat beneath the snow, the warmth of her body melting a spout hole, or air-shaft, for breathing purposes. She has no need to leave this till the winter is past, for before going into retreat she has ammassed a store of fat sufficient for her needs. Here, at an even temperature, her young pass the first few weeks of their existence, to emerge presently to feast upon seal meat.

But even supposing it were possible to reproduce the conditions of the snow chamber, the chances of survival for the youngsters are not very great, as an English authority points out. And this because they appears to be very susceptible to the germs of pneumonia, which find such congenial conditions of existence in our climate, while in the far north they cannot exist. Nor do they find Antarctic a whit more habitable. This much is clear from the records of Polar explorers, who say that colds in the head were unknown save when fresh clothing was unpacked.

All living things normally exposed to the attacks of these microbes have long since acquired a relative immunity thereto by the elimination of the more susceptible and the survival of the resistant.

Inadvertent Truth.

"Show him up," said the patient editor, and the fuming visitor was conducted into his presence. "I want an explanation!" cried the visitor, shaking his fist in the editor's face. "Why, what's the matter?" asked the editor. "See here!" shouted the visitor. "What do you mean by publishing my resignation from my political office in this way?" The editor raised his eyebrows in surprise. "Why, I thought you gave out the story yourself." "So I did," replied the retiring politician, bursting with rage; "but I didn't tell you to print the news under the head of 'Public Improvements'!"

Alaska Wheat.

Experiments made by Government stations in Alaska in raising early ripening cereals are meeting with remarkable success, especially with wheat. In 1918 a distribution of seed grain was made to a number of farmers in the Tanana Valley in an effort to induce them to begin to raise grain. The results for the first year were so encouraging that the experiment was repeated in 1919. A threshing report received recently by the department shows that, in 1919, 22 farmers in the Tanana Valley produced 1,128 bushels of spring wheat. The wheat is very hard and make excellent flour.

Didn't Get the Present.

It was a small girl's first day at school, also the first day of the term. The teacher, of course, was busy seating the children and getting things started properly. "Here," she said to the new pupil, "you may sit here for the present."

"I sat there all the day," the little girl tearfully told her mother that evening, "but she never brought me the present."

No Cause to Worry.

"The fortune-teller said I would meet with a fatal accident."

"Mercy!"

"But she told me not to worry—it wouldn't happen till the end of my life."

American Indians.

The 350,000 American Indians in the United States are gradually being absorbed in the body politic of the nation. They have changed from game hunters and wanderers to landholders and home-builders. About 37,000 farmers are cultivating almost 1,000,000 acres and 47,000 own live stock worth about $38,000,000. It is said that there are a few Indian students in almost all colleges in the country.

Any Port in a Storm.

"Please, ma'am, one of the pipes is burst, and there's two feet of water in the cellar, and the plumbers are on strike."

"Run over and fetch the young man next door, Susan. He's been shipwrecked twice."

IRISH COBBLER IS FAVORITE POTATO

During the past four years the Commission of Conservation has been conducting illustration work in Dundas county, Ontario. One branch of the work has been that in connection with illustrating improved methods of farming. Among the lines of work followed have been variety tests of farm crops. The results of the tests with potatoes are very valuable. During the seasons of 1917-18-19, the Irish Cobbler and Green Mountain varieties were grown side by side and during 1920 the Dooley variety was grown in addition to these. The Irish Cobbler is now unmistakably the favorite variety in the county. Each year since they were first tried on these farms the farmers conducting the illustration work have not been able to meet the demand from the neighbors for seed.

The Irish Cobbler has given the highest average yield, has been freer from rot than any of the other varieties tried, and is an excellent table potato. One of the farmers conducting the test reports: "The Dooleys and Green Mountains yielded 27 bushels each from the bag planted, while the Irish Cobblers yielded 40 bushels from the same amount of seed." Another writes: "The Dooleys and Green Mountains rotted badly and the Irish Cobblers were about all we had to fall back upon." Another says in his report: "The Cobblers are still our favorites as regards both yield and freedom from rot."

"There's a Reason"

Seed grown in New Brunswick has been tried out along with home-grown seed. In most instances the New Brunswick seed gave higher yields but in some cases where the home-grown seed had been carefully selected there has been little difference.

Varieties of proven merit should be chosen, the seed should be taken from high yielding hills and only the smooth tubers free from scab and rot used for planting. Attention to these matters will certainly mean increased yields and greater profits.—F. C. Nunnick, in Conservation.

Cornwall, Vt., Feb. 11.—Ornithologists are endeavoring to determine the species of a strange bird that descended in the barnyard of Mrs. F. D. Manchester, wooed a Plymouth Rock hen and was slain in the duel with a jealous rooster. The intruder was grey about the size of a duck, had a long red beak and short legs that it waddled with difficulty. Its feet were webbed and in fighting it used its bill like a rapier. ELECTION NOVELTIES.

How Absentee Votes Are Taken In British Columbia.

Absentee voting and penalty for non-voting were the two unique features of the provincial elections in British Columbia on December 1, both of these being novel in Canada if not indeed hitherto untried throughout the world. Both of them, too, were brought into effect by the Liberal farmer-premier, Hon. John Oliver, popularly hailed in British Columbia as "Honest John."

As a result of absentee voting all candidates with bare majorities sit on pins and needles for weeks after the polling. All small majorities are extremely uncertain. Even up to 200 of a majority may be counted out. The idea came partly from experience in the war. The Conservative leader, Mr. W. J. Bowser, was himself counted in at the last provincial election by 184 soldier votes cast in the camps and trenches in England and France.

"It is the finest thing I ever ran across in connection with elections," was the verdict of Mr. Joseph Martin, a former Premier and Attorney-General of that province and a well known politician of Canada, as he watched on election day the polling of these absentee votes in the special booths arranged for them in the various polling places in Vancouver city, when no less than 2,585 were polled. "Think of the traveling expenses it saved even when legitimately expended," added Mr. Martin. He was himself a candidate for the —teenth time and ran twelfth in a field of 29, polling some 9,000 odd votes, while "Mary Ellen," widow of the late Hon. Ralph Smith, headed the poll with 17,647.

At the prohibition referendum on October 20 last, this provision for absentee voting was made for the first time, thus giving the returning officers and their staffs a good trial before a real political event. On that occasion 39,351 votes were polled on a total of 52,763 votes in Vancouver city. Of these 14,277 favored prohibition, including 515 absentees, while 24,616 went for Government sale of liquor with 1,516 absentee voters. There were also 4[illegible]8 spoiled and rejected ballots.

The "Absentee Voting" procedure is quite simple. A voter from Rossland or elsewhere in British Columbia, happening to be in Vancouver on election day, goes to the absentee booth, makes a declaration that he is on the list and entitled to vote in Rossland or wherever else his home may be, is given a ballot, which he marks behind the curtain. The ballot in the presence of the scrutineers is placed in an envelope and sealed and the declaration attached to the outside. It, with any other Rossland votes at that polling place, are, after the election, forwarded to the returning officer of the voters' riding. There on the official recount, in the present of representatives of the candidate, the returning officer checks the absentees' declaration with his voters' list, and, finding all satisfactory, the envelope is opened and the ballot placed in a box to be counted later as the official count proceeds.

The "penalizing section" is also novel in Canada, although for many years frequently discussed from the standpoint of the responsibility of the voter and the voter's duty as a citizen, but the theoretical side of the question is far from being the whole of the matter. It is of outstanding practical importance. The striking off of non-voters from the voters' list follows immediately after the next official count, and while penalizing those who are negligent it is a great advantage in cleaning up the voters' list. Under it all "dead men" and "absentees-from-the-province" now cease "to be voted" by any parties however corruptly inclined in British Columbia. The penalty, too, is not excessive, as there is an annual May revision of every voters' list, and so in May next all those neglecting to vote at the present election will have an opportunity of having their names replaced on the list. They are, however, disfranchised for the intervening period

Has New Kind of Potato.

Saskatchewan men have placed the province in the foremost ranks of agriculture, and now the name of a woman is being added to the list of the famous. She is Annie McLeay, of Yorkton, Sask. She has developed a new distinct variety of potatoes, which she has named Cameron Highlander, in memory of her son who fell overseas. In 1915, when the call came for greater production in every line, Mrs. McLeay started developing her variety of potatoes. She secured ball seeds and year after year selected the best specimens, until last year the Cameron Highlander attracted the attention of the province's most famous agriculturists. The new variety bids fair to outrank the older varieties.

Few Fish in Hudson Bay.

Mr. C. W. Nash, the well-known Toronto biologist, confirms the statement of Rev. Dr. Walton, Anglican missionary in the Hudson Bay District, that few fish inhabit James and Hudson Bay. "There are some fish," said Mr. Nash, "chiefly Arctic salmon and whitefish, but as a commercial proposition the quantity is negligible. I would say that there are about enough fish there to keep the natives in food." Mr. Nash says climatic reasons are probably the cause of the scarcity.

A Wierd Suggestion.

E. L. Elford, of Ottawa, advocates the substitution of the hen for the beaver as emblematically Canadian, urging that the beaver is becoming extinct. He has not yet proposed that the dandelion replace the maple leaf.

Little Charlotte Cowper, through the Fort William Times-Journal, wrote to Santa Claus to bring her this Christmas a doll's bed, a big doll, a sleigh, an automobile and a piano.

ONE of the best things any mother can do, is to give her children Cocoa every day.

Children as well as their elders need something hot to drink, and Cocoa is the only thing adapted to their youth which at the same time they enjoy. It is not a stimulant, as are other beverages, but is nourishing and invigorating. It strengthens their power of resistance against cold and illness.

Cocoa is recognized by doctors and dietitians as one of the standard foods, and is particularly recommended for growing children. Taken in the form of a beverage at breakfast or lunch, or after school in the afternoon, it is easily digested and the children love it.

Give your children Cowan's Cocoa every day, and it will help them to develop sturdy constitutions which will be the foundation for good health all through life.

Follow the directions on the tin in preparing Cocoa.

CITY AND COUNTRY

STORY OF ZACCHAEUS

The congregation at the Tabernacle last night was the largest this week, and a most helpful influence pervaded the whole service. Rev. Millson's sermon on Zacchaeus was delivered with great ability and held the audience in rapt attention from first to finish. The speaker gave emphasis to three facts in the story of Zacchaeus. He desired to see Jesus, the crowd stood between him and Jesus, and, then the reversed situation, Jesus stood between him and the crowd. Most people desire to see Him sometime, sometime. But will they? Many not trying to see and meet Him now. The crowd still stands between, but many have found the Christ standing between them and the crowd, the screening crowd, the crowd of sorrows, the crowd of temptations and troubles. Mr. Millson speaks with a voice that is tender and a heart that is warm. Last night's message will not be forgotten.

Another conference of members will be held when a definite program of work will be outlined.

Called by Death

MRS. JAMES GILHULY

Another old land-mark and for many years a highly respected resident of the township of Bedford passed over to the great majority on Monday morning, January 31st, in the person of Mrs. James Gilhuly, aged 88 years. Deceased was born in this country and always resided in the vicinity of Westport. For the past eight years she lived at Fermoy, Ont., where she made a host of friends by her kind and cheerful disposition. She was always ready to lend a hand to anyone sick or in trouble. Last March she moved to Westport to live with her daughter, Mrs. John Herlehy, where she made her home till her death. Although she has been troubled for some years with rheumatism her death came as a shock to her many friends as she had been in perfect health till the morning of her death. The funeral took place Wednesday morning at eight o'clock to St. Edward's Church, Westport, of which deceased was a life-long member. Her husband predeceased her fourteen years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss four sons and four daughters, John and Patrick of Westport, William and Thomas, Point Ann, Mrs. John Herlehy, Westport, Mrs. Thos. Byrnes, Burridge, Mrs. Peter Burns, Barneveld, N.Y., and Mrs. Charles Blacker, Mack, Minn. She also has 21 grandchildren, five brothers and three sisters, Michael Kallaugher and Mrs. Patrick Tobin, of Bedford. Her other brothers and sisters reside in Michigan.

MRS. HANNAH COOME

The work of practical Christianity in Canada suffered a severe loss in the death at Toronto on Wednesday of an earnest Christian woman whose [illegible] will ever leave a pleasant and grateful memory with the many whose lives have been touched and benefitted by her kindly Christian character and helpful efforts in the cause of humanity. The world is better because Mrs. Hannah Coome, third daughter of the late Rev. John Grier, a former well-beloved Rector of St. Thomas Anglican church Belleville, lived.

Mrs. Coome was the Rev. Mother Foundress of the Sisterhood of St John the Divine, and the first Superior of that Sisterhood. With marvellous faith and unfailing energy the work of this Sisterhood was established in small quarters in a dwelling house in Toronto by Mrs. Coome and under her wise direction has grown to large proportions and great usefulness being now housed in the spacious and well-equipped building known as St. John's Convent, Major Street, Toronto.

Mrs. Coome was born in the year 1837, the third daughter of Rev. John Grier, then Rector of Belleville, and she was married to the late C. H. Coome, who died in 1878. In 1884 she founded and became the first Superior of the Sisterhood, now so widely known through the various foundations which have grown up to be lasting memorials of the devoted life which has just closed.

St. John's Hospital, the Church home for the aged, and the schools in Oshawa, and Regina, owe their origin and development to the ideals the wisdom and the great executive ability of the late Mother Superior.

Rev. Hamilton Mockridge, rector of All Hallows Anglican Church, is a nephew of the late Mrs. Coome. When All Hallows was first established by Mrs. Coome, it was a branch of the Sisterhood, but later the Sisters left and All Hallows became a church.

FREDERICK J. BOWEN

The expressions of regret were numerous to-day when it became known that Mr. Frederick J. Bowen, one of Belleville's popular mail carriers had passed away. Only a few days ago he was upon the street in the exercise of his duties and was apparently in his usual health. Yesterday at the hospital here an operation was deemed necessary and it was performed. His condition at the time was critical and at an early hour this morning the end came. Deceased was 37 years of age and was born in this city, being the second son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bowen. Deceased resided at 275 Charles street. Mr. Bowen, on May 24th, 1913 commenced his duties as a letter carrier, that being the date in which delivery was inaugurated in this city. Fred has been a most faithful and efficient official, and his demise is sincerely regretted by all citizens who knew him. He was a member of the Tabernacle Methodist church. A wife, formerly Miss Cornish, but no family survives. In addition to the parents, two brothers, Edward of Belleville and George of Windsor, and one sister, Mrs. Wm. Wannacott, of this city are living. To those called upon to mourn the loss of a loved one will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of many friends.

Holstein Breeders Achieving Success

Mixed Farming is Sound Basis for Progress in Agriculture

Toronto, Feb. 11.—Four Ministers of Agriculture, Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, of the Dominion Government; Hon. Walter Lea, of Prince Edward Island; Hon. Duncan Marshall, of Alberta, and Hon. Manning Doherty, of Ontario; were present and spoke at the thirteenth annual banquet of the Holstein-Friesan Association of Canada, which was held in the King Edward last evening. Hon. Dr. Tolmie, who is a successful breeder of Holsteins, said that agriculture bears a very important part in the future prosperity of the Dominion and he quoted some figures to show the extent of the agricultural industry in Canada. At present there is over seven billions invested in the various branches of the industry and there are some fifty-three million acres under cultivation, less than one-tenth of the available arable land.

"It has been the policy of the Dominion Government to encourage mixed farming with livestock as the basis foundation and assures the future prosperity of the industry in Canada, as there are some three and a half million head of horses in the Dominion and the number is gradually growing less, particularly among the lighter breeds, although in the West some farmers are doing away with steam tractors and resorting to horses once again. We have over nine million head of cattle and more than one-third of these are dairy cows. There is still lots of room for improvement in the dairy industry and your association is doing excellent work in improving the breed of dairy cattle. The man who keeps a good cow maintains her at a profit, but the average cow of from 3,000 to 4,000 pounds of milk annually will not get you anywhere."

Grading of Butter and Cheese

"We intend in the near future to appoint a demonstrator of the value of milk and other dairy products as compared with other articles of food, and such an official will do much good and will encourage the consumption of dairy products. We should produce and buy as much as possible at home and sell abroad as much of our products as we can spare. We are also thinking seriously of grading butter and cheese for export to Great Britain, and legislation in connection with this will possibly be introduced at the next session. This scheme provides for the establishment of grading centros and will encourage the man who turns out good products."

"Holstein Breeders," stated Hon. Mr Marshall, "have achieved more success in the last twenty years than any other breeders of livestock on the continent and it is somewhat of a reward for them to know that every butter record in the world is held by Holstein cows. The day for growing wheat for a big price is past and in the future dairying will count for more and the industry will keep on improving.'

Others who spoke, in addition to the four Agricultural Ministers, were, Dr. M. Cumming, principal of the Agricultural College at Truro, Nova Scotia; Miss Cora Hind, of Winnipeg; President N. Sangster, of the Association; and Vice-President F. R. Mallory. During the evening a number of local artists gave greatly appreciated numbers.

TANK USED TO SRUSH HEAVY SNOWBANKS

St. John's, Nfld. Feb. 9.—Newfoundland yesterday began its fight to beat back its worst snow sledge in 30 years, with monumental drifts blocking its gates after a four-day blizzard. Railroad, steamer and highway transportation still was suspended to-night, although the storm had ceased.

The first sally from this city against the besieging element was made by a whippet tank captured by Newfoundlanders in the war, which was put to work crunching down snowbanks on Water Street, the city's main thoroughfare.

KINGSTON MAN GOES INSANE AND MALTREATS HIS WIFE

Kingston, Feb 11.—Worry over religion is believed to have caused Robert Roy Valentine, aged 28 years, residing at 19 Nelson Street, to go insane; he created a big disturbance at his home, was taken to the police station by a couple of constables, and after a stay of about twenty minutes in the police station his condition became so bad that he was removed to Rockwood Hospital for treatment. Mrs. Valentine, his wife, is in the General Hospital in a critical condition, suffering from maltreatment at the hands of her husband. Ottawa, Feb 9.—It is expected that the coming session will see some amendments to the Dominion Elections Act.

The Needless Misery That Women Bear

WHEN the household cares and the worries of everyday life have dragged you down, made you unhappy, and there is nothing in life but headache, backache and worry, turn to the right prescription, one gotten up by Doctor Pierce over fifty years ago.

Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all thru treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening pains, and for many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Sold by druggists in tablet and liquid form. Send Dr. Pierce 10c. for trial package.

WHEN Cold Gets into a Cut

it's smarting painful. Unless you happen to have Zam-Buk handy, the edges harden and get torn open further in the course of work. Then "infection" gets into the broken tissues. Zam-Buk prevents this danger of festering and blood-poison. Applied to any cut wound, burn or scald Zam-Buk provides a perfect antiseptic shield for the damaged tissues. It protects your injury against infection—ensures clean speedy healing.

James F. Warren, of Renfrew, Ont., writes —"Mine was a severe cut with a rusty knife. It happened when I couldn't get my hand properly bound up. Cold and frost got into the injury and the hand went stiff and inflamed.

"When I got home I had the place well bathed, then applied Zam-Buk. It was wonderfully soothing and I used Zam-Buk regularly until all pain and swelling was gone. The cut though deep and severe, soon thoroughly healed."

Also invaluable for eczema, ulcers, ringworm, abscesses, piles, "chaps," burns, scalds, and obstinate wounds.

Negro Caught After Thrilling Battle

Murdered Woman and Then Held Philadelphia Police at Bay.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10.—A six-hour battle early today between a negro who had shot and killed a woman in the house where he was living, and nearly a hundred policemen and firemen, resulted in the capture of the man mortally wounded, and the injuring of four policemen. Pistols, axes, high pressure fire hose, sulphur candles and other chemicals were used against the negro who had barricaded himself in the house.

Attention was attracted to the negro who was known as William Dresen, "Alabama Joe," and other names, when he shot Grace Robinson, a negress, and threw her body out of the house. A negro policeman attempted to arrest him and he was shot in the leg. Reserves were sent for and when they attempted to break into the house the negro appeared with two pistols and fired rapidly, wounding another policeman in the head.

Dresen managed to barricade the doors and the police called upon the fire department for assistance. A high pressure hose was kept in operation and every time the negro appeared at a window he was driven back by a rush of water, but not before he managed to fire several more shots. Two other policemen were injured.

The besiegers then resorted to strategy and procured sulphur candles and other chemicals from a hospital to drive him out. The negro, however, kept all windows open and this mode of attack failed.

Finally Richard Anderson, a negro member of the police vice squad, managed to get into the house unseen by the barricaded man and the two met at a stairway. There was a fusilade of shots and Dresen tumbled to the bottom of the stairs. Anderson was not hurt. Six policemen seized the wounded negro and an examination at the hospital showed he had been shot six times.

Belleville Citizens Should Buy Goods Made in Canada

Owing to the very serious exchange situation between Canada and the United States the Directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce at their meeting Thursday unanimously endorsed a resolution in which they strongly recommend and urge upon all their members as well as the general public to buy Canadian-made goods at least until the present condition is improved. They point out that during the years 1919 and 1920 the people of Canada paid over $100,000,000 as a premium on exchange for business done in the United States. This they believe is a tremendous penalty for Canadians to pay for doing business with their neighbor and it will never be relieved until the people of Canada buy less over there and sell them more. There are some things, it was pointed out, that we must needs procure on the American side—such as hard coal—but many other things can be purchased quite as advantageously in Canada. Among other items that cannot be secured in Canada, such as high-priced touring cars, people might refrain from purchasing until a change has been brought about.

There is also a further fact that if Canadians do not buy so freely in the United States it will be a strong inducement for Americans to come over here and establish branches. This is easily one of the most important questions before the Canadian public today.

FROGGIE SHIFTED QUARTERS

Boston, Feb. 11.—A frog which had taken up residence in a pickerel's stomach, was dispossessed by Harry Fairbanks, of this city, who hooked the fish through the ice at Mill Pond, N.H. A few minutes after eviction the firmisternial tailless amphibian shook off winter torpor and hopped languidly to new quarters behind a stove. The pickeral houseboat was 15 inches long.

SHOULD HAVE TRIED AN ALARM CLOCK

Miama, Fla., Feb. 12.—Joe Thomas, an aged negro, is in trouble through failure to make good a contract to bring back to life the late, lamented husband of a negro woman. She said she gave him $15 and the deceased's gold watch for the job. He said he buried the timepiece at the grave to rouse the sleeper but it didn't work.

U.F.O. Candidate Was Rewarded

Mr. Lang, M.P.P., Wants to Know About the U.F.O. Appointments

Toronto, Feb. 11.—In reply to Major Tolmie, in the legislature, Hon. W. E. Raney said W. J. Lannin was rivisional superintendent of law enforcement, which is responsible to the board of license commissioners in so far as the Ontario Temperance Act is conrerned, and to the superintendent of provincial police in all other matters; he was appointed on November 19, 1920; the salary is $4,000; he covers the counties of Essex, Kent, Lambton, Elgin and Middlesex; and 23 officers are under him.

The amount of fines collected for infractions of the O.T.A. from September 6 to November 18, 1920, was $53,070, and from November 19, 1920, to January 31, 1921, $33,003. The provision making an age limit of 40 years applies to the appointment of constables and not to the appointment of divisional superintendents.

Replying to Mr. Lang, the attorney-general stated J. B. Clark, the registrar of deeds for Kent county, was the same person who was elected member for East Kent as a U.F.O. candidate in October, 1818, and subsequently resigning to allow the minister of agriculture to obtain a seat in the house. He was appointed in November, 1920. The net emoluments of the office was $4,446. The deputy registrar prior to the appointment of Mr Clark was Miss Carrie J. Buxton, and she carried on the work satisfactorily from the decease of the former incumbent until the appointment of the present one.

Hon. W. E. Raney replied in the negative as to whether the pamphlet, "Canadian Nationality and the Relation of Canada to other Britanic commonwealths," being the report of a speech by the attorney-general at the Canadian Bar Association, was printed and published upon the authority of the government. No payment was made by the government.

ALLEGED PICKPOCKETS

Two boys were this morning taken in charge by police officer Truaisch and taken to the police station. It is alleged that they are light fingered and were endeavoring to practice their art upon citizens at the market.

At least one lady in attendance upon the market this morning was relieved of an envelope which contained between two or three dollars of American silver. This was found in possession of one of the two boys apprehended by police officer Truatsch.

UNIQUE PLEA MADE IN COURT BY BANDIT

Minneapolis, Feb. 12.—Oscar Hansen, who made the unique plea, according to the police, that he was driven to a life of banditry because he married two women and had to support two families, was arraigned in Municipal Court.

Hansen was bound to the Grand Jury under $10,000 bail, on a charge of robbery and pleaded not guilty to a charge of non-support, preferred by Mrs. Elizabeth Hansen, whom the police designated as wife number one.

Cabinet Shake up Story Premature

Pulpwood Industry In North Townships

Residents of N. Frontenac Busy This Winter Cutting Pulpwood.

In view of the increasing importance of the pulpwood industry it is interesting to learn that such an industry has developed to a considerable extent in the County of Frontenac. Throughout the northern parts of the country there is a plentiful supply of woods suitable for pulpwood, principally poplar, and during the present winter the residents have been converting this resource in dollars and cents.

The majority of the cut is being shipped to a mill at Smith Falls. Warden MacGregor was recently questioned about the matter and he said the station at Kaladar had been a busy spot this winter handling shipments, and the other districts in the northern townships had been equally as active. The prevailing price was $14 a cord, but recently a cut had been made bringing it down to $12. On the other hand lumbermen's wages had dropped at Christmas from $75 to $45 per month.

If the C.N.R. railway cross the county from Westport to Enterprise which has been proposed and which was approved of by the County Council at the recent session, is built it will allow for the tapping of additional pulpwood areas in the neighborhood through which it has been surveyed, and which are claimed to be plentifully supplied with such products.

Y. Basket-Ballers Defeated Queens

The Senior Basket Ball team of the local Y certainly took the wind out of the Queen's Team in the Limestone City, when they jaunted down to the latter's quarters.

The large crowd certainly were kept on their toes with spectacular plays which are seldom seen.

Wm. Finkle starred for the locals, netting four goals in the first half, and the same number in the second half.

While Moore of the Queen's was second best with 7 goals Jimmie Marshall also played a remarkable game getting two goals but feeding the forwards was what counted.

A. Yeomans while a junior played the game of his life getting three baskets and two fouls.

Alexander two, Morden also scored three baskets and checked hard and had the Queen's forwards that they missed many a good opportunity.

The line-up was as follows:

Belleville Finkle, 16; Yeomans, 8; Morden, 6; Alexander 2; Marshall, 4;

Queens—Thomas, 12; Ellis,2; Henderson, 4; Moore, 14; Bonham, 0. Total 32.

Bloodshed Over Burning of Newspaper Plant

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Trieste, Feb. 12.—Disorders occurred in the town of Montfalcone, near here today, and it is reported that several persons were killed and wounded. The trouble, it is reported, arose over the burning of the plant occupied by the Socialist daily, Il Lavoratore in this city, on Wednesday evening. Some communists became involved in an argument with two extreme nationalists and the discussion resulted in a fight. Troops were called and workmen holding the shipbuilding yards in the town were forced to withdraw and the Red Guards retired from the scene of the trouble. A telegram received from Montfalcone stated that the place was

Soldiers and Bandits Work Together

Appalling stories of a populace oppressed to the point of extermination by an uncontrolled soldiery have been coming to Hankow for weeks from the upper reaches of the Yantsze river. The reports are principally from missionary sources. The people in the western part of Hupeh province, these advices say, have been reduced to the direst straits by troops who demand tribute, levy taxes, seize and occupy homes and shops and live on the land without restraint and those under the yoke have no possible channel open to them to voice their grievances.

Shinan and adjoining districts in the western part of the province are said to be wholly under domination of the soldiers. The area is not far distant from the Yangtsze trans-shipment port of Ichang which was seized and looted by mutinous troops in December. In ordinary times it is secluded from the rest of China with little or no communication with the other provinces due to the utter lack of routes of transportation over the rugged heights.

It was in the early months of 1918 as a development in the strife between North and South that the soldiers appeared here under the name of the "Pacifying Nation Troops" of Hupeh. These troops brought disaster.

Recently by reason of differences these forces have had with the Szechuen troops the source of salt supply for the district has been cut. For weeks, say the reports, it was impossible to obtain salt at any price with the result that the plague appeared among soldiers and people alike. Here is a quotation from one letter to the American Church Mission at Hankow:

"In one home the soldiers became enraged at the family's lack of respect for them. One day the soldiers who board without paying, threw the food of the household to their horses. The needy family could not smother its protests, for starvation was upon them. The soldiers then promptly called out the eldest son and hanged him. His wife immediately committed suicide and the old mother then killed herself."

Stirling Chevaliers Found the Rink

Last night Canton Belleville No. 8 I.O.O.F. met for their regular meeting of the Oddfellows Temple. A number of Chevaliers were present from Trenton and Stirling. One candidate was admitted and enrolled in the Patriarch Militant Army. On arriving at Belleville in the evening a number of Chevaliers from Stirling were lost in the big city and found themselves at the skating rink, but managed to find the Canton meeting in time to partake of a splendid oyster supper which was served by the entertainment committee. For this evening Capt. H. W. Lindstrum announced after the toast of The King that the regular toast list would be changed to a free and easy discussion on the prospects of Canton Belleville going to Toronto in September for the Sovereign Grand Lodge. Major W. R. M. Gilbert referred to the interest taken in this matter by the Chevaliers of Trenton, who he said were an example to the whole Canton. Other members who took part in the discussion were Chevaliers J. O. Herity, S. A. Barkley and L. Brooks and F. Andrews of Stirling. From the expressions of the members it seems Canton Belleville is going to be second to none in Ontario. The joining of hands and the singing of Lang Syne brought another enjoyable evening to a close.

Our Daily Bread Now Twenty Cents

Another Change Made By Belleville Bakers in Price of Bread.

Belleville bakers after reducing the price of bread from twenty-four cents per loaf to twelve cents retail, as the result of a bread war, and then jumping the price back to twenty-two cents, are now selling at twenty-cents a loaf as one baker refused to raise to twenty-two. Fluctuations on the bread market seem to be of daily occurrence in Belleville.

Soldier Killed in Attack on Train

Special Despatch to the Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited.

Cork, Feb. 12.—One soldier was killed and number of others wounded today in an attack on a passenger train outside of Mill Street Station by one hundred armed men. The attackers fired on cars which contained thirty soldiers from both sides of line. Wounded soldiers were taken to Cork military hospital aboard a special train.

Drop in Price of Eggs Featured of Saturday Market.

The local market today was not as largely attended as is usually the case on Saturday. There were but slight changes noted in prices. Russia Wants to Trade With Italy

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

London, Feb. 12.—A despatch from Rome says that M. Tichtcherin, Bolsheviki Foreign Minister has sent a wireless despatch to Count Sforsea, Italian Foreign Minister, demanding an explanation of the Italian delay in resuming economic relations with Soviet Russia, and admitting a Russian mission to Italy, and asking whether Italy had changed her mind in this respect. The despatch adds that in official circles denial is made that there is any obstacle in the way of economic relations between the countries, except that Italy objected to the sending to Italy of a large Soviet mission aggregating forty members with diplomatic rights and unlimited privileges in employment of couriers between Moscow and Rome. Moscow, it was added, recently agreed to reduce the mission to ten persons.

Literary Night At High School

Rare Talent Displayed in Literary Society—Inadequate Capacity of Auditorium.

Notwithstanding several counter attractions Friday evening, the Literary Society of the Belleville High School presented a splendid literary entertainment before a huge audience. The auditorium was packed about ten minutes before the program started and many had to find standing room in the halls. Much credit is due Miss M. Young, the Hon. President, and Mr. E. Wrightmeyer, the President of the society. It was due to their splendid efforts that the evening's entertainment was a success. This was the first of a series of literary evenings held this year and it is hoped that an equally large crowd will turn out next time.

The opening event of the program was a song and dance given by the girls of Form IIC. They were quite charming in their yellow, pink and white costumes and showed much talent in their song. This was followed by "Lochinvar," presented by the girls of Form IC. This was exceedingly funny and quite interesting. Miss Hilda Countryman followed this with a song entitled "One Fleeting Hour."

Forms IIA and IIB then presented "Rude Mechanics," taken from a "Midsummer Night's Dream," which was followed by a song by Miss Valerie Wrightmeyer entitled "What for What." Mr. Hope Swayne then rendered a song which showed him to be a real "comer."

The girls of Form IB then presented a "Camp-Fire Scene." This was very well staged, having a dark background contrasted with the soft light of the camp fire. A part from "Romeo and Juliet" was then acted, which furnished a good motto to any would-be lovers that happened to be in the audience.

Form IIIA then presented "The Talisman," in which Mac Bradshaw acted the part of king. He was presented with a petition supposed to have been signed by the people of Belleville asking him to build a new Collegiate for Belleville. He agrees, and then all's well.

Miss Ada Hickerson then gave a song, which was followed by a special performance of the pupils of Form IVB entitled "A Man With a Dumb Waiter." Jack McCullough and Sylvia Ross played the parts of Mr. and Mrs. Henpeck, while "Bunny" Sinclair acted as assistant to "Ike" Woodley playing the part of Dr. Killemoff. This showed much ingenuity and care as it had never been presented in Belleville before and much credit is due to Lindsay Thomas for the original idea. Miss Alice Evans then rendered an "Old-Fashioned Dance," which was very well done and quite pleasing to the audience.

Form IID then staged a small play, having Helen Potter and "Bill" George playing the leading roles. Mr. Russell Cole then gave a song and showed up remarkably well.

The pupils of Form IVA staged the closing act, "A National Tableau." Mr. D. Roe acted as Britannia and spoke of the heroism performed by France, Canada, United States and the wives and mothers of soldiers during the late war. Each was represented in a becoming costume and showed much ingenuity in the preparation of their parts.

The evening's entertainment was voted a huge success and much interest was shown in the literary society by the large audience present.

Germany Not Going To London Conference

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Berlin, Feb. 12.—Germany is not going to the London conference to be dictated to, Dr. Wirth, Minister of Finance declared in a speech to the Bremen Chamber of Commerce to-day great economic questions could not be solved that way he added. We are prepared to accomplish all we can, continued Dr. Wirth, because we feel under a moral obligation to assist in reconstruction and we will make reparation proposals of our own. In London newspaper reports on this subject are incorrect, our offer will not be small. One nation must learn to realize that what we offer cannot be extracted from national wealth, but that must be produced by work and this raises the question whether in these circumstances all fruits of revolution can be safe-guarded, work will have to be organized on a great scale and what we offer must be made good.

Police Barracks Attacked

Bantry, Ireland, Feb. 12.—Three hundred armed civilians attacked Drimoleague Police Barracks at midnight last night. The garrison offered a fierce resistance and with the help of a relief force repulsed the attacking party. One sergeant of the defending forces was wounded. Barracks and nearby houses were badly damaged by fire.

INDUSTRIES GRADUALLY RESUMING OPERATIONS

Dominion Headquarters of the Employment Service of Canada, Department of Labour, reports that during the week ending January 22 there was further, though slight recovery from the losses in employment which have been received for a number of weeks, 2,226 persons having been added to the payrolls of the 5,215 firms making returns, an expansion of less than one per cent. Employers in 12 industrial groups had enlarged their staffs by 5,613 workers; while in 20 groups there were contractions aggregating 3,387 persons. It may be noted that the figures used in these reports do not include loss of time to industrial disputes.

Increased activity was reported in Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba, the increase of 3,118 persons in the first named being the largest. For the following week firms in the last two provinces only anticipated having further gains, while slight declines were expected elsewhere. In Prince Edward Island alone was employment at a higher level than during the base week, substantial decreases in that comparison being registered in the other provinces.

The most decided increases in activity since the preceding week occurred in the Crude, Rolled and Forged, Railway Car, Shipbuilding and Stove branches of Iron and Steel, in Boot, Shoe Rubber Footwear and Tobacco factories and in Thread, Yarn and Cloth, Hosiery and Knit Goods and Garment divisions of Textiles, these gains in many cases indicating recovery from inventory and holiday shutdowns. In all these establishments the greater part of the increases occurred in Quebec and Ontario, especially in the former province.

Parliament Buildings Ready For Monday's Opening

WORKMEN BUSY ALL NIGHT ON SENATE CHAMBER, WHICH PRESENTS HANDSOME APPEARANCE — SOME ARTISTIC CARVING YET TO BE INSTALLED AND SOME PERMANENT DECORATIONS TO WALLS.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—All arrangements for the opening of Parliament on Monday will be completed by tonight. A large staff of painters, carpenters and decorators were working on the Senate Chamber all night, and the new chamber, completed as far as it will be before the session is opened by the gentleman usher of the black rod, presents a very handsome appearance, notwithstanding the fact that a considerable amount of elaborate stone carving and wood carving remains to be done. Permanent decorations of the main panels of the wall will not be done for some time. In the meantime these panels are occupied by a number of large canvasses of the war memorial collections.

GRAND CONCERT

Those responsible for bringing to this city Winnifred Lugrin-Fahay, Canada's celebrated soprano, were, as far as the artist is concerned, rewarded for their pains. The singer had been heralded as a delightful entertainer and she certainly bore out that reputation. Owing no doubt to counter attractions in the city the City Hall did not contain the audience the occasion merited. There were about 250 present, and it is needless to state that all were more than delighted with the program presented. It was of a varied nature and the numbers were such as to bring out the best the entertainer possessed. Her beautiful rich and clear voice was heard to great advantage in several of the selections, and at times the audience was spell bound. The graceful ease with which she takes the exceptionally high notes was a characteristic of her mastery of song. That each number given was a delight to all present was evidenced by the hearty applause which greeted the talented performer and she was compelled to respond to several encores. In so doing it was to use her own expression going from the sublime to the ridiculous as the encores were such as "Coming through the Rye", "Wake Up," and "Cuckoo." The meaning intended to convey in the Italian and French songs rendered was explained by Winnifred Lugrin-Fahay previous to their rendition, each number was given in such perfect manner that it would be difficult except as a thorough music critic, to state which surpassed the other. In addition to her beautiful voice the singer imparts into her songs a peculiar personality of her own which is most pleasing. The accompaniments were played in a masterly manner by Prof. V. P. Hunt, and the audience was not slow in appreciating his valued services. The program given was as follows:

I. Angels Ever Bright and Fair, Handel.

II. (a) Hark! Hark! the Lark, (b) Peace, (c) A Stormy Morning, Schubert. Encore, Wake Up.

III. (a) Se Saren Rose, Arditi, (b) Depuis le jour (Louise) Charpentier.

OPIE READ'S STORY

Joseph J. Dowling, foremost character actor of the screen, is seen in a beautiful story of the old south at Griffin's Twice Tonight, 7:30 and 9:00 p.m. The story is that of imperishable friendship laid among the purple hills of Kentucky, adapted from the novel by Opie Read. It is a photoplay that is as refreshing as a summer breeze, and it is laden with all sweetness, the pathos, the romance, and the charm of life in the old south. Joseph J. Dowling heads the splendid cast of players that interpret this great picture, and many other popular artists are included in the company. Mr Dowling gives an even better performance than he did in his last great success, "The Miracle Man." The vaudeville portion of the program is in the hands of Fred Weedon & Co., late of the "Dumbells" when they will present the most farcial war comedy ever produced titled "Demobolization" which offers a half hour of solid laughter. Regular prices are prevailing during the presentation of the above program.

"THE BLOOMING ANGEL"

I saw a very fat lady trying to squeeze through the door of a pay-as-you-enter car in Toronto one day last summer and make a failure of it. The conductor, the motorman and several other citizens aboard, heaved with might and main, but couldn't squeeze her through. Finally a very small man with long whiskers piped up in a thin treble, "Let her go in Sideways." "But she ain't got no sideways," came back the answering [illegible] from the toilers at the door.

"The Blooming Angel," a typical Madge Kennedy comedy which is to be screened at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday is just that kind of a comedy. "It Ain't got no Sideways" is far as saying this angel of the comedy is best or that angel is the funniest. It's one of those perfectly rounded comedies which reflect screamingly funny turns from the first to the last foot. It has all the effervescent sparkle of a glass of champagne and its as full of situations as an egg of meat. The situations are [illegible]. They are original. They are delightful. They tantalize with surprises and tickle with [illegible] and you are [illegible] to be miles away from figuring out how it will end.

A [illegible] comedy, a [illegible] Magazine and Eileen Percy in "The Third Eye" will also be screened in addition to the feature offering.

Canon Daw officiating. A reception followed the ceremony. The bride was unattended, and wore sapphire blue chiffon velvet with old Duchess lace, hat of grey tulle, and carried a shower of white sweet peas and orchids. To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could hardly hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (double strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears should give this recipe a trial.

Bronchial Asthma

Bronchial asthma only differs from other forms in the fact that it appears localized in the chest rather than higher up. There is a spasmodic struggle for breath that often amounts to real agony. The breath is short and painful.

The cause is pressure upon spinal nerves in the dorsal, or upper back between the shoulders, and adjusting at this point is the only means of getting at and removing the nerve pressure which is the cause of this disease.

Those suffering from this ailment frequently have a humped curve in the back bone in the neck and upper shoulder region. Adjusting has been responsible for the restoration of thousands who thought themselves doomed to a lifetime of suffering from this disease.

Letters to the Editor

THE MAN WHO TAMED THE CANADA GOOSE

To the Editor of The Intelligencer—

Dear sir—I note with interest that the Women's Canadian Club are bringing to our city "Jack" Miner, popularly known as "The Man Who Has Tamed The Wildest of The Wild, the Canada Goose." He is so well-known that it is scarcely necessary to do more than announce him, to draw an audience.

About a year ago, I had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Miner in Toronto and the time passed all too quickly. His address is very instructive, and deeply interesting. In addition to his vivid word paintings, he has a number of moving pictures to illustrate his work among the birds, that add materially to the interest.

The ladies are to be congratulated on securing Mr Miner for an evening's entertainment.

Yours sincerely

H. J. CLARKE.

THE PRESENT--ITS OBJECTIVE

SERMON FOR THE "SHUT-IN", THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

"For the love of Christ constraineth us; because we thus judge that if one died for all, then were all dead. And that He died for all, that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto Him which died for them, and rose again." II. Cor. 5. 14-15.

Morals and Motives

Comparatively few of us, as followers of Christ estimate life as we should live it, or try to live according to our obligations. Perhaps we have not even seriously considered between morals and motives. Most of us know what we ought to be and do, but we feel our weakness in the motive power that impelled the early christians to be heroic and accomplish great service in the name of the Master. In all religions there are motives. Many worship and serve God from a sense of duty, others from the motive of fear or reward. In view of the present unrest and deep longing, on the part of many, for a spiritual awakening, we cannot do better than go back to the New Testament to find out the motive for christian life and service.

We find it in our text for to-day: "For the love of Christ contraineth us". The impelling love of Christ is the highest motive we can find anywhere. But how little we comprehend this fact, I take it we consider the gospel of Christ too much as doctrine instead of a personal and practical experience. The love of God, as we see it revealed in the Christ of the Cross, has not been the impelling motive it should have been to all of us since we first trusted Jesus.

Human and Divine

Christian people are more human manifest more sympathy—when they are most divine—the love of Christ constrains them. A little girl, who was the sunshine in the home of a leading minister in England, was asked one day, "Why does everybody love you?" After a moment she replied "I don't know, except it be that I love everybody." That is the secret. Sometimes we forget that God loves everybody. Human love to be deep has to narrow itself, when it spreads itself it becomes shallow. Not so with God's love, it becomes deeper. It is too big for to take it in alone. We have to comprehend with all the saints if we would know the unknowable love of God. It is the love of God that makes us love everybody. It is the "old time religion" and we must get back to it for comfort and power.

Even Unto Death

The christians in Paul's time loved their Lord—even to die for Him. And they loved one another more because they loved Christ more. The Puritan christians seem to be a different type. Their motive was chiefly moral—they obeyed conscience. Under law we may have a noble type of life, but ungracious, as we compare it with the fine New Testament type.

The secret of Paul's life and unselfish labors can be found in one supreme motive—"The love of Christ constrains us." Where did Paul turn for this mighty motive? The Cross of Christ. "Because we thus judge, that if one died for all then were all dead" (also v. 15.)

A Beautiful Story

There is a beautiful story of Thos. Arnold. Just three weeks before he died, he called his wife to his bed side and told her that he had just then "such a rush of love in his heart to God and Christ," he wanted to do something before he died. Every true christian gets his true motive from Christ.

Scenes of The Cross

Fra Angelico of Florence has painted many scenes of the Cross, but each has its meaning. They are in the cells of the Convent of San Marco. The first scene is that of bewilderment, at such an awful tragedy! The next is still bewilderment, but with the idea there is a purpose in that death. The third scene is revealing the purpose of Jesus' death—He dies for man's sin! The next scene is the joy of forgiveness, and adoring love for such boundless grace. But the next scene is the forgiven one standing with hands outstretched proclaiming that love for all the world. Once more, he is kneeling there on one knee, as one ready to start up; he is there in worship, and also recognizing that the cross lays upon his life the allegiance of a great service.

The Christ Life

The great motive of love changes the centre of life—from a selfish life to a Christ life. "And that He died for all, that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto Him which died for them." This makes a strong appeal to those who are "shut in" in view of the danger of life becoming self-centred.

A Lesson From Science

We know that the heavenly bodies, known as stars and planets, are all under control of a great central force. If any get away from control, as in the case of comets, they fall through space, and unless held or attracted by a power greater than themselves, will be lost in outer darkness!

This warning from science in the physical realm, should be heeded by all of us, lest we get away from our true centre of life—even Christ. Let us make sure we are under His control. He is the Head of the true Church, His Body, and we as members must keep in our place and fulfil His will. This is the chief end of life for all of us, in the home, in the local church, or in the business, we must keep in Christ's control and always do the things that please the Master.

Some of us may be like the ships that sail far north, and become ice-bound. All the power these ships may have cannot free them. Their one hope is in the power of the sun to melt the ice and free them to move on toward their desired haven. So Christ Jesus, the Son of Righteousness, is our hope. He alone that frees us from our spiritual winter, and renews us with His own life and power, and causes us to walk in newness of life. This is the chief need of the hour.

All who are "Shut In" can do this—pray that God may give spiritual Springtime to all His people.

A Good Digestion A Great Blessing

A Sufferer Tells How New Health Was Found

Very few people appreciate what good digestion means until they lose it. To be able to eat what you want and to properly digest it is a blessing. But if your digestion is impaired you cannot afford to risk experiments by trying uncertain remedies. Strong medicines are hard on the stomach, predigested foods only aggravate the trouble. What is needed is a tonic that will so strengthen the stomach as to enable it to do its own work. There is no tonic for the stomach that is not at the same time a tonic for every other part of the body. As the blood circulates through all the body an improvement in its condition quickly results in strengthening any weak organ. Rich red blood is absolutely necessary to good digestion. If your stomach is weak, if you are troubled with sour rising in your throat, feeling of nausea after eating, pains or fluttering about the heart, try the tonic treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. So many people have been helped by this treatment that every sufferer from indigestion should promptly try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Among the many who rejoice in a better digestion through the use of this medicine is Mr. D. Gouthro, Balls Creek, N.S., who says: "For nearly four years I was an almost constant sufferer from indigestion. Any food I took disagreed with me, and I always felt drowsy and uncomfortable after eating. I had frequent headaches, and the trouble made me nervous, and I slept poorly at night. I was constantly doctoring but did not find much benefit until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the time I had taken six boxes of these I could eat anything with relish and felt better than I had done for years. For this reason I highly recommend these pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ULTIMATUM TO CANNERS

St. Catherines Vegetable Growers

The St. Catharines Vegtable Growers Association decided that they must have at least 60 cents from the canneries for tomatoes or they will grow exclusively for the markets. This action was taken because of a decision of the canneries to put up a limited pack this summer and pay out forty cents per bushel to the growers. Last year the price was fifty cents.

WANTED, A BOB BUSHNELL TO PUT BELLEVILLE FAIR ON THE MAP.

One man raised the Kingston Fair from a parish poppy-show to an exhibition of province-wide reputation. That man was Bob Bushnell, and he did it with push, pep and publicity. Bob ascribes most of the success of the Kingston Fair under his management to newspaper advertising and he is right. Belleville Fair needs first of all a publicity man who knows his business, backed by an enterprising organization committee progressive enough to provide an exceptional program of attractions. If the Belleville Fair is to remain in the old rut the sooner it is wound up the better, as of late years it has been a poor advertisement for the city. Either a first class exhibition or none at all should be the decision in regard to Belleville Fair, which must be treated as a business proposition with a substantial investment in the expectation of producing satisfactory results. Who is the man who will put Belleville Fair on the map as Bob Bushnell did Kingston Fair?

TIME TO CALL A HALT ON LONG AND DREARY SPEECHES.

Sooner or later there will be a general election in Canada, and before it arrives, those of us—and there are millions of us—who object to the tedious length of political speeches and the way meetings are drawn out into all hours of the night ought to organize to abate the nuisance, says the Toronto Star.

No man living can talk for two hours to an audience and leave on his hearers as good an impression of himself and of his cause as he could if he had compressed the pith of the matter into a well-shaped half-hour speech.

In making this assertion we believe, continues the Star, that political journalists of long experience whose business it is to hear speeches and observe the immediate effects and subsequent results of them will endorse it.

Not only are most speeches too long, but there are too many speakers at most meetings. The crowd is talked to until the thought in every mind is how to escape without seeming to show disrespect to the man who is spouting statistics at the moment or the man who is going to speak next, and is squirming in his seat and wishing the other fellow would quit and let somebody speak who can speak before the audience perishes from exhaustion.

The people are patient and long-suffering during an election campaign. They put up with long speeches and long drawn-out meetings which bore them to the limit, and they endure this in the belief that it is necessary, that others are not like themselves, and that meetings which last from eight until beyond midnight are the real thing in political campaigning. But other people are not different. All are bored alike by these ordeals.

A great crowd is called together by the promise of a speech by a party leader. Then a hoax is worked on the crowd, and the man everybody has come to hear is not called upon to speak until on towards midnight, after the people have listened for hours to speakers who couldn't catch a crowd of their own even if they offered prizes to all who came.

This sort of imposture is practised on the public right along, and a stop ought to be put to it, says the Star. In the British general election of 1910 a representative of The Star, in the course of six weeks, attended great meetings addressed by Lloyd George, Asquith, Balfour, Churchill and most of the leaders in politics, and in the entire course of the campaign never heard a speech that extended more than a minute or two over the half-hour. The great speeches of that campaign, summaries of which were cabled around the world, were thirty-minute efforts. Instead of attempting every night, in a speech covering two to three hours, to deal with every phase of every subject before the country, the British public man spoke for half an hour each night—every night something new, and every day the press of the United Kingdom published the speech, for it was worth printing, and the people read it, for it was worth reading.

The practice of talking by the hour and keeping meetings going until after midnight is a poor one, and we ought to get over it. When a party leader comes to a town the occasion should be his. All lesser speakers should be dumb, and the Man of the Hour should not go up against the long distance talking record, but, having done the great audience the compliment of preparing for the event, he should deliver a speech in which quality, not quantity, would be the main and sufficient thing. It would be a reform of importance and there is no reason why it should not be accomplished.

Toronto should be rather sick of holding public meetings on every possible excuse. The meeting called Thursday evening to protest against disloyalty and in the interest of respect for law and order, broke up in disorder and disrespect for the National Anthem. As a demonstration of disloyalty and disorder the meeting was a great success.

There are safety devices, as in a well constructed elevator, so that no retail dealer will be hurt when it crashes to the ground floor, if ever. * * * British interests, says Senator Jones of Washington, are trying to destroy American shipping, and have been trying to for years. We seem to remember a time, not so far in the past, when German interests were making a determined effort to destroy American shipping; and at that time the British interests were rather inclined to be belligerently defensive of American shipping.

IS CHEAP MEAT NEAR?

Boston Transcript

The prices for live steers, choice to prime, in Chicago, on Feb. 2, ranged from $8.75 to $9.75 per hundredweight and for choice heifers and cows ranged from $4.35 to $8.35. The wholesale price of the best grades of steer beef listed in Boston on Feb. 2, ranged from 13½ to 14½ cents a pound, wholesale—for the whole side. For best grades of cow beef prices ranged from 11 to 11½ cents a pound. The reduction in the livestock prices is 43.48 per cent. on steers and 31.72 per cent. on cows between Dec. 1 and Feb. 2. The reduction in wholesale prices in Boston is 35.71 per cent. on steer beef and 11.54 per cent. on cow beef.

When prices of beef at retail in Boston represent costs of livestock in Chicago, plus cost of slaughtering, freight and marketing, and reasonable profits, they will be much lower than at present and people will eat more meat. That condition is due to prevail very soon.

POETS' CORNER

IN CITIES WHILE IT SNOWS

The snow that lays a shroud on country spaces
Is a magician in the city places
I watch it dropping through the windy dusk
To weight the ugly roofs with witchery.
And cap fat chimney-pots with rakish domes
That turn them into squatty, grinning gnomes.
And mark the ivy on smoky walls
In lovely patternings of Spanish laces,
Or swirl, white bubbles in a pool of gold,
Where arc lights draw great circles on a drift,
And give grim statues strange, undreamed of graces,
I feel, within the people of the crowds
Who hurry drably on their dismal ways,
A momentary joy of living blaze,
Dull eyes that meet my own have something bright,
Caught from the mystic beauty of the night.
The heaped-up windows flash like sudden stars,
Then suffer brief eclipse behind the storm.
Harsh sounds are muffled music, voices grow
Less shrill, and hold a note that hints of bells.
Men laugh, and shake white showers from their coats;
Their erstwhile sallow cheeks are painted rose—
And cities are not cities while it snows.

—Edna Mead, in New York Times.

Well, your honor, said the witness, without hesitation, I should say it was some inkstand.

WIN This Car! 1921 Model

Dozens of boys and girls have won them and are proud of them.

The Genuine Culver Racer is the niftiest auto for girls and boys ever built. It is a genuine motor car—not a toy. Has real steering wheel and gears with shifting lever, steel springs, powerful brake, pneumatic tires, handsomely enamelled body and good upholstery. Runs up to 25 miles an hour and uses very little gasoline. You will be proud of it if you win it.

HERE are four riddles for boys and girls with wise heads. We told the artist to draw the pictures to represent the riddles, but he guessed the right answers—and put them in too! So we barred him from the contest and told him to keep it a secret. Luckily, he got the answers all jumbled up, so you won't be any the wiser.

If you can unscramble the jumbled letters beneath each riddle picture and put them in their right order to spell the right words, you will have the right answers. It isn't an easy task. Good thinking, patience and perseverance may find you the answers. Try it.

If you think you have found the answers, write them carefully on a sheet of white paper. Put on nothing but your four answers and your name and address in the upper right hand corner of the page. Handwriting, spelling, punctuation and general neatness will count if more than one answer is correct.

We will write and tell you immediately if you are correct and send you a handsome illustrated list of all the prizes that you can win.

Advertising is Life

Life is a matter of advertising. It is so: consciously or unconsciously.

Every act and word is an advertisement.

In walking down the street, at luncheon at the club, in discussion, you advertise the fact that you are (at least) alive.

Nowadays type and paper in the form of the local daily newspaper advertising can be used to present with conviction the most convenient facts about, or nature of, the goods you have to sell.

The treatment is simple; the basic elements of the prescription are Persistency and Regularity.

The formula is freely at the command of every one. The dose is a matter of individual judgment.

The merchant who takes advantage of Daily Newspaper advertising can inform everyone—every day—that his store is alive with opportunities for the buyer. Advertising is life—the steam coal of salesmanship.

THAT "GRUELLING STRUGGLE."

An Old-timer Talks About American Balloonists.

"The blame for the trouble between Lieut. Hinton and Lieut. Farrell, balloonists, is ascribed to overwrought minds, brought on by the hardship and the gruelling struggle that had to be endured on the trip over the trail to Mattice," etc.

Old Sam Martin, who picnicked for eight years, winter and summer, in the Cobalt and Cochrane sections, visiting Mattice and other excursion points by snowshoe occasionally—old Sam leaned back and blew a few rings to the ceiling when he read that in the newspaper.

"Me and Pete Jones of Ceabright," says he, "would like to meet these three guys to see if the callouses are on their feet or their souls." And Sam snorted.

"Why, say, let me slip it to ye,—there ain't a finer trip on earth than down the Mattagami in winter. And where it meets the Missanabi to make the Moose, there's some river. And them guys knocking the fairest country on earth. The flies is bad, of course, in season. I've seen us having to break the ice to wash our faces in the morning and having to wear mosquito netting at noon. That's only occasionally and for a little while though. But in December, with only enough snow to cover the moss and enough frost to harden the river, why, say, it's nicer travelling on the James Bay watershed than in sloppy Toronto. I been there once.

"Say, son," said Mr. Martin, "they grow better potatoes at Moose Factory than at Niagara. And for hay Moose Factory hay lays over anything out of doors. Did ye ever know the Ontario Government actually was so proud of a stack of hay a farmer piled at Moose Factory that the Department of Lands and Forests printed a picture of it in the report of the Survey Branch about a year ago. In that same book is a picture of a farmer and his family, the church and the missionary and all the other accoutrements of civilization. Why, they read the London Times up there regular.

"Is Moose Factory much of a place?"

"Much of a place? Mister, it ain't nothing else. You can see the Hudson Bay premises for miles. Revillon Freres have a post there also, and when me and Pete was in there last, I guess there'd be 200 people in and around there. Some place? I guess it is. James Bay can't be navigated except for a channel that leads to the mouth of the Moose river. Moose Factory is only a roadstead, the only good harbor on the bay being Fort Churchill. I'm telling ye cattle do well at Moose Factory and spruce, balsam and poplar grow to a fair size as far as Churchill, away north of Moose. We saw ducks, geese, loons and ptarmigan, lots of 'em, and I heard caribou, musk ox and other animals were continually got by the Indians there. The vegetation and trees along the river banks is fine, a fellow couldn't starve or freeze in that country unless he was a hero and wanted to. The only drawback is the flies as I say, there being some marsh and swamp around the bay there, the shore being low. They told me they were high on the east side of the bay.

"Where is this Nicholson's Creek the balloonists landed at?"

"About 15 miles north of the Factory. Y'see, the Factory is up the river a piece, and the other place is near the mouth. I don't quite get how the balloon could ever get out of sight of the Factory.

"Sure I know Tom Marks well. He's the guy that found the balloon boys. He's not a farmer though any more than he grows a little hay for his team, and his own vegetables. He's a trapper employed by the Revillon firm, and was probably spearing herring when the balloon boys saw him."

"As for the trip in to Mattice, the 'gruelling struggle' these boys call it—say, mister, it's just like setting in a rocking chair compared to what the boys were through that opened up Gowganda and Shining Tree. I was 60 days out in Gowganda first winter, me and Pete, and we run out of everything, having to feed with our guns. We didn't starve, though.

"'Gruelling struggle,' oh boy! Yes, it's some struggle to cover 200 miles in 12 days, with an Indian cook that wants to feed every three hours. Them Indians is some cooks, too, mister. The man that is fed by Hudson Bay Co. Indians on the march is liable to get indigestion unless he exercises."

Sam never kicked at the trip in from the Factory to rail head, but he sure thinks it a 'gruelling experience' to ride first class to North Bay when he hits the irons. It's about the same distance to Moose Factory from the Soo as to Toronto, but Sam prefers the Soo-Moose route because he can go down the Missanabi.

Please pass the gruel!

C S TUXIS BOYS AND TRAIL RANGERS E BY Firelighter T

MR. STATTEN MAKES CHANGE

Taylor Statten has been since 1912 Boys' Work Secretary of the National Council of the Y.M.C.A. On January 10 he was appointed Executive Secretary of the National Boys' Work Board to give full time to the promotion of the work of the Board.

The C.S.E.T. for Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers is a big gift to Canadian boys from Mr. Statten along with a host of other men who have helped greatly in the product of his thought and leadership. He has just resigned his connection with the Y.M.C.A. and will give his full time to the promotion of the co-operative work in the wide field of all the Protestant boys in Canada with which the Boys' Work Board deals.

Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers all know Mr. Statten, the "Big Chief" of Canadian boyhood. He belongs to them and they belong to him. His contagious personality, his [illegible] gingery and inspiring speeches and capable leadership will be devoted completely in the future as in the past to their welfare.

This change does not mean that the Y.M.C.A. will not be fully a part of the cooperative movement from now on. It will be, just as always. It will stand ready to aid Boys' Work by every means in its power. The new secretary who will be honored by an appointment to Mr. Statten's position, will no doubt be someone who has served Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers. Just who it will be we cannot say at present, but an announcement will be made in this column in two weeks. Watch for it.

Someone has added a new one to a list of hobbies for boys—"sifting ashes." Whew! It is a home task, though, and every real C.S.E.T. boy has a share in carrying the responsibility of the home. February is "Home Month" for Trail Rangers and Tuxis Boys.

Firelighter.

WHAT IS A TUXIS BOY?

When a trainer takes charge of an athlete with the intention of producing a high jumper, he has in his mind a picture of the form he wants his man to show as he goes over the bar. It is so with the men who have been working out this course of training for older Canadian boys. They have clearly in mind the type of young manhood that such training should produce.

The Tuxis boy will be strong physically. In all probability he will be an athlete because he will have followed a scientific course of training in physical development which has been set up by the leading athletes and physical directors of Canada. During the three years he will have competed in many of the Athletic Meets promoted in his community by the "Tuxis Boys Council."

OXO CUBES

A Cube to a Cup

The Tuxis Boy will be strong intellectually. When given the opportunity, he will be able to face an audience and express his thoughts convincingly because on many occasions he will have done the same thing before the little group of fellows who are members of his Tuxis Square. He will have made trips to places of historical and industrial interest with the other members of his Square, and, in the latter, will have had an opportunity to learn of the many ways in which men make a living. This will help him in the choice of a life work.

Tuxis Boys will also be strong socially. They will make their leisure time profitable. They will always have something worth while to do. There will be plenty of fun and good times. Above all they will not be lopsided boys. At a glance, even a stranger will see that they stand four square. Their training will not interfere with their school work but will make their studies more enjoyable and their school life more pleasant.

The Tuxis Boy will be developed religiously. His church and Sunday school will take on a new meaning. In fact, the inspiration for his entire life will centre around his Tuxis Square, which will meet not only as his Sunday school class during the Sunday school hour, but also on one evening during the week.

The word "Tuxis" is made up of five letters, each having a very significant meaning. "T" stands for Training, letter "S" for Service— "Training for Service", "X" placed in the centre denotes the Greek letter "Chi" the first letter in the Greek word "Christos" or Christ, which is to indicate that the Program is Christ-centred. The "U" and "I" suggest our social relationships, the attitude of brotherliness and unselfishness—the "Help the Other Fellow Spirit". You will notice that "You" comes before "I".

ST. PAT'S LOOK GOOD

Referring to the pro hockey game in the arena Wednesday at Montreal Le Canada says "By beating the Canadiens, the St. Patrick's assured themselves of second place in the second place in the second half of the National League series, and if they continue to play as they played last night, they will make it hard for the Ottawas when the final honors are decided. The first two periods of the game were very interesting, but after Dye made his second score for the Torontonians, the local players seemed to lose heart and made but a feeble fight. All the Toronto players did splendid work and it would be an injustice to give more credit to one man than another. Forbes in the goal made some sensational stops. Cameron showed a return to his old form, and Sprague Cleghorn proved himself the best defence ever seen with the Pats. On the Canadien side, Lalonde, Pitre and Mummery put forth their best efforts, but the St Patrick's defence was too difficult to penetrate without counting that forwards were continually on their toes.

Kingston Standard—Good-bye to O.H.A. hockey in Kingston for this season. Fans are hoping that Cornwall will step in and land the junior championship, but it hardly looks likely. Either Belleville or Lindsay could put Cornwall away.

The few cents more which you pay for Red Rose Tea gives you the extra strength and flavor which marks the difference between Red Rose and other teas.

One of the best games bowled on the alleys was played Thursday night between the Bowlers and G.T.R. Shops. The Bowlers received their first defeat by a margin of 166 points. In the first game it looked as if they would be the winners of the evening, but the Shops came out strong and beat them in the second game by 246 points. They also took the third game from them by a good margin and the final score ended with 2157 in favor of the Shops to 1991 for the Bowlers. However, the Bowlers put up some splendid scores and Yerex of their team was high single man with 206, while Miles of the Shop team was high three string with 496.

A SPORTING PROPOSITION

Another effort is being put forth to have a new skating and hockey rink erected in Lindsay—and not before it is time. Lindsay's rink which is known in O. H. A. circles as the "band-box" is not in keeping with the brand of hockey the Lindsay boys play. They are much more at home. Other towns are building rinks recognizing the great asset a good hockey team is to a town. Uxbridge has one almost completed, and Port Perry people will launch a campaign this week to secure funds to erect a new rink. Markham has a rink, which answers the purpose of an agricultural building during the big fall fair and Kitchener is essaying to erect an artificial ice rink with a seating capacity of five thousand. Those promoting the idea in Lindsay should be encouraged.—Lindsay Warder.

Belleville Won Exciting Game

Belleville 10—Port Hope 6

Behold another Lawson Whitehead in the person of Steve Vair, professional hockey referee who allowed a lot of loose play and rough stuff to get by him Friday evening when the Belleville and Port Hope intermediate teams clashed for the first time in the play off for higher honors.

Port Hope are the winners of group one and Belleville the winners of group two. Port Hope's team was fast and some were clean players, but Belleville was just as fast as they were and the dirty work was in abundance.

Friday night's game gave Belleville a four goal lead to journey to Port Hope with. The best part of the game was in the last period when Belleville so to speak, got a basket full. Gunner Arnott got the fever and scored goal after goal. Of course it is needless to say Daw Whelan was the best man on the ice. He played a superb game, back checking and rushing in a style that was most surprising. Weir played a hard game and he also was right there with the back checking. Having learned of Soup Goyer's prowess the Port Hopers were right on him as soon as he started a rush. Sammy Symons played a faster game than usual, playing hard all the time. The captain of the Port Hope aggregation commonly known as the War Horse receiving more penalties than any other man, for Port Hope, is certainly all that has been said of him, his rushes and checking being first class. The left wing man of Port Hope also played a hard game. The game by periods:

First Period

Gunner Arnott in a neat rush from the face off scored Belleville's first goal after about 1½ minutes play. The Port Hopers then started the dirty work and then the penalties began, Darch being the first to enjoy the 2-minutes rest. Gunner Arnott then took the box and Green also had a 2-minute rest. With two of our best men off Port Hope managed to score. Gar. Arnott, sub, then went to the box accompanied by a Port Hoper. Daw Whelan made a neat rush and shot but missed. Weir caught the rebound and scored for Belleville. Gunner Arnott in a neat rush from the face-off scored again for Belleville. Daw Whelan scored the next for Belleville. Daw then received a penalty.

Second Period

Finnegan Hill then received a penalty and Port Hope's wing man in revenge scored Port Hope's second goal. Brown, a sub, on the Port Hope team then took the box for two minutes. Port Hope's wing man, Ware, again scored. Gunner Arnott scored Belleville's fifth goal. Port Hopers then found the net and with the score of 5-4 the second period ended.

Third Period

With the beginning of the third period the riot started. Gunner started off with a 2-minute rest and in this time Whelan scored for Belleville. The Port Hope War Horse then received a penalty for tripping Soup Goyer. With another Port Hope man off Daw Whelan scored again, this making Belleville's eighth goal. Two Port Hope men and one Belleville man visited the box for a 2-minute rest and in this period Gunner scored for Belleville. In the face-off Gunner took the puck down the ice, passed the wing and defence men and scored Belleville's last goal. Brown, subbing for Port Hope received his second penalty. Port Hope scored again. Just before the bell rang Soup Goyer was handed a penalty. Final score—Belleville 10—Port Hope 6.

The line-up was as follows:

Belleville		Port Hope
Boland	goal	Micks
Goyer and		Darch and
Green	defence	Jex
Arnott	centre	F. Hills
Symons	right wing	Ware
Whelan	left wing	A. Hill
Weir and		Ware and
Arnott	subs	Brown

NOTES

Pat Boland in goal played a splendid game stopping many goals, keeping his head and being steady at all times.

Soup Goyer on defence did not play as brilliant a game as he usually does as he was closely watched by the Port Hopers. Soup started several rushes but on account of his reputation, failed to go very far. In checking though, the Port Hopers avoided him whenever possible, knowing only too well the result of running into him.

Bill Green is one fine boy on defence all he lacks is a little more weight. He is speedy, cool and fast all the way through, accomplishing a number of fine rushes, also checking splendid.

Daw Whelan played, without doubt the finest game yet. He was just where he was needed in every phase of the game, and also added mightily to Belleville's side of the score. Daw played fast and clever hockey last night, and is now the recipient of more attention from the fans than ever before.

Gunner Arnott was splendid and seemed to be in better form. His stick handling was lovely to watch, and as usual Gunner shot in a good number of goals. Great things are looked for from Gunner on Monday night as he usually gets goals when they're most needed. Gunner sure has one wicked shot, and a sure one at that.

Vern Weir was simply wonderful last night, checking everyone within his reach to a standstill and apparently playing a tireless game. He merited and received rounds of applause from the hundreds of spectators. He played fast and clever and handled his stick in a clever manner.

Sammy Symons played a good game but wasn't on the ice long enough to make any sensational plays, however, Sammy has the goods and lets the crowd see what he can do if given a chance.

Gar Arnott was a new face to the majority of fans as he has played only a few games. While on the ice he showed that he has great possibilities if properly developed having a good shot.

Hills playing centre for Port Hope plays a lovely game, it being a pleasure to watch him handle his stick. He plays a fast clean game of hockey, and is certainly deserving of recognition.

On account of the Port Hope team having the same colored suits as Belleville, the Albert College boys kindly loaned theirs.

NO TRACE OF COONEY

Frank Cooney, a farmer living at Vansickle Settlement, in Belmont township, is still missing, and despite the efforts of search parties, no trace of his whereabouts can be found. Mr. Cooney who is a married man about fifty years of age left for Belleville over two weeks ago, by train, to close up a pulpwood transaction. He left Belleville with a sum of money in his possession, and went to Marmora from which village he started to walk home about 4.30 in the afternoon. Since that time nothing has been seen of him and the family and friends fear that he has met with foul play.—Havelock Standard.

More Fish.

Fish hatcheries operated by the fisheries branch, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa, have distributed in 1920 three-fourths of a billion fry in the various provinces throughout the Dominion. The greatest distribution took place in the Province of Ontario, the number of fry distributed being approximately four hundred million.

The largest distribution of any one species was the valuable white fish, of which more than four hundred million were released. About half of these were distributed in the Great Lakes and the balance in Manitoba. Pickerel came second to white fish. Of this species 120,000,000 were distributed in the Great Lakes and 25,000,000 in Manitoba.

Sockeye salmon, the most valuable of all the Pacific species, came third, there being a distribution of more than ninety million. This is the largest distribution of sockeye fry that has been made for some years, and was an increase of more than forty million over the year 1919.

A considerable increase was also affected in the distribution of fry of the sporting varieties of fish, such as the rainbow and cut throat trout in Alberta, and speckled trout in the Maritime Provinces.

There is something in obstinacy which differs from every other passion. Whenever it fails it never recovers, but either breaks like iron or crumbles away like a decayed arch.

Undoubtedly.

Mr. Spiffkins observed that the quiet boy at the foot of the class had not yet had an opportunity to display his knowledge of the Bible. So the teacher gave him this one:

Nothing Like Internal Bathing For Constipation

If people only knew what Internal Bathing is doing for thousands of others there would be fewer Pills and Laxatives swallowed, and very much less suffering from Constipation and the accompanying Stomach and Nervous Troubles resulting from it.

J. A. Darrach, Copper Cliff, Ont., writes: "I have been using your J.B.L. Cascade for the past three months and am convinced that it is the most modern and scientific method of dealing with Constipation that has ever been devised, and I will lose no opportunity to promote its use among my friends, as I can speak truthfully and enthusiastically as to its merits."

By the proper application of Nature's cure, warm water, by means of the J. B. L. Cascade, the lower intestines are kept free from all poisonous waste. Drugs force Nature. Internal bathing assists her.

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, a specialist on Internal Bathing, invented and perfected the J. B. L. Cascade which has done more during the past 20 years in restoring health and lessening disease than all other means combined.

Ask J. S. McKeown, Druggist, Belleville for booklet, "Why Man of To-day is Only 50 Per Cent. Efficient." They will also be pleased to show and explain the J. B. L. Cascade to you, or write to Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College street, Toronto.

CHAPTER XIII.

The Tall Timbers of Old Harpeth.

At the door of the mansion I was admitted by my good Cato, who was attired in a very long red flannel sleeping garment with a red cap, also of the flannel, tied down upon the white wool of his head.

"De governor is up in his room, and you kin go right up. I never heard of no such doings as is going on in his house dis night with that there wild man with a gun five feet long coming and going like de wind!"

With which information Good Cato started me up the stairs. "First door to the right, front, and don't knock," he called in a whisper that might have come from his tomb in death as he slowly retired into the darkness below with his candle.

"Is that you, Robert?" came a question in Gouverneur Faulkner's voice from a large table over by the window. The room was entirely in shadow except for the shaded light upon the table, under whose rays I remarked the head and shoulders of that Gouverneur Faulkner at whose bidding I had come out into the dead of the night. "Come over here, and walk softly, so as not to stir up Jenkins," he commanded me, and I went immediately to his side, even if I did experience a difficulty in the breath of Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye.

"What is it that you wish, my Gouverneur Faulkner?" I asked as I looked down upon him as he sat with a paper in his hand regarding it intently.

"Sit down here under the light beside me," was his next command to me, and he reached out one of his slender and powerful hands and drew me down into a chair very close beside him.

"What is it?" I asked as my head came so close to his that I felt the warmth of his breath on my cold cheek.

"Hold these two fragments of paper together and translate the French written upon them literally," he said to me as he handed me two small pieces of paper upon which there was writing.

And this is what I discovered to be written:

> Honored Madam—The one at the head of all has sent me to this place to inspect grazing lands and make report. I send in a report of what is not here and the signing of the papers by your Gouverneur Faulkner must be done quickly in blindness before a discovery of what is not—

"It is written to a woman," I said very quietly as I made a finish of reading.

"Yes, boy, to a woman. I have made my last fight to—to hold an old belief, which in some way seemed to be—be one of my foundation stones. The general is right, they are all alike, the soft, beautiful, lying things. The truth is not in them, and their own or a man's honor is a plaything. That piece of paper was sent me by a man up in the mountains of Old Harpeth, who loves me with the same blood bond that I love you, boy, all on account of a gun struck up in the hands of his enemy. Here's the note he sent with it:

> Bill, we cotched a furren man fer a revenue up by the still at Turkey gulch, and this was in his pocket. I made out to read yo' name. I send it. The man is kept tied. What is mules worth? Send price and what to do with this man critter by son Jim. Believe me, they ain't no grazing fer 5,000 mules on Paradise ridge, but I know a place. JIM TODD.

"What is the significance of this paper, my Gouverneur Faulkner?" I asked after I had made the attempt to translate to myself the very peculiar writing he had given to me.

"I do not know just exactly myself, Robert," answered my Gouverneur Faulkner as he dropped his head upon his hands while he rested his elbows on the polished table among its scattered papers. "I am convinced now that this mule contract business is the plot against my honor that the general believes it to be and has been trying to get to a legal surface. In some way Jim Todd has got hold of one end of the conspiracy. It has been hard for me to believe that a woman would sell me out. If I take it to her in the morning I'll perhaps get an explanation that will satisfy me. The men who are in with Jeff Whitworth are the best financiers in the state, and it is impossible to believe that"—

Very suddenly it happened in my heart to know what to compel that very large man beside me to do for the rescue of his honor. He must see the matter not through the lies of that beautiful Madam Whitworth, the instrument of that very ugly husband, but he must look into the matter with his blood friend, that Mr. Jim Todd.

"You must go immediately to that Mr. Jim Todd and his prisoner to discover truth, your excellency," I said, with a very firm determination, as I looked straight into his sad eyes that had in them almost the look of shame for dishonor.

"It's twenty-four hours on horseback across old Harpeth from Springtown, boy. The trip would take three days. I can't do it with these guests here, even if they are robbers. I'll have to stay and dig down to the root of the matter here. I may find it in the hearts of my friends," he answered me, with a look of great despair.

Peterboro, Ont., Feb. 13.—According to the report of H. O. Fiske, manager of the Peterboro Utilities Commission, the power demand for 1920 has shown great improvement over that of 1919. The completion of a new line from Healey Falls has added to the efficiency of the service and only at the low water period last Fall did interruptions in the service occur.

Dealing with the power shortage of later September and early October, Mr. Fiske states that the total loss to Peterboro manufacturers and employees amounted to $379,000.

EASY FOR CORNWALL

Whilst the Belleville intermediate hockey team ewre at the arena here last night defeating Port Hope team, our junior team at Cornwall were subjected to a severe trimming by the team of that town. When the smoke of battle cleared Cornwall team had 10 goals to their credit whilst Belleville had only 1. Belleville landed the opening goal and cut out a fast pace, and Cornwall followers felt doubtful about the result but when the session ended Cornwall led by 4 to 1 which was increased to 7 to 1 in the second period and 10 to 1 in the third period. It was apparent a case of our team being somewhat outclassed naturally Cornwall fans were much elated over the victory secured by their team. A large crowd witnessed the game which was reported to have been clean. Mr. Vanhorne was the referee. The players on the teams was as follows:

Belleville—Hunter, Holway, Canning, Swayne, Coon, Armstrong. Subs—Hagerman and Gover.

Cornwall—Gallinger, E. Contant, Lane, Tilton, Larose, Kinghorn. Subs—McCutcheon, A. Contant and Peny.

Stormy Weather Hard on Baby

The stormy, blustery weather which we have during February and March is extremely hard on children. Conditions make is necesary for the mother to keep them in the house. They are often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and catch colds which rack their whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will not fail to break up colds and keep the health of the baby in good condition till the brighter days come along. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

VOL. LIV. NO. 34. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1921. PRICE TWO CENTS

Hearts are Trumps Today For St. Valentine is Busy

ST. VALENTINE DAY OBSERVED IN BELLEVILLE BY THE YOUNG FOLKS AND CUPID HAD A BUSY DAY PLANTING ANONYMOUS DARTS, AND DARTS NOT ANONYMOUS, IN HEARTS SUSCEPTIBLE AND OTHERWISE — SCHOOL CHILDREN KEPT VALENTINE POST OFFICE WITH CARRIER DELIVERY.

Grown-ups are wont to remark that the children of today are not like the children of yesterday and do not take as much interest in games and sports and fairy tales, but the grown-ups may be mistaken for their vision may be dimmed by distance and lack of the right perspective. Certain it is that the children of today are taking a keen interest in St. Valentine's Day, yes, children, big and little, and the occasion is being used to convey in picture, in verse, in flowers, or bon-bons those endearing sentiments which make the heart go pit-a-pat. In some of the Schools today St. Valentine Post Offices were conducted, with Postmasters, Postmistresses, Mailcarriers, and everything necessary for a first class post office system. The letters were all valentines, made by the children themselves, and everybody received some token of Cupid's regard and St. Valentine's remembrance. Nor were the teachers overlooked, and the regard of the scholars was voiced in hearts and arrows tipped with affection, instead of the ugly old caricatures which in the long ago day of the little red school house sometimes found their way to the teacher's desk as a token of the regard for the strap and cane of painful memory. Times have changed now, and the teacher strives to rule without the rod and instil affection instead of fear.

Many little hearts were fluttering today with the first awakening of love's young dream, not yet realized, but destined some day to burst forth into glorious flame, and the grown-ups can only smile that reminiscent smile as they look back along life's pathway, strewn with roses now faded, but perchance lined with evergreens of beautiful memory, and the joy of the children of today is but an echo of those yesterdays which we all treasure in happy memory.

A DARING WEE FELLOW.

He's a daring wee fellow, this little love saint, St. Valentine; he fears not to play with fire, and bestows his favors broadcast, choosing for play toys the most valuable gifts in the world—human hearts.

All week you've seen his handiwork in shop windows. Kewpies, resplendent in white tissue frocks, embroidered with hearts, have glanced archly at you as you passed them by; other kewpies wore tiny skirts of scarlet satin with quaint beribboned bodices, and, conscious of their fine attire, cast their eyes still more alluringly at passers-by. Cards with sentimental verse and a picture on the cover of "My Lady" in crinoline and poke bonnet, carrying a dainty parasol, compelled your gaze. Turning the folder, you read

THE OLD, OLD STORY.

It's the old, old, old, old story,
And I've read it many times
In words and in books and writing,
In poor and perfect rhymes.
But I will repeat it to you, dear,
And you will believe that it's true,
Just the old, old, old, old story,
And the chorus that 'I love you'."

Cards with queer colored figures, accompanied by comic verse, also 'ha'penny dreadfuls', leered at you, reminiscent—the latter ones—of past valuable services, in showing various teachers their degree of popularity. Further on you spied dainty old-fashioned valentines of paper lace—alas! not so plentiful now as formerly.

In a florist's window the reporter saw the little god of hearts swinging triumphantly in his bow of scarlet. He was minus his arrows, though—shot, mayhap, into the huge heart of scarlet immortelles near by, seemingly awaiting his pleasure. Above a doorway in the same little shop was a banner sign of green immortelles bearing St. Val's modern message to the public—"Say it with flowers."

PAY GERMANY THE SUM OF $5.000,000,000

Washington, Feb. 12.—Purchase by the United States of all German cables and her South African and Pacific Colonies was proposed in a resolution ineroduced to-day by Senator France, Republican, Maryland. It was referred without discussion to the Foreign Relations Committee.

The resolution suggested $5,000,000,000 as the consideration to be credited against the indemnity imposed on Germany. Senator France also proposed an international conference to fix Germany's indemnity at $15,000,000,000.

Parliament Pages Sent Back to School

Toronto, Feb. 14.—Hon. Nelson Parliament, Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, is not at all frightened by the bogy of precedent. When a proposition appeals to him he goes right ahead, indifferent to the protests of scandalized respecters of customs, who assure him that "it isn't done." For years a legislature was not properly equipped unless it had a number of young pages joyously skipping school and earning an honest dollar or two on the side. Educationists have protested regularly and this year Mr. Speaker has put the ban on boys of compulsory school age.

Up to the present a number of lads ranging in age from fourteen to nineteen have been engaged to act as pages and these will do work that was divided among twenty-one boys last year.

STRIKE CALLED BY UNION ON OUT-OF-WORKS

Great Falls, Mont., Feb. 14.—Men put to work by the city at $5 a day to afford relief to local unemployment were called out on strike by the Federal Labor Union, demanding the men be paid $5.50, the union scale.

The workers who were called out numbered less than half a dozen. They were working on the grounds of the city's pumping station when the union's order was received. Mayor Newman was absent from the city and no action was taken toward ending the strike.

13th Parliament Opened Lively Session Anticipated

HON. MACKENZIE KING EXPECTED TO MOVE AN AMENDMENT TO THE ADDRESS CALLING FOR DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT AND AN EARLY ELECTION—MUCH OF PRE-WAR POMP AND DISPLAY FEATURED OPENING.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

OTTAWA, Feb. 14.—The fifth session of the thirteenth Parliament of Canada opened this afternoon in the new Senate Chamber, when the Duke of Devonshire formally opened the session and delivered the speech from the throne.

This session is expected to be full of fight, members of the Opposition being determined, they say, to force an early election, and some of the Government supporters are said to be strongly in favor of early dissolution and an appeal to the country. The first move to this end is expected to come when Hon. Mackenzie King gets the floor tomorrow. He is expected to move an amendment to the address in which he will call for dissolution and an early election. The opening ceremony today was carried out with much of the pre-war pomp and display.

Sinn Fein Attacks Increase Troubled Area Widens

BOMB THROWING AT CARRICKMACROSS — POLICE PATROL ATTACKED — ATTACKS ON CROWN FORCES IN SOUTH AND WEST— BARRICADES AND TRENCHES IN COUNTY MAYO.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

DUBLIN, Feb. 14.—An increase in the number of Sinn Fein attacks against Crown forces and similar outrages in Ireland has been reported during the past week. Official reports today covering the week-end activities deal with outrages not only in Dublin and throughout the south and west, but even in the northern county of Monaghan and north-western part of County Mayo, a region heretofore reported quiet. From two districts in Mayo the police report the finding on Saturday of roads entrenched, with stone barricades erected across highways as if in preparation for ambuscades. One of the reports emanated from Ballaghaderreen, the home of John Dillon. At Macroom, which since the Kilmichel ambush, has been occupied by large forces of auxiliaries, a fusilade was was fired and three bombs were thrown. At Carrickmacross, County Monaghan, an attack was made upon a patrol of ten policemen within a few yards of their barracks.

Tariff Revision Main Business

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Ottawa, Feb 14.—The Federal Department of Labor will take no further action at present in regard to the dispute between the employes and management of the Canadian National Railways arising out of President Hanna's no politics order. When questioned regarding Mr Hanna's refusal to change his policy, Senator Robertson, Minister of Labor, merely stated that the Department was through for the present.

Tariff revision will be the main business of this session it is expected. Apart from that, so far as it is at present indicated, the Government's legislative program is not heavy. Authority may be sought to create a new department dealing with the returned soldiers' problems and known as the Department of Soldiers' Welfare. A copyright Bill is likely to be brought in again. Taken as a whole the session is likely to be characterized by keen betting with the possibility in view of an appeal to the polls. Government supporters are confident, however, of a working majority.

Committees of Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber of Commerce has completed its committee organization for the coming year. With one exception, that of the "Better and More Beautiful Belleville" committee have met and completed plans for the work ahead. Several committees have already been dealing with important assignments, notably the Industrial and Transportation. The personnel and purposes of the committees are as follows:

Sanctioning Committee

To examine into and report upon all schemes for soliciting popular subscriptions for charitable and other purposes and to examine the credentials of those who come to our city with stock-selling and other promotion scheme. The committee is composed of the following gentlemen:

Hugh Hall, chairman; Arthur Jones, H. W. Ackerman, Jamieson Bone, Geo. F. Ostrom.

Forum Committee

The Forum Committee is one of the most important in the organization. Its chief duty is to arrange for and conduct public meetings. Its membership is as follows:

J. L. R. Gorman, chairman; C. J. Symons, vice-chairman; R. D. Ponton, vice-chairman; D. V. Sinclair, Campbell St. Charles, F. C. MacLaurin, S. B. Burrows, F. S. Deacon, H. J. Clarke.

Attendance Committee

The special work of the Attendance Committee is to stimulate interest in public meetings by advertising and other ways and to assist in promoting and maintaining a general interest in the work of the Chamber of Commerce. Each member is supplied with a list of ten names and he is supposed to call each of these by telephone on the day preceding meetings in order to secure a personal promise of attendance. The work of this committee up-to-date this season has been important and most satisfactory in results. It is the largest committee of the whole organization and its membership is as follows:

Chas. T. Dolan, chairman; F. P. Carney, Douglas Reid, E. H. Liddle, F. S. Anderson, P. F. Brockel, Hope McGinnis, Harry Pringle, H. Cummings, B. F. Jennings, E. D. Finkle, John Henley, J. T. Recreation Committee

The Recreation Committee has to centralize and co-ordinate all efforts to promote manly sport about the city and to see that the people of the city are provided with suitable facilities for recreation and amusement. In the Program of Work for 1921 the Recreation Committee has some highly important duties to perform. It is composed of:

It is composed of:

L. W. Marsh, chairman; R. D. Ponton, Jamieson Bone, Mayor Hanna, Ald. S. J. Fisher, W. B. Deacon, O. H. Scott, W. C. Springer, R. J. Graham, H. Sanders, W. J. Hume, L. E. Allen.

Grand Total $71,844,789 U.F.O. Government Outlay

STATEMENT SHOWS INCREASE IN ORDINARY EXPENDITURE OF $4,500,000 FOR 1919-20 AND JUMP IN DIRECT LIABILITIES OF PROVINCE OF APPROXIMATELY $30,000,000.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—A deficit on current account of slightly over $800,000, an increase in ordinary expenditures of approximately $4,500,000, and a jump in the direct liabilities of the Province of approximately $30,000,000, are three of the items contained in the statement that Hon. Peter Smith, Provincial Treasurer will have to make to the House on Tuesday next, when he presents his second budget address. Last year, the Treasurer presented a budget that dealt entirely with the administration of the late Hearst Government and the financial statement to be submitted next week is the first idea the Province is given of the manner in which the Drury Government has been handling Provincial finances. Yesterday the Treasurer, true to his promise of some days ago had the public accounts laid on the table of the House and Members going home for the week-end were supplied with copies to enable them to digest the contents thoroughly.

It has been the general impression that the Government has been spending money much more freely than its predecessor and the accounts bear it out. In practically every department with one or two unimportant exceptions, expenditure has far out-stripped that of the previous year and only substantial gains in revenue enabled the Treasurer to escape with a deficit under the million mark. For the last year of the Hearst Government the total ordinary expenditure as reported by Mr. Smith last session was $21,464,574, and this year the total was $25,880,843. The revenue total a year ago was $19,904,772, and this past year $25,078,094.

Increases General

The increases were general. Civil government cost $1,421,868, compared with $1,165,864, in 1918-19. Administration of justice went from $653,530 to $795,993. Very large increases were made under educational headings the total for the year being $4,913,146, where last year $3,302,487 was spent, it cost the Province $3,399,021 to maintain the public institutions, an increase of over $700,000. The new Department of Labor and Health, spent $405,364. Highway maintenance cost the Province $836,757 while $460,588 was paid into the teachers' superannuation fund, both of these being largely new expenditures. The Government cut down materially on ordinary expenditure on public buildings and public works.

The big expenditures of the year were for capital expenditure, the Hydro-Electric Commission receiving something over $18,000,000 of which $6,000,000 was advanced on special warrants. The Treasurer also retired over $20,000,000 of Provincial loans and treasury stock and advanced to municipalities under the Housing Act, $4,236,708. To take care of the heavy capital expenditure and to retire accruing indebtedness, Hon. Mr. Smith during the year borrowed approximately $47,000,000 on Ontario bonds in addition to $4,250,000 secured from the Dominion Government in connection with the Housing Act.

The public accounts this year, the first prepared under the direction of the new Provincial Auditor, Gordon A. Brown, contain a number of improvements that will make it vastly easier for the members to get an idea of the intricate finances of the Province than with the old accounts, one of the improvements being the presentation of capital and current expenditures in parallel columns in the one statement, showing the amount applied to current and to capital under each heading. Hitherto entirely separate statements have been given for capital and current outlay.

Gives Judgment Against Bank For $205,943.37

C. H. Cahan, Sr. Is Successful in Suit for Huge Amount.

Montreal, Que., Feb12.—By judgment of Mr Justice MacLennan in superior court, rendered this afternoon, C. H. Cahan, senior, is successful in his action against the Home Bank of Canada for $205,943.37, with interest from the date of action, with costs.

The judgment is the culmination of a tragedy which has been the talk of social and business circles for over a year. One morning Mr. Cahan, senior one of the most learned and respected members of the Montreal bar, and a former leader of the opposition in Nova Scotia, who had been away for two months, and had left in the Bank of Montreal deposits aggregating $25,000, was surprised upon calling on the bank that his account was overdrawn for about the same amount he had left at the time of his departure.

Before leaving, as appeared by facts revealed at the trial, Mr. Cahan, senior, had given a power of attorney to his son, C. H. Cahan, junior.

It was the misuse of this power of attorney and to the fact that Cahan jr., was a director of the Corporation Securities, Limited, a company controlled by his father, and through "kyting," by means of several accounts in banks, young Cahan secured over $400,000 which belonged to his father. Of these amounts there were drawn through the Home Bank of Canada ninety-four cheques, representing the amount of the judgment which has just rendered in Mr. Cahan's favor.

The judgment says in part: "I accept the evidence of Mr. Cahan, Sr., that at some time the defendant's manager informed C. H. Cahan, Jr., that the deposit of plaintiff's cheques and the proceeds of which were put to the credit of his own account with the defendant, had to be discontinued, the form of the cheques, the gradual increases in the number and in the amounts for which they were drawn, would naturally excite the suspicion of a bank manager of ordinary experience and intelligence.

W. K. McKeown and Aime Geoffrion, K.C., authorize the statement that the judgment would be appealed immediately by the bank to the court of King's Bench, and if necessary, would be taken to the privy council.

REGARDING SUN-SPOTS

ASTRONOMERS' NEW THEORY OF SOLAR PHENOMENA.

It Is Thought That Dark Splotches Which Telescopes Reveal on Flaming Surface May Be Caused by Whirlpool Motion In Gases That Surround the Great Planet.

ASTRONOMERS have a new theory regarding sun spots which may solve the mystery of these solar phenomena. changes in human thought and mode of life. Some of these have become so firmly incorporated in our environment that we have hardly known their origin or history and rarely consider what we would do if they did not exist. Perhaps theoretical and applied electricity is one of the most striking examples of these, having brought such wonderful results that one can hardly realize their ramifications.

Yet, measured in terms of the duration of human history, all electrical knowledge is recent and most of the practical applications were made within the memory of those who are near the man's allotted three-score years and ten. In Denmark there has just been celebrated the 100th anniversary of Oersted's discovery of the relationship between electric and magnetic phenomena. A few years after Oersted's work Henry and Faraday laid the foundation for the marvels to be accomplished in applied electricity. Less than fifty years ago the first power motor made in America was completed and one of the designers is still at work and many of the pioneers in the development of the arc and the incandescent lamp and of the telephone are living.

Twenty-five years ago this month there was announced a new wonder, the culmination of a long series of experiments, the starting point of a new line of endeavor, giving rise to concepts unrivaled in scope and daring, curiously enough resulting in theories strangely related to those of the master mind of Franklin.

A careful and well-trained observer, already well known in his chosen field, Roentgen not only announced a type of radiation whose existence had not been suspected, but he described with wondrous simplicity and clearness experiments performed to ascertain its nature and to properly place it in the scheme of physical science.

Briefly stated Roentgen showed that these rays were produced by electric discharge through a highly exhausted tube. They were able to excite fluorescent light in certain materials and to affect a photographic plate. They were not refracted or reflected, were propagated in straight lines, were able to produce secondary rays possessing like properties. Materials varied in transparency to this radiation somewhat in the order of their densities. In his first announcement he was not certain as to the point of origin of the rays or the basic mechanism of their production. He used an induction coil and, initially, tubes that had, of course, been designed to demonstrate previously known phenomena. In fact, the presence of a card covered with crystals often used inside cathode ray tubes led to the discovery.

Eighteenth years after Roentgen's discovery, or in 1913, began what may be designated as the recent period, due to two remarkable discoveries or developments. One, the hot cathode tube of Coolidge; the other, diffraction of X-rays and resulting interference phenomena by Laue. The former gave us a tube of stable and reproducible performance; the other not only indicated the nature of X-rays, but has proved a powerful tool in their application.

Do not conclude that nothing was accomplished in preparation for these results in the interim between 1895 and 1913. For, starting with Roentgen's experiments, there followed the discovery of radioactivity, ultimately resulting in the electron theory of electricity, or, perhaps, one should say of matter, and the Coolidge tube may be said to be a most perfect application of these new developments.

The Coolidge tube, when the anode is cold, that is, below a few hundred degrees centigrade, permits a current to pass in only one direction, in other words, is self-rectifying. Early in 1917 Dr. Coolidge undertook to develop a tube primarily for army use, utilizing this principle and eliminating the synchronously driven switch. In order to carry away the heat developed at the anode he returned to the use of a tungsten button set in copper and utilized in outside radiator also previously employed. This tube was soon known as "the radiator type Coolidge," and was used in the United States army portable and bedside outfits. Its performance marked a new era in medical Roentgenology. On account of their small size and the simplicity of operation they are likely to displace the "interrupterless transformer" except for therapy. What the future holds for this field one hardly dares to predict.

Laue conceived the idea that each atom might reflect a minute wave element, and the regular arrangement of atoms might constitute a space-grating for these very short wave lengths. A simple way of illustrating this will be to build the ratio of fifty million to one. This shows the uniform spacing along lines and that parallel planes may be passed that contain regular atomic patterns.

Many applications depend on this diffraction of crystals. For in this way we may ascertain two very important things, (1) the presence of elements by identification of their emission or absorption of X-ray spectra or (2) the presence and type of crystalline structure.

Thus the crystal X-ray spectrometer gave us a knowledge of the X-ray spectrum and its variation with voltage; then, combined with other methods, the rays verified the assumed nature of crystal structure.

SIGNAL SECTION

On Thursday evening a meeting was held in the Town Hall to discuss the formation and organization of the Signal Section which is now in process of formation here. Those present were young men of the town who are interested in this branch of the service. They were able to gain all the information they required from Capt. S. A. Lee, M.C., who is in charge of the organization of the Signal Service in Military District No. 3. Capt. Lee pointed out that whatever else the young men of Napanee gained it was all to the good of the Militia but as Signals happened to be his branch of the service he was there to explain the details and workings of the Signal Service, and to give them any information they wished to know about that branch of the army. Capt. Bradley also spoke of the social organization that would be run in connection with the section. This officer, with the aid of Sgt. Harry Leaks, should make it very interesting and pleasant for the members of this section. All those present expressed their intention of joining "Signals." Napanee Beaver.

POSTUM CEREAL
Trial tells—
"There's a Reason"

MRS. H. O. PETERS, of Kansas City, Mo., whose experience with Tanlac has been nothing less than wonderful, declares her husband. After her improvement he takes it himself and his health is also restored.

"One day a friend persuaded my wife to take Tanlac and the results have been nothing less than wonderful. Her troubles have not only entirely disappeared, but she has actually gained twenty pounds in weight and now seems to be in perfect health. She has suffered for eight years with headaches, nervousness and loss of appetite and was in a badly run-down condition. She could not eat much, had pains all through her body and limbs and was so weak at times she could hardly stand on her feet. She was losing weight and gradually getting worse all the time in spite of all we could do.

After seeing the splendid results my wife was getting I began taking Tanlac myself and before I had finished my second bottle, I was eating things I had not dared touch before in a long time. I am now eating just anything set before me and my appetite is fine. I suffered for five years with the worst kind of stomach trouble and nervous indigestion, but it has relieved me entirely. We both owe Tanlac a great debt of gratitude."

The above enthusiastic statement was made recently by Herbert O. Peters, well known citizen of Kansas City, Missouri, residing at 534 Walnut street.

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store, and by the leading druggists in every town.

Transportation

The Transportation Committee already has in charge a number of important problems and is energetically pressing them to a conclusion. The Whitney railway connection is being dealt with by this committee and tangible results have already been seen. The members are as follows:

J. S. Higgs, chairman; W. E. Schuster, E. Gus Porter, W. C. Mikel, T. H. Coppin, A. P. Allen, H. F. Ketcheson, Geo. F. Ostrom, Thos. Marshall.

Beautiful Belleville

This is a new committee as far as the Chamber of Commerce is concerned, but it will also be one of the most important in the coming year's work. Belleville has hardly made a beginning as far as beautifying the city is concerned and a committee of this nature is badly needed. It will also deal with such problems as law-enforcement and civic life. Its members are:

Ald. S. J. Fisher, chairman; W. N. Ponton, John Elliott, W. N. Belair, Beaumont Jarvis, A. Y. Snider, W. B. Deacon, Allan Harper, L. L. Moore, G. A. Bennett, N. D. MacFadyen, Dr. M. A. Day, W. S. Clarke, F. D. Diamond, Rev. Geo. Marshall, Rev. Dr. S. Cleaver, A. J. Boyes, T. Blackburn, A. R. Symons, F. H. Henry.

Membership and Finance

The purpose of this committtee is to see about the securing of new members and the retention of old members, also to make sure that the finances of the Chamber of Commerce are maintained in a healthy condition. This committee has an energetic chairman and will no doubt give a good account of itself in its exceedingly important work this coming year. Its personnel is:

W. A. Parker, chairman; Geo. A. Reid, T. Blackburn, J. A. Kerr, J. F. Hinchey, Fred B. Smith, R. S. Lewis, C. M. Reid, W. O. Adams, F. M. Barrett, J. H. Ives.

Social and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Devinney, Vernonville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Myrtle Irene, to Mr. Curt E. Ventress of Colborne. The wedding to take place about the middle of February.

Mr. A. R. Thompson, of Toronto, who is connected with the G. T. R., was in the city today.

Messrs. James and Charles Wills, of Toronto, who were called home here owing to the serious illness of their mother, Mrs. C. J. Wills, have returned to the Queen City. Mrs. Wills' condition is much improved.

Music and Drama

HERBERT'S GREATER MINSTRELS

This, the most novel of all minstrel shows, will be the attraction at Griffin's Friday, February 18th for one night only.

If there is such a thing as diversion from the old time minstrel that you have saw in the past, you will be sure to find it with this organization, that is composed entirely of negro talent, and is conceded to be the peek of all colored minstrel shows.

A delightfully blended performance, including the good of the past, the better of the present, and the best of the future, and chock full of pep, is a guarantee that you will be given an evening of wholesome amusement. The company is headed by the two best mirth provoking, sorrow dispelling comedians in the negro profession, Lester Carter and Harry Anderson, assisted by 30 others. The performance is replete with pleasing surprises, as out of the ordinary, and coming in such quick succession, that it takes the form of a rapid fire production, and there is not one dull moment, for every tick of the clock, will ring you a laugh. Too much can not be said of the singing contingent with this show, for it is a fact, that all of the best of the warblers of the sunny south are under the Herbert banner, and it has been established that for harmony none such can be found as that rendered by the negro race. The Herbert comedy four will carry you with them on their melody waves. The company numbers 40 people, carry a crack band, and give a parade at noon. Be sure to see the Great Adams with the parade. He will please you.

MADGE KENNEDY IN "THE BLOOMING ANGEL"

Dealing with a high-brow husband and a live wire wife, "The Blooming Angel" which is the feature offering at Griffin's To-night to Wednesday breaks loose at a laundry machine, runs the gauntlet of a big facial cream advertising campaign and winds up with a pink elephant and a red-letter day.

Sounds seductive, doesn't it, well it is when Madge Kennedy, as Florabel Brannon, breaks the peace of Dyak University, as its most giggly cut-up and is fired as a result, we know that steam is up.

Some story, you will say. Wallace Irwin is the lightning bolt of fun-fiction who wrote "The Blooming Angel" and when he struck the pages of the Saturday Evening Post with it, he rocked the country with laughter.

A two-reel Capitol comedy, Paramount Magazine, and Eileen Percy in "The Third Eye" are also being exhibited on the same program.

HERE THERE AND EVERYWHERE

PORT HOPE COCKEY

Speaking of the hockey game played in Belleville Friday evening the Port Hope Guide says:

Are we downhearted? No! Never! It is an old adage with sporting organizations that a team must have one night off. Unfortunately for the Ontarios that "off night" came in Belleville and this, connected with all kinds of hard luck, handed us a real bad trouncing. We don't know, neither do the players know, what was wrong, but there was a hoodo some place. Had the boys played the same brand of hockey they did against Oshawa we would have romped home from Belleville with the big end of the score. It was only in the second period that they played up to form, and during that twenty minutes they made Belleville stand still and scored four goals to their opponents' one. In the other two periods they seemed all at sea and their work was not effective. While we do not wish to criticize, still it is only fair to remind the players that the two first goals in the third period were scored by Belleville while Port Hope men were viewing the game in the penalty box. Games cannot be won in the penalty box, and the players must realize this fact.

Belleville has the hockey bug the same as Port Hope, and long before the hour for starting the rink was packed to the doors. The band was in attendance and while they may have had a varied program of selections they contented themselves with playing "Hail, Hail, The Gang's All Here." Most of us realized this in craning our necks to get a glimpse of the struggle. In the first period our boys either suffered from stage fright or something equally as bad, and it was only the brilliant work of Joe Micks in goal that saved us from an overwhelming defeat. Three minutes after play commenced Belleville, after a heavy bombardment of our goal, drew the initial score. Eight minutes later we tied it up but the remainder of the period was all Belleville, and they banged in three more. It was in the second period that the red and white showed their old-time form. They simply swept down the ice three abreast and made the old net bulge. Back they came again, and made the score 4 to 3 Then Belleville scored and two minutes later the white flag waved at our goal and the score was Belleville 5, Port Hope 4. Four minutes to go in this period and you should have heard those fifty stalwart supporters from Port Hope yell. The Chief of Police said it broke all records. But that goal didn't come, and the final period was disastrous. Two minutes after the opening of the third period Belleville had notched two goals, and the Port Hope team seemed completely demoralized. Belleville pressed hard and in short order added three more. With only five minutes to go. Port Hope scored two. This finished the scoring and the game ended in a ten to six victory for Belleville.

The round covered rink proved quite a handicap to the Ontarios. The Belleville wing men carried the puck down the side and instead of passing it to centre ice would shoot it into the corner. The round corners would throw it out directly in front of the goal and there was always one or two Belleville men on the job to bat it into the nets. Many of their goals were scored on this system of play.

A four-goal lead looks like a mountain, but last night the Ontarios scored four goals in ten minutes, and you recall how they registered three goals in as many minutes against Oshawa here. They may repeat that next Monday night, and if they do the Ontarios will still be in the running.

HOCKEY

Mayor Wilson of Gananoque is endeavoring to have the winners in the hockey league of the northern section of Leeds county play the final game with Seeley's Bay at Gananoque. Whether he will be successful or not depends upon the ice conditions and whether terms satisfactory to the teams can be arranged.

PORT HOPE GUIDE:

Belleville will be here on Monday night for the return game. They will bring a large crowd of supporters, and they have made the boast that they can trim us right on our own ice. They will find the absence of the round corners a great handicap and many who witnessed last night's game pick Port Hope to win not only the game but the round. It will be a real contest.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME

The Belleville intermediate team, accompanied by many admirers from the city, went to Port Hope this afternoon where they will play this evening. As our boys have a lead of four goals it is confidently expected that they will not only retain the lead but increase it.

The Cornwall junior team arrived here at noon to-day and at the Arena to-night will try conclusions with Belleville junior team. This will no doubt prove to be an interesting game.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Lung Health and Pneumonia Prevented

MONDAY HEALTH TALK No. 10

By WM. P. REDICK, D.C. Ph. C.

When the temperature inside the house is seventy or better and outdoors the mercury is flirting with the zero mark, it takes a vigorous body to resist the sudden change and fight off coughs, colds, bronchial and lung troubles. Let a cold begin to settle deep in the lungs and it is time to take the most vigorous measures to prevent pneumonia—the most dreaded and fatal of acute lung diseases.

Nine Reasons Why Spinal Neglect is a crime

1. The backbone is the foundation of the body.
2. It is composed of 26 joints, 24 of which are movable.
3. From between these joints radiate the nerves of the body.
4. When these joints are in alignment the nerve openings are full sizes and the nerves deliver 100% of their power
5. A nerve under pressure at the backbone opening causes disease in the part it serves.
6. Chiropractic removes the pressure by an adjustment by hand, and this adjustment opens the way for health (free nerve energy)
7. If chiropractic seems too simple to do all that it can do, remember that every phenomena of growth is caused by as simple a thing as heat.
8. To neglect the backbone invites disease, which is a crime because it is in violation of Nature's laws.
9. Don't be a criminal.

Chill and rapid rise in temperature is almost a sure forerunner of pneumonia. The pulse is rapid and the breathing shallow and jerky, with expirations noisy and prolonged. Coughing is frequent. When there is a decrease in the frequence in coughing it is a bad sign. The chiropractor finds pressure on spinal nerves in the dorsal region, nerve tenderness in the region of the nipples, and a subnormal flow of nerve impulse to the kidneys. Spinal adjustments have an immediate tonic effect, and when action is prompt, is followed by good results and a rapid recovery.

BACK TO HEALTH.

"My gratitude is for chiropractic. I suffered agony. Was spitting blood. I had four different doctors, then chiropractic adjustments. There was a difference almost immediately. Now I am well and I feel better than I ever did."—Mrs. Hazel Painter, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1081.

"MUCH SURPRISED" CITY OFFICIALS OUSTED BY WOMEN.

Pessimists who predicted that, once women were given the vote, they would soon chase mere men into political extinction, may "point with alarm" to the recent feminine revolution in Yoncalla, Oregon. The women of the little town have risen in their wrath, stirred by the alleged inefficiency of the municipal officials, and swept every masculine officeholder out of his job. Five representatives of the gentler sex now control the destinies of Yoncalla. The women worked secretly, and when the blow fell, on election day, the superseded mayor and his ousted assistants were too much shocked to make any statement beyond admitting that they were "much surprised." The town has a population of 323, according to the 1920 census, in which the men outnumber the women by almost two to one, but the women persuaded so many of the sterner sex of the justice of their cause that their all-woman ticket was elected by a safe majority. They are now starting in to show the native residents "how a town should be governed," reports a writer in the Portland Oregonian. He observes further:

Their policy, in a general way, according to their announcements, will be to depart just as far as possible from the methods and measures of their male predecessors.

The triumph of the women at the polls was a noteworthy coup. They were dissatisfied with the way things had been running along and they decided to elect their own officials. At first the plan was whispered only among a small group of leading spirits. Then it was broadened until practically all the women in the city were party to it. That their husbands, brothers, and sons were kept in the dark may be accepted as proving the falsity of that moss-grown libel that a woman can not keep a secret. Even up to the morning of election day the male residents who had heard inklings of the scheme did not take it seriously, and there was genuine surprise, not to say consternation, when the votes were counted and it was found the women had won out by a safe majority over the incumbent officials, all of whom were candidates for re-election.

The women had a good many grievances. They maintained that the mayor and councilmen were not progressive; that they were letting the streets and sidewalks go unrepaired; that the lighting facilities were inadequate; that no effort was made to check automobile speeders, and that affairs generally were not what they should be in an up-to-date and forward-looking community. They might have summed it all up by saying that the officials were lazy, so far as public business went, but they put it more diplomatically.

The new officials are the real leaders among the women of the city. Mrs. Mary Burt, elected mayor, is a native Oregonian who has lived in Yoncalla for forty years. She is a university graduate of 1879 and has long been active in the affairs of the town. She is a Republican.

No one in Yoncalla was more surprised at the turn of events than Jesse R. Lasswell, the retiring mayor. This surprise was due in no small part to the fact that Mrs. Lasswell was elected to the council. The mayor says he had no knowledge of the step to overthrow his administration, let alone the fact that his wife was on the opposing ticket.

Other women elected to the council were Mrs. Edith R. Thompson, wealthy property-owner and active in women's clubs; Mrs. Bernice Wilson, pioneer school teacher, wife of the Yoncalla postmaster, and Mrs. Nettie Hannan, wife of a retired capitalist.

After the first surprise Mayor Lasswell congratulated the victors and said they would have the assistance and advice of the retiring officials, although he did not believe they would need it. Mrs. Burtt, mayor-elect, says the women are not yet ready to announce their policies for promoting the welfare of the city.

"We intend to study conditions and do all in our power to give Yoncalla a good, efficient government," she asserted. "At the worst we can't do much worse than the men have done."

The women will go about their new duties in a serious frame of mind, for they believe that the success or failure will be watched with interest by their newly enfranchised sisters in all parts of the country.

MOTOR TRAILERS TO SOLVE TRANSPORTATION.

Every car on a passenger or freight train is a "trailer." No one would think of providing a separate locomotive for each car; on the contrary, we have in America the longest and heaviest trains and the most powerful locomotives in the world. It is strange that the application of this principle to highway transportation has been so tardy of recognition. Now that it has begun, it is spreading with a rush, helped on by powerful motor trucks and smooth, hard surface roads. The single motor truck with its one trailer is now no uncommon sight, and longer trains may become familiar in the future. Harry Wilkin Perry, who writes on the subject in The American Exporter (New York), believes that trailers will help to solve the transportation problem all over the world:

"Railroad service has broken down under the strain of the last five years and older methods of transportation by animal power have been hopelessly outdistanced by the march of progress in industry and commerce. As a result, manufacturers, merchants, and farmers are turning to the motor vehicle. But there are not enough trucks to meet the demand; furthermore, the cost of haulage by motor truck is high, due mainly to lack of good highways, high drivers' wages, and the high price of gasoline.

"A partial solution is being found in many places by the use of the trailer with motor trucks, tractors and passenger automobiles. By doubling or tripling the hauling capacity of the motor-truck, at only slightly increased operating expense, the trailer makes it possible to transport a greater tonnage in a given time and to cut the ton-mile cost almost in half.

"Trailers are now made in a great variety of types and sizes and are used in almost every industry. More are used in the lumber business than in any other one industry. The iron and steel trade employs a large number, farmers and dairymen use a great many, and others are used by meat-packers, contractors, the building trade, ice and ice cream companies, the automobile industry, city departments, general haulage companies, motor truck express operators, and by manufacturers of furniture, textiles, paper, boxes and barrels, machinery, and other articles.

"In the United States, where from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 passenger motor-cars are owned by farmers, the light two-wheel trailer is much used for hauling farm-products to market behind runabouts and touring cars. Among the many advantages of this method of marketing are that the horse can be kept at work in the field, that a woman does not mind driving the car, and that fruit, berries and vegetables arrive in fresher and better condition. The trailer can be attached and detached instantly and does not interfere with the customary use of the machine for passenger purposes.

"Drawing of a trailer increases the consumption of fuel by 10 to 20 per cent., according to conditions, adds slightly to tire wear, and slows the rate of speed about one-fifth. But doubling of the tonnage hauled per trip much more than offsets the additional operating expense.

"The United States seems to be the only country in which the advantages of the semi-trailer are widely understood. One grocery company, operating forty retail stores in New Jersey, operates thirty-six six-ton semi-trailers with twenty five-ton tractors, and estimates that it saves a total of $28,800 a year by eliminating loss of time of tractors and drivers. The load capacity of a truck is easily doubled and commonly tripled by the use of a semi-trailer."

CRISP COMMENT

Labor says we are in favor of a protective tariff, but—; the farmers say there must be a tariff, but—; the Liberals have accepted the protective tariff to get a place in the federal contests, but they add a "but" also. These attitudes create lack of confidence among manufacturers. The National Liberal and Conservative party unhesitatingly affirms its stand for a protective tariff that will stimulate industry and keep Canadian workmen busy. Which is the most confident tone among the parties?—Kingston Whig.

OTHER VIEWS

MR. HARDING'S MESSAGE

London Chronicle

Mr. Harding's letter to the chairman of the Board of Governors of the Sulgrave Institute is one of the most definite declarations that has come from him since he won the Presidential election. The Sulgrave Institute, as everyone knows, exists to promote good feeling and mutual sympathy between the English-speaking peoples. Mr. Harding gives it his emphatic blessing; and after affirming his desire for "united and unshakeable friendship, understanding, and oneness of purpose" between us, he concludes with a remarkable sentence. "I believe," he says, "that when the wisdom of America is summoned to assist the world in building a workable as distinguished from bungling, agreement or association for the prevention of war, the unity of the English-speaking peoples will play no small part; not to invade the rights or exclude the fellowship of other nations, but to protect and include them."

Here, it will be seen, are two forecasts of Mr. Harding's Presidential policy. First that he will bring the United States to the world's aid for the framing of an "agreement or association for the prevention of war." This will not, of course, be President Wilson's League of Nations, which Mr. Harding, as a good party Republican, calls a "bungling" plan; but it will be a "workable" scheme to attain the same paramount purpose. And, secondly, Mr. Harding looks to the unity of the English-speaking peoples to play a great (though naturally in no sense an exclusive) part in making the scheme a success. These declarations exclude the idea that America under Mr. Hardings leadership will play a "lone hand" in world politics; they exclude equally the idea of her playing an anti-British hand.

POETS' CORNER

THE MOTE

Americans we were, a little group
Around a table in a festive room,
Conversing lightly on a fruitful theme—
Our country; and as little logical
As patriots of other lands who boast
Each of his own. (A mother on her babe,
Or lover on his sweetheart newly won
May turn more often a discerning eye)
The name of our good neighbor, Canada,
Came into our discussion, and I heard
A woman say, I find Canadians
Too egotistical! They think themselves
The best, and bravest, and most eminent,
In all achievement, most intelligent,
And altogether greatest of the race
In all the world!" Indulgently I smiled—
"Can we condemn them? Do not we ourselves Think likewise of ourselves?" In quick surprise,
Her look rebuked me. "But we are!" she said.

The beauty of the morning's ray
On hills of dream is made.

Eyes—Right!

There's a sunny side to the darkest road
On the difficult journey of life:
There are golden hours when we slip off the load
Of the blackest hours of strife.

Yet some queer folk seem to like the gloom
And the discord of strain and stress
They look upon life as a step to the tomb
And the world as a wilderness.

Life's much what we make it: then let us steep
Our hearts in the joys that last;
And if sorrow assails us we still may keep
The gold of glad days that are past!

The Polar Bear.

Polar bears depend largely on hair seal for food, but eat also seaweed, grass, small fish and walrus. They fight mostly with their teeth, not with their paws, as do other bears. Their size is often enormous, some skins measuring as much as 13 feet long. The polar bear does not climb trees. The female hibernates only to have young, while the male will stay out to hunt food for the mother. His color is almost that of the snow. The one black spot is his nose which causes him much inconvenience as, for instance, when he lies down at a seal air-hole to wait for his prey to come up for air. He has to put one of his big white paws over his nose, so that there is no unusual color to attract the seal's attention and scare him away.—C. F., in the Beaver.

A Centenarian Pioneer.

"Grandpapa" Peter McLeod, one of the pioneers of Western Canada, has celebrated his one hundredth birthday at his home in Winnipeg. The rigorous climate of the Canadian prairie has evidently agreed with this hardy Scot. Another fine old, if more youthful pioneer of the West is Mr. J. Lowe, who went to Minnesota from Scotland thirty-eight years ago, and from there migrated to Grand Prairie, in the Peace River district of Western Canada. Mr. Lowe, true to type, has worked hard and by dint of faithful effort has acquired a large ranch which is exceptionally valuable.

Discipline.

TABERNACLE SERVICES

Large congregations greeted Mr Dixon, the Irish Soldier Evangelist, at the Tabernacle Methodist Church yesterday, both morning and evening. They listened with intense interest to the strong, yet heart-touching gospel message, delivered in a fluent, earnest manner. In the morning the evangelist spoke of the little nameless maid that waited upon Naaman's wife, and the lessons of her fidelity and faith, but especially the truth that the least of us can serve in the very situation in which we live our life. At the evening service Mr. Dixon based his sermon on the parable of the lost coin. As was the coin, so is unsaved man—lost, out of place, separated. As the woman sought the coin, so in like manner does God seek man. He goes forth with the lighted candle of truth, seeking diligently, and sometimes finds it necessary to sweep the house, sweeping away somethings held very dear. These messages made deep impressions on the large assembly.

FINED $200 AND COSTS

Magistrate Masson and J. F. W. Walmsley J.P. this morning occupied seats upon the bench and tried a liquor case. "The root of the matter is that man who is a prisoner, my Gouverneur Faulkner. I say that you go; that you start while yet it is night and while no man can advise you not to take that journey. It can be done while this entertainment to the farm of the Brices is made for the inspection of mules and also the running of horses. It is necessary." As I spoke to him in that manner a great force rose in me that I poured out to him through my eyes.

"Great heavens, boy, I believe I'll do it. I could never get anything if I went when they knew I was going, but I might find out the whole thing if I went to it in secret. If I go now they'll not have time to get their breath before I am back. I'll be able to think out there in those hills, and I'm—a—man who needs to think, with a vision unobscured." For a long minute my Gouverneur Faulkner sat with his head bowed in his hands as he rested his elbows on that table, then he rose to his feet. "Let's get away while it is still the dead of night, Robert. I'll leave a note with Cato to tell the general that I've taken you, and nobody except himself must know where I have gone or why. He'll put up the right bluff, and we'll be back before they get anything out of him. It's 3 o'clock, and we must be far out on the road by daybreak. We'll take your car and leave it in hiding in Springtown, where by sunup we'll get horses to cross the mountains."

"You must go immediately."

"Is it that I must go for three days out into those mountains with you, my Gouverneur Faulkner?" faltered that ridiculous and troublesome Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye.

"Why, no, Robert, unless—unless—oh, well, I suppose this prisoner of Jim's can speak English, as they all can. I rather wanted you, but perhaps it is best for me to fight it out alone. Will you help me pack a bag? Get the one from my dressing room while I take a plunge."

"I discovered a gray flannel shirt."

"Quick, Robert Carruthers, make an excuse to that Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, who is of such a foolishness, that you must go with your beloved Gouverneur Faulkner for his aid," I said to myself.

"It is necessary that your foreign secretary accompany you to deal with that gentleman of France who is in prison, my Gouverneur Faulkner," I said with decision as I rose from the side of the table with a great quickness. "I must return home for a few necessities of my toilet for those three days, but I will be back in what that good Kizzie says to be a jiffy, when speaking of cooking that is delayed."

"Won't be time for you to go home, boy," he answered me, looking at a clock upon the mantel over his large fireplace. "You are still in your evening clothes, I see. But that's easy. You climb into that pink coat and a pair of those corduroy trousers of mine you see hanging in my dressing room. I haven't hunted for two years, but they are still there. Put linen in that saddlebag on the shelf for us both out of the drawers in the old chest over there. Take heavy socks to go under the leggings. You'd better put on a flannel shirt, too, and take an extra one for both of us. We'll travel light. I'll only be in the bath a couple of minutes." With which assurance he entered the room of the bath and closed the door upon me.

"Mon Dieu, Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye!" was all that I allowed

NORRIS GOVERNMENT WITHOUT AUTHORITY

Winnipeg, Feb., 12.—The first session of the sixteenth Legislature of Manitoba opened under peculiar circumstances. The Liberal Government of Hon. T. C. Norris controls only 21 votes in a Legislature of 55 seats, but is the largest of any of the political groups in the House. Independent Farmers are next with 17 members. Laborites have 10 and Conservatives 7. Three of the Labor members are serving prison terms in connection with the famous Winnipeg general strike of 1919. It is expected that the Independent Farmers will support the Government on important divisions during the present session at all events.

Amethyst, the February birthstone, loved for its brilliancy and richness of color, is yet within the reach of even a slender pocket book.

This stone is a variety of quartz, owes its beautiful coloring to a trace of mangahese or peroxide of iron; was supposed by the Ancients to preserve from inebrety and contagion and symbolizes deep and lasting affection.

It comes in dainty finger rings La Vallieres and pendants in Silver and Gold.

GOSSIP FROM PARIS.

Some of the Effects of House Shortage in France.

The great difficulty in finding lodgings in Paris has been the cause of many unusual incidents recently.

Divorced persons seeking separate apartments are having such difficulty in finding them that, in one case at least, they composed their temperamental differences in order to keep their old apartment.

A painter and his wife who had been divorced by mutual agreement were both looking for apartments. Frequently their paths crossed in their search for quarters. The first time they met they bowed gravely, but politely. Their mutual smile gradually broadened as the hunt for flats narrowed down to a few hovels in the slum section.

"Let's kiss and make up and go back to our flat," the wife finally said; and they did.

President Millerand, who recently took possession of the Elysee Palace, received forty-one applications for his apartment on the Avenue de Villars.

Henri Landru, who has been in La Sante Prison for the past twenty months awaiting trial on charges growing out of the disappearance of eleven women, recently was dispossessed from the flat that he had occupied on the Boulevard Rochechouart, a rather sordid section of Paris. Requests came from every quarter in Paris, some even from aristocratic Auteuil, asking that the flat be reserved.

A vagrant just finishing thirty days in La Sante Prison told his cellmate, under sentence of five years for swindling, that he dreaded to return to cold, dreary Paris. He was homeless, and the prospect of spending the winter night under Paris bridges did not appeal to him. The prisoners exchanged clothing and cards of identity, and when the warder called for the vagrant to send him out into the cold world the swindler responded. The fraud was discovered only when the swindler's lawyer called at the jail.

Oldest School in the World.

When children, puppies and kittens indulge in play they are doing much more than merely amusing themselves. They are really, though—they do not know it, going to Nature's school—and are practicing the things they will have to do later on, says Tit-Bits.

A kitten plays with a cork or reel of cotton, and in doing so learns to pounce upon a mouse. Young wolves pretend to fight and chase each other because in after life they will have to pursue their prey and fight for their lives. Puppies do the same things for the same reasons, though in the case of dogs the necessity has ceased.

Monkeys amuse themselves by swinging and jumping from one branch to another, and thus learn to escape from their hereditary enemy, the tree snake.

Boys' games are really mimic battles and survivals of the tribal instinct. Football, for example, is only a sham fight between two tribes, as are all games in which sides are taken. It is, however, a curious fact that man — like dogs and other domesticated animals — really practices for a life that is thousands of years behind him. This would seem to prove that we are not quite as civilized as we imagine ourselves to be!

Oysters Do Grow on Trees.

Within an hour and a half from Port of Spain, Trinidad, the little island of Gasparee lies, bathed in tropic sunlight. It is not only the coolest and most central of the islands but contains a good hotel and is the home of the most experienced boatmen and guides to the fishing banks.

When you are tired of fishing in Gasparee, you may visit the caves which are very interesting and in several of which you can take underground baths in the lakes and big pools which they contain. Then on your way back to Port of Spain, you can go through the cut which is guarded on one side by mangrove trees, on which you will see iguanas sleeping in the sun, and on the roots, if the tide be low, thousands of oysters, which caused Columbus and Sir Walter Raleigh's veracity to be doubted when they wrote in their journals that oysters grew on trees in Trinidad.—Harper's Magazine.

Prehistoric Drawings.

Drawings of 20,000 years ago have been discovered in caves near Poncin, on the Ain (near Swiss frontier of France). The relics include many carved fragments of bone. These pictures were scratched with sharpened flints, and show some of the earliest representations of human beings that have been found up to the present. Dr. Lucien Mayer, lecturing on these discoveries at Lyons University, said that although one figure of a man showed him as being covered with hair, another figure, that of a kneeling woman, pointed to a high state of development. The head and arms were missing, but the torso, except for somewhat large hips, was slender, and even graceful to such an extent that Dr. Meyer did not hesitate to compare the drawing with the earliest Greek art.

Pecks of Diamonds.

During the year 1919, South Africa exported 1,124 pounds of diamonds. This quantity represented just about 125 quarts.

This vast quantity of precious stones reduced to terms of bushels would equal a trifle less than four, or what would be two ordinary grain bags full of them. Naturally the stones included a great number of very large ones as well as many medium sized and small ones.

Persistency.

"Miss Somervain, will you be mine?" "Never!" The young man was disappointed, but not wholly discouraged. "Well, will you let me be yours?" he asked.

Mother and Five Children Burned to Death

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Moncton, N. B., Feb. 15.—Mrs. Oliver G. Steeves and five children perished this morning when their house on Niagara Road, about three and a half miles from Moncton, was destroyed by fire. Mr. Steeves was in the barn at the time giving his stock their early morning feed. Returning he found the house a mass of flames. The fire was too far advanced to rescue Mrs. Steeves, and she refused to leave her young children, ranging in age from two to fourteen years.

Says Patient Died From Wrong Drug

Mistake Made in Filling Prescription is Charge of Physician.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—Mrs. Ethel Ruznik, aged 33 years, died at her home here yesterday afternoon from poisoning. Mrs. Ruznik succumbed after taking a powder, which, it is alleged by the police, had been given by a druggist in mistake for medicine called for in a doctor's prescription.

Mrs. Ruznik was in poor health, suffering from stomach trouble, and was being attended by Dr. M. A. Pollock, a local physician. On Saturday night Dr. Pollock examined the patient in his office, and decided to take an X-ray before operating. He gave her a prescription for "barium sulphate" chemically pure." which he told her to take Sunday morning and return to his office in the afternoon for the X-ray. Mrs. Ruznik, accompanied by her husband, Max, went to a drug store on Saturday night and had the prescription filled. Sergeant of detectives Alex Murray stated that the proprietor of the store was in charge. In making up the prescription he is alleged to have given Mrs. Ruznik "barium sulpherites," which is poison. Not noticing the label on the medicine bottle, Mrs. Ruznik took some of the poison yesterday morning. She became very ill and Dr. Pollock was notified. When the doctor arrived at the house he found his patient had been removed to the hospital. Mrs. Ruznik rapidly became unconscious and died.

Dr. Pollock, when interviewed last night, said he had been attending Mrs. Ruznik for eight years. The medicine he prescribed was not harmful. He could not understand how the mistake was made. The medicine ordered was in the form of a white powder. "Barium sulpherites" is also a powder, but similar in color to gunpowder.

Chief Coroner Arthur Jukes Johnson was furnished with a report of the police investigation.

War Memorials To Members of Parliament

London, Jan. 27.—(By Mail Canadian Associated Press)—When Parliament reassembles on Feb. 15 to begin the business of another session it is hoped that memorials to members of the two Houses who fell in the Great War will have been completed. Work upon them is now in progress, and the imposing monument in stone to perpetuate the names of legislators who made the supreme sacrifice is rapidly taking shape in St. Stephen's porch. This memorial, so placed that it will be seen by all who visit the Palace of Westminster, is to be supplemented, so far as the members of the House of Commons are concerned, by another as unique form of commemoration in the debating chamber itself.

The monument which records the losses of both Houses is in the Gothic style, and is, therefore, in entire harmony with its surroundings. It has a central symbolical figure, flanked by two panels on which are carved the names of the fallen—the members of the House of Lords on the left and those of the House of Commons on the right. At the foot of each appear the names of officials of the two Houses, six in all, who joined the fighting forces and gave their lives for their country. The legislators whose sacrifice is here commemorated number thirty-nine—twenty peers and nineteen members of the House of Commons. Their names are placed in the order in which they died on sea or land, and an inscription at the base of the central figure will pay fitting tribute to their heroism.

The memorial, executed in Caen stone, is erected against the arcading in St. Stephen's porch, beneath the great window, facing several feet distance from the entrance door.

At present at House of Commons itself is without a memorial of any kind not even a painted window, and so the fact that the names of its nineteen members are to be emblazoned in the Chamber marks a new departure. A series of enamelled heraldic shields which will display the arms of the members are being prepared to be placed at regular intervals along the front of the gallery facing the Chair. Above each shield will be a plate bearing in gold letters the name of the fallen member, and although the public, excepting occupants of the Ladies' Gallery, will be unable to see the shields, these will always be in full view of members of the House.

Bay Bridge Bill Passed Committee

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—The Private Bills Committee of the Legislature this morning passed a bill respecting the city of Belleville. This measure authorizes the issue of debentures to the amount of thirty thousand dollars for the purpose of paying the corporation's share of the purchase price of the bridge between Belleville and Prince Edward county which crosses the Bay of Quinte connecting Belleville with the township of Ameliasburg.

Canadians Doing Well in Texas Oil Field

Another Producing Well Brought In On Property of Montreal Oil Co.

Montreal, Feb. 15.—Dinning & Co. have received the following wire from C. L. Campbell, president of the Montreal Oil Co., who is at present in Texas: "Walker Caldwell well was brought in perfectly on Friday morning, flowing the rate of over 950 barrels per day up to the time of wiring with the pay sand only scratched." This would indicate another large well for the Montreal Oil Company.

Favor Appeals To County Judges

Ontario Lawyers Criticize Workings Of Temperance Act

Toronto, Feb. 15.—A resolution urging that if the Ontario Temperance Act was amended to permit of appeals to county judges from the decision of magistrates such appeals should be heard substantially as new trials with an entirely new taking of evidence, coused something of a stir when it was made by W. S. Ormiston, of Uxbridge, at the closing meeting of the Ontario Bar Association at Osgoode Hall. It was finally decided to refer the matter to the council of the association for consideration after W. D. Gregory of this city, had voiced the opinion that it might be out of place to take immediate action of a definite character in view of the fact that this question of appeals was now being considered by the Legislature. Several members, however, expressed themselves strongly in the matter.

In proposing the resolution, Mr. Ormiston explained that it was due to the fact that in so many instances the record of the evidence as taken down in long hand by the magistrates was imperfect and should not form the basis of consideration of the appeal. The O. T. A. "seems to some of us" to subvert the criminal law, he remarked. It was the first time in the history of the country that Legislation had been put upon the statute books, which placed the onus on the accused.

The resolution was seconded by W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, who believed that all that was required was that the regulations governing appeals laid down in the Summary Convictions Act, should apply to appeals under the O.T.A.

W. N. Ponton, K.C., was elected to the Council of the Association.

Typhus Lays Hands Upon City of N.Y.

New York, Feb. 11.—The first victims of true typhus in this city in 29 years, died today. A Brooklyn boy died in St. Mary's Hospital and 12 hours before a Bohemian immigrant, in quarantine at Hoffman Island, died. Tonight the Health Department records disclosed that Mrs. Mary Barnett of Brooklyn was a typhus sufferer in St. Mary's.

Health Commissioner Copeland reported that the 18 year old Brooklyn victim, James Halligan, had been sick since January 16. Dr. Copeland said that health inspectors had reported that the boy contracted the disease through the bite of a typhus-carrying insect while playing on Brooklyn piers.

Reporting Mrs. Barnett as recovering, he said the origin of her infection was unknown. Neither she nor Halligan, said the commissioner, had been away from home recently and neither had been in contact with newly arrived immigrants.

ITALIAN IS RECOVERING.

Another typhus case, that of an Italian, a second cabin passenger on night, said he had been attending Mrs. first "typhus ship," was reported as well on the way to recovery. The man is a patient in the Willard Parker Hospital.

District Governor Visits Belleville Rotary Club

Harry Stanton, Governor of This Rotary District Pays Official Visit to Belleville Rotary Club

Monday was an important day in local Rotary annals when the noonday luncheon of Belleville Rotarians was honored by the presence of District Governor Harry Stanton, of Toronto, accompanied by W. J. Carnahan and Robt. Coryell, Toronto Rotarians. A splendid and inspiring address by District Governor Stanton featured the program, and brief addresses were also made by Rotarians Carnahan and Coryell. A song featuring well-known personages in Biblical history by Rotarian Carnahan made a decided hit, while Bob Coryell assisted in the festivities by tickling the ivories.

A quartette consisting of Harry Moorman, Ernie Mouck, Morris Lavoie and Sandy Burrows, rendered vocal selections which were greatly appreciated.

Birthday Felicitations

The fact that Rotarians Doug Ramsay and Jim Jenkins, of the local club, were each celebrating birthdays Monday was made the occasion for considerable fun and a number of humorous telegrams of congratulation were read by the chairman.

President E. Gus Porter occupied the chair and set a fast and merry clip to the proceedings.

Concentrated Service

Governor Stanton congratulated the Belleville Rotary Club upon the fine spirit manifested in community service and especially in the attention paid to Boys' Work, counselling concentration of effort in community service, not taking up every movement urged upon them, but centering effort on a few worthy objects and making a success of them. Practical Rotary service was outlined and emphasized by the speaker whose address was very helpful and inspiring.

The fact that Jim Jenkins and Doug Ramsay were born the same day, the same week and the same month was made the occasion of a jollification on this, the occasion of their birthday by the assembled Rotarians, and the telegrams of congratulation read indicated that the whole world was interested in the momentous occasion, giving the typewriter wires a busy day.

Wireless Wishes

Among the wireless wishes of continued prosperity which were read amid great hilarity were the following:

One from a high international Rotary official in Chicago which read:

"We are all drinking Rotarian Jim's health in the old-fashioned way to-day. Sorry I cannot be with you. I request Harry Stanton to do the honors for me. May you continue to live and act in the Rotarian way so that those who went before might be proud and those who come after shall remember you and love you."

From the Rotarian Synod of Sinners:

"Many happy returns of the day "Doug", may you keep on batting out home runs, good fellowship and sermons that show us how to live happier lives."

Just a wee deoch and doris from Kilmarnock, Scotland, Rotarians:

"Heartiest congratulations to Jim Jenkins on this, his birthday. May the spirit of Rotary provide the necessary stimulant to carry him through another century, now that the old-fashioned spirits are at low ebb. I hope he has not tried Camp Corby Roast Beef on your club. Scotty can tell you how powerful it is."

From the Chief of Police, Cobalt:

"Cobalt where all the silver comes from sends Birthday Congratulations to Doug Ramsay, our old Sky Pilot. Verily Cobalt has lost its silver lining since Doug departed. Search him."

From a fisherman, out Marmora way:

"Many happy returns of the day Jim The Egyptians may have embalmed their mummies but we have preserved our live ones. A still on the hill by Westlamacoon Lake will keep us going long after the polls close next April. Here's how Jim."

From Downing Street, London, England:

"Extend greetings to Jim Jenkins. Since St. Valentine and he were born on the same day he must be getting aged. Like spirits he improves with age without the need of injecting monkey glands. Keep your spirits up and I shall be with you at the Lake next summer."

Pins Its Faith To Liquor Bill

Taschereau Declares That Interests Have Offered Money.

Quebec, Feb. 15.—Premier Taschereau affirmed in the Assembly that his Government pinned its fate to the success or failure of the liquor bill. The Government knew all the consequences of taking over full control of the liquor trade, he said, but was prepared to assume full responsibility.

He also declared that the Government of the Province of Quebec would make every effort to stop the liquor export to other provinces and with the co-operation of the Governments of other provinces, he held that this restriction would be successful.

Mr. Taschereau referred to a war which had been declared on the Government by the liquor interests and said that the Government had not only been threatened, but members of the House had had rolls of money placed in their hands, which they had hurled in the faces of those offering it. He told those who were offering money that they were wasting their time. The Government was taking a courageous stand and was prepared to fight.

With the new law, he said, the best of Spanish and French wines would be available at little more than cost price, while the taverns would be maintained to permit the workingmen to get a glass of beer when they felt like it.

1919 Law Not Respected

Arthur Sauve, leader of the Opposition, in criticizing the new bill, questioned the right of the Government to bring in the measure when it had failed, he said, to take all the means possible to have the beer and wine law adopted in 1919 respected.

The liquor interests, who had poisoned the people and made millions, were resting upon their big returns, he said. The House was told that if five good commissioners could be secured and if everyone co-operated, the new law would be a success. If the people would always do what was right there would be no need of the new law at all and the first liquor law of 1854 would still be in force, Mr. Sauve concluded.

The measure was given the second reading.

King Refers to Irish Question

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

London, Feb. 15.—Violence will not solve the Irish problem, King George declared here today in his speech from the throne to the two Houses of Parliament, in formally opening this session. One of the outstanding sections of his address referred to Ireland, the King saying: "The situation in Ireland still causes me distress. A misguided section of the Irish people persists in resorting to methods of criminal violence with the object of establishing an independent republic. Neither unity nor Irish self-government can be attained by this means."

SUNDAY HANGING DEFINITELY POSTPONED

The death sentence passed on Hector Dunmont at North Bay has been commuted to penal servitude for life. Dunmont was to have been hanged yesterday. Had there been no interference with the sentence, Dunmont would have been the first man in Canada to be hanged on a Sunday.

From Alma Mater:

"Hearty congratulations Doug. We are all pulling strong to have you win the Ontario Tankard. But don't forget to get up a real sermon for the Rotarians next Sunday."

The signature on the following telegram was somewhat blurred, but it looked like "Hon. W. E. Raney, Attorney-General".

"Extend my heartfelt felicitations to Rotarian Jim Jenkins. For him to reach the biblical age of three score and ten in the face of my prohibition enforcements is a noteworthy achievement. He convinces me that Father John's Remedies have scored another victory over John Barleycorn."

Of course Doug and Jim had to acknowledge the honor accorded them and they responded with brief witty speeches, Doug remarking that there was more sin than synod in the message purporting to come from the synod, while the message from Cobalt contained more lining than silver.

Veterans Ask For Changes in Pensions Act

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—Resolutions to be placed before the Parliamentary committee on re-establishment by the Great War Veterans' Association will set forth the fact that the requests made on behalf of veterans, while they have all been to the primary advantage of returned soldiers, have all worked out in the past for the general advantage of the people of the Dominion. The work which has been done in the matter of vocational training, etc., has been of general advantage in industries though the primary idea of it was to assist war veterans.

A number of resolutions to come before the committee were drafted and approved by the Dominion Executive of the G.W.V.A. which met here early in the month. A resolution on housing asks that the Federal Government extend direct assistance to veterans who wish to take advantage of the government's housing aid scheme. This is asked because many cities and municipalities have not taken advantage of the Government's aid scheme.

Several resolutions asking for changes in the Pensions' Act were approved. One of these asks that pensions be extended to widows of men married subsequent to contracting disability. A further pensions' resolution asks that there be no pension granted to a widow unless she was living with the deceased soldier or maintained or entitled to be maintained by him at the time of his demise.

Extension of the period from two years to five years, in which application for returned soldiers' insurance may be made, is asked, also that there be no reduction from the insurance money in respect of pension which may be payable to the beneficiary. A resolution along these lines asks that the benefits of insurance be extended to widows of all men who fell on active service. Under the present clause these widows are not eligible for insurance policies. The veterans also ask that there be no discrimination against non-resident returned soldiers.

Resolutions in regard to land settlement are numerous. One of these asks that the Soldier Setlement Board be authorized to supply seed grain and feed supplies to soldiers farmers in the districts which suffered from drought in 1920 until the 1921 crop is assured. Another asks that payment by soldier farmers to the Soldier Settlement Board, which are now due on October 1, be put back to December 31 as threshing is not usually finished by the earlier date.

A pension resolution asks for an equalization between the amounts paid to men resident in Canada and non residents. The G.W.V.A. takes the attitude that men who enlisted in the United States and since discharge are resident there are being discriminated against. They lose 30 per cent. of their pension through non-residence in Canada and in addition have been hard hit by the unfavorable exchange rate.

No action was taken by the executive in regard to an appeal for repatriation at the public expense of men who took their discharge in the British Isles.

The veterans are asking that there be a stricter enforcement of the immigration laws, to prevent the entry into Canada of aliens.

The working out of a plan of unemployment insurance to obviate the sufferings which have occurred in the past is also urged by the G.W.V.A.

When the veterans go before the committee there will probably be a renewed demand for industrial loans to returned soldiers to assist them in developing business ventures of a certain nature, most of these having to do with the development of natural resources.

Developments May be Interesting

London, Feb. 15.—New political alignments and proposals of legislative and governmental issues of tremendous import to the people of Great Britain were forshadowed when Parliament reassembled here today after a recess of seven weeks. Opposition to the Lloyd George ministry and discontent with many of the policies it has pursued in the recent past seemed to have reached a climax and it appeared that the stability of the Cabinet would be given its crucial test before the final adjournment of this session next summer.

SEA SERPENTS.

Some Monsters of the Great Deep Are Venomous.

Sea serpents are probably far more numerous than land serpents, if venomous species alone be considered. The snakes of tropical seas occur in numbers almost past belief, and their bite is not less deadly than that of the dreaded cobra.

One does not find these water snakes in the Atlantic Ocean, although there is one species in the Gulf of Mexico; but they are plentiful in the equatorial zone all the way from the east coast of Africa to Panama, thus nearly encircling the world. It is, however, in the Indian Ocean, and particularly in the region of the East Indian archipelago, that they swarm.

During the great volcanic eruption of Krakatoa, showers of hot ashes raining upon the east end of Sumatra drove many thousands of people to the water in boats. But the sea snakes, terrified by the increasing heat of the sea, swam in circles about the boats of the refugees, and tried to make their way over the gunwales of the smaller craft in numbers.

There are forty-four species of these sea serpents, some reaching a length of twelve feet. Most of them, however, are not over five feet long. They are wholly marine, spending their lives in the sea, and never leaving the water except to lay their eggs, which are deposited near the line of high tide on sandy beaches. In view of their dangerous character, it is fortunate that they are extremely shy. During calm weather they are often seen sleeping on the surface of the sea. When disturbed, they immediately dive, leaving a long string of bubbles behind them. Being air-breathers, they cannot remain under the surface for any great length of time. They feed on fishes, which are killed by their venom before being swallowed.

The venom of the sea serpent surpasses in virulence that of most poisonous land snakes. It seems to be of much the same composition as that of the cobra. Like the latter, it paralyzes the heart, causing death by asphyxiation.

One of the commonest species is known to the East Indian fishermen as "nalla whallagee pam." It seldom attains a length exceeding four feet, but is exceedingly dangerous. When captured by fishermen in their nets it darts rapidly at every moving object.

Some of the species are brilliantly colored. For instance, the "chithel" is a large and beautiful snake of a sulphur yellow hue with broad black rings. It may often be seen sunning its gayly colored body on the surface of the sea in calm weather.

The extraordinary abundance of these marine reptiles may be judged from the statement of Dr. Rudolf Weber, the scientist, who on one occasion, about fifty miles off the coast of Sumatra, saw sea snakes in swarms. He says that, as far as the eye could see, the waters seemed to be alive with serpents, swimming rapidly in all directions.

There are some species that prefer the fresh water of rivers. They are common in the rivers of Java, Sumatra, Borneo and the Celebes, and are similar in habits to the marine species, never leaving the water except to lay their eggs. Naturally the venomous serpents of the sea are less to be dreaded than those of the land.

Priests Seek Wandering Fish.

If you have a double-finned gold fish, it should be returned to Japan!

Priests from the Far East are searching for these goldfish, for they are sacred to the rites and customs of Japan.

Nine years ago three of these fish were lent to the Japanese Exhibition at the White City in London. At the close of the exhibition they were sold by an official who was under the impression that they were ordinary goldfish. Early this year a pair were seen in a naturalist's shop in London. A horrified Japanese customer, who noticed them while he was buying a dog, communicated the fact to certain religious authorities in Tokio.

Hence the quest of the priests entrusted with the investigation. Apparently the three have bred considerably, for eight double-finned goldfish have been discovered. Further search, however, is being made for others, for the double-finned goldfish have considerable religious significance in Japan, and the brotherhood of priests of Tokio will not rest until they are assured that no sacred double-finned goldfish are left outside Japan.

The Destructive Sea-Wolf.

Of all the inhabitants of the ocean few are more destructive than the sea-wolf—a kind of Dolphin, which attains, when full grown, a length of fourteen feet. When a mother walrus perceives a sea-wolf she endeavors to throw her cub on an iceberg, if one is near. Failing this, she gets it on top of her head, and swims with it above water. But this is vain. Diving far below, the fish of prey comes up with tremendous force, striking the frantic mother a terrific blow, and jolting the cub off her head into the water. Here it falls an easy victim to the assailant, and is soon devoured.

Sprouted Grains.

For hundreds of years the Chinese have recognized the worth of sprouted grains and seeds and have used them in many of their dishes. Chop suey, which contains sprouts of rice or beans, is a far better food than is commonly believed. The value of it lies in the fact that sprouting, like malting, makes the starch more digestible. Sprouted grains, beans and peas afford necessary vitamines and are satisfactory substitutes for many of the expensive fruits and vegetables.

Too Cruel.

"After all," asks a writer, "why shouldn't Ireland have a Parliament, like England?" Quite frankly we do not like this idea of retaliation while more humane methods are still unexplored.—Punch (London).

In Herberts Greater Minstrels, you get the pure essence of negro eccentricities, songs, dances and comicalaties. A true presentation of the real negro in his natural evening pastime, in his southern cabin home.

On your principal streets the day of the show at noon will be given the most sumptuous street parade ever offered, and with it will be the Great Adams, the best of his kind on earth. Don't miss this, or you miss a treat.

EXCELLENT COMEDY FEATURE.

The first hundred years are the hardest, they say. And we venture to remark that the old ones who have become cynical and case hardened to the proverbial type of comedy are going to melt like butter on a hot stove when they see Madge Kennedy in the delightful comedy "The Blooming Angel" adapted for the screen from a Saturday Evening post story. Madge just wont let them stay serious. Neither will the situations in "The Blooming Angel."

A typical excellent Goldwyn cast interprets the different roles and includes, J. T. O'Malley, who plays Chester Framon, male lead, is gifted with a rare sense of well-done comedy and a fine, pleasing personality. Margery Wilson is widely known and thoroughly experienced with a multitude of screen successes to her credit, others in the cast include Billy Courtwright, Vera Lewis, Arthur Houseman and Robert Chandler.

"Bill's Baby" an original and amusing 2 reel comedy with "Smiling" Billy parson's in the stellar role, an interesting Burton Holmes Travelogue of Alsace-Lorraine, and Eileen Percy in the latest chapter of "The Third Eye" are being exhibited in addition to the feature offering.

TAKES A BRAINSTORM IN DENTIST'S CHAIR

New York, Feb. 14.—Barton Skeete a negro of Brooklyn, went this afternoon to the dental office of Dr. Gaffney, on the third floor of the Temple Court Building, Brooklyn, to have a tooth extracted. Gas was administered to him and when the tooth came out Skeete had a brainstorm.

He sprang from the chair, leaped through the window in front of it, carrying away glass and sash, and crashed on the sidewalk three stories below. Then he rolled down the subway stairs which are almost under the window.

The ambulance took him, still alive to the Brooklyn Hospital.

ORIGIN OF HYMNS.

Few of Them Are Romantic, Says Authority.

"The origin of hymns is not romantic," says Dr. Louis F. Benson, "master of hymn lore" and the greatest hymnologist in the country, who has made a life study of the subject, and who during thirty-five years has made a collection of 8,000 volumes of hymns and books concerning church song. In an interview with Isabella Hastie Smith, writing for the Continent (Presbyterian), he told how Charlotte Elliott wrote "Just As I Am" when she was ill and discouraged; "how the darkness of death was creeping over Rev. Henry Francis Lyte when he wrote 'Abide With Me,' and how the inspiration for 'America' came from a little book of European tunes." To the writer—

"Dr. Benson explained that many erroneous stories have been told of the origin of familiar hymns. A popular fable is about the writing of 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul.' The story says that Charles Wesley was standing by a window watching a dove and a hawk fighting in the air. As he watched, the dove flew for protection to the open window and clung to the breast of the famous divine. The story has no foundation in fact, Dr. Benson says. His opinion is that hymns are usually written at desks in studies and not at death-bed scenes or at critical moments of any kind.

"There was no external occasion for the writing of 'My Faith Looks Up to Thee,' but Rev. Ray Palmer, who wrote the hymn in 1830, according to his own account, felt great emotion and spiritual uplift at the time of the conception of his great poem of faith. That hymns are often written for special occasions is demonstrated by 'O Little Town of Bethlehem,' by Phillips Brooks, and 'From Greenland's Icy Mountains.' Bishop Brooks wrote his hymn for a Christmas festival, and the music came to Mr. Redner one night, a few days before the hymn was to be sung. He seemed to hear it sung, he told Dr. Benson, and immediately wrote it down. The missionary hymn was written for a special missionary service at the request of his brother-in-law by Reginald Heber in 1819. Heber was afterwards a Bishop. The original manuscript of the hymn sold for forty-two pounds sterling, more than the amount of the entire offering at the missionary service for which it was written.

"Francis Scott Key wrote another hymn besides the United States' national anthem, a fact which is not generally known. The hymn is called 'Lord, with Glowing Heart I'd Praise Thee.'—Literary Digest.

A Royal Explorer.

The Duke of Abruzzi, who is reported from Rome to be preparing an expedition to the South Pole, has spent a large part of a busy life in exploring the unknown parts of the earth. Twenty years ago he approached nearer to the North Pole than any previous explorer, and six years later he conquered the "Mountains of the Moon," which bestride the equator in Central Africa. He has scaled Mount Elias, in Alaska, and was only prevented from attempting Mount Everest by the refusal of the Indian Government, for political reasons, to grant permission. During the war the duke was commander-in-chief of the Italian navy, and personally took part in several daring naval raids on the Austrian ports in the Adriatic.

Belleville Won On Port Hope Ice

Belleville Wins Round By 10 Goals. Belleville 8, Port Hope 2.

Monday evening the Belleville O. H. A. Intermediates visited Port Hope to play the return match of the round. The final score was 8-2 and with the four goal lead of Friday night, Belleville boys won the right to play the University of Toronto team on Belleville ice on Wednesday night.

Monday night in Port Hope the rink was filled with enthusiastic supporters of both sexes long before the bell rang for the game to start. The ladies (although they have weak voices) certainly can sing "Ontario," the favorite Port Hope vocal demonstration.

Tom Munro, of London, handled the bell in a most acceptable manner, his decisions being satisfactory to all.

When the Port Hopers saw in the first period that they were outclassed they resorted to rough stuff, but that doesn't go far with Tommy Munro refereeing. The penalties were frequent, but the Port Hopers were the worst offenders—Jex in particular. Only two Belleville men enjoyed the two minute rest and their penalties were for minor offences.

The only man the Port Hope fans can boast of is Finnegan Hill. He is fast and tricky, but his supporters always missed his pass when on the brink of scoring a goal. "Daw" Whelan, Gunner Arnott and Weir all played a whale of a game, playing hockey all the time. The game by periods

FIRST PERIOD.

The puck was faced at 8.30 and after about two minutes' play Bill Green scored in a pass from "Soup" Goyer. Gunner Arnott then went up for a 2-minute stretch. "Daw" Whelan took up the torch and scored Belleville's second goal after ten minutes' play. Jex, the worst offender for Port Hope, then received two penalties in a period of five minutes. In this period "Gunner" Arnott, in a neat pass from Bill Green, scored again for Belleville. R. Ware, Port Hope's wing man, enjoyed a 2-minute rest. The game was delayed at this stage when Vernon Weir was kicked accidentally by Finnegan Hill's skate. Goyer, in a neat rush from the forward line, scored Belleville's fourth and last goal in this period.

SECOND PERIOD.

"Gunner" Arnott, after a fast and furious six minutes of play scored for Belleville. Jex was again handed a penalty and again "Daw" scored in a pass from "Gunner" Arnott. Jex and Arnott were handed penalties just as the gong rang. This ended the second period.

THIRD PERIOD.

"Daw" scored after about two minutes' play and Finnegan Hill, Port Hope's only hope, received a penalty, as also did Jex, who got a three-minute rest this time. "Soup" Goyer, for tripping a man, took the box, but in reality "Soup" only held his stick and the Port Hoper was so weak he fell down. Bill Green scored Belleville's eighth and final goal. At this period of the game the Port Hopers woke up and Darch scored Port Hope's first goal. It was because the impregnable defence man, "Soup" Goyer, was off that this accident happened. R. Ware, Port Hope's wing man, then received a penalty. He was accompanied by Bill Green. With the other defence man off, Finnegan, the clever centre man of Port Hope's team, managed to score their second and last goal as the gong sounded - a defeat for Port Hope and a victory for Belleville.

The line-up of the teams was as follows:

Belleville—Boland, goal; Green and Goyer, defence; Arnott, centre; Weir and Whelan, wings; Symons and Coon, substitutes.

Port Hope—Micks, goal; Jex and Darch, defence; C. Hill, centre; A. Hill and R. Ware, wings; Brown and Ware, substitutes.

NOTES.

Belleville staged more combination but they needed no combination to beat Port Hope.

Vernon Weir played a hard game, sticking to his man and checking him to a standstill.

Port Hope's goal tender was not up to his usual standard, but made a number of creditable stops.

The Belleville boys all played fast, clean hockey, and their playing was so fast it was hard to pick a winner.

Pat Boland in goal played a great game, stopping all the shots that came his way.

Darch, commonly known as the "War Horse," played a good game and is credited with one of Port Hope's goals.

If the boys play a similar game on Wednesday night against Varsity with a little more combination, they ought to get about a four-goal lead to journey to the big city with.

"Gunner" Arnott played a splendid game, being responsible for a neat number of goals. "Gunner" has the shot that reaches the net, all right, and he comes up to the front whenever goals are needed.

"Soup" Goyer played up in his old form last night, giving a brilliant exhibition of hockey and showing what he really can do when he gets support. He stopped many rushes and checked everybody within reach.

Bill Green is up at the head of the line of defence men now, playing clean and fast, and being possessed of a wicked shot.

"Daw" Whelan played a wonderful game, passing the puck at just the right moment to ensure a goal. "Daw" has improved greatly, holding his temper in leash, which helps a whole lot, as this was one of "Daw's" weak spots.

The ice was in very poor condition, considering the good freezing weather.

Tom Munro, of London, refereed, and as usual put the lid on tight on the rough stuff, thereby making the game of far more interest and encouraging clean play.

Hill, playing centre for Port Hope, played hard, and it certainly seems a pity that the remainder of the team cannot play up to him. Any team would be proud to have him numbered among their players.

Belleville players have only to remember and play combination, and they will be a hard team to beat.

Belleville fans sure proved themselves good sports when they journeyed nearly two hundred strong to Port Hope. A demonstration of this sort gives the boys a little encouragement and shows that the fans appreciate their efforts.

CORNWALL 9—BELLEVILLE 5.

Whilst joy reigned supreme here last night over the result of the intermediate hockey game at Port Hope between the team of that town and Belleville, there was a tinge of regret over the defeat of the junior team at the hands of the Cornwall players. As a result of home and home games, Cornwall wins round No. 3 by 13 goals. When on Friday night last our boys were at Cornwall defeated by a score of 10 to 1 it was regarded that nothing short of a miracle could that score be overcome, but it was not performed. In fact the visiting team won out here by a score of 9 to 5, thus adding four more goals to their already strong lead. Credit to whom credit is due is a maxim that can be justly applied in this case. Cornwall has a team of junior hockey players which any place would have reason to be proud of. Whilst at times one or two of the players may have had a tendency to rough it up during the progres of the game, the majority of the team play hockey as it should be played. Another striking feature of the team's play is that one individual has no desire to play the whole game. At critical periods they play combination and that is what tells in the game. In this respect our boys could take a lesson from the visitors. Had there been more combination play by members of the Belleville team a different tale might have been recorded. As regards the juniors it is too late this season to effect a remedy but possibly it may prove beneficial in the future.

The Game

Promptly at 8-15 A. Waghorne, referee rang the bell which called the teams into action. At that time there was a fairly good attendance of spectators and as our boys emerged from their room and took their positions upon the ice they were loudly applauded. Hunter, Belleville's goal tender defended the western net, whilst Cornwall's goal tender did a like service at the eastern net. In less than one minute's play the puck was taken into Belleville's territory by Tilton, the swift centre player for the visiting team and passed to Kinghorn the left wing man who shot from the centre tallying the first score. Contant, one of the defense players for Cornwall not to be outdone by Kinghorn secured the puck and came up the ice, scoring the second goal when but three minutes of actual play had taken place. Plays such as these continued throughout the first period and when the smoke of battle had cleared away the record showed that Cornwall had scored 6 goals whilst Belleville players had been unable to do so. Of the six goals scored Kinghorn had four to his credit, whilst A Contant and Tilton had one each. During the period Lane, one of the Cornwall defence players was penalized twice. Hagerman and Swayne of the local team were also given 2 minutes rest.

Second Period

Although our boys were at the commencement of this period confronted by a lead of their opponents which it was known at the time could not be overcome, they entered heartily into the spirit of the game and for some minutes fast hockey was exhibited. After a few minutes play Gallinger, Cornwall's goal tender was sent to the penalty box for retaining the puck in his hand during a scrimmage at goal. He was replaced by Contant and he in turn was given a minute's rest for a like offence. L. Goyer, who was a sub, for Belleville secured the first goal of this period and shortly after repeated the performance to the delight of the spectators. At this stage of the proceedings members of the visiting team commenced to realize that the Belleville players were not asleep, and they made a rush down the ice with the puck with the result that Lane scored, and shortly after Larosse repeated the trick. Hagerman secured the third goal for Belleville by a fine shot and just before the period was completed, Tilton scored for Cornwall. During this period no less than seven players were penalized, namely four of the local team and three of the Cornwall team.

Third Period

When this period was reached the score of the game was 9 to 3 in favor of Cornwall, thus giving the team a lead of 15 goals on the round. For a time play was rather listless and reminded one of the old-fashioned game of shinney rather than gilt-edge hockey. During the period Belleville's team added two more goals to their credit, Swayne and Hagerman doing the trick. These were the only goals scored. In this period Goyer of Belleville and Lane of Cornwall were by the referee given two minutes rest.

The line up of the teams was as follows:

Cornwall	position	Belleville
Gallinger	goal	Hunter
Lane and E. Contant	defence	Holway and Canning
Tilton	centre	Swayne
Larosse	right wing	Hagerman
Kinghorn	left wing	Armstrong
Penny, A. Contant and McCutcheon	subs	L. Goyer

NOTES

Whilst our junior team have been placed hors de combat, the players have by no means been disgraced. They have played many games and went down to defeat at the hands of a superior team.

The G.W.V.A. band was in attendance and dispersed a number of tuneful selections, which were much appreciated.

Waghorne refereed the game in a most impartial manner and did his best to prevent roughing it up. He warned the players that horse play would not be permitted.

LIQUOR HAD LEGALLY BECOME A "MEDICINE"

Regina, Feb. 14.—Drinking in a public place is no longer an offense when the liquor is imbibed from a regulation bottle provided by the Saskatchewan Liquor Commission and procured in the authorized way by issue of medical prescription, according to a ruling of Magistrate Lemon at Moose Jaw yesterday. Fred Ulm procured an eight-ounce bottle from a druggist on presentation of a doctor's prescription, and drank the liquor in the rotunda of a hotel, where all and sundry could see him. He was prosecuted for violating the act which declares it an offense to drink liquor in a public place, but the Magistrate held that the liquor had legally become a medicine and released him.

OLD 999 STILL ON THE JOB AFTER 28 YEARS' SERVICE.

The passing of the Hudson's most famous steamer, the Mary Powell, was noted recently. While she was breaking records on the river, an equally renowned travelling machine, Engine 999 of the New York Central, was smashing them on the shore. The steamboat harked back to an earlier day than the Empire State Express, drawn by this locomotive, but they glimpsed each other every day, each on its own element; and if the train always left the steamer far behind, that is because it is in the nature of trains to outrun boats. Old 999, we are told by a writer in The Railway Review (Chicago), is still doing duty, although it has been renumbered 1086. The New York Central road, by way of refuting a report recently current to the effect that the famous locomotive had gone the way of all scrap iron, advises that in its twenty-eighth year of service it is hauling passenger trains Nos. 30 and 37 on the Pennsylvania division between Avis and Clearfield, Pa.

WHAT THE NEWSPAPERMAN HAS TO PUT UP WITH.

In common with the rest of the great newspaper fraternity the Kingston Whig has to deal with the unreasonableness of some people who have very little idea of the difficulties met in the daily grind of serving up the news of the world. Says the Whig:

> "The average reader of a newspaper has but little idea of the worry that is entailed in producing the finished article that is delivered at his door every evening by the carrier boy. Least of all have they any idea of the problems which daily confront the various editors who handle the news which appears from day to day. The popular idea seems to be that newspaper reporters spend their time in one perpetual struggle to secure enough material to fill their pages, and they should therefore be ready to publish anything and everything that is offered to them, and be grateful for having received something to 'fill up the paper.'
> "Such is far from being the case. In these days of exorbitant newsprint costs, and of increasing labor and material charges, every newspaper in the country is striving to give the maximum of news service in the least possible number of pages. The problem of the editors is not to find enough to fill their columns, but rather what to leave out and what to cut down in order that the more important news may be given the space and prominence it warrants, and this is no light task.
> "Every day someone will hand in a long and wearisome account of a trivial matter with the remark: 'This will help to fill up your paper.' Then comes the task of condensing this into a small space, with the probable result that the person who brought it in is offended and says the paper is no good. Then once in a while some publicity agent or committee will remonstrate with the editor for failing to use a column or two of propaganda, little thinking that columns of real news have to be left out every day, and that reporters with stories which should have columns of space are limited to a few inches.
> "Others, again, think the newspaper is a convenient and handy medium through which to make an attack on those who have offended them. One editor tells of a lady who came into his office one day to be 'written up.' She said: 'I have been waiting for a chance like this for a long time. I want you to say what liars, thieves and hypocrites some people are. I will give you their names, but, of course, don't mention my name, for they are neighbors of mine and I can't afford to get in bad with them.' When she was told that the editor couldn't call her neighbors liars, thieves and hypocrites, she said: 'All this talk about the freedom of the press doesn't amount to that (snapping her fingers) if you are afraid to call a spade a spade.'
> "And so it goes. Every day the newspaper man is confronted by some person with a grouch, either against the paper, his friends, the government, the city council, or everything in general, and is quite offended when he is told that the newspaper columns do not exist for the sole and express purpose of permitting him to get his grouch off his chest.
> "In spite of all these, and many other troubles, however, the newspapers continue to carry on their work, and they are today the most potent force for good or evil in the world. It is a matter for congratulation that the press of Canada has an enviable record as a power for all that is best and highest in the life of the nation."

Referring to the speeches of Armand Lavergne and C. J. Foy in Kingston, the Kingston Whig says: "Armand Lavergne stated bluntly that he owed no allegiance to the British flag. We challenge his statement if he professes to speak on behalf of Quebec, for the British flag and British connection furnish the charter of liberty to the Province of Quebec. Without British connection the Province of Quebec would have no guarantee that the bilingual system would be continued. We suppose that Mr. Lavergne and C. J. Foy have a right to express their opinions in regard to the British flag. If these men believe what they say it is far better for the country that they should come out and express their opinions openly. But they should have gone further and given the reason for the thought that is in them. Moreover it was very questionable taste on the part of these speakers to express views of such a controversial character at a non-political gathering. We are satisfied that the majority of those present did not sympathize with the statements made by these speakers. The only effect such addresses can have is to stir up bitterness and ill-feeling in the community."

THE ONE WAY TO REDUCE

Chicago Tribune

Legislation to limit rents will do no good. Rather it will do harm by removing that stimulus to building which now exists. Landlords get their new high rents simply because the public is sufficiently in need of housing to pay such rents. Building alone will relieve the situation. Whatever we may think of the moral right of a landlord to double or treble his rents we are forced to admit his legal and economic right. The circumstances and organizations which have combined to restrict building are really to blame for the so-called profiteering. These circumstances and organizations, not the landlords, are outside the law. Construction and that alone will relieve the situation. Every energy and every organization should be devoted to that end.

NO INDUCEMENT

St. John Standard

It is undoubtedly desirable to buy Canadian-made goods wherever possible, but it is very discouraging to those who are willing to do so to find themselves "stuck" for their purchases. A great many people are unable to understand why they should pay $10 for an article made in Canada when the same thing can be bought in the United States for $7 or so. True, by the time they have paid the duty on the latter on its entry into this country the article would cost them $10 too. The Canadian manufacturer has added the duty to the price of his product, to keep the foreign-made article out. That, however, is not protection; it is extortion, the purchaser must pay the same price for either article and he has no inducement to buy the home-made one.

POETS' CORNER

LEARNING LIFE'S LENTEN LESSON

Why is that most ministers in Lenten seasons tell
Of the death that Jesus died for us, and all too little dwell
On the fact He lived His life for us, to us the lesson give,
—It's possible to "self" forget, not just for "self" to live?
In all the life He lived with us, the precepts He did teach
That to live one's life for others was in ev'ry mortal's reach,
And the glory of His death for us, to take away our sin,
Is exceeded in His life for us, to make us all one kin
"Greater love hath no man than to give his life for others,"
Can bear interpretation too, to "live"
 for all ones brothers;
It's a harder task than dying, in this our mortal life
To consider first our brethren in our sordid selfish strife.
How can we say the Lord's prayer, yet in our acts deny
The blessings that we ask for when in idle words we cry
"Forgive us, all our trespasses as we do them forgive."
Yet merit not forgiveness in the way
 we've learned to live?
If but forgiven as we forgive, when we have ceased to live
There'll be some awful anguish when we are called to give
Our lives to God who gave them, for Self is here our god.
We've learned to live for self alone!
 the broad highway we've trod,
Along the straight and narrow path that Christ on earth has blazed
His is the one example how man's lot can be raised
By eliminating thoughts of self and living that some others
May see the way to self, forget in helping on their brothers.

O God, pray give our ministers the power to people teach,
To love and help each other, as through each Lent they'd preach:
To emphasize how Jesus lived,—not for some selfish gain,
But to help all fellow-men below, relieving grief and pain—
Upon the cross He suffered death;
 there "self" first suffered loss;
His life He gave to others save, and there upon the cross
It seemed He won His battle, yet
 while I have the breath
I will proclaim the life He lived was greater than His "death."

If to-morrow saw Thy Kingdom come,
 how many on this earth
Could show real love for fellow-men,
 and to Thee prove their worth?
Would not the lives lived just for self e'en Thee, O God appall
Who wanteth all in love to dwell, Thou
 God who loveth all?

TUAN CHI-JUI

He Is Regarded as Most Powerful Man In China.

Tuan Chi-Jui, whom Sir John Jordan, the late British Minister at Peking, described as "the most powerful man in China," is now the greatest force behind the new trouble that has arisen in the country. Tuan is five feet in height and looks anything but a man with a military mind. With sharp, keen features and a little moustache, he is between 59 and 60 years of age and a general of the old regime, who, apart from his soldiering abilities, is regarded as one of the ablest men in the Celestial Empire. He graduated at the Pei-yang Military School of the Province of Anhui, and later became chief military adviser to Yuan Shi-kai, then Viceroy of Chihli. After that he became a great supporter of the republican elements.

He has had a rapid upward progress in his military career. In 1906 he was promoted a brigadier-general and a year later he was lieutenant-general of the Chinese Bordered Yellow Banner. In 1908 he was general commanding the sixth division of Lu-chon and two years later he was commander-in-chief at Yiang-peh. When Yuan became Premier of China Tuan filled the office of Viceroy of Hu-kuang Province and subsequently took over command of the Northern Army, which proved such a strong support to Yuan when he became President of the Republic.

Later Tuan was one of the leading officers to sign the memorial to the Manchu emperor advising him to abdicate, and when the republic eventually came into being he assumed office as Minister of War. In 1917 he was nominated acting Premier, and at the end of the year became military governor of Peking. He became Premier in 1916, resigned, and took up the office again in 1918.

He has always been a great friend of the Allies, and in an interview he gave to the London Daily Mail's special correspondent in June, 1918, he said: "I pray that Heaven may bless Great Britain's arms." He also stated that he would like to train at least 40,000 or 50,000 troops, but financial difficulties prevented him from doing so.

Of especial interest, in view of the present trouble, are his remarks on that occasion to the military governors of China. Speaking of the unrest in the country at that time, he attributes it to the grasping, soaring ambitions of the provincial military governors. "Peace would only come," he declared, "when they were crushed. Their appetites are insatiable."

Tuan regards himself as a Moderate who studied at a modern school. He is not an obstructionist. "If a Radical idea is right," he has said, "I am willing to follow it."

Hearing Ears.

A certain naturalist who maintains that we hear only that to which our ears are attuned tells how once, in a noisy New York street, he heard the sound of a cricket hidden in a basement window. No one else appeared to hear it though every passer-by promptly stopped and looked round when the naturalist tossed a dime on the sidewalk a few seconds later. The following anecdote also bears out the theory propounded above. The late Sir Arthur Sullivan, the composer, and Sir Alexander Mackenzie once found that they had forgotten the number of a house to which they were invited. Sir Alexander protested that all he knew was that the door scraper was E flat. So "away they went kicking the door scrapers along the row," until at last Sir Arthur exclaimed, "Here we are, this is E flat!" It was the right house.

A Wonderful Bell.

In the temple of Chionin, at Kyoto, Japan, is a wonderful bronze bell said to weigh one hundred tons; and when its mellow boom is heard the pedestrian stands still and the workmen pauses to listen, the vibrations being felt over a large area. It has no tongue, but the end of a wooden beam, suspended horizontally, swings against the brazen mass. There are only two larger bells in the world, that of Mindon Min in Burma and one at Moscow.

"Some" Speed.

As a powerful motor-car dashed along a country road in a smother of dust and fumes, the owner leaned towards the chauffeur and yelled "Where are we now?"

"Just running into Toronto, sir!" roared back the man at the wheel.

The owner of the car shook his head irritably. "Oh, don't bother about little details!" he shrieked back. "I mean in what country!"

Commodore F. W. Young, R.N.

Is Wreck Raiser in Chief; Has Salvaged Many Ships

COMMODORE F. W. YOUNG R.N.R., the famous salvage expert, under whose supervision the Admiralty's great task of clearing war's wreckage from the seas is being done, is a big, genial man of strong, outstanding personality. A sailor by profession, he joined the Liverpool Salvage Association thirty-eight years ago. Wreck-raising has been his occupation ever since. He has followed it in all parts of the world, achieving so many notable successes that he has long been regarded as the most skilled practitioner engaged in this very difficult business.

On the day that war broke out Commodore Young was at Southampton with the liner Gothland, which he had just brought in from the Scillies under her own steam, although she had torn nearly all her keel away upon the rocks. From the first the Admiralty saw that they must consider the salving of ships as well as the sinking of them. Also, that barriers against U-boats must be laid. So Lord Fisher sent for Commodore Young, appointed him Salvage Adviser to the Admiralty, and entrusted him with this work. "Blocking-out" operations were the first taken in hand. The old battleship Hood was filled with concrete. Commodore Young towed her to Portland, turned her over in the "Hole in the Wall," and Portland was made safe against U-boats. Next he made a secure harbor for our small craft off Walton-on-the-Naze by anchoring a number of ships in line there. After this came the work of netting the channels against U-boats.

But it was not long before salvage work proper began to claim Commodore Young's attention. His most remarkable achievement in this direction during the was was the raising of submarine K 13 and rescuing from her 43 men after they had been imprisoned under water for 56 hours. He also lifted U C 5 from the banks of Harwich and brought her up the Thames, where she was placed on public exhibition.

At the outbreak of war the Admiralty had only two salvage vessels, both taken over from the Liverpool Association. Now they possess the largest salvage plant in the world and are continually increasing it. Necessarily so too, for there is an enormous amount of work to be done. The largest job in any area is that of reopening Zeebrugge, Ostend, and Nieuport and clearing from the Belgian canals the obstructions which the Huns have placed in them. In addition, there are numerous vessels to be raised all around our coasts and in the Mediterranean. Salvage operations are going on in all these places under Commodore Young's supervision. Indeed, it would hardly be overstating things to say that at the moment his activities are almost world-wide.

WILL DRIFT TO POLE.

Amundsen Using Ship Constructed to Defy Ice Fields.

In 1918, Captain Raold Amundson left Christiania, Norway, for the purpose of drifting over the North Pole from the Western Arctic side.

His idea was to enter the ice and make the drift in three years, but three years has already passed, and he has not yet been able to enter the ice, and when he does enter, it will take him five years to make the drift.

His ship was specially constructed for the undertaking, and is 120 feet long and 40 feet wide with 14 feet draft. I noticed that she is three-quarters as wide as she is long. The shape of her bottom is something like a saucer, so that when the ice tries to pinch her it slips underneath, pushing her entirely out of the water, on top of the ice.

In my experience I have never boarded a boat that can roll as many ways, and as "fast and furious" as she can in spite of having 26 fuel tanks in her bottom to act as ballast.

She has three masts and good sail power, besides a 240-horse-power Bolander Deisel engine, with a two-blade propeller like an airplane. There is a well in her stern into which this propeller can be stowed away, thereby eliminating any chance of the ice carrying it away.

I talked with Captain Amundsen at Nome during August last. He appears about 55 years old, but really is only 47.

While at Nome three of the crew left and when the "Maud" sailed she had besides Captain Amundsen three other whites and one Indian woman to make reindeer clothes, as it is only these clothes that are used. The plans were to go to North Cape and take on several more Eskimos, but the last account I had was that his ship was caught in the ice south of North Cape, and he would have to remain there for the winter, unless southerly gales opened up the way to the north so as to allow him to reach the real Arctic ice.

Amundsen has always had drifting over the North Pole as a hobby. I heard him say that his negotiation of the northwest passage in 1906 was not foreseen as his plans were then to drift over the Pole, but did not enter at the right spot so was carried through the northwest passage in error.

He has now completely circumvented the North Pole inside the Arctic circle, and is the only living explorer who has accomplished this. — C. H. French in the Beaver.

Tit for Tat.

A well-known author was very proud of his library, but made it a strict rule never to lend out one of his books. A next-door neighbor finding himself in this splendidly-stocked library one evening, took a fancy to a certain volume, and asked the owner if he might take it home promising to return it in a few days. In reply, the author said: "You are quite welcome to read the book, provided you do so in my library." Needless to say the invitation was not accepted. However, honors were even a few days later, when the author asked his friend for a loan of his garden roller. Judge of the author's dismay when his friend replied, 'You are very welcome to the use of my garden roller; the only condition I make is that you come into my garden and use it."

His Reason.

As the only youthful, unattached male at the resort he found imposed upon him the duty of teaching a—to be discreet—young lady the art of swimming. That she had been taught before became very evident after they had been in the water a few minutes. Therefore, he took keen delight in giving false orders. "Now," he said, "put your head entirely under water and kick up in the air with both feet. "But I never heard of such a thing!" she gasped. "How will that help me to swim?" "It won't" remarked the young brute, "but maybe you'll see some other poor fish down there."

ONTARIO BUTTER MUST BE GRADED

Toronto, Feb. 11.—Hon. Manning Doherty intimated, at the meeting of the Agricultural Committee yesterday, that he was preparing amendments to the Dairy Standards Act with a view to bringing it into effect Ontario butter had not established the reputation in Great Britain that Ontario cheese had because of the lack of uniformity. A grading system would involve the enforcements of the Dairy Standards Act.

"Unless we are prepared to go ahead and grade these products we might as well junk the whole machinery for dairy improvement" he told the Committee.

J. A. Ruddick, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, pointed out that at present there was but a cent difference between No. 1 and No. 2 butter. With proper grading there would be a difference of ten cents a pound. The United States had plenty of indifferent butter but Great Britain wanted the best.

Carry On, Advertising!

Instead of decreasing your efforts, get into a greater activity. Rather pay keener attention, if it be possible, to the MANNER and the MATTER of your advertisements, and to the careful selection of mediums than waste time in the consideration of whether you will advertise or will "wait."

"Wait Not: Want Not"—is a good paraphrase of the age-worn adage for a constant reminder to advertisers.

The long, strong and steady pull will win over the spasmodic effort.

If you will observe Daily Newspaper Advertising carefully, you will notice that those firms whose names and products are household words to you are at present using daily newspaper advertising with the same degree of frequency, and are giving increased attention to their space and display.

These firms are not holding off—they do not strike a balance sheet every night. They are in business for this year, next year, and for years to come.

They know that Public Good-will is not a matter of today and tomorrow.

And they know that Daily Newspaper Advertising is the one constant, impregnable medium that will hold for them, through all conditions, the good-will they have won in the mind of buyers.

To them their Daily Newspaper Advertising is as necessary as their Sales Force—more so, in some cases. And if you will consider their judgment for a while, you will, we think, agree that it is well founded, and worthy of adaptation to your own business needs.

This Association will be pleased to advise you upon ways and means of using Daily Newspaper Advertising to advantage; or consult any recognized advertising agency, a list of which will be supplied on request.

Call Mounties To Keep Peace During Strike

Detachment of Seventy Men Sent to Thorold to Prevent Trouble.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—To assist in preventing further trouble in connection with a strike situation in Thorold, Ont., seventy members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, under command of Inspectors Cundle and Fraser, were despatched to that place Saturday night.

The employees of the Beaverboard Company, a concern which was formerly located in Ottawa went on strike and it appears from the information received here that a certain number of them decided not to leave their work. They were intimidated by the strikers, it is claimed, and prevented from entering the factory.

The situation, according to reports here, got out of the control of the Thorold authorities on Saturday and they appealed to the Attorney-General at Toronto for assistance. He in turn advised the Department of Justice here and as a result the Mounted Police left Ottawa for Thorold on the Toronto train Saturday night, arriving in Thorold at 10.30 o'clock Sunday.

Commissioner A. B. Perry of the R.C.M.P. stated that he had received a telegram this afternoon to the effect that the situation was quiet.

SEIZE REVENUE LABELS

Boston, Feb. 14.—A block of 5,000 lottery tickets purporting to have been issued by the "Canadian Lotteries Company," were seized by internal revenue agents, who raided a Hanover street printing shop in search of counterfeit revenue stamps. The raid, besides yielding the lottery tickets, was responsible for the seizure of thousands of counterfeit "tax-paid" liquor stamps and liquor label.

Surely, you want to keep well right through the winter.

YOU don't want to suffer with an ulcerated throat or inflamed tonsils.

You don't want to be bothered with a racking cough that is disagreeable all day and that keeps you awake at night. You don't want to be in bed for months with pleurisy or pneumonia.

If you wish to keep well, realize at once that a cough is a dangerous, insidious disease, which should be stopped at its very outset, and not allowed to develop into anything more serious.

An ounce of prevention is indeed worth many pounds of cure, in the case of a cold.

DOMINION C. B. Q. TABLETS are the ounce of prevention that prevents a cold from developing into tonsillitis, bronchitis, or pneumonia.

These tablets contain Cascara, Bromide and Quinine in a pleasant form; are mildly laxative; relieve headache and neuralgia; and break up a cold in a few hours.

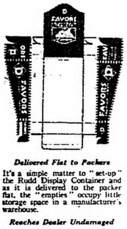
The Box that Suggests a Purchase



Delivered Flat to Packers

It's a simple matter to "set-up" the Rudd Display Container and as it is delivered to the packer flat, the "empties" occupy little storage space in a manufacturer's warehouse.

Reaches Dealer Undamaged

A substantial cover keeps the Rudd Display Container—and its contents—fresh and clean till they go on the counter.

Prominently displayed on the counter of the drug store, the cigar store or the grocer's shop, this display container invites all who see it to purchase its contents.

Everybody who enters the store does see it, for the store-keeper welcomes this silent salesman, and is glad to give it space on his counter where it will work to best advantage.

For the manufacturer of such goods as confectionery, toilet articles, notions, novelties, etc., it solves the problem of "getting the goods displayed." It's a practical form of "in the store" advertising that the dealer is glad to make use of. It's more—it's a salesman for the goods in contains. And it costs little more than the old form of plain box container, which the retailer destroys or hides out of sight on the shelves of his store.

Possibly such a container would help to increase your sales.

We'll be glad to tell you its many advantages.

myself to exclaim, as I made a very quick rush for that dressing room, switched on the light, flung off my coat, seized a pair of corduroy riding breeches that hung in a corner beside another pair, discarded my own broadcloth and struggled with both of my legs the same moment into them. Then in a hurry as great as I shall ever know, I discovered a gray flannel shirt in a drawer of the very tall old mahogany chest and inserted myself into that with an equal rapidity. A wide leather belt made the two very large garments secure around my waist, and I again allowed breath to come into my lungs. I then opened a very queer bag, which I knew to be for a saddle, that was upon a shelf in the dressing room and began to put things into it, according to directions of the Gouverneur Falkner. The other pair of those riding breeches I laid with another of the flannel shirts in a great conspicuousness upon a chair in the bedroom directly in front of the door from the dressing room.

"We're going to make a record getaway, boy," said that Gouverneur Faulkner to me as in a few minutes he came, clothed in those riding trousers and that flannel shirt, to the door of his dressing room, where I was just making a finish of putting needful clothing into his bag. "You'll find the other things we need in the bathroom. Put it all in while I get together a few papers I want. We can start now in two minutes."

"All is ready now, my Gouverneur Faulkner," I made the announcement after a wading into that very wet room of the bath and a return.

"Here, give me the bag, and you go ahead with this electric torch. Quiet, now," admonished the Gouverneur Faulkner to me as we took our departure through the dark hall.

"This is the maddest escapade that a governor of this ancient state has ever undertaken, and the weight of years has slid from me, boy," said that Gouverneur Faulkner to me as the cherry made a long glide from the city out into the open road.

The day was just beginning to come with its light from behind the very large and crooked mountain that is called Old Harpeth when my Gouverneur Faulkner made me to turn my good cherry from off the main road into a little road of much narrowness and of beautiful brown dirt the color of the riding trousers that I wore, and stop beside a very humble, small house which was covered with a vine in beautiful bud and around which many chickens hovered in waiting for a morning breakfast. Behind the small house was a large barn, and as I made a nice turn and stop beside the white gate a man in a blue garment that I now know is called overalls came to the door of the barn.

"Hello, Bud! Are Lightfoot and Steady in good condition for a trip across to Turkey gulch?" called my Gouverneur Faulkner as he alighted from the car.

"Fit as fiddles, Governor Bill," answered the man, as he came to the gate to shake hands with the Gouverneur Faulkner. "'Light and come in to breakfast. Granny has got a couple of chickens already in the skillet. And say, I want you to see what Mandy have got with her. Ten pounds, Gov."

"Congratulations, Bud; that is some—boy?" said my Gouverneur Faulkner with a question as he again grasped the hand of the large man.

"Naw, Gov. What's the matter with a gal child?" And the nice young father of the poor little female made a bristle of his disposition in defense of his daughter.

"Not a thing on earth, Bud, except that the whole sex are the unknown quantity. This is my secretary, Robert Carruthers, the general's nephew. Come in, Robert, and you'll have one square meal in your life if you never get another. Get me the usual food wallet together, Bud, please, and let me have it and the horses the very moment I've swallowed the last bite of my drum bone, will you? We've got to ride fast and far today, and I want nobody on my trail. Understand?"

"Yep, Gov," was the answer that good Bud man made as my Gouverneur Faulkner and I took our way through many chickens into the low little house.

"God bless my soul, if here ain't the governor come for a bite with Granny Bell this fine morning!" exclaimed a very nice old lady from above a stove which was steaming with food of such an odor as to create a madness in my very empty stomach.

"More than any bite, granny," answered my Gouverneur Faulkner as he came beside the stove to shake hands with the nice hostess.

"I'd like to feed you some gold fried in silk, Governor Bill, fer that mercy to my nephew Timms. I can't say what I feels and finish this cream gravy the right color for you." And as she spoke the fine old friend of my Gouverneur Faulkner wept as she shook a steaming sauce in a black pan and turned with the left hand a golden piece of bread upon another part of the stove.

"I don't need anything more than your 'well done,' Granny," answered my Gouverneur Faulkner as he laid a gentle hand on the trembling shoulder of the nice old lady. "This youngster here got the word from Mary, and you can give him both of the liver wings if you want to show your gratitude to him."

"God bless you, young gentleman, and you shall have anything that Granny Bell has to give you in gratitude. Now draw up two chairs and fall to, boys," and as she spoke she set the dishes of a beautiful odor upon a very clean table beside the stove.

"Is it that I may wash the grease stains of the car from my hands before eating, dear madam?" I asked of her.

"Back porch, you'll find the bucket and pan and towel, youngster. I can't wait for you," made answer my Gouverneur Faulkner, as he laughed and began upon the repast that must of necessity be a hurried one.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Camp Heaven.

AND I was very glad indeed that he did not go with me for that toilet to my hands, for it might have happened that a noise would have deprived me of a very beautiful thing that I discovered, through a window under a vine of roses that opened upon that back porch.

A very pretty young girl, with hair the color of the maize in the fields, lay upon a white bed beneath a quilt of many colors. The eyes of the mother were closed, and her arm held a babe loosely as if in deep dreaming. I softly poured the water into the basin, made clean my hands and quietly withdrew into the kitchen, with much care that I did not awaken her. On my cheeks I could feel a deep glow of color, and something within my heart pounded with force against my own breast under its gay red coat of a hunting man. I could not raise my eyes to those of my Gouverneur Faulkner, and I ate not as much of that good breakfast as Robert Carruthers could have consumed if the woman in his heart had not been so stirred.

And all of that long day in the soft early spring which was bursting into a budding and a flowering under the feet of our horses and above our heads in the trees, it was the woman Roberta that rode at the side of my Gouverneur Faulkner, with her heart at ache under her coat of a man. It was with difficulty that I forced my eyes to meet and make answer to the merriment and joy of the woods in his deep ones, and I was of great gladness when the descending of the sun brought a moon silvered twilight down upon us from the young green branches of the large trees of the forest through which we rode.

"Time to make camp. We've got to old Jutting rock. You are halfway up between heaven and earth, youngster," said my Gouverneur Faulkner as he drew to a halt his horse in front of me and pointed down into the dim valley that lay at our feet.

A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of ugly, hairy growths is as follows: Mix a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface about 2 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is entirely harmless and seldom requires repeating, but to avoid disappointment it is advisable to see that you get genuine delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

FEEDING THE WORLD.

Mountains of Food Required In Big Job.

If you would have a breath-taking experience, imagine yourself glancing for a few moments at the world's larder—the mountains of food and seas of beverages necessary to satisfy humanity's hunger and thirst for a year, says Tit-Bits.

The wheat alone would require for its transport a train long enough to girdle the earth at the Equator, with two supplementary trains which would stretch their length across Europe from north to south. The train would be composed of 8,650,000 wagons, each holding ten tons of wheat; and to draw it would be no light work for a quarter of a million powerful engines.

France stands at the head of the wheat-eating nations, with a weekly allowance of 9 lbs. for each inhabitant. Canada takes second place with 7 lbs.

Our mountain of rye outweighs half the population of the earth. So enormous is it that it would require for its conveyance a train 11,500 miles long, which, traveling at forty miles an hour, would take twelve days and nights to pass a given point.

In our larder, too, are 34½ million tons of barley, 85 million tons of maise, and 63 million tons of oats. But all these mountains of food are thrown into the shade by the 110 million tons of potatoes, which would fill eleven trains, each long enough to link the Ural Mountains with Gibraltar.

As a potato-eater the Irishman takes first place with a consumption of 28 lbs. weekly. The German is a poor second, with 22 lbs. allowance.

Of meat of all kinds the United States demands five million tons a year — a weight sufficient to raise the combined populations of the United Kingdom, France, Belgium, and Holland into the air. Of this allowance the American eats one pound of mutton to five pounds of pork and six pounds of beef. The Briton ranks second, with an average of 100 lbs. a year for each, and is followed by the Norwegian, Frenchman, and Spaniard. Of eggs our world's larder contains at least 80,000 millions—a number sufficient to form a belt, six yards wide, around the earth's waist.

The average American eats 130 every twelve months; the Canadian ranks second with a modest 90 a year; the Dane requires 80; and the Frenchman 58; while the Briton accounts for a modest 39.

John Bull, however, can claim to have the "sweetest tooth" in the world, for nothing less than 80 lbs. of sugar will satisfy him as his year's allowance; while the American finds 73 lbs. sufficient. The Frenchman is content with 25 lbs. Sweden has a sweeter tooth than Norway, requiring 20 lbs. to the Norseman's 12 lbs.; while the Spaniard can get on quite well with an annual 7 lbs.

Among beverages, the Briton takes the lead as a beer-drinker with an allowance of 30 gallons for each inhabitant. Denmark consumes 24 gallons per head; while 15 gallons quench the thirst of the American. The Dutchman and the Canadian drink 8 and 4 gallons respectively.

As a wine-bibber the Spaniard sets the pace with 35 gallons a year; leading the Frenchman by 4 gallons and the Italian by 11. The Briton and American are content with two quarts a year.

The Briton holds the premiership as a tea-drinker with 5½ lbs. a year; and has for "runner-up" the Canadian with 70 oz. The American is content with an annual pound and a half of the leaf that cheers. The Dutchman has such a weakness for coffee that he consumes 23 lbs every twelve months, or 50 per cent. more than his nearest rival, the Dane. The Belgian with an annual 11 lb. is followed by the American with 10 lbs; the Swiss with 7 lbs.; and the Frenchman with 3¾ lbs. every year.

He Bluffed the Enemy.

The feat for which Lieut. C. S. Rutherford, of Colborne, Ont., an officer of the 5th C.M.R., was awarded the V.C. savors a bit of comic opera warfare, for the Canadian completely bluffed the Germans.

When in command of an assaulting party, Lieut. Rutherford found himself a considerable distance ahead of his men, and at the same moment observed a fully armed strong enemy party outside a "pill box" ahead of him. He beckoned to them with his revolver to come to him, in return they waved to him to come to them. This he boldly did, and informed them that they were prisoners. This fact an enemy officer disputed and invited Lieut. Rutherford to enter the "pill box," an invitation he discreetly declined. By masterly bluff, however, he pursuaded the enemy that they were surrounded, and the whole part of 45 including two officers and three machine guns, surrendered to him.

CARGO VESSELS.

Some Facts That Canadians May Think About.

The modern cargo vessel is built of mild steel, is propelled by a screw propeller operated generally by steam machinery, and is steered with a rudder operated by steam and controlled from the bridge. Navigated by a magnetic compass, it has its location determined by chronometer and sextant, and has its cargo handled by block and tackle from booms on masts or derrick posts by means of steam winches. The size, arrangement, speed and fuel are specialized to suit the exact requirements of the trade, and few trades call for exactly the same design.

The cargo vessel of the future may be built of high tensile or special steel, but there are no indications at present that mild steel will be superseded in the near future, except on the largest vessels. It may have some other kind of propulsion than by a screw propeller, but there are no indications of any more efficient method, although some improvements may be made in the type of screw.

The size of the cargo vessel is made to suit the length of voyage and the amount of cargo available. There is no economy in having a large vessel in a given trade unless the vessel can be fully loaded on most of the trips. The commercial life of the vessel may be taken as twenty years. A depreciation of at least 5 per cent. per annum on the investment should be allowed as part of the cost of operation.

The submarine is not likely to be a competitor with surface vessels in the carrying of cargo, as all the troubles of surface vessels are magnified greatly when the complications of running submerged are added.

Cargo vessels may be divided into two general classes—liners and tramps. The former are like business men who travel between home and office with an occasional stop off at the club for lunch. The name of the latter is a misnomer, as they do not correspond to tramps at all, but more nearly to the harvest hands who work wherever they can find work to do.

Electric propulsion was introduced on the navy collier Jupiter in 1913 by the General Electric Co., and has recently been fitted on merchant vessels. In this system of propulsion, an electric generator is driven by a high speed turbine, and the propeller is operated at a suitable speed by a motor. The steam consumption is very moderate. Some eminent marine engineers in this country consider that the electric drive is one of the coming forms of propulsion for cargo and passenger vessels.

Since the advent of fuel oil, its use on board ship has been extended so that very few vessels of the present day are designed for coal burning, although the greater number of the vessels afloat still burn coal.

Cargo vessels of a country considered as a group, together with the passenger vessels, form its merchant marine and should be invested with the dignity of upholding the honor of the country in the ports of the world. No country can live to itself.

It is generally recognized that this country should be as self-supporting as possible and for many years our manufacturers were encouraged by a protective tariff. But no country can excel in all kinds of manufactures, so that our imports of manufactures, goods are of large volume and are likely to continue large. On the other hand, we have for export foodstuffs and the manufactured products in which we excel. Civilization is advanced by this interchange of commodities and prosperity is dependent on it. Some countries do most of the carrying trade of the world, as they excel in the building and operation of ships.

Under ordinary conditions we cannot build and operate vessels as cheaply as some other nations. But we can afford to carry our own commerce just as we could afford to do our own manufacturing.

Another Fishing Story.

The morning faded into afternoon, which in turn was shadowed by the coming of the night. It was old and gray. But the angler moved not, except to readjust his bait. He had been there for many weary hours, when a friend chanced to stroll along the river bank. "Hallo, Bimpson!" he cried. "How many have you got?" Bimpson looked up rather vacantly and responded, "When I get this one I'm after and four more I shall have five."

A Rocking Horse?

A city youngster was paying his first visit to his uncle's farm. Among the animals on the place was a rather small colt. As the boy stood gazing at the little creature, his uncle said, "Well, what do you think of him, Bertie?" "Why—why, he's all right," said Bertie; "but where's his rockers?"

Old friends of Red Rose Tea who have used it for many years find it the same good tea to-day as it was all during the war and for many years before.

Monday night the officers and members of the Quintena Rebekah No. 133 Degree Staff were at Home to their friends on the occasion of a Valentine dance. The spacious Lodge room was specially decorated for the occasion and about 150 dancers enjoyed themselves on the floor. The music was provided by Messrs. B. Weese and C. Goyer. NEVER HAD ACCIDENT

With a record of 45 years service as an engineer with the G.T.R. and not a single accident against his name, Joseph S. Johnson, died suddenly at Galt on Sunday in his sleep. He was in his 67th year and was born in Chatham but had spent most of his life here. Previous to coming to Galt he had lived in Stratford, having a run on the Maine Line but for about 35 years had been engineer on Galt-Elmira branch. His widow, one son, John of Winnipeg, and one daughter, Mrs. G. B. Smith, Belleville, survive.

SUPERVISE CHARITIES

A body to govern charitable work in Brockville has been brought into existence, composed of one representative from each of the churches, the Salvation Army, the Trades and Labor Council, and G. K. Dewey, representing the municipality. At the organization meeting of the members of the Ministerial Association claimed there had been fewer calls for assistance in the town than for some years past.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

David Teale, of Cataraqui, sustained two broken ribs, a bad scalp wound and other injuries, when a wagon, which he was driving went over an embankment on the Sunny Side Road killing one of the horses and injuring the other. How Teale escaped death in the fifty foot fall over the embankment is the wonder of the surrounding community.

DIED FROM NATURAL CAUSES

Baby Mary Kathleen Hope died at Brockville through natural causes. Such was the verdict returned by the coroner's jury, investigating, at the request of the father, the death of an infant in the general hospital attendants was offered while the post mortem examination disclosed the fact that the death was due to imperfection at birth. The staff of general hospital was exonerated of all blame.

TO BE CONCERT HALL

On Thursday evening the Kingston property committee, had a conference with the finance committee of council and came to an arrangement with regard to the remodeling of Ontario hall, city buildings, so that it may used for social functions instead of the city hall, which is to be Kingston's war memorial. The finance committee agreed to appropriate $3,000 for additions to the Ontario hall.

JEAN VAL JEAN

A large audience was present at Bridge street Methodist Church Monday evening on the occasion of the recital of the thrilling story of "Jean Val Jean" by Rev. Dr Cleaver, under the auspices of the Young People's Society of the church. Dr. Cleaver has given this recital over four hundred times but it never grows old and is just as interesting today to both Dr. Cleaver and his audience as it was the first time he gave it. The story is familiar to many readers but new interest is given the tragic recital of the life of Jean Val Jean in the setting given by Dr. Cleaver. Jean's life as a convict, his escape, his success in life under an assumed name, and his many philanthropies, the shadow of the never-ending haunting dread of exposure and re-capture and return to prison, final suspicion and flight, the nobility of character refined by suffering and all the lights and shadows of this wonderful story were vividly depicted by Dr. Cleaver, and the evening was one of rare interest to all present.

FIRE IN MARMORA SCHOOL

Marmora village's new continuation school, which was opened last fall, was badly damaged by fire at noon Monday. Fire started in the basement during the noon hour, when there was no one in the building. The village fire protection system has been out of operation for some time, owing to a wheel breaking at the pump. Therefore the only means of protection available were two chemical engines and buckets. Fortunately, there was a good supply of water in a cistern which was in the school premises, and the flames were prevented from spreading to the second floor. It is estimated that about $1,500 will cover the damage done to the building.

Your Efficiency Depends on Your Eyes

Good Work needs good Eyesight, because as a chair is no stronger than its weakest link, so a man is no stronger than his weakest faculty. And now, when the quality of one's work will play such an important part in determining one's income, you owe it to yourself to keep your faculties alert—keen—fit for competition.

Don't wonder if your eyes are efficient. Have them examined and KNOW.

VALENTINE TEA

In the Lecture Room of John street Church a Valentine Tea was held in honor of St. Valentine, on Monday, February 14. A sale of home cooking was held in connection with the tea, the many dainty cakes, pies etc., being rapidly disposed of. The charge of admission was a silver collection. Tea was served from four to six, scores of hungry people thronging the church, and all seeming full of joy, plus eats as time came for the crowd to disperse. The Lecture Room was prettily and suitably decorated, red hearts forming the main scheme of decoration, while some of the dainty cakes offered for sale had hearts perched gaily on their tops. The ladies who were responsible for this tea may feel perfectly satisfied with the result of their efforts as it was voted a complete and most pleasing success by all present.

UNITE WITH THE LIBERALS?

Goderich, Feb. 15.—"Why doesn't the U. F. O. unite with the Liberal party? Because we didn't get what we wanted from them," said J. J. Morrison, secretary of the United Farmers at a meeting in Temperance Hall, attended by some 200 farmers from the surrounding country, and also a number of local citizens.

"Unite with the Liberal party? Not on your life!" declared the speaker. We are going to look after our interests better than that. We want a lowering of the tariff, and Laurier gave us a tariff a little lower but put on a higher valuation, so that we paid more than ever. In 1917 the Liberal party went all to pieces, and now the Globe wants to get the shattered remnants of the party and get them united with the U. F. O., because the Globe wants a house to live in.

The speaker upheld the recall system as the best method of maintaining proper representation. The farmer, he said, is handicapped in that he has no selling propaganda without which any other business would go to pieces, and he suggested greater co-operation among the farmers as the remedy.

The other comes from the Pacific coast, and, as was expected, the government is choosing for this honor J. A. McKelvie, editor of the Vernon News, who was returned in Yale, and now represents one of the seats which the government has been able to hold in by-elections.

BROKEN HEARTS REPAIRED

At Johnstone's Academy last evening a Valentine Dance took the place of their usual class dance. The floor was crowded with lively and joyous couples, all knowing that before the end of the evening their hearts, if broken, would be repaired. The novelty of the evening was the repairing of hearts. Everyone present drew a half a heart, the boys and girls varying slightly, the possessors then searched for the half heart which their own lacked to be complete, when the heart was complete the joint possessors had luncheon together. It proved a very entertaining and enjoyable evening. Music for the Dance program was provided by Grant's two-piece orchestra, and was satisfactory to all dancers.

Amethyst, the February birthstone, loved for its brilliancy and richness of color, is yet with in the reach of even a slender pocket book.

MAKING PROGRAMS.

Bandmaster Tells Psychology of Encore Fiend.

In explaining that curious bit of psychology regarding music, the "encore fiend," or "musical pest," as this variety of the genus homo is often called, Pietro Cavallo, a band leader, gives out a trade secret. He explains how, in giving his audiences the music they demand, he also gets them to ask for the kind of music they should hear.

For instance—as an opening number, a lively march is played, something briskly suggestive of an assembly of the clans, as it were. But Mr. Cavallo does not direct this opening number, nor is it set down in the program. The program begins with an overture which he directs after the march.

Naturally, this innovation suggested originality of method. It was suggested also, to Mr. Cavallo, that he desired to make a personal effect by entering after the attention of the audience had been secured. To this he replied "yes" and "no." He says that the opening march is really not a part of his concert program. It is an invitation to people to come and listen to the concert. This invitation having been accepted, the concert begins when Mr. Cavallo enters upon the scene.

"These concert programs are not so popular in composition, as might be supposed," says Mr. Cavallo. "There are overtures, light opera music, grand opera selections, an occasional medley, and waltzes, marches, polkas, vocal duets and quartettes. This is a popular program. Yet, when such serious and comparatively unknown quantities in music, such as a descriptive fantasie called 'Columbus,' the overture to Alfieri's 'Saul,' selections from 'Eugen Oneguine' by Tschaikowsky, figure on the programs, it is interesting to know how they are kept popular.

"To audiences, if concerts are to be popular, you play something good, which they ought to hear. Ever polite, the audience applauds. Then you play them something they like. They have not applauded the music, in the first instance, but the people who play it and the conductor who directs it.

"That is the kindly habit an audience has of applauding the individual, and is the origin of the 'encore fiend.' He enthuses over the artist. But at popular concerts, it is intended that the music shall be liked. Therefore, the popular number succeeds the serious selection. The popular number pleases, the concert succeeds, the crowds attend and the entire enterprise is an immense success. How simple, when one knows the formula. The program itself is unessential—nothing more than a prop on which to hang the bait. It is a complete demonstration of a plausible theory."

An Arabian Prince.

Emil Feisal, the son of the King of the Hejaz and commander-in-chief of the Arabian army that helped the British forces in Syria against the Turks, won many friends for the Arabian cause at the Peace Conference in Paris. Although his Oriental taste and personal charm were widely noted by correspondents, it was his witty retorts to questions as much as anything else that gained him his popularity. On one occasion, writes Mr. Lowell Thomas in Asia, a correspondent asked him his opinion of modern statesmen as a result of his acquaintance with them at the conference. He replied: "They are like modern paintings. They should be hung in a gallery and viewed from a distance." Another time, at a meeting of the Council of Ten, M. Pichon referred to the claims of France in Syria, which he said were based on the Crusades. Emil Feisal turned toward him and inquired mildly: "I am not a great student of history; would you kindly tell me which of us won the Crusades?" Mr Balfour once tried to find out what Emir Feisal thought of the British Government. He succeeded. "It reminds me of a caravan in a desert. You see an impressive string of dromedaries in the distance trekking single file across the shifting sands. When you first overtake them you observe that the last camel is tied to the tail of the next in line. When you reach the head of the column you find that a little donkey is leading the whole string."

Cedars Victims of War.

During the war the hand of destruction fell heavily upon the age-old cedars of Lebanon. These trees, which date back to ancient history, were famous during the wars of Sennacherib, 608 B.C. The Roman historian, Pliny, claimed their wood to be eternally durable, and the Arabs are said to have believed the trees had existed for all time.

After 2,000 years the timbers in the ruins of ancient Assyria were found unchanged. In remote times the oil from the cedars was used as a cure for leprosy. It was also used by the Romans for preservative purposes. The huge cedars are often 90 feet in height and 42 feet in circumference.

During the world war the Turks cut down many of them to obtain fuel for locomotives, and the opposing forces continued the work of destruction for military purposes.

An Island for Artists.

The island of Comacino, which is widely known among artists who have had a foreign experience as one of the most beautiful spots in the renowned Lake Como, was recently left to King Albert of Belgium upon the death of its former owner, and the King has turned it over as a haven for artists, to be cared for by the Italian Government.

Canada Wild Goose Wonderful Creature Says Jack Miner

WHO PROVES THE ASSERTION WITH FACTS SHOWING THE INTELLIGENCE, UNSELFISHNESS AND COURAGE OF THIS SHY CREATURE OF THE LONG FLIGHTS — LARGE AUDIENCE CAPTIVATED WITH JACK MINER'S TALK AND PICTURES OF HIS FEATHERED FRIENDS.

The most Godly, principled creature in the world, not excepting saint and sinner, is the Canada Wild Goose, according to Jack Miner, the naturalist, and he is so well acquainted with the Canada Wild Goose and has made a close study of their habits and language that whatever he says about the goose is generally taken as being gospel truth, even to the extent of granting the Canada Wild Goose a language Honk, Honk, says the skeptic, soft pedal on the fairy tale stuff about a goose language, but a few minutes with Jack Miner and his pictures removes the skeptic completely from the goose pasture and gives him a new respect and compelling admiration for this shy bird of the air which makes few friends and picks them carefully.

Jack Miner, of Kingsville, Essex County, Ontario, three miles from Lake Ontario, in a direct line from Pelee Island, came to Belleville, Wednesday, and many Belleville citizens are better for having met and heard and talked with the noted naturalist, inasmuch as he told them things about the fowl of the air that they only had a hazy idea of previously or knew practically little or nothing about. Jack Miner also left behind him with the boys and girls, big and little, an inspiration and an affection for feathered creatures which will lead to closer acquaintance and mutual benefit.

To the Women's Canadian Club, of Belleville is due the credit for providing one of the most enjoyable and educational treats ever given in Belleville.

It is a matter of regret that the efforts of the Women's Canadian Club to secure Griffin's Theatre for the event were unsuccessful, for the City Hall was entirely inadequate to hold the large number who wished to attend the lecture. Standing room only was the result and many were turned away.

Mrs. J. C. Wilson presided and introduced the lecturer who was not long in securing the close interest of the audience which he held for two hours with a recital of his life history, interest in wild birds and the results of his study of their habits. The lecture was illustrated with pictures, still and moving, which were truly remarkable as showing what can be done with wild creatures who recognize friends and trust them as such.

The audience included many school children as well as large representations from Albert College and St. Agnes School. The Albert College boys and girls contributed to the program some of their rollicking choruses, and community singing was also introduced by Jack Miner to fill in a wait while the picture machine was being adjusted, and there was not a dull moment in the entire two hours.

Jack Miner is a naturalist, and as a man of the great outdoors he is natural, large hearted and kindly and possesses a fund of natural humor which illuminated his talk and caused constant ripples of laughter, wholesome and heart-warming.

Put Kingsville on Map

Kingsville, Ontario, might have forever remained an insignificant spot on the map had it not been the abode of Jack Miner and his great interest in feathered creaturts. Instead, Jack Miner and Kingsville are known all over the world, and his study of wild fowl and their habits has added considerably to the fund of accurate knowledge in this respect.

Canada Wild Goose

After sketching briefly his life history, lack of education of the ordinary kind, and his absorbing study of the life and habits of feathered creatures and the wonderful results of winning their confidence and friendship, the speaker gave a most interesting series of incidents showing the habits of the Canada Wild Goose and their long flights from the Southern United States to Hudson Bay, stopping at "The Sanctuary" at Kingsville, going and coming and always taking practically the same route. Jack Miner's aluminum tags, affixed to the legs of the featured travellers have proven beyond doubt that the birds come back every year unless death overtakes them.

An interesting item for the children was given by the speaker in telling what to do with the little robins who fall out of the nest. A nice warm box should be provided, with food consisting of a custard made with one egg to half a cup of milk, and the little bird kept until the wings are strong enough to carry them away.

Who is Jack Miner?

"Well, who is Jack Miner? he asked then went on to state that his parents came from Leicester, England. "I started down in Ohio. At 13 I was brought to Essex county, Ontario, the best province in the world. A large family there was of us, too, and we were very poor—10 altogether—5 boys and 5 girls.

We lived in an old log house, whose ends were boarded up with elm lumber, which shrunk an inch a year for thirteen years—So I did not have to get out of bed to study astronomy. My brother and I started hunting in order to get warm clothes. We became expert shots—and left a bloody trail behind. My brother and I had positive proof that the birds knew us as deadly enemies.

Identified as an Enemy

He had risen very early one morning to wait for the wild geese. Two other men had happened along just as the long thin line of flying birds appeared. The birds paid no attention to those men, but just as they neared the place where I was concealed they scattered to the winds. It left me wondering— "if those birds knew me as their enemy, what would they be like if they knew me as a friend?"

First Game Law

"You will find the first game law in Deuteronomy, 22 6 and 7." continued Mr. Miner which says: "If a bird's nest chance to be before thee in the way in any tree or on the ground, whether they be young ones or eggs and the dam sitting upon the young or upon the eggs, thou shalt not take the dam with the young. But thou shalt in any wise let the dam go and take the young to thee. That it may be well with the and that thou mayest prolong thy days."

Birds Instinct

The story was told of Polly, Delilah, Susan and Helen, four of his pet geese, who returned season after season, raised families, then migrated again until finally only Polly was left. But the master touch of the story was of a mother goose who had been driven off her nest, and the eggs placed under a hen, which hatched the brood. The real parents, away off in a pond had never seen the new brood until one morning when they had wandered down to the edge of the water they were noticed by the gander, who came up, nosed them over and then honked for his mate who came and knew them and proudly swam off with them. No mother could have been prouder over the return of a prodigal son. "There was no mistake about it," added Mr. Miner earnestly. "Surely if God gives the birds intelligence enough to know their young whom they have never seen, we shall recognize our dear ones in the hereafter."

It is because Jack Miner has gleaned his information not from books or in College, but from the woods, the fields and lakes that he has done what no other man has accomplished.

Added to this "Jack" has a way all his own or relating his experiences. No wonder that Canadians are proud of this man and wherever of whenever he is announced to speak he is greeted with capacity audiences.

It may be added that all the money Jack Miner makes from his lectures, he spends upon the thousands of wild fowl which regard his farm at Kingsville as a haven of peace and rest, to which they return Summer after Summer.

Mr. Mine's address was given in a very original fashion. While he was describing revelations about the bird world to his older listeners he was holding the interest of the children by plying them with numerous questions, telling stories about the birds which delighted his young listeners and animating still further his lecture with gestures and bird calls.

The lecture commenced with a talk by Mr. Miner about birds. The great warm heart which the speaker showed he had for these fellow creations

B.C. Expects to Make Money out of Liquor Trade

Victoria, Feb. 16.—That government control and sale of liquor, if properly managed, should result in substantial tax relief in British Columbia, amounting to possibly as much as $6,000,000 yearly, is the belief of H. B. Thomson, former food controller for Canada, as expressed in an interview published in the Victoria Colonist.

Mr. Thomson, in stating his views, predicted that the job of effective administrating the liquor business would soon be recognized as the heaviest confronting the government, and declared that the appointment of a cabinet minister whose sole duty would be the administration of liquor control affairs would be essential to the efficient handling of the problem.

"The control of liquor will be a monopoly, and prices and profits may be fixed to yield almost any revenue. The government, while taking care to make a good round profit, would have to guard against class legislation which would have the effect of allowing the rich to enjoy what the poor could not buy.

"Taking into consideration the requirements and the vast possibilities of expansion, it would be fair to estimate a turnover of about $30,000,000 a year, and this should yield a net profit to the treasury of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 annually.

"If the business were economically and well handled, as I have no doubt it will be, it should have the result of cutting the individual taxpayer's burden in half, and leave a sufficient amount to provide adequate funds for the maintenance of roads and hospitals and similar institutions," continued Mr. Thompson. "This can be figured out by ascertaining our normal revenue from lands, minerals, timber and other basic sources and only taking into account the individual taxpayer's contribution."

Referring to the possibilities of developing the liquor business, Mr. Thomson stated that a large income could be expected as a result of the money expended in British Columbia by visitors and residents, the majority of whom being from the United States and other arid spots.

"One would be foolish to overlook the great quantity of liquor which will cross the line," said Mr. Thomson. "It will be humanly impossible to prevent illegal shipments out of the province. When you consider that a bottle of good Scotch whiskey, which normally cost $1.50, can be sold in many places in the United States for $10, which plus exchange, would bring the price up to $15, the bait is far too alluring to be resisted by those on the lookout for easy money and aren't particular about their methods of getting it.

"When all is considered, the handling of the liquor business will be found the heaviest administrative job the government has, and it should be taken in hand by a cabinet minister with no other demands on his time or thought. This point cannot be emphasized too strongly because the success or failure of the government control plan will mean so much to the people of the province, and the relief from taxation will be so great if the task is properly managed."

Bandits Seize Registered Mail

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 17.—Five armed bandits held up two clerks at the main post office on Madison avenue at two o'clock this morning and seized six sacks of registered mail and escaped in an automobile. Postmaster Lathrop this morning was unable to give any estimate of the value of the mail stolen, but said he believed it would reach a large sum.

Dug in During Blizzard Winnipeg is Digging Out

BELOW ZERO WEATHER FOLLOWS SEVERE BLIZZARD IN WINNIPEG — LIGHTS OUT IN MANY HOUSES — TRAINS TIED UP — TELEGRAPH SYSTEM PARALYZED — CONDITIONS NOW GRADUALLY RETURNING TO NORMAL.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 17.—Clear weather, with the mercury well below zero has succeeded yesterday's storm throughout Manitoba and the blizzard's damage was being rapidly repaired today. Half of the houses in Winnipeg were without lights last night until after midnight through the failure of a transmission line in the civic system. Trains are being restored to schedule today and telegraph lines should be working normally before the day is over. Messages from points west of Winnipeg for the past twenty-four hours have reached this city at rare intervals, and by circuitous routes.

Cobalt Objects to Yankee Romancing

Cobalt, Ont., Feb. 17.—Declaring that the contents of an article, which recently appeared in the Boston Globe, and which has been brought to his attention, constitute an injury to the north country, and are bound to create a totally erroneous impression in other parts of the continent, Mayor McEachren is taking up the item in question with the local town council and with Associated Boards of Trade of Temiskaming, with a view to having protests forwarded to the proper quarters.

His Worship states that while some of the statements in the article would create only amusement in the north, where their absurdity would be recognized, the effect, especially in the United States, would be altogether different and very misleading.

Among other statements made in the article, it is declared that of the 5,000 prospectors who made the trail into Porcupine when that camp was first discovered, "hundreds of them never returned, many being drowned while trying to cross the many lakes on thin ice." The prospectors are stated to have been compelled to make the trip to Porcupine from Cobalt on foot, 200 miles, and scores of them were "brought to Cobalt hospital stung to blindness by the flies and mosquitoes," of which there are said to be "myriads."

As a matter of record the rush into Porcupine was made from Kelso, on the main line of the T. & N. O., and 45 miles from the gold camp, while the item about "hundreds of them never returned" is an unwarranted invention.

It is further stated that "many of the little settlements of the New Ontario country have been established and settled by parties sent over from England by the Salvation Army. They have taken poor families, supplied them with some farming implements and seed, and set them down in the bush." The towns, outside of the mining camps are described as "small settlements far removed from civilization."

Minor errors include "winter descends with a vengeance in September," the real "natives," either drifted in from Klondike or South Africa, are "remittance men from England" or are "gamblers and sports from the mining camps of Alaska and the West", the Cobalt Nugget is the "farthest north" daily newspaper in Canada, and the waters of the lakes and streams are "so impregnated with arsenic from the silver as to be dangerous to drink."

Last Minute Telegraph Briefs

Will Retaliate.

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—The Government members have been called to caucus tomorrow morning at eleven. The summons was sent out this morning and came rather unexpectedly, it having been thought that no such gathering would be called until next week. There will be a general discussion on legislation mentioned in the Speech from the Throne and other legislation proposed by the Government during the session. At the same time it is expected that there will be considerable discussion over the Liberal attitude regarding pairs. Members of the Government feel very strongly on the matter and it is probable retaliatory measures will be taken.

Young Sultan Of Jokjokarta

The aged Sultan of Jokjokarta, one of the two powerful and wealthy potentates of the Dutch East Indies has decided to abdicate in favor of his eldest son, the Crown Prince of Jokjokarta, who has been trained in European ways.

The Crown Prince has spent months at the court of Queen Wilhelmina and Dutch officials look forward to his rule over the Mohammedan natives with much favor.

Before leaving for the Indies, a few weeks ago, the young man informed his father that he would not take the Sultan's throne unless the abdicating potentate, with his entire court, removed to another town than Jokjokarta, and the father consented, rather than cause trouble.

While Bolshevik agitators in the East Indies have had much success in many sections of Java and Sumatra, they have had very little influence in Jokjokarta and the new Sultan is expected to maintain this situation.

The Sultan of Jokjokarta, is a vassal of the Dutch and has his headquarters at Jokjokarta, on the southern side of the island of Java. Jokjokarta has a population of about 60,000. The Sultan's water palace or citadel is described as the chief feature of the city. It covers an area of about one square mile and is a small town by itself, with separate buildings for the occupancy of the women of the Sultan's court and for workmen.

The Sultan divides his authority to a certain extent with a quasi-independent prince, Paku Alam.

Says Young Offered To Sell His Wife

Husband of Dead Woman Stands Trial on Murder Charge.

Kingston, Feb. 16.—James Young, of Kaladar was on trial all day today in the Napanee Assizes on the charge of murdering his wife, whose body was found in the ruins of their home, which was destroyed by fire on the afternoon of November 3 last. The Crown's case is in, and this evening part of the defence was heard, and a verdict will likely be reached some time tomorrow.

Thomas Forsythe, a neighbor of the Youngs, told of seeing some human bones in the ruins of the house the next morning after the fire. A day or two later, on removing some of the debris, he came across some more bones, including a collar bone and a skull. Some of the bones had been crushed. He noticed some tracks in the ruins which had not been there on his first visit. The tracks had apparently been made by heavy rubbers with the heel worn through the left foot. A pair of rubbers corresponding to the tracks were produced and identified as belonging to the prisoner.

In the skull found in the ruins there was a hole. Dr. Cowan, Coroner, of Napanee, said that this hole was made before the body fell into the fire, but could not say whether it was made before or after death.

Mr. Forsythe said the prisoner had told him that he would like to sell his wife, but Thos. Akey, another witness for the Crown, who had known Young for years, said he regarded this as a joke.

Mrs. Jennie Kellar and Mrs. Dora Gifford, daughters of the dead woman by another marriage, testified to the fact that their mother and their stepfather had always got along well together.

Yukon Banking on New Silver Discoveries

Dawson, Y.T., Feb. 17.—Discoveries heralding the birth of a new Yukon have been made within the last few months in the Mayo area, adjacent to Mayo City, lying in the upper Stewart river country, 150 miles from the great gold centre of Dawson, according to reports reaching here.

These new discoveries are in silver-bearing minerals, breaking in rare richness and extent from the high barren hills forming a spur of the Rocky Mountains. Geologists and mining experts who have visited the region lately say that a zone having every formation favorable to extensive silver-lead deposits runs athwart the Mayo area for at least 25 miles in length by ten miles in width. In this belt there is no question, according to the common conclusions, to the existence of galena in exceptional qualities. Outside of that belt further discoveries of a similar nature may be made which will extend the silver ore of the Yukon indefinitely, but for the present the zone is considered of sufficient extent to class the Mayo area among the richest and most promising silver regions of the continent.

Lying within the enchanted silver strip which nature has flung across the Mayo area are located today no fewer than eight hills or localities in which the precious white ore has been found in unusual quantities, it is stated, and about which extensive staking of claims has taken place. Nearly a thousand mineral claims have been staked on these properties, the greater number within the past 18 months.

Manitoba Free From Labor Troubles

Manitoba was almost free from strikes and labor difficulties during 1920, and there is a growing sentiment in favor of settlement of disputes by mediation and conciliation rather than by industrial warfare, according to the annual report of the department of Labor, issued by Edward McGrath, secretary.

A comprehensive review of the work of the department during the past year is set forth in the report. When the bureau was organized in 1915 151 industrial inspections were carried out, and 1,220 orders were issued. In 1920 15,011 inspections were made and 6,639 orders issued, and the revenue of the department has increased to $18,232. The department now has charge of the administration of eleven acts.

A fine spirit of co-operation now exists between employers of labor and employees in regard to accident prevention, the report states. During the year there were a total of 2,507 accidents, of which 11 proved fatal, 2,400 were industrial, 28 elevator and 79 in the building trades. In an effort to eliminate accidents the bureau has instituted safety committees amongst employees of industrial concerns.

The report shows that there are approximately 100 trade unions in the province, 60 of which are located in the city of Winnipeg.

PACIFIC NAVAL POLICY

Wellington, N.Z., Feb. 17.—Statements to the effect that the Dominion had conferred with the United States in regard to Pacific naval policy have aroused keen interest in New Zealand. The comment of the press is that the Dominions are not to be used as puppets to force the hand of the British Government.

Though she is vitally interested in the defence of the Pacific, New Zealand's problem differs from that of America and Australia in important respects. New Zealand has no huge tracts unsuitable for white settlement. An active immigration policy will provide a white population capable of holding the islands. Japanese are almost unknown, there being under 100 in the Dominion, compared with 3,500 Chinese and 700 Hindus. The new immigration restriction law is expected to keep Asiatic immigration within bounds without causing friction.

The Dominion's main interest in Pacific problems arises from the guardianship of Samoa and Cook Islands. This involves further naval responsibility, of which the light cruiser Chatham, which recently arrived here, is the first instalment.

There is not the remotest possibility of New Zealand's consulting America even informally, without full discussion first in the councils of the empire.

Drury Disagrees With Raney Over O.T.A.

Right to Appeal To County Judge Amendment to be Made to Ontario Temperance Act.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—Hon. W. E. Raney's stand against an appeal to the county court judge from convictions by police magistrates in O.T.A. offences has not received the support of the Government members to the extent necessary to warrant the Government in trying to force the Attorney-General's views on the House. As a result an amendment will be made in the Ontario Temperance Act giving a right of appeal.

"I think there should be an appeal and the county judge appears to be the best court for appeals to go to," said Premier Drury. He emphasized the fact, however that the Government would not agree to permitting cases to be entirely reopened on appeals and new evidence introduced.

$100,000 to Enforce Temperance Act

Significant Item in Supplementary Estimates Totalling $4,179,456.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Supplementary estimates totalling $4,179,456 were brought down by Hon. Peter Smith in the House yesterday. The estimates are made up of a great number of small additional grants for maintainance of public institutions, etc., and the carrying on of departmental work generally. One of the largest single items is that of $350,000 to pay allowances for the balance of the year under the Mothers' Allowance Act with an additional amount of $34,500 to take care of extra expenditures for administration. A significant item is that of $100,000 for the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act, foreshadowing an effort by Hon W. E. Raney to inject new vigor into the war on the rum-runners. The Maternal child Welfare and Public Health Nursing Division of the Department of Health gets an additional $50,000 for its work.

The estimates are accompanied by an estimate of Hydro capital expenditure. The year's work, according to the statement furnished by the commission, will call for $29,347,700. Of this amount, $21,700,000 will be required for the Queenston-Chippewa development and $5,115,000 for extensions to the Niagara systems. The balance is distributed in smaller amounts among the other Hydro systems. The Thunder Bay system in the north will require $896,700, the Central Ontario $568,000; and the Port Arthur, Thunder Bay and Superior system, $300,000. The St. Lawrence system will need $390,000 and Eugenia, $150,000.

The requirements of the T. and N. O. are estimated at $1,443,983, much of which is a revote including $579,000 for locomotives and freight cars.

Conference May Be Unnecessary

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

Paris, Feb. 17.—Germany has been asked by Great Britain and France to communicate to them the counter proposals of the Berlin Government before the opening of the London conference next Monday, says the Journal. The newspaper adds: "It would not be surprising if the conference should become unnecessary because of the derisive character of the German offers. In this case, it is said, the Allies will notify Germany of their decision and give the German Cabinet a few days to make known if it accepts or refuses to execute them.

The Daredevil

By Maria Thompson Daviess

Author of "The Melting of Molly"

Copyright, 1916, by the Reilly & Britton Co.

And while he talked my Gouverneur Faulkner had prepared those cradles of our blankets unstrapped from the saddles of the horses at feeding time, seated himself upon the edge of one of them and began to pull from his feet his riding boots. "Take off your boots and your coat, youngster, and turn in. I'll take the windward side, and you can bivouac against the fire. Good night!" As he finished speaking my Gouverneur Faulkner rolled beneath that blanket upon the outer edge and left for me the hammock next to the fire, sheltered from a cool wind that had begun to come up from the valley.

Almost immediately, so that I should not have a fright, I lifted the blanket and crawled into the branches of the fragrant tree. Even as I did so I perceived a loud breathing of deep sleep from my Gouverneur Faulkner, but to me came no repose for a long time.

The round sun was high over that old Harpeth hill when I opened my eyes. For a moment I did not see clearly, and then I looked straight into the deep eyes of my Gouverneur Faulkner, which for that first time I had been able to see to be the color of violets in the twilight. He was seated beside me smoking the fragrant pipe and looking down at me with a great wonderment that was mingled with as great a tenderness.

After a finish to the breakfast my Gouverneur Faulkner gave to me the information that we must tether the good horses and make the remainder of the journey by walking, which we did for hardly a short hour.

"The wildcat still is straight up Turkey gulch, and we'll have to scramble for it. It's hid like the nest of an old turkey hen," he said to me as we set out upon the mounting of a very steep precipice.

"What is that word 'wildcat still?'" I asked as I slid over a great rock with emerald moss incrusted and struggled beside my Gouverneur Faulkner through a heavy underbrush of leafy greenness.

"A place where men make whisky in defiance of the law of their state," he answered me as he held aside a long branch of green that was pink tipped so that I might slip thereunder without a scratching.

"Are you not the law of the state, my Gouverneur Faulkner?" I asked of him as I pulled myself by his arm through the thickness.

"I'm all that, but I'm the son of old Harpeth and Jim Todd's blood brother first. Some day I'll smoke Jim out of his hole and get him a good job. Now wait a minute and see what happens," and as he spoke my Gouverneur Faulkner stood very still for a long minute. As I sat at his side upon the fallen trunk of a large tree I regarded him with admiration, because he had the aspect of some beautiful lithe animal of the woods as he listened with a deep attention. Then very quickly he put his two long fingers to his mouth, and, behold, the call of a wild bird came from between his lips. Twice it was repeated, and then he stood again in deep attention. I made not even a little breathing as I, too, listened.

Then came three clear notes of that same wild bird in reply from not very far up the mountain from us.

"That's Jim, the old turkey. Come on!" said my Gouverneur Faulkner as he again began to break through the leafy barriers of the low trees.

And in a very short space of time a man emerged from a little path that led behind a tall cliff of the gray rocks. He was a very large and a very fierce man, and I might have had a fright of him if his blue eyes had not held such a kindness and joy in them at the sight of my Gouverneur Faulkner.

"Howdy, Bill," he said, with no handshake or other form of a comrade's greeting.

"Howdy, Jim," returned my Gouverneur Faulkner in a manner of the same indifference, but with also an expression in his face of delight at the sight of his blood brother, that Mr. Jim Todd.

"That thar boy a shet mouth?"

"He's Bob and as hard as a nut," was the introduction I had from my Gouverneur Faulkner.

"Then come on," with which command that wild man led us around the tall cliff of gray rock, over which climbed a sweet vine of rosy blossoming, which I now know to call a laurel, and we arrived in front of a small and low hut that was built against the rocks. A clear, small stream made a very noisy way past the door of the hut, but save for its clamor all was silent.

"Where are the boys?" asked my Gouverneur Faulkner.

"Hid in the bushes. I've got the man tied back in the still room. I 'low he ain't no revenue, but they 'low different. Come back and see if you kin make out his gibberish."

"Come on, Robert," said my Gouverneur Faulkner to me as he followed the wild Jim into the hut and back into a room that was as a cave cut into the rock. And I, Robert Carruthers, followed him—to my death.

THE MINSTRELS

There is going to be a big minstrel excursion take place Tomorrow night at Griffin's and it will start promptly at 8.30 p.m.

Would you enjoy a trip from a northern home at this time of the year, to be transplanted for a time in to the balmy clime of the sunny south There to be surrounded with flowers, picturesque scenery, music, singing, dancing, and then later to be carried into the jungles of Africa.

There will be an excellent band to lead the excursionists, and a splendid orchestra, to furnish music.

Many have taken advantage of these pleasure trips in the past, and from all signs this one will be the largest attended of any to date, and those of you who expect to be of the party should make your reservations early. The tickets are now on sale at Griffin's box office

The band will parade the streets Tomorrow at noon and the Great Adams will be with it.

RETURN OF WINNIPEG KIDDIES

Did you ever see a school, the pupils of which are all stage stars? There will be such a school in Belleville shortly The pupils will be the juvenile members of The Original Winnipeg Kiddies (a company of twenty-five people.)

These celebrated Kiddies carry a specially-qualified teacher with them, and they go to school every day "They are ambitious at their school work, and seem to learn more rapidly than the average youngsters, probably due to the fact that their wits are sharpened by travel," says their teacher

Outside of their regular school work, the world is their schoolroom They are provided with special opportunities of seeing things that other children learn in theory only They have been through pulp mills, down mines, through factories, museums and scores of interesting places and display a keen interest as everything is explained to them.

They are kept aloof from harmful influences by the close attention of specially-appointed guardians who take care of them day and night

The Kiddies look on their stage work as play, despite the fact that their production is ranked on a par with the biggest successes of the day. This is testified by the fact that they have broken records in cities on both sides of the boundary line

The Kiddies are bringing their sensational new revue to Griffin's theatre next Tuesday, with a special children's matinee at 4.30 sharp.

STARTLING PHOTOPLAY

Some people have recently awakened to the fact that the ties that bound them to their wives, their homes, their children, were not legal ties. Yet they have gone through the form of marriage in the full belief that they were abiding by the laws of the land But the mandate of the church has been ruthlessly set aside by the mandate of the law, as is clearly evidenced in the startling exposure, based on actual law, that has been brought to light in the sensational picture "Are You Legally Married?" which will be screened at Griffin's Tonight and Saturday matinee and night.

This remarkable photoplay, dealing with higher court divisions that have astounded an entire continent Three legal decisions have been reduced to terms of English that the layman can easily understand.

YOUNG CRIMINAL GETS SEVEN YEARS

Toronto, Feb. 17.—Norman Leith, aged 18 years, the last of a quartette of auto thieves to be sentenced, appeared before Judge Coatsworth yesterday and was given a total of seven years' imprisonment in the Kingston Penitentiary on four charges. Leith, along with three others—Butterfield, Coombs and Templeton—were being pursued while in a stolen car, and when Leith shot at the pursuers he wounded William Buck, a pedestrian on Walmer Road. Leith was sentenced to five years for shooting with intent, two years for stealing an auto, these sentences to run consecutively, and one year each on two other charges of auto stealing.

Constant Headaches

EVERY headache has a meaning—and you should heed this warning of nature, if you would avoid more serious complaints. A headache frequently points to the failure of the kidneys to perform their natural functions.

Gin Pills remove both headaches and cause, by restoring the kidney action to normal. If you let the cause go unchecked, you may incur years of suffering, with frequent attacks of backache, bladder trouble, lumbago, swollen joints, and other evidences of deranged kidneys.

Give Gin Pills a trial. At all druggists—60c a box. Write for a free sample to National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Ont. U. S. residents should address Na-Dru-Co., Inc., 202 Main St., Buffalo, N.Y.

GOVERNMENT REPORT ON CROP CONDITIONS

The following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall wheat on the whole appears to have withstood the unusually bare condition of the fields this winter better than was expected. Kent county, where about 11 per cent. of the crop is grown, reports that so far the crops appear to have come through unhurt. Haldimand and Huron make similar statements. Simcoe and Peel describes the crop as looking brown but alive. York fears that many fields will be in shape to withstand a bad spring, while Welland puts the loss already sustained at 25 per cent.

The condition of clover is regarded as being on a par with that of fall wheat.

Dufferin reports that there is now a general tendency to unload supplies of all kinds. Live stock are being marketed freely, but local farmers are buying very few to feed. At auction sales, however, which are fairly numerous, there is comparatively keen competition and good prices for whatever is selling.

From five to seven carloads of live stock are beng sent off weekly from some of the larger shipping points in the county of Grey. The U.F.O. Co-operative Co. is taking the greater part of the shipments.

Demand For Cows

Welland says that there is a keen demand for milch cows

Leeds reports a great variation in the selling prices for dairy cows at farm auctions, the figures ranging at from $40 to $170

Elgin states that the milk supply is falling off, with a good demand for dairy produce Some farmers there are getting from $2.35 to $2.40 a cwt. by shipping to the cities

Lennox and Addington report milk selling at $3 a cwt. on the basis of a 3.5 per cent butter fat test

Leeds places the price of milk at about $56 a ton.

The Brant representative states that a by-law was recently passed by the Brantford city council making it compulsory for all milk delivered in that city to be from tubercular-free cows, or to be handled through the pasteurizing plants.

Fewer Hogs

Peel estimates the number of hogs on hand as being nearly one-third less than the average of the last three years.

Norflk says that fewer hogs than usual are going to the market, while Brant is of the opinion that the supply of hogs for spring delivery is light. Little pigs are selling around $14 a pair

Napanee, however, reports that a alrge number of both hogs and cattle were shipped from Lennox and Addington during the week. Lanark also reports that hogs and butchers cattle are being marketed freely.

Paled straw is selling in Welland at from $11 to $12 a ton.

Ice Harvest

Victora reports that the ce harvest has been on for some weeks, and that the cut has been of good quality, as there had been practically no "snow ice" up to the time of reporting.

Nothwithstanding the open nature of the winter, a good deal of lumbering and wood cutting has been done, although most of the cut was awaiting snow for hauling when reports were sent in.

FOREST MONARCH DIES AFTER BEWILDERED CAREER

Smith's Falls, Feb. 16.—A magnificent deer wandered into the town on Sunday afternoon and ran all through the principal business and residential sections, through rear areas, over fences, and around Rideau Hotel yards. It appeared to be very much confused, and finally missed a jump at one of the subway fences and fell, stunned. It was secured by some boys and the chief of police and bedded comfortably in a stable. Unfortunately it was found dead this morning.

C S E T

How Many C.S.E.T. Boys in Canada?

I am going to take you with me on a journey through the reports presented at the annual meeting of the National Boys' Work Board on January 16. Here are some facts that should send every boy reader out with his breast bone high, his head in the air and a proud gleam in his eyes because he belongs to the great army of C.S.E.T. boys.

In 1919 there were 225 places in Canada where C.S.E.T. was being done, but for 1920 the number jumped to 39 an increase of over 70%.

The number of Tuxis Squares went up from 516 to 656, a gain of 27% and of Trail Ranger Camps from 585 to 818, an increase of nearly 40%.

Now for the number of boys themselves which is the all-important matter. In 1919 there were 6,546 Tuxis Boys and in 1920 there were 8,701, an increase of 33%. Trail Rangers grew from 6,677 in 1910 to 10,122 in 1920, an increase of close to 50%. The grand total of C.S.E.T. boys went up from 13,223 to 18,823, a gain of 42 1-3%.

"THAT THESE DEAD SHALL NOT HAVE DIED IN VAIN."

On November 19, 1863, in the military cemetery at Gettysburg, a national memorial of one of the deciding battles of the Civil War in the United States, Abraham Lincoln called upon the nation "to dedicate itself to the high resolve that these dead shall not have lived in vain." The great President's words on that occasion were few but they were pregnant with meaning and inspiration, and applicable as they were then to conditions in the United States his words on that occasion have a wider application now since so many heroes in the great world war gave up their lives that the world might be free. President Lincoln's speech at Gettysburg was as follows:

> Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.
> Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.
> But in a larger sense, we can not dedicate—can not consecrate—nor hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

BUYING IN CANADA.

The people of British Columbia buy Canadian made goods always and all the time; loyalty to Canadian trade amounts to a controlling belief in the province; a control by a real national spirit.

We have none of the bitter antagonism to the tariff which is felt in the Prairie Provinces, and which is even finding a strong foothold in rural Ontario.

British Columbians believe in a tariff which will produce Federal revenue and give reasonable protection to Canadian industries and Canadian producers.—Vancouver Sun.

AS OLD AS THEY FEEL.

The secret of success at every age is "to work on and keep the passion fresh," and there are abundant examples of those who by doing this have placed themselves in advancing years among the immortals. Mr. Hardy, for example, disappointed with the criticisms on his novels, turned to writing his great poem, "The Dynasts," the first part of which he published at 63. Handel was broken down in health and bankrupt at 53, when he began to compose the music which has made his fame. M. Clemenceau was 76 when, by his firmness in meeting the German offensive of 1918, he saved his country and Europe.—London Daily Mail.

CRISP COMMENT

If Belleville is to be made Better and Brighter, light should be thrown on the dark corners by a better and brighter street lighting system.

An eight year old girl in Waukeegan, Illinois, talked continuously for eleven days before she fell asleep. This should be a warning to women accustomed to talking themselves to sleep.

Why people should go to church is the subject of an editorial by the Brockville Recorder, which says that any old excuse is sufficient to keep some people away from church, while the same people would not think of missing an amusement engagement. The Lenten season would be a good time to cultivate an appetite for church going.

W. T. R. Preston, who finds difficulty securing a large enough audience upon which to inflict his story of "What I know about the war-time election overseas," seeks to break into Parliament via Durham. Home for the Friendless—what a name! Old and friendless—what a condition! And yet who is immune from the possibility of entering the twilight of life without means and without friends to provide for human needs and comforts? All the more reason why the Home for the Friendless institution in Belleville should receive every support and be equipped with every comfort as a pleasant harbor where the friendless can find a friendly welcome.

The Drury Government, not satisfied with leaving its predecessor millions behind in the matter of expenditure, has devised a new tax so it will have more to spend, and will levy a tax on transfer of properties, both rural and urban. It is also reported that the amusement tax will be extended to include pool and billiards, while the succession tax may also be increased. Taxed to death may soon be the epitaph of many people in Ontario.

It is said the Ontario Government contemplates a two-mill property transfer tax. That's the way. Pile on the taxes and spend the money, and then pile on some more taxes. The U. F. O. was supposed to be a party of economy, but they have turned out to be a group of spendthrifts.—Mail and Empire.

OTHER VIEWS

SUNDAY THEATRES

London Chronicle

It is not necessary to the proposal that theatres should be opened during normal church hours, and, being granted can anyone seriously maintain that a performance of Shakespeare on Sunday is worse than attending a popular concert, or a cinema, or listening to Hyde Park speeches, or loafing about with nothing to do in parks and public places? Canon Adderley is only one of many Churchmen who assert strongly that the Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath. But the resolution was thrown out by a meeting largely composed of actors and actresses who frankly expressed the fear that it would mean working seven days a week. Mr. Bourchier either had, or ought to have had, in mind a definite provision that no theatre employee could be employed for more than six days a week, at any rate for the same management. The effect of such a provision would give extra employment to actors out-of-work, or more employment to actors with insufficient work.

YOUTH HOLDS THE REINS

Springfield Republican

Public taste may be good or bad at a given time, but good or bad it goes with the current, and it is useless to try to set it back. If just now it prefers the strident and vulgar it is because society is passing through a rather rowdy and demoralized time, of which "jazz" is perfect expression. The cure, if there is a cure, is hardly to be found in esthetic Greek dances or in revivals of exquisite old folk tunes. Youth will be served, and insists, furthermore, on getting what it wants.

POETS' CORNER

A SONG OF LEAVETAKING

Voyagers and merchantmen, you who sailed seas over,
In desire of new lands and marvels yet to find,
Had you ever fear at heart of what you might discover?
Cast your ever wistful looks at all you left behind?

When you saw the last of shore, the dim blue line, slow-sinking,
When you look before you, where the first low fog-wreath curled,
Were they all of worthy deeds, the thoughts that you were thinking?
Were they all of wondrous things in some new wondrous world?

Surely there were times for you when seas seemed drear to wander,
When the thought of some wide hearth, some long lane summer-green,
Took your heart with love of it, and made you pause and ponder
Why you left the dear known things for perilous dreams unseen!

Where you went you knew not, and each day brought its wonder—
Strange new creatures in the deep and strange stars in the sky—
With your world grown strange to you around, above and under,
Did you shrink from what might come ere all your voyage was by?

Voyagers and merchantmen, you who sailed seas over
If your hearts grow cold sometimes at change of sea and sky,
Say a little prayer for me, each happy-resting rover,
For I, too, have voyage to make—and of your blood am I!

—Clare Giffin in Scribners Magazine.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 16—Three bank robbers were routed by mustard gas in the Farmers' and Merchants Bank at Utica, Mich.

Tubes of the gas had been placed within the doors of the vault in an experimental defense. When the yegg men bleww in the door the tubes burst and the thieves fled.

Meeting the night watchman at the door they broke past him, and whipping out pistols, exchanged shots with him as they fled. He reported to the police he used a shotgun and believes he hit one.

Belleville Won From Varsity

BELLEVILLE 6, U. OF T. 2

A hockey match was scheduled to take place here last night, being the first game of the semi-final round between Belleville and University of Toronto II team, but the weather man evidently thought it was to be a water polo game and provided weather accordingly. During the whole day the weather was exceptionally mild and rain descended in the afternoon and evening. Despite such unfavorable conditions the game was played and our boys showed the student team how a championship is won. An effort was made in the afternoon to have the game postponed but the O.H.A. Executive ordered otherwise and play it was, ice or water. The ice was in a terrible condition, in fact the sheet was covered with water when the game commenced, and did not improve with the three periods of play. Members of the Belleville team, however gave a fine demonstration of hockey and as the saying is put it all over the visitors. Not for one moment did they cease their strenuous efforts, but maintained their fast pace throughout the whole game. The Collegians had to content themselves when the affray was over with 2 goals to their credit whilst Belleville had 6, a comfortable lead for the return game which will be played at Toronto arena, on Saturday afternoon next. It was a record crowd of the season that witnessed the game, some 1500 having paid admission, and none regretted having braved the elements to witness the game. An idea of the quantity of water on the ice, may be judged from the fact that holes had to be made at different places to cause if possible a drainage. At times the puck was easily submerged in water but our water "babies" had no difficulty in locating it. Every member of the Belleville team, from the goal tender to the sub, played seemingly as they never played before with crowning success. The prospects of the team this season landing the championship are exceptionally bright, and here's hoping that such will be their reward. In all the games in which they have participated the members of the team have worked hard, with but one object in view and that is to play hockey from start to finish, and thus far they have been eminently successful.

THE GAME

Mr. Thos. Munro was referee and shortly before 8.30 his bell called the players from their respective rooms to the ice and the battle, which in some respects was of a gruelling nature was on. After about two minutes play, Ferguson, one of Varsity's defence players secured the rubber and by a well directed shot landed it in the net. First blood for the enemy. This had the effect of stimulating our boys to greater efforts and the puck was soon taken to the enemy's camp and play was for some time around Varsity's goal. Arnott, Belleville's speedy centre, by a well directed shot evened up the score to the great delight of the audience who were not slow to express their appreciation of the play. Whalen shortly after made two attempts to repeat Arnott's performance, but was unable to locate the puck in the net. This period concluded with the score a tie, both teams having one goal to their credit. During this period, Douglas of Varsity and Arnott of Belleville were given two minutes in the penalty box.

2ND PERIOD

Our boys, so to speak, came upon the ice with blood in their eye and at the bell, jumped into the game for all they were worth, in fact it is no exaggeration to state that they virtually skated their opponents off their feet. Considering the condition of the ice the game was fast. After a few minutes play, Whalen scored for Belleville, and Weir, who was playing the game of his life, also located the net. Before this period was concluded, Green one of our defence players, scored the third goal. Whilst Varsity made several efforts to score, they were unable to do so. When the period finished, the score was 4 to 1 in favor of Belleville, a comfortable lead. Whilst at times checking was close, there were no penalties handed out during this period, which seems remarkable for the play that was in progress all the time.

3RD PERIOD

This period opened with the ice in a worse condition, if possible, from the preceding periods. As our boys came from their dressing room, they were loudly acclaimed by the spectators and they held the confidence, which had thus been bestowed upon them. The visiting team it was apparent had awakened from the jolt they had been subjected to in the second period, and opened the final period with a rush. Two shots in quick succession were rained at Belleville's goal, but "Pat" was there with the goods, and made two clever stops. The first goal of the period was scored by Weir, and shortly after Belleville's team was in a rather dangerous and tight position, owing to the fact that Goyer and Swayne were sent to the penalty box, leaving but four of our players to combat with six opponents. Here was Varsity's opportunity and they were not slow to seize it. Evans after a minutes play, scored, but just after the face off, Goyer and Swayne were again on the ice, and the battle royal continued. By fine combination play Arnott secured the puck and scored, which proved to be the last goal recorded. During the last five minutes of play the visitors made a determined effort to reduce the lead of four goals, but their efforts were futile. The bell sounded and the vast crowd left the arena in a happy mood. The three penalties handed out in this period were all to Belleville players.

NOTES

Pat Boland in goal made a number of fine stops in the game last night and if Pat keeps in form very few shots will pass him Saturday. He sure played a real, live game.

Soup Goyer on Defence couldn't get going doubtless owing to the watery condition of the ice, but if Soup ever gets a clear passage look out, for he has some wicked shot.

Bill Green played one wonderful game his rushes being really sensational, he checked his man every time and certainly showed how speedy he can be.

Vern Weir played the best game of his life and cheers upon cheers resounded throughout the game for Weiry. He checked everybody everywhere and was always right where he was needed, stopping many a would-be-goal.

"Dew" Whelan played such a game that it is hard to describe his brilliant playing with mere words. He checked splendidly, showed speed and an accurate shot, and Oh Boy! how he can and does handle his stick.

Gunner Arnott was right there last night getting goals when needed. Gunner is showing more knowledge of the game now and has gotten over his great fault, that of "hogging" the puck. He made some fine rushes and neat passes.

Stan Hagerman, a junior, who subbed in place of Sammy Symons who is ill, was right "on" all the time and surprised a number of the opponents with his back checking. He is a good shot and has speed as well as weight.

A. Swayne, another junior also subbing, was great, he relieved Arnott at Centre and surely kept the disc moving and ever away from the home goal. He is a neat stick handler and possesses a great knowledge of the game, also plays it.

Tom Munro of London referee, was to an unbiased spectator one of the fairest referees who has ever officiated here. His decisions were impartial and satisfactory to all.

The Varsity team have weight, speed and good condition to back them and the game Saturday should be a splendid contest.

The game last night was remarkably clean throughout, rough stuff having no place on Munro's program the boys therefor playing accordingly.

The team will go to Toronto on Friday afternoon and have a little practice on the artificial ice.

CORNWALL JUNIORS TROUNCE AURA LEE

Cornwall, Feb. 16.—Cornwall juniors completely outclassed the much-heralded Aura Lee hockey team here tonight in the first of a home-and-home game in the O. H. A. championship series and won by 8 to 0. The ice was soft from start to finish, but neither team seemed to suffer from this. In no department were the visitors superior to the locals, who out-skated them and back-checked like veterans.

Aura Lee could not negotiate the Cornwall defence, and during the whole sixty minutes did not have more than a dozen direct shots on the Cornwall net, while Cornwall bombarded Moore continually, and that the score was not larger was entirely due to his good work. Notwithstanding what was at stake, play was very clean, only two penalties being inflicted.

Wild Goose Man Talks to Lions

Kingsville Naturalist Guest of Belleville Lion's Club at Jungle-Fest

Jack Miner, the Canadian naturalist and wild goose specialist, was right at home in the Lions' Den, Wednesday noon at the Hotel Quinte when he was the guest of the Belleville Lions' Club An outdoor man who loves the beasts of the field, the fowl of the air and every creature which walks, talks or flies, Jack Miner is a Cub, a boy who has never grown up and never will grow old. His talk to the Belleville Lions will long be a pleasant memory, with its homely natural humor and educational value. Boys and birds are Jack Miner's hobbies, and while he has accomplished great practical good in helping boys to be better men he is best known for his interest in and acquaintanceship with birds and his close study of the Canada Wild Goose.

At [illegible]rteen, father and mother Miner and the ten children, came to Canada from Ohio, where the father said he was growing poorer steadily at the rate of about two boxes of matches each year. Jack Miner was born barefooted and his first pair of boots were given him in Canada where the family arrived on April 22, 1878, Jack being then thirteen years of age. They were poor financially but rich in love and affection. Jack was the favorite son and his father permitted him to light the fires in the morning. The primitive log house which housed them in the early days of pioneer life was humorously described with its great ventilation facilities, it being possible to study astronomy from within any night.

Despite their circumstances there were always three meals a day, oatmeal, cornmeal and miss-a-meal, said Jack Miner in glossing with romance the privations of pioneer life in Canada.

The mother brought slips of roses and flowering shrubs which bloomed and blossomed in their forest home as never before.

Don't worry about the bumps, said the speaker, it takes good hard bumps to put back-bone into people.

Is life in the country worth living? is often asked. Jack Miner's answer is that it depends upon the liver. If the liver is out of order life is hardly worth living anywhere. His mother-in-law's daughter had always been a great help to him.

An eloquent appeal to help the boys of Belleville to become good citizens closed the address of the speaker of the day who said that every boy who goes from Belleville to that grim institution in Kingston is a black eye for Belleville, but every Belleville boy who makes good is an addition to the wealth and good reputation of the city. Loud and prolonged applause and the Lions' Roar vociferously given testified to the appreciation of the cubs assembled, emphasized by a hearty vote of thanks and brief, euglogistic addresses by Cub E. O'Flynn and Cub Dick Ponton.

Cub Fred Anderson presided very acceptably and Cub Harold Barritt put pep into the community singing and also contributed enjoyable solos. Miss Diamond presided at the piano.

The election of officers of the club will be held next Wednesday and the following names were placed in nomination for the various offices:

President—Bob Gorman, Ray Zufelt, Ed. O'Flynn, Bill Lattimer.

First Vice-President—Ray Zufelt, Fred Deacon, Ed. O'Flynn.

Second Vice-President—Dick Ponton Fred Anderson.

CANADA'S WILD GOOSE A WONEDRFUL CREATURE SAYS JACK MINER

of his Maker affected his hearers in no small degree.

Wild Ducks

He told of four wild ducks which he raised. He put tags on them with his address on the tag so that if they were shot he would be informed of it. The ducks flew away the first winter. One was shot but the next March the other three came flying home. Two of the others were shot as the years passed but the remaining one returned six times. One of the ducks brought back an American mate one spring and altogether he estimated that his four ducks in six years had been the parents or grand parents of 3,000 ducks. From a commercial point of view it was a good investment.

Then he described his wonderful flock of wild Canada geese. In a pond right beside his home he had fed with grain a party of eleven geese. They flew away but came back with more the next spring and he fed these. These flew away in the fall but returned the next spring with more and now his flock numbered thousands. Moving-pictures which were shown at the close of the lecture revealed how surprisingly tame they were and when they took the air the sky was black with their numbers. It was a wonderful illustration of what kindness would do. He claimed he had tamed wild birds till they were more friendly than domestic fowl. He had been using the proceeds of his lectures to feed his birds but now the Government had become interested and was assisting him.

Lantern slides and moving pictures concluded the lecture. The pictures showed how tame robins would become, the little birds being seen clustering around a dish of custard in his little son's hands and alighting on his head. A picture was shown of a white robin he had hatched. He accused the English sparrow of destroying other birds. The Almighty could not be blamed for that, he said, for the said sparrow had been imported by man to this country. A plea was made for the woodpecker and pictures shown of how they removed injurious grubs from trees.

Faithful Unto Death

He related a pathetic story of a wild goose who for four years had given up his liberty in order to stay with a goose who had been disabled. He lost his life in the end in a fight with a great horned owl which had attacked his flock. Pictures were also shown depicting the bravery of the male goose in guarding his mate during the mating period.

The speaker had tagged many of his geese, sometimes putting a verse of scripture on the reverse side of the tag. He had prepared a map from the tags which had been returned to him by those who had shot the geese. The majority of the tags came from Hudson Bay, the larger part of the remainder from the south-eastern coast of the United States. The interesting map also showed that the geese remained in the eastern part of the continent.

Prisoners Smash Lock-up Fixtures

Tweed Scene of Boisterous Demonstration by Two Visitors from Toronto.

A menagerie gone loco and making the night hideous with the roars and trumpeting of the jungle, combined with the noise of a steam riveting machine upon a steel bridge in course of construction could not have made much more disturbance than that which alarmed the peaceful Tweed atmosphere on Wednesday. The noise emanated from the village lock-up where two former residents, now domiciled at Toronto, but back to the home town for a visit, were confined on charges of intoxication.

The warm welcome of the home town resulting in imprisonment in the local bastile peeved the visitors, who proceeded to smash windows and everything else smashable as a protest against their treatment, and the lock-up, after they had grown weary of destruction, looked like the World's Fair at Chicago after demolition had well advanced, though on a smaller scale.

Henry Patrick Jefkins and Jack Hall, now of Toronto, but formerly of Tweed, decided to visit old friends and neighbors, but after their arrival in Tweed their conduct was such as to indicate that they had either brought a plentiful supply of wet goods with them or raided a still in the neighborhood.

Inspector Collison and Provincial Constable Ward placed the visitors under arrest and locked them up, with the results as recorded. They were brought before Dr. Bowlby, J.P., and remanded to the County Jail at Belleville until Feb. 22.

HOLED OUT IN ONE HOLE WITH BROKEN NOSE

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 16.—Golfing is a dangerous pastime here when the high winds frolic. During the storm which recently uprooted trees and played havoc with telephone and telegraph wires, an intrepid golfer at Colwood Country Club drove off into the teeth of the gale, and the wind was so strong that it blew the ball back and it struck him on the nose. He holed out in one. In proof of his story the golfer exhibited a broken nose.

FONTAINEBLEAU.

Something About Beauties of Great French Forest.

It is only the cyclist who can realize such an immensity as the Fontainebleau forest, says Miss Bethan Edwards in "East of Paris."

"From end to end," she writes, "these vast sweeps are now intersected by splendid roads and byroads. Old-fashioned folks, for whom the horseless vehicle came too late, can but envy wheelmen and wheelwomen as they skim through vista after vista, outstripping the horse and carriage as a grayhound outstrips a poodle. On the other hand, only inveterate loiterers, the Lazy Lawrences of travel, can appreciate the subtler beauties of this woodland world. There are certain sights and sounds not to be caught by hurried observers, evanescent aspects of cloud-land and tree-land rock and undergrowth, passing notes of bird and insect, varied melodies, if we may so express it, of summer breeze and autumn wind, in fine, a dozen experiences enjoyed one day, not repeated on the next.

"The music of the forest is a quiet music and has to be listened for, scarcely on the cyclist's ear falls the song, or rather accompaniment of the grasshopper, 'The Muse of the Wayside,' a French poet has so exquisitely apostrophised. One prominent charm indeed of the Fontainebleau forest is this wealth of under-growth, bushes, brambles, and ferns, making a second lesser thickets on all sides. In sociable moods, delightful it is to go a-blackberrying here. I am almost tempted to say that if you want to realize the lusciousness of a hedgerow dessert, you must cater for yourself in these forty thousand acres of blackberry orchard.

"But the foremost, the crowning excellence of Fontainebleau forest consists in its variety. France itself, the 'splendid hexagon,' with its mountains, rivers, and plains, is scarcely more varied than this vast area of rock and woodland. We can choose between miles, savage or idyllic, pastoral or grandiose, here finding a sunny glade, the very spot for a picnic, in there declivities and gloomy chasms. The magnificent ruggedness of Alpine scenery is before our eyes, without the awfulness of snow-clad peaks or the blinding dazzle of glacier. In more than one place we could almost fancy that some mountains had been upheaved and split asunder, the clefts formed by these gigantic fragments being now filled with veteran trees."

Crushing the Seminoles.

The Seminole Indians are to be moved to a reservation on the west coast of Florida—an area of 21,000 acres. Though partly under water, the tract is deemed of adequate extent, inasmuch as there are only about 225 Seminoles left.

This is the melancholy remnant of what was once a powerful tribe, which owned the whole of Florida and fought with the United States Government one of the most vigorously contested wars in the history of Uncle Sam.

The Seminoles are notably handsome people and their young women are the prettiest of all Indian girls. There are no white half-breeds among them. So strong in the tribe is hatred of Uncle Sam that, if a Seminole woman were to have a child by a white man, she would be likely to be put to death.

Around their necks the women wear many strings of beads of cut-glass, which they buy from traders. Sometimes a squaw is adorned with as much as six quarts of these beads, and even the girl babies are loaded down with them. The women pierce as many as ten holes in the upper rim of each ear to hold pegs of wood.

The Seminole house is of peculiar construction, having a roof and floor, but no sides. Its framework is of palmetto poles, which support a platform three feet from the ground and a roof of palmetto leaves. It is all one room, open to view from without, and one might imagine that here was the limit of nonprivacy were it not that the Seminole dwelling is customarily hidden in the jungle. The treatment and extermination of the Seminoles is one of the blots on the history of the United States.

Sneeze-Wood Tree.

The sneeze-wood tree is a native of Natal and other parts of South Africa. Its odd name was given to it because one cannot saw it without sneezing violently. The dust of its wood has just the same effect as the strongest snuff, and is so irritating to the nose that workmen are obliged to sneeze even when they are planing it. If a piece of the wood of this tree is put into the mouth it is found to have a very bitter taste, and no doubt it is this bitterness which prevents insects of any kind from attacking the timber of the sneeze-wood tree. The fact that insects find it so disagreeable makes its wood very valuable for work that is required to last a long time.

Herbert Hoover.

Herbert Hoover, the former food controller, is a man in early middle life whose face is still curiously boyish. He is evidently one of those men whose countenances retain an almost juvenile appearance, even when crowned by the white hair of age. His hair is only slightly gray and his figure is sturdy, although not as robust as his pictures would lead one to believe. He is the very opposite to the ordinary successful American, without ostentation of dress or manner, holding himself gravely and with much dignity.

Eve's Tomb.

A mile to the north of the town of Jeddah lies the tomb of Eve. Here, according to tradition, the mother of the race was buried. It is in many respects a remarkable monument, famous for its great length, as it is contended that Eve was very tall. The tomb is a Mohammedan shrine.

HOW TO RID THE ARMS OF OBJECTIONABLE HAIRS

(Aids to Beauty)

A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required: Mix a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has vanished. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real delatone.

Sup't Rogers Explains New Regulations as to Firearms

No Charge For Permits To Have Knives or Guns—License Can Be Refused or Granted.

Toronto, Feb. 15—Misunderstanding regarding the provisions of the offensive weapons act, section 118 of the criminal code of Canada, were explained by Superintendent Joseph Rogers, of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Offensive weapons under the act are divided into two classes. The first includes "sheath knives, bowie knives, daggers, stilettos, metal knuckles, skull crackers or other offensive weapons which may be concealed on the person." The second class includes "cannon, machine guns, revolvers, pistols, bombs or other firearms, or any devices for muffling or stopping the report of any firearms."

Permits to carry weapons of the second class, may be obtained from chiefs of police or other officials. Permits for weapons of the first class allow them to be kept in the home only, and under no circumstances may they be carried upon the person except in the home.

Permits may be issued by officers of the Northwest Mounted Police, Dominion Police or superintendents of Dominion Police; by magistrates, sheriffs or chiefs of police. No fee is set by the act according to superintendent Rogers, and officials have no power to charge a fee for issuing a permit. They have power, however, to refuse permits unless satisfactory cause can be shown for the carrying of a weapon.

COVER ONE YEAR ONLY.

Permits are issued for a year only, and must be renewed at the end of that period. Permits are valid only within the jurisdiction of the official issuing them. A permit issued by the police chief or magistrate of Toronto, would permit the carrying of weapons only in Toronto; a permit issued by the provincial police superintendent would permit weapons to be carried anywhere in Ontario.

Permits are required for every individual weapon, including war trophies.

"How about a gun which was defective, and could not be used?"

"It would still be a gun and a permit would be required."

"Are permits required for hand grenades?" "Yes, they come under the head of bombs."

"Would a rifle with a bayonet attached be counted as two weapons, and require two permits?" "There is no reference to bayonets in the act."

Ownership of a weapon before the coming into effect of the act in October last does not exempt a person from the obligation of obtaining a permit. The only exemption is in the case of shot-guns, and this applies only when they were owned by British subjects. The act does not restrict the issuing of permits to British subjects only, but Superintendent Rogers states that very few permits are issued to foreigners.

Police have power to search any persons suspected of illegally carrying weapons, the superintendent continued. Search warrants are required for the entrance and search of homes, and such searches are made only when there is reason to believe weapons are illegally possessed there.

The act also forbids sale or loan or gift of the weapons enumerated, to persons not holding permits. The maximum penalty under the act is $100 fine and three months' imprisonment.

Strict precautions are being taken in connection with all weapons imported into Canada, Superintendent Rogers stated, telling of an occasion on which it took his department two weeks to obtain the release of a number of guns sent them from the United States.

Caruso Desperately Ill

New York, Feb. 16.—Enrico Caruso, famous operatic tenor who has been slowly recovering from a Pleurisy attack suffered a severe heart attack this morning. At eight o'clock Caruso's condition was reported to be slightly improved the attending doctors admitted, however, that the famous singer was desperately ill.

King Dodges Tariff Issue in Amendment to Address

OPPOSITION LEADER RELIES ON "USURPATION OF POWER" ARGUMENT IN PARLIAMENTARY ATTACK ON OTTAWA GOVERNMENT—HIS WEAK POSITION IS MERCILESSLY EXPOSED AND DEMOLISHED BY PREMIER MEIGHEN.

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—The absurdity of the "usurpation of power" argument which Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King concocted for use in the West Peterboro by-election and the motives underlying it were seriously exposed in Right Hon. Arthur Meighen's contribution to the debate upon the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne in the Commons tonight. The Liberal leader imported his new theory of the intent of the constitution into the House in the form of an amendment to the address reading "we respectfully submit to Your Excellency that Your Excellency's present advisers do not possess the confidence of this House or of the country and that their retention of office constitutes a usurpation of the powers of propular government." The proposition, as the Prime Minister showed, was apparently stated for the purpose of cloaking the Opposition leader's avoidance of any expression of opinion on the tariff issue which might estrange Protectionist Liberals in Eastern Canada or antagonize low tariff advocates in the Prairie Provinces.

It was couched in general terms without any reference to an early dissolution of Parliament in order that members of the progressive or Farmers' group might not oppose it as calling for a general election before the Western Provinces had been accorded an increase in their Parliamentary representation based on the forthcoming decennial census.

Mr. King argued that the present Government was either a new one, with a new Premier and a new policy or a remnant of the Union Government formed for the prosecution of the war in 1917.

Acceptance of neither horn of the dilemma, he said, would free the Ministry from the obligation to appeal to the people.

Ontario Budget Shows Big Deficit

Government to Resort to New Forms of Taxation to Augment Revenue.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—The Treasurer, who has decided to get up and explain a deficit of $800,000, an increase in ordinary expenditure of over $1,000,000 and a jump in the provincial debt of $20,000,000, more or less, isn't in the happiest position imaginable, and when he happens to be a member of a party that stressed beyond all other things the necessity for an immediate and sweeping reduction in expenditure the job is one that requires either eloquence and adroitness or a capacity for looking facts in the face and accepting with uncomplaining meekness any brickbats that may happen to be flying around. The Hon. Peter Smith has a deficit on the year's operations and it does not worry him at all, since he is satisfied that the money has been well spent, and yesterday in delivering his budget address to the House he put the arts of eloquence to one side and gave the members a matter of fact statement of the provincial finances. Quite frankly he admitted that he would have preferred a surplus, but the deficit was there and that was all there was to it. The Treasurer would hardly have been human had he not resorted to the time-honored practice of turning a deficit into a surplus, but he did it in passing without advancing any claim that his deficit was a real one. His point was that under the system of accounting used by the old Government and departed from last year his figures would have given a balance on the right side of the ledger.

The Treasurer gave the members little hope of reduction in expenditure during the current year, in fact the total for the year will almost certainly show a substantial increase. The estimate given to the House yesterday was $20,880,000, and to this must be added statutory expenditure and the further supplementary estimates, which will probably add another $6,000,000 or $7,000,000 to the year's outlay. The past year's total was $25,840,000. To meet this increase the Treasurer estimates receipts at $25,683,878, but this figure will probably prove a conservative one, since it is only some $600,000 over the receipts of the past year and new legislation foreshadowed by the Treasurer will bring it at least another $1,500,000.

NEW TAXATION MEASURES.

The new taxation measures, as already indicated, provide for a tax of two mills on the dollar on all property transfers, an increase in the mileage tax on steam railways from $25 to $10, a ten per cent. tax on all pool rooms and billiard room earnings, and a quarter of one per cent. tax on the reserves of the banks. The amendments to the Corporations Tax Act under which the railways and banks are taxed will, according to Mr. Smith, bring in about $450,000, the poolrooms will contribute a modest $250,000 and land transfer taxes a similar amount. The extra mining taxes are expected to bring in an additional $100,000. This year the province will also begin to get some advantage from the succession duty increases enacted last session. Since estates have eighteen months in which to settle up, much of this extra taxation will not reach the province until after the close of the present fiscal year, but some of it will help to swell the revenue total.

Opposition Members Holding Caucuses

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—With the first caucus of each of the opposition groups having been disposed of before the house meets today, national progressive farmers party having met this morning, interest is turning to the probable gathering of government supporters to be held for the purpose of putting politics before the members. It is not expected however, in view of the fact that a number of government supporters have not yet reached Ottawa that any caucus of the party will be held this week. To-night he was reported as being comfortable.

Cement Co Had Only Fair Year Outlook Good

Senator W. C. Edwards, president of the Canada Cement Company in reviewing the business year of this corporation ending Dec. 31 last, stated that after providing for interest on bonds dividends on stock and other fixed charges the surplus has been drawn on for $525,887 to write off a proper amount for depreciation. During 1919 the sum of $1,011,119 was transferred from surplus to reserve for fire insurance and the sum of $241,666 was charged against surplus to provide a fund for depreciation for that year. Senator Edwards pointed out that during the past few years the company has drawn on surplus to the extent of $767,553 to enable it to provide for depreciation.

The report deals with the high cost of manufacture as compared with the moderate advance in the price of cement and in view of this condition the company does not show a remunerative year. The statement indicates that the company could have obtained much higher prices but did not consider this the right procedure. The company endeavored to keep the producing capacity of the plants well ahead of requirements. This policy is deemed beneficial. The company recognizes the fact that in adopting this policy the company is not making as large profits as could be obtained if the company manufactured only what could be consumed each year and allowed the peaks of consumption to be imported.

Senator Edwards at some length deals with the general outlook for the cement business and while he is not any too cheerful concerning the immediate outlook he is not altogether discouraged and believes that the company will in time show a greatly increased business and incidentally profits as a result of continued economy and efficient management.

BLUENOSE LOOKS GOOD FOR SCHOONER-RACES

Halifax, Feb. 16.—"Bluenose" is the name which has been selected for the schooner, now nearing completion in the yards of Messrs. Smith and Rhuland at Lunenburg, with which Captain Angus Walters, formerly master of the fleet "Gilbert B. Walters", and his associates hope to earn the honor of being the Canadian contenders in the second series of international schooner races to be held off Halifax this fall for the Halifax Herald Trophy.

"Bluenose" represents a marked departure from the type of schooner which has found most favor in Nova Scotia yards during the past few years but fishermen are agreed that this departure is all in favor of the vessel's efficiency as a fishing machine. That it will also add speed is a matter they are taking for granted for the time being, reserving their considered judgment against the time that the fleet makes an actual start for the fishing banks in the Spring.

Fishing experts who had previously contended that to build a schooner for speed was to impair her usefulness as a fisherman, express wonder at the accommodation which the "Bluenose" will provide for crew and cargo and the concensus of opinion is that she will prove capable of stocking as large a fare of fish as any schooner of equal waterline sailing out of Nova Scotian ports. The only criticism of the boat as a fisherman is that "She will not work well in a tide", but that too, they admit, remains to be proved.

W. J. Roue of Halifax, the amateur designer who is entering the schooner field for the first time with his design of the "Bluenose", expressed himself to the Canadian Press as being pleased with the work that is going into his creation and the speed with which she is being constructed. He stated that it would not be the fault of her builders, if she failed to win out in the elimination trials next Fall.

Dominions Must Share Burden Of Defence of British Empire

TOO MUCH TO EXPECT BRITISH ISLES TO BEAR WHOLE BURDEN OF DEFENCE OF EMPIRE, SAID PREMIER LLOYD GEORGE—CONFERENCE OF PREMIERS IN JUNE TO BE MOMENTOUS EVENT.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Premier Lloyd George, speaking in the British House of Commons last evening, declared that it was too much to ask of these small islands that they undertake the whole burden of the gigantic empire in every sea and that at the forthcoming conference of Premiers of the Dominions in London the whole problem of Imperial defence must be considered. There must be, the Premier said, co-ordination, not only between the various services, but between the several parts of the empire. He stated that the conference of Premiers to be held in June would be the most momentous event in the history of the empire. General consent was now given to the principle that the Mother Country and Dominions must make common cause to defend the world's liberty and the empire's interests. This did not mean that it was the intention to involve Canada, Australia and India in all the Mother Country's quarrels, but it did mean the standing together of the various countries of the empire when there was some great cause at stake as in the late war.

Rural Credits Appear in House In 3-Bill Form

First Measure Provides for Short Terms, Second for Long, Third for Financing

Toronto, Feb. 16.—The long-forecasted rural credits legislation was forthcoming in the legislature this afternoon, when Hon. Manning Doherty introduced three bills to provide for the system. One measure provides for short-term co-operative rural credits, the second for long-term mortgage loans, the third for the means of financing the other two loans.

An act to amend the dairy standard's act was introduced by Hon. Manning Doherty. The amendment provides for government inspection of dairy tests, the minister explained.

An act respecting short-term farm loans provides that farm loan associations may be formed in any township, incorporated village or unorganized territory in Ontario.

It is provided that the capital stock of the association shall be made up of one share of par value for each member, and there must be at least thirty members. The township and the province shall each subscribe one-half the amount subscribed by individual members.

Board of Seven

A board of seven shall pass upon all loans and no loan shall be granted without their recommendation. The association to the extent of its capital stands behind all loans.

The rate of interest charged by any association is not to exceed seven per cent., and it is anticipated that the association will secure money at six per cent. and the difference of one per cent. will be used to finance the small expenditure of the association. All associations are to be under the supervision of the agricultural development board which is to be appointed by the government for this purpose.

It is provided that the minister of agriculture may enter into agreements of guarantees with banks, loan companies or other corporations for securing moneys for the purposes of associations.

The act respecting long term loans for agricultural development provides for the incorporation of three persons as the agricultural development board which is to be a body corporate with power to issue bonds and debentures bonds may be issued by the board up to $500,000 and may be purchased by the Province of Ontario. The proceeds from the sale of bonds are then available for making long-term loans on first mortgages on farm property. The bill provides for all safeguards and machinery for supervision. An act respecting the raising of money to finance agricultural development outhorizes the treasurer of Ontario to borrow money by means of deposits in any amounts or form any persons or corporations and to open offices for this purpose at such points in the province as he may find necessary. The moneys so taken in deposits are to be available for financing short term farm loan associations as long-term bonds or debentures or may be invested in bonds or debentures guaranteed by the Dominion of Canada or the province or any school section.

Division of Opinion As to Election

Special Despatch to the Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—Attitude of national progressives and cross benchers Liberal amendment to the address is causing much discussion about house corridors. Some of the former members from the prairies are stated to be rather in favor of holding off until the west can get what they term proper representation by re-distribution. Others, however, appear to think there is no time like the present for bringing on an election if such is possible. Generally speaking, at the present time it is thought the progressives will support amendment.

FAVOR TIMBER LIMIT FOR SPANISH RIVER CO.

Sault Ste Marie, Ont., Feb. 15.—Following a full discussion at a meeting of the Great War Veterans' Association the following resolution upholding the application of the Spanish River and Pulp and Paper Company's request for more land from the provincial department of lands and forests was unanimously passed:

"We the Great War Veterans of Sault Ste. Marie in meeting assembled beg to call your attention to the request of the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company for an additional tract of timber land comprising about five thousand five hundred, square miles. This company has been very prominent in building up this district and at Espanola and Sturgeon Falls. It has also been very considerate of returned men and has assisted us in every way.

"This company is one of the fairest in dealing with its employes and is a credit to Canada. The Great War Veterans beg that every consideration will be given to the application, for it has spent millions in New Ontario, is desirable in every way, and if this tract was put on the open market it might be secured by an American concern that would be undesirable. We consider it to be your duty to encourage concerns of this stamp. New Ontario needs this company and the company needs the timber. We beg to call your attention to the fact that the paper company is in no way responsible for this letter."

"YANKEE TWANG" DUE TO LAZINESS OF JAW

Wellesley, Mass., Feb. 16.—Dr. Eugene Howe, professor of hygiene at Wellesley College startled his class of girls to-day by declaring that New England's traditional "Yankee twang" is due mostly to laziness of the jaw. is not attributed to a lack of jaw exercise but to an unaccountable failure to let the lower jaw fall far enough in articulating.

Students from New England who are by no means in a great majority are being urged by western girls to practice jaw calisthenics by wearing non-adjustable veils.

Company Issues Writ Against Timber Judges

Spanish River Pulp and Paper Mills, Ltd., Launches Action.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—A writ was issued at Osgoode Hall by Percy B. Wilson, C. H. L. Jones, George R. Gray, J. G. Gibson and the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Mills, Ltd., against Hon. William Renwick Riddell and Hon. Francis Robert Latchford, the commissioners conducting the timber investigation.

The plaintiffs' claim is as follows:

1. A declaration that defendants are professing to act as commissioners under Revised Statutes of Ontario, chapter 18, without lawful authority.

2. A declaration that the defendants are endeavoring to investigate matters relating to the business and affairs of the plaintiffs without jurisdiction.

3. A declaration that the subpoenas duces tecum or summonses issued by the defendants to the plaintiffs dated 5th February, 1921, are beyond the jurisdiction of the defendants and irrelevant to the purpose of the commission to require the individual plaintiffs to attend as witnesses and produce the papers and documents set out in said subpoenas or summonses.

And for an injunction and such other relief as the plaintiffs are entitled to.

Place of trial, Toronto.

The writ was issued by Col. Thomas Gibson, solicitor to the plaintiffs.

Shirley Denison, K.C., solicitor for the defendants, has entered an appearance. Mr. C. Hile in references to the writ said:

"The company refuses to produce anything (not having passed between the government and the company) in connection with the company's business with the government, and generally "any books, papers or documents in any way relating to the application of September 19, 1919, or to the loan of $5,000,000, or $3,500,000 from Peabody, Houghteling and Co."

PROBE STANDS ADJOURNED.

In consequence of the action taken by the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Co. to obtain an injunction against the Riddell-Latchford timber commission, the commissioners have declined to proceed further with any matters in connection with the timber investigation, pending the decision of the courts.

"No Politics" Subject Debate

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—The view is expressed here that the dispute between the management and the employes of the Canadian National Railways, arising from President Hanna's "No Politics" order may be the subject of a debate in House of Commons during the present session. Although no definite news has been received it is thought employes would prefer to have the case placed before Parliament to taking immediate action. Both parties are standing firm but it is thought that some way out of the difficulty might be found on the floor of Parliament.

Premier Drury Takes Definite Stand

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Premier Drury to day took a definite stand that produces made by free government labor should not be placed on the market in competition with products made by private concerns. This was made clear when he received a deputation from the Canadian National Clay Products Association who protested against the government selling bricks made by free labor at Mimico Brick Yards. W. W. Dunlop, Inspector of Prisons, said the Government could use all the bricks made by free labor.

ARE YOU LEGALLY MARRIED?

Portraying as its title implies, a theme of so great an interest to every person in this country and being based upon an absolute fact of law with which only 50% of the lawyers are familiar, and creating a situation unheard of in its drastic and tragic possibilities, it is no wonder that the film has been voted as one of the really big screen stories of the year. The picture itself is a masterpiece of screen art. The acting is unusually natural and most effective, every member of the cast which Nance Welch and an all-star aggregation playing role and living his or her part. The story is vividly portrayed, the scenario being by Henry Christeen Warnack, which is taken from the suggestion and research work of two years duration by Miss D. [illegible] B.A.

"Beats Anything" I Have Ever Seen

London Man Says Tanlac Will Always Get A Good Boost From Him.

"Before I took Tanlac a half-hour job would tire me out more than a whole day's work does now," said Robert J. Gow, of 446 Ridout street, London, Ontario.

"For seven years I was a sufferer from stomach trouble. Frequently after meals I had palpitation of the heart, dizziness and choking sensations. I never cared to eat and had very little strength or energy.

"I was weak and nervous, never slept well and would wake up in the morning feeling like I didn't care whether I got up or not. Honestly, I just had to force myself through my work every day and I had a dull, played-out, no-account feeling all the time.

"But I noticed a decided change in my feelings almost as soon as I began taking Tanlac, and when I had finished the second bottle I felt like a different man altogether. My appetite is fine now, and I never suffer from indigestion. I sleep well and don't have those tired feelings any more. Tanlac beats everything I have ever heard of to give a man new strength and energy and make him feel like something. It has done me a world of good and will always get a good recommendation from me."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store, and at the leading drug stores in all towns and cities.

FRONTENAC TO CLEVELAND

Frontenac Intermediates leave on Thursday next for Cleveland, where they play two games with the Cleveland team. Last year Frontenacs visited Cleveland, and lost two games each by one goal, the second game going overtime. The team to go to Cleveland will be: goal, Tobin; defence, L. Brown and Brouse; forwards, F. Brown, Derry, Stewart and Smith.

SOME CURLING SCORE

Setting a new record for a majority of an opponent, Norman D. McLeod, of the Heather Curling Club, Montreal, skipped his rink to victory in the International Bonspiel in Montreal, and by winning by 40 points retained possession of the Gordon Medal, won by his rink a year ago at Utica. The Heather Club was drawn against Syracuse and won 49 to 9. Other large majorities were: St. Lawrence Rink Syracuse, 32 to 7, and St. Andrew's against St. Andrew's, of New York 31 to 13.

Two other records were established in the bonspiel. One was that 18 Canadian rinks competed from Canada and the United States, and the other was that the Canadians won by a majority of 126 points. The grand total was Canadians 403, Americans 277. Canadians were victorious in 12 of the 18 games; three were drawn and Schenectady, Boston and Utica furnished three winning rinks.

Y. M. C. A. BOWLING

The game played between the G. T. R. Yards and the Teachers resulted in a win for the former team by a margin of 50 points. Although the Teachers lost the game Mott was high single man with 177, while Barragar of the same team was high three string with 407. Their scoring is much improved and we may yet hear from them. To-night's game is Merchants vs. K.V.A.

TONIGHT'S GAME

There is every prospect that the arena this evening will be taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate the hockey fans who are desirous witnessing what will in all probability be the match of the season here. The Varsity intermediate team of Toronto will be here to try conclusions with Belleville's fast team and here's hoping our boys will be able to secure a comfortable lead over the students team. The prospects are by no means encouraging for hard ice as it has been thawing to a considerable extent during the day. The visiting team accompanied by some admirers arrived here at noon.

The Port Hope Guide makes the following comments on the game played Monday night in Port Hope:

The old song was "hang up the fiddle and the bow"; now it is "hang up the hockey sticks and skates." Belleville gave our championship aspirations a rude jolt last evening, when they defeated us on our own ice by a score 8 to 2, and won the round by 18 to 8. Numerous reasons are advanced to-day for the defeat. One enthusiastic supporter says The Guide rooster always brings hard luck; a young lady says the Cobourg uniforms which the Ontarios donned last evening was the hoodo; some one else says it was the heavy ice, and others blame the referee. We are not going to analyze all these reasons, but we just wish to point out that The Guides rooster played a prominent part in 1907 when Alf Gamble, Billy Bennett, James McLean, Jaksey Mercer, the Hemmick Brothers and Percy Murphy brought the Junior championship home. There was only one reason for our defeat in Belleville and at home, and that was the fact that Belleville had a much superior team. On hard ice the Ontarios would have made a better showing but they could never defeat Belleville. That Belleville forward line is fast and heavy, the two defence men tipped the scales at the 175 mark, and the team plays good combination. It will take a real good team to defeat Belleville, and here's hoping they go through and bring the honors east.

THE ONLOOKER'S VIEW OF PETERBORO ELECTION.

James Cobourg Hodgins, editor of The Onlooker, who has made a close study of the political situation in Ontario, sizes up the Peterboro election as follows:

"The Win-the-War Liberals and the old Conservatives now find themselves at one, and represent the only solid, homogeneous group in the country. Each is vitally essential to the other. The idea that the old Conservative bloc, which the Hon. Robt. Rogers represents, can ever come back on the strength of the old war-cries is an idle dream and may as well be given up. The Liberal party in Ontario is all at sea. Follow the Hon. Mackenzie King the United Empire Liberals will not. They are now in the ring of protection, and intend to stay there. The evolution towards this climax is now complete. An era ended with "the great break" in 1917. Had the N. L. and Conservative party in Peterboro not been divided it would have swept the field. The moral is "close ranks."

"If the election was a mandate to the present Government to go to the country, then the result of the East Elgin election was a notice to Hon. Mackenzie King to quit, for his candidate (Charlton) was completely snowed under. No single constituency can determine the fate of a government. The general election will show Peterboro in the Conservative column. The circumstances were peculiar and extraordinary. The personal element played a large part; but even so, Burnham was defeated on the single issue on which he ran. He expected to be elected.

"The outstanding fact is, not Mr. Gordon's election, but the sullen rejection of the Hon. W. S. Fielding's advances to the farmers. Every advance of the Laurier-Liberals towards the U.F.O. has been met by an emphatic "No!" The Right Hon. Arthur Meighen has made no advances in that direction; and even the dour J. J. Morrison holds him in begrudging respect.

"But there are clear evidence that the U.F.O. group is disintegrating. The Hon. Mr. Drury's cry for "A People's Party" which has infuriated the original founders of the U.F.O., shows which way the wind is blowing.

"The Farmers' Government in Queen's Park is now in an actual minority, and is existing by the general tolerance of the groups opposed to it.

"Should the farmers reach threatening proportions, then all who believe in protection as our salvation (including Quebec) will have to join forces for the common good of the country."

A WOODPILE THAT COVERS 9,000 MILES.

There are forty million newspapers published every week day in the United States and they use a pile of pulp-wood four feet high and nine thousand miles long every twelvemonth, says the current news-letter of the Canadian Forestry Association.

The making of the modern newspaper, however, is but one of a thousand services performed by the forest. Farming is dependent upon wooden houses, wooden barns, fence posts and fuel. Fisheries cannot operate without wooden boats, boxes and barrels. Most of the factories of Eastern Canada depend upon wood supplies in their processes to such an extent that a wood scarcity would effectually close down industrial employment.

The forests of Eastern Canada, therefore, may be regarded as a "keystone" bearing up the arch of industrial employment. This is a phase of forest conservation too often neglected. People usually associate the forests with lumbermen and the paper mill, whereas the Niagara fruit grower and the farm implement factory share the drastic handicaps that accompany forest depletion. At the present time there is no more insidious enemy to the maintenance and development of industries in Eastern Canada than the annual plague of forest fires. Taking Canada as a whole, ten acres have been stripped of timber by fire to one that has been denuded by the axe.

GERMANY MUST AND CAN PAY

Harvey's Weekly

Germany must pay. That is the conclusion of the whole matter. It is impudent to say that she cannot. It is insulting to the Allies to say that they cannot compel her. The Allies have not merely told her how much she must pay. They have told her how she can and must raise the money. They have also warned her of what will happen to her if she does not obey. We have an idea that if a draft of the very lenient and forbearing decree of the Allies were pinned to the Reichstag's door with a good Poilu's bayonet, and a French army were billetted upon Berlin and a substantial British squadron were anchored in Hamburg harbor, there would be a commendable increase of activity in German taxgathering and a most inspiring disclosure of German financial resources which Germany would like to conceal from the world. We have a notion that something of that sort may happen if Germany does not toe the mark.

POETS' CORNER

COMPARISON

When I engaged in politics I looked around about,
And found a lot of things which left
my mind in serious doubt.
I wondered how a man could speak in such a feverent tone.
When he expressed opinions so at variance with my own,
And what particularly brought sensations of distress
Was to note the oppositions' unremitting wickedness!
It seemed on human nature a reflection very sad
To find a man so boldly, industriously bad.

And when I turned the picture round and viewed the other side,
I held my head erect, my bosom rose with conscious pride.
For after all, this world must be considered fortunate, fortunate
In having such a habitant as our own candidate!
And once again I marvelled as I gazed with eager eyes,
Upon this man whose very word was beautifully wise;
'Twas very hard to understand how anybody could
Try as he might, both day and night, to be so completely good.

Outwitted the Judge

The juryman ran breathlessly into the court.

Oh, my lord, he exclaimed, if you can excuse me, pray do. I don't know which will die first—my wife or my daughter.

Dear me, that's sad, said the innocent judge. Certainly, you are excused.

The next day the juryman was met by one of his fellow-jurors, who in a sympathetic voice asked:

How's your wife?

She's all right. Why do you ask?

And your daughter?

She's all right, too. Why do you ask?

Why yesterday you told the judge that you did not know which would die first.

Nor do I. That is a problem that time alone can solve.

Development of X-Ray

THERE have been from time to time during the century past a few discoveries destined to make profound changes in human thought and mode of life. It is thought that the dark splotches which the telescope reveal on the sun's flaming surface may be caused by the increased opacity of the veil of gas surrounding the sun and due to the whirlpool motion.

Do sun spots give the sun its "pulse" and are these same spots the source of the earth's electricity?

In answer to this question Prof. Scriven Bolton, the well-known astronomer, of Waterloo Observatory, Bramley, Yorks, England, describes a sun spot as "a seething ocean of incandescent metallic vapors; a bird's-eye view of a small portion of the solar surface, highly magnified, showing a normal group of sunspots." In an article in the London Illustrated News Prof. Bolton points out that there is a preponderance of sun spots in the eastern hemisphere over the western. "This disproportion," he says, "is of purely terrestrial origin." This phenomenal influence, astronomers say, may be explained on the assumption that the earth is a body inherently receptive to the electrical agencies which constitute the generating properties of sun spots. As the spots are carried in front of the earth, a connection is presumably established, followed by premature dissolution and final extinction of the spots. The magnetic needle, which denotes an electric storm, is often disturbed during the passage of large spots. Sun spots may be totally invisible to an inhabitant on another planet.

There are still several things for astronomers to explain about the sun, one of which is the original of the colossal bonfires which blaze up from the sun with the speed of explosions, and which are very inadequately named prominences. Two of these eruptive giants showed themselves last year, one on May 29 and another on July 15. They were examined with unbroken attention by Prof. Edison Pettit, through the forty-inch telescope of the Yerkes Observatory, Williams Bay, Wisconsin, and an account of his observations appears in the Astrophysical Journal, published by the University of Chicago.

The first of these eruptions spread itself over a patch of the sun's surface into which the earth might have been dropped without causing a greater splash. It was 271,000 miles in length. The eruption itself shot upwards with enormous rapidity. At one time it traveled 287,500 miles in six hours, or at the rate of nearly 48,000 miles an hour, three and a half miles a second. It continued its career for three days, when it reached its greatest height of 760,000 kilometers, nearly half a million miles. At the beginning it had a claw-like structure at its base, and thereafter went up spirally, seeming like a great elastic band that was ever being stretch till it snapped.

Problems connected with the sun formed a striking feature of the recent discussions of the British Association at Cardiff, and for that reason, and because of the discovery of a new star in Cygnus, what Prof. Edwin Sharpe Grey says in the London Graphic about the sun's variability is of special interest.

"That bright disc in the sky which is the source of all our heat and energy, and possibly of all life as we know it," writes Prof. Grew, "is only a symbol of what the sun really is. Through a telescope it does not appear a bright disc at all, but one that is so covered by small clouds that its surface has been said to have a rice-grain structure.

"For, after all, the sun cannot be imagined as a solid body. It might be a gaseous one, with an inner temperature incomparably higher than the paltry 5,773 degrees Centigrade which it reveals to our measuring instruments. Once it was thought that when great sun spots swept across the sun its body was revealed in the depths of those monstrous whirlpools, but that, again, is a supposition now discredited. The darkened area of the spots is an optical illusion.

"The outer skin is certainly made up of the incandescent gases of hydrogen, helium and calcium. Of that the methods of examination perfected some years ago by Prof. Hale have made sure. But the little cirro-cumulus clouds, the 'rice-grains' below them are rather an awkward problem. They are metallic, and it was supposed at one time that they were the condensation clouds of metallic vapors below them, even as we might suppose water vapor in the earth's atmosphere to condense under certain conditions of temperature into rain water. But this explanation will not answer, because still higher in the sun's atmosphere are vapors of silicon and carbon which have not condensed. Why have they remained gaseous when they are farther removed from the central and hottest part of the sun? Is there a cool belt in the sun's atmosphere, above which it becomes hotter again?

"That is an awkward question, which, as a matter of fact, presents itself in other hot stars beside the sun—Sirius, for example. An explanation, not wholly satisfactory, is that the appearance of condensation in the rice-grains is another illusion, produced by the irregularities of temperature. The darkness of sun spots might similarly be due to the increased opacity of the veil of gas due to the whirlpool motion. Both suppositions would leave us to imagine that the sun might be gas all through, though it would be gas under almost inexplicable pressure at its core."

PLANNING WINTER CARNIVAL

According to the present plans of the Thousand Island Fish and Game Club, Clayton, N.Y., will be equally as popular next season as a winter resort, as it is now as a summer resort. A winter carnival, with full programme of winter sports, is now being gone over in detail. An ice palace will be one of the features. For many years the matter of making the Thousand Islands and St. Lawrence river popular in winter has been under discussion and it now seems as if the question has come to a focus and that the hopes of the river residents will be realized.

Your Efficiency Depends on Your Eyes

Good Work needs good Eyesight, because as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so a man is no stronger than his weakest faculty. And now, when the quality of one's work will play such an important part in determining one's income, you owe it to yourself to keep your faculties alert—keen—fit for competition.

Don't wonder if your eyes are efficient. Have them examined and KNOW.

The Daredevil

By

Maria Thompson Daviess

Author of "The Melting of Molly"

Copyright, 1916, by the Reilly & Britton Co.

"I am glad that we have made this Camp Heaven," I answered to him as I slid from my horse, ungirthed him and drew from his back the heavy saddle he had worn for the day, as I had been taught by my father to do after a day's hunting if no groom came immediately. "Is it that you have hunger, my Gouverneur Faulkner?"

"Only about ten pounds of food craving," he made answer to me with a large laugh that was the first I had ever heard him to give forth. "I'll rustle the fire and water if you'll open the food wallet and feed the horses."

"Immediately I will do all of that," I made an answer to him, and because of the happiness of that laugh he had given forth a gladness rose in my heart that made me again that merry boy Robert.

And it was with a great industry for a short hour that we prepared the Camp Heaven for a sojourn of a night. Upon a very nice hot fire I put good bacon to cook, and my gouverneur set also the pot of coffee upon the coals. Then, while I made crisp with the heat the brown corn pones with which that Granny Bell had provided us, he brought a large armful of a very fragrant kind of tree and threw it not far into the shadow of the great tree which was the roof to our Camp Heaven.

"Bed," he said as he came and stood beside the fire in a large towering over me. I dropped beyond rescue a fragment of that corn bread into the extreme heat of the coals, but I said, with a great composure and a briefness like unto his words:

"Supper."

"Why is it that a man thinks he wants more of life's goods than fatigue, supper and bed, do you suppose, boy?" question my Gouverneur Faulkner to me as at last in repletion he leaned back against our giant rooftree, between two of whose hospitable large roots we had made our repast, and lighted a pipe of great fragrance, which he had taken from his pocket.

"I would not possess happiness even though I had this nice supper if I was alone in this great forest, your excellency. I would have fear," I answered him, with a small laugh as I took my corduroy knees into my embrace and looked off into that distant valley below us which was beginning to glow with stars of home lights.

"Didn't I tell you once that you don't count, that you are just myself, youngster? You ought not to know I am here. I don't know you exist except as a form of pleasure of which I do not ask the reason," was the answer that my Gouverneur Faulkner made to me.

"I excuse myself away with humbleness for impertinence, your excellency," I returned to him.

"If you tried do you think you could call me Bill just for tonight, boy?" was

"You think you could call me Bill, just for tonight, boy?"

the answer he made to my excuses as he puffed a beautiful ring of smoke at me.

"I could not," I answered, with an indignation.

"I heard you call Sue Tomlinson Sue the first night you danced with her."

"But that Mlle. Sue is a woman, my Gouverneur Faulkner," I answered, with haste.

"That's the reason that women get at us to do us, youngster. We don't approach them as human to human, but we go up on their blind side, and they come back at us in the dark with a knife." And as he spoke all of the gayness of joy was lost from the voice of my beloved gouverneur, and in its place was a bitterness.

"With pardon I say that it is not a truth of all women, your excellency," I answered, with pride, as my head went up high at his condemnation of the sex of which I was one.

"You don't know what you are talking about, youngster. They all think I am cold and pass me along, except a few experienced ladies who—shall I say?—adventure for graft with me. I've been too busy really to love or let love, but I know 'em, and you don't. Let's stop talking about what concerns neither of us and go to bed. See this young cedar tree? I'm going to throw my blanket across it, and with these extra boughs I'll make a genuine cradle for each of us on the opposite sides of the trunk. Then we'll cover with your blanket and be as comfortable as two middies in their hammocks in a man-of-war. This is a piece of woodcraft of my own invention, and I'm proud of it, old scout."

"Here Comes The Bride!"

Everybody wishes her well! Happy and radiant she starts out on life's adventure. She should have health to begin with. Good looks in woman do not depend upon age, but upon health. You never see a good-looking woman who is weak, run-down, irritable, out of sorts, fidgety and nervous. Headaches, backaches, and troubles of that sort are all destroyers of beauty. Men do not admire sickness. It is within the reach of every woman to be well, healthy and strong if she will take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

TORONTO, ONT.—"Less than a year ago I was in a very poor state of health; my back ached dreadfully and I could scarcely drag myself around to do my housework. I started to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I cannot praise it too highly for the great benefit I received. My backache and pains disappeared entirely and I soon was restored to perfect health. I know that Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best woman's medicine, for I have tried others that were recommended, and nothing has ever helped me so much as the Favorite Prescription."—MRS. THE WORLD'S LOSSES.

Some War Figures That Make Us Stand Aghast.

Forty million persons are not living to-day who might have been alive had there been no world war. Of these some ten million were lost on the battle fields. These figures were given out by the Society for the Study of the Social Consequences of the War, a Copenhagen organization, and are based upon personal inquiries into the changes in population. The report gives not only the actual war casualties, but the decline of the birth rate and the rise in the death rate, also the remarkable change in the proportion of the sexes. In the ten countries mentioned below the surplus female population has risen from about five million to about fifteen million, and the decline of the birth-rate represents 38 per cent. of the normal. Statistics show the total loss of life to have been more than thirty-five million persons, but the report declares that "if the losses of Turkey, Greece, Portugal, Montenegro, the United States, the British Dominions, and other non-European belligerents and colonies are included then the total loss to the world must be put down at forty million lives." In some instances, such as small states, it was impossible to obtain accurate data, so careful computations, based upon data from other countries, were made. And in Russia, where the fighting is raging even at this late date, and where hunger, cold, disease, and battle are taking their daily toll of lives, conservative circulations of the losses up to the middle of 1919 were made. Statistics of war casualties and changes in birth and death rates follow:

Origin of Signs.

There doesn't seem any connection between the "Bag o' Nails" and "Bacchanals," but there is. This is how it came about: An inn-keeper put the sign of the "Bacchanals" over his door, but his customers, not understanding it, pronounced it "Bag o' Nails," so it means practically the same thing as "Jolly Topers."

"The Goat and Compasses" was once the "God Encompasseth." Another of a similar nature is the "Pig an' Whistle." It is very old, being derived from the Anglo-Saxon phrase "Pigs Wassail," or "Hail, Virgin!" The "Lamb and Flag" is also religious in origin, but it retains its form unaltered. The "Swan With Two Necks" ought to be the "Swan With Two Nicks," for its beak was marked with two cuts, or nicks, to show who owned it.

"Bull and Mouth," for example, is the "Boulogne Mouth," from a sea fight which occurred outside the mouth of the harbor. So is the "Cat and Fiddle." It should be the "Canton fidele," or "faithful Canton," after a governor of Calais. Others are distinctly humorous. The "Good Woman," has no head, trying to wash a black boy white in the "Labor in Vain."

Cod Liver Oil for Plants.

How long a fern can like is an old botanical puzzle. Lichens are said to live 1,000; but they undergo a sort of hibernation. It is reported that in the living-room of an Oxfordshire (England) country house is a maidenhair fern that has just celebrated its 56th birthday. It is now some two feet across and very fine, fresh, and young in complexion. A year or two ago it seemed to be falling into the sere and yellow leaf and was threatened with its first illness. But after consultation with a local specialist the woman (who has tended her plant herself for 56 years) gave it a dose of cod liver oil. The brownness that threatened to invade the whole plant soon disappeared under the treatment, and it is now as vigorous and as green as ever. This maidenhair has, therefore, not only lived 56 years, but is still in the stage of active growth and development.

Milk From Peanuts.

The common peanut is the source of a new substitute for milk which so closely resembles its prototype that it turns sour and curdles, produces buttermilk when churned and may be made into cheese. The flavor, in which the nut characteristically persists, is declared to be practically its only point of variance with cow's milk. The new lacteal product originated in the laboratory of an American university where the peanut kernels are converted into four times their volume of milk, varying from 4 to 8 per cent. in fat content and from 2.4 to 3.3 per cent. in protein. The cost of production is said to be considerably less than the market price of dairy milk.

Shelly Forests.

Whole forests may be seen coated with shelly substances on the continent of New Holland. These encrustations are supposed to arise from decompositions of shellfish, which, transported by the winds, are deposited in the form of dust on trees and plants.

Good Cloth.

The extraordinary durability of the ancient Egyptian mummy cloth is believed to be due to the fact that it was finished with a vegetable blue derived from the African locust-bean tree.

VOL. LIV. NO. 38. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1921. PRICE TWO CENTS

Children Must Not Leave School Until Sixteen

The Enforcement of The Adolescent School Attendance Act.

The Adolescent School Attendance Act, by the proclamation of the Lieutenant-Governor, made on the 13th day of July, 1920, will come into force and take effect as follows: Section 3 on September 1st, 1921, Section 7 on September 1st, 1923, and Section 9 on September 1st, 1922.

The purpose of bringing the Act into force by stages is to make it possible to adjust gradually school accommodations, courses of study, and employments in industries to the conditions set up by the requirements of the Act.

Section 3 of the Act, which comes into operation on September 1st, 1921, provids for the attendance at school of adolescents between fourteen and sixteen years of age. The Minister announces that in conformity with this section of the Act, pupils are expected to remain in full-time attendance at school until they are sixteen years of age unless employed on the authority of a home permit or an employment certificate as provided for by the Act, but that it is not his intention to instruct Attendance Officers to make the Act retroactive by endeavoring to compel young persons between fourteen and sixteen years of age who have been engaged in regular employment to return to school. School authorities, accordingly, will, in the beginning be charged with providing only for the continued instruction of those who are at present at school and not for the numbers who might be forced to return to school by the strictest interpretation of the Act.

At the same time, the Minister expects that the Act will be made fully effective to the extent that Attendance Officers be appointed according to law and their departments organized to ensure, first, that all young persons between fourteen and sixteen years of age shall be either at school or at work; and, second, that all those who are at work either at home or in gainful employments, shall hold the permits or certificates required by law.

Section 9, which provides for the establishment and maintenance of part-time courses of instruction for young persons at work, comes into operation on September 1st, 1922. The Minister expects that Boards will be prepared to make this section effective on that date.

Whenever it is desired, the Minister through the officers of the Department of Education, will be ready to lend assistance to Boards in organizing attendance departments and in forming or in carrying out plans for part-time instruction.

Crow Lake Fracas May Have a Serious Result

Harold Reynolds, Crow Lake in Hospital With Fractured Skull.

Kingston, Feb. 18—Harold Reynolds, Crow Lake, lies in the Kingston General Hospital in a serious condition. On Monday afternoon he received a blow on the head from a stick in the hands of a neighbor at the C.P.R. Station at Crow Lake. His skull is fractured, and he is in a semi-conscious condition.

On Monday afternoon about 3 o'clock, Harold Reynolds was at the Crow Lake railway station, and an altercation arose between him and the man, who is alleged to have committed the assault with a heavy stick of wood. Reynolds is nineteen years of age, and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reynolds, Crow Lake. He was taken to his home, and Dr. Baker, of Sharbot Lake, was called to attend him, and he ordered immediate removal to the Kingston hospital. He was accompanied by his mother on Tuesday afternoon. The injury is reported very serious. The injured man has shown no improvement.

The case has caused much excitement among the residents of Crow Lake, as the parties are well-known. The man who dealt the blow is married, and has a large family of children.

One Thousand Soldiers Search Dublin For Arms

MOST EXTENSIVE SERIES OF RAIDS YET CARRIED OUT WITH MACHINE GUNS, MOTOR LORRIES AND ARMORED CARS — STREETS BARRICADED AND MACHINE GUN POSTS ESTABLISHED—FOUR KILLED IN COUNTY CORK.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

DUBLIN, Feb. 18.—The most extensive series of raids as yet carried out in the city of Dublin began early today. One thousand troops participated, being equipped with motor lorries, machine guns and armored cars. Districts around Mount Joy Square and approaches to that section of the city were barricaded and machine gun posts were established. A close search for arms was instituted and the extent of the preparations made for the raid indicates that there is no expectation on the part of the authorities of finishing it quickly. Four civilians were killed in a skirmish with an Essex Regiment patrol near Kilbriottain, County Cork, Wednesday night, it is said in a despatch received here.

Road Expenditure Sharply Attacked

Province Pays More for Same Work Than York County Commission

Toronto, Feb. 18.—While the farmer supporters of the Government listened with growing discomfort and doubt, Hon. Geo. S. Henry launched a vigorous attack upon the highway construction operations of Hon. F. C. Biggs, flatly charging wasteful expenditure and unbusinesslike methods. It was probably the most vigorous address since the opening of the budget debate, and was followed with close attention. The former Minister prefaced his evidence of undue expenditure by questioning the sincerity of the U.F.O. in respect to their pre-election declarations. Before the last general election the Hearst Government had been bitterly attacked in the rural districts because it had proposed a provincial highways system of 400 miles in addition to giving encouragement to county road construction, yet the present Minister of Public Works and Highways was coming to the House with a costly provincial system that embraced not 400 but over 1 800 miles of road, the highest type of which would represent an ultimate expenditure for construction, including grading, culverts, etc. of probably $60 000 a mile.

Then to show that Hon. Mr. Biggs was not getting good value for the money being spent, Hon. Mr. Henry gave the House a contrast in the expenditures made by the Provincial Department and the York County Commission on similar types of highway. On an eighteen-foot pavement of 3 inch asphalt, mixed method contracts had been awarded at from $23,200 to $25,800. "Yet last year, when prices were at the peak, we laid pavement on the Weston and Kingston roads at $20,500," he commented."

"For a cheaper class of road, of bituminous penetration with a three inch penetration surface, contracts were let by the department for $11,600 to $13,700. We got that done last year for $10,348. Those figures were made with prices at the peak and we expect to repeat and will repeat this year at the same prices."

When my honorable friend took over Yonge street last year we had tenders for a penetration resurfacing of the southern part of Yonge street at 98 cents a square yard. Under the same specifications to the same contractor this year the department has awarded it at $1.30 a yard."

"There is not a contract called for Yonge street or a contract let," contradicted the Minister, rising.

"Well, I have it here, and I presume the Minister has also," replied Mr. Henry, showing a copy of the "Canadian Engineer" with a list of contracts awarded by the Ontario Government, including one on Yonge street to the A. E. Jupp Construction Company.

Mrs. Cornell took a lantern and hurried to the spot. She had killed her son, Everett, twenty-six years old.

Rural Credits

Toronto, Feb. 18.—Speaking before the agricultural committee of the Ontario Legislature this morning, general manager C. A. Bogart of the Dominion Bank, representing the Canadian Bankers' Association, gave his opinion on the matter of rural credits. He said there aws no class of people in the Canadian Community who were more anxious to serve Ontario farmers than the bankers. If the government thought fit to establish rural credits societies, the bankers would be willing to cooperate and work out details. He claimed that no country in the world was as excellently served by banks as Ontario.

CUT IN NEWSPRINT HELD TEMPORARY

Montreal, Feb. 18.—The reduction of $20 per ton in newsprint prices announced yesterday did not appear to have been much of a surprise locally, as early in the week it was generally considered that the next quotation made by the Export Company, which handles the output of several large Canadian concerns, would be in the region of 5½ cents a pound and the only comment made in local brokerage houses was that the decline was in line only with the most conservative opinion, while there were other opinions that the quotation would be much smaller. The International Paper Company, the largest producer in the United States, has made a quotation of 5 7-10 cents for the second quarter of the year, with an option of contracting for the whole year at 5½ cents.

Three Arrests in Million Dollar Toledo Robbery

DOUBLE MURDER

Auto Bandits Held Up Postal Clerk and Seized Registered Mail

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 17.—Three suspects were under arrest to-day in connection with the hunt for five automobile bandits who early to-day robbed post-office employes of six pouches of registered mail. The suspects were taken following a tip that a gang was in a house on the outskirts of the city, no trace of the valuable mail has been found.

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 18.—Eleven sacks of mail believed to contain between $500,000 and $1,000,000 were taken from three postal employes here at 2 a.m. yesterday by five automobile bandits.

The robbery occurred at the Toledo Post Office, at Madison avenue and Thirteenth street.

Postmaster George Lathrop refused to place a definite estimate on the value of the loot, but said it would be around $1,000,000.

Six of the sacks contained registered mail.

Lathrop said it would take several days to determine the amount of the loss.

A mail laden truck had just driven up to the post office and two clerks had stepped out to assist in transferring the sacks when an automobile dashed into the driveway. Four men leaped out, covered the driver of the mail truck and the two clerks with guns, and forced them to lie down on the driveway. Two of the bandits transferred the mail sacks to their own automobile.

The driver of the bandit car remained in his seat, keeping the engine running. When the last sack had been tossed into the robbers' automobile, one of the bandits yelled "Let's go." They leaped into the car and it drove away at high speed.

The driveway in which the robbery occurred was well lighted and inside the post office fifteen employes, unaware of the robbery were at work. They did not know that the mail had been stolen until the clerks who had been held up came in and gave the alarm.

It was reported that several sacks of the registered mail contained Federal Reserve Bank Notes.

The police this morning recovered a stolen automobile used by the bandits. No clue as to the identity of the robbers has been obtained.

Bandits Killed Two

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 18.—Men giving the names of J. A. Metzel, of Syracuse, N.Y., and "Speedy" Gunter of San Antonio, Texas, were arrested here yesterday and are being held by police in separate cells on a charge of suspicion in connection with the death of George Alexander Goodrich, 57, of Atlanta, and Walter H. Burden, 67, of Patchogue, N.Y., who were killed by masked bandits last night.

Eighteen other arrests have been made by the police department in a round-up of suspicious characters, but none have been directly connected with the shooting.

The two men were shot when they refused to throw up their hands. Mrs. Burden, wife of one of the murdered men, and Miss Florie Burden, 18, witnessed the shooting.

The masked men entered the parlors of the hotel from a door leading to the yard. They poked their revolvers into the faces of the men of the party and demanded that they give up their valuables. The victims thought that they were being joked until one of the bandits reached for a diamond pin in Burden's tie.

At this both of the men sprang to their feet and started to fight. Four shots rang out. The robbers ran to a waiting automobile.

The two women screamed. Guests ran into the parlor where they found the two men on the floor and the women at the point of fainting.

Double Murder at Cleveland

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 18. — Two school teachers were found shot and beaten to death to-day on Bean Road near here, according to reports to Cleveland police.

The victims were Miss Mabel Foot, 24, and Mrs. Louise Wolf, 38. They were teachers in the Parma Centre High school.

A boy on the way to school discovered the bodies, local police were told.

The report stated that the heads of the women had been crushed. A bloodstained club was found near the bodies.

The victims were seen late yesterday afternoon, when they left the school for their homes.

Mining Tax Not Palatable To Men of Northern Ontario

PROPOSED INCREASE OF MINING TAX VIGOROUSLY SCORED BY MALCOLM LANG, LEGISLATIVE MEMBER FOR COCHRANE — MINE-WORKERS VOLUNTARILY ACCEPTING LOWER WAGES, SO PROPOSED INCREASE OF TAXATION IS UNTIMELY.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—Pointed criticism of the provincial treasurer's proposed increases i nthe mining tax was indulged in by Malcolm Lang, Liberal member for Cochrane, at last evening's sitting of the Legislature. Speaking, he said, not only as a representative of the people, but as an experienced prospector, Mr. Lang informed Hon. Peter Smith that he doubted his ability to collect from the mines of Northern Ontario the sum of $100,000, as named in the Budget.

"It is a most inopportune time to introduce any increase in the mining tax," he declared. "I doubt if you can collect more than $50,000 by your proposed tax, and it will come mostly from one mine. I don't care if you take $50,000 from the Hollinger mine. I don't care about the effect of your tax on one mine, but I do care about its effect on the whole mining industry of the north country."

ASKS MINISTER TO PAUSE.

The member for Cochrane regretted the fact that, while mine workers in the north were voluntarily accepting lower wages in order to keep their industry going, the government saw fit to further tax that industry. He hoped the Government would pause upon the matter, and that the Minister of Mines might be able to induce Hon. Peter Smith to "forget the miserable $50,000" he wanted to get from the mines of Northern Ontario.

Vigorous condemnation, also, of government policy in connection with late developments in the Kapuskasing colony came from Mr. Lang, who heatedly criticized the methods that, he alleged, were being pursued in connection with the proposed townsite of Kapuskasing. While the Government dallied in the matter, Mr. Lang said, settlers weer being forced to erect their buildings on land leased at high rates from private holders.

Premier Drury interrupted to announce that he hoped a bill would be brought in tomorrow containing all legislation regarding Kapuskasing townsite.

To this, Mr. Lang replied that, in his opinion, the so-called "model townsite," with the exception of one or two hundred acres, would be flooded during the period of high water on the river.

"I am sorry the Minister of Highways has not jurisdiction up in our northern country," he continued, referring to the roads policy. "We need him up there, we need highways that could be built if he could come up to the unorganized districts." He hoped that authority would soon be given to the Minister of Public Works to designate the trans-provincial highway, in order that the north might share in the benefits of good roads.

Family Trouble Was Aired in Court

Brother Sues Brother For the Alienation of His Wife's Affections

Principals in the Case

Francis R. Maguire, aged 32, the plaintiff.

James D. Maguire, aged 35, a brother, the defendant.

Cause of action—Plaintiff makes claim for $20,000 for alienation of his wife's affections, malicious prosecution and false arrest.

Place of hearing—Before Justice Rose and jury at the Kingston assizes.

Lawyers in the case—A. B. Cunningham and C. M. Smith, (Kingston), for the plaintiff, E. Gus Porter, (Belleville), for the defence.

Kingston, Feb. 17. A case that is engaging much attention here is the action in the Supreme Court before Mr. Justice Rose, between Francis Ray Maguire and his brother James, the former suing for $20,000 for the alienation of his wife's affections. The case has been going on for several days.

Mrs. Maguire, in her defense, charged her husband with cruel treatment. They were married in October, 1913, and lived together until 1919 at Norfolk, Va.

Evidence taken by commission in Norfolk, Va., was read, alleging the plaintiff latterly to have enjoyed a very lively time in the southern city with the aid of wine and women.

E. Gus Porter, K.C., Counsel

The hearing of the evidence was concluded Thursday morning, and the address of Mr. E. Gus Porter, K.C., counsel for the defence was heard before the court adjourned. Mr. Porter in his address, pointed out that there was no evidence of wrong-doing on the part of James Maguire and Mrs. F. R. Maguire, and stated that the jury could not find for the plaintiff unless they branded Mrs. Maguire as profligate and a prostitute. He spoke for almost an hour and a half after which the address of Mr. Cunningham was heard and the charge of Justice Rose was given and the case handed the jury.

Jury Awards $15,000

The jury awarded $15,000 damages to Francis Ray Maguire.

Break With Party Made Quite Clear

L. J. Gauthier, of Ste. Hyacinthe Severs Connection With the Opposition

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—Proclaiming that "The hour of Quebec has come," that the solid Liberal block in that province would be rent asunder, and that a new French-Canadian leader would arise to preach a gospel of peace and harmony between the majority and the minority in the Dominion, Louis Joseph Gauthier, of Ste. Hyacinthe, made a stirring contribution to the address in reply to the speech from the throne in the Commons to-day. Last session Mr. Gauthier declared that "Quebec's hour would strike," and was accused of making a threat. During the parliamentary recess he had several interviews with Premier Meighen upon the subject of an increase in the representation of Quebec in the Cabinet. What his exact status was in the negotiations he did not make quite clear. Nevertheless he was furiously assailed by the Liberal press in Quebec as a traitor to his party. To-day he threw some light upon his position in his conversations with the Prime Minister. He left no doubt as to the meaning of his declaration that Quebec's hour had arrived, and he made a vigorous counter-attack upon the former associates who are now his political enemies.

Charged With Murder Of Ben Johnson

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

Woodstock, Ont., Feb. 18.—The preliminary hearing of Norman and Denton Garfield, charged with the murder of Ben Johnson, a confectioner, on Jan. 20, was heard here today. Great interest centred in the case and long before the trial opened the corridors were jammed with people from the city and surrounding country. Montalied Nesbitt appeared for the accused, while Crown Attorney Ball prosecuted. The prisoners did not plead. Two occupants of the store on the night of the murder described the entrance of two masked men who ordered Johnson to throw up his hands. They said the confectioner was shot down. Arthur Johnston, of London, was in the vicinity of the store on the night of the murder and stated that the car he saw near the confectionery was the same as he later found in Greer's garage, London, and which was stolen the night of the murder.

The Garfields were committed for trial.

Gov't Profit on Liquor $860,000 For Year 1920

License Board's Report Also Deals With Rum-Running and Prescriptions

Toronto, Feb. 18.—There was a net profit on the Ontario Government dispensaries for the year ending December 31 last of $860,017, according to the board of license commissioners for the province. The value of confiscated liquor, which was sold to the dispensaries during the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1920, was $11[illegible]967. A considerable quantity of confiscated liquor was donated to provincial and other hospitals for medicinal use. The value of confiscated liquor on hand at 31st October was $108,138.

In answer to the argument that prices at the dispensaries should be lower, it is pointed out that were it is practicable to restrict liquor prepracticable to restrict liquor prescriptions to those based on "actual medicinal need," as stipulated in the Ontario Temperance Act, the volume of business transacted would, in the board's opinion, drop to one-fourth what it is at present. But could such restrictions be made, the overhead expense would become a much heavier burden upon the individual prescription, and the genuine patient might have to pay even more than now for medicinal liquor.

Reference is made to the border rum running, and Police Commissioner Inches, of Detroit, is quoted as saying the illicit traffic has brought to Detroit the most desperate criminals of the United States.

The report goes on to say:

"The board fel it a duty to fight this illicit traffic, not to protect the United States, but to enforce Ontario's own laws."

Relations With Physicians

Under the heading of "relations with physicians," it is stated "the doctors whom the board has suspended at dispensaries were chiefly those who persistently issued quart liquor prescriptions on dispensaries at from 100 to 200 monthly. Semi-monthly returns from the inspection department as a rule reveal the same doctors high, as compared with the great majority always low, many in single figures. At the same time the tendency is downward, various doctors having modified their liquor prescriptions in response to the board's representations. The average number of liquor prescriptions upon dispensaries issued by all doctors issuing such as under 25 per month.

James Young Not Guilty of Murder Of His Wife

KALADAR MYSTERY

Jury at Napanee Bring In Verdict of Not Guilty on Murder Charge

Kingston, Feb. 18.—James Young, on trial at Napanee for the murder of his wife, whose remains were found in the ruins of their home at Kaladar which was destroyed by fire on November 3 last, was found not guilty by the jury last evening after four and a half hours' deliberation.

Young, who is an elderly man, was not joyfully affected by the news of his acquittal. He looked around in a sort of dazed and helpless manner.

There was nothing in the evidence to show that Mrs. Young had been murdered. The medical evidence for the Crown was to the effect that the hole in the skull was there before the body was burned, but the doctors could not say whether it was made before or after death, nor was there any identification of the bones found in the ruins. The doctors for the defense would not swear that they were human bones, while the medical interests for the Crown thought the bones were human, but could not swear positively whether they were male or female.

STABS WIFE FATALLY, THEN DROWNS HIMSELF

Edmonton, Feb. 18.—After stabbing his wife and leaving her in a dying condition on the bed this afternoon, Joseph Passock, an employee at the power house, fled through the back entrance of his home, rushed to the brink of the ice at the open part of the river, and committed suicide by jumping into the Saskatchewan at this point.

HERBERT'S MINSTRELS TONIGHT

A well known writer said: "Minstrelsy is not dead," and if you care to delve the matter for your own satisfaction, it would be well for you to attend the performance of Herbert's Minstrel's at Griffin's Opera House. The tremendous success of minstrelsy is due to the fact that it savors of all that is lovable to the average theatre-goer. Sweet singing clever dancing, funny comedians, unique novelties, lavish wardrobe, beautiful scenic effects and embracing some parts of all the arts of the stage. This splendid organization has a wealth of admirable features, so distinct, so novel as to make it the greatest one of its kind today, the grandest, most sumptuous of any company bearing the name of minstrels. Herbert's minstrels have never used the cheap trappings and wardrobe, so often seen with shows of this character, but on the other hand, have always taken pride in having the best minstrel show on the road, both on the street and stage that master costumers could produce.

PRINCE OF WALES CHATS WITH "WINNIPEG KIDDIES"

"That's quite a top you've got, sonny," said the Prince of Wales to Gordon Holmes, one of The Original Kiddies after the Kiddies had given a private entertainment for his royal highness in the Government House at Winnipeg.

"It ought to be it cost eighteen bucks," was the astonishing reply of the boy, who was very proud of his "silk lid."

"Bucks?" said the prince, bewildered.

"That's Canadian for dollars," exclaimed the aide-de-camp with a grin.

Then the prince laughed uproariously. In fact, he was laughing all the time, for tiny Jackie Finesilver the leading comedian had been making desperate efforts to look dignified, as befitted the occasion—and the harder he tried, the more comical he looked.

The Kiddies had received a royal command to visit Government House and entertain the prince. This they did, following the public reception—entertaining the prince while the royal dinner waited.

This same troupe which gave "an entertainment fit for a king" (or the future king)—will bring their entire production to Griffin's Theatre on Tuesday.

Wedding Bells

SHANGRAW—FITZGERALD

The wedding was solemnized at the Methodist parsonage, Kingston, Wednesday, Feb. 9th, when Rev. J. A. Waddell united in marriage Miss Annie Mary, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Fitzgerald, Centreville, to John Shangraw, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Shangraw, Harrowsmith. The bride looked charming in a dress of blue silk and hat to match, and wore the groom's gift, a handsome necklace. After the ceremony the happy couple left for their home near Harrowsmith, where the groom is a prosperous farmer.

NEALS—ARNOTT

At the Methodist Church, Bethany at high noon on Saturday, February 12, Rev. T. S. McMullen of Campbellford uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. I. Beckel of Bethany, united in marriage Jessie M., only daughter of Mrs. Letitia Arnott of Bethany, and Clarence H., second son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Neals of Tofford. To the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, played by Miss Olive Neals, sister of the groom, the bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Fred Arnott, who gave her away. She was becomingly gowned in a navy tricotine suit, embroidered in black and grey with hat to match, and wore a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses. Little Miss Ella and Miss Aileen Sisson cousins of the bride dressed in dainty white frocks, and carrying baskets of smilax and pink carnations, were the only attendants. Preceding the ceremony the choir sang impressively a sacred hymn. During the signing of the register Miss Mae Arthurs of Janetville sang "All Joy Be Thine." After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's mother, and later the happy couple left on the afternoon train for Toronto and Hamilton.

Cornwall, Stratford, De la Salle and Collingwood are expected to meet in the O. H. A. junior semi-finals.

TORONTO MAN ONLY WEIGHED 80 POUNDS

Turan Takes Tanlac and Now Weighs 128 Pounds—Had to Quit Work Two Months at a Time Now on Job Every Day.

"My troubles had pulled me down from one hundred and forty to only eighty pounds in weight, but it's a fact. Tanlac has built me up to where I now balance the scales at one hundred and twenty-eight pounds and I am feeling great," was the remarkable statement made by Walter J. Turan, a well-known contracting plasterer, living at 142 Hallam avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

"Yes, sir, before I got Tanlac I was in mighty bad shape. I had no appetite and my food nauseated me so I could scarcely retain a thing I ate. Gas formed in such quantities that the pressure against my heart made breathing difficult for me, and when I would lie down at night it just looked like I was going to smother to death. I suffered constantly with constipation, had dizzy spells quite often and had awful aches and pains all around my stomach and through my back. I was almost a living skeleton, sometimes I had to lay off from my work for two months at a time and came very near giving up and going to a hospital.

"I heard so much about Tanlac that I decided to give it a trial, and my appetite began to pick up from the very first and it wasn't long until I was eating like a bear. The medicine has relieved me of all my troubles. My stomach never bothers me any more and I never have an ache or pain. My breathing is free and easy, I sleep good and sound every night and am back on the job every day feeling just fine. Tanlac is the only thing that ever helped me and I believe it's the best medicine ever put in a bottle."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store, and by the leading druggists in every town.

STEADY EXPANSION MADE BY STANDARD BANK OF CANADA

Gain of $20,000,000 in Savings Deposits During Past Five Years. Earnings Largest in History of the Bank.

Shareholders of The Standard Bank of Canada will have reason to be well pleased with the annual statement for the fiscal year ended January 31st.

Year after year the Standard has been reporting steady gains in all departments. As the business of the bank has been confined entirely to the Canadian field, it is of special interest to note the steady expansion that has occurred in the general business handled, as well as in the gains reported in the public savings accounts.

With the expansion that has occurred in the bank's business, the current loans now stand at $50,896,881, as compared with $33,749,339, at the beginning of the war period. The total assets have gained to $90,183,979, as compared with $53,822,121 five years ago. Of the total assets, liquid assets amount to $36,137,353, which are equivalent to 45 per cent. of the liabilities to the public, while actual cash on hand, as represented by coin current, Dominion notes and deposits in Central Gold Reserves, amount to $15,152,-827, equivalent to 18 per cent. of public liabilities.

The gain in the interest bearing deposits is particularly striking, these now amounting to $53,011,997. This compared with $49,910,378 at the end of the previous year and $33,986,616 five years ago.

As a result of the steadily expanding business of the bank arrangements have been made for larger capital and reserve. With the payments already made, the capital now stands at $3,-892,001, compared with $3,500,000 and the reserve fund at $4,800,000, as compared with $4,500,000.

INCREASE IN PROFITS.

Of special interest to shareholders will be the satisfactory character of the profit and loss account. With the larger capital and reserve at its disposal, there is a substantial gain in net profits, and for the year these amounted to $784,369, up from $776,-410, in the previous year. Added to the profits for the year was a balance carried forward of $890,537, while there was received from premium on new stock $226,500. These amounts made the total amount available for distribution $1,371,407. The amount was appropriated as follows:

Dividends at the rate of 14 per cent. per annum	$492,720
War Tax on Note Circulation	35,043
Reserve for Dominion Income Tax	10,000
Contributed to Officers' Pension Fund	25,000
Written off Bank Premises Account	100,000
Transferred to Reserve Fund	300,000
	$992,763

leaving a balance to be carried forward of $378,643.

STEADY EXPANSION.

The Standard Bank has been making very steady expansion during the past few years. Just how marked has been its growth is indicated by a comparison of the statement at the end of 1920 with that issued at the end of the fiscal year of 1915. During that period the assets of the bank have increased to $90,193,979 from $53,822,-121; deposits bearing interest now stand at $53,011,997, compared with $33,986,616, and deposits not bearing interest at $11,377,712, compared with 9,112,434. Current loans and discounts in Canada now amount to $50,-896,881, against $33,749,339, Canadian municipal securities and British, foreign and colonial public securities, $6,-316,973, up from $1,343,527, and Dominion and Provincial Government securities $4,469,234, compared with 1,311,877.

Tangle of Love and Law Interesting

"Are you legally married?" which was screened before a large audience at Griffin's last night is today creating probably more discussion than any photoplay shown locally in some time.

The photoplay which holds a gripping heart-interest in a most appealing, human and poignant manner. It presents a theme unusual and unique in type, which stimulates an expectancy only revealing itself in the very last foot of film on the screen. It unfolds a tale of "Man Made Laws and Flaws," interwoven with many stirring bits of unusual excitement, coupled with the dramatic ability and originality of the only 'male vampire,' Lew Cody, who takes the leading role, and that delightful personality in the form of Rosemary Thebe, who plays opposite him. Miss Thebe portrays a very different part to a most convincing and impressively rapturous close. The humor and pathos knitted into this soul-stirring pictureplay breeds into reality as the story unwinds on the screen, and it is not till the very close that you realize that it is not a page of real life, of divorce laws as we hear them in the United States.

Charlie Chaplin in a funny 2 reel comedy "The Count," an interesting and beautiful travelogue, and a gripping chapter of the adventure play "Pirate Gold" are also being screened on the same program.

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

There are more than 150 brands of baking powder in Canada; and the fact that there is more MAGIC BAKING POWDER used than all the other brands combined shows why Magic Baking Powder is known as Canada's best baking powder.

Fair Patient "Operates" Successfully On Chicago Physicians

Chicago, Feb. 16.—"Oh, doctor, you're hurting me!"

That is what Miss Bessie Alma Reta, who is known to the police as "the tonsilitis girl," told a dozen South Side physicians during the past few days, as they leaned over her to treat her throat. Then she would squirm and wave her hands around the doctors, as if in extreme pain.

After their client had left the doctors would find their pocketbooks and watches missing. Eight pocketbooks and five watches, belonging to the doctors who had treated the "tonsilitis girl" were recovered today by the police in pawnshops.

AUDITOR'S REPORT TO THE SHAREHOLDERS

I have compared the above Balance Sheet with the books and accounts at the chief office of The Standard Bank of Canada, and the certified returns received from its branches, and after checking the cash and verifying the securities at the chief office and certain of the principal branches on 31st January, 1921 I certify that in my opinion such Balance Sheet exhibits a true and correct view of the state of the Bank's affairs according to the best of my information, the explanations given to me, and as shown by the books of the bank.

In addition to the examination mentioned, the cash and securities at the chief office and certain of the principal branches were checked and verified by me at another time during the year, and found to be in accord with the books of the Bank.

All information and explanations required have been given to me, and all transactions of the Bank which have come under my notice have, in my opinion, been within the powers of the Bank.

The Daredevil

By

Maria Thompson Daviess

Author of "The Melting of Molly"

Copyright, 1916, by the Reilly & Britton Co.

Seated upon a rude bench in that cave room, bound with a rope of great size, disheveled and soiled, but with all of the nobility of his great estate in his grave face, was my adored Capitaine the Count de Lasselles! As we entered he rose beside the bench and in that rising displayed a chain by which one of his feet was made fast to the rock of the wall.

"Good morning, sir," said my Gouverneur Faulkner as if greeting a gentleman upon the street of that city of Hayesville.

"Also a good morning, sir," made reply my poor Capitaine the Count de Lasselles. And he stood with a fine and great courtesy waiting for my Gouverneur Faulkner to state to him what his visit could portend, as would he have done in his regimental room at Tour.

And as he stood for that very long minute there expired the last moments of the life of Robert Carruthers. A stream of light fell from the little window high in the rock upon his luckless head as he stood as if frozen into a statue of great fear. And as he so stood the eyes of the Capitaine the Count de Lasselles fell upon him, and he started forward as far as the length of the chain by which he was bound would allow him and from there held out his hand to the frozen boy standing in the stream of light from high heaven.

"My most beautiful Lady Roberta, do I find that it is you who have come to my rescue?" he questioned. "I lost you, mon enfant, in that great New York."

"My beloved capitaine, how is it that I find you thus?" I exclaimed as I went to within his reach and allowed that he take my two hands in his poor shackled ones and put warm kisses of greeting upon them.

And it was while I was shedding tears of pity for the imprisonment of that great man of France in that mountain but in America as he kissed my hands that I raised my eyes to encounter a cold lightning as of a flash on steel from under the black brows of my Gouverneur Faulkner of the state of Harpeth, that again froze the blood in my heart.

"Do I find that it is you?"

"You?" he asked of me in a voice that was of the same coldness and sharpness as that steel, and his beautiful mouth was set into one straight line as he flung into my face that one word.

CHAPTER XV.

All Is Lost.

AND to that word of challenge I made no answer, but I raised my head and looked into his eyes with a dignity that came to me as my right from suffering. So regarding each other, we stood for a very short minute, in which the Capitaine the Count de Lasselles raised his head from his kisses of salutation upon my hands.

"And, mon enfant, is this the good uncle to whose care you came into America?" asked that Capitaine the Count de Lasselles as he reached out his imprisoned hands for a greeting to my relative.

I did not make any answer to that question. My head raised itself yet higher, and I looked my Gouverneur Faulkner full in the face while I waited to hear what he would answer of my kinship to him.

"Sir, I am the friend of General Carruthers, and I am also the governor of the state of Harpeth. I have come across the mountains to talk with you about the business of this contract for mules for your army, and I have brought your young friend to assist me if I should need translating from or to you. We Americans, captain, are poor handlers of any language not our own, and the matter is of much gravity." And as the Gouverneur Faulkner spoke those words to my Capitaine the Count de Lasselles, with a great courtesy, but also a great sternness, in which he named me, not as his friend, but as the friend of that Capitaine the Count de Lasselles, I knew that I was placed

NEW DEVICE LEADS SHIPS INTO HARBOR

Portsmouth, Eng., Feb. 17—Foreign naval attaches accredited to this country visited this city recently, at the request of the Admiralty, to witness a demonstration of the leader cable which is used for directing ships into Portsmouth harbor.

The objects of the leader cable system are to enable ships, by means of submarine sound signals, to make a good landfall in foggy weather, to lead ships into harbor, to lead a ship from open water through a restricted channel to open water, to give warning of outlying dangers, and to assist a vessel to keep a straight course from port to port and thus save fuel. The system was invented by the British navy, which made an exceedingly successful use of it in war time, but owing to the great potential value of the system to the mercantile marine during the war the Admiralty have not disclosed the full methods of working it until now. The recent tests were designed as a practical demonstration to all the Powers of the utility of such cables. A leader cable has already been laid in the Ambrose Channel, New York harbor.

After an experimental existence of over a year, the Portsmouth cable has now become a permanent addition to the navigating facilities of the port, and all large war vessels are now being fitted with the receiving apparatus necessary to enable them to use it.

MONTREAL BROKER HELD ON PARTNER'S WARRANT

Montreal, Feb. 16.—Gerald H. Bruce, junior partner of the firm of Oswald Brothers, stock brokers, 113 St. Peter street, this city, was arrested on a warrant sworn out by M. C. Oswald, senior partner of the firm.

This is the sequel to the assignment of the company into the hands of liquidators following a statement by Mr. Oswald that the company was badly hit as a consequence of false entries and that Gerald H. Bruce had signed a statement admitting that he had falsified the entries in the books.

Bruce gave his age as twenty-nine years and asked for bail, which was not granted tonight, but probably will when asked for tomorrow.

His wife and children are said to be visiting in the West.

DEATH AND TAXES CERTAIN—TAXED TO DEATH POSSIBLE.

Canadians are just beginning to wake up to the fact that they are being taxed at every turn, says the Brockville Recorder. The Dominion, the province and the municipality, each have taken a shy at them during the past few years, and the Dominion and municipality are still busy.

The question of the right of these various Governments to impose direct taxation has been questioned, but there seems no ground for criticism as to authority to tax, even though there be a question as to the expediency of different taxes being imposed on the same income, for example.

The British North America Act distinctly confers upon the Dominion the right of "the raising of money by any mode or system of taxation." That surely covers the mode of taxation knows as "income tax," although not until the war necessity arose has the Federal authority ever imposed an income tax.

On the other hand, the British North America Act gives each province the right to impose "direct taxation within the province in order to the raising of a revenue for provincial purposes." No question has ever been raised as to the rights of the province in this matter. The municipalities being subject to provincial control, receive their authority to impose taxes on income from the province.

These rights all exist, but the taxpayer would feel easier if in this respect he had to deal with one power only, instead of with two and sometimes three.

BUILDING PROSPECTS. ARE VERY GOOD.

Construction contracts were awarded in Canada during January to a value of $8,947,500, or an increase of $201,000 over December last, according to returns compiled by MacLean Building Reports, Limited. This total was made up as follows: Residences, brick and frame, $1,226,500; business buildings, $2,520,800; industrial buildings, $271,000, and engineering construction, $4,929,200.

An interesting comparison is presented also of building in the thirty-five leading cities of the Dominion during the past nine years, beginning with the peak year in 1912, when the totals reached $185,233,449. Building returns for the remaining years are as follows: 1913, $153,022,842; 1914, $96,780,981; 1915, $33,566,749; 1916; $39,724,406; 1917, $33,936,426; 1918, $36,838,270; 1919, $77,208,134, and 1920, $100,241,607.

Commenting upon the outlook for the present year the report intimates that construction to the value of $300,000,000 may be looked for and that building operations will probably be the largest since the record year of 191.2 There is every reason to believe, the report continues, that building costs will come down before the opening of the spring, and should this occur the erection of residences will proceed at a pace not witnessed heretofore.

MORAL CLOTHES FOR WOMEN.

The Philadelphia clergymen who have designed a "moral gown" for women's wear must be credited with an intelligent attitude on the question of the moral regulation of feminine attire. They have not limited their reform to laying down rules, but have actually fashioned a model garment which is certified as conforming to all the specifications of modesty and propriety, even to the height of the waist and length of skirt.

The ministerial modiste is something new in dress reform, but why not? If there are morals in clothes, are they not a proper subject for ecclesiastical supervision? The results of leaving this matter to the lay judgment of tailors untrained in moral regulation are only too apparent.

But the ministers having exhibited their model moral gown, it remains to get women to adopt it. It may be well, as one of the clerical designers intimated, to obtain an approving word from Paris. An atelier established in the Rue de la Paix for the manufacture of moral costumes might help toward making them the mode. Luther did not see why the devil should have all the good tunes; why not utilize the arts of sinful dressmaking in popularizing pure clothes?—New York World.

OUR DUTY TO THE HUNGRY

San Antonio Express

It so happens that, the war being over, the United States is rich and increased in goods while our neighbors are starving to death. If relief does not come speedily, millions of Chinese will perish of hunger. Is there an obligation on the rich nations to feed them? We know how an individual would be looked on who refused a starving neighbor. How should a nation be regarded under like conditions?

CHILDREN BY THE POUND

Concord Monitor

"If parents sold their children by the pound as a farmer does his hogs there would be fewer underweight children. It is ridiculous to say that a child takes aftr its parent and is thin because the latter is thin. Imagine a farmer saying that about his pigs! Childrer are not getting enough food. This is the opinion of Miss Marian Moseley, a welfare worker of Chicago. There is food for thought if not for children in what she says.

POETS' CORNER

WHEN I REMEMBER

When I remember that the day will come
For this our love to quit his land of birth,
And bid farewell to all the ways of earth
With lips that must for evermore be dumb,
Then creep I silent from the stirring hum,
And shut away the music and the mirth,
And reckon up what may be left of worth
When hearts are cold and love's own body numb
Something there must be that I know not here,
Or know too dimly through the symbol dear;
Some touch, some beauty, only guessed by this
If He that made us loves, it shall replace,
Beloved, even the vision of thy face
And deep communion of thine inmost kiss.

DON'T PAY A BIG PRICE FOR FOOD

The most expensive food is generally the poorest in real nutriment. Considering its high nutritive value, Shredded Wheat Biscuit is without doubt the cheapest food in the world today. It contains all the rich muscle-making elements in the whole wheat grain. The price was not pushed up on account of the war so we don't have to come down. Shredded Wheat contains more real nutriment than meat or eggs, and costs much less.

Two Biscuits served with hot milk make a warm, nourishing meal for the cold days. Delicious with sliced bananas or other fruits.

WELL KNOWN JOURNALIST LEAVES NEWSPAPER FIELD

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—Members of the Ottawa press gallery gathered at the new Parliament Buildings to wish good luck to S. W. Dafoe, who is leaving the gallery after 25 years' active membership, to take up fruit farming in British Columbia. In the name of the gallery, H. E. M. Chisholm, acting president, presented Mr. Dafoe with a gold watch and chain expressing the good wishes of all the "old comrades." A number of letters of regret and good wishes were also read from former members of the gallery. Mr. Dafoe suitably replied.

Mr. Dafoe joined the Press Gallery in 1896, as a special correspondent. In 1903, he became correspondent for the Western Associated Press. On the formation of Canadian Press Limited, the National News Service, rather more than three years ago, Mr. Dafoe was appointed as Ottawa superintendent.

A cold is seldom "just a cold"—it is a dangerous malady.

IT is usually a breeder of ulcerated throats, inflamed tonsils, attacks of neuralgia, bronchitis, grippe, influenza and pneumonia.

A cold is a dangerous, deadly disease, with which you cannot afford to trifle. Do not let a cold develop into anything more serious. Break it up while it is still a cold by taking DOMINION C. B. Q. (Cascara, Bromide and Quinine) Tablets.

You can depend on these tablets to give you quick relief, and to completely relieve the cold, if taken regularly at the outset of the trouble.

They are prepared by National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited, and sold by all druggists.

MONT BLANC STILL KING.

Famous Mountain Climber Discusses Recent Avalanche.

The recent tremendous avalanche on Mont Blanc attracted wide attention. Frederick Burlingham, climber of Mont Blanc and explorer of note, offers several theories as to the probable causes of this latest great slide. Mr. Burlingham said a few days ago:

"My theory about this avalanche, and anything of that kind that occurs there, is that the changes are due to earth tremors, earth movements that are too slight to be called earthquakes, but tremors that are powerful enough to shake down the already weakened superstructure.

"Another interesting feature of this recent avalanche: Chamonix has always been the most famous French Alpine resort of Mont Blanc, the highest mountain in Europe, as its chief offering. Zermatt has always been the most famous Swiss Alpine resort, with the Matterhorn and Monte Rosa as the prize high spots. Monte Rosa is only a few hundred feet below Mont Blanc's 15,781, and if, as has been suggested, Mont Blanc has lost several hundred feet, then the rival peak, Monte Rosa, may claim the title of being the highest mountain. As the rivalry between these two places has always been very keen, the results will be interesting to determine.

"As a matter of fact, I do not believe that Mont Blanc has lost as much as has been claimed. The destruction of the mountain is going on all the time, but there is so much to go that one can watch a huge avalanche and then look back to see the changed contour of the place from which it has come, only to discover that the source is so great that the avalanche has not changed the shape or apparent appearance of the mountain at all.

"Gourmeyer is supposed to have been very badly damaged. Ordinarily, Alpine villages are not damaged much by avalanches because there are very few places built in the path of avalanches. These things occur all the time. They are more or less expected. People do not build chalets where the avalanches are going to come. Of course one never knows, but usually houses are built on ridges between two gullies. The ridge is, of course, a protection.

"At this time of year there are not many people on Mont Blanc. The peasants who have driven their cattle up on the mountain sides are pretty well down now. As yet there has been no loss of life reported that I know about.

"The worst of the damage due to avalanches is rarely done by the debris itself. The danger is due to the terrific air pressure. When hundreds of tons of material are dislodged and sent tearing, hissing down the mountain side, the displacement of air due to this enormous mass of stuff is powerful enough to wipe a forest off clean. The forest may not be within the path of the avalanche, may not be actually touched by any of the debris, but it is uprooted simply by the terrific air pressure. The avalanche pushes air before it and after it has passed there is a vast vacuum.

"Another danger in connection with avalanches and forests—it is always well to watch out for forest fires in the mountains. If one is below the line of fire it is pretty apt to be dangerous, because the fire burns out the roots that hold to the rocks. When the roots go the rocks go, and thus another great or little avalanche is started crashing its way down to the hidden valleys below."

The artificialities of existence as life is lived there do not appeal to the man who has hard training in the Alps above the snow line.

In discussing mountain climbing in general Mr. Burlingham said that though it may be considered insane, the sensation of achieving a difficult peak is well worth all the toil and effort. It is the nearest approach to the sublime in nature, he said. "Perhaps that may account for the number of ascents made each year by priests. Alpine records and Alpine graves are full of these men."

"In the year just before the war a toll of 165 lives was taken by the mountains, but there will continue to be sportsmen who risk all to achieve the heights," said Mr. Burlingham, who recommends Alpining as the surest cure for a tired soul.

Liquid In Crystals.

It was a wonderful sapphire, so it is said, that led the celebrated Dr. Sorby to the discovery of the nature of the liquid sometimes found enclosed in the cavities of crystals. The gem in question contained a tube-shaped cavity a quarter of an inch long and an eighteenth of an inch in diameter, which was so regular in its bore that it served, by means of the liquid partially filling it, for a thermometer. The contained liquid half filled the bore at 50 degrees Fahrenheit, and completely filled it at 80 degrees. A study of the rate of expansion of the liquid led to the conclusion that it must be carbolic acid.

Pure-bred.

A pure-bred animal is one of pure breeding representing a definite, recognized breed and both of whose parents were pure-bred animals of the same breed. To be considered pure-bred, live stock must be either registered, eligible to registration, or (in the absence of public registry for that class) have such lineage that its pure breeding can be definitely proved. To be of good type and quality, the animal must be healthy, vigorous, and a creditable specimen of its breed.

The Oldest Living Thing.

The oldest living thing in the world is a tree. In California there is a group of trees known as the giant forest. Many of these trees are said to have 4,000 years to their credit.

It is the belief of some of the Chinese that the women who wear short hair will be transformed into men in the future world.

THIRSTY THIEVES LEVY TOLLS UPON LIQUOR CARGOES

St. John, N.B. Feb. 16.—Hands that reach from the semi-darkness of 'tween decks on the Canadian Pacific freight boats landing cargoes of liquor here and relieve cargo slings of whole cases of "licker" while they swing in mid-air, have been causing Canadian Pacific special police considerable worry and a great deal of work. If a "special" persists in looking up the hatch while a sling is passing upward with its load, a wrench or a lump of coal or anything else that is loose "may accidentally" fall from the deck above. Constables have had to do some smart dodging.

When the cargo is finally "safe" in the sheds on the wharf, the policeman's troubles are not at an end and the lot of him who stands guard over the baggage is not a happy one. Groups of the thirsty congregate before and behind the wountain of wet goods. While the officer prevents a concerted drive from the enemy in front, some enterprising spirit leads a sudden attack from the rear, and in the excitement a case or two of good liquor vanishes. This sort of thing happens regularly.

One cargo of liquor was successfully carried from the hold of a Canadian Government Merchant Marine boat to the cars without losing a bottle by the simple expedient of keeping strict silence as to the nature of the contents of the boxes being unloaded.

Not for many years has there been such difficulty experienced in guarding the cargoes of vessels arriving in this port from overseas. There is always a certain amount of petty pilfering, but this year on account of the importation of enormous quantities of the best liquor of the British Isles and the fact that the liquor is difficult to procure in most of the provinces and the prices are away up at the top anywhere, the thefts have assumed very large proportions. There is keen ambition on the part of scores who frequent the docks to possess some of the wet goods—legally or otherwise.

A large army of special police was brought to the city in December when the first whiskey boat arrved, and placed on guard over the cargo. Ever since their work has been largely the protection of stocks of liquor arriving here, but it is a difficult task they have undertaken and their hands are quite full.

Officials of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Service were in the city recently to lay their complaints before the civic authorities. They said that the situation was becoming so serious that someone was likely to "get hurt" in a raid. There was talk of arming the "specials" with revolvers to put fear into the hearts of whiskey stealers, but no such order has been issued. It was suggested that if the city of St. John could not grant the protection the business of shipping liquor required, that the Canadian Pacific might find it necessary to take its trade to some other port, but no step in this direction has been taken.

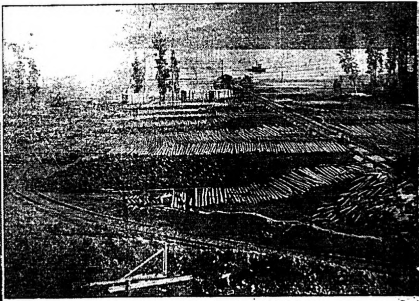
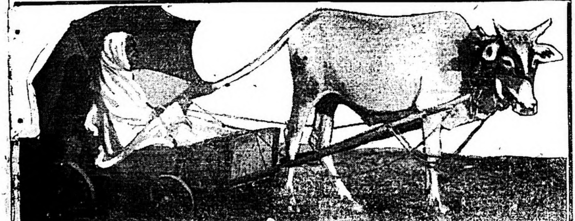
British Columbia's Pulp and Paper



Pulpwood Ready for the Mills in British Columbia.



BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

The birth and development of the pulp and paper industry in British Columbia has been phenomenal. A decade ago not a single ton of pulpwood, mechanical or chemical, was manufactured in the Pacific coast province; in 1919 the total value of the products of this industry amounted to $12,554,257. To-day British Columbia stands third among the provinces of the Dominion in the amount of capital invested in the industry. The surprising rate at which this has grown in the last few years and is continuing to grow, is indicated in the jump effected between 1917 and 1920. It was $22,584,652 in 1917 and $50,000,000 in 1920.

This is a remarkable history of development of what will doubtless become one of the most important industries of the Pacific coast, but it is more than probable that the next decade will exhibit still more rapid expansion. Great Britain and the United States are drawing the greater part of their paper [illegible] from Canada, and are [illegible] on British Columbia possessing as it does the largest remaining stands of timber in the world suitable for the production of pulp and paper. The province's annual export to Australia already amounts to more than 20,000 tons whilst the demand for pulp from the far east exceeds the present available supply.

Of the 370,370,000 cords of pulpwood estimated to exist in Western Canada, British Columbia is credited with 285,370,000 cords, consisting of spruce, western hemlock, and balsam, whilst for the coarser grades of pulp a certain amount of Douglas fir is used. It should also be observed here that British Columbia is highest among the provinces of the Dominion in the average production of pulp per cord of wood the mechanical process giving an average of 2485 pounds.

To-day there are only seven plants in British Columbia producing pulp -- groundwood and chemical -- and newsprint. No other industry offers such boundless opportunities of development. In addition to the enormous areas of suitable timber are the tremendous unharnessed water powers awaiting utilization, which are estimated at 3,000,000 horse power. The temperate climate of the Pacific Coast gives assurance of open harbors the year round, whilst apart from the demand in the United States there is an unlimited market for the product of the mills immediately across the ocean.

This may be instanced from the fact that the entire pulp product of one of the largest mills on the coast goes to Japan for manufacture there into newsprint. Up to the present time the provincial government has placed no embargo on the export of the raw product.

British Columbia is producing sufficient newsprint to supply the whole of Canada, taking the most recent estimates of the annual consumption of 120,000 tons. Figures of the province's output of pulp and paper of all kinds for 1919 were as follows: Sulphite, 80,047 tons; sulphate, 9,473 tons; ground wood, 93,769; paper: newsprint, 123,607 tons; wrapping 7,202 tons. In newsprint production British Columbia stands third among the Canadian provinces.

From the standpoint of timber resources, water powers, climate, shipping, a bright future awaits British Columbia in the pulp and paper industry and the coming decade will see it placed high among the paper producing sections of the American continent.

Your Efficiency Depends on Your Eyes

Good Work needs good Eyesight, because as a chair is no stronger than its weakest link, so a man is no stronger than his weakest faculty. And now, when the quality of one's work will play such an important part in determining one's income, you owe it to yourself to keep your faculties alert—keen—fit for competition.

Don't wonder if your eyes are efficient. Have them examined and KNOW.

Sinn Fein Yells Give Flavor to Gibbs' Lecture

Irish Sympathizers Seek to Break Up Address of Noted War Writer.

New York, Feb. 17. Sinn Fein sympathizers, who hung over the gallery rails, popped up unexpectedly in aisles and even shouted from vantage points on the main floor of Carnegie Hall last night, did their best to break up a lecture by Sir Philip Gibbs, the British war correspondent, on "What America Means to the World." They failed. There were regular intervals of uproar and one good fist fight.

Sir Philip waited serenely while the small group of Irish men and women shrieked at him, and at the close of his speech vigorously denounced what he characterized as the blunders of the British Government and the viciousness of the Irish outrages. But as he stood before the curtain bowing a woman arose in the rear of the hall and cried maledictions on England.

FIGHT IN GALLERY

The first of the interruptions came about fifteen minutes after the beginning of the lecture. The noise lasted for nearly five minutes, and then Sir Philip began again. Then someone in the gallery yelled

"Ho wabout Ireland?"

This time a tremendous hubbub started high up under the roof of the big hall. A man leaped from his seat near the interrupter, hurled himself on him, and threw him to the floor. Men and women in turn jumped on the one who had resented the outbreak. They piled up in a kicking, yelling mass, while a woman jumped to her feet, waving an American flag, and began a speech "The day will come——" which [illegible] in the row.

ENGLAND ROCK OF EUROPE.

Sir Philip stood quietly watching he battle in the gallery

About this time action began to come from the police. They rounded up and ejected about fifteen men and women.

Sir Philip, roused by antagonism, launched into a warm defence of England.

"We have enemies," he said. "There are many people who do not like England. There are people who would like to see the British Empire fall to bits, and I can tell you what would happen if it did. The whole world would be swept by the flame of anarchy, for England is the rock of Europe."

He paused while cheers swept over the house for a minute or two.

DIDN'T SPOIL LECTURE.

"I am an Englishman, body and soul," said Sir Philip, "but I will say this, that things are being done in Ireland by the Black and Tans for which I can find no excuse. The Irish situation has been handled by the English Government not with wisdom, but with stupidity. I will also say that while I sympathize with the spirit of Irish freedom, they are doing things of which they should be heartily ashamed.

"The whole of the English Labor party, the Liberal party and the intellectuals of England are urging the Government to make a generous offer of Dominion Home Rule," said Sir Philip, "the form of government which is good enough for Australia and New Zealand and Canada—sturdy peoples."

When he concluded he was made to respond, by repeated bows, to a storm of applause and cheers. Later he said:

"I was thoroughly surprised. But I do not think it spoiled the lecture, do you?"

BUG EATS LEAD.

Insect Has Caused Much Trouble In California.

In California a whole lot of trouble is being made by a bug that bores into telephone cables and puts them out of business.

It is a very tiny beetle, less than half the size of an everyday "ladybug," but its jaws are formidable instruments for knawing, as may be judged from the fact that it is able to chew its way through the heavy lead sheathing of a telephone cable.

Why it should want to do such a thing nobody knows. It cannot eat the lead, certainly. But, though it may be for mere amusement, the insect has quite generally adopted the habit, to the great discomfort and inconvenience of the 'phone companies and their subscribers.

Inside of the outer lead sheathing of a telephone cable is a rubber wrapping which envelops many wires. There may be hundreds of these wires in one cable, and the object of the rubber wrapping and lead sheathing is protection against weather—particularly against the admission of water to the wires.

But the 'phone bug bores its tiny hole through the lead and the rubber, and rain water finds its way through the opening to the canal containing the wires. Thus the latter are short-circuited, and, as a result, hundreds or even thousands of telephones may be put out of whack by the work of a single insect. All at once the cable is out of commission, and howls of complaints arise on all sides.

The problem is indeed very serious, and as yet no effective method of dealing with it has been found. It is hardly practicable to over the telephone cables constantly with a magnifying glass in an effort to discover bug-holes. On the other hand, it is impossible to exterminate the little beetles that do the mischief, because under ordinary circumstances they live in dead tree-trunks and cordwood; they are not easily found, and there are too many of them.

The telephone cables are suspended between poles, passing through rings which are hung from wires. The bug always chooses as a place for its attack a point where one of the rings is in contact with the cable. This apparently gives it a "purchase" while engaged in boring.

The telephone companies have appealed for help to the United States Government bureau of entomology, which is now making a study of the subject. It is thought that possibly some alloy may be introduced into the lead sheathing which will make it harder and enable it to resist the jaws of the insect.

Twins Are Hereditary.

Once in a while one reads in the newspapers about a birth of quadruplets. Very rarely quintuplets are born, and there have even been instances of sextuplets.

When four or more babies come into the world at a birth, almost never do more than three of them survive.

A tendency to the production of twins is undoubtedly hereditary; it runs in families. A woman whose mother and grandmother have borne twins, may fairly be expected, if married, to bring one or more pairs into the world.

That curious armored mammal, the armadillo, common in Texas and Mexico, nearly always produces four young at a birth, and the most remarkable thing about them is that they are "identical" quadruplets—i.e., produced by the splitting of a single fertilized cell.

This phenomenon of splitting is known to occur only in the armadillo and in man. Identical human twins (produced from a single cell) are very exceptional, but not extremely rare. They are in effect duplicates of one individual, and might almost be said to share a common identity. Ordinary "fraternal" twins may be more or less alike, but identical twins resemble each other so closely that it is hard to tell them apart.

Short Skirts and Colds.

Short skirts worn by women and stockings that leave the knees bare on children are blamed by several medical authorities for the prevalence of colds.

"These short stockings worn by young children are absolutely dangerous," said one health expert. "It is a foolish style. Some folks think it toughens children, but I doubt it. The delicate tissues of the knee are exposed to the cold winds and the entire body is chilled.

"The women wear furs. But they are for ornamentation, not for protection against the cold. They clothe their bodies and leave their necks and limbs virtually bare. Short skirts and exposed necks and knees cause more colds and pneumonia than most persons realize. Of course poor ventilation and overcrowded quarters supply their quota to the ranks of the sick, but when we cater less to fashion the health of the nation will be improved."—N. Y. Sun.

Dragonflies as Food.

In the Malay Archipelago, at the season when the rice fields are in flower, dragonflies are exceedingly numerous, and every day boys may be seen catching them with birdlime.

For this purpose a slender stick is used, with a few twigs at the end well anointed, so that the least touch captures the insect, whose wings are thereupon pulled off, the body being consigned to a basket.

The dragonflies are thus gathered for the table. Fried in oil with onions, they are esteemed a great delicacy.

An "Honorable" Dressmaker.

The announcement of the Honorable Mrs. John Russell, wife of the eldest son of Lord Ampthill, that she had opened a dressmaking salon at 1 Curson, street, London, has startled London. Mrs. Russell is a member of one of the most exclusive families of England. She plans to do the entire designing herself. She is rated as one of the beauties of the English capital as well as a prominent social leader.

PLAY GOLDEN TENOR'S MOST FAMOUS SONG

New York, Feb. 17. "Vesti La Giubba," Enrico Caruso's most famous song was played at his request as he lay near death today.

The orchestra of the Vanderbilt Hotel, where Caruso is ill, struck up the celebrated air from the opera "Pagliacci" just after doctors had announced that the tenor was still holding his own in his fight for life.

The lobby of the hotel was thronged with people discussing the latest bulletin's from the sick room when the orchestra on the mezzanine balcony began playing the notes which the singer's "golden voice" has so often sent throbbing through the vast Metropolitan Opera House.

Caruso, in his suite on the eighteenth floor, was not aware of the tribute being rendered him as the orchestra played. And the crowd stood silent. Several persons wept. As the last notes died away there was an outburst of applause then a general cry of "Hush" followed by a moment of absolute silence.

What Time Is It?

How many times a week are you asked that question, and how many times do you have to add, after telling the time, "My watch may be a little fast," or "I don't believe that's exactly right."

There is a certain satisfaction in having the right time that you never get out of a watch that is always fast or slow.

As a matter of fact, the watch that is always fast or slow is worse than the one that does not run. The watch that does not run is right twice a day, and the other is never right.

We have time now to overhaul your watch or to do any little thing you know it needs; or we will just look at it and advise you whether we think it needs any work on it. Bring it in and let us make it absolutely right.

NEW ALLIANCE FORMED

"LITTLE ENTENTE" WILL GUIDE AFFAIRS IN BALKANS.

Bulgarians Would Like to Make Friends With the Victorious Jugo-Slavs Who Have Become Dominating Influence as Result of the Great War—Some of the Problems That Exist In Trouble Centre of Europe.

AS the Peace Conference reached its last stage all Europe was asking how the new nations which had sprung into being as a result of the Allied victory would decide to line up. Would co-operation supersede the antagonisms and hatreds cultivated through many generations? What would be the attitude of the Balkan nations toward each other and toward the "succession states" that had risen from the ashes of the former Hapsburg empire? It was realized that the future peace of Europe was profoundly concerned in the answer to these questions.

Would Jugo-Slavia, it was asked, ever forget her hatred of the Bulgars? Would the difficulties of her dispute with Roumania for the possession of the Banat wheat fields be smoothed out? Would the fact that Czecho-Slovakia had joined hands commercially with Austria prevent the former from coming to good terms with Jugo-Slavia, hereditary bette noire of Viennese diplomats? Would it appear profitable to Roumania to conciliate Bulgaria, and, if so, would Roumania go as far as to return part of the Dobrudja to her southern neighbor to cement the new friendship? Could the other Balkan nations expect to hold Bulgaria in a federation which also included Greece, a country which, since her success in acquiring Thrace, has been looked upon by all Bulgars as the chief thief of history?

Some of these questions have been decided by the appearance of the full-fledged "Little Entente," the alliance just concluded between Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia, and Roumania. But to many of them the answer is still to be made.

In a military way the "Little Entente" is to play a purely defensive role, being designed to offer a united front against all attempts to upset the Treaty of Saint Germain, against the efforts of Magyar monarchists to rebuild their power at the expense of neighboring states and against any possible Bolshevist aggression.

Austria is not included in the "Little Entente," but the member nations are said to recognize that she has the same reason that they have to fear a recrudescence of Magyar imperialism and that she is inclined to be friendly because of her dependence on them for raw materials.

Greece enters into the calculations of the "Little Entente" because of her new position as mistress of Thrace and because she has had a commercial understanding with Jugo-Slavia since the spring of 1919. Efforts have already undoubtedly been made to draw her into the alliance.

It does not seem impossible that the "Little Entente" may have to make a choice between the co-operation of Greece and that of Bulgaria. The reception of Greece into an alliance with the states to the north would certainly be a severe blow to the aspirations of Sofia politicians.

Bulgaria has long fed on the dream of exercising hegemony over all the Balkans, nor has she forgotten the abortive San Stefano arrangement or the provisions of 1913 Treaty of Bucharest, which temporarily gave her much territory now handed over to Greece. A map of "Greater Bulgaria" hangs in every Bulgarian schoolroom, and longings to see its frontiers achieved will fade slowly.

On the other hand, the prospects for Jugo-Slav and Bulgar accord may be said to be rather promising. It will not be created out of whole cloth at a wave of the hand. But foundations for a rapprochement are being laid already, as will be seen from the following sentences in an editorial in the Progress of Belgrade: "For no strategic or other reasons ought we to attempt to annex portions of old Bulgar territory. Little people ought not to be imperialistic. Let us give an example of moderation and renounce what is not ours and what we do not need. Let us be open to reason, even though the Bulgars are not. Slav policy, the policy of peace and work, demands it. Our own interests demand it."

It is of course open to question how far this sort of moderation is characteristic of the Jugo-Slavs, how widely the spirit of reconciliation which it breathes is spread through the Balkans. There is nothing to be gained by disguising the fact that national dislikes are a persistent feature of Balkan life. Certainly the Serbs have had little reason in the past few years to feel toward the Bulgars any sentiments save those of hatred and fear, especially since the surprise attack of the Bulgar troops in 1913 and the action of Bulgaria in joining the armies of Mackensen in that last overwhelming invasion which made of all the previous heroic Serbian resistance a futile and empty sacrifice.

But it must be remembered in this connection that the Serbs of Serbia proper form only a part of the new Jugo-Slav state. The Serbs are the near neighbors of the Bulgars; they have suffered from them continually, and they hate them violently. But the Croats, Slovenes, Montenegrins, and other Jugo-Slav groups are not so closely involved. The fact that Bulgaria covets Serbian Macedonia involves a dispute in which the Croats and Slovenes have comparatively little interest. They are far more concerned over the future of Dalmatia or Fiume.

Coleman Ward Public School To be Constucted This Year

IF NEW TENDERS TO BE CALLED FOR ARE AT ALL REASONABLE—BOARD OF EDUCATION CONSIDERS VARIOUS SCHOOL MATTERS OF INTEREST — VISITING DAY AT SCHOOLS.

At 8-30 last evening a quorum of the members of the Board of Education was secured after the chairman had spent considerable time telephoning to members, who were not present. During the session which was quite lengthy, a number of matters were considered. It was decided to advertise for tenders for the Coleman Ward school and the Sites, Building and Repairs Committee also recommended that initial steps be taken towards the proposed new Collegiate Institute by having plans, etc, prepared. Inspector Clarke's monthly report showed an increase in enrollment at the Public Schools during the past month.

Visiting Day

The School Management Committee will arrange to have a day set apart for visiting day for citizens to visit the schools of the city.

Members present were Messrs. A. McGie, chairman, F. S. Deacon, H. W. Ackerman, Dr. O. A. Marshall, Henry Pringle, W. R. McCreary, C. M. Reid, D. V. Sinclair, W. B. Riggs, J. A. Borbridge, C. F. Wallbridge.

Minutes of the inaugural meeting were read and confirmed.

Communications, etc.

Mr. Beaumont Jarvis wrote the Board in reference to his new system of cellular construction.—Referred to Sites, Buildings and Repairs Committee.

Mr. C. J. Frederick asked to be appointed an examiner at the entrance examination—Referred to Board.

Principal MacLaurin of the High School wrote the Board in reference to the Adolescent Act, coming into force this year, which meant an increase in the enrollment of scholars something would have to be done to increase the accommodation as there would be from 400 to 500 pupils in attendance. The night school showed an attendance for January of 155 an increase over the same month last year. An agricultural chart was necessary and the cost would be $25 or $30.

The Board went into committee of the whole on receipts etc. Mr. Sinclair in the chair.

New Text Books

Dr. C. E. Popplestone, Professor of languages in the New Brunswick University addressed the Board in reference to introducing in the schools a work known as the "World Book" It is a work to assist the teaching profession and also the pupil. One set of 10 volumes with bulletins, etc. would cost $46.50.

The matter was referred to Printing and Supplies Committee to consider and report upon.

The report of the Finance Committee recommending the payment of a number of accounts was adopted.

School Management

The School Management Committee reported that a leave of absence had been granted to Mr. Milburn until March 1st, but that he had resumed his teaching.

That Mrs. L. D. Wilkins be employed as an additional substitute teacher at $4 per teaching day when engaged.

Coleman Ward School

The Sites, Buildings and Repairs Committee recommended that new tenders be advertised for the Coleman Ward School.

Mr. Riggs, chairman of the Committee said the members were unanimous in a determination to go ahead with this school as soon as possible.

Mr. Jarvis addressed the Board relative to the new process of building and stated that it made better walls than the brick. Tenders could be secured for both systems of construction. He was having blocks made of the new material.

Mr. McCreary was opposed to any experiment being made in this matter but it was not objectionable to ask for tenders to include Mr. Jarvis' method of cellular construction.

Mr. C. M. Reid thought the Board should get the advice of some competent engineer on this new process as propounded by Mr. Jarvis. If it is cheaper and thoroughly reliable we should be so advised. If such an industry could be secured for Belleville it would prove advantageous.

Mr. McCreary—With the new Adolescent Act coming into force the schools will be filled up. We will be well advised to go on with this work as it will take a year before the school will be ready for occupancy. He moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. C. M. Reid—The school may not be built this year when the tenders are considered.

The clause was adopted.

Teaching of Agriculture

A report was presented in reference to the teaching of Agriculture in the High School which was of a satisfactory nature. The report also referred to Horticulture being taught which was also satisfactory.

Inspector's Report

Mr. H. J. Clarke, Inspector, presented a report which showed the registration in the schools of the city for January were as follows:

Queen Victoria school, 482; Queen Mary School, 468; Queen Alexandra school, 362; Grier street school 175; total, 1487.

The Inspector recommended that the children of the Shelter in connection with the Children's Aid Society be taught in the shelter rather than in a school as at present.

Great advantage would accrue to teachers if they attended Summer schools. To-day is a day of specialists and should be encouraged

Assembly rooms at Queen Victoria and Queen Mary schools are being used for class rooms and these two schools are overcrowded. The influx of pupils after Easter is a matter to be considered.

The report was referred to school Management and the Sites, Buildings and Repairs Committees.

School Nurse

Miss Sinclair, school nurse presented her report for the month of January which showed that during the month there were some pupils home on account of contagious diseases Many children had been vaccinated by Dr Cronk, Medical Health Officer The Dentists were doing dental work for pupils at their offices.

The report was received and filed

On motion Mr Frederick was appointed examiner at the entrance examination

The Committee rose and reported.

The report was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr McCreary, a leave of absence of 3 months be granted to Mr Woodley a member of the Board

Visiting Day

Mr Sinclair thought a day should be set apart to visit our schools in the city and see the conditions of our schools The teachers would be pleased if this was done. This will help our schools, not one or two to go but dozens said the speaker

A motion prevailed that the matter be referred to the School Management Committee to make arrangements.

Adolescent Act

Mr C M Reid thought an opinion should be secured in reference to the wording of the Adolescent Act, respecting a boy or girl under 16 years of age who might during the holidays secure a permanent position. The question was would he or she be compelled to go to school again when school re-opened in the fall. The Act was not clear in this respect.

After some discussion the matter was referred to the Secretary to get a ruling on this point.

Lots Wanted

The Secretary-Treasurer of the Board was instructed to make an offer of $600 to Mr. S. A. Gardener for two lots on Octavia street which the Board is anxious to secure.

Board adjourned.

G. T. R. CONDUCTOR HONORED

In recognition of his half-century in the service of the Grand Trunk railway, James Garrett, conductor in passenger service between Toronto and Montreal, well known in Belleville, was tendered a banquet by some of his intimate railway associates of past and present years at his home, 134 Grenadier road, Toronto.

Congratulatory messages were read from various officials of the railroad and tribute paid Mr. Garrett, who is still on active duty in the Toronto-Montreal run. Mr. Garrett entered the service of the Grand Trunk on February 3, 1871, as a brakeman at Brockville. He ran between Brockville and Belleville for many years, being promoted to the rank of conductor on September 12, 1876.

English-Speaking People Must Agree

Unity Will Assure Peace of World, Says Mayor Putman.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb., 17.—"If the English-speaking people will stick together the peace of the world, is assured," declared Major George Haven Putman, of New York at the conclusion of a stirring speech. The British Empire League was responsible for the meeting, Brigadier-General W St. Pierre Hughes being in the chair.

Enlarging on the friendly attitude of the Canadian and American Governments and people, Major Putman continued:

"If the English-speaking people of these two countries, having so much to do with each other, can preserve the peace with each other, as they have done, the forty other nations of the League of Nations—where the United States should be and soon will be, I hope—must realize that a combination of the English-speaking people would maintain the peace of the world."

Referring to the anti-British movement in the United States, the speaker explained how the expenses of the halls where the pacifist spoke, had been paid for by the Germans "If they had been listened to, France would have been crushed, England next and then the United States."

The chairman explained the growth of the British Empire League "We now have over 1,000,000 members," he said. "From coast to coast in every city are our representatives. The council is a secret organization It includes five generals, who saw service in the last war One of the main points of the League is American and British friendship."

Dr Ruston Rustomjee, editor of the Oriental world, India, and a well known pro-British student also spoke. He dwelt carefully on the great importance of the Indian Empire to the British Commonwealth, industrially and economically. The anti-British feeling which was only too apparent throughout India today was all the result of German and Irish propaganda, he said

No Revenue No Salary Says Judge

Exchequer Court Upholds Referee's Decision on Central Railway Case

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—The appeal was dismised in the Exchequer Court of Canada of C N Armstrong, of Montreal, against the report of the referee in the Central Railway case

Mr Armstrong asked prior consideration for his claims against the railway amounting to $109,941.00 and asked that the court set aside in his behalf the report of the referee. Dr Charles Morse, registrar of the Exchequer Court. Mr. Justice Audette ruled that Mr. Armstrong had failed to establish his claim and dismissed the appeal with costs. The report of the referee is upheld.

Mr Armstrong was appointed manager of the Central Railway when the company was in process of formation The railway, which was projected to run from Montreal to Midland, Ont., was never constructed. Mr. Armstrong's saalry was fixed at $10,000 per year for ten years, "to be paid from time to time as the Board of Directors shall instruct." The judge rules that a company is not justified in paying a manager of a railway which does not operate and therefore has no revenue. The entire claim was dismissed Senators Domville and Edwards and Mr. Justice McLennan have presided over the company. The railway was never put into operation.

CHINESE GOV'T DEMAND APOLOGY FROM JAPAN

The Chinese government has demanded an apology and reparation from Japan for the sinking last June of a Chinese craft by fire from a Japanese gunboat in the Amur river, shortly after the Nikolaevsk massacre.

According to Chinese naval department reports, the Chinese boat, manned by one naval officer, four marines and 44 workmen, was sent out by the Chinese gunboat lying in the Amur to cut wood for fuel. On its return at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, a Japanese gunboat was sighted. The Chinese craft dropped anchor and ran up the Chinese flag.

The Japanese gunboat opened fire and seven hit the hull. The boat was partially submerged in shallow water and 34 workmen were killed by gunfire or drowned in efforts to get to shore.

Thirty Thousand Chinese Died in A Field

New York, Feb. 18.—Thirty Thousand Chinese gathered on a great bare field outside Tienstin, China, waited patiently for food which never arrived and then slowly died there. E. S. Glines, American Engineer, reported upon his arrival here after passing six months in the famine stricken areas of North China.

The condition of the starving hordes was so pitiful, Mr. Glines said, that he, "did not have the heart to take photographs of such misery." He said that the crowd at Tientsin had gathered because they believed food would reach them there more quickly than in the country. Along a roadside near the field, he told of seeing the bodies of a whole family—father, mother, and five children—each a few yards apart, where they had dropped and died

TEN MILLION MAY DIE

"There is no question that more than 10,000,000 Chinese will starve to death this winter and spring unless food is rushed to them" He declared that millions will die despite aid, that the population of 45,000,000 in the famine districts is in such dire straits that it will be a physical impossibility to rush enough food to them to save all

Great irrigation projects, control of flood producing streams, and improvement of transportation were cited by Mr. Glines as the only salvation of the agricultural and economic life of China

"These things will be done in time," he said, "for China is awake, America will probably have a big part in this future of China, but we must lay aside those things for the present and devote every effort to getting food to the starving millions"

Mining Men Are Opposed to The New Taxation

Say That Exploration and Development Work Will Be Retarded.

Toronto, Feb 18.—"At the time when Canada and the world are so urgently in need of gold to stabilize financial conditions, it is regrettable that any measure should be introduced tending to handicap exploration and development of the mining industry."

Such was the statement of J. P Bickell, of the McIntyre Porcupine and other mining properties, with references to the increased mining taxes now before the legislature

The increases, Mr Bickell states are from 3 to 4 per cent, on profits in excess of $10,000 and up to $1,000,000 and from 5 to 7 per cent on profits over $1,000,000.

"Do you expect the increased taxes will retard mining improvement?"

"I do," Mr Bickell affirmed, "The disabilities of gold mining during the war period are well known. Owing to the standard value of gold companies were unable to obtain any relief to compensate them for the constantly increasing costs of both labor and material This resulted in the world's production declining enormously, falling in the United States, for example, to approximately 50 per cent. of the pre-war yield.

"The pioneer must now assume all of the risk in developing a mine with the knowledge that should he be successful his taxes are likely to be increased Unquestionably, this will have the effect of intimating fresh capital and of retarding development of our potential gold and silver areas. Already a number of Cobalt mines have shut down owing to inability to operate at a profit at the low price of silver."

Mr. Bickell stated that representations against the increased taxes had been made to be governmen by the Ontario Mining Association, but that no prospect of relief had been held out to them

"However, the bill now before the legislature, providing for the increased taxes, will certainly meet with considerable opposition from north country members," he declared.

"How does the Ontario mining tax compare with those of other provinces?"

"I believe the Ontario tax is much more burdensome. However, I have no definite information, and could not say positively."

Traded His Daughter For Grocery Bill

But Mary Objected And Now Grocery Man Faces Serious Charge.

St. Cathrines, Ont. Feb. 18.—Behind a charge laid against John Maranko for alleged unwelcome attentions to Mary Morris and a threat to shoot her which charges will be aired before a magistrate on Friday is a story of an unusual character. It is said that in 1919 Maranko, who owned a store at Thorold, agreed to supply Mary's father, Thomas Morris, with groceries in return for Mary's hand, but that Mary, instead of giving him her hand in marriage, slapped him in the face for it.

This incident is said to have occurred after her father had run up a bill amounting to $1,700 in Maranko's store. Then followed the alleged threat of shooting. Both parties to the alleged contract of marriage are foreigners.

Preferred Death To Facing Court

Belgian Woman, Honored for Heroism, Suicides When Suspicions Are Hinted.

Paris, Feb 18.—Madame Louise Thuler a Belgian school teacher who was awarded the insignia of the Legion of Honor and the War Cross during the war, has chosen suicide rather than face exposure as a spy and a betrayer of patriotic friends, it is declared by to-day's newspapers The woman, about whom revolved one of the most stirring tragedies of the war, swallowed rat poison at her home in the village of Wiheries, near Mons, yesterday when called to appear before a magistrate.

Madame Thulier was associated Johanna de Belleville who was doomed to die by the Germans, but whose sentence was commuted through the intervention of President Wilson She herself, was taken prisoner by the Germans and was sentenced to death, but King Alfonso of Spain made a plea in her behalf and she was reprieved

During an investigation of espionage operations at Mons evidence was found, it is declared by newspaper here, that Madame Thulier had betrayed a number of companions, who were executed the day Miss Cavell faced the German firing squad The magistrate summoned the woman to appear before him, but she is alleged to have swallowed poison rather than obey

Soviet Troops Occupy Tiflis

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Constantinople, Feb. 19.—Soviet troops have occupied Tiflis, the capital of the Georgian republic lying on the southern slopes of the Caucasus Mountains. Advices received here indicate that three Russian divisions marched on the city from the flat, desolate plains of Armenia, while other Bolshevik forces crossed the eastern shoulder of the mountain range and invaded Georgia from that quarter. The belief is expressed that the Soviet Government desires to hold Tiflis as a base from which to direct the advance of troops through Persia.

Constantinople, Feb. 19.—Tiflis advices received here state that members of Georgian Government. Allied representatives and workers with the Near-East Relief have arrived at Batum. Georgian Government was not composed of men with fighting temperament it is said, and mobilized its troops in an inefficient manner when Sovet Forces advanced, the Government fled abandoning Tiflis to Bolsheviki elements. A subsequent despatch confirms the foregoing with the exception of the actual taking of Tiflis. Georgian Soviet elements are known to have taken possession of the capital after the Government's departure.

What the Tractor Can Do For The Farm

A tractor school meeting was held at Griffin's Theatre yesterday afternoon which was attended by a number of farmers and a few Belleville citizens. The object of the gathering was to impart knowledge relative to the uses of the Fordson Tractor on the farm.

Mr. J. Murdock who is connected with the Ford Motor Company, was present and by means of charts and films demonstrated his remarks in regard to the tractor and its usefulness upon the farm. The speaker was well versed in the subject he had to expound and gave a fine demonstration of the capabilities of the tractor. In his remarks Mr. Murdock stated that upon a farm a tractor could do the work of three teams of horses, and it was also capable of doing what a horse could not do in the way of running farm machinery, threshing machines etc. Last Fall the speaker said that much plowing could not be done in Ontario owing to the season being very dry. If tractors had been in general use this would not have been the case as the machine was capable of ploughing where a horse plough would not work. Had tractors been more commonly used much more land would have been prepared for cultivation which meant much more revenue for the farmer. Not only is the machine useful as regards ploughing but in the cutting of grain by providing motor power to the reaper, also loading of hay, unloading and even running the threshing machine. There are many other uses a tractor can be put to on the farm, such as cutting of wood, sawing of logs, running seperators etc. Two films of especial interest to farmers were shown, the titles being: "The Tractor on The Farm" and "Keeping the Boy on The Farm." These films told a story stronger than words of the uses to which the tractor can be put.

The operating of a tractor, its belt work and other uses were also explained by the speaker The address was not only interesting but highly instructive

Liberals Stop Members' Pairing

Abrogate Custom of Old Standing in House of Commons.

Ottawa, Feb 19.—The Liberal Opposition in the House of Commons is carrying out the decision of its caucus to permit no "pairing" by members of that group with supporters of the Government It was stated that the Opposition had declined to accord "pairs" to the sick among the Government's following and was unwilling even to provide a pair for Hon S F Tolmie, who was anxious to go to Victoria, B.C., where his brother is critically ill The absence of nine members, who are prevented from being in their places by illness, and of the Minister of Agriculture will, therefore, result in a reduction in the Government's majority when a division is reached upon Hon. Mackenzie King's want of confidence amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

GERMAN PROPAGANDA IN NEUTRAL COUNTRIES

Germany has begun to flood Switzerland and other neutral countries with very expensive propaganda both in book and pamphlet form, such as the memoirs of Ludenorff, Von Hindenburg, Von Spree and other naval and military leaders in the war. The books cost between two and fifty swiss francs each.

These together with experiences of the former Emperor William, and Crown Prince Frederick are sent to Swiss citizens free of all cost without anything to show where they originated. All classes of persons receive them and the Swiss newspapers are asking who is behind this unwanted propaganda. The German Minister at Berne has denied and official knowledge of it.

The Journal Democrate says, that while Germany is pleading poverty in order to obtain exemption from reparation payments and provisions of the Treaty of Versailles, and that while she is sending to Switzerland many children for charitable care, she is spending large sums for useless propaganda through which it is hoped to create favorable neutral pressure on the Allied premiers.

Hills Razed Cattle Killed By Earthquake

One hundred and ninety-two earthquake shocks were registered in six days in the zone affected by the seismic and volcanic disturbances in the region of the provinces of Valdivia and Cautin, in southern Chile, a few weeks ago, according to belated advices to the Ministry of the Interior. So far as is know there was no loss of life.

The official reports now available, supplementing the earlier information forwarded by cable, lay stress upon the violence of the shocks and the changes in the conformation of the country which resulted.

The disturbance is believed to have been due to an explosive eruption of the snow-capped volcano Villarica, 9,000 feet high, which is near the town of Pucon, in Valdivia. It is thought the crater of the volcano became plugged during the periods of inactivity and that the mountain blew its head off with the accompaniment of the violent earthquakes. The volcano is said to be of the type that, as a rule, does not emit molten lava, but ejects pumic and volcanic ash.

The shocks began shortly before midnight on December 9 and for three hours were almost continuous, terrifying the population, most of which are Indians. The most violent quake lasted about twenty seconds. The whole region vibrated intermittently during the next five days.

Entire hills were razed and many cattle were killed by falling trees. Much damage was done to small buildings in the town of Pucon, which is a port of entry from Argentina; parts of the international highway to Argentina were destroyed; two lumber mills were wrecked and a third was totally buried under a mass of earth and rock.

Lake Villarica rose five feet, later subsiding, while Lake Caburga is reported to have sunk 15 feet. The Turbio river, which had its source on the side of Mount Villarica, disappeared entirely and the Tancura river, which flows in the valley bearing that name, shrank to half its normal flow.

The district affected is one of the most picturesque in Chile. Latest advices said Villarica had quieted.

Toronto's Share For the Mothers Is $178,000

Estimate Expenditure on Mothers' Pensions Will Be About $15,000 a Month in Toronto.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—The Mothers' Pension board will require $178,000 from the city this year to meet local demands for gratuities. The board estimates the expenditure at the rate of about $15,000 a month, although payments up to date have been $5,000 and under.

The controllers yesterday held up an account of the mothers' pension board amounting to $5,513 for January. Two cases in which the city was charged $180 for widows in York in which, apparently, one beneficiary was twice paid in one month. Con. Maguire said that the accounts were checked up by the social service representatives on the local board. Con. Gibbons thought that the double payment might be due to the payment for one month being deferred.

The controllers decided to send the account to the local board to be checked.

HANDICAP ON CUPID IF BILL CARRIES

Toronto, Feb. 17.—Some years ago, when Dr. Forbes Godfrey introduced a bill to provide for a medical examination of all candidates for matrimony, the members smiled as at a good joke. They knew that the West York member, an enthusiast regarding eugenics, was quite well aware that such a bill could not get through and that all he was introducing it for was to promote discussion of the subject.

But this week, when Dr. Godfrey introduced a similar measure, it was received with evidences of approval in which members of the Government joined.

"The bill is to have a proper medical examination of candidates for matrimony in the Province of Ontario." he said when asked for an explanation of it. "I think it about time some attention was paid to that particular phase of the question in this province."

Ten nations are expected to compete in the tenis tournament for the Davis Cup this year.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Drinking carbolic acid while believed to be suffering from depression John O'Brien, Oshawa, father of seven children, lies in the hospital here in a very serious condition and may not recover. When he lifted the bottle to his mouth his son tried to snatch it from him, and succeeded, but not before he had swallowed some of the contents. He was rushed to the hospital in terrible agony. The man had been at work all day as usual and it was shortly after his arrival home that he committed the rash act.

What The Press Agents Say

RETURN OF THE WINNIPEG KIDDIES

This is what the Montreal Herald said, in part, in a column review of The Winnipeg Kiddies who will play a farewell engagement in Griffin's on Tuesday next, with a special children's matinee at 4:30.

"A more versatile and all-round clever company of entertainers has not been in Montreal in recent times than The Winnipeg Kiddies who opened at His Majesty's last night. The Pollard Australian Children were wonders in musical comedy, but they had not the versatility of these Canadian children. What a change it is from the stage born and bred children we have had in juvenile shows. . . These young people from the West bring something of the ozone and vigor of our land of healthy breezes. They are juveniles in name only. They not only entertain, they astound. They have a repertoire that would put many of the adult musical comedy and vaudeville companies who visit us to the blush. They are in a class by themselves."

S. Morgan-Powell, dramatic editor of the Montreal Star, is one of the most drastic critics on the continent. It is said of him that he "pans" more shows than he praises. Of The Winnipeg Kiddies he said in part: "The Winnipeg Kiddies at His Majesty's theatre gave keen pleasure. They possess a sangfroid and ease of deportment on the stage that many of their elders might envy. There is nothing slipshod about their work. On the contrary, choruses and dances go with a swing and a vim that bespeak intelligent comprehension of the significance of enthusiasm in stage work. They are a popular attraction, meriting every encouragement and support."

How is that for praise of Canadian Kiddies? The Toronto World of Sunday, Feb. 13, devoted half a page to these Kiddies, showing that we need not go outside of Canada for the best stage talent in the world.

ARE YOU LEGALLY MARRIED? AT GRIFFIN'S TO-NIGHT

Portraying as its title implies, a theme of so great an interest to every person in the country, and being based upon an actual fact of law with which only 50 per cent are familar, it is little wonder that the film has been town talk locally since its initial exhibition Thursday night. The United States Supreme court at Washington, D.C., handed down a decision upon which the story of "Are You Legally Married?" is based. This feature offering is being screened at Griffin's Twice To night 7-30 and 9-10 p.m., along with Charlie Chaplin in a funny 2-reel comedy "The Count," a gripping chapter of "Pirate Gold" serial and others of interest. By special arrangement the Griffin management will announce the score after each period of the hockey match in Toronto between Varsity and Belleville Intermediates.

OLIVE THOMAS PLAYS COMEDY PART IN "THE FLAPPER"

Olive Thomas in another of the "baby vamp" roles that made her famous is promised in "The Flapper", a delightful Selznick comedy which is to be shown at Griffins this Monday and Wednesday night.

"The Flapper" is just another "Seventeen", and you remember that "Seventeen" was a Booth Tarkington story that painted the first faithful of a boy suffering his first romance. "The Flapper" had been raised in a very strict atmosphere and she longed for the jazzy climate of the wild and wicked world. So she is sent to a boarding school. Her pose as a woman of the world went over big with her schoolmates. Her ambitions to be wild led her into a flock of scrapes, which reached a climax in a robbery mystery and a thrilling expose. A funny 3-reel Bringing Up Father comedy starring Johnny Ray, a Burton Holmes Travelogue, and Eileen Percy in "The Third Eye" have also been arranged for presentation on the same program.

Half a Century Making Woolens For Canadians

FATHER AND SONS

Stanfield's, Truro, Fifty Years in Business—Remarkable Record Of Canadian Firm

Truro, N.S., Feb.18.—With the banquet tendered by the Mayor and Town Council to-night there came to the close of a Five Days' Convention of Stanfield's Limited at which were gathered their chief executives in the manufacturing plant and their sales representatives from one end of Canada to the other.

Stanfield's Limited is an outstanding illustration that training, ability and sterling integrity win out.

It s just a litle over fifty years since the late C. E. Stanfield who served his apprenticeship in his uncle's woollen mills in Bradford, England, came to Canada and established a mill in Prince Edward Island, a few years later moving to Truro where his sons John and Frank were brought up in the business. The senior, John Stanfield, spending five years in different United States plants in order to supplement the practical knowledge gained in the home mills. After returning to Canada, he in 1896 in partnership with his brother bought out their father's mill and the business started on the basis of honest value and has grown steadily from year to year. In fact, for the quarter century there has not been a single unprofitable year, 1920 being the record with a total turn over of three million dollars.

SENATOR JOHN STRATFORD

John Stanfield has been President and Frank Stanfield Vice-President of Stanfield's Limited for twenty-five years. During this whole period there has not been a serious accident or fire and on account of the close connection of the executive with operatives there has never been any labor trouble.

Stanfield's early appreciated the value of publicity in building up a business, realizing that making good goods was only half the battle and the public must be told about them. They have backed their judgment by making the best goods they knew how and telling the public about them through the press.

Appointed Senator

A very pleasing close of the week's convention was the receipt of the news of John Stanfield's appointment as Senator from Nova Scotia.

Colonel, the Hon. John Stanfield, ex-M.P. recently appointed Senator of Nova Scotia, was born in Charlottetown, P.E.I. in 1868, the anniversary of Canada's first birthday. The Stanfields moved to Truro about 1870. John attended the Truro Public schools, and at the age of 16 decided to learn the woollen business. As a result, the next five years were spent in some of America's best mills—two of these years (perhaps we should say the finishing ones) at the Pacific Mills, then the largest Woollen Mills in the World.

Returning to Truro later on, he, in partnership with his brother, bought out their father's small Woollen Mill. In 1896 Stanfield's Mill employed 17. The turn-over was approximately $24,000 and the profits $2,250. Each succeeding year has shown a substantial increase; in fact, for 25 years Stanfield's have not had an unprofitable year. Last year, 1920 (their 25th anniversary) was a record, total sales being $3,000,000. The gross profits exceeded $200,000, or nearly 7% on the total turn-over.

For 25 years John Stanfield has been President of Stanfield's and its continued success is due in a large measure to his ability. During this period the Mills have not had a serious accident or fire, neither has there been a strike, which is in part explained by the fact that during all this time there has been no general reduction in wages.

In 1907 John Stanfield was asked to contest the by-election in the interests of the Conservative party. It looked like a hopeless task, as the Liberals had a solid 18 from Nova Scotia, and the Provincial Government was practically all Liberal. However, in one of the most spectacular elections that ever took place in Nova Scotia, and notwithstanding the fact that both Federal and Local Governments worked hard against him, he was elected, and this caused the first break in what was know at "the solid 18." At the general elections in 1908 he was again elected, and was made Chief Whip of the Conservative party at Ottawa. Again, in September 1911, he was elected, and at the same time the Laurier Government was defeated. He then became Chief Government Whip, and no more popular or efficient one ever held the reins than honest John Stanfield. In 1916 he was offered a Senatorship but refused. Later in the year, when in England, he was offered the high position of Governor of Nova Scotia.

Early in 1916 he resigned his position as Chief Whip, as the War was then looking serious, and he decided his duty, as a big able-bodied man, was to go overseas to France and fight. With his usual push and energy he raised the Regiment known as the 193rd Highlanders in a few days, unfortunately, while in charge of the Highland Brigade at Aldershot, he overtaxed his strength and nearly lost his life. He was rushed on a special train to Halifax and a serious operation was performed. Doctors insisted that it would be impossible for him to continue his military duties and, he would have to take at least a year's rest. "Fighting John" would not listen to this, and in a few weeks against their wishes and advice, he returned to his military duties and in due course went to England.

We believe that John Stanfield's recent appointment to the Senate by Premier Meighen is the most popular one that has been made for many a long day. The new Senator is in his 53rd year, and is at present organizing the First Battalion of the Colchester and Hants Regiment, of which he is Colonel. He has two sons John and Harold.

Piles Cured Permanently Without Drugs
Internal Bathing Relieves the Cause.
Mr. A. N. Steele, Cupar, Sask. writes: "I had been troubled with my Stomach, Piles and Constipation for years until I had become very thin and looked 20 years older. A leading Doctor in Regina told me that the main canal was badly ulcerated. I gradually became worse, until one day, when purchasing a threshing outfit from Mr. Russell of Regina. Mr. Russell noticed my condition and said: 'I can cure you. Get a J.B.L. Cascade.' Well, I did so, and the first night I used it I slept all night for the first time in weeks, and in a short time felt quite myself gain. It also cured my piles, which had troubled me for years."
If you are troubled with constipation, don't drug yourself. Internal bathing with the J.B.L. Cascade is the only permanent way. This wonderful appliance is the invention of Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell, New York. It is pleasant and easy to use, and will serve the whole family. It should be in every home. See the J.B.L. Cascade at J. S. McKeown, Druggist, Belleville, Ont., where it will be shown and explained to you. Ask for 32-page booklet all about internal bathing. It is free, or write Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College Street, Toronto, Ont.

THE ONE THING NEEDFUL

SERMON FOR THE "SHUT-IN", THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

But covet earnestly the best gifts: and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way.—I. Cor. xii:31.

Last Lord's Day we spoke on the gift of the Spirit as universal, for all time, and for the common good of all Christians, who are now in the Body of Christ—His Church. The Holy Spirit imparts to each member varied gifts to be used in the perfecting of the Church, "till we all come to the unity of the faith." But we find in the early church history that some members became jealous and envious of each other's gifts and caused discord. So Paul writes chapter thirteen of his first epistle to the Corinthians to impress upon all Christians that the use of all our gifts must be governed by love. "But covet earnestly the best gifts: and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

GIFT OF SPEECH.

I.—Consider gifts without love.—Paul begins with the gift of speech, which is a God-given talent and a wonderful power to influence the intellect, emotions and will. "I may speak with the tongues of men and of angels, but if I have not love I am a noisy gong or a clanging cymbal." He goes on to refer to some of the most attractive gifts. "I may prophesy, fathom all mysteries and secret love. I may have such absolute faith that I can move hills from their place, but if I have not love I count for nothing. I may give away all I possess in charity, and may give up my body to be burned, but if I have no love I make nothing of it." We see three things that bulk large in our day, viz. the power of speech, earthly possessions, a healthy body (and many appear to think far more of their body than their soul). But if we have these without love we are nothing. That comes as the judgment of very high authority. The proof of love is, "Speak the truth in love"; "Minister your gifts as good stewards of the manifold grace of God"; "Your body is the temple of God."

HOW LOVE BEHAVES ITSELF.

Love is opposed to envy, vanity and discord.—See how love behaves itself in all walks of life. "Love is very patient, very kind. Love knows no jealousy, love makes no parade, gives itself no airs, is never rude, never selfish, never irritated, never resentful; love is never glad when others go wrong, love is gladdened by goodness, always slow to expose, always eager to believe the best, always hopeful, always patient. Gibbon in his History of the Roman Empire, points out the forces in the wonderful expansion of early Christianity. He refers to five efficient reasons, viz. The zeal of the Christians, the doctrine of immortality, miraculous powers, the pure morality, unity and discipline of the church. But he misses the most important factor—LOVE. The witness comes from the early Fathers of the Church. The heathen said of those early Christians, "Behold, how they love one another!" And this is true to the thought and purpose of Christ Himself when He said, "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples when ye have love one for another."

Love will supersede three important things that men prize highly today, viz., prophecy, language, knowledge. Meantime we can only know a little bit but then shall we know even as we are known.

REASONABLE DEMAND.

Love makes a demand on the ground of reason.—"When I was a child I talked like a child, I thought like a child, now that I am a man I am done with childish ways." We who are followers of Christ have no room or time for childish ways. Life is too big and too serious for that. We must be men in Christ and face the great issues of life with manly traits. We have too much at stake to act otherwise. In view of the serious problems of life let us set ourselves, by God's good grace, to perform our God-given tasks as spiritual men. We have three gifts to exercise—faith, hope and love—and in the use of these gifts we shall have large returns here and now, but greater returns hereafter when all other gifts have ceased. Faith shall abode. "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith." Again, "Without faith it is impossible to please God, for he that cometh to Him must believe that He is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him." And again, "By grace are ye saved, through faith and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God." Hope shall abide. We are also saved by hope. We shall still hope for that we see not. We shall have so much to see in the life to come that we shall always live in hope of seeing more. "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, . . . the things that God hath prepared for them that love Him." Love shall abide. "But the greatest of these is love." Then the apostle goes on to say, "Make love your aim, and then set your heart on spiritual gifts." Love adds to the beauty and strength when it is exercised in the use of each. Love is the more excellent way. Professor Henry Drummond called love the "greatest thing in the world." Think what a greater power the truth is when spoken in love. Think how we please our Master when we obey the new command—"Love one another." Think of the great love wherewith Christ hath loved us and pray for grace to follow in His steps.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

I close with a beautiful story of the late R. L. Stevenson, author of "Treasure Island" and other fine stories. He spent his last days at Samoa, South Sea Islands. In his very weak condition, and, if possible, to improve his health, he moved from one house into a larger. On the evening of the day he moved he was feeling very tired and was longing for his cup of coffee. Just then his servant lad, who loved him, appeared with what he desired. Stevenson remarked "How great is the forethought!" The servant answered, "How great is the love!" Love is the one thing needful in this life. Without love life is empty indeed, even with all gifts and possessions. Let us pray now that God may give us all grace to walk in love and in the comfort and power of the Holy Spirit. God forgive us that we have failed to love God our Father, who has so loved us, and Jesus who gave Himself for us—how little we have loved Him. Shall we pray this prayer today—and when we have been forgiven much we shall surely love much.

A Man is just as Young and Strong as his Blood

No man can fight the battles of life and hold his own if his blood is not pure, for rich, red blood is what strength is based upon. When you see a strong, vigorous man, who never knows when he is licked, you may wager that such a man has coursing through his veins rich, red blood. Many people have thin, pale blood. They are weak, tire easily, become discouraged quickly, and sometimes feel like giving up the struggle. Such folks need Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which is sold by druggists in liquid or tablet form.

Send 10 cents to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package of the tablets.

NIAGARA FALLS, ONT.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery at times for the past three years with wonderful results, and I take great pleasure in saying a word to boost the cause of 'Freedom from Illness.' I am a pressman by occupation, which is quite fatiguing and injurious to the system, but since taking the 'Discovery' business has no drawback for me. Three cheers for Doctor Pierce's medicine!"—WILLIAM H. DEMPSEY, JR., 82 Bridge Street.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

25 cents per box—at all dealers.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

How To Keep Fit

Be Alive to the Dangers of Uric Acid

IF the world were fully alive to the effects of uric acid in the blood, there would be much less suffering than at present.

Every sufferer from rheumatism, sciatica, gout, lumbago and kindred complaints should realize that these afflictions are caused by poisonous elements in the system. When your kidneys fail to drain the dangerous uric acid from the blood, the first symptoms of kidney disease quickly appear—headaches, backache, constipation, dizziness, pains in the sides. At the first sign of any of these symptoms you should take Gin Pills at once. They will give you speedy relief.

GinPills FOR THE KIDNEYS

This splendid remedy removes the trouble by going straight to the cause—the kidneys. Gin Pills help these organs to perform their natural function once again, and the blood is soon purified.

Thousands of sufferers daily testify to the excellence of Gin Pills—even cases of long standing having obtained relief from this fine remedy.

Do not let your kidneys go from bad to worse. At the first sign of trouble, go to your nearest dealer and buy Gin Pills—60c a box.

Or, if you prefer, a free sample of Gin Pills will be mailed upon request.

TRUCE TO WARFARE ON FEATHERED FRIENDS.

A new spirit is born in Belleville among the boys and girls from fifteen to fifty and under. There must be no more catapults, air guns, and such instruments of tortune to maim and kill the beautiful birds which come back every summer to their homes in beautiful Quinte district. Jack Miner, great friend of all the feathered tribe, has been here and spoken, so that everyone may understand, consequently a truce will be declared to the barbarous warfare against the beautiful, helpless creatures of the air and they will soon learn that friends have replaced enemies and instead of flying away from the children will fly toward them and eat out of their hands.

Jack Miner's great "Sanctuary" at Kingsville is a living monument to the great power of kindness and an object lesson of the intelligence of all of God's creatures, even the Canada Wild Goose, seemingly devoid of wisdom, yet endowed with more intelligence, unselfish bravery and kindness than some human beings. Jack Miner has set the apparently meaningless honk! honk! of the Canada Wild Goose to music and opened up a hitherto unseen world to nature lovers filled with surpassing delight.

GERMAN PICTURES AND GOODS.

It was hardly to be expected that the Ontario Board of Moving Picture Censors would prevent the exhibition of a German-made film. The Censor Board's activities are mainly exercised in protecting public morals from the destructive influence of French lingerie.

It is only natural that there should be strong hostility towards the production of a German film in Toronto. Having been admitted to the country it will be difficult to prohibit the presentation of the pictures unless they are objectionable on other grounds. But the public can express their disapproval of anything from Hunland and give practical effect to their veto by refusing to patronize the theatre where the picture is produced.

If the citizens who would discriminate against German pictures are sincere, they must refuse to buy German goods. After all, the production of a moving picture staged in Germany is a relatively small item compared to the tons of "Made in Germany" merchandise which is being shipped into Canada to compete with the products of local factories.—Toronto Telegram.

FEEBLE "KING" CRAFT.

By bad leadership the ranks of the Liberal party were all but emptied in the middle of the war, and it will not be by the kind of leadership it has today that its ranks will be re-filled. Though but a shadow of its former self, organized Liberalism deserves better than to be judged by its present leaders and newspapers. These leave the impression that the Liberal party is failing in mind as well as waning in body. We cannot believe the Liberal party has become so run-down in condition that it can be induced to place its mark on the "usurpation" article Mr. Mackenzie King has lately added to his statement of policy. So far from providing him a platform, this usurpation cry, which is now the only thing to be heard from him, affords him not the narrowest ledge to stand on in politics. How could the Meighen Government usurp authority? It would be impossible for it to remain in office if it had not the support of a majority of the members of the House of Commons. There can be no usurpation of Government where the will of the people, as represented in the popular chamber, is carried out by the Ministry. Canada never had before at the head of either of its historic parties leadership so bankrupt in ideas and so feeble in resource. Can the people "usurp" power? Can they carry on "a conspiracy" against themselves? Mr. King has issued his fiat to Parliament. He has bidden it dissolve. Because it does not, he more vehemently condemns it. Yet nothing happens. The Constitution goes on working just the same as if he kept quiet. No amount of fuss he can make has the slightest effect upon the course of the government. Not being able to bring about a defeat of the Government in the House, of what use is it for him to talk of dismissing Parliament and bringing about an appeal to the country? Nor can he expect the Government to put the House out of existence merely because he sulks out of office. His press behaves as childishly as he does. It accuses Parliament and Government of sinning against the ambition of Mr. King. This is a new kind of King-craft the Liberal leader would set up. The worst that can be said about the Meighen Government is that it does not enjoy the confidence of Mr. King and The Globe. These two frantic protesters ought to be able to do their "recalling" without so much miscalling. The wrought-up organ brandishes its hat-pin whenever it speaks of Mr. Meighen.—Mail and Empire.

OTHER VIEWS

ANGLO-AMERICAN RELATIONS

Boston Transcript

The amazing statement wired from London that relations between Great Britain and the United States are drifting toward "a path leading to war" has been followed by several denials from inspired sources in London as well as from well-known Englishmen in this country. We do not for a moment believe that the statement is true nor is it consistent with the facts of the situation. It is probably a stupid piece of propaganda aimed at an imaginary condition. There is little, if any, anti-British sentiment in America to-day.

COUNTRY LIFE IN FUTURE

Washington Post

The trolley and automobile, an improved postal service, labor-saving equipment, co-operative laundries, creameries, trading centres and recreation halls, accessible hospital facilities and an adequate public health nursing service, and even wireless telegraphy and the picture show are being gradually brought to the rural districts, so that soon the reproach of hardship and dullness ought to be removed from country life. It will be part of enlightened statesmanship—local, State and Federal—to help along these processes of modern development, to the end then an increasing and contented population may find duty and pleasure happily linked together in the rural homes of America.

RAISING THE WIND

London Daily Chronicle

Lichtenstein, the third smallest independent state in Europe, has set the big nations an example of smart revenue-raising. Every few weeks a new issue of postage stamps is ordered, in several varieties. A few are sold to the public, after which the issue is annulled, and the bulk of it, enhanced in value by its cancellation, is bought up by collectors. A new issue follows, to be dealt with in the same way. Other Central European States have caught the notion, among them being Poland, with 150 varieties in two years.

POETS' CORNER

THE ENEMY

We, who are old and have arrived—at nothing;
We, who have had our chance and failed—
Who've brought the harvest home and found it chaff,
Or idled in the fields all day—
Let's turn aside from work and play
And hearken to the great invading army,
That comes with banners flying and with chant
Of victory on its lips and laughter strong,
To conquer us and take our lands,
Our houses and our place and crowd us down
With boisterous cries of exultation.

See, yonder where they stand and wait the word,
Beyond the ramparts but a little way,
A million strong—nay, more, ten million strong,
And filled with daring and with courage high;
And eager for the fray, because they feel
The strength of conquerors in their arms and hearts.
From them we shall receive no quarter! Hark
"Vae victis" echoes through their ranks.
Up, up seize arms to meet the charge,
And beat them back! To arms! To arms!

Too late—they are among us now,
And we have laid our weapons down without a blow
Before the conquering hosts of youth:
The boys and girls who spare us with a smile,
A tolerant smile, the while they crowd us to the wall!

Substitute for Pulp Wood.

"It has become axiomatic in the paper industry that there are no substitutes for spruce wood in making paper pulp," writes Harry A. Mount, in Popular Mechanics. "Thousands of dollars have been spent by manufacturers in an effort to find some material to replace the rapidly diminishing supply of spruce without result. And so they have received with a great deal of skepticism the recent announcement that a satisfactory paper can be made from the saw grass of Florida, and that a practical method of production has been developed. Recently a company has been organized, however, and plans are going forward for building a pulp mill with an initial capacity of 25 tons per day in the saw-grass belt.

"Engineers connected with the enterprise say that a preliminary survey reveals that there is in Florida nearly 6,000,000 acres of saw grass. This can be harvested twice a year, yielding 20 tons of paper per acre to each cutting. It would seem, therefore, that Florida might eventually furnish paper to the whole world, for it is claimed all grades of the commodity, from building papers and cardboard to the finest writing papers and vellums, can be made from the grass.

"It is not surprising, in the light of past experiments, that relief to the present paper situation should come from such a source. Fibre suitable for paper making has been produced from a number of plants, among them corn and cotton stalks. The pulp from these sources has been made only on a laboratory scale, however, because two chief difficulties stood in the way of commercial exploitation of the process. In the first place there is not a sufficient supply of any one material, and it is too expensive to gather corn or cotton stalks from a wide area. The second, and perhaps the most important, difficulty is that, because the material is not compact, only a small amount can be placed in the pulp 'digester' at one time, making the production very expensive."

In the Melting Pot.

"Standing, as I stand, in the capital of Europe—Paris—I sweep my eyes round from this centre and I see about me a world which dances and makes merry in the midst of death and destruction and the menace of to-morrow." In these words Mr Sisley Huddleston begins a striking article in the Atlantic Monthly.

"Men's mental outlook has changed," he says. "Those who were sober, industrious citizens, content to rear up their families and to walk usefully and humbly in the world, are now stricken by the wild notion of having a 'good time', a good time that means the easy earning of questionable money, its prodigal dispersal, forgetfulness of the family, nonproduction of necessaries, hopeless confusion and incompetence, which affects private as well as governmental persons, and a lowering of moral values, a debasing of intellect.

"Continuity has been broken. All is in the melting pot. The old landmarks have vanished. People were torn up by the roots. Their habits were shattered. Their beliefs were destroyed. Then very soul was melted in the fiery furnace of war, and moulded and twisted into new shapes. To straighten it back will be a prodigious feat. They have trampled on their religion. They have abandoned those good prejudices which keep society together. They have become cynical and selfish."

Hydro-Electric Development.

The electrical installations in the United States have, it is stated officially, doubled every five years during the past generation. In Canada the growth of hydro-electric development has been almost as great, the plant at present installed being over ten times as much as that in 1900. The present hydraulic installation in the Dominion has nearly reached 2,400,000 horse-power.

Our Future.

Ellis Powell, editor of the Financial News, speaking on Canada before the Colonial Institute in London, expressed the conviction that Canada and not the United States was destined to dominate the future of the whole North American continent, because she would overcome her climatic difficulties and her sparseness of population and become the focus of the Empire.

Orgy of Spending Ends.

London's orgy of reckless spending is over in the shops at least. Merchants report that the women who patronize their establishments are rapidly getting back to their pre-war basis of buying and comb the shops for real bargains in useful articles. The markets for luxuries is practically at a standstill.

Asthmatic Sufferers May Know Health Again

Among the so-called incurable chronic diseases is asthma. Sufferers from asthma have come to look upon their condition as something to be endured, rather than conquered. The sufferer from asthma seldom dies in an attack, but suffering is agonizing.

The structural condition of the spine in the region of the collar bone is invariably the same in every sufferer from asthma. Pressure upon spinal nerves at this point affecting the bronchial functions and bringing on the asthmatic condition.

Chiropractic spinal adjusting restores the spinal joints to alignment, removes the pressure on spinal nerves of supply to the bronchial region, and with the cause removed, the asthmatic sufferer is once more in normal health.

"ASTHMATIC CONDITION IS ENTIRELY REMOVED."

"In spite of my chiropractic skepticism I am enitrely relieved. Even the asthmatic wheeze has left me. I am now able to get a full night's rest. Specialists did me no good. I shall always be a booster for chiropractic."—R. N. Bullock, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 143P.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE TO BE HELD IN LONDON

The conference of the British Prime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George, Premier Briand, France and Foreign Minister Sforza of Italy with representatives of Greece and Turkey which is to open in London Monday February 21, has for its object the settlement of important Near Eastern questions growing out of the Treaty of Sevres. In point of world interest and perplexity it is expected to rank with the now historic conferences of Hythe, Brussels and San Remo.

One of the most interesting features of the gathering will be the meeting face to face of the [illegible] representing the new Greek government under King Constantine with its former Greek Premier Venizelos for the first time since Venizelos withdrew from Greece after the defeat of his ministry in the elections and the recall of the King.

This overturn in Greek affairs was an important factor in influencing the Allies to call the conference.

MIXED MARRIAGES LEGAL IN ONTARIO

London, Ont. Feb. 17.—"The privy council's decision in the Tremblay-Despatie marriage case does not in the least affect us here in Ontario. It is a matter for Quebec," declared Bishop Fallon, head of London Catholic diocese. He indicated that in regard to the mixed marriage question, non-Catholics were apt to confuse the civil or legal aspect of the matter with its sacramental aspect. It is only with the latter that the church is concerned.

In Ontario, as well as in other English speaking countries the legality of marriages not performed by a priest is fully admitted so long as the marriage has been carried out in accordance with the law of the land, but nevertheless the church retains its right to deal with the canonical phase of what it has always defined as a solemn sacrament.

WILL IMPRESS ESKIMO

ODDEST MURDER TRIAL IN HISTORY OF CANADA.

Killer From the Far North Will Be Taken Back Among His People to Pay For His Crime — Mounted Police Sergeant Travels 8,000 Miles In Connection With This Unique Case.

An extraordinary event is being staged somewhere along the Canadian Arctic Circle; the first murder trial among the Eskimos.

A flagrant killing had occurred among the yellow men of the snows. The Royal Northwest Mounted Police had brought the criminal to Ottawa for trial. The Canadian authorities formed the project of impressing the Eskimos with the dignity of the white man's laws by holding a formal trial among them. Examinations of witnesses, addresses by counsel, admonitions by the court, and all the legal pomps are being enacted by the light of the midnight sun in a courtroom shack along the shore where the Arctic Circle cuts Hudson Bay, and before a horde of gaping Eskimos. The function will end impressively—with a hanging.

In the far north region of Baker Lake there dwells the Eskimo tribe of the Padlemuts. These Padlemuts are pacific folk, like all Eskimos, and do not understand why men should fight. Nevertheless there grew up among them a certain Ou-Ang-Wak, who was a savage fellow — savage, that is, for an Eskimo. He presently reigned a rampant bully among the Arctic people of his region. He was a man of blows and knife thrusts. He swaggered in his furs, took what he pleased, and was held in abject terror by his fellows. Then he killed a man and ran off with his wife.

One day last year this Ou-Ang-Wak felt love stir within him, though not in any languorous sentimental way of the warm south. He went to the hut of a friend, squatted down before the fire, ate a chunk of caribou meat, and looked at the wife of his brother in the feast. He unsheathed his knife, thrust it into his friend's back, and took the woman. Men have acted like that in every latitude.

There was no horror, no anger of outraged virtue among the Padlemuts. There was fear. This Ou-Ang-Wak loomed a more terrible bad man than ever.

The story of his deed went over the snow lands like a hero tale. It reached the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Down at Fullerton Post, the Mounted Police headquarters received the relayed account of the villanies and culminating crime of the sanguinary Ou-Ang-Wak. The culprit was ordered apprehended. A stalwart of the "Mounties" was assigned to make the arrest. He was Sergt. W. O. Douglas, tall, hard muscled, dark haired, light eyed, a tireless patroller of the snows, a man for a desperate job. Douglas rode North over two thousand miles of evil country to the place of the Padlemuts, and was baffled.

The Eskimos mightn't have been sun-browned Sicilians facing the Mafia. They were not defiant of white men; the Eskimos of those parts never are. They contemplated the lone Mountie with fear. But they were more afraid of Ou-Ang-Wak than of anything else in the world. Nobody knew anything about the criminal. He might have gone to the North Pole.

But the Mountie finally impressed on the natives the fact that when British justice in the shape of the R. N. W. M. P. goes after a man it gets him. And he got Ou-Ang-Wak.

The return trip was an arduous one. It was three months through the wilds before Douglas gave his prisoner to the authorities.

The Canadian Government saw possibilities. The Arctic people have not become sufficiently impressed by the white man's laws. They do not understand Canadian notions about killing. A trial of the celebrated Eskimo bad man among his own people would have a great effect.

Douglas started North with his prisoner, back to the Arctic Circle again. This journey was easier, by ship to Hudson Bay, and in company of a panel of jurists. His mileage in the case would come to around 8,000 miles.

How to Safegaurd Your Digestion

The Blood Should Constantly be Kept Rich and Pure

If you suffer from any form of indigestion, your diet should be carefully chosen. Over-eating is always harmful, but at the same time one must take enough food to supply the needs of the blood. It must be remembered that the blood has to carry nourishment to every part of the body, find fuel for its energy and defences against disease, as well as the requisite juices for digestion. Hence when the blood becomes weak and fails to do its work, indigestion arises; also when indigestion begins the blood still further suffers. Therefore, to safeguard your digestion, the blood should be kept rich and free from impurities. For more than third of a century Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a favorite tonic for enriching the blood and strengthening the nerves. If, therefore, you find yourself troubled with indigestion, or other ailments due to weak, watery blood, you will find Dr. Williams' Pink Pills both safe and effective. The value of this medicine in cases of stomach trouble is shown by the experience of Mrs. J. Lewis, Lake George, N.S., who says: "I suffered very severely with indigestion. I had severe pains in the stomach after every meal, my rest at night was very much disturbed, and my general health was declining. I was under doctor's care, but did not find any improvement. Reading of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had done in a similar case I decided to try them, with the result that after giving them a fair trial, my general health was improved, and all symptoms of the indigestion that had afflicted me disappeared. I feel very grateful to Dr Williams' Pink Pills for saving me from so much misery."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW COMMISSIONER OF PROVINCIAL POLICE

Ontario is to create the position of what will probably be a new official commissioner of provincial police, with very wide powers.

In the legislature last week J. W. Curry, K.C., the member for south-east Toronto, urged that some one should be put in charge of all law enforcement in the province, and Hon. Mr. Raney loudly applauded his declaration. Now it appears that the Government has a bill under way which probably will be introduced to the house some time this week.

The enforcement of the O.T.A. and all criminal laws will be put in the hands of the provincial police commissioner, and he will have large powers in appointing and dismissing subordinates. On the other hand, he will be held strictly to account for a good administration. It is possible that later on he may be called on to enforce the fish and game laws.

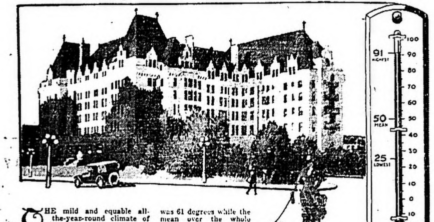
Can Any Canadian City Beat This?



The mild and equable all-the-year-round climate of Victoria on Vancouver Island—a climate which is bringing so many Canadians and Americans to the beautiful Empress Hotel—is demonstrated most convincingly by the record of the thermometer. According to figures supplied by the meteorological office of the Dominion Government the lowest point reached during the year 1920 was 25 degrees Fahrenheit in the month of January, while in only one month, namely, July, was any higher point reached than 84 degrees. The mean in the hottest summer month of August was 61 degrees while the mean over the whole year was 50 degrees. The winter months of January and February show mean temperatures of 39 and 42, although temperatures in both months were recorded as high as 53 degrees. No wonder that the grass is always green and that Spring comes early in this equable and delightful climate. Victoria is par excellence Canada's City of Flowers, and the Empress Hotel as its social centre is a perennial attraction for young and old.

The Key To Prosperity

An Advertisement to Young Men

Carnegie, Hill, Rockefeller—financiers who have succeeded in a marked degree—say that the key to prosperity is the ability to save in youth.

The first few thousands of capital are the most difficult to secure. But to get them is worth the hardest effort and most patient sacrifice.

John Wanamaker laid the foundation of his colossal fortune with the proceeds of his endowment insurance policies.

No other method of saving has been found superior to the endowment policy. It involves almost compulsory saving, yet if taken out in The Mutual Life with the splendid annual dividends applied to reduce the premiums, the policy is not difficult to carry. Certainly not too difficult for a young man who is determined to succeed.

At the end of the term of the policy—say 10 years, 15 years, or 20 years—the principal is available for re-investment. It becomes a partner to toil night and day for you and to help you to success.

Oldsmobile 4

Built to Extend the Fame of a Good Name

Oldsmobile popularity receives a new impetus among motorists who want Oldsmobile sturdiness, reliability and beauty in a four-cylinder car.

In spite of present conditions, Oldsmobile dealers who have seen and tested the new model have ordered enough new Oldsmobile Fours to keep our plant busy for months to come.

They recognize in the new Oldsmobile Four "the car of the day" when buyers want dollar-for-dollar value for their investment in an automobile.

See this car. Observe its evident virtues of permanent style, sane design and sturdier construction. Note how it retains the same pleasing lines, the same close attention to body details that have always emphasized Oldsmobile beauty and comfort.

Ride in the car. Drive it yourself. Because when you actually drive the car yourself or ride in it, you will appreciate that these surface excellences are but outward signs of its unseen virtues.

In looking over the Oldsmobile "4" we purposely ask you to forget any preconceived standard you have had of value, because we believe the Oldsmobile "4" is going to sweep aside every precedent of four-cylinder goodness that you may have had of any car of like class.

by him among all women liars of the world and that to him his boy Robert of honor was of a truth dead forever.

"It is indeed of such a gravity that I have come from the English Canada to make all clear to myself," answered my beloved Capitaine the Count de Lasselles as he drew himself to his entire height, which was well nigh as great as that of the gouverneur of the state of Harpeth.

"And I have ridden a day and a night, sir, for the same purpose," answered my great Gouverneur Faulkner, with that beautiful courtesy of business I have always observed him to use in the transaction of his affairs in his office at the capitol of the state of Harpeth. "And as one of us must make a beginning will you not tell me, captain, why you are here and in this predicament?"

"In a few words I will make all clear to you, your excellency," made answer my Capitaine the Count de Lasselles, with an air of courtesy equal to that of the Gouverneur Faulkner. "I sent down into your state of Harpeth one of my commission, to whom I gave the direction that with a lack of annoying publicity he should investigate the preparedness of the state of Harpeth to deliver those 5,000 of mules to the republique of France as was being proposed. Behold, a report that all is well comes to me, but—ah, it is with sorrow and shame that such a thing could be done by a son of poor France who struggles for life!—among the sheets of that report were left by mistake the fragments of a draft of a letter to an American woman which made a partial disclosure of an intended falseness of that statement to me. Immediately I came alone to interview that false officer, and I find him gone from that small town not far from here into your capital. I was seeking rapidly to ride alone by directions into your capital city to prevent that he make a signature, which I had given to him the authority to write, to those papers of so great an importance. I was thus arrested by that man of great wildness, whose patois I could not understand, as he could not comprehend the English I make use of, and you see me thus. I beg of you to tell me if that wicked signature has been made."

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

The highest reward a city can give. The Freedom of the City of London, Eng., presented to members of Special Constabulary for services rendered during the war.

"The papers have not been signed, thank God, captain, and your very impatient lieutenant is being shown some southern hospitality by the flower and chivalry of old Harpeth. And I beg your pardon for allowing you to be a prisoner a minute longer than necessary," was the answer made to him by my Gouverneur Faulkner. "Untie the captain, Jim. He's all right. And you can bring us a little of your mountain dew while I clear this table here to use for the papers of our business." And still my Gouverneur Faulkner did not speak or look at me, and in my heart I then knew that he never would.

"I will make all ready," I said as I lifted a large gun, a horn of a beast full of powder and several pipes with tobacco from the table of rough boards that stood under the window for light.

"Ah, that is a good release! Thank you that you did not make tight enough for abrasions your cords, my good man," said my Capitaine the Count de Lasselles as he stretched out his arms and then bent to make a rubbing of his ankle upon which had been the chain.

"I said you warn't no revenue. Here, drink, stranger," answered the wild Jim as he handed a bottle of white liquid to my Capitaine the Count de Lasselles and also another to my Gouverneur Faulkner. "That boy can suck the drippings," he added as he looked at me with humor.

"Get cups and water, Jim," commanded my Gouverneur Faulkner, with a smile. "Don't drink it straight, captain. It will knock you down."

"I will procure the cups and the water," I said, with rapidity, for I longed to leave that room for a few moments in which to shake from my eyes some of the tears that were making a mist before them.

"Git a fresh bucket from the spring up the gulch, Bob, while I go beat the boys outen the bushes with the news that they ain't no revenue. They'll want to see Bill," was the direction that wild Jim gave to me as he placed in my hand a rude bucket and pointed up the side of the hill of great steepness. After so doing he descended around the rock by the path which we had ascended.

"What is it that you shall do now, Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye?" I wept a question to myself as I dipped that bucket into a clear pool and made ready to return to the hut. "All is lost to you."

"I do not know," I answered to myself.

And when I had made a safe return to the hut with a small portion of the water only remaining in the bucket, for the cause of many slides in the steep descent from the pool, I found my Gouverneur Faulkner and my Capitaine the Count de Lasselles engaged deeply in a mass of papers on the table between them and with no thanks to Roberta, the marquise of Grez and Bye, when she served to them tincups of the water and a liquid that I had ascertained by tasting to be of fire. I believe it to be thus that in affairs of business in the minds of men all women are become drowned.

READY TO BUST

Jack Johnson "can't see Jack Dempsay as a champion." In a letter to E. Lippe, boxing manager, the former champion of the world says he is going to return to the ring, that he is in better condition today that he ever has been. "I can beat all the Dempseys that ever put on the gloves. As for Wills and the rest of them, I can take them all and finish up strong enough to take on a dozen more of the same kind that have been masquerading around as boxers," he writes. "I am filled with power and strength, not dope. If I get any stronger I'm liable to bust. I am just like T.N.T. and ready for the time to put the fuse to it and let the public see what I can do. I cannot see Jack Dempsey as champion."

The Liberals in the Commons almost forced a vote on the election question.

CHARGED WITH ASAULT

As an aftermath of the fight at Crow Lake on Valentine's Day, as a result of which Harold Reynolds is lying in the Kingston General Hospital with wounds in his head. Alfred Patterson of Oso township, appeared before Police Magistrate Bradshay at the Court House Kingston charged with assault and doing actual bodily harm to the injured man. Patterson pleaded "not guilty" and was remanded till next Thursday. He was accompanied by the new Provincial Police Officer, Mr. Hornbeck. The accused was let go on $2,000 bail.

DRANK IN A PUBLIC PLACE.

Irene Davis, before Magistrate Masson yesterday afternoon, pleaded guilty to a charge of drinking liquor in a public place. A fine of $100 and costs was imposed. She was also charged under the Vagrancy Act, but this charge was enlarged for a few days. This case also arose out of a dance held at Mrs. Keeting's place on the night of the 10th inst.

ROTARY AT CHURCH.

Members of Belleville Rotary Club will attend divine service in John St. Presbyterian Church Sunday evening when a special address will be given by the pastor, Rotarian Rev. D. C. Ramsay.

STUDENTS ENTERTAINED.

A most enjoyable time was spent at Holloway street church last evening when the Epworth League entertained the students of Albert College. The affair was under the direction of the Social Vice-President, Miss Maude Gillett. The rooms looked pretty decorated with Valentine hearts and streamers, and by eight o'clock were filled with young people. The presence of an orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Garnet Dobbs added materially to the success of the evening. Between promenades a splendid program was given, as follows: Songs—Mrs. Lenty, Miss S. Walton and Miss Smith. Piano solo—Mr. Sparling Beach. Reading—Mr. Moulton. These numbers were all heartily encored. Miss W. Pearce and Miss K. Sisson played accompaniments. Mr. Ewart Jones, as President, extended the welcome of the League to the guests and hoped that many such evenings would be held in the future. After refreshments the singing of the National Anthem brought the evening to a close.

DROVE ON WRONG SIDE.

Two farmers were this morning charged before Magistrate Masson with a breach of the traffic bylaw, by driving on the wrong side of the street. Both pleaded guilty and a fine of $2.00 was imposed, which was paid. His Worship intimated that unless the practice of driving on the wrong side of the street was stopped he would impose fines of $10 or $20.

Your Efficiency Depends on Your Eyes

Good Work needs good Eyesight, because as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so a man is no stronger than his weakest faculty. And now, when the quality of one's work will play such an important part in determining one's income, you owe it to yourself to keep your faculties alert—keen—fit for competition.

Don't wonder if your eyes are efficient. Have them examined and KNOW.

HIS 30TH ANNIVERSARY

Right Rev. Dr. Edward J. Bidwell, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, will on Sunday celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of his ordination. He spent twelve years in England and the past eighteen in Canada. For six years he was headmaster of Lennoxville College, Quebec, and for twelve years has been in Kingston, first as rector of St. George's Cathedral and Dean of Ontario, then as Co-adjutor Bishop, and as Bishop after the death of the late Right Rev. Dr. W. Lennox Mills.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

One of the pleasant events of life came to the home of Mrs. Jas. Broad, of Massassaga, it being the anniversary of her 80th birthday, February 5th, when she entertained her children and grand-children and neighbors. Her spacious dining room commanding a view of the Bay of Quinte from the Bay Bridge to Point Anne was bright with potted plants. The table was set for sixteen with all the good things to satisfy the inner man, to which all did ample justice. Mrs. Broad is the oldest daughter of the late John Every Wallbridge, who was born 1816 on the farm Mrs. Broad now resides on, he being a cousin of the late S. S. and Ada E. Wallbridge also the late Hon. Lewis Wallbridge all of whom were born at Massassaga. Her Grandfather the late Asa E. Wallbridge a U. E. L. of New Castle. After dinner the guests being led by the hostess repaired to the living room also bright with potted plants, where music and chat passed the time all too soon. The guests left Mrs. Broad looking very happy surrounded by her children and grand-children, James and Hattie on the homestead, her oldest son Asa Wallbridge, Broad and family all being born on the same farm, making it the birth place of four generations of Mrs. Broad's family. Those present were Miss Bessie Wallbridge, Jay Anderson, T. D. Wallbridge and wife, Wm. L. Wallbridge and wife, Mr. B. Osborne and wife, Percy Catherall and family, Mrs. Wm. Jose, Mrs. A. Vermilyea and Mrs. Howatson, all wishing Mrs. Broad many happy returns of the day.

HEAVY FINES IMPOSED

At police court yesterday afternoon some cases were disposed of by Magistrate Masson. Johnathan Elliott was confronted with three charges namely, having liquor for sale, selling to a minor, and having liquor in a place other than his residence. It was alleged the accused, whow as on the night of the 10th inst. present at a dance held at Mrs. Keeting's place in this city to which a fee was charged, sold a drink of whiskey to Ernest Farrell. This charge was dismissed. He was found guilty of giving liquor to a girl under age and also guilty of having liquor in a place other than his residence. He was fined $300 and costs for the latter offence and $50 and costs for the former. The fines were paid. Mr. Carnew represented the prosecutor in the case and Mr. E. D. O'Flynn for the accused.

SPECIAL SERVICES

The week of services at the Tabernacle church, with the Irish Soldier Evangelist leading, has been of a most beneficial character. The Scriptural messages of the Evangelist have gone deep down into the inner life of the congregation. Results in quickened spiritual life are very clearly manifested, and a number of those in attendance at the services have resolved to follow the man of Galilee. The meetings continue on Sunday and through the week.—Com.

Negro Minstrel Is Still Popular

Herbert's Merry Minstrels From Way Down South Good Singers And Dancers.

That minstrelsy has not by any means lost its popularity was clearly evident at Griffin's Opera House last evening, when Herbert's Minstrels played to a large audience, who enjoyed the program given by the troupe of entertainers.

In the first scene the entire company was on the stage and the playing of the band and the songs by the soloists of the company were very enjoyable, as well as the numbers in which the entire company took part. The effect in this scene was a pleasing one, the costumes being gorgeous and the scenery most appropriate.

The second part of the program was a series of specialties. The fire-eater kept the audience while he performed his act of seemingly eating fire and biting off red hot tongs, and he received much applause. The bicycle rider was also very clever and performed some difficult stunts.

The specialties between the acts were a real treat, and the audience was kept in hearty laughter by these entertainers. One of them was a good story-teller, while others did some very clever dancing. The male quartette was exceptionally pleasing, their singing being very humurous and enjoyable.

The last scene was a lively one, depicting a trapper and his pal landing on a lonely island in the midst of a band of cannibals. The scenery in this act was particularly good

Wedding Bells

ATKINSON—SCRIMSHAW

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scrimshaw, Deseronto on Wednesday February sixteenth at eleven o'clock, Rev. R. Bamforth officiating when their eldest daughter Beatrice Lillian, became the bride of Burt Alexanded Atkinson, Whitby, Ont. The bridal party entered the drawing room, the bride accompanied by her father and looking very dainty and sweet in a gown of Copenhagen blue georgette crepe and habutai silk, the ceremony being performed beneath a very apropriate arch of cedar boughs. Miss Reta Scrimshaw, sisterd of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a pretty little gown of silver grey messaline silk and georgette crepe also a gold pendant, a gift of the groom. The gift to the groomsman Mr. Percy Parks Deseronto, was a pair of gold engraved cuff links. After the ceremony the numerous guests partook of a sumptuous wedding dinner.

The many handsome as well as useful gifts to the bride showed the high esteem in which she was held.

The guests from out-of-town were: Miss Reta Cronkright, Napanee, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Juby, Belleville and Mrs. Muriel Dunn, Whitby, Ont., ister of the groom. The happy couple couple left on the five o'clock train for their home in Whitby amid showers of rice, confetti and best wishes for future happiness, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit with hat to match.

Nothing to Equal Baby's Own Tablets

"Silence is Golden"—

only when Wisdom dictates abstention from speech; otherwise the deductions are apt to be uncomplimentary.

Silence, in respect of Advertising, to the man who has merchandise to sell, and who depends for his existence on Community Goodwill, is apt to find an appraisal in base metal.

Not only is it profitless; but, inasmuch as nothing is Commerce is static, its probable result is direct loss; and the end gained exactly the reverse of the merchant's intent—that being, presumably, economy.

The time to exert your local advertising strength is when the going is hardest.

This was never more certain than it is at the moment, when one considers the condition of those merchants whose Public goodwill, founded upon their daily newspaper advertising and the sale of good merchandise, is creating sales during the pinch of curtailed demand.

In times like the present, Daily Newspaper Advertising shows its greatest strength.

"For three years, I was a terrible sufferer from Dyspepsia and my general health was very bad. I consulted a physician and took his medicine and faithfully carried out his instructions; but I did not improve and finally the doctor told me I could not be cured.

At this time, a friend advised me to try 'Fruit-a-tives' and I did so. After taking two boxes of 'Fruit-a-tives', I was greatly relieved; and gradually this marvelous fruit medicine made me completely well.

My digestion and general health are splendid—all of which I owe to "Fruit-a-tives".

What Time Is It?

How many times a week are you asked that question, and how many times do you have to add, after telling the time, "My watch may be a little fast," or "I don't believe that's exactly right."

There is a certain satisfaction in having the right time that you never get out of a watch that is always fast or slow.

As a matter of fact, the watch that is always fast or slow is worse than the one that does not run. The watch that does not run is right twice a day, and the other is never right.

We have time now to overhaul your watch or to do any little thing you know it needs; or we will just look at it and advise you whether we think it needs any work on it. Bring it in and let us make it absolutely right.

A PLEASING RE-UNION

Members of the Bridge Street Methodist church turned out in large numbers last evening at the annual church re-union. In the early part of the evening tea was served by the ladies who as usual provided dainty refreshments. After tea brief addresses interspersed with vocal selections were gievn.

LORE OF THE IRIS.

Beautiful Flower Is Usually Associated With France.

Every schoolboy who has declaimed the ringing lines of "The Battle of Ivry" has learned to associate the lilies of France, no less than the white plume of her hero king, with history in its most stirring aspect. Not every schoolgirl who follows with pride and sympathy the career of Joan of Arc, the young French peasant girl, may know, however, that they are associated even more closely with the "lily maid" of France; since when the king ennobled her, the title he conferred—needless, but aptly chosen—made her Dame du Lis—the Lady of the Lilies.

Yet the lilies of France were not lilies at all; for the fleur-de-lis, or flower-de-luce, is certainly an iris. Mediaeval Florence, however, also reckoned it a lily, blazoned it on her famous gonfalon, and made it conspicuous in her splendid chronicles.

Possibly it may claim even an older and a loftier fame; for some botanists assert that it was neither scarlet amaryllis, nor meadow lily, nor blazing wild tulip, as others claim, but the stately Oriental iris, in its royal purple majesty, with which Solomon in all his glory could not compare.

Of late years Japan, the land of gardens, has added largely to our iris lore. The Japanese irises, far surpassing all others in beauty and variety, bear fanciful, often poetic, names, which it is a pity our prosaic nurserymen so seldom translate.

One lively white variety is Moonlight; another, Moonlight of Foam; one faintly flushed is Dawn on the Mountain; a striped sort, waving in the wind, has acquired the name of Dancing Tiger, and then there are also a Dancing Bear, a Dancing Lion, and a Heron's Feather.

The iris gardens of Japan are wonders of loveliness, and in the most famous the little maids who serve the visiting crowds with tea in the pretty summer houses are carefully arrayed in iris hues.

On one special day, May 5, it is customary for all houses to display graceful and beautiful arrangements of iris, hung beneath the eaves, and at all the public baths buds and petals of the iris are cast afloat upon the water to delight the bathers with their scent and color.

One homelier kind is especially the flower of the Japanese women; for centuries-old tradition tells that once, in time of famine, it was decreed that all cultivable land must be planted to food crops only; but the women, unwilling to forego their orris powder, made from the tuberous roots, cleverly transferred their irises to the sods of the thatched roofs, where they grew and flourished. Certain it is that this iris—the iris tectorum—is still so planted in Japan, and thrives in purple splendor, cresting the humblest farms.

The Civil Engineer.

"Will the day ever come when a discerning public will accord to the civil engineer the tribute of gratitude and perpetual remembrance which is surely his due when he conceives and puts through masterpieces of engineering construction?" asks a writer in the Scientific American.

"Is it not a reflection upon human nature that only in the rare cases when the engineer happens to be also the financier of a great undertaking does posterity associate his name with his work? Too often the master mind which conceives a noble engineering project, solves its many problems as they develop, carries the burden of its multiplied anxieties, and transmutes his great dream into a splendid reality—too often he passes out of the public mind, and his name and fame are known only to the comparatively limited number who grace his own profession.

"Henceforth his masterpiece is associated with the name of the promoter and the financier, and to them accrue the rewards and financial profits."

Peanuts In Baby's Bath.

When a new baby arrives in China it is the custom for the mother's parents to supply it with several outfits of clothing. If the baby's maternal grandparents are wealthy it is not unusual for them to furnish all its clothes until it is 5 or 10 years old.

Though customs vary in different provinces, just as dialects do, it is a common thing when the child is three days old for the parents to present boiled eggs, dyed red, to relatives, friends and neighbors, thereby signifying that they hope that their children will be as numerous as the eggs. Frequently the number of eggs given away totals 2,000 or more.

For the baby's bath two tubs of water are made ready, one for its body and one for its head. Dragon's eggs and peanuts are thrown into the water in both tubs, this being supposed to insure long life and success in all undertakings of the child's adult life.

It is customary for relatives to drop money liberally into the water. —London Tit-Bits.

Ventilation.

Ventilation is as important a matter in the barn as in the house, and no barn should be built without care being given to supplying fresh air for the stock. Some sort of a vent should be placed at the top of any reasonably closely enclosed barn, as the foul air will otherwise hang under the roof and eventually make all the air in the barn bad. The cool, pure air will find its way in if there is a way for the warmer foul air to escape.

Glass.

Glass was made in Egypt 3,000 B.C.; earliest date of transparent glass, 710 B.C.; glass windows were introduced into England in the eighth century.

Beer Corks.

It is said that nearly 70,000 tons of corks are needed for the bottled beer and aerated waters consumed annually in Britain.

Mrs. H. Langlois, wife of a Grand Trunk engineer at London, Ont., was recently awarded a prize of $500 in connection with a contest to furnish a slogan for a flashlight concern.

Belleville Wins The Round From Varsity by 4 Goals

OUTPLAYED STUDENTS AT TORONTO ARENA IN SENSATIONAL GAME, WHICH ENDED THREE ALL, GIVING BELLEVILLE THE ROUND BY FOUR GOALS, PREVIOUS GAME HAVING BEEN WON BY BELLEVILLE 6-2—NOW FOR COLLINGWOOD.

Hats off to our intermediate hockey team! Handicapped by a surface of artificial ice larger than that to which they are accustomed, up against a team bound to win in their own home town, and with one of their men only recovered from illness, our boys held Varsity II. to a 3-3 tie at the Toronto Arena Saturday afternoon, thus winning the round by 4 goals.

FAST AND CLEAN.

The game was fast and clean throughout, only two penalties being given, and only in the second period did U. of T. appear to have the edge of the play. Many thought that Belleville would play a defensive game, as they held a lead of four goals, but no—from the face-off at four o'clock till the gong sounded at 6 p.m. they played right on top of the college goal. Belleville got the puck at the first face-off and carried it down to Varsity defence, but they were on the alert, and the rubber was chased up and down the ice till finally Evans scored on a pass from McCullough. The puck landed in the net like a bullet. This put Belleville on their mettle, and shortly after, from a scramble in front of Varsity goal, "Daw" scored. Goyer was handed a penalty for a little trip during this period. Weir accidentally received a nasty blow in the face from McDonald's stick and for a few minutes saw stars. He was lustily cheered, when after the face-off he carried the puck almost to Varsity net. The period ended 1-1.

SECOND PERIOD.

Shortly after the start Weir scored on a pass from Goyer, but it was declared an off-side. Belleville seemed rather off color during this period, with the exception of Pat Boland in goal. The play was in Belleville territory most of the period and several times Ferguson, Douglas and Gouinlock worked past the defence and rained shots on the goal from all angles, but Pat was on the job and allowed only two counters. It was during this onslaught that Pat's head was used as a puck-stopper. He threw the rubber to safety first and then fell like a log, and with him fell the hopes of the Belleville spectators. But he pluckily resumed the game, and the period ended Varsity 3, Belleville 1.

THIRD PERIOD.

Belleville came out in this period with that determined spirit which has carried them along thus far. Whelan got the puck and never let go till it landed safely in Varsity's net. It did seem strange to the Bellevillians to see a game of hockey without a goal from "Gunner" Arnott. Everyone thought it was a sure counter when he cleverly worked his way past the forwards, through the stalwart defence, right to the net. He missed by inches only. However, shortly after he repeated the stunt and made it a 3-3 tie. Gunner had apparently saved himself for this period and his playing was good to see. Belleville was safe now, and as time was nearly up they played a defensive game. Weir was given a penalty just before the gong rang. Varsity tried every trick, but seemed unlucky when right at the nets.

Tom Munro handled the game in his usual impartial manner.

(By EARL F. CHAPMAN)

Toronto, Feb. 19.—At four o'clock this afternoon Belleville and Varsity II staged one of the prettiest, speediest exhibitions of hockey possible with Belleville having the round well in hand at all times and having the best of play for forty minutes.

Folks, it was something like this—but just here permit me to interpolate that words cannot express the last period. I lost my notes, pencil and voice. I cannot give a detailed account of the play or pass particular comment on any of the players. Everyone performed to the King's taste. Of course Boland saved the situation in the second period, when Varsity for fifteen minutes literally bombarded his citadel.

The game opened with a nice rush by Green. Play continued pretty evenly for the next five minutes, when Gordon broke away, and after a beautiful rush passed to centre and McDonald missed an easy one. This dangerous attack put life into our boys and Goyer took matters in hand and passed to Whelan, and Thompson saved. Green combined with Gunner for a couple of nice rushes. Gordon broke away for a nice rush, passed to Gouinlock right in front of the nets, and Boland didn't have a chance.

GOUINLOCK AND GUNNER.

Perhaps I should have told you that Varsity trotted out the same line-up as in Belleville with the exception of Gouinlock—some exception! Nearly all of you have heard of Roper Gouinlock, one of the shiftiest centre players in senior company. He met with a serious accident while playing in the S. P. A. series and this was his first game in O.H.A. this year; but he is the same crafty, elusive individual as of old.

But no matter how good Gouinlock was, Gunner was just as good, and a little better in the last period.

EDDIE THOMAS ON JOB.

Eddie Thomas sure used excellent judgment. When Gouinlock went on Arnott lashed after him, and Whalen took his rests with Gordon. It just took ten minutes for our coach to size up Varsity and checkmate their moves.

Just before the period ended Whelan made and end-to-end rush, and Thompson saved but Swayne, following in fast, got the rebound and made the score 1-1 in the first period.

Right from the gong at the start of the second period, Varsity pressed, but, try as they could, they were held out by Goyer and Green, and Boland handled every shot in the coolest manner possible for fifteen minutes, when Douglas made an eel of himself and bulged the net for Varsity's second. A few seconds after Gordon shot between Goyer's legs from ten feet out, and as it was impossible to see the puck in time, Boland took it over the left eye and also the count. After the stars had cleared away he balanced around between the posts, but before he could get down to seeing one puck Ferguson slipped down right wing and made the score at the end of the second period 3-1 for Varsity, with Belleville two up on the round.

A CHEAP WIT.

There was a wit, apparently from Kingston, who was making things unbearable by his sarcastic remarks during the second period. We'll all admit things did not look very rosy in the second period, but no one I could see wanted to hear about it. He invited the two hundred frenzied Belleville fans to stand up so he could take the census. I was able and pleased to broaden his knowledge after the third period. It was too bad the Belleville police force were not on hand as they could have kept him quiet. Be sure and bring him next time and we'll try and get him a place on the rear deck of the Fierce Coop that George Graham and the frenzied fans used on such quiet streets and places as King and Yonge.

THE GLORIOUS THIRD.

Now we come to the glorious third, and, oh boy! what a period! Every time a Varsity man got the puck he was back-checked and pestered until the last five minutes, when Varsity played everyone but the goaltender forward. After about ten minutes of play Daw Whelan got the puck over on right wing and slipped around the defence, crossed Thompson and netted one of the prettiest goals of the game. Well, it was all over but the shouting, but just to make everybody happy, and to show that big ice doesn't do anything but give a good man a chance, Gunner Arnott made the whole Varsity team look like graven images, and he slipped in the final counter, making it three all, and thus the struggle ended.

NOW FOR COLLINGWOOD.

I know I haven't done justice to the teams, especially to our boys, but any of you folks that want to invest money with a good degree of certainty of returns, just back Belleville against the veterans from Collingwood. Any team that scores many goals on Goyer, Green and Boland, with the back-checking of the forwards are certainly of senior calibre. That last period was worthy of senior rating. The only thing the boys need is to turn and come back to centre ice a little faster after a rush and meet the opposition—not chase them.

ONLY TWO PENALTIES.

There were only two penalties, and Belleville drew them both—Goyer for some reason or other in the first period, and Weir for tripping one minute before the game ended. The game was very clean throughout, and well handled by Tom Munro. Two teams of tired, clean sportsmen skated off the ice with the better team victorious on the round. Everybody happy? Well, I should say so.

THE LINE-UP.

Belleville—Goal, Boland; right defence, Goyer; left defence, Green; centre, Arnott; right wing, Whelan; left wing, Weir; subs, Hagerman and Swayne.

Referee—Tom Munro.

Wealthy Clubman Charged With Murder

ALLEGED TO HAVE KILLED A NEW YORK DETECTIVE AND WOUNDED OTHERS

New York, Feb. 21.—Charles T. Davis, wealthy Brooklyn manufacturer and club man, was to be arraigned in police court to-day on a charge of killing Detective-Sergeant Joseph Bridgetts, and wounding Detective Edward J. McGlone and George W. Horan, insurance adjuster. The shooting occurred late Friday in Davis' office in his Brooklyn factory.

Some time ago Davis, who is president of a firm of surgical instrument manufacturers, informed the police his auto had been stolen. He collected insurance. Friday Bridgetts, McGlone and Horan went to his office to question him.

Witnesses say Bridgetts entered the private office, but staggered out in a minute, crying: "He is killing me." Davis, carrying an automatic shot gun, is alleged to have pursued him. McGlone and Horan jumped at Davis, who fired twice, slightly wounding them. He then is alleged to have pressed the muzzle of his shotgun against Bridgetts' chest and killed him.

Immediately afterward he pressed an alarm button on his desk and his clerks rushed to the office from all parts of the building carrying revolvers. They had been trained to do this as a precaution against bandits. Davis remained calm and when police arrived fifteen minutes later they found him at his desk, directing the clearing up. He refused to answer any questions, merely remarking to the prosecuting attorney that it was "a sad affair."

Norris Upheld On First Division

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 18.—In the first division of the Provincial session today the Norris Government was successful, the Laborites' resolution for the unconditional release of the strike leaders, three of whom are members of the Legislature, being defeated by 26 votes to 22.

The vote resolved itself into practically a straight fight between the Liberals and Conservatives on the one hand and the Laborites and the Independent-Farmers on the other.

As a result of the division the House went on record as urging the release of the strike leaders on condition that they ask for parole.

Heavy Docket At Trenton Police Court

At Trenton on Saturday evening police court was held and four cases were disposed of, two of theft, one O. T.A. and alleged assault.

Alleged Assault.

Police Magistrate Masson of this city tried one case, that of a young man being charged with assaulting a young lady. The result was that the accused was committed for trial at a higher court in this city.

Liquor Case.

Magistrate O'Rourke occupied the bench and tried three cases. Henry Williams was charged with selling liquor on the 15th inst. He was convicted and fined $500 or in default three months in jail. He was also convicted of having liquor illegally, as he had been previously convicted and was found guilty and a sentence of not less than 6 months and not more than one year was imposed.

Theft Case.

Alex. Lamore was charged with theft from the Canadian National Railway. In this case a fine of $100 and costs or in default 6 months in jail was imposed. The fine was paid.

A young man named Dainard was charged with the theft of $5 from a young lady. He pleaded guilty and made restitution of the money. The case was enlarged for judgment.

In all the above cases the town was the prosecutor and Mr. Carnew represented the corporation.

TRADE OF CANADA OFF LAST MONTH

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—Although the grand total of Canadian trade for the ten months of the fiscal year ending January 31 was $2,150,222,774, an increase of $217,538,464, over the total for the same period a year ago, comparative figures for the month of January alone show that there was a falling off in trade as compared with January 1920. The total value of Canadian exports and imports for the month of January, 1921, was $154,186,081. For January, 1920, this figure was $225,096,920 so that a comparison between the two months shows a decrease in trade value amounting to $70,910,839.

Sidelights on Toronto Game

"Daw" Whelan not only got two goals, he broke up combination after combination and received cheer after cheer from both local and Toronto fans for his clever stick handling, and clean play. "Daw" is sure a wonder this season and deserves the highest praise.

Bill Green starred throughout the entire game, making many clever rushes. Goyer and he make a defence which is hard to beat. Goyer was just recovered from illness, but played a good game and added strength to the team.

As a goal tender Pat is in a class by himself. Ask anyone who witnessed the game Saturday. 'Nuff sed."

It was good to see the way Swayne handled his stick. At times he was playing on Gouinlock, a senior man, who was used to sub Evans at centre, and made that man wonder if he was just plain human or a mythical person.

Weir worked like a Trojan from start to finish. His back-checking specialty received plenty of applause from both sides.

Hagerman played a strong game, using his body to good advantage.

Gunner did not display his usual good form until the third period, but when he started—'nuff sed.

The Belleville boys, by their clean playing, clever combination and persistency, won the admiration of the spectators. In the third period one could almost imagine himself in Belleville, judging from the cheers which echoed and re-echoed when Belleville scored, a large number of former Bellevillians now residing in Toronto doing their best in the line of noise.

A number of fans accompanied the team, and though not so large in numbers, certainly made themselves heard and helped cheer the boys to victory.

Remark overheard: "Belleville sure has one good team. It is the cleanest team we have played against," say the Varsity boys.

Varsity plays a nice clean game with good combination and speed, Ferguson and Evans being the outstanding players.

"The Least of These" And Rotary Ideals

BELLEVILLE ROTARIANS GO TO CHURCH—PRACTICAL SERMON ON SERVICE

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."—Matthew 25:40.

Success based on service was the theme of the address to the members of the Belleville Rotary Club by Rev. D. C. Ramsay in John Street Presbyterian Church Sunday evening. The Rotary Club was well represented, the president, directors, officers and a number of members being present. Rev. Mr. Ramsay is himself a Rotarian and his address was extremely practical, showing that success could not be measured in dollars and cents but in practical service to humanity. Service consisted in feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, visiting the sick and generally ministering to the needs of unfortunates and making this world brighter and better for the other fellow. Rev. Mr. Ramsay said it wasn't much of a sermon that couldn't afford two texts so his second text would be "He profits most who serves best." Success in business was not altogether in making cash profits but in giving service to the public and any business which could not be conducted in a manner which would be useful to the public and a service was not worth being in, said Mr. Ramsay. Jesus Christ blazed the trail to real service, abolishing all class distinctions, knowing neither Jew nor Gentile, Greek nor Roman rich nor poor. Jesus seemed to think more of the poor than the rich but when the rich young man came to him in trouble it is recorded that He loved the young man. Jesus had no time for religious divisions and in fact was harder on the ultra-religious sect than any other in His criticisms.

Heaven and hell were held up in the Bible as reward and punishment and real service to humanity proved that heaven was right here to those who go about doing good while those who neglect their opportunities for doing good experience the hell of witheld blessings. There was a possibility of two much generality in practising service, lofty, sky-reaching ideals which never touched the earth. Get down to brass tacks said the speaker, and let your service be practical and direct so that the citizen in need of being helped would know he or she was being helped.

Service above self being the motto of Rotary, the address was very appropriate and was greatly appreciated by the Rotarians present.

Rev. Dr. Baker, read the scriptural lesson and Mr. O. H. Scott, Secretary of the Rotary Club, recited the Rotary Code of Ethics.

Appropriate music was rendered by the choir including the anthem "The Ninety and Nine" which was splendidly rendered, and solos by Miss Yeomans and Mr. Anglin.

EDDIE THOMAS ON JOB.

Eddie Thomas sure used excellent judgment. When Gouinlock went on Arnott lashed after him, and Whalen took his rests with Gordon. It just took ten minutes for our coach to size up Varsity and checkmate their moves.

Just before the period ended Whelan made and end-to-end rush, and Thompson saved, but Swayne, following in fast, got the rebound and made the score 1-1 in the first period.

Right from the gong at the start of the second period, Varsity pressed, but, try as they could, they were held out by Goyer and Green, and Boland handled every shot in the coolest manner possible for fifteen minutes, when Douglas made an eel of himself and bulged the net for Varsity's second. A few seconds after Gordon shot between Goyer's legs from ten feet out, and as it was impossible to see the puck in time, Boland took it over the left eye and also the count. After the stars had cleared away he balanced around between the posts, but before he could get down to seeing one puck Ferguson slipped down right wing and made the score at the end of the second period 3-1 for Varsity, with Belleville two up on the round.

A CHEAP WIT.

There was a wit, apparently from Kingston, who was making things unbearable by his sarcastic remarks during the second period. We'll all admit things did not look very rosy in the second period, but no one I could see wanted to hear about it. He invited the two hundred frenzied Belleville fans to stand up so he could take the census. I was able and pleased to broaden his knowledge after the third period. It was too bad the Belleville police force were not on hand as they could have kept him quiet. Be sure and bring him next time and we'll try and get him a place on the rear deck of the Fierce Coop that George Graham and the frenzied fans used on such quiet streets and places as King and Yonge.

THE GLORIOUS THIRD.

Now we come to the glorious third, and, oh boy! what a period! Every time a Varsity man got the puck he was back-checked and pestered until the last five minutes, when Varsity played everyone but the goaltender forward. After about ten minutes of play Daw Whelan got the puck over on right wing and slipped around the defence, crossed Thompson and netted one of the prettiest goals of the game. Well, it was all over but the shouting, but just to make everybody happy, and to show that big ice doesn't do anything but give a good man a chance, Gunner Arnott made the whole Varsity team look like graven images, and he slipped in the final counter, making it three all, and thus the struggle ended.

NOW FOR COLLINGWOOD.

I know I haven't done justice to the teams, especially to our boys, but any of you folks that want to invest money with a good degree of certainty of returns, just back Belleville against the veterans from Collingwood. Any team that scores many goals on Goyer, Green and Boland, with the back-checking of the forwards are certainly of senior calibre. That last period was worthy of senior rating. The only thing the boys need is to turn and come back to centre ice a little faster after a rush and meet the opposition—not chase them.

ONLY TWO PENALTIES.

There were only two penalties, and Belleville drew them both—Goyer for some reason or other in the first period, and Weir for tripping one minute before the game ended. The game was very clean throughout, and well handled by Tom Munro. Two teams of tired, clean sportsmen skated off the ice with the better team victorious on the round. Everybody happy? Well, I should say so.

THE LINE-UP.

Belleville—Goal, Boland; right defence, Goyer; left defence, Green; centre, Arnott; right wing, Whelan; left wing, Weir; subs, Hagerman and Swayne.

Referee—Tom Munro.

Wealthy Clubman Charged With Murder

ALLEGED TO HAVE KILLED A NEW YORK DETECTIVE AND WOUNDED OTHERS

New York, Feb. 21.—Charles T. Davis, wealthy Brooklyn manufacturer and club man, was to be arraigned in police court to-day on a charge of killing Detective-Sergeant Joseph Bridgetts, and wounding Detective Edward J. McGlone and George W. Horan, insurance adjuster. The shooting occurred late Friday in Davis' office in his Brooklyn factory.

Some time ago Davis, who is president of a firm of surgical instrument manufacturers, informed the police his auto had been stolen. He collected insurance. Friday Bridgetts, McGlone and Horan went to his office to question him.

Witnesses say Bridgetts entered the private office, but staggered out in a minute, crying: "He is killing me," Davis, carrying an automatic shot gun, is alleged to have pursued him. McGlone and Horan jumped at Davis, who fired twice, slightly wounding them. He then is alleged to have pressed the muzzle of his shotgun against Bridgetts' chest and killed him.

Immediately afterward he pressed an alarm button on his desk and his clerks rushed to the office from all parts of the building carrying revolvers. They had been trained to do this as a precaution against bandits. Davis remained calm and when police arrived fifteen minutes later they found him at his desk, directing the clearing up. He refused to answer any questions, merely remarking to the prosecuting attorney that it was "a sad affair."

Norris Upheld On First Division

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 18. In the first division of the Provincial session today the Norris Government was successful, the Laborites' resolution for the unconditional release of the strike leaders, three of whom are members of the Legislature, being defeated by 26 votes to 22.

The vote resolved itself into practically a straight fight between the Liberals and Conservatives on the one hand and the Laborites and the Independent-Farmers on the other.

As a result of the division the House went on record as urging the release of the strike leaders on condition that they ask for parole.

TRADE OF CANADA OFF LAST MONTH

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—Although the grand total of Canadian trade for the ten months of the fiscal year ending January 31 was $2,150,222,774, an increase of $217,528,464, over the total for the same period a year ago, comparative figures for the month of January alone show that there was a falling off in trade as compared with January 1920. The total value of Canadian exports and imports for the month of January, 1921, was $154,186,081. For January, 1920, this figure was $225,096,920 so that a comparison between the two months shows a decrease in trade value amounting to $70,910,839.

Sidelights on Toronto Game

"Daw" Whelan not only got two goals, he broke up combination after combination and received cheer after cheer from both local and Toronto fans for his clever stick handling, and clean play. "Daw" is sure a wonder this season and deserves the highest praise.

Bill Green starred throughout the entire game, making many clever rushes. Goyer and he make a defence which is hard to beat. Goyer was just recovered from illness, but played a good game and added strength to the team.

As a goal tender Pat is in a class by himself. Ask anyone who witnessed the game Saturday. 'Nuff sed."

It was good to see the way Swayne handled his stick. At times he was playing on Gouinlock, a senior man, who was used to sub Evans at centre, and made that man wonder if he was just plain human or a mythical person.

Weir worked like a Trojan from start to finish. His back-checking specialty received plenty of applause from both sides.

Hagerman played a strong game, using his body to good advantage.

Gunner did not display his usual good form until the third period, but when he started—'nuff sed.

The Belleville boys, by their clean playing, clever combination and persistency, won the admiration of the spectators. In the third period one could almost imagine himself in Belleville, judging from the cheers which echoed and re-echoed when Belleville scored, a large number of former Bellevillians now residing in Toronto doing their best in the line of noise.

A number of fans accompanied the team, and though not so large in numbers, certainly made themselves heard and helped cheer the boys to victory.

Remark overheard: "Belleville sure has one good team. It is the cleanest team we have played against," say the Varsity boys.

Varsity plays a nice clean game with good combination and speed, Ferguson and Evans being the outstanding players.

Capt. Tom Wallace Dies of Pneumonia

Throughout the past week Captain Wallace made a gallant fight against the disease and hopes that he would recover were entertained almost to the last by his hosts of friends, but his heart, weakened by illness, failed in the final struggle.

"The Least of These" And Rotary Ideals

BELLEVILLE ROTARIANS GO TO CHURCH—PRACTICAL SERMON ON SERVICE

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."—Matthew 25:40.

Success based on service was the theme of the address to the members of the Belleville Rotary Club by Rev. D. C. Ramsay in John Street Presbyterian Church Sunday evening. The Rotary Club was well represented, the president, directors, officers and a number of members being present. Rev. Mr. Ramsay is himself a Rotarian and his address was extremely practical, showing that success could not be measured in dollars and cents but in practical service to humanity. Service consisted in feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, visiting the sick and generally ministering to the needs of unfortunates and making this world brighter and better for the other fellow. Rev. Mr. Ramsay said it wasn't much of a sermon that couldn't afford two texts so his second text would be "He profits most who serves best." Success in business was not altogether in making cash profits but in giving service to the public and any business which could not be conducted in a manner which would be useful to the public and a service was not worth being in, said Mr. Ramsay. Jesus Christ blazed the trail to real service, abolishing all class distinctions, knowing neither Jew nor Gentile, Greek nor Roman rich nor poor. Jesus seemed to think more of the poor than the rich but when the rich young man came to him in trouble it is recorded that He loved the young man. Jesus had no time for religious divisions and in fact was harder on the ultra-religious sect than any other in His criticisms.

Heaven and hell were held up in the Bible as reward and punishment and real service to humanity proved that heaven was right here to those who go about doing good while those who neglect their opportunities for doing good experience the hell of witheld blessings. There was a possibility of two much generality in practising service, lofty, sky-reaching ideals which never touched the earth. Get down to brass tacks said the speaker, and let your service be practical and direct so that the citizen in need of being helped would know he or she was being helped.

Service above self being the motto of Rotary, the address was very appropriate and was greatly appreciated by the Rotarians present.

Rev. Dr. Baker, read the scriptural lesson and Mr. O. H. Scott, Secretary of the Rotary Club, recited the Rotary Code of Ethics.

Appropriate music was rendered by the choir including the anthem "The Ninety and Nine" which was splendidly rendered, and solos by Miss Yeomans and Mr. Anglin.

DIDN'T WED THE GIRL HE MEANT TO MARRY

Denver, Colo., Feb. 21.—A strange twist of the "eternal triangle" was revealed here when the 16-year-old bride who is held in jail at Boulder, Colo. told officials she was not the girl whom Kelley thought he was marrying. She married Kelley three days ago under the name of "Mildred Gardner." Later she said her name was Dolly Green, a former New York chorus girl.

The real Mildred Gardner, according to the girl, is in San Francisco working for a magazine. She calls herself Dolly Green, Mrs. Kelley said.

"We traded lives, sweethearts and identity," the child bride told police. "I love Lawrence. The real Mildred Gardner does not. We look so much alike that I visited Mildred's parents posing as their daughter."

Mrs. Kelley said her home was in Akron, Ohio, and that she met Kelley in Dallas, Texas.

Half a Century Making Woolens For Canadians

FATHER AND SONS

Stanfield's, Truro, Fifty Years in Business—Remarkable Record Of Canadian Firm

Truro, N.S., Feb. 18.—With the banquet tendered by the Mayor and Town Council to-night there came to the close of a Five Days' Convention of Stanfield's Limited at which were gathered their chief executives in the manufacturing plant and their sales representatives from one end of Canada to the other.

Stanfield's Limited is an outstanding illustration that training, ability and sterling integrity win out.

It is just a little over fifty years since the late C. E. Stanfield who served his apprenticeship in his uncle's woollen mills in Bradford, England, came to Canada and established a mill on Prince Edward Island, a few years later moving to Truro where his sons John and Frank were brought up in the business. The senior John Stanfield, spending five years in different United States plants in order to supplement the practical knowledge gained in the home mill. After returning to Canada, he in 1896 in partnership with his brother bought out their father's mill and the business started on the basis of honest value and has grown steadily from year to year. In fact, for the quarter century there has not been a single unprofitable year, 1920 being the record with a total turnover of three million dollars.

John Stanfield has been President and Frank Stanfield Vice-President of Stanfield's Limited for twenty-five years. During this whole period there has not been a serious accident or fire and on account of the close connection of the executive with operatives there has never been any labor troubles.

Stanfield's early appreciated the value of publicity in building up a business, realizing that making good goods was only half the battle and the public must be told about them. They have backed their judgment by making the best goods they knew how and telling the public about them through the press.

Appointed Senator

A very pleasing close of the week's convention was the receipt of the news of John Stanfield's appointment as Senator from Nova Scotia.

Colonel, the Hon. John Stanfield, ex-M.P., recently appointed Senator of Nova Scotia, was born in Charlottetown, P.E.I. in 1868 (the anniversary of Canada's first birthday.) Stanfields moved to Truro about 1870 John attended the Truro Public schools, and at the age of 16 decided to learn the woollen business. As a result, the next five years spent in some of America's best Mills—two of these years (perhaps we should say the finishing ones) at the Pacific Mills, then the largest Woollen Mills in the World.

Returning to Truro later on, he, in partnership with his brother, bought out their father's small Woollen Mill. In 1896 Stanfield's Mill employed 17. The turn-over was approximately $24,000 and the profits $2,250. Each succeeding year has shown a substantial increase; in fact, for 25 years Stanfield's have not had an unprofitable year. Last year, 1920 (their 25th anniversary) was a record, total sales being $3,000,000. The gross profits exceeded $200,000, or nearly 7% on the total turnover.

For 25 years John Stanfield has been President of Stanfield's and its continued success is due in a large measure to his ability. During this period the Mills have not had a serious accident or fire, neither has there been a strike, which is in part explained by the fact that during all this time there has been no general reduction in wages.

In 1907 John Stanfield was asked to contest the by-election in the interests of the Conservative party. It looked like a hopeless task, as the Liberals had a solid 18 from Nova Scotia, and the Provincial Government was practically all Liberal. However, in one of the most spectacular elections that ever took place in Nova Scotia, and notwithstanding the fact that both Federal and Local Governments worked hard against him, he was elected, and this caused the first break in what was known as "the solid 18." At the general election in 1908 he was again elected and was made Chief Whip of the Conservative party at Ottawa. Again, in September 1911 he was elected, and at the same time the Laurier Government was defeated. He then became Chief Government Whip and no more popular or efficient one ever held the reins than honest John Stanfield. In 1916 he was offered a Senatorship but refused. Later in the year, when in England, he was offered the high position of Governor of Nova Scotia.

Early in 1916 he resigned his position as Chief Whip as the War was then looking serious, and he decided his duty as a big able bodied man was to go overseas to France and fight. With his usual rush and energy he organized the Regiment known as the [illegible] Highlanders in a few days. Unfortunately, while in charge of the Highland Brigade at Aldershot, he overtaxed his strength and nearly lost his life. He was rushed on a special train to Halifax and a serious operation was performed. Doctors insisted that it would be impossible for him to continue his military duties and, he would have to take at least a year's rest. "Fighting John" would not listen to this, and in a few weeks against their wishes and advice, he returned to his military duties and in due course went to England.

We believe that John Stanfield's recent appointment to the Senate by Premier Meighen is the most popular one that has been made for many a long day. The new Senator is in his 53rd year, and is at present organizing the First Battalion of the Colchester and Hants Regiment, of which he is Colonel. He has two sons John and Harold.

Music and Drama

(What the Press Agents Say.)

"WINNIPEG KIDDIES"

The average newspaper critic endeavors to be fair and impartial. He is in the middle of a triangle—consisting of his editor, the public, and the theatre manager.

Sometimes, however, one runs across a critic who not only wields a caustic pen, but gets away with it.

Such a one was a critic on one of the Saskatoon (Sask.) newspapers. Here is the terse comment with which he dismissed a certain show: "When you go to the—this week, check your brains with your hat, because you won't need them."

Naturally, that particular show flopped for the balance of the engagement.

Theatrical productions which won the favor of this critic were considered phenomenal.

Then, into Saskatoon, went The Winnipeg Kiddies, who are coming to Griffin's Tomorrow.

The Saskatoon critic devoted an entire column to the Kiddies, and this is an exact reproduction of the first paragraph:

"It's a long, long time since the Empire theatre has been swept with such storms of applause as greeted the efforts of The Winnipeg Kiddies at their opening performance Monday night. And the best of it is, the kids deserved every ounce of encouragement the audience gave them. They are easily the cleverest, brightest and most original aggregation of youngsters the city has ever seen and they have a wonderful show. It is wonderful on account of its decided novelty, its commendable 'pep' and its manner of presentation. The Winnipeg Kiddies give the best two hours of light entertainment Saskatoon has had this winter."

The Kiddies will also give a special children's matinee at 4.30 sharp (immediately after school.)

DAINTY OLIVE THOMAS AS "THE FLAPPER."

After appearing in almost every conceivable type of role, Olive Thomas has come to the conclusion that not the least of her work is in light comedy as is made evident by the enthusiasm with which her different pictures have been received throughout the country. In her latest Selznick picture, "The Flapper" which is being screened at Griffin's Tonight and Wednesday night this beautiful star has a role for which she is suited both temperamentally and physically.

Miss Thomas is seen as a small town girl of sixteen who endeavors to impress the world at large with the depths of her sophistication. Her "natural" bent leads her into a maze of complications which include her being made the cat's-paw for a clever team of crooks. Many complications ensue before the youngster sees the truth of her ignorance of the actual ways of the world.

One of the funniest scenes imaginable is when "Ginger" King, played by Miss Thomas, returns home arrayed in borrowed finery and melodramatically tries to create the impression that she is a "ruined woman."

Screen Snapshots showing famous screen players at work and play, a funny Bringing up Father comedy starring Johnny Ray, a Burton Holmes Travelogue, and Eileen Percy in The Third Eye are being screened on the same program in addition to the feature offering.

"Will you write this out for his excellency, my dear mademoiselle?" would request my good Capitaine the Count de Lasselles.

And for all of the hours of that very long afternoon I sat on a low stool beside the feet of those two great gentlemen and served them in their communications while the heart in my breast was going into death by a slow, cruel torture.

The Heart In My Breast Was Going Into Death by Torture.

The exact meaning of those papers and words of business I did not know, but once I observed my Capitaine the Count de Lasselles throw down his pencil and look into the face of the Gouverneur Faulkner with a great and stern astonishment.

"The work of grafters, Captain Lasselles, with a woman as a tool. But I yet don't see just how it was that she worked it. My secretary of state, General Carruthers, and I have been at work for weeks, and we could not catch the exact fraud," made answer my Gouverneur Faulkner with a cold sternness.

"I was warned in Paris that beautiful American women were very much interested in the placing of war contracts, M. le Gouverneur. I fled upon a tugboat from the ship that I escape some for whom I had letters of introduction which I could not ignore."

"It was your capitaine, the Count de Lasselles, whom that Madam Whitworth sought upon the ship, Roberta." I said to myself.

"I think women are alike the world over, captain, and the discussion of them and their mental and moral processes is fruitless," answered my Gouvernor Faulkner as he again took up his pencil.

"When it happened to me to find the fragment of the letter to the lady of America from my false lieutenant I had a deep distress that tenderness for the sufferings of poor France should fail to be in even one American woman's heart. And now I am in deep concern. Where am I to obtain the good strong mules by which to transport through fields heavy with mud the food to my poor boys in their trenches?"

"Right here, captain, I feel reasonably sure. I think I see a way to give you what you want at a better figure. And from it no man shall reap more than a just wage for honest work. As the governor of the state of Harpeth I can give you at least that assurance."

And as he spoke my Gouverneur Faulkner looked the Capitaine the Count de Lasselles in the eyes with a fine honesty that carried with it the utmost of conviction.

"I give thanks to le bon Dieu," I said, with words that were very soft in my throat, but at which I observed the mouth of that Gouverneur Faulkner to again become as one straight line of coldness.

"Indeed, thanks to le bon Dieu, mademoiselle," made courteous answer to me my Capitaine the Count de Lasselles. "But how will you accomplish that purpose, M. le Gouverneur?"

"As soon as I've done with these figures I'll have in Jim, your jailer, and then you'll hear some things about the American mountain mule that you never heard before, I believe." As he spoke my Gouverneur Faulkner proceeded with making figures with his pencil, a fine glow of eagerness added to that of rage in his eyes very deep under their brows. "Now I'll go and call in Jim," he said after a few minutes of waiting and left the room in which I was then alone with my Capitaine the Count de Lasselles, who came to me with outstretched hands.

"Ah, Mlle. Roberta," he exclaimed, "I am in a debt of gratitude to you for bringing this great gentleman, your friend, to my rescue and also to the solving of this very strange situation concerning these contracts. Indeed have you accomplished the mission for which you enlisted—your 'friends for France.'

"But before procedure I must ask you, little lady, why it was that you made a vanishment from that hotel in New York. I sought you there in vain, and it is a great ease to my unhappy heart to find you in the care of a family and friends. I make compliments on your costume of the ride. I also observe the custom of attire masculine to be on those plains of the great west where I bought the wheat."

Silk Under Things

Would you like to know how to make them last three times as long as you expect they will? Guard them against silk's great enemy—perspiration—which rots and discolors them. How can you do that? Wash them in the gentle LUX suds—so easy, so pleasant, so safe.

Launder silk things with LUX

Whisk a tablespoonful of LUX into a thick lather in a gallon of very hot water. Add cold water until lukewarm. Press the rich suds through the soiled spots—but never rub. Rinse in three lukewarm waters. Squeeze the water out—do not wring. Roll in a towel and when nearly dry, press with a warm iron—never a hot one. Gently shape the garments as you iron. The result will delight you.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Health After Chronic Indigestion

MONDAY HEALTH TALK No. 12

By WM. P. REDICK, D.C. Ph. C.

When a disease persists for a great length of time it becomes what is known as chronic. Many persons have chronic indigestion without, apparently, being unhealthy. They have to be constantly watchful of what they eat, and some things they like must be avoided entirely. When a disease becomes chronic it is a certain indication that the cause is deep-seated, that it lies in some structural defect of the body which can only be righted by chiropractic spinal adjustments. When the spinal joints at "stomach place" are out of alignment and are pressing upon the spinal nerve opening, there is a stomach weakness, either chronic or certain to become chronic, unless the structural defect is corrected by adjustment. This is the service the chiropractic of skill renders.

VERY BAD DIGESTION BECOMES VERY GOOD

"When I started with chiropractic adjustments I was suffering a second nervous breakdown. My digestion was very bad. I was much under weight. Today I am feeling fine, eat anything in reason and up to normal weight."—Omer Porter, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1222H.

NO CHARGE

Consultation is without charge or obligation.

Nine Reasons Why Spinal Neglect is a crime

1. The backbone is the foundation of the body
2. It is composed of 24 joints, 24 of which are movable.
3. From between these joints radiate the nerves of the body.
4. When these joints are in alignment the nerve openings are full sizes and the nerves deliver 100% of their power.
5. A nerve under pressure at the backbone opening causes disease in the part it serves
6. Chiropractic removes the pressure by an adjustment by hand, and this adjustment opens the way for health (free nerve energy).
7. If chiropractic seems too simple to do all that it can do, remember that every phenomena of growth is caused by as simple a thing as heat.
8. To neglect the backbone invites disease, which is a crime because it is in violation of Nature's laws.
9. Don't be a criminal

PROMINENT NEW YORK MAN PRAISES TANLAC

John F. Hyatt, of Albany, N. Y., Is Relieved of Severe Attack of Rheumatism of Many Years' Standing.

JOHN F. HYATT
227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y.

"I am now seventy-two years old and am just getting rid of fifteen-year case of rheumatism that had me so crippled up I could not walk," said John F. Hyatt, 227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y., in relating his remarkable experience with Tanlac, recently. Mr. Hyatt was chairman of the committee in charge of building the Albany County Courthouse and was four times elected a member of the County Board of Supervisors. At present Mr. Hyatt is Assistant Superintendent of the Albany County Courthouse, with offices in the building.

"I don't believe," he continued, "anybody could have rheumatism any worse than I did, and my case was of such long standing I didn't expect to ever get over it. I was unable to walk except for a short distance, supported with a cane, and even then the pains struck me every time I took a step. My legs, hips and ankles hurt something awful and my joints were stiff and achey. I couldn't cross my leg without having to lift it up with my hands, and to turn over in bed, why, the pains nearly killed me.

"My appetite was gone and the sight of food nauseated me. My stomach was out of order, and I had a sluggish, heavy feeling all the time. I was weak, off in weight and discouraged so that it looked like I might as well quit trying to ever get well.

"I had no idea Tanlac would relieve my rheumatism when I began taking it last Spring. I took it because I saw where it would give a fellow an appetite. Well, sir, I was the most surprised I ever was in my life when the rheumatic pains began to ease up. I took seven bottles in all and, it's a fact, I didn't have an ache about me, was eating fine and simply felt like I had been made over again.

"I have been in the best of health ever since, with only a slight twinge of rheumatism at intervals. I do not need my cane now, but as I had been unable to walk without it for several years, I got into the habit of carrying it and so still take it along. I am enjoying life and health once more and can conscientiously recommend Tanlac as the greatest medicine I have ever run across in all my experience."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store, and by the leading druggists in every town.

More than one hundred prominent men were arrested at cock fight early Sunday morning at Toronto.

SPORTING EVENTS

JUNIOR HOCKEY

Excelsiors won with a clean sweep from the Upstreamers Saturday night. When the smoke of battle cleared the score was [illegible]. The Upstreamers are having a hard time trying to keep their team together, as a number of their men prefer skating with the band to playing hockey. The game with the O.S.D. girls may get those backsliders interested. Try it boys! Excelsiors were real pleased to see Albert put it over the Quinte Quad. This gives B.H.S. [illegible] skating team another chance and puts them on equal footing with the Tigers and Quinte Quad. Referee A. Buchanan. The line-up:

Upstreamers—Goal, Ives; defence, Jeffery and Fidwell; centre, Miles; forwards, Wells and Jeffery; spare, Latchford.

Excelsiors—Goal, VanNorman; defence, Hubbard and Wardaugh; centre, Scott; forwards, Dinnes and Ashley; spare, Oakes.

Albert College defeated the Quinte Quadrangle Saturday night, thereby giving the three other Junior teams another chance for the honors. These teams are Tigers, B.H.S. and Quinte Quad. Albert are making splendid progress and developing some fast players and splendid team work. The Quinte Quad were handicapped by being short Lawsons, their goal tender, and Ritchie Arnott, their fast centre. Both of these boys were sick at home, but hope to be on the ice for the next game. The game next week should prove very interesting, as there will be teams going up and going down in the race for the honors. Step lively, B.H.S. Referee, Guest.

The line up:

Albert College—Goal, Coon; defence, Beadwell and Guthrie; centre, Steel; forwards, Hollinrake and Kilborne.

Quinte Quad—Goal, Allen; defence, Bongard and Cook; centre, Kerr; forwards, Merriam and Boyle.

Spares—Sutton, Hartwell and McCluskey.

B.H.S. Juniors suffered their defeat Saturday night at the hands of the Tigers. They have won one and lost one. They meet Upstreamers Monday night, and they have to win to stay in the running. The Tigers showed the fans Saturday night that they can play real hockey. Their game with the B.H.S. was good and clean and if these boys will keep this up they have a good chance of winning the honors. The line-up:

Tigers—Goal, Hedger; defence, C. Arnott and E. Cook; centre, J. Arnott; forwards, P. Clark and J. Seamark; spares, Hickey and Smith.

B.H.S.—Goal, Curry; defence, Hurley and Watts; centre, R. Arnott; forwards, Sherry and Christie; spares, Strachan and Thrasher.

LADIES PLAY GAME

At Campbellford on Friday the 11th inst a hockey match took place between a ladies team of that town and a team of ladies of the Ontario School for the deaf. The result was a win for Campbellford by a score of 8 to 1. A return game was played at the arena here Saturday afternoon and the O.D.S. team won by a score of 2 to 1. It was a thrilling game and fast at times.

The first period ended with neither side scoring, but in the second Helen Roberts of the Ontario School tallied twice. In the last period Evelyn Irwin scored for Campbellford.

Mrs. Williams, in goal for Belleville, was practically unbeatable.

The Ontario School team was unique in having a mother and her daughter in the line-up. Mrs. Williams in goal and Betty Williams in the forward line. The line up was as follows:

Campbellford—Goal, N. Nadoo; defence, I. Carnahan and W. Armstrong; centre, E. Irwin; forwards, H. Kerr and H. Wood.

Belleville—Goal, Mrs. Williams; defence, K. Scott and H. Roberts; centre, G. Springer; forwards, B. Williams and R. Curry.

Referee—Leo Barrett.

ARTHUR PELKY DEAD

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 21.—Arthur Pelky, heavyweight champion of Canada, once looked on as one of the foremost "white hopes" for the world's title, and famous as the man who killed Luther McCarthy in the ring in Calgary some years ago, died this morning at his home in Ford city, Ont., after four weeks' illness from sleeping sickness.

At the time of his death, he was a member of the Ford City police force and also held a seat on the public school board in that town. During recent years he had appeared but seldom in the ring, his last public appearance being during the latter part of December, when he fought young Peter Jackson, aspirant to the Canadian heavyweight title, ten rounds to a draw in the Windsor Armouries. His last big fight was about a year ago, when he was knocked out by Bob Martin, heavyweight champion of the United States Expeditionary Forces, in a bout across the line.

CHINESE EDITOR ALARMED AT SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY.

When the professed enemies of Christianity confess alarm at the progress it is making, the Church may well feel encouraged in its missionary work, says The Living Church (Episcopal). Such encouragement comes from China, where a writer in The Chinese Times, admits alarm over the rapidly increasing influence of Christianity, and suggests that steps be taken against missionary propaganda. According to a translation made for The Chinese Recorder and reprinted in The Living Church, we learn that—

"The influence of Christianity is increasingly felt in China. Christians increase in number. Those who embrace the old superstitions, with the exception of monks, priests and nuns, do not have to undergo any form of initiation and consequently can renounce their religions and regain their freedom at any time. But those who accept the new superstition must submit to a rite of initiation. After having received baptism one becomes a Christian. Just as the Buddhist monks eternally are monks after having been burned on the head, so are Christians always Christians after having received baptism. I have seen many persons join a Church and have never seen any one leave a Church. Not only so, but after one identifies oneself with a Church his children and children's children all become Christains at birth. If such a state of affairs should continue, most of our people would become monks of this new type by heritage. The influence of Christianity in the West is decreasing from the one-hundredth degree to zero, but in China it is increasing in the reverse order, from zero to the one-hundredth degree. So, in advocating democracy, we must try to spread popular education, reconstruct art, and at the same time lessen the influence of religion. There are many now who, in their promotion of the new culture, also help to promote the new superstition; and so Christianity becomes a vital problem of today."

The Belleville Intelligencer has the following to say, editorially:

"One man raised the Kingston Fair from a parish poppy-show to an exhibition of province-wide reputation. That man was Bob Bushnell and he did it with push, pep and publicity. Bob ascribes most of the success of the Kingston Fair under his management to newspaper advertising, and he is right. Belleville Fair needs first of all a publicity man who knows his business, backed by an enterprising organization committee progressive enough to provide an exceptional program of attractions. If the Belleville Fair is to remain in the old rut the sooner it is wound up the better, as of late years it has been a poor advertisement for the city. Either a first class exhibition or none at all should be the decision in regard to Belleville Fair, which must be treated as a business proposition with a substantial investment in the expectation of producing satisfactory results. Who is the man who will put Belleville Fair on the map as Bob Bushnell did Kingston Fair?"

Well, if we didn't require their services we wouldn't mind loaning Belleville Fair directorate a man or two, or more. We refer to our genial Fair Secretary Charlie Davis, and our equally affable and efficient officer and manager, D. M. Tod. These two men, backed up by President W. E. N. Sinclair and a real capable Board of Directors, know exactly how to go about it to have a good fair.

The way to have a good fair is get out and go after it. Nothing but failure comes to those who wait. A good way to get the bull in the ring is to get him by the horns.

Oshawa is out for the greatest Fair in its history this year.

CRISP COMMENT

Big ice or little ice, artificial ice or natural ice, makes no difference to Belleville hockey players, and the way they clinched victory at the Arena in Toronto over Varsity threw a chill into Collingwood's championship aspirations.

Mackenzie King's followers in Ottawa evidently do not see eye to eye with him, judging by late reports from the Capital, which indicate that the Liberal leader's dictum abolishing pairs this session has been revoked. On agin; off agin; gone agin; Finnegan.

Liberal members of Parliament are not enthusiastic over Mackenzie King's bluff demand for a speedy election. A holiday without salary does not appeal to the King followers, especially when festooned with the turmoil and expense of an unnecessary election.

We were glad to see Belleville trim up Varsity, Wednesday evening to the tune of 6-2, not that we have any dislike for the Toronto boys, but we want to see some Eastern Ontario boys among the winners this year. Cornwall is coming along good in the junior department and here's hoping that Belleville may win not only in Toronto, but in the finals.—Oshawa Telegram.

The death of jazz is proclaimed in England. That's something to be grateful for. As the Montreal Star remarks: The stuff is hideous, discordant and barbaric. It is and always was an imposition upon our civilization, like some fantastic object brought from the African jungle to divert the curious by its quaint defiance of the principles of refinement as we understand them.—Kingston Whig.

By his own argument Hon. Mackenzie King has reduced to an absurdity his contention that the present Dominion Government is a usurper, and, it might be added, he has reduced himself to a similar status. If the Meighen Government does not, as he says in his amendment, "possess the confidence of this House," then all he has to do is to bring on a division and effect the Government's defeat. Bombarding it with big words is unnecessary if it has not the confidence of the House, and will be futile if it has.—Mail and Empire.

STEAM HORSES IN KHYBER PASS

New York Herald

Addressing the Imperial Legislative Council at Simla last fall, the viceroy of India referred to the possibility of an extension of the Indian broad gauge railway, whose terminus is at Jamrud, being built through Khyber Pass into Afghanistan. Aside from its historic interest, such an improvement of Indian frontier transportation facilities would mark an extraordinary change in the attitude of the Amir of Afghanistan, who, according to an article on "Every Day Life in Afghanistan" in the National Geographic Magazine, "has so far objected to the building of railroads and telegraphs" for fear of opening his empire to foreigners.

Afghanistan's products are moved entirely by caravans, the most used route lying through Khyber Pass, where traffic is rigorously controlled. Except in very hot weather the pass is open to trade caravans only on Tuesdays and Fridays. In hot weather transit is permitted only on Fridays. Caravans bound into Afghanistan from India are permitted only during the morning. The afternoon is allotted to outgoing traffic. The pass is closed tight from sundown to sunrise. There is not a mile of railroad in the Amir's land. This indicates how complete the alteration of the Amir's opinion concerning modern transportation methods must have been to justify the viceroy's announcement that the building of the railroad through Khyber Pass might be an early achievement.

The Amir of Afghanistan uses automobiles in travelling in and around Kabul, where excellent roads have been built in the districts which interest him. He has also improved the main road between Kabul and Peshawar in India, on which he uses motor trucks for hauling freight. These trucks are driven by Hindu chauffeurs.

A ruler of a country hitherto so remote from all foreign influences who will see the advantages of goo roads and motor trucks may not be so far away, after all from getting light on the benefits railroads would bring to his country

GERMANY'S ABILITY TO PAY

New York Commercial

As to Germany's ability to pay, she will save the sum she expended annually to maintain herself as a military nation and in preparation for the war, which sum is estimated to be about $300,000,000 annually and which will go a long way toward paying the indemnity. Incidentally, it will not leave her much spare cash to prepare for another war, and by the time she has finished paying the indemnity, another generation will have grown up that will not have been taught from the cradle that Germany was invincible and that war was her religion. There will not have been the constant military preparation and it is not unlikely that by that time Germany will have gotten the war virus pretty well out of her system.

For as you give so you receive,
  And shall while life endures.

A LAUGH OR TWO

Shut In

Mine is the Land of Counterpane,
  Bounded by four walls painted white
Furnished with windows, wide and high,
Through which I peer out at the sky
  That bends so close all day and night
In stormy weather drops of rain
Tap 'gainst the windows cheerily.
  As though to give a greeting gay;
'Tis fun to watch them as they run
In little rivers till the sun
  Comes out to drive the clouds away,
And smiles down in my room at me!

Treetops and winds are friends, who try
  To gossip of strange far-off lands.
And all the birds sing overhead
To me, who in my narrow bed,
  A prisoner with folded hands.
Just watch the outside world go by!

—Mazie V. Carruthers.

A city gentleman was invited down to the country "for a day among the birds." Whatever his power in finance, his shooting was not remarkable for its accuracy, to the great disgust of the gamekeeper in attendance, whose tip by the way, was generally regulated by the size of the bag. "Dear me!" at last exclaimed the sportsman, "but the birds seem exceptionally strong on the wing this year." "Not all of 'em., sir," said the gamekeeper "You've shot at the same bird about a dozen times. 'E's a-follerin' you about, sir." "Following me about! Nonsense, why should a bird do that?" "Well, sir, I dunno, I'm sure, unless 'e's 'angin' round for safety."—The Morning Post.

POPULATION IS WANTED

GIGANTIC IMMIGRATION SCHEME LAUNCHED IN WEST.

Campaign Aims to Secure Settlers and Farmers to Work 20,000,000 Acres of Prairie Land Which Will Help to Bring Wealth to Canada and Reduce National Debt Which Was Contracted During the Great War.

Western Canada is about to launch an intensive campaign to get settlers for 20,000,000 acres of prairie land. Canada's war effort left her facing a war debt of about $2,000,000,000, and her ambition is to develop her vast natural resources so that the debt may be paid. The campaign for settlers is not a land-selling enterprise, nor is it to be conducted in the interest of any particular company. Behind it are the Dominion Government, the Provincial Governments of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan, and more than one hundred of the most influential financiers and merchants. The Provincial Government of British Columbia may also join the movement.

The organization which will conduct the campaign is the Western Canada Colonization Association. It has already raised $1,000,000 for the work, and plans to increase this figure to $1,500,000. The immediate purpose, as announced, is to attract 70,000 families to settle 20,000,000 acres now lying idle in Western Canada. Estimating five persons to a family, this would mean an addition of 350,000 to the Dominion's population.

Among the financial backers of the project are Lord Shaughnessy, chairman of the C.P.R.; Sir Vincent Meredith, president of the Bank of Montreal; W. Grant Morden, vice-president of the Canada Securities Corporation; Sir H. Montagu Allan, president of the Merchants Bank; Sir John Eaton, president of the T. Eaton Co.; Sir Joseph W. Flavelle, president of Wm. Davies Co.; Sir Edmund Osler, president of the Dominion Bank; Sir Herbert Holt, president of seven big Canadian enterprises; J. A. Carruthers, Chas. R. Hosmer, Sir Charles Gordon, H. R. Drummond, R. B. Angus, Patrick Burns, James Ramsey, James H. Ashdown, Sir Augustus Nanton, George Lane and James F. Cairns, merchant and capitalist of Saskatoon. Each of these men has contributed from $5,000 to $25,000 to the project.

Medicine Hat, the town which Kipling once declared had all hell for its basement, has long been noted for starting things—particularly in the weather line. Kipling had seen the Medicine Hatters blow off one of their big gas wells which threw a column of flame 250 feet into the air. This hustling Alberta town has other claims to distinction besides its basement. One of them is that its mayor, M. A. Brown, started the new-settler-hunting association. Although Brown is only 36 years old, he knows what "Canada's Western Empire" needs.

"The association," Mayor Brown explains, "will set up an organization to take care of settlers as soon as they arrive, give them information and advice, and assist them during their pioneer days."

Another leader in the project is Col. John S. Dennis, C.M.G., Chief Commissioner of Colonization and Development of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who probably knows more about the agricultural and industrial resources of Western Canada than any other man. Forty-eight years ago he rode the plains of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. There was then nothing but a wilderness between Winnipeg and Victoria. Indians and buffalo alone made it their home. Now the Indians are on reservations, the surviving buffalo are in the Dominion's parks, and the four western provinces, including British Columbia, have a population of over 2,500,000. These provinces, according to Col. Dennis, should increase in population 500,000 a year until they have at least 10,000,000.

"In the four western provinces we have an area of at least 225,000,000 acres of good agricultural land," said he the other day. "Not more than 35,000,000 acres are at present occupied and cultivated, and of the balance of 190,000,000 acres of unoccupied land 30,000,000 acres lie within fifteen miles on each side of constructed railway lines, although the world is crying out for food. Their suitability has been proved by the prizes won in competition with the world for our grain, fruit and live stock. These provinces have 19,875 miles of railway in operation, or one mile for each 10 persons, a greater mileage per capita than there is in any other country.

"Canada, with its opportunities, stands out to-day in the minds of the people of Great Britain, Northern Europe and the United States as a country of opportunity for the capitalist, the skilled mechanic, the ordinary laborers and the land-hungry settler. In the last ten years approximately 1,300,000 Americans have gone to Canada, where they found conditions—currency, speech, education, climate, soil, crops, etc.—similar to their own, and, in addition, what is now difficult to find at home, cheap farm lands.

"We must increase our population by the immigration of desirable citizens who will undertake the development of all our natural resources, agricultural lands, timber, coal, natural gas, petroleum, fisheries, base and precious metals, by providing the necessary capital and labor. The Canadian Pacific Railway single-handed has spent $15,000,000 on an irrigation project in Alberta, and a vast acreage of the land affected has already been turned into highly productive farms."

Earliest forms of cuneiform writing were used by the Accadians who inhabited Mesopotamia long before the Babylonians and Assyrians.

The Young Mother

Youth, with its vitality, makes for the young mother's health and happiness. But later, maternal experiences bring a different result. The care of a family, multiplied household duties, and very often the weakness caused by womanly disease, tend to prolong the suffering and to make convalescence a slow and weary process. Many women—perhaps your own neighbors—have had beneficial experience with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which prepares the prospective mother. Send 10 cents to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package of tablets.

HAMILTON, ONT.—"I was advised by a practical nurse to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a tonic during expectancy, and I have had every reason to be grateful for her advice, because it kept me in perfect health and I had practically no suffering. The 'Prescription' not only benefits the mother, but I am positive the child is benefited, too. I would not hesitate to recommend this 'Prescription' to every expectant mother."—MRS. C. BORDEN GOES FISHING.

Canada's Wartime Premier Is Enjoying Life.

When Maximian came to Diocletian, who had resigned the Imperial purple, asking him to resume the reins of Government, the latter, says Gibbon, rejected the temptation with a smile of pity, calming observing that if he could show Maximian the cabbages which he had planted with his own hands at Salona he should no longer be urged to relinquish the enjoyment of happiness for the pursuit of power. Meeting Sir Robert Borden walking briskly up Sparks street in Ottawa, noting the sprightliness of his step and the healthful glow on his face, one is compelled to think that, like Diocletian, no possible temptation could induce him to return to the cares of office. The ex-Premier, in fact, is getting a new conception of life. A hard worker in his early political days, a political drudge after he became Premier, and a slave to duty in the last years of his regime, Sir Robert had become a stranger to the enjoyment of either outdoor exercise or reading of books. Occasionally he played a game of bad golf, but his reading was restricted to such desolating, intolerable things as statutes and bluebooks and Hansards. "Have you read Wells' latest?" a friend once asked him. "I have not even heard of it," he is reported to have replied, "and why should I? In the last few years I have done nothing but wear a path between my office and my home." Now, however, no longer manacled by the worries of state, Sir Robert is making up for lost time. He has found that the rod of the fisherman is more pleasant than the rod of Empire, that the Gatineau and Laurentian mountains are good substitutes for Parliament Hill. And, as if full of the joy of his recovered liberty, he is spending most of his days—and nights—amid "the peace that is among the lonely hills," fishing and shooting, the passions of politics, the cries of the conflict far removed from his mind.

There are some for whom the game of statecraft possesses a fatal fascination. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, to whom politics was as the breath to his nostrils, represented the highest of the type. Mr. Gladstone was another. "Though nature calls aloud for rest, I am buckling on my armor," was the spirit that breathed through the "Grand Old Man's" last great campaign; and those who knew Sir Wilfrid could never imagine him in the flesh removed from the political plane. Sir Robert is of a different mould. To him politics was always a task, a duty to be performed. Unlike a Laurier, or a Gladstone, or a Lloyd George, he never "scented the battle afar off" or threw himself wholeheartedly into the fray. He appears rather to have always held with Danton that "it is better to keep a flock of sheep upon the hillside than to meddle with the government of men," and to have sighed for the day when he could shake the dust of Ottawa from his feet.

Replying on one occasion to a toast to Mr. Churchill, Sir Edward Grey (now Lord Grey), who never cared for politics, and who is now spending the twilight of his years with his books and his fishing rod, spoke in happy anticiation of such a life as Sir Robert is now leading:

"That will be the happiest time of all. I, in those days, shall have no thought of politics except to read the brilliant speeches of Mr. Churchill. Just think, those of you who are in politics, what are libraries now compared to what they will be when we get old—the quantities of clippings, the drawers full of opponents' speeches kept in the hope of being able to produce a quotation at an inconvenient moment; pamphlets and magazines by the hundredweight; blue books and Hansards by the ton. I think of the splendid time I shall have making a bonfire of them all. How I will stir the fire, and how I will mulch my rose trees with the ashes."

It was a pleasant picture; and one need not envy the mentality of any Canadian who would envy Sir Robert Borden enjoyment of such a life to the full. Perhaps some day one may come to him who will be more successful in disturbing his serene solitude than Maximian was in enticing Diocletian from his cabbages, but for the present it is good to see Sir Robert with the mud of the Gatineau on his boots, and the glow of outdoors health on his cheeks, his only visits to Parliament Hill for more books from the library, "his mind to him a kingdom," and in that kingdom finding full content.

Agreed on One Thing.

"How unworthy I am of you, my love!" he murmured as he held her close.

"Oh, Edwin," she sighed, "if you and father only agreed on everything the way you do on that, how happy we would be!"

FATHER AND SON ORCHESTRA

"Going out nights" is always a problem in the life of every boy.

"Here is a good suggestion for something to do by which the home circle will be made so attractive that everybody will want to stay in.

Get up a family orchestra. There is one such orchestra in the east end of Toronto, in which eleven of the family make up a splendid ensemble of piano, cornet, violins; cello and drum. This, of course, is an exceptionally happy combination but many smaller combinations are possible.

The family group might also supplement its numbers from among the neighbors. An instance of this comes from the west, where a few families settled on a rather desolate tract, far away from a town, church or school. Were they down-hearted? No! They transformed a mere existence into real living through the little orchestra they recruited from their membership. Later the land became more populated, but the little orchestra remained the centre of the community's social life.

It is easier, of course, to organize trios and duos than larger groups, and they may become just as valuable in family and community life. Violin, cello and piano are probably the most popular for trios, though the banjo, saxophone and piano are also much in evidence these days. The violin, flute and harp give a very fine coloring to much good music. As for duets there is an almost endless variety of combinations to choose from. The choice, of course, must depend upon individual talents tastes and ambitions of each family.

"You should not be so vain my child Remember we are as nature made us."

"Did nature make you, Dad?"

"Yes."

"Then," said Artie looking at him and then at his reflection in the mirror, "don't you think nature is turning out better than she used to?"

February is "Home Month" for Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers.

What Time Is It?

How many times a week are you asked that question, and how many times do you have to add, after telling the time, "My watch may be a little fast," or "I don't believe that's exactly right."

There is a certain satisfaction in having the right time that you never get out of a watch that is always fast or slow.

As a matter of fact, the watch that is always fast or slow is worse than the one that does not run. The watch that does not run is right twice a day, and the other is never right.

We have time now to overhaul your watch or to do any little thing you know it needs; or we will just look at it and advise you whether we think it needs any work on it. Bring it in and let us make it absolutely right.

Rhallys Is Greek Premier

A PINCH-HITTER in Greek politics, for all his fourscore years, is the Prime Minister of Greece who succeeded the luckless Venizelos—Demetrios Rhallys. Demetrios Rhallys is nevertheless at the helm of the Hellenic ship of state for the fifth time, a record not even equalled by Venizelos himself.

And every time it was in a serious crisis for his country that the people turned to him to steer clear of rocks which threatened to wreck Greece as a nation.

In this country he would be called "Honest Demetrios Rhallys." He is that type, and his entire political career of over thirty years has been of that character. He entered politics as a rich man, one of the richest men in Athens fifty years ago, with a house situated on the best street of the city, right across from the university. To-day he is a poor man, and one of the acts of Venizelos during his recent Premiership, which did not add to the popularity of the Cretan statesman, was to evict the octogenarian ex-Premier from the same house because he could no longer pay the interest on a mortgage held by the National Bank of Greece, which other premiers had tacitly let run out of recognition of the patriotic services of the aged statesman.

Rhallys has represented the same district of the city of Athens in the Boule of the Hellenes, the Greek Congress, for the past thirty years without interruption. Even when his party went down in overwhelming defeat, which was frequently, he never failed to retain his seat. And his specialty has been finance—the "watchdog of the treasury," they call him. His first premiership, back in 1893, was when he was called to try to reach some sort of settlement with the creditors of Greece which would satisfy them and at the same time not bankrupt Greece.

At that time, the Greek debt had reached nothing like the collossal figure to which it has risen during the past three years—over nine billion drachmas, or about $1,832.80 per capita for every man, woman, and child in Greece. But the long struggle of Crete and Macedonia for liberty, financed from Athens, and the fact that credits obtained principally in France for such filibustering rarely yielded more than half the amount which the Greek Government agreed to pay, had brought Greece to a serious financial pass. Rhallys' task was to reach a settlement. He did so.

In July, 1903, Rhallys was called to smooth over the trouble with Turkey, brewing once more. At that period Venizelos, in Crete, beaten in the elections by a vote of 15 to 1, was at the business of stirring up revolution against Prince George of Greece, King Constantine's brother, then High Commissioner of the Allied Powers in Crete.

Too honest and plain spoken to be a successful politician in a country where politics are considerably worse than in any American municipality, Rhallys got no other chance at national leadership until July 18, 1909, when the "Military League," bent upon the reform of the Hellenic army, sought a commanding figure whose integrity was recognized by all factions to initiate the desired reforms. But Rhallys is a lawyer and a firm believer in moving by the constitutional methods laid down in Greece's fundamental law. The reformers of the "Military League" were bent upon accomplishing their ends immediately, even by revolution, and they grew impatient with Rhally's slower constitutional methods, with the result that he resigned once more.

Never having been able to form a successful political organization, Rhallys is Premier of Greece to-day by virtue of having been called to that post by the defeated Venizelos, reluctant to call the real victor in the elections of November 14, Demetrius Gounaris. Two elements entered into Venizelos' selection of Rhallys—the fact that he has the confidence and esteem of every man in Greece and the fact that Rhallys all his life has been thoroughly and passionately pro-French.

Educated in France, one of the few Greeks to be a doctor of laws of Paris, all Rhallys' sympathies have always been French. He knows no German, has no German affiliations, and was the uncompromising opponent of the one pro-German statesman in Greece, Theotokis, who died in 1916. In 1915, when King Constantine proposed to join the Allies in the expedition against the Dardanelles, he called the Crown Council of all the former Premiers of Greece and laid the matter before them. Only two were in favor of the enterprise, despite Constantine's eagerness for the expedition. Rhallys and Venizelos. Against the proposal were aligned ex-Premiers Theotokis, Zaimis, Mavromichaelis, Dragoumis, and Minority Leader Gounaris. The latter told the King bluntly that the Greek people were tired of war and that even Constantine's personal popularity would not suffice to make the enterprise a success. Under these circumstances there was nothing for Rhallys and Venizelos to do but bow to the opinion of the majority, much to Constantine's disappointment.

When Rhallys retires, the real political figure in Greece to-day will emerge. Just now he occupies the inconspicuous but difficult post of War Minister under Rhallys. He is Demetrios Gounaris of Patras, in the Peloponnesus, orator and leader of the party which has for its slogan "Greece for the Greeks."

Belleville Meat Merchants Object to Market Competition

PETITION CITY COUNCIL ALLEGING THAT MEAT UNFIT FOR CONSUMPTION IS OFFERED ON MARKET—COUNCIL ASKED BY SOLICITOR TO RESTRICT SALE OF MEAT ON MARKET TO QUARTERS.

At the Council meeting last evening the business brought before that body was transacted expeditiously, the session lasting about an hour. A petition was presented from the butchers of the city relative to the Council taking action to have meat, if cut up on the market done so under better sanitary conditions. Ex-alderman Ponton representing the butchers presented the petition and urged the Council to adopt it. During the brief discussion which ensued Major Ponton said that is was desirable that meat be not cut up on the market in less quantities than the quarter. The matter was referred to the market committee for consideration. Ald. Woodley gave notice that he would at the next meeting introduce a motion that all poultry sold on the market be sold by weight. Some other matters of minor importance were attended to.

Members present were Mayor Hanna, Aldermen Woodley, Ostrom, Treverton, French, Bennett, Wensley, Ballinger.

Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

Reports of Committees, communications, etc., were laid on the table and the Council went into committee of the whole, Alderman Bennett in the chair.

A number of accounts recommended to be paid by the various committees were passed also the following recommendation.

Recommended that the quotation of the H. Mueller Company for the supplying of certain brass fixtures etc. for the water works department be accepted.

A petition was presented for a light to be placed on the corner of Queen and Chatham streets.

Ald. Ballinger said he had looked at this place and it was dark at night. A light should be placed there.

The matter was referred to the light committee.

A communication was read from the Labor Council, stating that there was not in their opinion a proper inspection of food offered for sale on the market.

Referred to Market committee.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received and adopted

Cutting up of Meat

Major R. D. Ponton addressed the Council on behalf of the Butchers of the city who petitioned that the City Council devise regulations whereby the same sanitary regulations be enforced on those cutting up meat on the market as the butchers are compelled to carry out.

Major Ponton said the butchers are not asking the Council to rescind the Bylaw, allowing meat to be cut up on the market but that the same sanitary regulations be applied to those cutting up meat as the butchers are compelled to do. The butchers of the city cannot hang meat outside of their premises. The price of meat is regulated in the stock yard, not by cutting up meat on the market. Clean meat is required. The butchers of the city not only pay a license but also a business tax. The views of the Health Officer should be consulted in this matter. The butchers of Belleville have a reputation. He thought there was an injustice in this matter and he asked for the protection of all. We want the farmers who cut up meat on the market to meet all sanitary requirements the same as the butchers of the city are compelled to conform with. This was an important matter. We must protect the citizens from a sanitary point of view. We want to be democratic and fair in this matter.

Ald. Woodley was delighted with the remarks of Mr. Ponton, but it was an important matter needing consideration. He thought the matter should be referred to the market and city property committee.

Ald. Ostrom—All the butchers are asking is that meat being cut up on the market be done in as sanitary a condition as the butchers are cutting it up. He seconded the motion of Ald. Woodley.

Ald. Ballinger—If any butcher can prove that meat is brought on the market that is unfit for consumption it was his duty as a citizen to bring it before the proper authorities.

Ald. Ponton—The petition also asks that meat be sold on the market at no less a size than the quarter. The market place is not the cleanest place for the cutting up of meat.

Several Aldermen—Oh! Oh!

The matter was referred to the Market Committee.

Inquiries

Ald. Ballinger—Have we a bread inspector in the city.

Ald. Woodley—Yes.

Mayor Hanna—And he makes regular inspections and also weighs the bread regularly.

Ald. Wensley—Who is responsible for the planking between rails where the railway crosses a street and even across the sidewalk.

Mayor Hanna—The railway company.

Ald. Ballinger asked Mayor Hanna if any delegation had waited upon him in reference to some sewers which were not connected up.

Mayor Hanna—No.

Ald. Bennett—There are several places not connected up which should be.

Ald. Ostrom asked if permits were taken out before buildings are partially or wholly constructed.

City Clerk—They should be taken out before the structure is commenced.

Motions

Moved by Ald. Ballinger, seconded by Ald. Wensley that the City Council, City Engineer, Water Works Manager and Gas Manager on date agreed to make a tour of the city so that we may ascertain the most urgent improvement in regard to roads, sidewalks, water, etc. for the year 1921—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Wensley, seconded by Ald. Ballinger, that both Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways be notified that all public street crossings within the city limits be planked between the rails opposite sidewalks as well as the road way.—Carried.

On Motion of Ald. Ostrom and Woodley the Mayor and clerk were authorized to execute an agreemen on behalf of the city between the Government and the city whereby the Provincial Government pay over to the Belleville—Prince Edward Bay Bridge Co. the City's proportion of the purchase price of the Bay Bridge, this amount to be refunded to the Provincial Government as soon as the city debentures can be disposed of; the execution of the agreement being subject to the approval of the agreement by the City Solicitor.

Ald. Woodley gave notice of motion that at the next meeting he would introduce a motion authorizing the passing of a by-law causing all poultry sold in the city of Belleville to be sold by weight.

Council adjourned.

MANGLED ON THE TRACKS, BOWMANVILLE MAN HURT

Toronto, Feb. 21.—Run over by a train at the foot of Scott street early this morning. Hugh Wilcox, of Bowmanville, Ont., was terribly injured. Both his feet were cut off, while he suffered other severe head and body injuries. The man was taken to St. Michael's Hospital. The police could not ascertain how the accident occurred.

Air Routes to Far North Oil Belt Proposed

$1,500 Airplane Fare to Fort Norman and Return, With Capt. Janney, as Against $300 by Boat.

The expected rush to the northern oil country this coming spring and summer has made transportation a big live question in the Canadian North-West. After long service by dog teams, which hitherto have been sufficient for the purpose, flying machines, new steamers and railway lines are now proposed, for everybody wants to get there in a hurry.

If all the plans work out as now in prospect, there will be in the country between Edmonton and the Mackenzie River oil fields, the greatest practical test of commercial aviation that has yet been attempted in Canada. Five distinct flying enterprises are proposed, all of them to be inaugurated, it is announced, this coming season. The Imperial Oil Company already has two monoplanes on the ground, having flown them from New York under conditions severe enough to give a good hard test of winter flying, and in the early spring it will begin moving its own men and supplies into the north by the air route. This was the first enterprise of its kind, and was decided upon by the Imperial Company entirely as a means of doing its own transportation work in the quickest possible time. The planes will fly between Peace River, which will be their base, and Fort Norman, and as far beyond as occasion may require.

The Canada Air Board is also understood to be planning a service into the north for the carriage of Dominion Government geologists, surveyors and scientists, who will be working in different parts of the wilderness country and well beyond the reach of other transportation service. It is claimed that there will be enough of such work to be done to keep an air service well occupied all through the season, and obviously enough it would enable a vastly greater amount of territory to be covered in the summer and autumn months than has ever been possible under the canoe and pack system.

F. G. Erickson, the Toronto birdman, has announced his intentions of operating a flying service between Great Slave Lake and Fort Norman on a commercial basis. A Calgary company is already advertising for bookings for a flying boat line that is to begin in the spring between Fort McMurray and the Mackenzie oil fields, following in general the course of the northern waterways. But the most ambitious of all the schemes is that of Capt. E. J. Janney, of the Northern Canada Traders, Ltd., with whom is associated Major C. K. Wollan, of Los Angeles.

A dirigible capable of carrying about thirty passengers will be put on the Edmonton-Mackenzie route, according to Capt. Janney's plans, in March, and after a demonstration flight, on which a party of Canadian and American newspapermen are to be eye-witness guests, a quick service to Fort Norman and back is to be commenced. The fare will be $1,500 for the round trip.

It is the expectation of these several flight masters that there will be a rush of oil seekers and sightseers into the north as soon as spring opens and all through the summer. That, indeed, is what everyone is looking for; but the most experienced northerners are hesitating to accept the theory that there will be enough doing in the oil country to warrant a stampede. The reports of this expected boom have already been greatly exaggerated. It has recently been stated in the east, for instance, that 3,000 prospectors are now in Edmonton waiting their time to move on into the north as soon as conditions will permit. Such an army of wealth-hunting waiters has never, of course, been even approximated, and if the plans of the airmen are not based on better facts than this, their success will be questionable.

The commercial air routes to the north will naturally compete with the already established steamboat routes. As against the $1,500 round trip fare by airship, the steamboats carry for $300 from Fort McMurray to Fort Norman and return. The air route, of course, a great advantage in point of time, as compared with one month by water. The cost by airship, as thus announced, is about the same as the long overland journey by dog-train. For the inexperienced man who undertakes a winter trip into the north and who wants to go in comfort, two teams of four dogs each will be necessary, with three men, and the cost will run close to $1,500 from Edmonton to Fort Norman and back.

A half dozen adventurous prospectors have set out this winter by dog team for the northern oil fields, hoping thus to reach the Mackenzie Eldorado well in advance of any others taking the steamer route. They will stake claims for various development interests that they represent and, incidentally, for themselves. It was thought at the beginning of winter that there would be a rush of oil-seekers by overland route, but its hardships and risks were such that only a few who knew how to do it cared to make the venture. Besides the Royal Canadian Mounted Police have allowed none but experienced and properly equipped men to set on the thousand-odd mile winter journey.

June 26 Fateful Day For Earth

Pons-Winnecke Comet, With Hun Name, Racing Towards Us at 300 Miles a Second.

Next June, if the calculations of an eminent British astronomer are correct, this old earth is going to experience a demonstration of fireworks that will make the late explosive war seem like the twenty-fourth of May in a village.

A comet is now racing at awful speed towards the earth.

Dr. A. C. D. Crommelin, of the Royal Observatory, Greenwich, England, states that if this comet does not actually bump into the earth, it is going to come so close that the most marvellous pyrotechnic display in the history of man will result.

June 26, next, he sets as the decisive date. About that day the large comet, Pons-Winnecke, travelling at the rate of three hundred miles a second (from Toronto to Montreal in a tick-tock), will either have bumped into the earth or have swept by it in a stupendous rush of flaming gases, molten matter, rocks, meteorites and dust.

Professor C. A. Chant, professor of astronomy at the University of Toronto, does not deny Dr. Crommelin's statement. Prof. Chant says that Dr. Crommelin is a very eminent astronomer, with one of the greatest observatories in the world in which to make his calculations.

Pons-Winnecke is one of twenty comets that run from the sun to Jupiter. It makes the round trip every five and three-quarters years. While our old earth ambles leisurely around the sun once a year at the rate of only eighteen miles a second, Pons-Winnecke rushes around its route from the sun to Jupiter at the rate of about 300 miles a second.

Right Feeding Will Replenish The Earth

Dr. Josiah Oldfield, English physician and author, who believes that flesh-eating is a prolific source of disease and one of the worst enemies of the human race, is of the opinion that the wastage of life caused by the war might be speedily repaired by right feeding.

Dr. Oldfield is a strong advocate of the Fruitarian diet and has been senior physician of the Lady Margaret Fruitarian Hospital at Bromley. Writing from Jamaica he says:

"My observations here confirm my views that food and fertility go hand in hand. The commission dealing with the grave problem of the steadily falling birth rate in Europe has failed to grasp the fundamental truth which applies to vegetable and animal and human life alike—that a right dietary means increased fertility and wrong feeding leads to increasing sterility.

"If a gardner wants much foliage he feeds the plants with one food; if he wants fruit or seed he feeds it quite differently. So does the stockfeeder and breeder. It is a difference in food only which transforms similar eggs, one into a drone and another into a queen bee.

"Whereas before the war in every European country the birth rate showed a steady fall, yet in Serbia, Bulgaria and Rumania, where the hardy peasants still lived on rye bread, dried fruits, vegetables, cheese, oil and sour milk, there was a continuous high birth rate and no decrease.

"Here in the West Indies, where the dark races live on yams, sweet potatoes, cassava, Indian corn, sugar, milk, cocoanuts, bananas and oranges, with some salt fish, the birth rate is high and the fertility irrespressible.

"Owing to ignorance and want of sanitation the infant mortality is high, but when that is removed the black population will multiply at a far higher rate than the white unless the white population of the world learns that it is corn, oil and wine, salads, milk and honey which produce a fertile race, and that meat eating spells increased sterility."

KICKS LIVE BOMB, SAVES BUILDING

St. Catherines, Feb. 22.—No arrests in connection with the Co-operative Bakery bomb outrage yesterday morning have taken place.

That the bombers planned a complete job is evidenced by the fact that the police have found a box full of dynamite sticks, Hydro railroad spikes and great lengths of fuses, which were evidently intended to be used to blow up the front of the building, so that two explosions, one from the front and one from the rear, would take place simultaneously.

Charles Smith, a colored man living in the neighborhood, is the hero of the hour. He saw the burning fuses and rushed up and kicked the whole thing to pieces, thereby saving the building.

True Bill Found Against Spracklin

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Windsor, Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, Pastor of Sandwich Methodist church, was arraigned for trial before Chief Justice Sir William Mulock at Sandwich assizes this morning following the return by the Grand Jury yesterday afternoon of a true bill on a charge of manslaughter in causing the death of Beverly G. Trumble, proprietor of the Chappell House in Sandwich last November, when Mr. Spracklin was acting as special liquor law enforcement officer for the Ontario Government.

Spracklin Jury Complete

With the largest crowd in attendance that has ever been accommodated in the court room in Sandwich county building, Rev. Spracklin appeared accompanied by his father, brother and father-in-law. Mr. Spracklin was placed in the prisoners dock and immediately the clerk of the court read the former charge of manslaughter to him. The pastor-inspector pleaded not guilty and elected to proceed with his trial. The task of selecting jury was proceeded with. One man was challenged by the crown while seven were challenged by the defence. Jury was completed just before court rose for adjournment at noon.

Dream of All-Rail Route to India Nearing Realization

LINE THROUGH TERRITORY UNDER HER EXCLUSIVE CONTROL MADE POSSIBLE BY AGREEMENT WITH FRANCE FOR TRANSFER OF SYRIAN MANDATE—ONLY ONE LINK TO BE ACQUIRED.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Realization by Great Britain of her long-cherished dream of an all rail route from the Mediterranean to India through territory under her exclusive political or military control is made possible by an agreement signed by the French and British Governments in Paris December 23, details of which have been received here.

Under that agreement the Syrian desert, constituting the southern part of Syria bordering on Palestine, is transferred from a French to a British mandate. In this territory, which was previously allotted to France by the League of Nations, specific provision is made for construction of a British railway line linking Palestine with the Mesopotamian systems through thre Syrian desert.

Part of the British all-rail route from India to the Mediterranean, according to advices received in official circles recently, was begun secretly during the war and has been completed from Quetta in northern India to a point in central Persia skirting the Afghanistan border. The rail route from Palestine would cross the Syrian desert and, passing through Basra in southern Mesopotamia, would effect a junction with the line already completed from India at a point in southern Parsia.

With the transfer of southern Syria from France to Great Britain, according to officials, only the southern link would be left outside political control of Great Britain, and even this link is now partly under her political control and wholly under British military control.

Samuel Blackstock Run Down by Passenger Train No. 19. in Turcot Yard

Montreal, Feb. 22.—Samuel Blackstock, 40 years, 1142 Verdun avenue, Verdun, was instantly killed by a train at 8 o'clock last night in the G. T. R. yard at Turcot. His body was found by other employees of the railroad. According to the information furnished to the police and to the company officials, Blackstock was on duty in the yards as a special agent watching the outgoing freights. It is believed that he stepped aside to let an incoming Toronto train pass by when he was struck by an outgoing train, as the two are due in Turcot at about the same time. None of the crew of either trains, however, had knowledge of the accident, as no report was made at the company's offices until the body was discovered lying some distance from the tracks.

Special Despatch to the Intelligencer

Washington, Feb. 22.—The United States government has presented directly to the League of Nations council its demand that all allied and associated nations be given equal opportunities in the Mandate territories. The decision to act in this question notwithstanding the early change of administrations was predicted upon the understanding that the council contemplated immediate action on mandates such as those in Mesopotamia and Palestine.

Think That Bandits Operated Airplane

Residents of the west end report having sighted a plane a short time after the robbery and from Maumee village, on the outskirts of Toledo, came a similar report. A despatch from Lima said a plane not in the government mail service, alighted there for a short time.

The Daredevil

By
Maria Thompson Daviess
Author of "The Melting of Molly"

Copyright, 1916, by the Reilly & Britton Co.

"It is a great joy to me, mon capitaine, that you give to me your approval. Much has happened to me in these short weeks since you left me in loneliness on that great ship that I must tell to you," I said as a sob rose into my words.

"Poor little girl! It will not be many hours now before I can say to you the things that have been growing in my heart for you since that night upon the ship," he said to me in a great tenderness as he raised my hand and bent to kiss it just as entered the great Gouverneur Faulkner and the wild Jim.

I had not the courage to gaze upon the face of my Gouverneur Faulkner, but I felt its coldness strike into my body and turn it to hardness. For a second I stood as a stone; then a sudden resolve rose in me, and again that daredevil seized upon my thought. I took a piece of that white paper with caution and also a pencil and with them slipped from the room, while that wild Jim seated himself upon my lowly stool beside the table at which again the two great men were writing.

And out in the soft light that was now slowly fading from the side of the mountain because of the retirement of the sun I sat me down upon the step of the hut and wrote to my Gouverneur Faulkner this small letter:

> Honored Excellency the Gouverneur Faulkner of the State of Harpeth—I go from you into the trenches of France. If your humble boy Robert has done for you any small service, I beg of you in that name that my uncle, the General Robert, and my friends never know of my dishonor of lies about my woman's estate, but believe me to die as a soldier for France, as will be the case. Make all clear for me to my Capitaine the Count de Lasselles. It is that all women are not lies.
> ROBERTA,
> Marquise of Grez and Bye.

Then I left that letter upon the doorstep, held in place by the weight of a stone, and very softly slipped out into the shadows of the twilight and down the mountain by the path up which that morning I had come with my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner, then my friend.

I felt a certainty that as many as two hours would those men continue in a consulting with that wild Jim and in that time by going fleetingly I could gain the place where were tethered the horses before a complete darkness had come. From my honored father I had learned the ways of woods in hunting, and also I knew that the good Lightfoot would, in darkness carry me in safety to his stall in the barn of Mr. Bud Bell, beside which stood my cherry.

From there I could gain the city of Hayesville in the dead hours of the night and in those same dead hours depart to France after obtaining the money I had left in my desk and which I had earned by my labors and would not be in the act of stealing from the state of Harpeth. Only one night and day would I be alone in the forest, and I did not care if a death should overtake me. In my body my heart was dead, and why should I desire the life of that body?

CHAPTER XVI.

"You Are—Myself!"

AND as I had planned I then accomplished. I discovered that Lightfoot at pasture, and I quickly had placed the saddle upon him and had turned him down the mountain to choose a safe path for both himself and me. I did not look upon those cradles of fragrant boughs in which the boy Robert had lain at rest beside his great friend, the Gouverneur Faulkner, from whom he had stolen faith and affection.

"Why did not you also steal his pocketbook as he lay asleep beside you, Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye?" I questioned myself, with scorn and torture, as good Lightfoot crashed down from that Camp Heaven into the dark night.

And on we rode, the large horse with the woman upon his back, for a long night, through fragrant thickets that caught at my riding breeches with rose tendril fingers and under thick forests of budding trees, through whose branches of tender leaves the wise old stars looked down upon my bitter weeping with nothing of comfort, perhaps because they had grown of a hardness of heart from having seen so many tears of women drop in the silence of a lonely night.

Then came a dawn and a noon and a twilight, through which I pushed forward the large horse with great cruelty, only pausing beside streams to allow that he drink of the water and also to throw myself down on my face and lap the cool refreshment like do all humble things. And when at last the stars were again there to look down upon me we arrived behind the barn of that Bud Bell to find all in the house at rest. I thought of that small child in sleep in the arms of that woman, and a great sobbing came from my heart as I threw myself into my cherry, after giving a supper to good

Belleville Will Plant Rotary In Peterboro

Pasteurization of milk was the chief topic under discussion at the weekly gathering of Belleville Rotarians at Hotel Quinte Monday. Rotarian Howard Clarke, manager of the Citizens Dairy, stated the case for pasteurization in a splendid paper which is reproduced in another column of this issue. Rotarian Clarke stated that he knew of a family quarantined for small-pox acquired in another community for untreated milk supplied by a dealer having small-pox in his family. The dangers of raw milk in communicating diphtheria tuberculosis and other dangerous diseases were pointed out by the speaker who said that safety lay only in using milk that was certified or pasteurized. Certified milk comes from a dairy where cows are regularly inspected by an expert for tuberculosis and the surroundings are kept clean and sanitary at all times.

Judge Wills, W. L. Doyle, F. Smith and others took part in the discussion and Stewart Robertson stated that the Board of Health of which he was chairman had this matter before them at the present time.

Spence The Fisherman.

President Gus Porter presided over the luncheon but had to leave early to catch his train for Ottawa, and Spence Clark was his choice for a successor. Spence filled the bill to a nicety.

Secretary Oswald Scott drew attention to the celebration this week of the sixteenth anniversary of the founding of Rotary and gave some facts in regard to the anniversary of an interesting nature.

BELLEVILLE'S BABY

W. L. Doyle made a strong plea for a large representation on the trip to Peterboro. Toronto and Oshawa were sending large delegations March 1, when a new club would be baptized in Peterborough, this particular Rotary babe belonging to the Belleville Club, which was the father and God father and should see that the infant was properly baptized. President Gus is coming down from Ottawa to attend and there promises to be a big time in Peterboro next Tuesday night.

Rotarian Doyle's plea brought forth an enthusiastic response and he will be well supported. George Appell and Gordon Moffat were appointed Grand Cradle Rockers extraordinary so that the baptismal ceremony will not lack dignity and tone. The Peterboro pilgrimage arrangements were then placed in the hands of the following committee: Rotarians Vince Doyle, Smith, Patterson, Walmsley and Kerr.

Rotarian Wills, Reid, Robertson, W. L. Doyle and Deacon were appointed a committee to report upon the draft submitted of the new international constitution and by-laws.

Advertise Your Goods When and Where Sales are Made

One of the best forms of advertising for any article is an attractive container.

Any container that prevents damage or soiling helps to sell the contents.

If the container is attractive as well it goes farther—it helps to advertise the contents—and is a silent salesman.

It suggests a purchase in the retail store—in the place, and at the time when purchases are being made.

A sanitary container—for food products—advertises purity and cleanliness in the making, as well as the intent of the maker to protect the purity of his product till it reaches the consumer.

Your goods, in a proper container, reach the consumer in the condition they leave your factory—insuring repeat sales.

In addition, the container forms one of the strongest forms of "in-the-store" advertising possible to get—a form of advertising which should be included in every campaign to sell retailed commodities.

Make use of our experience in designing a container for your goods.

Suggestions and samples will be sent you on request.

WHY BELLEVILLE SHOULD ENFORCE PASTEURIZATION OF MILK

An Address Given Before the Belleville Rotary Club

by Howard J. Clarke.

Before the Belleville Rotary Club on Monday Rotarian Howard J. Clarke, Manager of the Citizens' Dairy, addressed the members on the question of pasteurization of milk, as follows:

MILK AS A FOOD.

As a prominent professor points out, milk furnishes all the elements essential for the sustaining of life and the growth of the body. We have repeatedly read in the newspapers how one quart of milk is equal in food value to one pound of steak or a dozen of eggs, or two and a half pounds of chicken, etc., and the cost of these other foods compared with the price of milk, is considerable more.

Obviously, then, milk is a food that we cannot afford to do without; it is a food we must have, as it is the most valuable article of diet.

THE DANGERS OF MILK.

Professor Rosaneau of Harvard says that milk as ordinarily sold in our cities is responsible for more sickness and death than all other foods combined. In addition to the terrible role played by impure milk in our infant mortality, we have the well recognized danger of transmission of bovine tuberculosis to children. In addition to this, there have been numerous outbreaks of typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria, septic sore throat, and, in fact, epidemics of all the communicable diseases have been traced directly to a contaminated milk supply.

BOVINE TUBERCULOSIS.

To the late Professor Robert Koch we are indebted for the discovery that the great white plague in man and beast is due to a germ known as the Tubercle bacillus.

Of the various investigations made on this continent there are none more valuable and better known than those made by Doctor Theobald Smith of Harvard, Doctor W. H. Park, director Public Health Laboratories of New York, and his colleague, Doctor Kenwin. The cases of human tuberculosis examined by Dr. Park and his associates are especially valuable inasmuch as they are not selected ones. A few figures from their report

The total number of tubercular persons examined in the research laboratory of New York city relative to type of tubercle bacilli was 438, and o these 7 1-3 per cent had T.B. of the bovine type (contracted from the cow)

"When the diagnoses of cases entering Mount Sinai Hospital and the Babies' Hospital of New York were examined, it was found that the majority of cases of meningitis, supposedly due to the mingo coccus, were really tubercular in character. 15 per cent. of the cases of chonchopneumonia and marasmus were also found to be cases of tuberculosis."

Furthermore, there is the additional danger of infection with the human form from some one suffering from tuberculosis handling the milk with contaminated hands, or sneezing or coughing over the vessel containing the milk.

To attempt to remove this danger of bovine tuberculosis by excluding from dairy herds cows suffering from tuberculosis would mean a milk famine, the cost would be prohibitive, and even then the milk would not be safe without pasteurization.

TYPHOID FEVER.

The following table has been taken from a pamphlet recently issued by Dr. Chas. E. North, Consulting Sanitary Expert and Secretary of Commission on Milk Standards, New York City. This table represents a few only of the 500 outbreaks of fevers traced to raw milk

Springfield, Mass.—182 cases typhoid from one raw milk supply.

Stamford, Conn.—307 cases typhoid from one raw milk supply.

Buffalo, N.Y.—12 cases scarlet fever from one raw milk supply.

London, Eng.—281 cases scarlet from one raw milk supply.

Brooklyn, N.Y.—12 cases diphtheria from one raw milk supply.

Los Angeles, Cal.—35 cases diphtheria from one raw milk supply.

Pasteurization is the only means by which this danger can be eliminated.

No epidemics have thus far been traced to pasteurized milk.

SEPTIC SORE THROAT.

Considerable interest has been aroused during the past four or five years as a result of a high mortality rate due to septic sore throat. Many of these outbreaks have been traced directly to the milk supply partially through contamination by the handlers of the milk who were affected, or were carriers, and partially through an organism which is found in the diseased udder of the cow. In Stockholm 600 cases of sore throat were traced to this source.

A very exhaustive study was given to the outbreak in Boston in May, 1911, where 1,013 cases were traced to one raw milk supply. In Chicago, Ill., an outbreak of 10,000 cases was traced to one raw milk supply; in Baltimore, 602 cases, and in Cortland-Homer, N. Y., 669 cases. This disease seems to

HOW ELIMINATED

With such overwhelming evidence of the dangers of the transmission of diseases through milk, the problem confronting departments of health is, how most efficiently to remove the danger. The united opinions of those who have for years been carefully studying the relation of milk to diseases is that there are only two kinds of milk that should be permitted by any Health Officer to be sold for consumption. These are certified milk and scientifically pasteurized milk.

PASETURIZATION.

No one who has been making a scientific study of the milk problem, and who is therefore in a position to give an intelligent opinion, has, within the past five or ten years questioned for a moment the advisability of the pasteurization of milk that does not come from a heard that has been shown to be free from tuberculosis, or that has not been procured under conditions necessary for the production of certified milk. However, I presume it is a matter of history repeating itself. In all advances of science there are always a few who cannot keep pace with the advance. It is therefore necessary to repeat over and over again. The meaning of pasteurization is that the milk has been subject for at least twenty, and not more than thirty minutes to a temperature of not less than 140, and not more than 150 degrees Fahrenheit, and then at once cooled to 45 degrees or under, and kept at that temperature until delivered to the consumer. This, gentlemen, is the process that we put all our milk through at our new plant on Coleman street.

The facts that I have presented to you today concerning the dangers of raw milk, and the value of pasteurization, have been known to all students of the milk problem for several years.

At a convention held in 1912, at Washington, a resolution was passed endorsing the necessity of the efficient pasteurization of the entire milk supply of municipalities. Among those who were present and strongly urged the passing of the resolution were Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Prof. George M. Sternberg, Dr. Wm. C. Woodward, and other prominent workers. Prof. Dean of the Ontario Agricultural College says that he regards pasteurization of milk as the greatest possible aid to life saving.

Dr. Torrance, Veterinary General of Canada, says that in his judgment pasteurization is the only means by which we can efficiently safeguard our milk supplies.

No intelligent stock-raiser or agriculturist thinks of feeding his calves or hogs milk from cattle that are not known to be free from tuberculosis without first pasteurizing it. Intelligent persons realize that infants are entitled to the same protection.

On February 16th Dr. Amyot, Deputy Minister of Health, Ottawa, addressing the Ontario Veterinary Association, in part said The finest food of all is milk. At the same time he admitted that milk is looked upon with a great deal of mistrust by many citizens, and rightly so, for if the milk is not properly looked after it becomes one of the most dangerous means of carrying diphtheria, measles, scarlet and typhoid fever, tuberculosis, and even the everyday cough and cold. As a cure Dr. Amyot suggested that the mental attitude of the milker should be changed. The farmer should be taught that it is a simple matter to transfer disease through milk, and that accordingly they should use greater care in the barns. Dr. Amyot pointed out that pasteurization, if properly carried out, absolutely destroys all the germs.

FAILS THRICE TO KILL FATHER, BURNS BARNS, SLAYS SELF

St. Stephen, N.B., Feb. 20.—After three unsuccessful attempts to kill his father, Osiris Nixon, 60, of Waweig, Charlotte county, Otis Nixon, aged 30, set fire to and destroyed his father's property, valued at $8,000, and then killed himself close to the burning buildings.

Otis Nixon hid in a barn, and early Sunday morning struck his father over the head with a heavy iron bar. The latter was able to get away, but his son followed him, and again struck him on the head. Despite his wounds, his father was able to drag himself to a neighbor's house and get his wounds dressed.

The son then set fire to the buildings, and on the father's return fired at him twice, missing him. He then shot himself.

HANDS OF FELLOWSHIP AROUND THE WORLD.

On Wednesday, February 23, 1921, the sixteenth anniversary of the organization of the first Rotary Club will be observed by thousands of Rotarians in many lands, and the idea which germinated in the brain of a lonesome man in Chicago sixteen years ago will stand revealed as a giant of good-will encircling the globe. Paul Harris, of Chicago, Father of Rotary, is still active in the councils of the organization, the growth of which has never ceased to amaze him. Rotary propagates itself, the idea is sufficient—friendship, fellowship, service above self, he profits most who serves best—and the Rotary wheel is girdling the earth in a magnificent harmony of joyful songs, joined hands, hearts attuned to comradeship, and community of service.

Rotary has no paid organizers—its motive power is love of service and the good word is passed along from one club to another as something worth having and sharing. Toronto Rotary Club organized Belleville, and now Belleville Rotary Club is to carry the message of Rotary to Peterboro, where a club will be organized on the evening of March 1 under the auspices of Belleville Rotary Club led by Rotarian Gus Porter, Rotarian Billy Doyle, and a cheerful bunch of the brightest spirits of the local Rotary Wheel.

The following historical and descriptive sketch of the origin, objects and growth of Rotary will be of interest on the eve of the sixteenth birthday of this popular institution:

"What is the Rotary Club, anyway, and what does it all mean?"

One answer might be that it is a small group of business and professional men who gather once a week for a luncheon and a speaking program and that they seem to have a "corking" good time.

But this isn't the real answer. It is no more correct than that definition of a man which would describe him as "a biped on which to display clothes," for Rotary, it seems, is an invisible thing which dwells in men's hearts and which is made manifest only through their thoughts and deeds. The getting together, the talking and the fun are only the means to the accomplishment of a great end.

To get a clear understanding of the movement—for that's what it really is—it may be well to start at the beginning and see what brought Rotary into being. Sixteen years ago a lonesome man—Paul P. Harris, a Chicago lawyer—invited a coal dealer, a coal operator(and a merchant tailor to meet with him to form a little group of friends who could gather together once a week in each other's offices and enjoy that close acquaintanceship which comes only through such frequent meetings. From the beginning each man represented a different business or profession. Strict adherence to this plan as each new man was added to the group has proven to be one of the vital points in the success of the Rotary club which came out of this small beginning. As the numbers grew slowly, of course, a name for the club was sought. Inasmuch as the men had been "rotating" in their meetings in the offices of the members, someone suggested that it be called the "Rotation" club, and this was soon changed to "Rotary."

Lost for Time.

For three years this club was "lost" in the commercial and social turmoil of the big city, just as its founder, Paul Harris, considered himself "lost" without congenial, dependable friends. Then one of the Chicago men made a business trip to California and a second club was formed in San Francisco. This was the beginning of the movement which has spread to all quarters of the globe. In addition to the 800 clubs in the United States, Canada, England, Scotland and Ireland, and including the six clubs in Cuba, clubs have been organized in Argentine, Spain, Uruguay, France, Porto Rico, Panama, Hawaii, Japan, China, Philippine Islands and India, while active organization work is going forward in Denmark, Chile, Peru, Egypt, Australia, Holland, Brazil and other countries. Even with its restricted membership plan, there are today upward of 65,000 Rotarians in the world.

And yet this doesn't answer the question, "What is Rotary."

Human Service.

The Rotary platform is based upon human service. It doesn't consider a man a success unless he is of the fullest possible value to his fellowmen in helping them to greater happiness, no matter whether he is a money maker or not. "The Rotary club demands fair dealings, honest methods and high standards in business," is the theme of the Rotary platform, and its last clause, "He profits most who serves best," has been adopted as the latter part of the official slogan: "Service Above Self—He Profits Most Who Serves Best." This thought implanted in the life of one man spreads to others, and a small group possessing the thought of unselfish service soon creates the desire in other men to do likewise. Hence the rapid spread of the Rotary idea.

Careful Selection.

However, these facts should be borne in mind, lest it be thought that Rotary is forcing itself upon the world: The growth of Rotary has been spontaneous. Never at any time has the organization employed a paid organizer. On the other hand, extreme care has always been exercised in surveying cities and towns which apply for membership to make sure that such communities are ready for a Rotary club and are of sufficient size to provide a membership of representative men and still have the membership restricted to one man from each distinctive business or profession, although, occasionally, one additional representative from the same firm is permitted. This plan of restricted membership insures the fullest possible representation of the community, while at the same time it is impossible for the membership to become large and unwieldy; united action is easier with a small group; the diversified representation provides an ideal forum for the discussion of local problems; no one line of business or profession can dominate the group; and the smallness of the club permits of the enforcement of the attendance rule, which requires that any member be automatically removed from the roster if he be absent four times in succession. This insistence upon regular attendance has given the Rotary club the record of having the largest average attendance of all organizations of business and professional men. In December, 1920, the average for all of the clubs of the United States and Canada was 77.40 per cent.

School of Service.

Rotary, it seems, is a "school for service," in which men of hundreds of cities, big and little, gather once a week, in the middle of the day, have a good time, become well acquainted, open their minds and hearts to learn and then seek to apply their lessons so thoroughly that the world everywhere is learning to look upon Rotarians as men who do things and do them willingly and unselfishly. By improving the individual member of the club, each man's business must be conducted on a higher plane; this means a finer influence upon all other men of the community engaged in the same line. Turning again to the individual, it is found that he becomes a better man in his home life, while his attitude and activities in connection with his town, state and nation are ever keener and broader, that is, if he is a true Rotarian, and such, it is believed, all men connected with the organization are striving to be.

The world, therefore, welcomes Rotary. For sixteen years it has been doing its work. It seeks not to do big public things of itself, except in emergency instances, but rather to train its members to be truly helpful every day and in every way.

THE CRAZE FOR SPEED

London Daily Chronicle

We scamper through life so madly that we have no time to cultivate the kindly virtues in ourselves. Nothing else in all the range of human experience is so expensive, but nothing else pays and repays so much as honest-hearted, intelligent loving. Certainly, sir, how many?

Oh, you'd better give me three or four—mackerel. Make it look decent in quantity without appearing to exaggerate, you know.

Yes, sir. You'd better take salmon, though.

Why? What makes you think so?

Oh, nothing, except that your wife was here early this morning and said if you dropped in with your fishing tackle I was to persuade you to take salmon, if possible, as she liked that kind better than any other.—Los Angeles Times.

POETS' CORNER

THE RED TREE

I sing of a red, red tree,
Like a great rose burnished bright,
That stood by a lyric stream
Touched by the sun's last light;
And the sight of it was to me
A beauty too rare to be,
Like a dream meshed in a dream
That rose red tree

More than the sunset—more!
A richer loveliness
Than flowers by a Barada's shore
That Lebanon winds caress;
Than the radient buds that bloom
Shrouding the shrines of Fayum
Where they worshipped the rose of yore,
Babylon's hanging gardens—no;
Nor the groves of Semiramis!
In all the glades of Jericho
Never a thing like this!

And my love (she could not fail!)
She saw the wonder, too,
There in the dip of the dusking vale
What seemed too fair to be true.
Then I looked through my love's eyes
Into my love's heart
(Rose of the world to me!)
And I knew a beauty as far apart
As is the span of the sundering skies
From any rose red tree.

DIAMONDS LOST

A woman passenger on the International Limited reported Monday after boarding the train at Kingston Junction that she had lost a mesh bag containing a diamond ring, a diamond pendant and the return stub of a ticket for Napanee in the station at Kingston The bag is alleged to have been taken from the station before she boarded the train.

TRIAL SHIPMENT

In an effort to secure the most prompt delivery at the Atlantic seaboard of its valuable freight, a train consisting of 45 carloads of American cotton passed over the Grand Trunk eastbound at an early hour Monday morning. The shipment is routed over the Grand Trunk from Chicago to St. Alban's, Vt., and originated at St. Louis, Mo. It will be delivered at Boston Mass. The trainload of cotton constitutes a trial shipload over the Grand Trunk to determine the speed with which it can reach its destination and is in competition with a number of United States roads. Because of the expeditious handling of the meat products originating at Chicago for export, the Grand Trunk hauls a vast amount of this traffic daily, the business being secured in competition with United States carriers. Should the delivery of the trial cotton shipment prove satisfactorily it will mean increased through business in the handling of this commodity.

King, C.M.G., D.S.O., will be the inspecting officer, accompanied by the usual staff officers. D. T. McManus, Adjutant.

UP TO DATE AMBULANCE

An up to date motor ambulance has arrived here for use at the G. T. R. depot, and it fills a long-felt need as the railway was dependent upon the city ambulance for emergency calls. The new vehicle is of the McLaughlin make, provided with stretchers on wheels, and two seats. The body is painted a battleship grey. A garage will be built near the depot to house the ambulance. The purchase price was $3,000, taken from the balance of the Grand Trunk Employees' Patriotic Fund.

CITY MANAGER FOR CHATHAM

Toronto, Feb 19.—Chatham is going in for administration by a "city manager." R. L. Brackin, M.P.P., sponsored a bill in Private Bills Committee which sets out the system.

The bill changes the election date to the first Monday in November, provides for a City Council of seven aldermen and a mayor the four aldermen with the highest vote to serve three years, the other three and the mayor for two years. In the event of all being elected by acclamation the amount of local assessment which each alderman bears shall determine seniority in the council.

The council is empowered to hire a city manager. The bill was passed.

Funny Flapper is Olive Thomas

BRIMFUL OF AMUSING AND ROMANTIC SITUATIONS

Olive Thomas's performance as a lovesick "flapper" in the Selznick picture, "The Flapper" is one of the most delicious, whimsical bits of screen acting seen on the screen this year. This production which was presented before a large audience at Griffin's last night, will be presented again tomorrow night for the last time.

Miss Thomas appears first as a schoolgirl in a fashionable boarding school, and later as a pretended "wicked woman of the World." The transition is made possible through the aid of some fashionable clothing stolen by burglars and placed in the "flapper's" unsuspecting charge. Full of amusing and romantic situations replete with picturesque settings ranging all the way from scenes of sunny Florida to snow-skiing in the north "The Flapper" has all the ingredients that make for ideal motion picture entertainment. Frances Marion wrote the story, and the production was directed by Alan Crosland. A capable cast of players supports Miss Thomas.

Screen snapshots showing the private and professional life of screen stars, a funny 2 reel Bringing up Father comedy, an interesting Burton Holmes Travelogue titled "Battlefields of France" and Eileen Percy in "The Third Eye" completes a splendid bill of screen entertainment.

Nothing Like Internal Bathing For Constipation

If people only knew what Internal Bathing is doing for thousands of other, there would be fewer Pills and Laxatives swallowed, and very much less suffering from Constipation and the accompanying Stomach and Nervous Troubles resulting from it.

J. A. Darrach, Copper Cliff, Ont., writes "I have been using your J B L Cascade for the past three months and am convinced that it is the most modern and scientific method of dealing with Constipation that has ever been devised, and I will lose no opportunity to promote its use among my friends, as I can speak truthfully and enthusiastically as to its merits."

By the proper application of Nature's cure, warm water, by means of the J. B. L. Cascade, the lower intestines are kept free from all poisonous waste. Drugs force Nature. Internal bathing assists her.

Dr. Chas. A Tyrrell of New York, a specialist on Internal Bathing, invented and perfected the J. B. L. Cascade which has done more during the past 20 years in restoring health and lessening disease than all other means combined.

Ask J. S. McKeown, Druggist, Belleville, for booklet, "Why Man of Today is Only 50 Per Cent. Efficient." They will also be pleased to show and explain the J. B. L. Cascade to you, or write to Tyrell's Hygenic Institute, 163 College Street Toronto.

SPORTING EVENTS

WIN FOR O. S. D.

On Saturday at the Arena a game was played between teams representing Albert College and the Ontario School for the Deaf. The result was an easy win for the O. S. D. team by a score of 7 to 0. The defence of the winning team was impregnable. The line-up was as follows:

Albert College — Goal, McCluskey; defence, Quest and Atkinson; centre, Marrit; forwards, Hollingdrake and Yates; subs, Brandon and Lamour.

O. S. D.—Goal, J. Meyett; defence, N. Nowak and M. Cole; centre, A. Dick; forwards, J. R. Tate and R. R. Pye; subs, W. McGovern and G. Hunter.

Referee—Badwill of Albert College.

B. H. S., 3; UPSTREAMERS, 2.

Last evening at the Arena a very interesting game of hockey took place between B. H. S. and the Upstreamers, which resulted in a win for the B. H. S. by 3 to 2. At times the game was fast, and the checking was heavy from both teams. There are four teams in the Junior League tied for first place.

The first goals were scored by the B. H. S., but later the Upstreamers work up and placed the rubber in the School's net, and the first period ended a tie, 2-2.

When the bell rang the players were called to the ice and the second period opened very lively.

During this period no goals were scored and as a result the teams had to play five minutes overtime, and shortly after the face-off the High School scored. With a neat rush from Watts the puck was placed in the Upstreamers' net. Then with a good combination play from Thrasher, Watts succeeded in pushing the rubber into the net.

The line-up:

B. H. S.—Goal, Curry; defence, Hurley and Watts; centre, R. Arnott; forwards, Sherry and Christie; subs, Thrasher and Symonds.

Upstreamers—Goal, Ives; defence, Jeffery and Folwell; centre, Miles; forwards, Wells and Anderson.

HOPERS HAPPY

Hurrah for Belleville! The big Toronto arena which proves such a handicap to visiting teams, didn't bother the boys from the Bay of Quinte town in the least. They made the mistake, however, of playing a defensive game in the first two periods, at the end of which time the score stood 3 to 1 against them. In the last period, however, they skated rings around the Toronto team, and scored two goals while their opponents failed to tally. The game ended three all and Belleville wins the round by 9 to 5. Here's that they may continue their good work.—Port Hope Guide.

BELLEVILLE WON AND LOST.

At Toronto yesterday many curling clubs were represented in the competition for the Ontario tankard prize. Belleville had two rinks and won out in the first round, but lost in the second. The Globe, in referring to the first game, says:

There was a tight game at Granite Rink between Belleville and Paris, the former winning in an extra end. When the regulation eighteen ends had been played the score was tied. In the extra end both Belleville rinks were winners by one shot in each instance. Scores:

WOLVES OF NORTH ATTACK REFEREE

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Feb. 22.—Sudbury lost to-night's game and the championship when the Sault team trounced them 6 to 0. The Sudbury team was strengthened by the presence of "Shorty" Green. The game finished up in one of the worst free-for-all battles that has ever been witnessed on the ice here, blood flowing freely. Langlois, Sudbury's defence man, was responsible for the commencement of the rough-house tatis c,and in the last five minutes of the game Sudbury's team had all been expelled from the ice with the exception of McCann, the goalkeeper, who replaced Duncan at the commencement of the second period, and Rothschild.

The first two periods of the game were well played, with the exception of some of Langlois' bad breaks, but in the third period the Sudbury team repeatedly turned on Referee Sproule of Toronto and Judge of Play Stoddart of North Bay, on whom they used their fists freely.

By the loss of to-night's game Sudbury is out of the running in the N. O. H. A. series, and the Soo will now have to play Timmins. The date for this game has not been settled.

Albert College And Use of Fair Grounds

At the city council meeting last evening Mayor Hanna read the following communication relative to the agricultural grounds—

Re Agricultural Grounds

Dear Mr. Mayor—Your favor of the 9th has been overlooked until to-day. The Albert College Board is desirous of working with the City Council, and the citizens generally towards preserving the Old Agricultural Grounds for Fair purposes and recreation purposes so long as this does not interfere with their plans for the new College, and personally I am hopeful the College may some day be able to turn these grounds back to the City, if it wishes to retain these grounds for these purposes.

After we acquired the grounds we made a deal with Mr. Terwilligar to look after them for a number of years. When there seemed to be so much dissatisfaction with Mr. Terwilligar we paid him $850 last year to release us of his agreement. We collected rent last year about $600. In reference to your previous inquiry my suggestion to you was that we give the city the control of the grounds for the years 1921 and 1922 on condition they pay us the difference between what we paid Mr. Terwilligar, and what we received last year i.e. about $250 remit our 1920 taxes, if we paid any on these grounds, pay our 1920 insurance and any expense we might have put on the grounds in 1920 which will not be heavy. The city would keep the buildings insured, remit any taxes on these grounds, leave them in as good a condition as they received them. If the city put on any buildings of a permanent nature they would have the privilege of removing them.

This proposition is subject to confirmation by the Albert College Board which I think will be perfectly satisfactory to them.

Yours Sincerely
H. W. ACKERMAN.

Called by Death

THOMAS N. SYMONS

After a brief illness, Mr. Thomas N. Symons passed away this morning at the family residence, 24 Yeomans St., this city. Deceased was a well known citizen and highly respected for his many manly traits of character. In the year 1814 Mr. Symons was born in England, being the son of the late Mr. Wm. Symons. When a lad he came to Canada and since the age of seven years—or for 70 years—he had been a resident of this city. He was a brewer by occupation. In religion he was an Anglican, being a member of Christ Church, and in politics a Conservative. An aged widow and a family of four sons and six daughters survive. The sons are William, Walter, Samuel and John, all of this city, and the daughters are Mrs. J. Marshall, Bridgeburg, Mrs. R. Palos, Buffalo, Mrs. J. Stark, Lindsay, Mrs. Joshua Canning, Mrs. G. Wardhaugh, and Mrs. E. Whalen, of this city. To the bereaved will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of a large circle of friends.

Home Made Bread

Home made bread is without doubt the cheapest and most healthful food that can be produced for human consumption. It is the most completely digested solid food in the world. over 90% of it being transformed into health and strength. It yields nearly twice as much nourishment as rice or potatoes. and is ten times as nourishing as an equal value of meat. No bread is more truly wholesome or more perfectly satisfactory than that baked at home in which Royal Yeast Cakes are used.

Scientists have discovered a new and truly wonderful use for Royal Yeast Cakes Physicians are prescribing it with remarkable success for conditions attributed to poor blood conditions. Soak a cake of Royal Yeast for half an hour in a cup of luke-warm water with one teaspoon sugar Then stir well and strain once or twice through muslin and drink the liquid. BETTER results will be obtained by allowing it to soak over night and drinking half an hour before breakfast. Repeat as often as desired. Send name and address for free booklet entitled "Royal Yeast for Better Health."

A SOLEMN REFERENDUM

If we took a nation-wide referendum on the question "what is the cleanest, most nutritious breakfast cereal in the world," there is no doubt that the verdict would be in favor of Shredded Wheat Biscuit. It is something more than a breakfast cereal. It is a substitute for meat, eggs and potatoes for any meal, much more nutritious and costs much less.

Two Biscuits with hot milk make a warm, nourishing meal at a cost of a few cents—the most real food for the least money.

Most of Those Used on This Continent Are Cultivated.

Half of America's annual oyster crop is derived from planted (i.e. cultivated) beds. In New England 90 per cent. is thus grown.

Up to forty years ago the oyster supply was obtained almost wholly from natural beds, which covered areas of such enormous extent that they were regarded as inexhaustible. Reckless overfishing destroyed most of them. It was the same old story. The beds were stripped until not enough adult oysters were left to furnish spawn.

As time goes on, we shall become dependent to a steadily greater extent upon planted oysters. Practically no oysters are left in the waters of New Hampshire and Maine, where once they were abundant. The beds of Massachusetts are largely depleted. On the Connecticut coast only two natural beds of importance remain—one at the mouth of New Haven harbor and the other near Bridgeport. There are few in New York waters, and even in Chesapeake Bay extensive areas formerly productive of oysters are now barren.

Nevertheless, Chesapeake Bay produces more oysters than any other body of water in the world. Hence it comes about that Virginia and Maryland lead the United States in this respect, with an output of more than 5,000,000 bushels each annually. The total yearly oyster crop of this country is about 30,000,000 bushels, for which the fishermen get fifty cents a bushel.

There are oyster beds all the way from Cape Cod to Mexico. But the bivalves are not found in the open sea. They are brackish-water animals and make their homes in coves, bays, estuaries and the mouths of rivers.

In such situations oysters will establish their towns (which we call beds) whenever they can find something solid on which to grow. A muddy bottom would swallow them up. Flourishing beds have been known to be started by shipwrecks, and very productive ones by ashes or other material thrown overboard from vessels.

Oysters are of two sexes, male and female. Formerly a theory was held to the effect that they might change their sex from year to year, a gentleman bivalve becoming a lady, and then perhaps switching back again. But this idea has been exploded.

Can Snakes Be Charmed?

Allen S. Williams, director of the Reptile Study Society of America, says that there is no truth in the idea that fear of snakes is hereditary in human beings. Children like snakes and women are less afraid of them than men.

The Scientific American quotes Mr. Williams as saying that snakes have no ear for music. He has tried every sort on them, from a tin whistle to a symphony orchestra, and has used every kind of snake, without getting a response. On one occasion he surrounded a violinist with 200 snakes, and they showed no appreciation of his playing.

This is dead against a long-accepted belief. Fakirs in India and Egypt are supposed to "charm" snakes with the music of a reed whistle. In India the serpent used is ordinarily the hooded cobra, which erects its head from a basket and sways head and body back and forth responsively to the rhythm of the music.

Mr. Williams, believes, however, that in reality the snake is paying no attention to the music. It sways in response to the swaying movements of the man who plays on the whistle—possibly imaging that his movements—possibly imagining that his movements threaten it in some way.

Ancient Grandeur In the Kitchen.

In the days when the Roman Empire was at its height, if you went into the culinary department of an elegant establishment you would find saucepans lined with silver and nails of various descriptions richly inlaid with arbesques in silver, and shovels handsomely and intricately carved. Egg frames, too, that would cook 20 eggs at once, and pastry moulds shaped like shells, and an infinite assortment of grid-irons, frying-pans, cheese-graters and tart-dishes. The toilet tables of the Roman women were well supplied in the same lavish fashion. Ivory combs, perfumes, cosmetics, hair-pins, even an elaborate hair net of gold, have been recently unearthed. Safety pins, too, which have for a long time been considered a strictly modern invention, would be found on their tables. But they had no brushes nor any glass mirror, the kind they used being of silver or other white metals.

To Recognize Real Mahogany.

You buy a "mahogany" table, pay a good price for it, and then begin to wonder whether it is made of real mahogany. Red gum can be made to look so much like mahogany and circassian walnut that it is often sold for one or the other of these woods.

How can you tell the difference between the false and the true? By looking at the cross-grain, says Popular Science. If you can see the pores with the naked eye, then you will know that all is well. If you can't see the pores without the aid of a magnifying glass, then you will know that you are in the presence of red gum.

Verbal Duel Between Premier And Leader of Opposition

MACKENZIE KING CALLS THE MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT USURPERS AND SAYS THERE SHOULD BE DISSOLUTION AND ELECTION—PREMIER MEIGHEN DISSECTS SPEECH OF HIS OPPONENT.

The first duel of the Parliamentary session between the new Prime Minister and the new Leader of the Opposition took place on Tuesday last, with the advantage decidedly against the latter.

The speech of Mr. King may be summed up in a few sentences. In effect, he said he had made up his mind that the Government were usurping the powers of government and that there should be an appeal to the people. He refused to discuss any question but that. The reasons he advanced in support of this view were largely of a constitutional character. He did not criticize the Government or its predecessor for its acts; he did not contend that the country is suffering in any material sense from the acts of the Government; he did not claim that he could do better; he offered no hope of better things for the country; he propounded no policy upon which the electors should be asked to decide; he raised no issues; All questions affecting the country were in his mind subordinate to his selfish idea that there should be an election. He was silent on the most important—the most vitally important—question before the people to-day, that of the tremendous discount of our dollar in the United States; he was silent about his tariff policy; he had nothing to say about financial conditions of the country or the methods of taxation. In a word, his was the speech of a demagogue and the very reverse of the speech of a statesman anxious to help his country in these tremendously difficult times. People get terribly tired of listening to rhetorical jargon about constitutional questions. What they want is light and leading—not stuff and nonsense, and until Mr. Mackenzie King plants his feet on the earth, curbs his tongue to practical things and propounds policies which are understandable and not variable as the wind, he will not get very far.

Many Precedents

The Prime Minister—admittedly the best debater in parliament—was at his best in reply. He quickly demolished Mr. King's technical constitutional argument by citing precedent after precedent of parties that remained in office after changes had taken place in the leadership. He instanced the appointment of Sir John Abbott, as Prime Minister, after the death of Sir John MacDonald, and later of Sir John Thompson, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, without appeal to the people. He showed that when Mr. Fielding resigned the post of Prime Minister of Nova Scotia, to become Dominion Finance Minister, Mr. Murray stepped into the Premiership of that province and carried on without an appeal to the people. He established that similar action was followed when Mr. Hardy became Prime Minister of Ontario; when Mr. Martin became Premier of Saskatchewan, and when Mr. Stewart became Premier of Alberta, no appeal to the people being made in any of these instances. He argued that his Government is the logical successor of the Union Government; that its policies did not vary one jot or tittle from those of that Government, and that it is just as much entitled to remain in office as the other governments he had referred to.

The War Mandate

"The Leader of the Opposition" said the Premier, "says Unionist Government had no mandate beyond the period of the war and, because of that, we, its successors, have no right to touch the tariff; yet, at the last session of parliament, he reproached the Government for not revising the tariff then and demanded an immediate revision. In a nutshell, the only issue raised by Mr. King is that he should be in my shoes and I should be in his."

"If" continued the Premier "a big issue does arise, if it it clear-cut and unmistakeable, if it goes to the very fundamentals of public policy, then there is justification for a government laying down the reins of office which the people have entrusted to them, even before the full maturity of its term. But until that does arise, and in that form, while a government maintains the confidence of the country, it is recreant to its duty to depart from office and abandon the trust reposed in it and be stampeded by the voice of a party press or a party leader, whoever he may be."

False Colors

Dealing with Mr. King's attitude on the tariff and his actions in by-elections, the Premier was merciless in his attack. He scored him for sailing under false colors and changing his tactics to meet every passing breeze; he showed how he supported a candidate in Yale who advocated protection on foodstuffs, and in Peterborough supported a candidate who declared that foodstuffs must be made free of customs duty. He described how in his western tour Mr. King told the farmers that his policy was practically the same as theirs, while in Peterborough Mr. King supported a candidate who pronounced in favor of protection to industries. Turning to the farmer members of Parliament, led by Dr. Michael Clark in the absence of Mr. Crerar, he said, "I ask attention to these matters from my honorable friend from Red Deer and all those who sit round him whose affections are sought to be entwined by the honorable gentleman opposite, and I tell them that the tactics of the Leader of the Opposition are to catch the low tariff vote in certain parts of Canada and the high tariff vote in other parts of Canada, so that by the numerical addition of the two he may try to exalt himself to power. No human being in this Dominion knows where the Leader of the Opposition stands on this tariff issue and he is determined that no human being shall ever know."

Tariff The Issue

The Prime Minister concluded his speech with the following significant statements.

"My last word is this. In the past few months since I have had the honor to discharge to the best of my ability the responsibility that now is mine, I have missed no opportunity to obtain from the leaders of honorable gentlemen opposite specific and clear statements of their position on the issue which they say should be submitted to this country for decision. I regret to say that I have failed. In the speech from the Throne that great paramount issue—the tariff, is placed before this House for discussion. The position of the Government on that great issue is unmistakeably clear and the opportunity is given to honorable gentlemen opposite, of all shades of opinion and from all parts of the country, to be equally frank in their statement of their position. Let them first discharge that duty and, until they do so, let them not say that there is anything for the country to decide."

It is now squarely up to Mr. King to tell definitely and without qualification where he stands on the tariff, or take the consequence of being classified as a pussy-footer.

BALTIMORE FARMER KILLED BY FALL FROM APPLE TREE

Cobourg, Ont., 23.—While pruning in Mr. Wm. Taylor's orchard at Baltimore on Saturday, Mr. James Butters fell from an apple tree and was fatally injured. He was found in an unconscious condition and brought to the General Hospital here, but he never regained consciousness, passing away about six o'clock yesterday evening.

Deceased was in his 72nd year and had led a prosperous farming life, but had been living retired since last Spring. He was an active worker in the Presbyterian Church. His wife predeceased him eighteen years ago. A family of eight children survive.

'I Loved my Brother' Sobs Boy at Sudbury Murder Trial

DELPHAS NADRU TELLS STORY OF THE KILLING OF HIS BROTHER—SAYS GUN EXPLODED—"I DIDN'T DO IT INTENTIONALLY," HE CRIES, AND WHOLE COURT AFFECTED.

SUDBURY, Feb. 22.—Delphas Nadru, diminutive, shy, looking at least four years younger than his 14 years, stood in the witness box at the supreme court here today and told amid tears and sobs how he had shot his elder brother, Leon, after a brother's quarrel.

It was a touching scene. It is a rare thing that a lad so young should face the supreme court for murder, let alone having murdered his own brother. The lad was continually in tears as he told in a clear, but sometimes indistinct voice, of the tragedy. Gradually the lad's great sorrow had its effect on the jurors and, and later on the whole court room. When the boy's direct examination was concluded there was hardly a dry eye in the court.

The mother of the two boys was not called. There were only four witnesses for the prosecution, Constable Maloney, Espanola, the two doctors and Charlie St. Onge, a playmate of the Nadru boys and who was a witness of the tragedy.

The latter's testimony dealt in detail with the quarrel. Coming to the point of the shooting, he said he was watching Leon Nadru, who held a stove lifter in his hands and seemed about to hurl it at the mother. After some oaths he had hurled it at her, then he heard the gun go off. Prior to that he said Delphas had pointed a knife at Leon.

The accused lad made light of the quarrel which he had with his brother prior to the shooting. He said he was going out to hunt with a playmate when he came out of the room with the gun. Amid tears he gulped out, "It exploded."

"I didn't do it intentionally," he sobbed, and later, "I didn't mean to do any harm. I loved my brother," while later again he said that when he picked up the rifle it exploded.

Woman Acquitted Of Arson Charge

MRS. LARUSH, OF LAKEFIELD IS ACQUITTED AT PETERBORO

Peterboro', Feb. 22.—On a charge of arson alleged to have been committed in the village of Warsaw on the night of November 16, 1920, Mrs. Rose Larush of Lakefield was tried before Judge Huycke in the County Court today and acquitted. The evidence showed that she had been in her vacant house in Warsaw a short time before it was discovered to be in flames.

After hearing the argument of C. R. Widdifield for the defence, and G. W. Hatton for the prosecution, Judge Huycke proceeded immediately to give his decision in which he dismissed the charge and acquitted Mrs. Larush. His Honor declared that the written statement submitted by Deputy Fire Marshal L. J. Bishop had been improperly procured, and that the Crown's case would have been strengthened had the alleged confession been omitted. Judge Huycke stated that Mr. Bishop had no business in approaching Mrs. Larush as he did.

Ruling out that part of the Crown's evidence, Judge Huycke said that there remained the two statements made by Mrs. Larush, one to Hunter the liverystable keeper, and the other to Peacock, the hotelman. His Honor said that he was not quite satisfied with the explanation the defendant had given of these two incidents, but that the deficiency was not enough to warrant conviction on the very serious charge of arson.

Said Mrs. Trumble Had Gun in Hand

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Windsor, Feb. 23.—That Mrs. Trumble, wife of Beverley Trumble had a gun in her hand after her husband was shot was the admission of Jack Bannan, on cross examination to-day at the trial of Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin for manslaughter in connection with the death of Beverley Trumble, proprietor of the Chappell House in November last. Mrs. Trumble in giving evidence yesterday declared that her husband had no gun when he was shot by Spracklin. Bannan's statement to this effect was drawn from him by R. L. Brackin, counsel for defendant. In his main evidence, Bannan had merely repeated his story as given at the preliminary investigation. Mr. Brackin on cross-examination this morning said to witness "after you went into the dining room leading from the hall into the private dining room you say you saw Trumble and that he said to you 'I am shot', you then saw Mrs. Trumble. Did Mrs. Trumble have a gun in her hands? "Yes, sir" said the witness.

Important evidence was given by Mark Seaton, County Constable, attached to Spracklin's squad who was with the pastor on the night of the shooting. He declared that when he entered the room where the shooting had taken place he saw Trumble lying on the floor. He distinctly saw a revolver fastened to Trumble's left side. He also testified that a revolver was lying beside him.

DEAN OF WESTMINSTER WOULD KEEP COLORS

Kingston, Feb. 22.—Major Riordan, formerly commanding officer of the 22nd Battery, was in the city for the purpose of conferring regarding the final disposition of the colors of the battery given by the Army and Navy Veterans and citizens in 1915. The colors of the 22nd Battery were the first colors to be placed in Westminster Abbey from a colony, and they were the only Kingston colors placed in the Abbey. In view of this fact, the Dean of Westminster has expressed a wish to have the colors given a permanent place in that building. Major Riordan is inclined to concede the request.

Harry's Great Labor Of Love For Veterans

RAISED OVER HALF A MILLION DOLLARS FOR MAIMED HEROES—WIFE HELPED.

London, Feb. 23.—Sir Harry Lauder has just returned from a four years' tour of all the British Dominions with the exception of India, "but including the United States."

New Zealand, he says, was perhaps the country that struck him most for its homeliness, but there was prevailing homeliness and welcome wherever the English tongue was spoken. South Africa had a slight tinge of the foreign element. Could he get a drink in America? Well, it was no use telling lies—(laughter) and he must at once answer: "Yes. But you could get anything you liked in America if you were prepared to pay for it, and in regard to whiskey "being prepared" meant £5 a bottle. In the United States there was a vast predominance of friendship for this country. There were rebels here as well as there, the difference being that here they could not speak out so much. The decent Irishman everywhere was persuaded that the present violence, damage, and murder were all wrong, and the reputable men were all for the consolidation of the British Empire.

Thanks to a regular life, added Sir Harry Lauder, being temperate in eating, drinking, smoking and sleeping, though his wife would say that his one smoke a day was a smoke all day, he felt as fit as at twenty-five. During his tour he had raised £115,000 for maimed British sailors and soldiers, and his wife had made £30,000 for the same cause by selling his photograph outside theatres and other places where he was appearing.

Belleville Speaker Heckled at Toronto

D. V. SINCLAIR BESTS INTERRUPTERS AT MASSEY HALL MEETING

(Toronto Globe)

Anti-prohibitionists made an attempt to disturb the mass meeting of the Dominion Alliance Convention in Massey Hall last evening, but although they seemed to be in considerable numbers, their efforts were half-hearted and futile. The only real outburst took place during the speech of Mr. Hughson Johnston of Windsor, when he declared that there were some men in that city who "had the spirit of a Spracklin and will fight to the last ditch." Loud "boos" came from the upper regions, but the speaker shouted back his defiance—"Shout till you are hoarse; I don't mind; we will fight fairly, and if we are licked we shall go down fighting."

From the opening of the meeting it was evident that there was a disturbing element present, which showed itself by talking and shuffling in the top gallery. When Mr. Charles E. Steele, the President rose to deliver his address, his remarks were punctuated by loud coughing and nose-blowing from the upper regions. The President, however, ignored these noises and proceeded with more vigor. A long-drawn-out "Oh——" greeted the spearker's statement that the present Government of Ontario was a "splendid Government."

"This country is worth fighting for," continued Mr. Steele amid jeers from the top gallery. "That's what I say, this country is worth fighting for," repeated the President in a defiant tone, which seemed to silence the disturbers.

"I have no excuse for fighting the liquor traffic except for the good of my fellow-men, and because I believe it to be nothing but a curse to the working man."

Mr. D. V. Sinclair of Belleville came in for some slight interruption, but he silenced his detractors by asking if there was any man in the audience who had been made a better citizen by indulgence in liquor let him stand up. No one stood up.

Mr. Sinclair then asked the audience to give one mighty shout of the word "Yes," which they were to put a cross against on the ballot paper. A contest of the "Yeses" and the "Noes" followed, but the "Noes" were outshouted, and their voices were drowned in the volume of voices of the affirmatives.

The Riverdale Band of the Salvation Army rendered a program of stirring music during the evening.

Condition and Experience Won Game For Collingwood

BELLEVILLE DEFEATED AT COLLINGWOOD BY NINE GOALS TO ONE — OLD-TIMERS PUT ONE OVER BELLEVILLE COLTS IN EXCITING GAME—HARD GAME ON STICKY ICE —BELLEVILLE HOCKEY PLAYERS DID THEIR BEST, BUT STRENUOUS GAME SATURDAY AT TORONTO AND MUCH TRAVELLING TOLD ON CONDITION.

(Staff Special)

COLLINGWOOD, Feb. 22.—Sharp at 8.15 p.m. the players were called to centre ice by Referee Lou Marsh. Play immediately centred at Belleville net. After two minutes' play Belcher scored the first counter for Collingwood and the play then turned toward the Collingwood goal, being fast and furious, with combination play on both sides, particularly on the part of Collingwood. Collingwood veterans jumped into the game hard from the start, and the second and third goals were secured by Belcher and Fryer respectively. Bill Green was cut over the right eye in checking his man and was off the ice for the remainder of the period. "Gunner" Arnott on the defence, Swayne at centre, and Boland in goal playing well. Fryer was penalized.

The ice was sticky.

At the end of the first period the score was 3-0 in favor of Collingwood.

SECOND PERIOD.

Bill Green came on again in the second period. Fern Weir was hurt on the head and Hagerman relieved him. "Soup" Goyer took a penalty for tripping, remaining off and Hagerman substituted for the second period. Fryer scored for Collingwood after three seconds' play in a general mix-up in front of Belleville goal. The second and third goals went to Collingwood in the second period. Belcher scored the fourth and final goal for Collingwood in this period. Belleville began playing better combination, but Pat Boland was weak in goal. Swayne passed to Weir and Belleville's first tally was scored. Fryer played a great game for Collingwood. Lou Marsh saw everything and was fair and impartial. At the end of the second period the score was 7 to 1 in favor of Collingwood.

THIRD PERIOD.

Burns was put off for loafing and the third period started fast, every man on both teams back-checking to a standstill. "Soup" Goyer still off, Hagerman taking his place for the remainder of the game. Burns in a clever speedy rush scored Collingwood's eighth goal. Bill Green made a great rush, but superior weight and better combination won the day. Fryer in a clean rush tipped the rubber in, making a neat sure goal. This made nine goals, being the last for Collingwood.

For the remainder of the game Belleville worked hard, using every ounce of strength, and played their men to the best advantage.

Bill Green starred every minute he was on the ice.

"Daw" Whelan played one of his best games.

Weir couldn't get going.

Hagerman was fine and Swayne played a grand game, speedy and checking all the way.

Fryer's plus his team's advantage in weight and knowledge of old-time dodges, won the game.

Belleville was game to the last. "Gunner" Arnott worked hard.

Lou Marsh was alert every minute, excepting when the eighth goal was scored, which to any unbiased spectator was a clear off-side.

The ice was in poor condition on account of weather conditions. The final score was 9 to 1.

The line-up:—

Collingwood—Goal, Cook; defence, Foulis and Belcher; centre, Woods; wings, Fryer and Walton; subs, Burns and Draper.

Belleville—Goal, Boland; defence, Goyer and Green; centre, Arnott; wings, Whelan and Weir; subs, Hagerman and Swayne.

Referee—Lou Marsh of Toronto.

Bolshevik Forces Massing Against Japanese

Special Despatch to the Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Harbin, Manchuria, Feb. 23.—Military operations by Russian Bolsheviki against Japanese forces in Siberia are believed to be foreshadowed by concentrations of Soviet troops in the eastern end of the country. There were fifty thousand Bolsheviki soldiers in Chita recently and are more said to be arriving at intervals. The units are declared to be proceeding to points further east, assembling principally at Primorsk district and along the manchurian frontier. While badly clothed and fed these soldiers are reported to be well armed and under severe discipline.

GUNMEN HAD BIG YEAR IN CITY DURING 1920

Gunmen had a big year in Toronto in 1920—the biggest they ever had.

There was an average of one hold-up every other day in the city spread over the year—or about 150 hold-ups.

This is a stratling increase over statistics of 1919, when the total number of highway robberies was ninety.

Highway robbery showed a high average all year. Much of this class of crime came in epidemics and in several cases five to eight cases were recorded in one night. With the aid of stolen automobiles the gunmen were able to do their work and make a quick getaway.

Asylum at Hamilton Partially Burned

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer,
Canadian Press, Limited.

Hamilton, Feb. 23.—Several more or less insane patients secured their liberty, but all of the five hundred inmates of Orchard House wing of the Ontario Hospital for the Insane escaped injury when that building was swept by flames at noon today. The asylum is situated on a high eminence and a heavy northwest wind is blowing. The fire brigade is fighting hard to save other buildings of the institution. Fire broke out on the top floor of the building and was discovered by attendants. The perfect organization of the staff and good discipline among the patients was responsible for the fact that there was apparently no loss of life. The patients were rushed into another building. The fire was under control at 1.30.

ENGLISH AS SHE IS GOING TO BE TAUGHT TO CHILDREN

Chicago, Feb. 22.—The expressions "it is me" and "he don't" are permissable for both school teachers and pupils in Cook county public schools under an opinion issued by Edward J. Toblin, superintendent of the county schools.

Superintendent Tobin said the correct form "it is I" sounds stilted and even egotistical and that it does no good to teach children forms of expression "outlawed by common usage and a sense of good form."

Lightfoot, and fled down the long road to the distant city of Hayesville that lay away in the valley like a great nest of glowworms in a glade of the leaves of darkness. And among those glowworms I knew that more than a hundred friends to me were beginning to go into sleep with deep affection in their hearts for that Robert Carruthers whom wicked Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, was about to steal from them. I wept as I turned my cherry through the back street and into the garage of my uncle, the General Robert. Then I paused. All was quiet in the house, and no light burned in the apartments of my beloved protector and relative. From the watch at my wrist I ascertained the hour to be half after 10 o'clock, and I knew that he was safely in cards at that club of Old Hickory, whose lists now bore the added one of another Robert Carruthers, man of honor and descendant of its founders. Also there was no light in the rear of the house in the apartment of that kind Kizzie, in whose affections I had made a large place. A dim light burned in the hall, and I knew that there I would find my faithful chocolate Bonbon sitting upon a chair by the great door asleep.

"It is hello there, good Bonbon," I greeted him.

"Howdy, Mr. Robert," he answered me by a very large smile, with very white teeth set in his face of extreme blackness. "The gen'l said to call him on the fome as soon as you come."

"That I will attend to from my apartment," I answered him and then ascended the wide dark stairway with feet which were as a weight to my ankles.

Very slowly I entered that apartment and turned on the bright light. All was in readiness for me, and on the small table under the glass case that contained that beflowered robe of state of the dead Grandmamma Carruthers stood a vase of very fresh and innocent young roses.

"I would that I could remain and fulfill the destiny of a woman of your house, Madam Grandmamma," I whispered to her lovely and smiling portrait on the wall opposite. "I am the last of the ladies Carruthers, but I have a forfeit of that destiny, and I must go out in the night again in man's attire to a death that will tear asunder the tender flesh that you have borne. Goodby!"

Then I made a commencement of a very rapid packing—in one of those bags which I had purchased from the kind gentleman in the city of New York—of what raiment I knew would be suitable for a man in very hurried traveling. I put into it the two suits of clothing for wear in the daytime, but I discarded all of my clothing for the pursuits of pleasure.

"You must make a great hurry, Thief Roberta, for it draws near midnight, and that is the hour that the train departs to the north," I cautioned my weeping self. "At that hour you go forth into the world alone."

And then what ensued?

Very suddenly I heard the noise of a car being drawn to the curb in front of the house and the rapid steps of a man's progress along the pavings of brick to the front door, at which he made a loud ringing. In not a moment was the good Bonbon at my door with a knocking.

"The governor is here to see you, Mr. Robert," he informed me.

"What shall you do, Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye?" I asked of myself. "How is it that you can be able to support the cold reproaches he will give to you while requiring that you stay to bring dishonor to your uncle, the General Robert? You are caught in a trap as is an animal."

And then, as I cowered there in my agony, very suddenly that terrible daredevil rose within me and gave to me a very strange counsel. As it was speaking to me my gaze was fixed upon the robe of state of the beautiful grandmamma.

"Very well, then, that great Gouverneur Faulkner can give his chastisement and lay his commands upon the beautiful and wicked Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, in proper person and not have the privilege of again addressing his faithful and devoted comrade Robert, who is dead. I, the Marquise Roberta of Grez and Bye, will accord to him an interview, and, in the language of this United States, it will be 'some' interview!" With which resolve I turned to make an answer to the faithful Bonbon at the door.

"Where awaits his excellency the Gouverneur Faulkner?" I questioned to him.

"In the hall at the bottom of the steps," he made reply to me.

"Attend him into the large drawing room for a waiting and make all of the lights to burn. Say to him that I will descend in a very small space of time," I commanded.

"Yes, sir," he made reply and departed.

OLIVE HAS SPLENDID PICTURE IN "THE FLAPPER"

That amusing period when the little pig-tailed girl reaches "The Flapper" stage of existence and tries to appear both romantic and sophisticated is the subject of Olive Thomas's new starring vehicle at Griffin's for the last time to-night.

"Olive Thomas is the most delightful little "flapper ever visualized. She romps through five fascinating reels of escapades of the most delicious nature first as a boarding school girl, then as a pretended "wicked woman of the world". The action of the story takes one from suny Florida to snow-skiing scenes in the North and Metropolitan life in the big cafes and hotels of New York. A capable cast of players supports Miss Thomas in the production.

A funny 2-reel Bringing Up Father comedy, Screen Snapshots showing famous screen stars at work and play, an interesting Burton Holmes Travelogue, and Eileen Percy in "The Third Eye" are also being screened on the same program.

LIVELY DOROTHY GISH COMEDY

Vivacious Dorothy Gish and her novel means of laugh-getting will be seen at Griffin's To-morrow to Saturday with a matinee Saturday, in a sprightly screen comedy, "Remodelling a Husband." The action has a domestic flavor to it, being the story of a maiden who married a flirt with the idea of making a one-woman man of him. But he failed to keep his eyes in the boat, and the result was misunderstanding and separation, until finally the young bride used her nimble wit and concocted a novel scheme of insuring their wedded bliss. James Rennie a prominent stage player though a newcomer to the cinema, is Miss Gish's leading man.

Vaudeville Movies showing a high-class vaudeville bill performing before the camera, a funny 2-reel Alice Howell comedy, George Seitz and Marguerite Courtot in "Pirate Gold" and a beautiful Outing Chester Travelogue have also been arranged for exhibition in addition to the feature offering.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

PROGRAM OF WORK (I)

The Program of Work Committee of the Chamber of Commerce has completed its labors for the time being and has laid before the directors and members an elaborate list of proposed activities that will provide a broad and comprehensive field for organized community endeavor.

This Program of Work is really the expressed desire of the members themselves. Some time ago each member was given a "suggestion" blank and was asked to answer the question: "What in your opinion is the thing of first importance that should be undertaken by the Chamber of Commerce?"

ONE THING AT A TIME.

To those inquiries a great variety of answers have been received. Some of the suggestions were not thought to be practical at the present stage. The fact that all things cannot be done at one time has been recognized in correlating and assembling these individual suggestions. Consequently, those suggestions which have occurred most frequently have been embodied in a series of ten planks which constitute the "Major Program of Work."

Certain other suggestions, of perhaps no less importance, but which represent the contribution of fewer persons or of the more advanced thinkers, have been included under the "Supplementary Program."

CITY ATTRACTIVENESS.

The Program of Work Committee has had several meetings and has given the most careful consideration to the suggestions made. There has also been an endeavor to incorporate in the program the recommendations of the special committee that reported upon the debate at the first open forum meeting this year on the "Attractiveness" of Belleville.

This Program of Work does not by any means cover all the anticipated activities of the Chamber of Commerce. Emergency problems, that cannot be anticipated at the present moment, will arise from time to time. These will be dealt with as occasion demands. There is, besides, the heavy regular routine work of the Chamber of Commerce such as taking care of correspondence, organizing and meeting with committees, preparing for public meetings, submitting press reports and co-operating with other public bodies in all kinds of movements, campaigns, appeals and community efforts.

The Major Program of Work is composed of ten highly important planks. Considerable work has already been done on two or three of these, notably the campaign to secure more direct railway connection between Belleville and Whitney. Two open forum meetings have already been held in the "Know Belleville" series with gratifying results.

GIVE FULL RIGHTS TO ADOPTED CHILD

Toronto, Feb. 22.—An adoption law is proposed for the Province of Ontario. In introducing such legislation to the Ontario Legislature yesterday Attorney-General W. E. Raney pointed out that up to the present there had been no such law on the statutes. The measure introduced yesterday will permit any person to adopt a child and make it to all intents and purposes his own, with rights of inheritance and all legal relationships.

In two other bills laid before the House the Attorney-General proposes to give Police Magistrates extended jurisdiction, the effect of which will be to permit the Government to appoint a County Police Magistrate without a requisition from the County Council and the other to provide for the appointment of shorthand reporters for Police Courts in cities.

LUNGMOTOR BRINGS LIFE TO NEW-BORN INFANT

Kitchener, Feb. 22.—Another young life was saved last night by the civic lungmotor. Twins were born to Mr. and Mrs. A. Turskot 158 King street east, a boy and a girl. The former was lifeless, and the attending physician, Dr. J. E. Hett, used artificial respiration for half an hour without success. He finally called Fire Chief Guerin to bring the civic lungmotor, and after twelve minutes' application the first spark of life manifested itself. Additional application for five minutes more brought the young child to life, and this morning he was doing as well as his young sister.

No fewer than six lives have been saved by the use of the lungmotor during the past twelve months. Dr. Hett, who advocates nationalization of the medical profession, declares every municipality should own a lungmotor.

Most of man's hero worship is wasted on himself.

The Orioles and Ramblers played a tie game the score being 1-1.

The Barbers and Bakers defeated the Canada Cement Company team by a score of 3 to 1.

The G.W.V.A. team demonstrated they can play hockey as good as they were to play the game at the front. They defeated the G.T.R. team by a score of 5 to 1.

Mr. Leo Barrett was the referee fulfilling that position in a most satisfactory manner.

Intercollegiate Games

It has been decided by the intercollegiate executive that Varsity will meet Queen's at Kingston on Friday night and Queen's juniors will go to Toronto to meet Varsity on Saturday afternoon with the return game at Kingston on Monday night. The return game in Toronto with the intermediates has not been decided on as yet.

VETS WIN FROM G.T.R.—5 TO 1.

At the Arena last evening between 9 and 10 p.m. the G. W. V. A. six defeated the Grand Trunk. Owing to the G. T. R. not having a complete team, the Veterans had to play 5 men, but were on the job with 8. During the first three minutes of play, Holway for the veterans' scored the first goal.

two games, the first with the bankers McElrath for the G. T. R. was the fastest man on their team, Hurley also showed up well. Before the gong sounded for the end of the first period Spider Rayfield scored and also Walt. Allore making the score 3-0 first period in favor of the Vets.

The second period opened as the first with the Vets playing all around the opponents goal. Jim Marshall, made a daring rush from defence, got through the G.T.R. line and made a shot on Baker, and tallied, this being the only score for the Veterans this period, the G.T.R. managed to get one shot past Loche in goal, period ending 4-1

The Vets came back strong as ever in the last period, with all the team that were allowed to play, Holway made a number of shots on Baker, and managed to get one past him this period. The Veterans are waiting patiently to meet the famous K.V.A. team of the Hydro Electric, it was rather disappointing last evening when the Vets, heard that the K.V.A. had cancelled their game. In the group that the Vets are playing namely Belleville Bank Boys, Grand Trunk Transportation and K.V.A. they have won and last evening the G.T.R. the score being 5- in each game. Come along K.V.A. and wind up this group.

The line up was as follows:

Veterans	position	G.T.R.
Loche	goal	Baker
Marshall and Holway	defence	McElrath and Churchill
Rayfield	centre	Hurley
Alexander and Allore	wings	McMurray and Phillips

Francis and Hay subs.

L. Barrett handled the game, there were no penalties.

MILLIONS KILLED IN ACTION

Wonderful news! Millions and millions of germs killed in action and thousands and thousands of victims relieved of bronchitis, asthma, coughs, and colds. There is great rejoicing in the fact that science has at last invented the world's surest death trap for germs—Buckley's Bronchitis Mixture. With the first dose this remedy gets right down to business, and never ceases in its destructive work until every trace of the disease is completely removed and the victim restored to normal health. Letters from all parts of Canada praising this wonderful mixture are literally pouring into headquarters. Read this letter:—"Years of suffering from that terrible affliction, bronchial asthma, ordered by all medical men to close my business in Montreal and go south to a warmer climate, but I noticed your ad. in the "Montreal Standard" for the above mixture and I said I would give one more trial to health before I leave my native town, and thank the good maker I did. My bronchial tubes are clear, the hacking cough has disappeared, the wheezing cough has ceased as if by magic, and all discomforts have gone since taking your wonderful mixture."—Herbert Corri, 417 McKay Street, Montreal. There is no reason whatever why you cannot be completely and speedily restored to health if you take this remedy. You are satisfied or the money is refunded, according to our guarantee. Don't delay. She Now Walks As Well as Ever

Mrs. Harper Gains 20 Pounds And Health Is Restored By Taking Tanlac

"When I began taking Tanlac I only weighed one hundred and eight pounds, but I now weigh one hundred and twenty-eight," said Mrs. S. Harper, of 90 Bond street, Toronto, Ont.

"Last year I had a case of influenza that was so bad I thought I was never going to get well. When I finally did get up I was in a terribly run-down condition. I suffered terribly from indigestion after every meal and had frequent attacks of dizziness.

"My feet hurt me so I could hardly walk and I had a hard time getting about. I couldn't sleep and got up every morning feeling all tired out. All my strength seemed to be gradually slipping away from me and I actually fell off from a hundred and forty-six pounds to a hundred and eight.

"But I took Tanlac on the suggestion of a friend and it's just wonderful the way it has relieved me of all my troubles. Two bottles put me in fine condition, but I took two more, just to be sure of clinching the good work. I have gained back twenty pounds of my lost weight, am strong and well, my feet no longer hurt me, I can walk anywhere I want to and do my work with ease and feel like a different person altogether. I think people are foolish to suffer when they can get Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store, and by the leading druggists in every town.

"VINDICTIVE HARSHNESS."

A young man suffering from paralysis of both hands was sentenced recently at St. Thomas to six months in jail for breach of the Ontario Temperance Act. Because of his helpless condition the governor of the jail refused to accept him without an attendant, and as nobody else could be secured his father volunteered to go to jail with him to wait upon him. Referring to this case the London Advertiser, which is a strong advocate of advanced temperance legislation, is moved to remark that "there appears to be a vindictive harshness some times in the administration of the O. T. A.," and to suggest that magistrates should be given more discretion than they have.

In this case the punishment falls not only on the guilty, whatever may have been the measure of his guilt, but on the innocent—on the father, whose reputation is that of a very respectable citizen, and on those who are depending on the father. Moreover, as The Advertiser points out, the offence for which both innocent and guilty are thus punished is one of a class created by statute.

It is a matter which should receive the attention of the friends of the Ontario Temperance Act. Such cases can only serve to bring discredit on the law.

OLD SONGS ARE NOT FORGOTTEN.

When men who are now old—way up in, let us say, the seventies or eighties—were little boys, they heard their grandfathers talk about the songs that used to please them better in their youth than the songs which their grandfathers had, in turn, heard their grandfathers talk about as the tuneful joy of their younger days, says a writer in the Pittsburgh Dispatch. A pretty old song, that, you will say. Aye, old—at least 150 years old, but good to this day; for who does not feel his heart glow when he hears a rollicking baritone "make the welkin ring" with:

SALLY IN OUR ALLEY.

Of all the girls that are so smart,
  There's none like pretty Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
  And she lives in our alley.
There's ne'er a lady in the land
  That's half so sweet as Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
  And she lives in our alley.

When she is by, I leave my work,
  I love her so sincerely;
My master comes like any Turk
  And bangs me most severely.
But let him bang, long as he will
  I'll bear it all for Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
  And she lives in our alley.

Of all the days are in the week,
  I dearly love but one day,
And that's the day that comes betwixt
  A Saturday and Monday;
For then I'm dressed all in my best,
  To walk around with Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
  And she lives in our alley.

When Christmas comes about again,
  Oh, then I shall have money;
I'll hoard it up, and box and all,
  I'll give it to my honey.
Oh, would it were ten thousand pounds,
  I'd give it all to Sally;
For she's the darling of my heart,
  And she lives in our alley.

My master said the neighbors all
  Make game for me and Sally;
And, but for her, I'd better be
  A slave and row a galley;
But when my seven long years are out—
  Oh, then I'll marry Sally!
And then, how happily we'll live—
  But not—not in our alley!

Sally in our Alley was the rage among the high and the low, the young and the old, in the days when Alexander Pope and Dean Swift lived and ruled the domain of letters. It was written by Henry Carey, the author and composer of God Save the King, and he was born in 1692.

Carey was a young man when he wrote the verses and composed the music of the song. For a while the song was neglected in the more exclusive circles, but he was the butt of much ridicule for having written it. But the tide of opinion veered the other way when Addison, the most classic writer of his age, pronounced the song "an excellent performance."

When the whole British nation was singing Sally in our Alley, Carey published an edition of it with a preface in which he told of its origin. He had one day seen a shoemaker's apprentice out for a holiday jaunt with his sweetheart; and so artless, innocent and tender were the actions of the young lovers that Carey decided to follow them around in their rambles.

The apprentice took the girl to puppet shows, treated her to a sight of Bedlam (the home of the insane), to a ride in "flying chairs," gave her a collation of buns, cheesecake, gammon of bacon, stuffed beef and bottled ale. Carey never got near enough to overhear much of the conversation, but he did learn that the girl's name was Sally and that they lived in the same street. Sally struck the poet as being a girl of as much modesty as beauty, and that her beau was deeply and honestly in love with her was apparent in every solicitous movement he made, as well as in his glances. She, too, seemed scarcely less taken with him, although she acted with more reserve.

Carey's songs, his humorous plays, his satires, his verses on the politics of the day—everything he wrote—became the great topic of talk almost everywhere. Why, he even gave the British their national anthem—God Save the King—and yet he could not obtain enough money to keep body and soul together comfortably.

Accordingly, one night, in 1743, while a group of men went past his home singing Sally in our Alley, and an audience in a theatre nearby was applauding one of his plays, he was seized with such a fit of melancholia that he determined to put an end to his wretched condition and killed himself with poison.

He had but shortly before founded a "fund for decayed musicians." None could have been more deserving of its ministrations than he. He was kind-hearted, generous and flawless in his social and civic relations. His sold monetary asset when he was found dead was a half-penny in one of his pockets.

CRISP COMMENT

Mackenzie King is calling for an election and hoping—to Gosh no one will hear him.

Toronto Globe evidently thinks that another election shake-up might shake out a leader acceptable to The Globe.

All athletes have their "off" days, and severe training has its reactions. Belleville hockey team had their off night in Collingwood, and the Old Men took full advantage of it.

'Eave 'arf a brick at the "I told you so" guy, and if he don't subside then tip over a building on him; for of all the pests permitted to pollute the society of decent men, "I told you so" is the rottenest.

The tail-end of the blizzard which swept New York City, Newfoundland, Manitoba and other frigid zone centres, touched Belleville gently Tuesday night, but the salubrious temperature of the Quinte banana belt took all the sting out of old Boreas.

Those "old men of Collingwood" must be Iron Men, judging from the trimming they handed Belleville's fast team. Our boys, however, have been pushed to the limit of endurance by frequent games and train trips, so it is not to be wondered that staleness developed, as indicated by the result of the game at Collingwood. With a week's rest and on equal terms with Collingwood, the result would have been different.

Collingwood hockey team had a week's rest and met a team stale from frequent games, much travelling and hotel sleeping, and it was easy, once the rattles started. Why in the name of common sense the Belleville boys were not given a week's rest and a sudden death game arranged in Toronto, with both teams meeting on an equal footing, is hard to understand, except from a commercial standpoint.

MORAL CLOTHES FOR WOMEN

New York World

The Philadelphia clergymen who have designed a "moral gown" for women's wear must be credited with an intelligent attitude on the question of the moral regulation of feminine attire. They have not limited their reform to laying down rules but have actually fashioned a model garment which is certified as conforming to all the specifications of modesty and propriety, even to the height of the waist and length of skirt. The ministerial modiste is something new in dress reform, but why not? If there are morals in clothes, are they not a proper subject for ecclesiastical supervision? The results of leaving the matter to the lay judgment of tailors untrained in moral regulation are only too apparent. But the ministers having exhibited their model moral gown, it remains to get women to adopt it. It may be well, as one of the clerical designers intimated, to obtain an approving word from Paris. An atelier establishment in the Rue de la Paix for the manufacture of moral costumes might help toward making them the mode. Luther did not see why the devil should have all the good tunes; why not utilize the arts of sinful dress making in popularizing pure clothes?

One of the novelists, referring to the hero of his books, says:

His countenance fell.
His heart sank.
His hair rose.
His eyes blazed.
His words burned.
His blood froze.

It appears, however, that he was able to pull himself together and marry the girl in the last chapter.

CITY AND COUNTRY

PURE FOOD INSPECTOR

Though there is a notice posted up in all Post Offices in the counties affected, yet, because few read the notices there, it is perhaps not generally known that the Department of Health, Ottawa have recently appointed an Inspector with office in the Standard Bank Chambers, Belleville, for the purpose of seeing that the provisions of the Food and Drug Act, are carried out. The district covered by Mr. Inspector Parker includes the counties of Durham, Frontenac, Hastings, Leeds, Lennox & Addington, Northumberland, Peterborough, Prince Edward, Victoria, and Haliburton. It is the desire of the Department that the public shall take full advantage of this opportunity to bring to the notice of the Inspector any cases of suspected adulteration of foodstuffs, for instance, if you think the milk you've purchased skimmed or watered, or the butter contains more than 16% water; if you think your honey, maple syrup or maple sugar are not absolutely pure; or in short if you suspect that any food or drug whatever is not up to the professed standard, just place your complaint in Mr. Parker's hands and the case will be investigated and if any adulteration is proved, will be prosecuted without cost to the informant, whose name will not be disclosed if a request to that effect is made. WANTED LIGHT ON SUBJECT

At a few minutes before 7 o'clock last evening pedestrians on Front street in passing ex-Alderman Robinsons dry goods store had their attention attracted by a boy who was in the inside lighting the gas lamps in the window also in the store. The police were informed of the occurrence with the result the lad who is but 8 years of age was taken in charge and handed over to the children's Shelter Authorities. Upon investigation it was ascertained the boy entered the store shortly before closing time and hid behind the counters. The cash register this morning had to be taken apart before it could be utilized as it had been put out of commission by the lad. This boy has been several times charged in children's court with theft and only last week was in trouble

Your Efficiency Depends on Your Eyes

Good Work needs good Eyesight, because as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so a man is no stronger than his weakest faculty. And now, when the quality of one's work will play such an important part in determining one's income, you owe it to yourself to keep your faculties alert—keen—fit for competition.

Don't wonder if your eyes are efficient. Have them examined and KNOW.

Rum-Running in Essex County

Special Despatch to the Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—Rum running in Essex county was a topic introduced at the convention this morning of the Ontario branch of the Dominion alliance. Rev. W. D. Mage of Essex was the first speaker. He declared that Long River front and high prices obtainable made it a day of opportunity for illicit trafficers and he said that it would go on until the people of Ontario on April 18th voted to end the supply. He said that home rule was a key to the situation. It was very easy to get liquor and running it over the border was merely a matter of avoiding the vigilance of officers. Wm. Delaney discussed similar conditions on Niagara frontier where he said bridges and foreigners made easy combination for illicit rum runners.

CENTRAL BUTTE, SASK.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for a number of years, and am pleased to recommend it as a blood purifier. I know it has no equal, as I used it for my boy. My neighbors and friends were surprised with the results; in fact, I do not think he would be alive to-day had it not been for the 'Medical Discovery.' I also keep it on hand for coughs, as it differs so from other cough medicines; instead of upsetting the stomach, as most cough syrups do, it is good for the stomach. Swore Trumble that Had No Revolver

CROWN WITNESSES SWORE THAT TRUMBLE HAD NO GUN WHEN SHOT BY SPRACKLIN

Windsor, Feb. 23.—For five hours this afternoon counsel for the prosecution in the trial of Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, Methodist pastor of Sandwich, charged with the slaying of Beverley Trumble last November, called witnesses to the stand in an effort to show that the license inspector had shot down Trumble in cold blood, that the shooting was unprovoked and that after he had fired the fatal shot Spracklin had left the hotel with his assistants without waiting to ascertain the seriousness of the wound which he had inflicted.

The testimony of Mrs. Trumble, the widow, was to the effect that on the morning of November 6, when her husband was shot by Spracklin, he had gone to open the door of the hotel in response to Spracklin's knock for admission. He had a hot water bottle in one hand and a cigarette in the other, Mrs. Trumble stated, and when he fell dying the cigarette was still between his fingers. He died half an hour after being shot, she said.

Immediately after the shooting Spracklin and his aides had left the Chappell House, she testified. On cross-examination she admitted that the hotel had been raided several times for liquor, but she did not know the number. To Mr. R. L. Brackin, counsel for the defense, she said she did not know that her husband carried a revolver belt.

Edward Smith, who was with Trumble the night he was shot, was the other principle witness. He denied that Trumble had a revolver, either at the time of the shooting or previously. He insisted that the shooting occurred when Trumble had several times asked Spracklin for his warrant in entering the hotel at such an hour." When the minister failed to show his authority and still persisted in trying to get into the hotel, Smith said, Trumble warned him that he "would get into trouble." Almost immediately after, the shot was fired, the witness said. Smith admitted fleeing to Detroit after the shooting.

Mrs. Lulu Trumble, when called to the stand, carried her younger child in her arms.

Sir William Mulock declared that she could not give evidence while holding the child, and the baby was finally surrendered to Hamilton Trumble, father of the dead man, who was sitting immediately behind the prisoner's box.

W. C. T. U. BUSY

A diversion from the regular order of meeting was held by the Y.W.C.T.U. at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. The object of holding the meeting at this hour was to enable the young women who are in business and whose time is limited, to enjoy a social hour at tea time, and also share in the good work done by the society. After an abundance of appetizing eatables had been a served a short program was given. Miss Georgia Miller, vice-president from St. Andrew's Church, occupied the chair. Brief devotional exercises were led by Miss Edna Farley, followed by reports of the different lines of work taken up by our local society. Two departments were emphasized: the need of literature and comfort bags among our sailors, and the very important work being done by the Travellers' Aid in Toronto. This work is carried on for the most part by money derived from Surprise Soap wrappers. It seems a small thing to save a soap wrapper, but when everyone helps it becomes worth while. The keynote of the meeting was the coming referendum and by their efforts and prayers our people are endeavoring to bring in a still brighter day for our fair province.

VOL. LIV. NO. 43. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1921. PRICE TWO CENTS

California Socialist Victim Of Bolshevik Brutality

WIFE DIED OF ILL-TREATMENT IN RUSSIAN PRISON—CONFINED IN DARK, DAMP, RAT-INFESTED CELLS — HER BLOOD ON HANDS OF LENINE AND TROTSKY.

Berlin, Feb. 5.—(By mail)—Bolshevik prison methods lack all elements of decency and civilization, says, M. Schwartz, California socialist and labor leader who with his wife was thrown into Bolshevist prisons in Moscow for four months after he had failed to voice approval of the Bolshevist government. His wife died of the effects of a hunger strike started while in prison, as he has made known in previous statements.

"My first two months in prison were the worst," Mr. Schwartz said after arriving in Berlin. "My wife, who could not speak a word of any language but English, was taken from me. I did not know whether she was in the same prison, or what had become of her. I could not get a word of satisfaction from any of the prison officials.

"There was a small peephole in the door of my cell which opened into the main corridor. This had a little slide over it and there was a sign in Russian warning the inmates of the cell that they would be placed in solitary confinement if they peeked out into the corridor.

"Many times a day footsteps passed the door. Sometimes there were light steps and I imagined women were passing. To the horror of other men in the cell with me, I occasionally moved the slide the least bit in the hope of getting a glimpse of my poor wife. I became bolder and bolder. The corridor was so dark it was difficult to recognize the people who were passing.

"Finally, in sheer desperation, I pushed the slide far back one day when light footsteps were audible. To my horror the eye of the guard almost touched mine. He opened the door and asked me if I could read Russian. I admitted I could and explained to him that my anxiety about my wife was responsible for the violation of regulations.

"I was immediately taken to a dark cell in the cellar. It was full of hungry rats. Water and sewer pipes ran all around the walls and there was so much gas that I felt I was choking. I began pounding on the door but the guard warned me noot to and threatened to put me into a still lower cell if I didn't keep quiet.

"At the end of three hours I was so badly overcome by the gas that I pounded on the door in desperation and asked to see the commissar who was in charge of the prison. The guard was apparently uneasy about my condition and called the commissar.

"I told the commissar my anxiety about my wife and asked him if he would not have peeped through the hole under the same conitdion. He was moved by my appeal and asked me if I would promise not to repeat the offense if he let me back into my old cell.

"You may be sure I promised, and I kept my promise. I had companions in my old cell and there weren't any rats and gas there. I can't tell you how horrible it is to be confined alone. Even if one's companions have no common language, human companionship makes a cell more endurable. Solitary confinement, such as my wife endured for two months, is the most horrible punishment that can be inflicted.

"Think of a cultivated, refined American woman being treated as she was by the Bolshevists! It is no wonder that her constitution was so undermined by her jail experience that she died shortly after we were released. But her blood is on the hands of Lenine and Trotszky and Chitcherin (Foreign Minister). She appealed to them repeatedly for a hearing and so did I. She finally effected our release by her hunger strike, but her strength was not sufficient to survive the awful agony she endured."

Ex-Minister of Labor Is Stricken Again

Eleven Members Who Supported Government are Dead or On Sick Beds

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—The government's majority will be very small indeed this session. Misfortunes in the shape of illness and death among the members have come, not singly, but in groups. By the death of Capt. Tom Wallace of West York the government has lost one of its most loyal supporters, and Hon. T. W. Crothers, former minister of labor, has suffered a second stroke, and is at the present time seriously ill. Of those who voted with the government last year, Rt. Hon. A. L. Sifton, Col. Harry McLeod and David Marshall have since died; Messrs. Loggie, Tremain, Harold, Richardson, Allen, McGregor are on the sick list and unpaired, Burnham has lost his seat. Sir Thomas White is busy on the Grand Trunk board of arbitration; Sir Herbert Ames and General Hepburn are overseas (also unpaired); Hon. A. K. Maclean, W. A. Buchanan and John Campbell have crossed the floor of the House.

Under the circumstances the government will be able to command but a narrow majority.

In the event of defeat it would be the duty of the Premier and his cabinet to resign and request the Governor-General to select his successor. It would then devolve upon Mr. King to form a cabinet and then appeal to the country.

He succeeded his father as keeper of the Gull Lighthouse, and served

Accept Allies' Decisions

London, Feb. 24.—Reenad Pasha, delegate of the Constantinople Government to the Near East Conference here speaking in the name of both his group and that of the Nationalists told Allied Conference at today's session that both factions of Turks would accept decisions of the Allies.

The attitude of the Turks made an excellent impression upon the conferees. Premier Briand of France declared after the sitting that the conference had gone a long way towards a settlement.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Hon. Howard Ferguson has moved that the provincial auditor be ordered to appear at the public accounts committee of the Legislature next Wednesday with all his books, vouchers and receipts regarding the expenditure of fifty thousand dollars to R. T. Harding in connection with the timber commission. Mr. Harding formerly represented the Ontario Government before the commission. J. W. Curry, K.C. was elected chairman of the public accounts committee.

Premier Drury Refuses

Toronto, Feb. 24.—That the United Farmers Labor Government should start a propaganda for Canadian made goods was one of the resolutions brought by the Associated Boards of Trade before Premier Drury and his ministers this morning when a deputation waited on them to present resolutions passed at the last meeting in Belleville. The premier in reply stated emphatically that the Ontario Government could not go into the scheme of propaganda for Canadian made goods. He said that the best propaganda and the only possible one was cheaper goods. "Why should we sell Canadian-made goods for more than United States made goods," said Premier Drury.

Mosher Praises Government Act

APPOINTMENT OF SENATOR MACDONALD PLEASES RAILWAY UNION HEAD.

Ottawa, February 23.—The attack on the Meighen Government by the St. John Standard for the appointment of J. A. Macdonald, of Shediac, N.B., as senator has brought forth a vigorous reply from A. R. Mosher, grand president of Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees of which organization Mr. Macdonald is a member. Mr. Mosher, praises the administration for its courage in making the appointment, and declares that a few more such "political blunders" will guarantee its perpetuity in office. Mr. Mosher's statement follows.

"The St. John Standard seems to acknowledge the fact that Senator Macdonald is a man of outstanding ability and character, but still maintains that it was a political blunder and an outrage that he was appointed. One must naturally ask if men of ability and character must take second place to political spellbinders. In my opinion, the Government has done well to show its independence in this matter, and it is a step in the right direction. The Government will have nothing to fear from those whose only objection is that they did not get the appointment themselves.

"A few such 'political blunders' as this will be the best guarantee of those responsible for Mr. Macdonald's appointment that they could have for their perpetuity in office. I feel satisfied that the unprejudiced and reasonable-minded citizens of the Maritime Provinces, including organized labor, will applaud the Government for this appointment. We need more men of Mr. Macdonald's outstanding ability in the councils of the nation.

"The Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees is proud to state that Hon. Senator Macdonald is a member of its organization. We back of him to the limit for the appointment and will back him and his friends to the limit in future. Ours is not a political organization and I do not claim to control the votes of the members of the Brotherhood, but I do want to assure those who made Mr. Macdonald a senator that [illegible] they have made for themselves true friends who will not forget to express their appreciation.

"Mr. Macdonald is a well-known business man and manufacturer and has been a true friend to labor. He has a great many labor and other powerful friends whom I know will join with me in resenting the attack made on him for apparently no other reason than that he is a friend of labor, a clean-living and capable business man and not a political spellbinder.

"The statement that he was born in Truro, N.S., is incorrect. He was born in Shediac, N.B., and has a home there at the present time."

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Delegates to the convention of the Ontario Retail Clothiers Section of the Retail Merchants Association of Canada yesterday at the King Edward Hotel were treated to a number of instructive talks on practical methods of advertising and the results obtained when properly suggested the general consensus of opinion was that newspaper advertising was productive of the most effective results. It was pointed out by several speakers that the action of many of the leading journals of Canada in eliminating from their pages advertising material of a questionable character had been the means of inducing many prospective advertisers to consider more seriously than ever before the real and practical value of newspaper advertising.

"Mr. W. Findlay dealt with the topic of "Clean Advertising" and the efforts of newspapers to suppress fraudulent advertising.

Spracklin Found Not Guilty

Windsor, Feb. 24.—After being out fifty-five minutes the jury brought in a verdict of "Not Guilty."

Spracklin Tells Story of Trumble Shooting

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Windsor, Feb. 24.—When court adjourned for lunch today the jury in the Spracklin case had heard the argument of Munroe Grier, Crown Prosecutor, as well as the counsel for the defence, R. L. Brackin. Chief Justice Mulock will charge the jury immediately after court resumes this afternoon and it is probable that a verdict will be returned before evening.

Mr. Brackin called the attention of the jury to the oft expressed hatred of Spracklin which Trumble had carried about with him and threats which Trumble had made as to what he would do to Spracklin. He pointed out that according to the evidence, Trumble, on the night of the shooting, after meeting Spracklin outside the hotel ran in to his living quarters after locking the door.

In order to convict Spracklin, said the lawyer, it would be necessary to disbelieve the evidence of five men, two of whom were friends of Trumble, and to accept the word of Mrs. Trumble. He asked if it was to be assumed that Trumble met his wife and spent ten minutes filling a water bottle when she knew his enemy was outside," "or are we to assume that he rushed to his own room to get his gun," asked the lawyer.

Mr. Brackin declared that two men had testified yesterday to the effect that Trumble went and got his gun.

"Yesterday," said the lawyer, "Mrs. Trumble kissed that sacred Book and swore to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth. She stood there and lied and lied and lied. But you could see light when she called Bannon a liar and denied the evidence of her husband's friends, Desippe and Morton, and said they were deserting her in her hour of need. What need, may I ask. Her need of corroboration of the tale she had told.

All these facts were beacons to guide the jury to their verdict, declared Mr. Brackin in his concluding remarks.

Windsor, Feb. 24.—Overshadowing in importance all other events connected with the trial was the appearance on the witness stand at to-night's session of Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin. Mr. Spracklin took the stand in his own defense in his trial before Chief Justice Sir William Mulock for the killing and slaying of Beverley Trumble, Sandwich hotel proprietor, on the morning of November 6, last.

Mr. Spracklin told the story of the affair from the beginning, his narrative becoming more tense as he went along. In describing what had occurred just preceding the firing of the fatal shot, he said: "I looked into Trumble's face and saw the expression there, and then I— —"

His voice, which up to this time had been steady and unemotional, became husky. He attemped to continue, but broke down, his vocal chords refusing to utter the words he would have said.

Then, after a short pause, his counsel, R. L. Brackin, asked gently:

"And then, what?"

"And then I pulled the trigger."

The words were spoken in a whisper, as though the minister himself would have deadened his ears against them.

Two Hours on Stand

Mr. Spracklin was on the stand for two hours when court adjourned at 6:30 p.m. His evidence throughout was much the same as that which he gave at the Coroner's inquest nearly three months ago, the only variation being that, whereas at the inquest he declared he hesitated before shooting, to-night he simply stated that he "looked at Trumble and pulled the trigger."

At the conclusion of the Mr. Spracklin's evidence, Mrs. Beverley Trumble was called by the prosecution in rebuttal. One witness, Jack Bannon, had stated during the afternoon that after the shooting he had seen a revolver in Mrs. Trumble's hand. This evidence Mrs. Trumble indignantly contradicted. The defense alleged that Mrs. Trumble had taken charge of the weapon. Mrs. Trumble declared: "If I had a gun that night there would have been another murder."

The Day's Developments

The important developments in the day's proceeding were: The death of Ernest Deslippe, one of the Crown's star witnesses this morning; the declaration of Jack Bannon, who was in the house at the time of the shooting that he saw Mrs. Trumble with a revolver in her hand immediately after the fatality; and the statement of Mark Heaton, Spracklin's aide, that he saw a revolver holster on Trumble's person as he was lying on the floor in a dying condition, and a revolver on the floor beside him. Both Bannon and Heaton were called as Crown witnesses, although Heaton was not examined by the Crown.

The evidence in the case has now all been heard. Tomorrow the counsel address the jury, and then there remains the Judge's charge. A verdict is expected by nightfall.

400th Anniversary of Arraignment of Luther

EIGHTY MILLION LUTHERANS AND OTHER PROTESTANTS WILL PARTICIPATE IN WORLD-WIDE CELEBRATION ON APRIL 17 OF FOUR HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY OF HISTORICAL EVENT.

New York, Feb. 23.—Eighty millions of Lutherans and innumerable other Protestants, it was announced here today by the National Lutheran Council, will participate in a world-wide celebration on April 17 of the 400th anniversary of the arraignment of Martin Luther before the Diet at Worms.

"When Luther nailed his ninety-five theses upon the door of the University of Wittenberg and refused to recant his alleged heresies despite the threat of excommunication," says the statement of the Council, "he helped to usher in modern religious and civil liberty. Denouncing as tyranny the enslavement of Christian conscience, the dauntless monk declared the Bible to be the only infallible rule of faith and practice and closed his defence with the words: 'There I stand. I can do naught otherwise. So help me God! Amen'."

The main purpose of the celebration, it is stated, is to obtain a clearer understanding of how Lutherans and Christians of other denominations throughout the world may become "more effective in bringing God's will to bear powerfully upon present unhappy world conditions." To this end, special congregational services will be held on Sunday, April 17, and at 4 p.m. on that day, the hour when Luther was summoned to confront his judges, all Christians are invited to read the scriptures, meditate and pray for "purity and unity of the Christian faith, effectiveness in all good work and the advancement of true Christian liberty, brotherhood and universal good will."

A message from the council, addressed to the Lutherans of every land, recommended the quadricentenary as "a fitting time to review the benefits inherited from Luther's unshakable utterances. The tribunal before which Luther appeared was the most imposing assemblage of church and state potentates that could have been gathered anywhere in the world at that time." The message continued:

"A century earlier John Ross appeared before such a body under very similar charges and was burned at the stake. Luther knew that but he went fearlessly forward to the test. He knew that his writings gave expression to the deepest yearnings of multitudes of pious souls among his countrymen. He had arrived at a new principle of religious authority. He definitely rejected all authority except the Word of God in matters of religion. With the dramatic scene at Worms, Luther burned all bridges behind him.

"The incident contributed another principle that is vital to the modern world: The principle of separate functions for Church and State; the only principle that guarantees freedom of conscience, right of private judgment and religious toleration.

"Times not yet born were listening. Thus the spirit of modern liberty was conceived in the first quarter of the 16th century in the rugged soul of a mediaeval monk. It was born in the last quarter of the eighteenth century on the Atlantic seaboard of the North American continent. And now, in this first quarter of the twentieth century by the grace of God it is coming to full maturity all over the world."

The program for the celebration will include, beside special gatherings in churches and halls by congregations, women's organizations, young people's societies and men's brotherhoods, other features such as Sunday School exercises, music of the Reformation period and street pageants. Large art posters and a quadricentenary handbook symbolizing Luther's work will be distributed.

Messages from Lutherans in every walk of life throughout the world will be read at most of the meetings. They will be received by the council here and, after being compiled will be sent broadcast to all churches. The messages will be confined to these topics: "The influence of Luther's stand at Worms, on subsequent individual, church and civil life. An estimate of the successes and failures of Protestantism and the reasons. The successes and failures of the Lutheran church and the reasons and the means by which Christianity may be made more effectual in its work for mankind."

Battle With Crook In Waldorf-Astoria

ALLEGED JEWELLERY THIEF CAUGHT AFTER REAL SCRAP

New York, Feb. 23.—After a rough and tumble fight with a detective which started in a bedroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and ended in the corridor of the sixth floor, William Baker was overpowered and today awaits arraignment on a charge of burglary.

A week-end theft of $1,000 worth of jewelry from a guest put the house detectives on the alert. Each floor was watched. Last night an officer stationed behind window curtains on the sixth floor saw Baker enter a room. He followed him. As the detective entered Baker thrust a revolver, masked by his pocket, into the former's ribs. The officer seized the man's arms. Then the bout began. Finally the sleuth got a headlock on, dragged his man out into the corridor, which was by this time full of excited guests. Help in the shape of another detective arrived and Baker quit struggling. He was almost unconscious.

Guests of several large hotels here who recently have been victimized by a mysterious burglar, were called to police headquarters today to see if they could identify Baber.

And then in my wickedness I began to commit a desecration on the memory of my beautiful and honored Grandmamma Carruthers. I walked to that glass case in which reposed that gown of the beautiful flowered silk and took it therefrom and laid it upon a chair above the soiled riding breeches of corduroy I had so lately discarded. I opened the carved wooden box on the table underneath and took from it the silver slippers and the stockings of silk, also the lace fan and the silver band for the hair. Thereupon I walked to my mirror and commenced to make a toilet of great care, but of a great rapidity.

My first action was to take down that lovelock and with the oil of roses to lay it in its accustomed place upon my cheek, which burned with a beautiful rose of shame and at the same moment with some other emotion that I did not understand, which emotion also made my eyes as bright as the night stars out in that Camp Heaven. The silver band held closely the rest of my mop and gave it the appearance of the very close coiffure which is the fashion of this day, and one very sweet young rose I put into it just above the curl with an effect of great and wicked beauty.

The coiffure having been accomplished, the rest of the toilet, from the slippers of the cloth of silver to the edge of fine old lace, now the color of rich cream, that rested upon my white arms and shoulders, was only a matter of a few moments, and then I stood away from my mirror and beheld myself therein.

"You are as beautiful as you are wicked, Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, but you go to your death in a manner befitting a grande dame of your ancient house of France, whose daughters once showed the rabble how to approach a guillotine costumed in magnificence. Descend for that cold knife to your heart!" And, so speaking, I picked up my fan and made my way through the hall to the halfway of the wide steps. At that point a commotion occurred.

"Lordee! It's the old lady come to ha'nt!" exclaimed my good Bonbon, and with a groan he fled into the darkness in the back regions of the house.

And it happened that his loud cry brought a response which came to me before I was quite in readiness for it. As I reached the last step of the wide staircase under the bright light I raised my eyes, and, behold, the Gouverneur Faulkner to whom I had descended for the purpose of mortal combat stood before me!

And was it that cruel and wicked and cold Gouverneur Faulkner who was to scourge me and keep me in the house of my uncle, the General Roberts, for a dishonor? It was not. Before me stood a tall man who was of a great paleness and a terrible fatigue also, covered with the dust of a long, hard ride, with eyes that were full of a fear, who stood and looked at me with not a word of any kind.

Suddenly I bowed my head and stretched out my bare arms, the one of which bore the red scar from the wound suffered for him, and, thus suppliant, I waited to receive the reproaches that were due to me from my gouverneur.

And for a long minute I waited and then again for another long period of time, and no word came to me. Then I raised my head.

For all women now in the world who have the love of a man in their hearts and for those unborn who will come into that possession I pray that they may be given the opportunity to plant in the hearts of those men of their desire the seed of a fine loyalty and service and comradeship and that they may some day look into his eyes and see that seed slowly expand into a great white flower of mate love as I beheld bloom for me in the eyes of my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner. Long we stood there and looked into the soul of each other and let the flower grow, drinking from our hearts and the veins of our bodies until at last it was fully open, and then I went with a love cry into his arms held out to me and pressed the heart of my body close against his own.

"I think my heart has always known, though my mind's eyes were blind. God, if I had lost you into that hell of war, you daredevil!" he whispered, and I tasted the salt of his tears on my lips.

"I am a lie!" I whispered back to him.

"You are—myself," he laughed through a sob, and then, while with his large warm hand he held my throat as a person does the stem of a flower, he pressed his lips into mine until they reached to the heart within me. In a moment with my hands I held him back from me.

"I must go, my beloved, even as I have said," I cried to him. "I cannot stay to my dishonor and to the rage and unhappiness my uncle, the General Robert, will experience when he discovers that a girl has cheated him in his great affection and generosity to her."

FOXBORO

Celebrate 40 th Anniversary

A very unique event took place in the Methodist church Foxboro on Tuesday evening, Jan. 15th when the W.M.S. and Mission Band united in celebrating the 40th anniversary of the organization of the first Auxiliary of the W.M.S. in Hamilton 40 years ago. A short but very pleasing programme was furnished by the Associate members and the Mission Band. After which a demonstration was given in tieing knots and first aid work by the boy scouts.

Mrs. Kemp, the President then came forward and in a very neat speech explained why we were holding this celebration and that the aim for this year of our W.M.S. from the Atlantic to the Pacific was to add 40,000 new members to our Society, 1,000 for every year of its organization. The centre of attraction was the 3 story birthday cake. A story for the Band the other for the associate members, and the large one for the Auxiliary, which was organized 38 years ago. She then proceeded to light the 40 candles and called Miss Mary Milar, the only charter member of our auxiliary to come forward and start the cutting of the cake by piercing it with a silver cake knife.

Mrs. John Grosell, sr., and Mrs. Byron Foster the next oldest in membership were calle dto the seat of honor at the table to assist Miss Miller in cutting the cake for serving, and the girls of the Mision Band carried the pieces of cake in silver baskets, coffee and sandwiches were also served and six new members and five new associate members were added to our auxiliary. It is needles to say that a very enjoyable evening was spent.

The weather continues very mild and spring like.

The Rev. S. A. Kemp of Foxboro, a former pastor of Cannifton circuit, occupied the pulpit of Gilead church on Sunday last, and delivered a very impressive sermon to an attentive congregation.

Mrs. Floyd Morden of Melrose is stopping with her parents at present, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lawrenson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hodgen, Carmel, spent Sunday with the latter's parents Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Yorke on Sunday.

ROD AND GUN

"Camping Out Along The C.P.R." is the title of a splendidly illustrated story of F. V. Williams in the March issue of Rod and Gun in Canada. Bonneycastle Dale tells of his experience with snakes and eagles in various parts of Canada in this issue. In addition to these two stories there are six others of equal interest by such well-known Nature writers as George R. Belton, Harry M. Moore, Harry W. Laughy and E. T. Martin. The firearms permit law is dealt with editorially and in strong appeal to the sportsman by Ira Leighley entitled "An Undigested and Indigestible Law." This issue contains the final trapping department until the autumn and wil be read with interest along with the other departments of guns and fishing which are up to their usual high standard. Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

TEACHERS ARE RADICAL

One of the Problems Now Faced by France.

Throughout the world, and in Europe particularly, a bitter struggle rages within the ranks of Socialists.

Are you for or against the Russian Revolution, Bolshevism, Lenin and Trotzky, and the Third (Moscow) International?

This is the question that will not down. Now the Conservative Socialists seem to be gaining. Now the extremists.

The latter appear to be supported by many of the "intellectual" forces within the movement.

Even the Public School Teachers' Federation in France is reported to be on the extremist side. More than one school teacher has declared publicly he is ready to co-operate with the party that is prepared for revolution, not of words, but of acts.

In their organ, L'Ecole Emancipee (the Freed School), they declare: "The present social system is trembling on its foundation. After having caused the death of fifteen million men in order to preserve itself, it is unable to check itself in its career of crime, and is forced to continue murdering our fellowmen. Nothing can save the system. The sullen anger which rumbles through the masses of the world presages great events."

A professor in a Paris secondary school urges that France should place itself at the service of the Bolsheviki, "our guides, our apostles, our martyrs."

Anatole France, the famous French author and Socialist, sees something new coming from Russia. There is all the travail, he thinks, and strength and agony of something great being born there. Nothing doomed to early death could rouse such a stir of emotion throughout the entire world. He admits tremendous faults and lacks, elemental crudenesses there. But to him those are in the nature of newly-born great things.

Romain Rolland has written a "letter to teachers" endorsing Bolshevist theories and policies.

Henri Barlusse, author of the realistic war story "Le Feu," deplores, in the Paris Socialist daily, L'Humanite, the schisms in the Socialist ranks, and makes an impassioned appeal against "Reform" and in favor of extreme measures.

"We see our comrades,' he says, "clouded in the dust of conflict, losing their unity and dispersing their efforts."

The duty of every Socialist, according to Barlusse, is as clear as it is imperative. "All true Socialists should rally without reservation to the extremists, because the extremists are right."

The Communist system, in this French writer's opinion, is logical, certain, and just in its broad outlines. It reconciles better than anyone has hitherto imagined the rights of the individual with the rights of the community. It is the sincerest expression of Socialism, of anti-Capitalism. The Communists are entitled to employ arbitrary measures, so long as they are absolutely true to the doctrine itself. The men in charge at Moscow have done right in maintaining by force for three years a dictatorship of reason. Every revolution involves the employment of force. What magic, supernatural omniscience is there entitled to decree arbitrarily the period of time beyond which insistence upon a new order ceases to be just?

"Those men at Moscow," declares Barlusse, "are right in saying that, if we are to destroy the classes, we must have a dictatorship of the proletariat. It is criminal folly to imagine that any other way exists by which we can bring into existence the social equality of all."

As for reform, Barlusse says the men at Moscow are right in their implacable hostility.

"Reformism," he declares, "is the only venom fatal to Socialism—it is Socialism's specific poison. We corrupt the minds of those who seek to change the present social system when we make them believe that such a vast and complete transformation can be brought about by diplomatic arrangements enabling the old regime to survive, to maintain its privileges, to continue intact. An honest man has no right to let his mind dwell on any plan by which abuses are to receive compensations and guarantees. These half-way schemes are mere stage reforms deceiving public opinion, while things remain the same as ever behind the scenes and new cataclysms are on the way. This is what occurred during the half-century of 'progressive' government which began in 1870 and terminated with 1914. In spite of their pretentious titles, the League of Nations, our various nationalization projects, and the International Bureau of Labor are hopelessly conservative institutions."

At the same time that these opinions are being expressed, actual votes among French Labor point to a tendency away from rather than towards extremes.

Commentators in such conservative journals as the Revue des deux Mondes, Revue Hebdomadaire, and Les Annales do not take unreserved comfort from such conservative tendencies. For, they say, even the most conservative of Socialists are bent on the overthrow of the present basis of society. It is all a matter of expediency, as to when is the right time to attempt to make the change.

"Mrs. H. Prussia."

Democracy is making slow but certain progress in Germany. A woman recently presented a letter at a post office in Berlin for registration. It was addressed to "Her Royal Highness Princess Henry of Prussia."

"There are no royal highnesses in Germany now," said the official in charge. "The letter is therefore incorrectly addressed and cannot be accepted for registration."

The anxious woman inquired what would be considered the correct designation of the person she had indicated. "Mrs. Henry Prussia," was the official reply.

New Yorkers eat 2,500,000 loaves of bread daily and waste 1,000,000 loaves weekly, declared Mrs. Louis Reed Welzmiller, deputy markets commissioner at a meeting of housewives and wholesale bakers.

GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

SPORTING NEWS

* * * *

HERE THERE AND EVERYWHERE

Says Lou Marsh in the Toronto Star:

"Belleville's good intermediate team after breezing through all opposition on the eastern end of the O.H.A. loop and putting Varsity II. out of the race, backed into the 'old men' of Collingwood Tuesday night in the first game in the semi-finals, and then backed out again facing the task of overcoming a eight-goal lead the Shipbuilders gathered for the return game in Belleville Friday night. A whole lot of people win right in Collingwood, but their thoughts were given a rude jolt by Collingwood's apparently easy win. Knowing that Collingwood can play just as well on foreign ice as they can at home, it looks as if "Rabbi" Fryer and the rest of the 'old men' will again reach the finals and we wouldn't be surprised either if they won their fourth consecutive championship. They're wonders. Collingwood always looked best. They scored three goals in the first period, four in the second, and twoo in the last. Belleville landed their loner in the second period. The game was fast and clean. Collingwood, though they are veterans compared to the Belleville players, had just as much speed, but it was their hockey knowledge that stood out for them and gave them a big edge over their opponents."

BELEVILLE'S OFF NIGHT.

Toronto Star: From hero to hobo in three days, is a book Pat Boland, the Belleville goal keeper might write. Saturday at Toronto he stood up against the Varsity fusilade and saved Belleville's bacon; Tuesday night at Collingwood, in an O.H.A. intermediate semi-final he went to pieces and Collingwood won 9 to 1. That gives them an eight goal lead to go to Belleville with, and they should go into the finals handily. Long shots which Boland should eat, drifted by Tuesday night and the entire Belleville team was away below par. Swayne, the kid sub, showed up best, and Whelan and Green were good, but the others, though they tried hard, could not get anywhere. The Collingwood team was going the best of the season. Everybody was on the top of his form. Burns the substitute, turned in a grand game; he got four goals, and was going big guns all night. The defence pair, Belcher and Foulis, and Cook in goal, played stellar hockey. It was a clean game; there were only three penalties.

HIGH SCHOOL, 1; ALBERT COLLEGE, 1

Last evening a very exciting game of hockey took place at the Arena between the High School senior team and the Albert College puck-chasers. Many spectators witnessed the game and much cheering took place. There was a slight controversy about the score, but the final and correct score was 1-1. Albert College, however, are under the strange hallucination that the score was 5-0, but four of those goals went in from behind the goal, (there were no nets) and thus they do not count. Also, Albert Armstrong scored once for the High School, but Albert College didn't want to count it. Guest, playing defence for Albert College, played a great game and upheld the honor of the College in a very able manner. "Army," for B.H.S., played a great game, also, and was by far the star player on the ice, showing clever stick handling as well as fast skating. McCullough, playing defence for B. H. S., was all over, following the puck wherever it went and puzzled the College youths a great deal. Hart, on wing, played a good game and showed that speed and clever stick-handling was much better than weight in a hockey game. Yeomans, on defence, was all that a hockey player should be, showing some clever stick handling in his most spectacular rushes. However, it was difficult for the B.H.S. players to score as they lacked that good team play that characterizes a champion hockey team.

In goal the B.H.S. team had a goal tender that deserves great credit. Frank stopped some very difficult shots that would have been sure goals with a less capable and inexperienced goal tender than himself. On the whole the B.H.S. team deserves great credit for the fine showing made, and when Hagerman and McGie turn out for the next game it's good-bye for Albert College.

The line-up:

Albert College—Goal, McLuskey; defence, Dies and Guest; wings, Merritt and Braden; centre, Atkinson.

B. H. S.—F. Hart; defence, Yeomans and McCullough; wings, P. Hart and Hurley; centre, Armstrong.

Echoes of Game at Collingwood

After Boland's brilliant playing against Varsity on Saturday last naturally something more was expected from him, but the fans were sorely disappointed. It is a cinch if Boland had played his usual game Belleville would have held the score down to three or four at the outside.

Bill Green was one of the best men on the ice at all times, if not the best His rushes were marvels of speed, and the way he carried that rubber was great. Although he was suffering a great deal with the bad cut in his head he played one of his best games.

Goyer sure had his off night Tuesday. He didn't seem alive to his business at all, checking only when forced, it seemed. Soup can usually be relied upon to stop some goals, but he was off color at Collingwood.

"Gunner" Arnott worked like a race horse all the time, showing great speed and never laying down on his job for a second. When replacing Green on defence during the last half of the first period "Gunner" stopped some sure looking goals, also making a number of rushes, only to lose the puck when at the Collingwood net. Luck was against "Gunner" Tuesday night.

"Daw" Whelan played a lightning game, playing his position, and yet being right after the puck. "Daw" is one great little back-checker, and is never afraid of size. Many favorable comments were heard on the neat stick handling and speed of "Daw." Many spectators apparently expected to see a slow moving team, but right there was where they were misinformed. The word had also gone north that Belleville had an exceptionally heavy forward line. So much for rumor.

Weir played a splendid game all the way through, although he was given a nasty crack on the head, which necessitated his taking a short rest Vern tackled 'em all, not singling out the "tiny" fellows either; but this class of players on the Collingwood team are few and far between, like the proverbial needle in the haystack

Hagerman played a whale of a game when on the ice, jumping right into his man, checking right and left, and keeping to the ice. For a junior he played exceptionally well.

Al. Swayne played a brilliant game surprising the members of the opposing team with his wonderful stick handling and neat skating. He was right there in the matter of speed.

To Swayne falls the credit of Belleville's only tally. In a clever move he shot the disc out in front of the Collingwood goal and Weir was right there to flop it in.

Collingwood has reason to be proud of their magnificent team, but interest lags in the town as the team has been so successful that the fans hardly think it worth the trouble to get out and see only a repetition each time. They play a perfect combination; are evenly balanced as to speed and their men are all in the weighty class without exception.

Cook in goal played a remarkable game, although not more than half a dozen shots were directed in that corner, so he really didn't have much to do, but he was on the alert whenever it seemed as if the net was threatened.

Fryer, one of the old timers and captain of the team, played centre, and he was a mountain of strength; but Weir and Swayne tackled him just the same. He wasted no strength, seeming to know beforehand just where he was going to shoot. His rushes were sensational, getting right to the goal mouth, then it was no trick at all to knock the rubber in. This was repeated several times. He is good on the long shot too, and those men sure know their ice. Rumor has it that they played just as well on strange ice but rumor is often out. It is pretty certain, anyway, that Belleville will take a few points off their stars.

Belcher, playing left defence, was Johnny-on-the-spot at all times, and when Fryer fell back on defence, he raced down the ice, and this race usually resulted in another golden stripe for Collingwood.

Fryer and Belcher between them scored all but one goal, that exception being the eighth, which Burns, one of the subs, was credited with. Burns was put off for loafing behind his own goal.

The wonderful combination play of this team is certainly a splendid example to this generation.

In the second period quite a sensation was caused when the top of the penalty box fell in, taking with it its load of human freight. However no one was hurt, so all was serene once more.

Lou Marsh didn't give any breaks of the game to Belleville, and after ringing his bell at one stage of the play, a goal was flipped into the Belleville net. This, it was thought, would not be counted, but it was. This looked rather queer, but the word of the referee is law. So be it!

It's a sure thing that Collingwood will be given a hard, tight run for the honors on Friday night in this city. But Collingwood is coming wholly confident of walking away with the game. Well, let Belleville fans prove by their attendance at this game that some of the rumors that are at present in the air are discredited by them; for without confidence what team can win?

Our boys certainly gave of their best with but few exceptions, and it is hoped that these exceptions will take a tumble and come back strong for the honor of the old home town. We've got the goods. Show it to them!

EXTENDED JUNIOR SCHEDULE

Aura Lee, Queen's and Belleville Juniors, Get Another Chance.

At a meeting of the O. H.A. subcommittee held in Toronto Wednesday night with President A. E. Copeland of Midland in the chair, the residence qualifications of the two brothers, Arthur and Elzar Contant, to play with Cornwall junior hockey team were the subject of investigation.

The Contant brothers admitted that they went to Oshawa from Cornwall on July 22, 1920, and worked there, one for four weeks and the other for six weeks, and while there played two games of lacrosse for the Oshawa team in the O.A.L.A. Then they returned home. This was the first time they had ever left Cornwall and they maintained that they had no intention of breaking their residence in Cornwall, where they had been born and raised.

The committee ruled that by working and playing lacrosse in Oshawa the Contant brothers had broken their residence in Cornwall and suspended them for the balance of the season. It was found that the Cornwall Hockey Club were in no way to blame and they were allowed to continue in the series.

Cornwall will play the De La Salle juniors as scheduled at the Arena tonight and in Cornwall Monday night.

The clubs that were beaten by Cornwall with the Contant brothers in the line-up will be given another chance. They are Queen's University, Belleville and Aura Lee, and sudden death games will be arranged by the O. H. A., the winner to play off with the winner of the De La Salle-Cornwall series.

The Belleville juniors will play a sudden death game with Aura Lee at Whitby on Saturday night of this week.

Belleville intermediates either had an off-night or Collingwood has some team for they defeated the easterners by a score 9 to 1. Any team that can beat Belleville 9 to 1 should be entitled to the championship. The return game takes place at Belleville on Friday night.—Port Hope Guide.

CITY JUNIOR GAME

At the arena last evening a junior city hockey match took place between the Excelsior and Belleville High School teams. The result was a win for Excelsior by a score of 3 to 1. Two periods were played and in the first Wardhaugh scored for the winning team and R. Arnott for the B.H.S. In the second period Wardhaugh and Dennis scored. R. Arnott and Sherry were the efficient players for the losing team whilst Wardhaugh and Scott, starred for the winners. Mr. A. Buchannan was the referee.

EXPECT TOO MUCH OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Impatience with the League of Nations is being shown by many who fail to realize the fact that only rarely do we live long enough to see actual results or even appreciable progress toward results of any great reform or national movement which we have seen inaugurated. Thus writes Lord Robert Cecil, chief British defender of the League of Nations, in the Revue de Geneve, and he reminds us that for ten centuries philanthropists, statesmen and philosophers have been trying their best to prove how vain it is to consider war as the only means of settling questions of national honor, with the consequences that [illegible]

"Their combined efforts with the [illegible] of the people masses have created a flow of ideas which [illegible] in our day that the League of Nations should be [illegible] to assure peace on earth. If mistakes have been made we must surely endeavor to correct them, which we certainly shall [illegible] sooner or later. The essential requisite was to prove that the [illegible] of the League [illegible] chimera. No one can logically argue that the League [illegible] the unhappy way of those that have dealt out [illegible], simply because it did not succeed last January in [illegible] restoring order in a topsyturvy world. The general disorder brought upon us by the late war is not a derangement to be rectified overnight. If the nations once learn the bitter truth taught by the war that for nations as for persons one must pay for evil done and that none can suffer for the others, then we shall see realized the aim of the League of Nations."

LOST THE GAME, BUT DOES NOT WANT TO PAY THE SHOT.

German "wriggling" to escape payment of the indemnity recalls to some of her sharper critics the Teuton war record, in which Deutschland was either marching "uber Alles," especially women and children, or else whining "Kamerad" when more than two Allied soldiers met seven Germans, says the Literary Digest. Today, one-half of the Germans are haughtily declaring that they will never consent to pay any such indemnity as the Allies ask, it is charged, while the other half is pouring piteous pleas into American ears that the unrighteous Treaty of Versailles can never be enforced unless by nations that have "slow murder and assassination in their hearts." French political circles and the French people are much alarmed, according to Paries dispatches, at the extensive propaganda carried on in the United States "to obtain American sympathy and support in the matter of reparations and other Treaty questions." They are said to be convinced that the Germans have organized a propaganda system such as they had in the early part of the war, and that "more active measures on the part of the French are necessary to combat it." In the Echo de Paris the French Senator Japy urges that Marshal Joffre and other military leaders, including General Castelnau, General Gouraud, General Mangin, Marshal Petain, and Marshal Foch be sent to America. On account of the German tension, which will last for many months, there is not much likelihood that Marshal Foch will visit America, but the other men, says Senator Japy—

> "Speaking in the name of France, could dissipate the misunderstanding provoked by the faults of the Government and by German propaganda, which is depicting the French as a ferocious nation seeking the annihilation of Germany. At the time of the armistice we were in a full honeymoon with the Americans, who were then enthusiastic, but we did not know how to profit by this state of our friends. Since then the good feeling has been chilled somewhat, but it can be rekindled.
> "General Nivelle's voyage has already proved this. It is necessary to go to the Americans, who are so alive, so active, and practical, so unlike people who sleep. Let us show them our vitality. Give them certain [illegible] and [illegible] the awful question of our debt."

Among the various documents [illegible] Germany [illegible] being distributed in the United States [illegible] opinion, is an editorial from the [illegible] which is said to be "much read all along [illegible] North Sea." This editorial is entitled "Mr. [illegible] President of the United States, Do Speak a Word of Command!" After saying that "the claws of the Entente are dug into our flesh," and that "dark hopelessness is laming our limbs and spirits," the appeal, as Englished in Germany, proceeds:

> "You may ask why all this is counted up and brought forth? It is done for the purpose to say to you Americans that you are guilty of all this misery and that therefore it is your duty to intervene, to bring the Entente back to her senses and to break to pieces the shameful Versailles Treaty.
> "May many German newspapers, as we do today, tell you the truth, and may many readers, who have connections in America, send this article to them for distribution. Yes, you are guilty of our misery and of our fall down from a proud height! You ask why?
> "It is easily answered. Not only have you supplied our enemies, who had planned this war, and who had prepared themselves for it long ago, with war materials of all kinds, making thereby good profits, but by entering yourselves into the war you brought military defeat upon us—upon a people famine-stricken and attacked from all sides, a people that, like a wounded deer, was hunted to death."

Much familiar rant follows about Germany being a nation of peace and having the war forced upon her, but the "worst sin" of America is "your President's false game with the Fourteen Points, which have now become notorious throughout the world."

CRISP COMMENT

Israel Tarte remarked that elections were not won by prayers, but all the prayers did not have votes in his day.

Liberal election platform, it is whispered, will be adorned with nice big baskets of patronage plums saved up from Borden's Globe-inspired patronage policy.

Raw milk, uncertified or unpasteurized, is a menace to the health of the community and the Belleville Board of Health should have no hesitation in framing regulations which will protect Belleville children from tuberculosis and other fearsome diseases.

Collingwood hockey players will visit Belleville Friday and it is to be hoped will carry away with them when their visit terminates a good opinion of Belleville as a clean-cut sporting city. The Collingwood players are gentlemen and good sports and will no doubt be treated as such. That they defeated Belleville hockey team was a bitter pill for the fans, but that they were able to do so entitles them to the admiration and honor of all true sports. Sometimes, some places, visiting teams are not treated with civility due visitors, but any sporadic symptoms of hooliganism in connection with the visiting hockeyists should be promptly discouraged by all true sports. A city's reputation is one of its chief assets.

A fine compliment is paid to the Canadian banking system in two articles in the current number of the Journal of the Canadian Bankers' Association. In discussing the question of foreign acceptances, George W. Edwards, of Columbia University, takes occasion to remark that any general explanation of the subject to Canadian bankers "would be to carry coals to Newcastle, for bills of exchange in general are understood better north than south of the border." In another place Mr. Henry A. Stimson, of New York, says: "I am aware that the banks of the United States have little to present that will be instructive to the Canadian banks."

OTHER VIEWS

THE GIVING OF TIPS

Ottawa Journal

Opposition to the giving of tips has reached the point of having an official mouthpiece—the Commercial Bribery and Tipping Review. It boldly proclaims its mission to be the complete abolition of gratuities in every shape and form. In that purpose general sympathy will be a thing of degree, rather than unqualified approval. Few men who move about from time to time would be disposed to question the unreasonable lengths to which organized tipping has been carried in modern times; but there are countless many who would like to have some little latitude in the matter. A bill is now before the Massachusetts Legislature which makes the giving or taking of tips in any form or degree punishable by a fine of $25 or imprisonment for thirty days. The Review supports this measure, and insists that an employer who does not pay his servitors a living wage shoould be held to come within its meaning and be punished accordingly. With the broad spirit of this purpose there will be general and genuine accord; but it is exceedingly doubtful if any real good will be accomplished. The evil—for it has reached that status—is too deeply ingrained.

THE ALTERNATIVE

Calgary Albertan

The people of Western Canada have some objection to an early election because it would mean the old representation. Our number would be enlarged if an election were postponed until after the census of the present year. However, it would be better for Western Canada to go under-represented for three or four years than that all of Canada should be under control of a government which has not the confidence of a majority of the people.

THE JAPANESE IN ASIA

San Francisco Chronicle

The Japanese are in Shantung and intend and expect to stay there. They are also in Siberia, with the same expectation and intent. In Shantung their only reason for being there is the reason which took the British into India. In Siberia there is added to that reason a justifiable desire to protect themselves from becoming too near neighbors to the raging Bolsheviki. From their standpoint, the Japanese are justified in their Siberian enterprise. There can be no moral justification for their performance in Shantung than there was for the villainy of their German predecessors there, whose stolen property the Japanese are determined to inherit.

A LAUGH OR TWO

No Need of Adornment

One evening a charming young woman invited a young man, who had the reputation of being a clever conversationalist, with two or three other acquaintances, informally to supper. She promised them some of her mother's wonderful coffee.

Upon reaching home she introduced her mother, who made apologies for her appearance.

After a moment's conversation, the older woman started to leave the room remarking:

I'll go and put on the percolator.

Oh, don't bother, said the young man visitor sweetly. You look all right just the way you are.

The Joy of the Boy

The joy of the boy is his being a boy,
A little bit good, mighty bad:
Dont expect him to be grown-up
When he's still but a lad, a lad.

The trouble is often because of our trying
To make him just perfect before
The mischief within him has started dying
And he has come to the open door
That leads to the older and wiser things—
Let him be boy while his spirit sings
And trust him and wait and with all you do
Live that the lad may believe the wings
Of an angel grow on you.

The joy of the boy is his being fine
With play and with health and eyes that shine,
And a heart responding from day to day
To the heavenly medicine of play.

—Bentztown Bard.

POETS' CORNER

OFT IN THE STILLY NIGHT

Oft in the stilly night,
Ere Slumber's chain hath found me,
Fond Memory brings the light,
Of other days around me.
The smiles, the tears
Of boyhood's years,
The words of love then spoken;
The eyes that shone,
Now dimmed and gone,
The cheerful hearts now broken!
Thus in the stilly night,
Ere Slumber's chain hath bound me,
Sad Memory brings the light
Of other days around me.

When I remember all
The friends, so linked together,
I've seen around me fall,
Like the leaves in wintry weather,
I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!
Thus in the stilly night,
Ere Slumber's chain hath bound me,
Sad Memory brings the light
Of other days around me.

—Thomas Moore.

CONSOLATION

For some a worldless peace the hills may bear,
Eternal witnesses of strength sublime;
For some a deep melodious stream, in time
Of anguish lulls the storm of desperate care;
Some find no rest at home, and bravely tear
The bonds of younger days to seek repose
On trackless deserts or through Arctic snows,
Stupendous silences effacing fear.
But the low boom and backward sign of waves
The waiting pause before a noiseless power
Gathers to crash in one thought rending roar
Soothes with its rhythmic peace my soul, which craves
A steadfast hope to crash the doubts that mar,
Unsought, the strong white faith of my heart's core.

—M. E. Archer, in London Chronicle.

The Clay Belt.

The Clay Belt of Ontario is a stretch of new land in New or Northern Ontario, extending from the Quebec boundary westward, estimated to contain at least 16,000,000 acres of arable land of a rich clay or clay loam, remarkably free from stones, and therefore easy to break and cultivate. A large percentage is said to be tillable, and many settlers have already made good in this area. Such a percentage can be considerably increased by drainage. Several thriving settlements have sprung up in this part of the province, which is traversed by the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway and the Canadian National Railways. The clay belt varies in depth north and south from 25 to 100 miles.

TURNER SETTLEMENT

The Dramatic Club of Zion's Hill presented their drama entitled "The Old-Fashioned Mother," before a Sidney audience in the Baptist church on Friday evening. The play was most ably rendered, and the actors and actresses portrayed the characters they represented extremely well. Through tragedy and comedy, pathos and humor, the leading purpose of the drama, mother-love, was sustained to a triumphant conclusion. We congratulate the young people of Zion's Hill on their talent and wish them every success and support in their future efforts.

We are glad to report that Mr. Hubble is improving. He has been under the doctor's care for some time.

Mr. Orval Leonard, of Toronto and Mr. Horace Leonard, of Marmora spent Monday at Mr. Nathan Reid's.

Miss Bishop of Belleville was the guest of Mrs. Harry Reid during last week.

Our community much regrets the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison and family. These sentiments were expressed by a most representative gathering of sixty or more in their home on Monday evening. After the usual friendly intercourse, all were called to order by Mr. W. B. Tufts, who assumed the position of chairman in his usual pleasing manner. Mr. and Mrs. Garrison were presented with a beautiful secretary as a tangible evidence of the regard in which they are held in the neighborhood which has known them from childhood. Their new home is in the third concession of Sidney, where the best wishes of their friends here shall follow them.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Welbourne have gone to their new home on the Stirling-Marmora road.

Mr. Wannamaker and family have moved on their new farm recently occupied by Mr. Will Reddick.

CENTENARY

Special services were conducted for three weeks over Bayside circuit by Evangelist Mr. Norman Duetta the Trenton assisted by Mrs. Duetta, the last week being in this church. Mr. Duetta is a man with a message which he delivers straight from the shoulder with such force that saint and sinner cannot fail to realize, that there is but one straight road to travel in order to reach Heaven some day. He is but a layman, a man of the people, but his earnestness for souls and his general good fellowship is making him a power for good in the Masters' work. Mr and Mrs Duetta are both good singers which is a great help and inspiration in the meetings. Bayside circuit received a good shaking up spiritually which can be noticed in an increased attendance at the different churches and more earnestness and zeal in the cause of Christ. Mr and Mrs Duetta are in several services at Melrose.

About thirty of the young people were most hospitably entertained at the home of Mr and Mrs G[illegible] Shortt on Valentine night. A very enjoyable time was spent in games, music etc., and after partaking of a dainty luncheon provided by the hostess they departed for their several homes each claiming to have spent a time of their lives.

Mr Eggleton leave this week to attend a temperance and moral reform convention in Toronto.

Miss Edith Goldsmith, graduate nurse of Utica N.Y. spent last week under the parental roof. She is one of the many Sidney girls who have "made good" in her chosen profession across the line.

The "Ladies' Aid" of Centenary church has been reorganized with Mrs. Thrasher Sr. as Pres. Mrs. G. Shortt Sec. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher Treas. The first meeting was held at the home of the Pres. on Wednesday twenty one ladies being present. A dainty luncheon was served by the hostess Mrs David Thrasher to which ample justice was done by all. A very enjoyable time was spent and the next meeting will be held at the church to clean and decorate for time being. Centenary ladies are hustlers and things are bound to happen in near future.

Rev F Jobbin of Bayside filled this pulpit on Sunday as the pastor Rev Mutton was to take charge of the reopening services at his old home church near Colborne.

Mr Everett Rush and Rev. Jobbin gave colored lantern slides of Mr. Langford's trip through Japan and parts of China while he was at the World's Convention in Japan. The views were excellent and Mr Rush gave splendid description of each on the screen. Everyone felt they had spent a most profitable evening.

Mr. Geo. [illegible] has sold his farm and moved to Foxboro.

Mr. [illegible] Cape has returned home after some ten weeks in Belleville hospital feeling much better.

New York C.P.R. Building

Great interest is being taken by New York transportation and real estate men in the decision taken by the Canadian Pacific Railway to concentrate its various offices into one building close to the Grand Central Station.

The Canadian Pacific deal, which has required an entire year to close on account of its elaborate ramifications, involves a lease from the Madison Avenue Offices, Inc., the holding corporation for the Fifth Church of Christ Scientist, of a large store, basement and almost the entire second floor of the 44th Street portion of this twenty-one story building; and also involves an investment of considerable proportions by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in the building itself, in consideration of which the name of the building will be changed from "Madison Avenue Offices," or, as it has sometimes been referred to, the "Christian Science Building," and will be re-named the "Canadian Pacific Building."

The area of the plot on which the building stands covers over 31,000 square feet, and is situated directly opposite the Hotel Biltmore on the east, Brooks Brothers' building to the north and the old Hotel Manhattan to the south.

The Canadian Pacific Railway will occupy in the store, basement and second floor, all that part of the building on which only a year ago stood St. Bartholomews' Church, demolished last April, to make way for the great uptown trend of business.

The negotiations just closed provide, in addition to the investment mentioned above, a lease for 21 years at an aggregate rental of something approaching $3,000,000. It was said by F. R. Perry, General Agent, Passenger Department, in New York, for the Canadian Pacific, that it will give up its railway offices at Broadway and 30th Street and its branch at Broadway and 33rd Street, and will combine its railway, steamship, and colonization departments in its new home on Madison Avenue. The plans of the Canadian Pacific Company are particularly significant in that they will provide the largest consolidated ticket offices in New York, for, in addition to their own occupancy, it is said by the agents of the new Canadian Pacific Building, that negotiations are pending with several of the largest transcontinental railroads for representation in the same store. This arrangement is similar to the Railroad Administration during the war.

The store has a frontage of 81 ft. 6 in. on Maidson Avenue and 146 ft. 6 in. on 44th Street. The Canadian Pacific Building will contain over 400,000 square feet of rental area and will be the most up-to-date office building in the Grand Central District. Many offices and much space have already been leased to influential corporations, and it is said by the agents that other important leases are now pending.

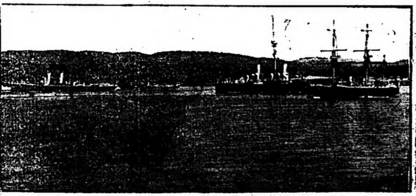
RENASCENT ESQUIMALT



ESQUIMALT HARBOR, NEAR VICTORIA, B.C.

The history of Esquimalt began away back in 1843, with the threatened trouble over the Boundary Dispute, and to the Hudson's Bay Company of Traders belongs the honor of founding what is now the guardian port of British interests on the North Pacific. For when rumors of war came to their chief port on the Columbia River, it was thought safest by these intrepid gentlemen traders to seek a headquarters outside the pale of hostilities. Behold then on a bright day in spring the arrival of Sir James Douglas, honorable factor, on board the steamer Beaver, at what is now Victoria's Inner Harbor, and the establishment of a settlement there. Where to-day the Parliament Buildings stand surrounded with their green acres of lawn and their splendid maple trees, was erected the first fort, and its palisades, and out and away from the fort, the Indian trails led one to the heart of the forest in a few minutes walk. But strong arms impelled by young and dauntless enthusiasm soon cleared the land round about, and the village sprang up.

Two years later arrived the "America," the first of Britain's fighting ships to anchor in Esquimalt Harbor, Victoria, British Columbia. This ship was in command of Hon. John Gordon, brother of the Earl of Aberdeen, Prime Minister of England. She was followed the next year by a fleet consisting of the "Cormorant," "Herald," "Inconstant," "Modeste," and "Pandora," and from that time on, a flagship and other units were always present in Esquimalt Harbor until 1905.

After Victoria has assumed the status of a city the fact of her being Great Britain's Naval Base, meant all of the picturesque dignity and gaiety which go with a naval town. It was therefore with mixed feelings that the citizens of Victoria learned of the decision that Canada was to assume the manning and maintenance of Esquimalt, and that Great Britain would be relieved from that responsibility. One remembers yet the departure of the last of the Imperial Navy, on a misty September morning, the tramp of the marching feet, the throb of the kettle drums, the shrill of the pipes, and the sobs of women left behind.

After that for some years Esquimalt went to sleep. Grass grew in the streets. The shutters were put up in hotel and saloon windows, cottages fell into decay, and even the guards at the Dock Yard gates were not always on duty.

When the King's message was flashed over the wires on the August night in 1914, however, Esquimalt was galvanized into life, and became the base of naval operations on the Pacific. A large staff was employed in the Naval Yard, and a force of 300 men kept constantly at work on the warships which called there for repairs. There were anxious days and nights during those first few months of the war when everyone knew Von Spee's squadron was hovering somewhere outside the Straits, and there were only two submarines and the little Rainbow to resist attack. Among the war-craft calling as Esquimalt to fit and repair during the past five years were the Newcastle, Kent, Lancaster, Otranto, and Avoca. The Japanese warships were here at odd times to coal and repair, among them the great super-Dreadnought Kirishima.

The one warship which remained to us at the conclusion of peace was H. M. S. Rainbow, which was dismantled and sold at auction last year to a Seattle firm as a coal barge. Such ignominy might have been thought to spell Esquimalts finis.

But not so. Far from it.

When it is remembered that in the whole vast stretch of coastline beginning at Singapore and ending at Cape Horn, 13,000 miles, Great Britain possesses only approximately 400 which form the Western coast of Canada, and that of this 400 miles, Vancouver Island occupies one-half, the strategic importance of the Island will be at once evident to the most casual observer.

It has been decided therefore by federal and imperial authorities that Esquimalt shall come into her own again, and to further this the contract has been let for a new Dry Dock to supplement the smaller one established already at the Dock Yard and which did such excellent service throughout the war. The new Dry Dock, capable of handling the largest vessels afloat, will cost $3,000,000.00. The work will be finished in two years time.

On its way to Esquimalt now is the newly acquired fleet, the gift from the Imperial Navy. It will arrive here in February.

What Canada will do in regard to increasing her Navy is purely tentative at present, but rumors regarding an alliance between our own combined navies on the Pacific with that of the United States is especially interesting to the people of British Columbia. At all events a new era has undoubtedly begun for Esquimalt, and the booming of the big guns in welcome of the Aurora, the Patriot and the Patrician will be its heralding.

HORSE DROWNED

A horse owned by George Sheppard Inverary, was drowned on Saturday in Collins Lake. Several teams were engaged drawing pickets over Collins Lake and Mr. Sheppard's team broke through. Much difficulty was experienced in saving one of the animals. Its hoof was embedded in the head of the other, and the men had to use their knives to release the leg. Dr. William Nicholls was hurriedly called from Kingston and reached the lake in a motor car 13 minutes after receiving the message. He succeeded in saving the life of the rescued animal.

COURSE FOR CHEESEMAKERS

The course for the Eastern Ontario cheesemakers opened at the Dairy School at Kingston, Tuesday morning with a good attendance and will be continued for the rest of the week. A buttermakers' course will open at the Dairy School on March 7th and will be continued until March 12th. This course has been in existence for three years and has proved such a success that they will be continued. There are 47 creameries in Eastern Ontario and representatives from these creameries will be present for their course. The object of the courses are to get men to work on a uniform basis, and produce a higher quality. The college at Guelph has seen the good of such a course and has also started a course in this work. The quality of the butter produced in Eastern Ontario is regarded as the highest grade of any butter made in the province.

Lord Reading Has Risen Another Step in Career As "Greatest Living Jew"

EARL READING is the world's most illustrious Jew. Rich, powerful, famous, Lord Reading to-day holds one of the highest positions in England — the highest to which a Jew has ever attained, saving only Disraeli. Reading will hold a still higher — the Viceroyalty of India. The judge will doff his robes, put on the raiment of princely state, ascend the acting-Emperor's throne and rule in his sovereign's name 250 millions of British subjects. Could ambition ask more? Coveted by all, the rulership of India is esteemed the richest jewel in the gift of the crown. The position carries with it tremendous prestige— and to-day tremendous responsibilies. India is seething with unrest. Perhaps the subtle oriental mind of Reading can cope to better advantage with this eastern problem than that of any other British statesman.

One of the most remarkable in Britain has been the career of Rufus Daniel Isaacs, Earl Reading. An utter failure as a stock broker and with seemingly no future, he nevertheless, at the mature age of 27 set out to become a lawyer and succeeded so well that by 37 he had a large practice. The son of the late Jos. M. Isaacs, a London ship broker, he was born in London in 1860. His parents were well enough to do and an uncle was Lord Mayor of London. So young Isaacs did not lack opportunities. He went to a good school and was then sent abroad for a short time. But at eighteen, just as his people had prepared to send him to Cambridge University, the young man ran away to sea, shipping to Rio Janeiro before the mast. He soon tired of the sea and though his family were very angry the university course was still open. He let them start him up in stock-broking instead. But he had no bent for trading in stocks and shares and at 27 was facing financial ruin.

LORD READING.

At this juncture young Isaacs met his future wife, Miss Alice Cohen, who was to play an important part in his life as helpmeet and adviser. Miss Cohen, the daughter of an American merchant who had moved to London became engaged to handsome young Isaacs and advised him to start the study of the law. Isaacs remonstrated, saying that it was far too late in life to begin such an uphill course, but the young woman insisted. Together in the evenings they used to pour over the law books. In 1887 Isaacs was called to the Bar and the same year, though he was absolutely penniless, he married Miss Cohen.

Very soon young Isaacs became known as a master at unravelling intricate figures and details — a gift which remained his most distinguished talent in the practice of the law. He soon became an expert in bankruptcy law and handled business from large mercantile and financial houses in London. His first great success at the Bar, however, was in the prosecution of Whitaker Wright, the English "financial expert" who had fled to America. That secured Isaacs' reputation.

In 1904 he entered politics as Liberal member for Reading district. In 1910 he became Attorney-General and in 1913 was made Lord Chief Justice of England. He had been knighted, was later raised to the peerage as a viscount and received his earldom in 1917 for the very great services he had rendered to his country during the war. Although a wealthy man, Isaacs made a great sacrifice in accepting public office, for his income has ever since been far less than it was as a private practitioner.

In 1916 Lord Reading was sent to the United States to negotiate the Anglo-French loan. It was a mission of the utmost delicacy. But Reading's tact and skill overcame all obstacles and secured the Allies vital assistance, making it possible for them to continue the war. With a shipload of Canadian wounded Reading and his suite crossed on the Olympic in February, 1918, to become High Commissioner to Washington. Fellow passengers recall the innumerable small boxes of china and silver he and Lady Reading brought out to use at their state dinner parties. On the death of Sir Cecil Spring Rice, Reading assumed the duties of the ambassadorship in addition to his own work.

Off the bench Lord Reading is, with his wife, a well-known figure in English society. One of his hobbies is china collecting, cabinets of rare pieces delighting his guests at No. 2 Curzon street. The great lawyer takes his recreation at tennis and golf.

Salaries Jump To Expressmen

INCREASES OF FROM $9 TO $20 PER MONTH IN "CANADIAN" COMPANY.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—Wage increases approximately $135,000 are contained in the award of a Board of Conciliation which sat in Montreal recently to hear the demands of a committee representing Canadian Express Company employees. The finding of the board, which was composed of U. E. Gillen, Chairman, F. H. McGuigan, representative of the company, and James T. Gunn, representative of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, is unanimous.

The award covers about 1,700 employees in all parts of Canada, the majority of whom receive increases ranging from $9 to $20 a month. The board dealt with each employee individually, and where it failed to give an increase its finding was such that those not increased would receive the greater benefit from the increase overtime rates.

Ayearst's O.T.A Sqeech Draws Rebukes

OPPOSITION MEMBERS STRONGLY PROTEST CHIEF LICENSE INSPECTOR'S REMARKS ON LIQUOR CASE APPEALS.

Toronto, Feb. 23—Official disapproval of the utterances of Rev. J. A. Ayearst, Chief License Inspector for Ontario, before the Massey Hall prohibition convention, was expressed by Premier Drury and Attorney-General Raney in the Ontario Legislature yesterday. H. H. Dewart, Liberal leader, and Hon. George S. Henry, acting leader of the Conservatives, brought the matter up by vigorously protesting at a servant of the Government publicly discussing the issue of O. T. A. appeals, which is under the consideration of the Legislature. Mr. Dewart demanded that he be censured.

Mr. Dewart declared that Rev. Mr. Ayearst had violated the "ordinary proprieties of a gentleman who occupies the position of Chief License Inspector of this province" by stating that the granting of an appeal to a County Judge would be "granting assistance to the lawbreakers of Canada." He asked very pointedly if Rev. Mr. Ayearst was the servant of of the Government or its master.

Attorney-General Raney was going to let the protest go without reply when Mr. Dewart pressed the issue with a question. Hon. Mr. Raney said that the Chief License Inspector had requested and received permission to attend the convention. "I see nothing in the remarks as read," he said, "that would justify me in attempting to discipline him." Hon. Geo. S. Henry and Major J. C. Tolmie, Windsor, then joined in the protest and the Attorney-General, in response to them, said: "I think it would have been better had the officer not mentioned that particular matter."

Before the discussion concluded Premier Drury stated: "Had I known of it I certainly would have disapproved of an officer in his position taking part in a controversy such as this."

The appearance of Professor J. B. Reynolds, of Guelph O.A.C., before a U.F.O. gathering in Massey Hall, was injected into the argument by Hon. G. S. Henry. When Hon. Manning Doherty explained that it was not a political gathering which the professor addressed in Massey Hall, Hon. Mr. Henry declared, "Of course it was a political gathering.

When the whole controversy had subsided the House received an admonition from Speaker Parliament that it was the last time he would permit debate before the calling of the orders.

Race Track Betting Cannot be Prohibited

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—The Ontario Government has no power to enact legislation to prohibit racetrack betting on the race tracks of Ontario, according to a judgment handed down the second division of the Appellate Court of Ontario today. This judgment is in connection with recent applications relating to pari mutuels.

British Actors Refuse to Work On Sunday

British actors and actresses have no desire to emulate their fellow players in America by giving Sunday theatrical performances. A proposal to open London theatres on Sundays has just been voted down by an overwhelming majority at a meeting organized by the British Drama League. Most of those who voted were members of the theatrical profession.

The suggestion that plays be given on Sunday was made by Arthur Bouchier, an actor, and Father Adderley, a popular socialist divine.

Mr Bouchier said that only such plays should be produced on Sundays as did not occupy the usual weekly bill and that acting on Sundays should be optional. Any attempt at coercion, he declared should be made illegal.

Father Adderly urged that it was a question of commonsense, not of religion, that the fourth commandment had long ceased to be God's law. He believed that Sunday should be a day of recreation, and that "if there is one thing that really does recreate it is seeing a play."

George Bernard Shaw quickly had the house roaring with laughter. He began by supporting the proposal with extraordinary enthusiasm, in his capacity of playwright who wanted to make money out of plays, and ended by condemning it with even greater fervor as a "friend of the actor."

"If you give up your present Sunday holiday under the impression that Sunday will be different from other days in the theatre, or that you will be getting more for seven day's than for six, then I shall continue to hold the same opinion of your political intelligence, as members of the British public, as I have held in the past."

Timber Inquiry Was Under Fire

SPEAKER CALLED ON TO SAVE COMMISSIONERS FROM ATTACK.

Toronto, Feb. 24—Hon. W. E. Raney called on the Speaker of the House to save the Timber Commissioners from a thorough overhauling at the hands of Dr. Forbes Godfrey, and though the West York member could not be headed until he had passed some decidedly vigorous comments upon the lack of fairness with which the inquiry had been conducted he was not permitted to give that attention to the Commissioners themselves that he felt the occasion warranted. The matter came up while Dr. Godfrey was speaking in the continuation of the budget debate. He chaffed the Liberals and Government alike at the outset, suggesting to Mr. Dewart that his affection for the U. F. O. displayed in the decision not to contest so many ridings had cost him the leadership of the Government. Then he turned directly to the timber inquiry, which he characterized as a deliberate attempt by the politicians to discredit the man whose force and ability made him more feared than any other. He recalled the appointment of Mr. G. C. Hurdman, who, unable to find anything against Mr. Ferguson, and disliking the men with whom he was associated in the inquiry, had resigned. He had been followed by Mr McEvoy, who probably found the job "not dirty enough," and by Mr. Harding, who had wallowed around in the mire and muck and then disappeared.

Dr. Godfrey prefaced his reference to Justices Riddell and Latchford by pointing out that when the judiciary come down from the bench and accept commissions from the Government of the province they were the servants of the Legislative Assembly.

"As commissioners," he said, "I will criticize them where I think they are wrong."

Crown Prosecutor Fair In Spracklin's Case

Special Despatch to the Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited.

Windsor, Feb 26.—Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin pastor of Sandwich Methodist church spent this morning in this city attending to business which had been neglected during the trial. Upon all sides he was congratulated upon the verdict which had been rendered in the case. He said he had made no plans for the future and had nothing to say for publication in this regard. The minister commented upon fairness of the trial he had been given and referred especially to the impartiality with which Crown Prosecutor Grier had conducted the case. He felt that Mr Grier was more conscientious in discharging his duties than some Crown Prosecutors would have been under the circumstances.

VERBOSITY OF CANADIANS MAKES COUNTRY FAMOUS

Are the people of Canada unduly fond of listening to and making long speeches? The question was raised last night at the meeting of the Young Men's Club of the Toronto Board of Trade by Mr. C. Marriott, Past President of the board. Mr. Marriott mentioned that Lord Desborough immediately after his return home from Canada, said the three things which impressed him most on his visit were: (1) The resources and possibilities of Canada; (2) the wonderful waterways, which, in his opinion, would ultimately make Canada the greatest manufacturing country in the world, and (3) the willingness of the Canadian people to make and listen to long speeches.

"I have thought over that last point several times," said Mr. Marriott, "and I fancy Lord Desborough 'got one in on us' there, because we do seem to be a little given to that sort of thing with our Boards of Trade, Houses of Parliament, Councils, Empire Clubs, Kiwanis Clubs, Canadian Clubs, etc. A tremendous amount of talking goes on in Canada, and we can only hope that it does some good."

A mighty deer slayer, with a side line taste for sheep, is to be exhibited soon at the National Zoo at Washington. With its mate, the deer slayer is credited with having killed twenty-seven sheep in a single night.

Allies Plans Agreed to by Turks

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The Turkish delegation to the Near-East conference here accepted today the proffered arbitration of the Supreme Council as between Turkey and Greece in determining the status of Smyrna and Thrace. When the conference assembled this morning the Turkish representatives made this announcement and stated that they were agreeable to the suggestion of the Allied governments that a commission of inquiry be appointed to verify the statistics on the population of the districts in question. Notice was given by the Turks that they would reply at five o'clock this afternoon to the other points at issue concerning the treaty.

Fortieth Anniversary Of City Mission

The fortieth anniversary of the City Mission was observed in a very fitting manner Thursday evening at the building on Dundas street. At 6.30 the usual tea was given to the Sunday School by the teachers and their friends. Over eighty scholars sat down to tea. The tables were very prettily decorated for the occasion and the tea excelled any previous one given there in variety and excellence. Promptly at 7.45 the programme for the evening was opened with singing, scripture reading and prayer. Prof. Staples of Albert College rendered a solo in his usual excellent style. Mrs. Singer sang three solos and responded to encores. Miss Valere Wrightmeyer gave a very acceptable instrumental number and accompanied the singers on the piano. Reports of the work for the year at the mission were given by the following: Treasurer, Mr. C. Elvins; Sunday morning and evening services, Mr. C. Elvins; Sewing School, Miss McIntosh; Mothers' Meetings, Mrs. Cole; Sunday School, Miss Reeves; Gifts and distribution of clothing, Mrs. Capt. Smith. Mr. McClatchie, an old friend of the late Mr. Schuster, was present and addressed the gathering giving all some timely advice, laying special emphasis on temperance and total abstinence. Miss Alice Hitchon also gave a few words of inspiration and encouragement. Rev. Dr. Cleaver and Rev. Geo. Marshall, both of whom were to have been present and take part in the programme were detained by illness. All the reports were very encouraging and the Mission enters upon its forty-first year, which we trust will be the best in its existence. A very pleasing feature of the program was the recitation of the first and twenty-third Psalms and naming consecutively all the books of the Old and New Testaments by two scholars of the Sunday School, Bessie Staples and Marjorie Firth. The Bible Class rendered a hymn with the congregation joining in the chorus. A full report of the year's work will shortly be published. The attendance last evening was a large one.

APPENDIX OUT WITH LOCAL ANAESTHETIC

London, Ont., Feb. 23.—A unique operation was performed in Victoria Hospital here when Dr. A. G. Grant, a local surgeon, removed the appendix of Lorne G. Cargill, of Cargill, Ont., a third year medical student at Western University, using a local anaesthetic. Cargill conversed with the attendants and classmates throughout the operation, and when asked to inform them when the surgeon's scalpel cut into his abdomen, stated that he felt nothing. Further, when the offending appendix was located he complained of a dull pain and vomited slightly.

Novolmine, a modern local anaesthetic, was injected into the flesh before the operation, and the shock of a general anaesthetic was eliminated. The operation required one hour to do, extra precautions in handling the tissues being necessary under a local anaesthetic.

This is the first operation of its kind to be done in London, and Cargill is reported to be progressing favorably. Many doctors, nurses and students witnessed the operation.

Seventeen pairs of twin calves on one farm is an instance of productivity seldom seen, yet this has occurred on the farm of Elmer Spicer, Wellington County, since 1912. With this rate of increase, it does not take long to build up a herd and in this case practically every cow lived.

Clean-up Campaign of Belleville Y,M,C,A,

WORTHY INSTITUTION CALLS UPON CITIZENS TO WIPE OUT DEBT.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Belleville is asking for $4,000 to clean up its indebtedness so that it may close its year at the end of April next with all bills paid.

Unless the citizens stop to consider to what use the money is put, it may seem a large sum, coming so soon after its campaign last year; but the citizens are asked to remember that the last campaign was for $14,000, to cover the operating deficit for two years ending April next. However, at that time only $10,000 of the objective was raised, so that this campaign is to complete that task. Is it worth while? Yes, that, and many times that. A city like Belleville could not get along without an organization like the Young Men's Christian Association with its diversified program of activities that appeals to the boys and young men and gives them outlet for their honorable desires and aspirations. Such an institution cannot be self-supporting. Too many things are expected of it for that purpose. If the privileges offered by the Young Men's Christian Association were placed on a self-supporting basis, then many of the boys and young men who now pay the nominal membership fee would not be able to join and would therefore be deprived from participating in its privileges.

About eighty delegates were in attendance from the various organizations. At noon Rev. J. C. Tolmie, M.P.P., gave an address, pointing out the advantages of such associations, and in the afternoon the guests were treated to a drive about the city.

Rural Credit Bill is Amended by Legislature

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—The select committee of the Legislature dealing with rural credits today amended the bill so that the period for long term loans is reduced from thirty to twenty years. The bill now also provides for the inclusion of market gardeners, but loans will not be granted to persons holding less than fifty acres for longer than five years. The central board must make an annual report to the Minister of Agriculture every year on December 31st showing the amount and number of loans issued.

Crerar Endorses King Amendment

ANNOUNCEMENT OF AGRARIAN LEADER IN DEBATE ON ADDRESS IN OTTAWA HOUSE

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—Hon T. A. Crerar, the leader of the Agrarian group in the Commons, made the most unexpected announcement to the House today that he and his followers would ally themselves with the Liberal Opposition in support of the want of confidence amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne proposed by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King. Mr. Crerar's speech was responsible for a distinct revival of interest in the debate on the address, which has for several days rather languished. In the first place this was the first contribution to the debate from the Farmers' group; in the second his declaration evoked spirited replies from supporters of the Government, who criticized Mr. Crerar's recent course in politics, his attitude as the head of a class movement and the operations of the corporation of which he is the head.

One member, R. C. Henders, of Macdonald, Manitoba, a former president of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association and one of the Liberal Unionists elected at the general election of 1917, while he made no direct attack upon the United Grain Company, of which Mr. Crerar is manager, spoke of conditions which were alleged to exist in the grain trade and to be injuring the farmers of the Prairie Provinces.

These disquieting allegations Mr. Henders asserted should be investigated by a Royal Commission appointed by the Dominion Government.

King's War Record

G. B. Nicholson, of Algoma, delivered a militant speech which was not relished by either of the Opposition groups. He discussed the operation of the commercial enterprises of the Western Grain Growers' organizations and also the political activities of those organizatons. He complained of Hon. Mackenzie King's lack of definite policy on public questions, notably the tariff. One of his references to the Opposition leader was the cause of a tumultuous scene within the House.

The Algoma member had been speaking of unrest among the returned soldiers. He added "the mere suggestion that the leader of the Opposition should ever be called upon to accept the office of Prime Minister, or to take up any other office of a public character, that would bring him into contact with the interests of the returned soldiers is a flagrant insult to every man who put on the uniform during the war and fought for his country." The observation elicited shouts of "shame" and demands for a retraction from the Opposition. Finally, order was restored and Mr. Nicholson closed with an expression of surprise at the attitude of Quebec members toward the honest desire of Premier Meighen to increase the representation of th French-speaking people of the Dominion in the Cabinet.

PIGEONS FOR MESSENGERS

The company plans to establish two relay stations between Peace River town and Fort Norman, the distance to be covered by each relay of pigeon carriers amounting to 250 miles

$10,000 Taken From Teller's Cage

MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR AT TORONTO BANK DURING NOON HOUR

Toronto, Feb. 25.—A daring robbery was committed shortly before noon Tuesday when $10,000 in cash and eleven thousand dollars of money known between banks as non-negotiable legals was stolen from a box in the paying teller's cage in the head office of the Bank of Montreal, Yonge and Front streets.

As soon as the money was missed a general alarm was sent to police headquarters at the city hall and Chief of Detectives George Guthrie, sent Sergeant of Detectives Bart Cronin, and acting Detective Harold Waterhouse of Court street station and acting Detective James Crowson, of Belmont station to the bank in a police motor. Constable James Jarvis of Court street station was stationed on guard outside the bank, while bank messengers patrolled the floor of the banking house carrying automatic pistols in their pockets.

New Regent Theatre Ready For Opening

The new Regent Theatre, formerly the Palace, which was destroyed by fire in November last, will be formally opened tomorrow night. The new play house is up to date in every respect and presents an enticing appearance. A great improvement is the height of the ceiling, namely twenty-five feet from the floor, and six ventilators have been installed, thus ensuring a continuous current of fresh air. Six large electric lights installed in the ceiling and eleven lights within globes on either side light up the place perfectly. The ceiling is painted cream, while the walls are of buff color, with a wide tinsel border near the top. The entrance will be attractive, with mahogany doors with inlaid glass. These doors are equipped with door checks and what are known as panic bolts, which are of great benefit in case of a panic and crush at the doors. The operating booth over the main entrance has been made perfectly fire proof and is provided with two of the latest improved machines for projecting pictures upon the screen. The placing of seats was completed today, 500 being placed in position. The aisle has been increased in width. The Regent is up to date in every respect and no doubt will be liberally patronized. Mr. P. G. Denike was the contractor; Howe & Hagerman installed the steam fittings for heating, Diamond & Hyde the plumbing, Madden the painting, and S. J. Finn the electric wiring and fixtures.

Says Farmers Spend $7,000,000 in U.S.

ROBERTSON DECLARES ORGANIZATIONS TRADE LARGELY IN FOREIGN IMPLEMENTS

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The address in reply to the Speech from the Throne was adopted in the Senate to-day after speeches by Senators Bique, Belcourt, Robertson, Webster(Brockville) and Lynch-Staunton.

Hon. Senator Robertson, Minister of Labor, said that while the Tariff Commision had made no report, he would state some of the facts for the benefit of Senator Turiff. They had found that the Western Farmers' organizations were importing and selling farm machinery. They had sent $7,000,000 out of Canada for this purpose in one year. The average duty paid on farm implements brought into Canada was 4.55 per cent. The duty was less than $1 per year per 100 acres on the tillable land in Canada.

Senator Robertson declared that his investigations in the Labor Department had proven that seasonal occupations and periods of depression made unemployment inevitable in Canada. Unemployment was one of the chief causes of unrest. It was for this reason that the Government was seriously considering and investigating unemployment insurance. Senator Robertson stated that from October 15 1920, to January 6, 1921, there were 138,000 persons out of work in Canada.

Desperate fighting between the Reds and Georgians is reported from Tiflis.

The U. S. Congress will in all likelihood send the Emergency Tariff Bill to the President.

The Daredevil

"It is going to be hard on the general to have his grandmother come to life on his hands like this," laughed my Gouverneur Faulkner, bending and placing upon the creamy lace of my grandmammà a kiss which was warm to my heart through the beflowered silk.

"Let me die in those trenches so that he will never know," I pleaded.

"No, sweetheart; that would be too easy. You are going to stay right here and face the old forty-two centimeter." he made a reply to my pleading request as he bent and laid his cheek upon the lovelock. "That curl ought to have opened my eyes when I sat and watched you open yours day before yesterday morning," was the remark he added to his cruel command that I stay and face my very dreadful and so very much beloved uncle, the General Robert.

"I am afraid," I answered as I clung to him with a trembling.

"Yes; I know you are afraid of him or anything," laughed my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner, with a shake of my shoulders under his great strong hands. "But perhaps these papers I have in my pocket from Captain Lasselles, who is at the mansion getting rid of dust, will help you out after the first explosion, which you will have to stand in a very few minutes from now if that hall clock is correct and I know the general's habits as I think I do."

"Oh, let me ascend and get once again into my trousers!" I exclaimed as I sought to leave the arms that again held me close.

"Never!" said my Gouverneur Faulkner after another kiss upon the cheek nearest to him. "You'll just wear this ball gown until you can get some dimity, madam, and don't you ever even mention to me"—

CHAPTER XVII.
Home at Last.

BUT just here an interruption arrived, and I sprang from the arms of my Gouverneur Faulkner only in time to avoid being discovered therein. My beloved uncle, the General Robert, entered the door in a great hurry, with that much frightened Bonbon following close at his heels.

"What's all this that fool nigger phoned about ghosts walking and"—Then he stood very still in the spot upon which his feet were placed and regarded me as I turned from the arms of my Gouverneur Faulkner and faced him.

"Heavens, governor, what has happened to my boy?" he asked, and his fine old face was of a great whiteness and trembling. "Sam says he's dead, and the ghost"— And then came another pause in which all of the persons present held for a long minute their breath.

Did I make excuses and explanations and pleadings to my beloved uncle, the General Robert, in such suffering over the death of that Robert? I did not. I opened my strong young arms wide and took him into them with a tenderness of such great force that it would of a necessity go into his very heart.

"I am a wicked girl who has come to you in lies as a boy, my Uncle Robert, but I have a love that is so great for you that I will be in death if you do not accept of it from me," I said as I pressed my cheek in its tears against his.

And for still another long minute all of the persons present waited again, and I forced to remain in my throat a sob, while my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner laid one of his hands on the shoulder of my uncle, the General Robert.

And then did come that explosion!

"You young limb of Satan, you! I could shake the life out of you if I didn't prefer a live girl to a dead boy. I knew just such a thing as this would happen to me in my old age for a long life of cussedness. And, what's more, I'll wager I'll never be able to give a great husky thing like you away. You cost as much to feed as a man. Who'd want you?" But even as he stormed at me I felt his strong old arms cease from their tremblings and clasp me with a very rough tenderness.

"I do, general," said my Gouverneur Faulkner as he attempted to take me from that very rough embrace of my uncle, the General Robert. "I'll take her off your hands."

Long We Stood There and Looked Into the Soul of Each Other.

Sunny California

By J. J. B. FLINT

California is the second largest State in the Union, the United States having purchased New Mexico, for fifteen millions. The Mexican of today is a mixture of Spanish and native, presenting a rich brown color, darker than the Japanese. No ardent spirits can be sold in California, but Tia Juan (only a few miles from San Diago) is in Mexico. Omnibuses run frequently to this town for thirsty souls from San Diago. No law prohibits the sale of intoxicants there, and you frequently meet many who have just returned from a short sojourn there, who bear the appearance of having enjoyed to the utmost the unstinted hospitality of the citizens of this pretty little Mexican city. Petitions meet you upon every street here urging you to sign for a change in the law permitting the use of light wines, and beer. The prohibitive law hit the grape growers badly.

In Fresno County, there are forty-one millions of grape vines, of raisin and wine varieties. Thirteen millions in San Janaquin County, nine million in Napa County. By the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment this enormous wine trade was cut off entirely. Raisin grapes are dried in the stems for three weeks in some cases steam is used, sweated for ten days in houses prepared for this purpose. Then cleaned by rollers, seeds extracted by saw edges, then packed and shipped. These counties contain millions of fig peach and nectorine trees.

Raising Alligators

The Alligator trade is profitable. Alligators mate in June. For weeks the mother will lay eggs, tier on tier with dividing cells, and wall of clay. The hot sun does the rest. In some cases incubators are used. During the Winter no food is given. For the Summer only one meal a week of meat. They are said to live two hundred years. Alligator skins are in great demand. I saw one enormous fellow declared to be two hundred years old. He had his lower jaw bitten off by another and meat was placed around a pole and thrust into his stomach. Nine Ostrich farms in California. At maturity a pair can be obtained for $700. Forty eggs are laid in a season. Each weighing three pounds. Both parents take turns during hatching. The young in the egg cannot break the shell not having the power. After six weeks one or the other of the parents break the shell and let the little captive out.

Fertile Valleys

There are two large valleys, [illegible] and Santa Clara, [illegible] about 250 miles long by about fifty miles broad. [illegible] Everything tropical [illegible] and [illegible] grown in these valleys. El Jacinto is the great wheat centre. Two crops each year, alfalfa producing eight cuttings in the year. The great secret of the fertility of these lands is the mountain ranges afford copious supplies of water from snow and protection from destructive winds.

Home Magnificent

I have travelled extensively upon the continent, British Isles and Europe, and have never seen a private residence and grounds as beautiful and wonderful as those I saw yesterday near Holywood, a suburb of Los Angeles. Two old men, Germans, made large fortunes in silk in New York. They were brothers and unmarried. They wisely decided to enjoy their means by gratifying their desire for the beautiful. They secured from Japan architects and brought them here, selected the face of a mountain from which a view could be obtained of the city, the ocean, the country adjacent for twenty miles. Concrete roads were made and the mountain terraced. Small canals bordering these roads were constructed, small lakes formed into which were placed gold fishes, beds of the rarest flowers and exotic plants were constructed. A number of black swans obtained, hundreds of pine and all kinds of trees and shrubs were planted. The house is a large Japanese Mansion with wide verandahs, beautiful carvings portraying animals and birds, natives of Japan. Everywhere metal birds and animals including one elephant. The house a model of Eastern beauty, many portions inlaid with gold, gold in profusion upon the gates also upon the temples sacred to "Buddha". These temples defy description such a riot of carving, inlaid with gold—Gold on the gate posts, on the doors, such lavish display as I have never before seen. I do not mean imitations of gold, but actually coined gold, marble stairways, leading to different parts of the grounds. Every thing that a cultivated taste could desire is to be seen. Eight millions were expended, but beautiful beyond imagination, as is the house, temples, canals and grounds, the view obtained is more wonderful, twenty miles distant the shimmering waters of the ocean, with its beaches. To the right miles distant, hundreds of oil wells, to the left and in front extends Los Angeles with its six hundred thousand inhabitants, the mountains a lovely blue in the distance, and clothed with verdure, at either hand fields of grain and meadows, beds of flowers filling the landscape with a brilliant color scheme. There are scenes so strikingly beautiful that language fails to describe. The view referred to is one unequalled in many respects.

The Belleville contingent were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Collip at San Pedro, whither we went to see two beautiful steamers, freighting timber from British Columbia to the port, the trip one way lasting twenty five days. Mrs. Collip is fortunately part owner of two ships of this line.

MOTHER OF 14 HAD A LONG HARD STRUGGLE

TORONTO WOMAN SAYS LIFE SEEMS ALTOGETHER DIFFERENT SINCE TAKING TANLAC FOR SHE'S WELL AND HAPPY NOW.

"Life just seems altogether different since I've taken Tanlac, for I'm well and happy once more," said Mrs. Mary A. Cooney, of 1115 College St., Toronto, Ont. Mrs. Cooney is the mother of fourteen children. She had six sons in the late war, four of them were actively engaged on the battlefields in France nearly four years. Continuing Mrs. Cooney said:

"I certainly had a long, hard struggle with bad health and it seemed that I might as well quit trying to ever get well. I was simply broken down and was suffering all the time. My stomach was badly disordered and I never felt like eating. I would bloat up dreadfully and often became so weak and fainty I had sinking spells.

"My back hurt awfully and I had frequent headaches. Then I had rheumatism in my arms and shoulders and the pains were so severe I could not raise my hand to my head. The joints in my knees ached terribly and often I could hardly walk. I went to bed tired, got up tired and all through the day felt so weak and dizzy I broke down lots of times and had to give up and go to bed.

"That is how I suffered, but I'm thankful that it is all over with. Tanlac was a godsend to me and I feel it is my duty to do all I can to tell others about it. It restored my health completely and I haven't so much as a pain of any kind now. My appetite is just splendid and my digestion seems to be perfect, for everything I eat agrees with me just fine. Tanlac certainly is a wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's drug store and at the leading drug stores in all other towns

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

PROGRAM OF WORK (I)

KNOW BELLEVILLE

This is the first time in the history of the world that the people of any city have set out in this methodical and scientific way to study their present status and condition in order to discover their shortcomings and bring about improvements. The studies, as has previously been stated, are being conducted in the form of debates under ten main heads: (1) Attractiveness, (2) Educational Facilities, (3) The People, (4) Business, (5) Healthfulness, (6) Recreation, (7) Accessibility, (8) Employment, (9) Living Conditions, (10) Progressiveness.

The two public meetings already held have been very largely attended and indicate a remarkable interest on the part of the people and awakened public opinion.

WHITNEY RAILWAY CONNECTION

The movement to obtain direct railway connection between Belleville and Whitney that was inaugurated some weeks ago by the Chamber of Commerce has been gathering momentum and has already resulted in favorable action by the County Council of Hastings, the City Council of Belleville and other public bodies. It is expected that before very long an influential delegation will lay the project before the Commission in charge of the National Railways system. In any event the campaign will not be discontinued until the legitimate desire of the people here has been brought into effect.

ATHLETIC PARK AND FAIR GROUNDS

The need for an up-to-date athletic field and a fair ground and fair in keeping with the importance of our city has been felt for many years. The Recreation Committee of the Chamber of Commerce has already taken up the matter of trying to secure a suitable location and will not discontinue its efforts until Belleville is well supplied with both these necessities.

CITY PLANNING

Modern cities should not be left merely to grow by haphazard any more than a dwelling or business block should be constructed without any preliminary plans. An adequate plan and system of development is even more necessary for the larger corporation than for the smaller unit of a family or a business. A badly planned house merely inconveniences a few individuals; a badly planned city is an inconvenience and often a source of great direct loss to a multitude. City planning includes such problems also as limitation of business to certain sections, the extension of our park system, beautifying the water front and the creation of beauty spots in various parts of the city.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE OPENS REGENT SATURDAY NIGHT

The name of Constance Talmadge, who is universally admired by screen patrons for her fascination, personality and charm of manner, will soar even higher into the milky way of film stars when Belleville screen fans view her performance in "Experimental Marriage" at the opening program at the New Regent theatre Tomorrow night, where it will be shown for one night only.

She is winsome, charming and beautiful and scores in this picture as one of the screen's cleverest comediennes. There is something refreshing about her work on the screen and in "Experimental Marriage" she is so suited to the role portrayed, that the illusion is perfect and the spectator almost forgets that he is looking at a representation of an imaginary character.

The Doors of the New Regent will open Tomorrow night at 7 p.m., two performances being given at 7.15 and 9 p.m. The opening address will be delivered by Mayor Hanna.

Owing to such large quantities of lumber being hauled along the line of the I. B. & O. the train crews have been running the past three weeks.

SNOW IN NORTH HASTINGS

Wednesday's fall of snow will help the lumbermen to complete their winter's work. The roads were getting very bare, in fact camps were beginning to break up. This little winter extension will be greatly appreciated by all in the lumber business a least.—Bancroft Times.

MARKET MEAT

Dear Sir.—Permit me to say a few words about cutting up meat on the market. I am not surprised at the butchers wanting the farmers to stop cutting up meat on the market, because it does mean a great difference in their sales, but apparently they do not realize or care anything about the persons who are trying to get the biggest value for their money. On Saturday I saw great crowds of people buying the best cuts of pork at 25c per lb. and beef from 10c up. So it is no wonder that the people go to the market for it. We have people from all quarters of Belleville coming to the market to buy their meat and there is a reason for it because they get more pounds for their dollars This has been thrashed out by previous councils and the Butchers' by-law was rescinded on the request of hundreds who signed a petition to that effect

Yours,
B. A. SANFORD.

SPORTING NEWS

HERE THERE AND EVERYWHERE

THROUGH COLLINGWOOD EYES

The Collingwood Bulletin contains the following somewhat mixed account of the Belleville-Collingwood game played Tuesday evening in the latter town:

"The local intermediates again registered a victory on Tuesday night when they defeated Belleville in the first of their home games of the semi-finals. This seemed a foregone conclusion of the local fans in view of the team's record this season Belleville looks hopelessly out of the race although the locals' win on Tuesday night was no walkover, as the score would indicate. The visitors have a fairly formidable outfit and would dearly have loved to win on Tuesday night.

"It was a great hockey struggle of the battling never-say-quit style. Neither team asked or gave quarter. The play throughout was of the bang up variety, featured by hard checking but little body checking. The ice was soft and there were frequent spills and not a few casualties and delays, but the game was clean.

"With any other guardian than Cook in goal for the locals the Belleville boys might, perhaps (?) have registered a few more goals. The Collingwood people know that. They admit it at every game, but it was Fryer and Belcher who turned in the real useful thrilling exhibition of the evening.

"Burns, Walton and Draper played the game with a vengeance. There is nothing timid about them. Burns especially seemed to glory in it and always came back for more. Foulis played his usual good defence game and also a lot of useful forward work. Only the toughest kind of luck stopped him from getting a couple of goals from Burns dead-on shots. Woods was used as a sub and did some good work

"Boland was called upon at the face-off to save a dangerous shot from close in. Belcher grabbing the puck out of a scrimmage and skating from end to end, drew Boland out of his goal and slipped the rubber in behind him. It all hapened so fast the huge crowd had scarcely time to catch its breath. The house was in an uproar and the fans were calling for more. Belleville held the offensive and pressed the locals hard. However, they soon broke away and in a combination rush in which Draper, Fryer and Walton all figured, Fryer beat Boland from two feet out for Collingwood's second goal. The play again changed to the local end and Cook was called up to make three saves in quick succession. The last one hit the goal post and caromed into the centre. Whelan and Arnott were prominent on the forward line for the visitors but they had a hard time getting through. With the score 3-0 the first period was easily Collingwood's.

The Second Period

"The teams battled through the second period, with Belleville scoring their first and only goal, while the locals added four more to their lead. Whalen and Weir started out and the Belleville fans took hope. They fed Arnott who beat the whole local team only to have Cook beat him single handed at the goal mouth. Belcher or Foulis was back with every rush and was back-checking like fiends. Belleville never appeared as dangerous as the locals. Green made a brilliant rush but Foulis crowded him out of shooting range into the corner.

The Third Period

"The third period was a heart-breaker for the Belleville fans. Their players were putting forth almost super-human efforts and appeared to be tiring. The champions carried the fight into enemy territory and soon had the score 8-1, when Fryer intercepted at centre ice, evaded both Belleville defence men, drew Boland out and scored. It was a neat bit of hockey. For number nine Woods took a notion to rally forth, carried the puck down to the defense, passed to wing and Burns scored.

"Belleville defence pair used poor judgment. Invariably both chased after the man with the puck, leaving the odd man free to take a pass. Their forwards also dug into the corners too much and failed to save their energy for goal getting opportunities. Tuesday night it was not an unusual sight to see three of four Belleville players checking one Collingwood man while the balance of the Collingwood forwards were skating into their positions. They used the same tactics at the Collingwood end in an effort to score goals, thus getting out of the play and allowing the local defence men to break clear.

On Thursday night the Merchants met the G.T.R. Shops team and won the game by a margin of 106 points; this perhaps was owing to the fact that the Shops were short a man on their team and had to use John Doe, who is absolutely NO GOOD. Martin, of the Merchants team, was high single man with 197, and also high three string with 443. Tonight's game is Steel Company vs. K. V. A.

FANS PROVEN TRUE SPORTS

The hockey fans of the city have proven beyond a doubt that they are behind the boys, every mother's son of them, to the last inch; this was demonstrated by the speedy sale of seats for Friday's game here. By Thursday noon every seat was sold and no grumbling heard about paying the top price either. Belleville sports are awake at last and give every intimation of having routed all the would-be Rip Van Winkles of the city

REFEREE TO-NIGHT

Lou Marsh is the referee chosen for the final game between Belleville and Collingwood. He also refereed the game at Collingwood on Tuesday night and the Belleville boys know that they need not expect any breaks to come their way, so it is up to them to play superior hockey tonight and show who's who in hockey circles.

O. S. D.—AVONDALE

A good game of hockey was played on the O. S. D. rink on Thursday, Feb. 24th, the Avondale team being the visitors. The O. S. D. boys played their usual good game, being sure of themselves at every turn. The score at the end of the game was 10-0 in favor of the O. S. D. team. Naturally the members of the team responsible for such a score were highly elated at their victory. The line-up follows:

Avondale—Goal, G. Waite; defence, Westfall and Woodcock; centre, G. G. Waite; wings, Burns and Champaine; subs, Reid and Hagerman.

O. S. D.—Goal, Meyett; defence, Mowat and Cole; centre, A. Dick; wings, Tate and Pye; subs, McGovern and Hunter.

W. Dand was perfectly satisfactory to both sides as referee, being fair and impartial in all his decisions.

BASKETBALL

Thursday night on the "Y." gym. an interesting game of basketball was played between the girls of Form 2b and the High School Senior team, resulting in a victory for the Senior team by 16 to 2.

Both teams have very good records; 2b has the inter-form record, therefore winning the trophy presented by Ex-Mayor Riggs. The Senior team have the record of not losing a game at home or abroad in eight encounters.

Both teams played well, but the Senior team are more experienced and heavier than 2b. Misses A Lafferty, V. Wrightmeyer and G. Lloyd starred for the seniors, while Misses Helen Deroche, Francis Potter and Jean Weir were the best for the losers.

The line-up was as follows:

Seniors—Forwards, A. Lafferty and V. Wrightmeyer; side centre, H. Reid; jumping centre, G. Lloyd, guards, C. Yeomans and Marjorie Kerr

Form 2b—Forwards, J. Weir and Mildred Kerr; side centre, M. McCormick; jumping centre, B. Halsey; guards, Frances Potter and H. Deroche.

Mrs. Vosper refereed and Miss N. P. Merry umpired, both being on the High School staff.

Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Post

Former Hastings Couple Celebrate 50th Anniversary of Wedding Day.

On Monday night, Feb. 14th, 1921, there gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Post, of Greenridge, Manitoba, a surprise party of their friends and pioneer neighbors to the number of over fifty, to offer their congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Post, it being their fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. It was a double surprise. Mr. and Mrs. Post were away from home that day and knew nothing of it until they arrived home about eight o'clock in the evening and found the party in possession. All went lovely as the marriage bell, all being friends and neighbors of nearly forty years, as Mr. Post settled in the neighborhood in April, 1883 and has resided there ever since. After hand-shaking and congratulations all around and singing "For they are jolly good fellows, and addresses by the Rev. Mr. Johnston and Comrade A. Collins, a veteran of 1866, and J. Calder, another veteran of 1871, J. G. Gunn, the oldest settler in the district, and several old timers, the speeches were brought to a close for lunch. Lunch over, then for an old-time visit and pioneer yarns till the wee sma' hours. After prayer by Rev. Mr. Johnston and another handshake all around the guests departed to their respective homes, being well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Post are both former residents of the County of Hastings, Mr. Post being born in the second concession of Thurlow seventy-five years ago. Mrs. Post was born in the township of Madoc seventy-five years ago last November. They are both hale and hearty as plenty of people at forty and fifty.

CANADA'S FOREST INDUSTRY

SHOULD NOT BE SACRIFICED.

An estimate of the supply of pulp-wood available in a single province of Canada—the province of Quebec—places the total at 360,000,000 cords. This is part of forest resources which, according to the "Dominion of Canada," a study by the Bankers Trust Company, of New York, are the mainstay of the second most important Canadian industry, taking the net value of the output as the basis of comparison.

The latest available census of Canadian manufactures gives the value of log products in 1917 as $115,800,000 gross, $75,100,000 net; and of pulp and paper, $96,300,000 gross, $61,600,000 net. The total net value of forest products, $136,700,000, was 35 per cent. greater than the net value of Canada's manufactured animal products, and about 45 per cent. above the net value of her manufactured vegetable products. Manufactures of metals alone exceeded in net value the output of forest products.

The United States is dependent upon Canada's forests for an important part of her supply of newsprint paper, and of wood pulp from which such paper is manufactured. In 1914, the United States imported about one-fifth of the paper consumed while in 1919 the imports, chiefly from Canada, were about one-third of the consumption.

EIGHTY PER CENT. OF CANADA'S AREA.

FIT ONLY FOR TIMBER PRODUCTION

Excluding the worthless tundras of the far north, eight acres out of ten of Canada's habitable area are designed as permanent forest growing land. Canada's total area of over three million square miles is so enormour, however, as to provide abundance of fertile farm land for millions of new population. There is a widely prevalent belief, inherited from our Canadian great-grandfathers who faced totally different conditions, that the destruction of forest areas almost invariably means that farms will follow. This proved true a century ago when the fine agricultural soils of Southern Ontario and Quebec were tree covered. Canada has now reached the stage when only a trifling percentage of the land area now covered with timber growth is of any agricultural value. The whole aim of the forest conservation movement, now gaining such headway, is to retain the non-agricultural sections of the country as a timber-producing estate. To do this effectively the annual plague of forest fires must be fought and overcome, for it is not generally known that forest fires have destroyed ten trees to one that has fallen by the axe of the lumberman.—C. F. A.

EDUCATION AND TRAINING.

No worse form of economy can be imagined than that one which would stunt the development of education. Professor Marshall has very aptly remarked that the production of one man of genius may defray the cost of educating a whole town. Still more will the creation of a nation of capable, competent people, even if, as most of them must, they fall short of genius, pay for their own education. From the more political point of view the case is even stronger. To deny to the citizens of a democratic and civilized country proper educational facilities is to deny them that equality of opportunity which is fundamental to democracy, and access to the good life which is the reality of civilization. We are glad to see that these facts are recognized in the commercial world.—Westminster Gazette.

Year after year the young men of Belleville go out and win glory in athletic sports, with honor for themselves and credit for this city. Year after year Belleville athletes put up with indifferent ice rink accommodation in the winter and lack of recreation ground in the summer, but despite these handicaps are always in the running until the wind-up. If talk could build rinks and construct recreation grounds Belleville would have been supplied with them long ago. It is time to stop talking and hear from the money, which speaks a compelling language.

The Ottawa Journal says that "Losses by fire in this country from preventable causes constitute a national scandal. Carelessness should not be permitted to put an impost of millions of dollars on Canadian business. Investigations should be thorough and punishment so severe that carelessness will be discouraged." A law exists providing for this—but how many times has it been exercised?

The Editor of the Deseronto Post seems to have been experiencing some difficulty educating his congregation up to a standard of thoughtfulness, and moralizes thus: "Expecting the editor of a paper to pay an admission fee to a concert, ball or any other indoor sporting event and then expecting him to give HIS time to write it up and pay HIS money to have it set up in type is almost too much of a good thing. Deseronto is the first town we have been in (and we have been reporter for dailies, editor of weeklies and semi-weeklies in some of the best towns in Ontario) where complimentary tickets are not sent in to the newspaper office. Deseronto needs a bit of enlightenment on common courtesy to the press."

OTHER VIEWS

FARMER FINANCE

London Free Press

The legislative correspondent of the Farmer's Sun gives some disquieting particulars in regard to the Drury Government's financing and describes the situation as serious. The Sun says that since November 13, 1919, when the Drury Government came into power, loans aggregating $66,050,00 have been floated. The Sun describes this figure as "startling," and adds, "still more startling is the statement of terms on which the loans were floated." Outside of a Dominion Housing Act loan of $4,250,000, which carries five per cent. interest, none of the loans bear less than 5½ per cent., and some bear over six per cent. There were 10 loans in all aside from that of the Dominion Government, and only half of these were placed above par, the highest price being a shade over 104½ for $5,000,000 carrying six per cent., the actual rate of interest in that case working out at 5.21 per cent. A loan of $10,000,000, extending over 20 years, carrying six per cent., was placed at a shade above 96¾, making the interest rate 6.28 per cent. Another loan of $16,000,000, for 15 years, at six per cent., was placed at 92 1-3, making the actual interest charge 6.81 per cent.

The Sun says:

> "When the great Province of Ontario, which proudly boasted 20 odd years ago that it had no debt, has to issue 15 and 20-year bonds at six per cent., and cannot get par for them at that, the situation is indeed serious."

FOR THE SINNING MEMBERS

Brockville Recorder and Times

Roch Lanctot, M.P., is a strong character though at times amusing. He opposed the increased indemnity to members, but accepted it, however, he declares he did not benefit by the extra $1,500, but handed it back to public uses as follows: $600 each to the county councils of La Prairie and Napierville; $100 each to the agricultural societies of each county, $10 to the Rev. Mr. Roy, parish priest of St. Mathieu de la Prairie, for two masses for the sinners of the House of Commons who voted this money to themselves without consulting the people who paid for it, and $90 for his income tax at six per cent., on the extra fifteen hundred dollars income.

Roch, dear chap, looks as if that $10 for the purpose suggested is a bit of a bluff on your part. The cost of palliation is not at all commensurate with the offence.

POETS' CORNER

ENGLAND FROM THE TROPICS

No more the burning sands beat back the sun,
No sun-drenched breakers shatter into gems
To crown the reef with poising diadems.
The sunset leapt, blazed, shuddered—and was gone.
And now night drops her blessings
one by one
From star cool hands; the faint scent of the seas,
The crystalline darkness, and the long heart's ease
Of knowing that the jaded day is done.

But I would back to England once again
(Where lush things grow—where even Summer ends)
To firelit books, to all the dear, clean things
Whose memory keeps us always English men
And haunts us as the quiet eyes of friends
Haunt us, and clings as old-world perfume clings.

THE SLAVE IN CANADA

MAN-HUNTERS FOLLOWED REFUGEES ACROSS THE LINE.

Days Are Recalled When This Country Set the United States an Example in Freedom of Individual—Romantic Stories of How Canadian Refused to Permit Negroes to Be Returned to Their Masters.

It is not a new thing for Canada to set the pace for the United States in matters of social and political progress. The outstanding cases have been recent and are known to the whole world. Canadians went into the Great War about three years before their cousins thought it necessary to help the nations that were defending democracy. Canadians decided without demur and without looking for personal gain or advantage to make the sacrifices necessary to launch the League of Nations in an effort to solve the problem of protecting the peace of the world. It might also be added that Canada led the way in giving women the vote. Those things are only recent, and it is rather interesting to note that we can go away back to find that Canadians condemned slavery while the Americans still recognized it. "The Slave in Canada" by Hon. W. R. Riddell calls attention to this very interesting and almost forgotten phase of our history.

There were slaves in Canada in the early days. In 1793, there was an act passed by which all slaves born thereafter became free, subject to certain conditions of service, but those who were then slaves remained so. There were still a very few slaves in Upper Canada, if not in Lower Canada, until 1833, when the Imperial Act of 1833 came into force. In Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, slavery never flourished. However, complete abolition came throughout the Empire just before Victoria ascended the throne. As Mr Justice Riddell says, "In the old land, judicial decision destroyed slavery in the British domain, but conscience and sense of justice and right impelled its destruction elsewhere by statute, and the same sense of justice and right impelled the Parliament of Great Britain to recompense the owners for their property thus destroyed. If there be any more altruistic act of any people in any age of the world's history, I have failed to hear or read about it."

But the fact that the United States upheld slavery while Canadians did not believe in it, created some serious problems for our young nation. The stories of our experience with fugitive slaves are exciting and frequently romantic. The masters of runaway slaves did not always remain quiet when their slaves reached Ontario, or Upper Canada as it was then called, but their claims were never sympathetically considered. The consequence was that the Americans resorted to both force and cunning to recover their property.

One example of force was the case of Andrew, a handsome young octoroon who was given refuge by Chas Baby in the old Baby Mansion in the historical town of Sandwich. Andrew's former master offered $2,000 for the return of Andrew, which Baby indignantly refused. Shortly afterwards in the summer of 1830, a band of desperadoes from Detroit attempted to kidnap Andrew while the family were at church, but Charles Baby and Andrew successfully resisted them until assistance arrived. The would-be kidnappers were driven off, and had to make a precipitate escape across the border into Michigan. The neighbors came to the conclusion that it was not safe to keep Andrew so close to the American border. Accordingly they took up a subscription and sent him by stage to "dirty little York," where he made good and became a respected Canadian citizen.

According to the law of this country, slaves became free automatically as soon as they put a foot upon the soil of Canada. It was held under British laws that the freedom of the person was "the most important civil right protected by these laws." As slaves could not be recovered by legal processes, the Americans resorted to the trick of accusing them of crimes. According to the international law, a man who had committed any crime, had to be sent back to his own country, to stand his trial. Escaped slaves were no longer claimed as slaves. Instead of that, their masters trumped up charges against them, and asked to have them sent back to answer these pretended crimes. The Canadians were quick to see through this subterfuge.

How private citizens felt about it was indicated by the case of Solomon Moseley, a negro slave who escaped from Kentucky, and took his master's horse to aid him in his flight. He reached Canada safely, but was arrested on the charge of larceny. A case was made out against him, and the American authorities would have recovered possession of this slave if it had not been for the people of the Niagara district. Under the leadership of Herbert Holmes, a teacher and preacher, three or four hundred men lay round the prison, night and day, to prevent the prisoner being surrendered. At length, the deputy sheriff with a military guard, brought out the unfortunate man shackled to a cart to go across the Niagara river ferry to the United States and to slavery. The military escort was attacked by the determined body of men, who helped Moseley to make his escape, but in the fight that followed Holmes and another of the rescuers were killed. Moseley reached Montreal, and as the Mackenzie Rebellion broke out about this time, no further effort was made to molest him. In fact he returned to Niagara a few years later and lived there with his wife.

hoop skirts were worn by those who first asked the druggist for, and insisted on having the genuine Favorite Prescription put up by Doctor Pierce over fifty years ago. Dress has changed very much since then! But Dr. Pierce's medicines contain the same dependable ingredients. They are standard today just as they were fifty years ago and never contained alcohol.

Beauty depends upon health.

Worry, sleepless nights, headaches, pains, disorders and weakness of a distinctly feminine character in a short time bring the dull eye, the "crow's feet," the haggard look, drooping shoulders, and the faltering step.

To retain the appearance of youth you must retain health. Instead of lotions, powders and paints, ask your druggist for Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

PHIPPEN, SASK.—"Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cured me when all other medicines failed. The home doctors could do nothing for me. I happened to see Dr. Pierce's advertisement in the paper, sent for the medicine, and felt great benefit from even the first few doses. I took but a few bottles until I was entirely well. I cannot speak too highly of the merits of the Prescription." MRS. JANET BROWN, R. R. 1.

THE FRONTIER COLLEGE.

Splendid Work Done Among Men In Camps and Mines.

Fine Canadianizing work is being done, and has been done, for the past twenty years by the Frontier College, as we are reminded by receiving Alfred Fitzpatrick's latest book, "The University in Overalls." Various writings by Mr. Fitzpatrick, especially his "Handbook for New Canadians, and "The University in Overalls" is quite as interesting and suggestive. The author is the principal of the Frontier College, whose general aim is to carry to men working in the mines, the fisheries, the lumber camps and in other places remote from educational centres the opportunities they otherwise would miss. This is done by sending out competent university graduates, who work side by side with the men in the daytime, and in the evening cajole them into a special tent, box car or shanty and carry on the process of education. From twenty years' experience Mr. Fitzpatrick has found that from fifteen to twenty-five per cent. of the men will welcome this opportunity to improve themselves, which is far higher percentage than obtains in the cities where similar education might be had at the night schools.

The big idea behind the Frontier College is that not only should the uneducated be taught, and the foreigner Canadianized, but that they should see the benefit of an education in the person of the instructor. The teachers are picked men. They must be able-bodied as well as able-minded. They must impress those among whom they work as good men with the peavy, the axe or whatever implement is held in most esteem. They must become leaders, or rather they must be naturally qualified for leadership. To send anaemic, undersized teachers to the frontier would never do, nor are the instructors permitted to take any soft job if a hard job is available. Having won the confidence of the men, they use their influence to induce them to attend the evening schools, where they are instructed all the way from the A B C's to the matriculation course.

These instructors are as a rule welcomed by the big lumber companies, construction companies and others employing gangs of men far from the centres of civilization. They are paid by these employers just like any of the other hands, and they are given an allowance of about a dollar and a half for each evening's instruction by the college. Their work is regularly inspected and checked, and those who are found not to measure up to the exacting requirements are let go. Up to the present time about 500 of these instructors have been employed at one time or another. The funds for carrying on the work are provided partly by contributions on the part of the corporations which realize the value to them in dollars and cents of improved education among their employes and partly by the various Provincial Governments. Few Government expenditures, we believe, show richer returns, and as time goes on the interest will be still greater as these former navvies begin to climb in the world.

No work is more important than that of Canadianizing the newcomer to this country. Mr. Fitzpatrick remarks that thirty years ago you might as well have looked for a needle in a haystack as for a foreigner in a frontier camp. Nowadays the bulk of these men are foreign born. In a camp of eighty you are likely to find eight nationalities. These men have to work hard with their hands every day, year in and year out. If they are to be educated the education must go to them. It was never before so important as now that these foreigners should be taught about our institutions. Never before were there so much Bolshevist and Socialist germs flying about. Never before were loose talkers and dishevelled thinkers so pestiferous. As Mr. Fitzpatrick says: "The principles of representative government are supreme. They are being secretly and openly assailed by insidious propaganda. Patriotism must be imparted. Free speech should not be crushed, but the loose talk of demagogues should not be matched with the trained thought of the schools."

"Demagogues of native and of foreign birth must be answered when they indulge in reckless talk, unfounded talk, and reckless half-truths," says Mr. Fitzpatrick. The instructor of the Frontier College is just the man to battle this propaganda, for not only has he the necessary information and the trained mind, but he is regarded by his fellows as a leader to be trusted. We wish the work of the Frontier College and its devoted principal every success.

Asiatic Eggs.

A train of twenty-five cars, loaded entirely with Japanese and Chinese eggs, left Vancouver, British Columbia, the other day, bound for New York. The train was made up of nine carloads sent over from Seattle to be attached to sixteen carloads of eggs from the steamer Empress of Russia. The eggs from Seattle were delivered by Japanese liners. The eggs, with the exception of 1,500 cases for London, England, and 1,000 cases for Montreal, were all consigned to New York. The shipment to the latter point consisted of approximately 17,500 cases of thirty and thirty-six dozen each, or about 6,300,000, more than an egg for breakfast for every man, woman and child in New York city.

Bravery Rewarded.

The bravery of Hugh Gallinger, of Montreal, a brakeman in the employ of the G.T.R., in rescuing a child from a burning building at the risk of his life, has been recognized by the presentation of the Royal Canadian Humane Society's bronze medal.

The Pelican and His Habits.

The pelican is commendably regular in his habits. The parent birds catch fish and after eating their fill deposit the others in their pouches under their bills and carry them to their young. These pouches will hold from three to eight pounds of fish. They are elastic, and when distended to their utmost nearly touch the ground. When empty the pouch lies close up under the big bill and is merely a mass of wrinkles. It is this pouch that gives the pelican his characteristic and disagreeable odor caused by decaying fish.

Chinese Sacred Mountain.

Every year thousands of Chinese pilgrims risk their lives in climbing up the side of Hwa-Shan, the Flowery Mountain, which is sacred to the Taoist religion. Any one reaching the temple far above is supposed to have any request granted as a reward for valor and endurance. The Hwa-Shan Mountain is over 6,000 feet high and the ascent in many places must be made along a narrow ledge of branches laid on posts driven horizontally into the face of the precipice. There are no handrails, but a chain held on the rock face offers some security to the ascending or descending pilgrim.

"TANGELO" IS NOT A NEW DANCE STEP

Washington, Feb. 24.—The "squirtless" grapefruit may appear shortly on the American breakfast table. The new product, designed to spare the the eye from a citrus shower, is known as the tangelo. It is a hybrid, the offspring of the tangerine and the grapefruit, but is more tender than its parents.

This discovery was disclosed to-day, when Senator Ashurst, Arizona, read into the confessional record a bulletin from the department of agriculture. The birth of the tangelo is complete, but no attempt has been made yet to market it.

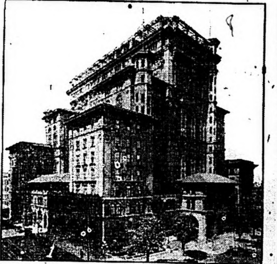
RELIEVES PAIN

A WINTER DAY IN VANCOUVER



(1) Hotel Vancouver, Vancouver, B.C.
(2) The Siwash Rock, near Vancouver.
(3) Capilano Canyons.

The balmy air and glorious beauty of a winter day in Vancouver invites to this Paradise of the Pacific where the grass grows green as a June pasture and on the evergreen coast a narrow strip of grey and brown divides the evergreen land from the evergreen sea. Golden, blue, purple and green is the vista of sky, sea, mountain and forest while English Bay stretches, blue, laughing and limpid. The sandy beaches of Kitsilano and Point Grey receive the languid surf as it rolls up the gentle slopes of the shore. The canyons are slashed with purple and all at times are shrouded in great veils of cloud and mist. There is ever the mystery, the massiveness and the infinite variety of tone and color with always a touch of spring promise in the air, in the almost bursting rose-buds, when the birds break into song, in the tree branches, filled with swelling leaf-buds. All give the impression of having been drenched with the sweetness and fragrance of nature in her most riotous spring mood. Well kept roads and endless paths intersect the sylvan woods about the city and, at every turn, the sea comes into view and over it the watery pathway to Victoria and Vancouver Island.

On every side the city is bounded by a variety of natural beauties which can be enjoyed by one-day boat trips, such as a run up Burrard Inlet to Port Moody, chosen in the early days of railway construction, to be the western terminal. The rustic little settlement of shacks had visions of greatness and wealth until the later choice of Vancouver for the meeting of "rail and sail." The North Arm is a Fjord that gives the visiting Norwegian a longing for home, blue mist-topped mountains coming down to green, blue and black waters, with "Wigwam Inn" and its sylvan setting at the end.

The industrial and commercial advantages of the Pacific coast climate, are an important element in the building of a great manufacturing provinces. Navigation by water is never closed by ice, roads are seldom blocked by snow, water-powers are never frozen or dried up, street railways can run their cars without an elaborate heating system.—C. G.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION

Police Officer Johnston this morning detected a man named George Smith endeavoring to sell in a second hand store a buffalo robe and a waterproof coat. As Smith was not inclined to answer questions as to the ownership of the articles he was placed under arrest, and a charge of vagrancy preferred against him. The accused was only recently released from the county jail where he served a term for stealing chickens. Magistrate Masson remanded Smith to jail for a few days so that the police could make inquiries in reference to the robe and coat, which it is believed were stolen.

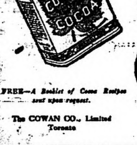
France and Poland have signed a commercial treaty.



IF you want healthy, sturdy children, you must provide them with the right kind of food. At the same time it must be food that they enjoy.

The value of Cocoa as a beverage for children cannot be too strongly emphasized. It is both food and drink. It not only provides the hot drink which children crave, particularly in the winter, but it is rich in concentrated nourishment.

Often a child will refuse milk when it is essential to his health. Give him Cocoa and he loves it, and gets far more of the requisite nourishment than he would in a glass of milk.

Cowan's Cocoa, made in Canada, is prepared with an understanding of the requirements of Canadian children, and the mother who gives it to her children every day, is helping them to develop strong, healthy bodies and to withstand cold and illness.

Facts About the Muskeg

A CONSTANT feature of the north is the large area of muskeg. As soon as we leave the plains behind in the Northwestern Provinces, or enter the hinterland behind the Great Lakes, we come to the home of the muskegs. "Muskeg" may not be a very old dictionary word, but to anyone who has spent a season in the north the term is full of meaning. It belongs to a species of country peculiar to the north and is like no other. Though wet, it is not a marsh, for a marsh implies water and grass; it is not a bog or swale or swamp—though it may be a little of all—for it may be found upon the tops of the rocky hills as well as in the lower lands. It is simply a "muskeg," a type by itself, and must be met to be appreciated.

The muskeg is the product of moisture, long winters and cold in conjunction with certain plants that thrive under such conditions. In fact the vegetation has about everything to do with making the type. It may or may not be wet. When the water persists to a certain degree and the surface of the ground becomes unstable it may be called quaking bog or quaking muskeg. In such places there is more water than soil under the surface vegetation and it is possible to shake the surrounding area even for several yards. The extreme of this sort of bog is the floating muskeg, the tangled surface vegetation being merely a thick mat floating upon the water. Many northern lakes have such unstable margins. But again, where water is not present in any quantity all the other conditions may prevail even upon the rocks.

To the eye a muskey usually appears to be a fairly level carpet of deep moss studded with more or less thickly populated stands of black spruce. These two conditions nearly always prevail. Sometimes when the spruce is very sparsely planted and very small in size this moss-field is quite open, and so frequently receives the name of "barren." Sometimes other trees occur also. A few small birches, alders or tamaracks sometimes mingle with the spruces, but none of these ever succeeds in achieving normal size. Next to the black spruce, the tamarack or larch is the tree most frequently found here, and indeed is almost as typical of such places as the other tree.

All trees in these areas are small. Though, apparently, the black spruce is best fitted to endure such conditions, it seldom succeeds in reaching more than six or seven inches in diameter. Straight as a ruled line it invariably stands, and its tufted, witch-broom top gives it a distinctive appearance quite different from the more symmetrical white spruce of the more fertile lands. The foliage is rather dense, the needles are short and stiff and enduring as befits a tree of these hard places, and the cones are quite roundish, giving another contrast to the elongated cones of the white spruce. So commonly does this tree stand on the low lands with the moss about its feet that it is often known locally as "muskeg spruce."

The tamarack or larch is a noteworthy tree, as it is an apparent evergreen that sheds its leaves in the autumn. Like the black spruce it sometimes colonizes in considerable stands of its own kind, growing straight and limbless below, with all its foliage on the upper branches. The foliage is pale green in color, easily distinguished at a little distance from the darker spruce, and early in the autumn, before falling, it turns to bright yellow. At this time, when the first frosts have nipped the green mosses and left a tinge of rich brown, the muskeg takes on its brightest aspect.

The beginning and growth of one of these mossy areas would form an interesting study could we but see it. Yet we may see a little of the story of a muskeg in the making in certain places where fire in time of extreme drought has cleared off the moss and surface vegetation, necessitating a new start. The first and last chapter seems concerned with the lowly mosses. The dampness and coldness of the ground, the shortness of the summer season and absence of extreme heat give the various mosses just the conditions they require. The north is rich in mosses. They luxuriate here. So after a burning, the first moss creeps over the abandoned ground; its matting forms a harbor for the seeds of the spruce or the seeds of berries scattered by wind or birds; and so one plant living and dying makes room for another. The new builds on the old. Only those plants can survive here that are adapted to living upon a cold, damp footing. The moss thickens with the years, each species taking hold when conditions are right. Its dense, spongy carpet seems not so greatly to impede the frost's downward progress in the fall as it does the release and departure of the frost in summer. Frozen ground lies not far beneath the surface throughout the entire season over a goodly portion of Northern Canada. In many places the moss carpet lies to a depth of two feet and the traveler sinks to the knee in it.

On such cool footing the muskeg plants flourish. The commonest plant in these mossy spots is the Labrador tea—the "muskeg tea" of the north, and sometimes used as a substitute for the much better Oriental product. The plant is a small branching shrub with curled leaves, and so closely does it weave its roots about through the moss that in wet spots the traveler often can step dryshod from clump to clump. Four common berry-bearing plants are the trailing cranberry (Oxycoccus), the bog cranberry (Vitisidaea), the bearberry (Arctostaphylos) and the muskeg raspberry (Rubus).

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Fermenting Food and Acid Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble, Caused by Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

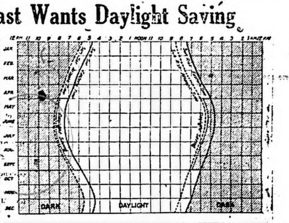
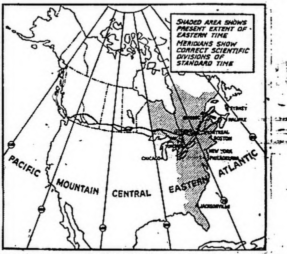
Why The East Wants Daylight Saving





Within a few weeks, the question of daylight saving will probably once more become the subject of more or less heated debate in which business men, city fathers, farmers with cows to milk, mothers with children of school age to look after, and last but not least, railroads with time tables to print and trains to run if possible to the minute, will demand to have their say. The advocates for daylight saving will point out that in England the economy in coal consumption effected by daylight saving during the summer months amounted to $2,500,000, whereas the dairy farmers of the middle west protest that the morning dews and the natural milking time for cows cannot be regulated by clock, while in the North-West where the summer sun shines eighteen or twenty hours a day the mother of seven children wishes to goodness that the darkness and the hour for bed time came twice as soon and lasted twice as long—what she wants is a darkness-saving law.

The demand for daylight saving, however, is most insistent in Eastern Canada and the Eastern States, and for every insistent demand there is usually a real reason. The reason apparently is that the so-called standard time in force in the area in question varies considerably from the mean sun time upon which the actual length and intensity of daylight is based. Standard time is a convenient artifice established in order to secure uniform time for neighboring communities or places. The sun is travelling from East to West and the noon hour originally travelled with it, but it was found advisable to fix definite areas in which the noon hour and other hours should remain the same for the convenience of the operation of railroads and telegraphs and the transaction of business wherein contracts involved definite time limits.

Such standard time was adopted for the United States in 1883 on the initiative of the American Railway Association, and as the time of the civilized world is by general consent based on Greenwich, England, the meridians selected for the division of the various standards were fixed at the 60th, 75th, 90th, 105th and 120th degrees west of Greenwich. Atlantic standard time theoretically extended from the 60th to the 75th meridian and Eastern standard time from the 75th to the 90th meridian; Central standard time from the 90th to 105th; Mountain standard time from the 105th to 120th, west of which was Pacific standard time. These times were adopted by law in a number of the individual States, but municipalities have not all followed suit as public sentiment and habits proved more potent factors in fixing the time standards for localities than have State Statutes.

Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, on the Eastern boundary of Atlantic time zone, have used that time for thirty years or more, but it was not until 1903 that New Brunswick, which was in closer contact with the New England States, finally by Act of its legislature adopted Atlantic standard time officially for that Province.

The situation was complicated, particularly in the Eastern States and Eastern Canada, by the railways themselves, where in actual practice it was found necessary to fix the time-breaking zones at terminals or division points. As branch lines have been constructed, the carriers have extended on these the standard time observed at the junction point or upon the main line. There are instances where the branch lines radiate out of one zone into another, thus introducing a time at variance with the theoretical time of that zone. The contention of the railways is that time should be changed only at the points at the termini of train dispatching districts when train crews are relieved. They claim it is hazardous to require train crews to change from one standard operating time to another during a trick of duty, and impracticable to have train dispatchers operate trains under two standards of time.

Conflict between the States which have adopted Eastern standard time based strictly upon the 75th to 90th meridians and the railways which have found this to be not sufficiently elastic, has naturally resulted, as for instance in the State of Vermont, when a Bill has been introduced into the House of Representatives in which one section reads:—

> "A common carrier engaged in commerce within this state or between this state and any other state or territory shall not change its time schedules for the movement of trains within the state in order to accommodate itself to conditions outside the state arising by reason of the adoption of any other standard of time by any other state."

Then again the demand for daylight saving has complicated matters. The United States Congress last year passed an Act which defeated the general adoption of the proposed daylight saving, whereas the States of New York and Massachusetts adopted daylight saving, and the new England railroads, in order to reconcile the conflict between the Federal Act and the State Acts of Massachusetts and New York, ran their trains on standard time, but one hour earlier than they otherwise would. The Canadian railways fell into step with the American railways, and in doing so were supported by the municipalities of many of the larger cities which had adopted daylight saving.

Now it is noticeable that the demand for adoption of daylight saving time by the larger towns and cities is almost exclusively confined to Eastern Canada, New England States and the City of New York. On examination, this appears to be due to the fact that Eastern Standard time which theoretically extends only between the 75th and 90 meridians has been carried in actual practice a very considerable distance east of the 75th degree. According to this meridian places all of the Province of Quebec, and all of New England, New York City and part of New York State in the Atlantic should belong to the Atlantic Time Zone, and if this time were reinstated there would be little or no call for daylight saving now. The railways have carried Eastern time too far east, and the States and Provinces and Municipalities which have adopted the same time for the sake of uniformity are realizing that this does not correspond with natural time. On the railways, Eastern standard time is carried from Gaspe in Eastern Quebec to Fort William in Ontario, a distance of 25 degrees or 1200 miles instead of the 711.70 miles of 15 degrees.

On eastern standard time as at present maintained in New England and Quebec, the sun rises from May to September two to three hours before the average person is about in the morning, and sets at an equally unserviceable hour. Hence the natural demand for daylight saving legislation in these parts. If New England, Quebec and the Maritime Province were to adopt Atlantic standard time, which is their natural specific time, they would save hundreds of thousands of dollars all the year round for fuel and light, and incidentally the agitation for daylight saving would be buried in oblivion.

Save Your Eyes

No age is exempt from the need of attention to the eyes. Civilization demands excessive use of the eyes at close range. Good eyes are overworked and poor ones made worse by so much study and near work, unless the excess burden be relieved by lenses ground in such a manner as to direct the light into the eye as that eye is best adapted to receive it, and focus it on the eye's retina.

It's our business to make and fit such lenses.

How to Remodel a Flirty Husband

DOROTHY GISH CAST AS VIVACIOUS YOUNG BRIDE IN NEW FILM

"Remodelling Her Husband which opened a three day engagement at Griffin's last evening, is a rollicking picture about a disillusioned young bride and a flirtatious husband. Dorothy Gish is the chief funmaker, and like all of this vivacious star's vehicles, the pace is rapid and laugh-provoking.

Miss Gish has the role of Janie Wakefield, who marries a handsome young philanderer much against the advice of her girl friends.

The new bridegroom has a failing for pretty faces. After several of his mix-ups with other ladies, Janie leaves him in haste and tears.

But her buoyant spirits do not permit her to mourn and she soon devises a novel means of curing her husband of his flirtatiousness and of making him a spouse.

James Rennie is the leading man. "Remodelling Her Husband" marks his debut in pictures, we believe, though he is well known in stage circles. Lillian Gish branches out as director, with this film and does a very excellent job. Downing Clark, Frank Kingdon, and Marie Burke are also in the cast. "When Dreams Come True" a very interesting Travelogue, Vode-vil-movies showing high class vaudeville acts performing before the camera, Pajama Marriage an amusing 2 reel comedy, and a gripping chapter of "Pirate Gold" an entertaining bill of screen entertainment.

FAREWELL PRESENTATION

A number of friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Lent gathered at their home on Friday evening last to bid them farewell. An address was read by Mrs. M. G. Huff as follows:

Massassaga, Ont.,
Feb. 18, 1921.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Lent and family:—

It is always a pleasant duty to rejoice with those who rejoice, but tonight we are here at the call of a sterner duty to fulfill a command in the Good Book, "to honor those to whom honor is due, and during the years of your sojourn with us we have been learning more and more to respect and honor you, because of that helpfulness, beauty and fragrance, inherent in you, which is always the fruit of blameless lives.

It is with the most sincere regrets that we have learned of the coming departure of yourselves and family from our neighbourhood, and it is a truth to say that a veil of sorrow is hanging over our heads to-night as we realize how we shall miss your hearty handshakes, cheerful smiles, and kindly brought sunshine and cheer into our own lives.

We shall indeed miss you in the Church, the Choir, and the Sunday School, where in your effort to help us you have been enshrouded by an armour of a sure intent. We shall not only miss you in the church and its various organizations, but also in the neighborhood, and we trust that your absence from us will not rust but brighten and strengthen the links of the "golden chain."

As a tangible expression of our love and friendship we ask Mr. Lent and family to except this "Solid Leather Club Bag," and Mrs. Lent this Table Mirror and Silver Fern Jar. We do so with united hearts hoping you will always cherish kind remembrances of your many friends at Massassaga, Mr. Lent, Mrs. Lent, Cecil and Abbott, wherever your future homes may be, of these things you may be sure, our kindest thought, our sweetest memories, and our most earnest prayers will surely follow you. May God in His all wise Providence protect and guide you, and may Heaven shower upon you rich blessings from her treasury, and when life is ended may we all meet in our Father's Home above

Signed on behalf of the friends of the neighborhood,
MRS. GEORGE ACKERMAN,
MRS. HOWARD HUFF.

Known to Fame

Speaking of fame, said the Observer of Events and Things, I believe it was Cinderella who first put her foot in it.—Yonkers Statesman.

"Make Good" OR "Make Room"

This has been called "The Tragedy of Progress." A business man or a business woman in this Twentieth Century must do one of these two things, i. e., "Make Good" or "Make Room" for someone else. There is no happy medium.

To make good in your business ventures, in the service you render your employer, in your home-life, and among your neighbors—YOU MUST BE HEALTHY.

To be Healthy, you MUST POSSESS A NORMAL SPINE.

All medical men who are liberal-minded and not blindly prejudiced, all scientists and, above all, all people possessing common sense now admit that the spine is the keystone of the human body; and that if it is out of alignment (in other words out of line), there is bound to be a pinching of the nerves which will prevent the vital force from flowing uninterruptedly to the various organs. The result is so-called dis-ease of those organs which are not receiving their proper quota of life force.

The competent chiropractor is a spine specialist. He palpates the spine carefully and ascertains exactly where the vertebrae (small bones) are out of line (subluxated). Using his bare hands alone he, by means of Chiropractic Vertebral Adjustments, puts these vertebrae back in line. The nerve pressure is thus relieved, the life force flows freely to the organs involved, and HEALTH IS THE RESULT.

Don't wait until you are "all in, down and out" before consulting a chiropractor, but at the first sign of danger, (slight though it may be) ask for a SPINAL ANALYSIS. If it is found that your spine is out of alignment, take CHIROPRACTIC VERTEBRAL ADJUSTMENTS as often as your chiropractor deems necessary and you will be healthy and will "MAKE GOOD."

NO CHARGE.
Consultation is without charge or obligation.

AIR FORCE WILL BE REORGANIZED

Ottawa, Feb. 24. The Organization of Canada's Air Force on a permanent basis is semi-officially announced. This means that the practically voluntary plan which was adopted as an experiment some-time ago, and which was similar to militia organization in army circles, will cease to exist.

The formation of a permanent air force completes another link in the forging of Canada's status as a nation as it gives her complete offensive or defensive powers in the form of a permanent military body, a navy and an air force.

It is expected that the announcement of this change will be officially made within a few days, and that it will designate Camp Borden as the permanent headquarters of the unit.

Officers who have been in training and have passed their examinations successfully, provided they desire permanent air force rank, will be given appointments. It is also stated that head of the Canadian Air Force since Commodore A. K. Tylee, who has been it was organized last year, will resign. His place will be taken by Wing Commander R. B. Redpath, who served overseas in the Royal Air-Force.

Details as to strength of the unit, the number of machines to be kept in commission and the pay and allowances schedule will not be known until the official announcement is made.

PILES Do not suffer another day with itching, bleeding, or Protruding Piles. No surgical operation required. Dr. Chase's Ointment will relieve you at once and afford lasting benefit. 60c. a box; all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Sample Box free if you mention this paper and enclose 2c. stamp to pay postage.

"While employed in a stone yard, I cut my leg very badly," writes Mr. Oakley. "A doctor sewed up the wound and attended me for five weeks. All the while I was off work. At the end of it I was advised to go to hospital.

"After I paid over $40 to the doctor I determined to try Zam-Buk. Within two weeks Zam-Buk had so healed the wound that I was able to return to work. Further treatment made the limb quite sound. Thus one dollar spent in Zam-Buk did what a forty-dollar treatment had failed to do! I shall never be without Zam-Buk again."

Clemenceau and Milner Made Foch Supreme Chief By Very Quick Decision

THE story of how Foch took control of the armies of the Allies is now being told in Paris by M. Stephane Lauzanne, the editor of the Matin.

On a critical Sunday, March 23, 1918, Clemenceau called on President Poincare, stating that Gen. Petain feared they would have to evacuate Paris. On March 26 a conference took place at Doullens with the representatives of the British Government. Gen. Foch was there and exclaimed to the President:

"Paris has nothing to do with the matter. Paris is a long way off. That is where you ought to stop the Boche. You have only to say 'Il ne passera pas,' and he will not pass."

"'But how would you stop them?' asked M. Loucheur, who had come up. 'Ah,' answered Gen. Foch, 'you know my method. I stick a seal there, another there, and yet another there. The Boche can make but little headway. I stick yet another seal there, and the Boche is pinned down. You can always pin down the Boche.'

"M. Clemenceau had come up, and although, as M. Lauzanne says, he did not like Gen. Foch, because Gen. Foch had recently opposed him, and he did not take kindly to those who differed from him, he leaned over to M. Loucheur, and signified his assent. At that moment the British conference was over, and the Franco-British conference began.

"Each, even at this solemn hour, wore his usual aspect; M. Poincare was calm; M. Clemenceau caustic; Lord Milner phelgmatic; Foch nervous; Petain impenetrable, while Haig had the drawn and tired face of a man who had not slept for three nights. Poincare, with the lucidity which even in the most anxious hours never deserts him, explained the situation, and added, with energy, that in his view they could make no other decision than to stop the Boches where they were, and nowhere else. Field Marshal Haig said he was ready to do his best, and ready to defend Amiens, whereupon Foch leapt up, and striking the table, exclaimed, 'No, Field Marshal, No! There is no question of Amiens at all. We must conquer before Amiens, we must conquer where we are.' And in a few abrupt, metallic phrases he repeated the demonstration he had made in the square of Hotel de Ville.

GEN. FOCH.

"At this moment Milner got up and beckoned to Clemenceau with whom he had a brief whispered dialogue. Milner was heard to repeat several times, 'There is the man.' Haig got up and joined them. He is a fine and noble figure, is this brave soldier. From the first day of that mortal battle he had realized the truth. There was no cohesion, and not always even agreement, between the two allied armies. If they went on thus, they were marching straight for disaster. Only one remedy existed, and that was to put above him, and above Petain, a single chief, whose orders they would both have to obey. As far as he was concerned he would willingly act under the orders of Foch.

"The French commander-in-chief had no less patriotism than the British commander-in-chief, and accepted without hesitation. Then M. Loucheur took a sheet of paper and drew up a declaration by the terms of which Gen. Foch had entrusted to him the duty of co-ordinating the efforts of the two armies. 'Since you write so well,' said M. Clemenceau, 'write two copies of this declaration, and we will sign it at once.'

"He did so, and the decision whereby the Supreme Chief was placed at the head of the two armies was signed in pencil on a half-sheet of notepaper."

A Good Course.

The man in the rainbow stockings was trying to play golf. The difficulty was, of course, to hit the ball. It was so much easier to hit the ground. He hit that every time. The turf flew in all directions. Swish! Swosh! Plop! More excavations. Something was wrong somewhere. It couldn't be his stockings. It must be the links. He turned helplessly to his opponent. "What do you thing of these links?" he exclaimed. "What do I think of 'em?' gasped his opponent, wiping a bit of soil from his lips. "Pouf. Best I ever tasted."

Vast Railway System Owned By People of Canada

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT OWNED RAILWAYS WILL HAVE MILEAGE OF 22,375, MORE THAN FIFTY PER CENT. OF RAILWAY MILEAGE IN CANADA — SOME PROBLEMS OF OPERATION AND DEVELOPMENT.

When the Grand Trunk Railway System is incorporated in the Canadian National Railways, the mileage of Government-owned railways in Canada will be 22,375 miles; comprising more than fifty per cent. of the railway mileage in Canada.

Writing in 1876, the preface to his history of the Intercolonial, Sir Sandford Fleming said:

"The Intercolonial Railway is National in its objects and character."

This great railway engineer was, at the time, engineer-in-chief of the Newfoundland, Intercolonial, and Canadian Pacific railways, the latter then being projected as a Government undertaking, and it is to this he refers in the last sentence of the preface when he states that the completion of the work "realizes the national aspirations of half a century by bringing within a few hours, the old fortress of Halifax and the elder citadel of Quebec, and which must form an important section of the railway, destined ere long, to extend from east to west through the entire Dominion."

The words then spoken with confidence by a man experienced in achievement have been fulfilled, but in a manner quite different to that then in the mind of the writer. The Canadian Pacific became a privately-owned company and is now the only competitor of the system that is "National in its objects and character" of which the Intercolonial is an important section.

Future Development

Canada's main traffic arteries are built for some time to come—and the National System's immediate development will be largely internal—some branch lines will be required, but apart from these and connections for operating economy, such as the Long Lake cut-off (that is between the National Transcontinental and the Canadian Northern east of Nipigon) there will be little additional mileage warranted in the near future.

The policy will naturally be to bring the physical properties of the National Lines into excellent operating position, meaning more than mere maintenance of line and equipment, and involving the bringing about of a proper balance of facilities, the removal of features that limit the capacity of certain sections of line, such as an inadequate terminal, which, when congested, may affect the operation of a division—putting in double track where required, improving terminal equipment and so on. This work is not spectacular, but will be reflected in the operating statement at the end of the year.

Work of this kind can only be undertaken on the assumption that the traffic will develop for which various sections of the National System were built, and, naturally, such development work may have to be discontinued, or postponed, when business conditions are depressed to the extent that these traffic possibilities seem remote. At the present time, the business outlook is too uncertain to justify any large expenditure for equipping the lines of the National System to handle large increases in traffic. With possibly one or two local situations excepted, the National System has a capacity above the traffic to be immediately handled.

Co-ordination

The monetary advantages of co-ordination are apt to be over-estimated by the public, who, seeing two ticket offices combined in one, at once jump to the conclusion that operating expenses are being cut in half. Unfortunately, the effect of such consolidation is limited to a very small percentage of the total operating expense. As has been before stated elsewhere the traffic expenses of Canadian Railways are less than 2 per cent. of the total. As a matter of fact, if the total expense of the Traffic Department could be cut in half on all Canadian Railways, the saving would not be within a million dollars of meeting the recent 8½c. increase per hour for section forces wages. While the economies by co-ordination made up of small items aggregate quite a large sum yet compared with the general wage increase averaging more than $25.00 per man per month, which took effect throughout the year, the amount is negligible.

The increase referred to is, it is hoped, the last of a series of advances of which the McAdoo Award was the main feature, with its many Supplements. The result is that the average wage of railway employees in Canada has advanced from the pre-war wage of $709 per annum to $1,700 per annum.

As long as lines have to be maintained, (and what lines can be abandoned?) the maintenance charge remains, the equipment must also be kept up. Reductions in train service effect economies, but the cost of station service at out-side points is not affected by the number of trains handled, but by the spread of hours of the staff as affecting overtime. The case is similar in connection with Branch Line runs. The inclusion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Lines with those of the Canadian Northern in the West, under Canadian National Railways management, has, of course, affected economies, as regards the actual operations, yet as stated, these have come unfortunately, at a time when they have been overshadowed by large wage increases.

In the case of the Grand Trunk lines in the East also being co-ordinated with the National System, the savings effected are not noticeable when compared with the increases occasioned, by the adoption of the 1920 Award of the United States Railway Labor Board, which made increases effective May 1st, 1920 involving large back time payments. The co-ordination that has been effected, with the Grand Trunk still maintaining its corporate existence, has naturally been limited, but those that loom up as possible, when the lines are consolidated, are substantial.

Absorbed by Wage Increase

The rate increases granted by the Railway Board in Canada not being up to the scale that was requested by the Railways, and, coming as they did with a business decline, have not produced sufficient additional revenue to offset the step-up in expenses which wage increases and attendant rise in other costs has placed on the railways during the year. Under the circumstances, the only course for the management to pursue, is to reduce operating expenses to the lowest possible notch consistent with safe operation and reasonable service. Acting along these lines is sometimes opposed by local interests that consider they are unfairly affected, but the matter must be handled on lines of broad policy in the interest of the owners of the property who are the Canadian people represented by the Government of Canada. The management have every reason to believe that the public will appreciate the fact that the steps being taken to make ends meet are in the National interest, and that the campaign of retrenchment will have general support.

Trainman Gets Society Honor For Bravery

C.P.R. CAR INSPECTOR SAVED WOMAN'S LIFE BY JUMPING FRONT OF ONCOMING TRAIN.

Montreal, Feb. 25.—In recognition of his heroic action in saving the life of a woman endangered by a train last August, Mr. Dollard Arbec, a car inspector on the C.P.R. at Farnham, has been presented with the parchment of the Royal Humane Association for life saving at Farnham yesterday. A large number of the company's employees and officials witnessed the ceremony, including Mr. Williams, divisional superintendent, and Mr. W. J. Uren, assistant general superintendent at Montreal, while the City of Farnham was represented by the mayor, Dr. [illegible], ex-Councillor R. A. [illegible], [illegible] and Secretary-Treasurer J. E. Lebeau and Messrs. A. Gauy, H. J. Battaron, S. Gauthier, [illegible] and G. Rivard.

Mr. Uren, explaining the reason for the meeting, spoke in part as follows:

On the 27th of August last, when train No. 204 was approaching Farnham Station, Mr. Dollard Arbec, who was employed by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company as car inspector, noticed a woman, who it was afterwards learned was Madame Vian, about to cross the track to get to the station platform in front of the oncoming train, and saw at a glance that it would be impossible for her to do so without great risk of being struck by the engine. He endeavored to attract her attention and warn her not to attempt this hazardous undertaking but, apparently, she did not understand his warning and did not stop. Stumbling over the rail, this woman undoubtedly would have been crushed by the train had not Mr. Arbec rushed to her assistance. He had barely time to pull Madame Vian clear of the train, but his prompt action enabled him to secure her between the platform and the track until the train came to a stop. It is stated by those who witnessed this act of bravery on Mr. Arbec's part, that the train was not six feet distant when he himself got clear of the engine.

Saved Lives at Fire

I believe this is not the first occasion on which Mr. Arbec has shown his bravery. It was during the fire at Farnham when the hospital was destroyed a few years ago that Mr. Arbec saved the lives of some children. During his efforts he fell from a ladder and sustained an injury from which he is slightly crippled today.

The Montreal Herald changes hands. The executive is to be composed of Montrealers who served overseas.

Bolshevism Condemned By International Socialists

LABOR SOCIALISTS IN CONVENTION AT VIENNA DECLARE BOLSHEVISM CAN ONLY WEAKEN LABOR MOVEMENT—PRESENT WORLD CONDITIONS MAKES PROLETARIAT RULE IMPOSSIBLE.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

VIENNA, Feb. 26.—General condemnation of Bolshevism marked yesterday's proceedings of the International Socialist conference, in session here. Speakers from many countries betrayed the recognition that the present world conditions make the task of achieving a proletariat control virtually impossible and admit the present conference would serve only to assist in a general effort to crystallize the sentiment of Labor. It was declared Bolshevism would only weaken the Labor movement while it was asserted that its use depends alone upon revolutionary socialism.

Armenians Tell Troubles to Allies

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

London, Feb. 26.—The Armenian representatives were heard this morning by the Allied representatives gathered here for their Near East Conference. Later questions affecting Armenia and Kurdistan were taken up with the Turkish delegates to the conference while it was generally expected representatives of the Turkish Nationalist Government would agree to proposals for the solution of the Near-Eastern question. It was forecasted that the Greek answer would probably be in the negative. It was stated, however, at the Foreign Office that M. Kalogeropoulus, the Greek Premier, would be appointed a member of the Inter-Allied Commission which will conduct investigations on the conditions in Thrace and Smyrna and that the fact that this inquiry would be held did not imply that Greece would be compelled to evacuate the territories they now occupy.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

PROGRAM OF WORK

RURAL RELATIONS

The Chamber of Commerce has a strong standing committee the purpose of which will be to increase the feeling of friendship and harmony that should exist between city and country. Mr John Elliott, the chairman of this committee, is giving the matter his energetic support. Already in this connection the County Council and City Council have met at a banquet and much direct good has resulted. The committee has several ambitious plans in hand for the establishment of rest rooms and public lavatories and hopes to make adequate provision for the parking of cars.

TRY BELLEVILLE FIRST

The Chamber of Commerce strongly recommends the general public to patronize Belleville merchants, manufacturers, business houses, musicians and professional men before going elsewhere. It is felt that as good or better service in these lines can be secured at home and that those who help to maintain our schools, streets and other public services should have the preference over those who make no such contribution.

WATER COMMUNICATION

Efforts will be continued to provide our city with steamship passenger and freight service. There is more than a sentimental regret that the fleet of steamships have vanished from our Bay. We would all like to see the Rochester-Montreal boat restored in order that the beauties of our Bay of Quinte may be properly advertised.

INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION

The Industrial Commissioner is working with the greatest energy to secure the location here of a number of industries that will mean much to Belleville. The present commercial depression has caused a slowing up of expansion but it is anticipated that the worst is now over and that the opening of spring will witness a resumption of activity. A number of American industries that have been considering Belleville as a location are expected to open negotiations again early this spring. Every reasonable encouragement and assistance, aside from bonusing, will be given to new industries to locate here. Suitable sites are being listed and selling prices secured. The Chamber of Commerce is assisting this movement in every possible way.

MODERN CITY GOVERNMENT

The campaign to secure for Belleville a more efficient and more economical form of administration, known as the "city manager" form of government, will be energetically continued. The educational campaign that preceded the vote at the January election was all too short, and the result was that the attempt at reform was defeated but only by a small majority. There is no doubt that when the merits of the system become known the results will be different.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRESS

The Chamber of Commerce will actively promote the movement or movements to round out Belleville's educational system by the creation of a modern collegiate institute and technical school, a public school for Coleman Ward and the greater Albert College. All these projects are not likely to be completed within the compass of a single year but they will continue to be pressed until the desired results are obtained.

(To Be Continued)

Interesting Demonstration Of New Rubber Process

EXPERTS FROM LARGE RUBBER MANUFACTURING CONCERNS VISIT BELLEVILLE AND VIEW INTERESTING DEMONSTRATION OF NEW FINISHING PROCESS INVENTED BY W. M. MACKINTOSH—SHOWN AT THE PLANT OF THE TIGER TIRE AND RUBBER COMPANY.

An interesting demonstration was given at the plant of the Tiger Tire and Rubber Co., Limited, on Friday afternoon which may mark a forward step of considerable importance to the rubber industry. The demonstration was conducted by Mr. W. M. Mackintosh in the presence of several experts from leading rubber manufacturing concerns who were keenly interested and consisted of a finishing process for rubber goods occupying less than half the time and eliminating the danger of moisture spoilage which is the greatest drawback to profits the rubber men have to contend with. The demonstration was entirely successful and the experts expressed themselves as satisfied with what they had seen and the results as far as developed.

Mr. Mackintosh was working with ordinary machinery used in the plant of the Tiger Tire and Rubber Co., and with goods supplied by various rubber firms so that the demonstration took place with the maximum of disadvantage to him. Notwithstanding this the demonstration proved successful and very interesting to all present.

Among those who watched the demonstration from beginning to end with the greatest interest were Messrs. Campbell (Chief Chemist of the Gutta Percha Rubber Co., Toronto); Mr. Langdon, Superintendent Gutta Percha Rubber Co., Toronto; Mr. Foote, of the Independent Rubber Co., Merriton; representatives of the Tiger Tire and Rubber Co., Mayor Hanna, J. O. Herity, Manager Chamber of Commerce, press representatives and others.

Mr. W. M. Mackintosh, the inventor of the process, is a well-known man in the rubber industry both of this country and overseas and has been working on this process for several years.

Patents have been applied for in Canada and other countries. The U.S. Patents already being approved of. The inventor has assigned the U.S. rights to the Kelly Springfield Tire Co. Akron, Ohio.

The process will vulcanize any class of Rubber goods made up from a suitable compound such as boots, shoes, surgical and accessories, tires, tubes, mechanical, hard rubber, etc.

Present Method

To understand the value of Mr. Mackintosh's invention, it will be necessary to refer to the present methods of vulcanization and their drawbacks. Boots and shoes after being made up and varnished are placed in a dry heat oven, at a temperature of about 140 degrees fahrenheit. The temperature is raised gradually to 270 degrees over a period from 6½ to 7 hours according to quality.

In this heater or oven may be from 1,000 to 2,000 pairs of shoes. In the event of a sudden change of humidity, the result is more or less the whole of the shoes would become affected and turn out usless and unfit for sale.

The average loss to the manufacturer in this respect throughout the year is 6 per cent. of the output, and in some countries as high as 9 per cent.

The rubber and other materials used in the manufacture of the goods must be kept bone dry, and the departments where the goods are made up must be kept at a temperature of not less than 75 degrees Fahrenheit all the year round.

In the case of rubber tubes and hose before they are vulcanized, they must be wrapped in cloth, bound down on mandrels, the cloth which costs much, and is of short duration, through perpetual use, makes the goods more expensive.

The Invention

The inventor claims for the process an apparatus similar to that already in use by the dry heat method with certain modifications, and this difference, boots and shoes with a high glossed varnish are vulcanized from 1½ to 2 hours, instead of from 6½ to 7 hours as in the present method, according to the quality of the boot and shoe. This gives a saving of 5 hours a day in coal, steam and other charges.

The process has absolute control of humidity during the process of manufacturing of the goods or the vulcanization, and reduces the chances of loss in this respect from 6 to 9 per cent. as the case may be to a fraction of one per cent.

The quick vulcanization is due to the rapid extraction of free sulphur from the rubber compound, and the goods may be placed in the apparatus at a temperature of 240 degrees with impunity, 100 degrees above the present method.

Goods vulcanized by the process are uniform, does not alter or interfere with the varnish or appearance of the goods, free from flowering, gives the rubber greater life, increasing the cohesive and adhesive qualities of the goods 25 per cent., and is not affected by moisture. Jointless inner tubes and hose can be turned out by the process without wrapping, the same applies to other goods.

Several firms have sent in various samples of their goods to be vulcanized by the process, such as shoes, hose, rubber sheeting of compounds made up of rubber, wet from the wash mill including inner tubes.

Mr. Mackintosh, who has been connected with the Rubber business for over forty years is already well known to the people of Belleville and state he has already assigned over the Canadian as well as the U.S. rights, and he is here giving the demonstrations on behalf of the assignees.

Woman Not Injured In Mad Leap From Grand Trunk Train

While the Grand Trunk train No. 18 was travelling at a speed of upwards of 45 miles an hour, four miles east of Collins Bay, at 1.40 o'clock Friday morning, a woman passenger in the Pullman car Pleasanton, believed to be Mrs. M. Johnston, of 513 Sherbourne street, Toronto, broke the glass in the window opposite berth No. 12 which she was occupying and jumped. Unharmed except for a few scratches, she was found afterwards in a nearby farmhouse.

According to the story of the conductor, the woman was placed on the train at Toronto by a man who said that she was suffering from a nervous breakdown. She held a ticket for Vankleek Hill. As the train was speeding east on Collins Bay, Pullman Conductor C. Morrison, heard the noise of breaking glass and, investigating, was just in time to see the woman disappearing through the window. The train was brought to a stop and the track searched for two and a half miles back without any trace of the missing passenger being located. Half a mile from the point at which the train was stopped there was found the woman's handbag containing the name and address mentioned above.

CROP CONDITIONS GOOD

Winnipeg, Feb. 24.—"To date conditions for a splendid crop in 1921 have been ideal," Hon. G. H. Malcolm, minister of agriculture for Manitoba, declares. "The enormous fall plowing will enable them to get crops in this spring under better conditions than for many years. Approximately 2,730,000 acres were prepared for crop by fall plowing in Manitoba. The crop acreage should be larger than usual this year.

"The winter, too has been unusually favorable for stock," stated Mr. Malcolm. "Reports received by my department fail to indicate continued the minister regarding the wintering of stock. The dairy industry," continued the minister, "should be in admirable shape this spring. There is every indication of an early growth of grass, which is most favorable, and the splendid condition of livestock is a splendid indication of an remarkable year in dairying."

"HOW TO WIN THE SOUL"

SERMON FOR THE "SHUT-IN", THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

"Hold out steadfast and you win your souls."—Luke xxi:19 (Moffatt's translation.

Jesus has been telling of the trouble and conflict that shall surely come to the early Christians. He gives them ample warning. He tells them to be steadfast and they will win their souls. Note A. V. rendering: "In your patience possess your souls"; and Rev. Ver.: "In your steadfastness ye shall win your souls." There is a vast difference.

1.—The Promise: "Win your soul." The meaning is that the soul has great possibilities. It is not perfect, but we go on to perfection. (Illus.) We may possess a book, but we must read and study it in order to have it. Some one may have a violin, but it must be practiced on to produce the best music. Britain owned South Africa before and after the war. But she had to fight and then win the good will of the people to really possess it.

In every life there are the great possibilities of loss or gain. In childhood or youth a young fellow may give promise of great things to his father and mother. But he may reach 40 or 50 and they find out that his life is a failure—some sin or wrong aim gave it a wrong bent.

The soul must pass through a process of growth. Something made may be wonderful, but a living thing that grows is miraculous. "It doth not yet appear what we shall be." Wait we have a long time to grow. (Illus.) What a lesson to go back to the "age of flint" and compare it with the present. See the wonderful exhibit in our C. N. E.—made and grown.

We hear and read a good deal of the Mastery of Science. Consider briefly a great thing.

2.—The Mastery of the Soul. The great struggle in life is the mastery of self. That means the control of all our powers, physical, mental, moral and spiritual. Body grows and must be mastered, so does the mind if it gets a chance. Many dwarfed until [illegible]. The growth and mastery of the moral nature is even more important. But we have heard of seen men having no conscience. Then what of the soul? It's a great thing to have a soul to possess—to be a "living soul." (Illus.) I saw a man lately who seemed to have lost his soul if he ever had one. As I talked with him he seemed to know nothing about "faith" a great gift of the soul nor the things related to faith. All he could talk about was his farm and what he could raise on it. To me it was very pathetic. Here was a man eighty years old who appeared to have no hope for the future. He was known as a prosperous farmer in Sidney township.

How do we win and master our souls? Self surrender. "He that loseth his life shall find it." This is the Master's way, "should not the servant tread it still?"

"We lose what on ourselves we spend." (Illus.) Paul said, "I count all things but loss for the knowledge of Christ." "What was gain I counted loss." Self-mastery determines all minor issues in life. If a man really masters himself it is easy to master anything else. Then "each victory will help you some other to win." But self must be mastered first. Then we come to know that "One is your master, even Christ, and all ye are brethren."

3.—Consider Soul Discipline. Take the A. V. word in our text "In your patience possess your soul." This is a great thing to wait for things to come to pass. This exhortation is needed now. "Let patience have her perfect work." Faith itself must be made perfect. So we read "The trial of faith is much more precious than gold, though it be tried by fire, might be found to the praise and honor and glory of God." Prayer itself becomes a real school for the training of the soul. What a mighty power is prayer to the soul in the hours of trial and temptation! The soul life is a struggle. Paul knew it when he said "I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith." It was the inward faith that brought the victory. For "this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith." Let us endure also as seeing Him who is invisible. It was when the fight was hardest that Jesus our Master was calmest. May we learn the secret. "I can do all things in Him who makes me strong." Our Lord's experience and His great example should help in the days when problems are pressing hard upon us. Our text for today may also help us in the days to come. "Hold out steadfast and you win your souls." Astronomers tell us that one of the planets rolls on its orbit swathed in clouds and moisture. The world moves wrapped in a mist of tears. God alone knows the mail, and each heart knows its own bitterness and finds help in the Bible words, "Ye have need of patience." He who waited so long for the formation of a piece of old red sandstone, as described by Hugh Miller, will surely wait with much long-suffering for the perfecting of a human spirit.

Grant us, O Lord, that patience and that faith:
Faith's patience imperturbable in Thee,
Hope's patience till the long-drawn shadows flee,
God's will, but said, Good it is to be here.
face,
Hope, pale and careful, hand in hand with fear,
Love—ah, good love, who would not antedate
And love goes softly on the way to death,
How gracious and how perfecting a grace
Most patience be on which those others wait
Faith with suspended rapture in her
Love's patience unresentful of all scathe.
Verily we need patience breath by breath,
Patience while faith holds up her glass to see,
While hope toils yoked in fear's copartnery.

Bathe Internally—the One Natural Way.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Overcome

Tells Safe, Simple Way to Treat And Relieve at Home

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh, and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

General Obregon Becomes New President of Mexico Brings Some Hope of Peace

THE troops were there to awe the crowd when Gen. Obregon was elected President of Mexico the other day. But the troops weren't needed, say the correspondents; since practically everybody was voting for the one-armed soldier there was nothing to fight about, and Mexico enjoyed the most peaceful day of balloting since the efficiently managed elections of the Diaz regime. The elevation of Mexico's best fighter to the Presidency in such an undisputed manner, strange as it may seem at first glance, is taken by many editorial observers as foreshadowing an era of peace. Gen. Obregon, it is remembered, visited the United States during the Great War and was taken on a tour of inspection of the camps and munition factories, and returned home an earnest advocate of peace between Mexico and the United States. In fact, this soldier has become an outspoken pacifist, saying: "I would rather teach the Mexican people the use of the toothbrush than to handle a gun. I would rather see them in schools than upon battlefields. I prefer any day a good electrician, machinist, carpenter, or farmer to a soldier."

GEN. OBREGON.

"We want less war and more work," is Alvaro Obregon's motto for Mexico, according to a signed article he has written for the Mexican Review, and from which the New York Times quotes these paragraphs in which the President-elect outlines his program:

"After satisfying our internal needs we will attack the foreign debt. The principal will be paid in full as it comes due, of course, if we can possibly pay, otherwise we will make arrangements for extension which will satisfy our creditors.

"When that is done we will talk about borrowing more money for the rehabilitation of our railroads and the building of our ports and other public works which have been allowed to go to pieces.

"Whatever money we borrow will be devoted to public works only. That guarantee I will personally give. Not one penny of borrowed money will be spent for the current expenses of the Government.

"Our army will be cut in two. It will be reduced to one-half its present size, or fifty thousand men, and will be well paid, clothed, equipped, and modernized. The fifty thousand men retired will be aided to go to work on farms. We are now trying to discharge men in regions where work is plentiful and well paid. These men will remain in the reserve, subject to call.

"I shall propose to Congress that the generals be paid a lump sum in lieu of retirement pay that will enable them to buy homes or go into business and increase production. I shall try to reduce the number of clerks in government employ, too, and do away with sinecures.

"The country is at peace. There is to be no punishment for political offences, but those who have broken the law cannot hope to escape retribution merely because they have been Obregon's enemies. Magnanimity cannot be stretched to make a cloak for lawbreakers."

Why Saints Have Halos.

It is said that saints have halos because a country boy made a curious mistake some hundreds of years ago when he first began to paint holy pictures. In order to keep the rain from discoloring the statues of saints that stood just under the eaves of churches, the church authorities used to place wooden discs over them. Giotto, when a boy, assumed that the discs were an essential part of the sacred figures. At first he painted above the head of each saint a disc that looked like the bottom of a tub; later he made it a mere circle, dark at first, but more and more luminous in successive pictures until it became the circle of light that painters ever since have used as the symbol of sanctification.

Exciting Hockey Game Ends in Tie' 4-4

COLLINGWOOD HOLDS LEAD IN FAST GAME ON BELLEVILLE ICE.

After the class of hockey which the members of the Belleville intermediate hockey team put up at the Arena here Friday night the wonder is greater than ever how on Tuesday last at Collingwood the team of that town was able to pile up a score of 9 to 1 against Belleville.

But it is the same old story—wonders never cease. Although the score last night, upon the face of it, namely 4 to 4, does not show superior playing by either team, there is no denying the fact that our boys outclassed their opponents, but failed to place the puck within the net. It was a great game, with some spectacular incidents thrown in. The fans were out in large numbers; in fact it was one of the largest attended games of the season, and that is saying considerable. As a result our boys are out of the game for the balance of this season, but they retire with credit. Collingwood wins the round by the number of goals secured over Belleville at the former place, namely, 8. There is no disguising the fact that the members of the winning team play good hockey, and some of them are star stick handlers.

Considerable dissatisfaction was expressed in no uncertain manner by the spectators over some of the decisions of Lou Marsh, who refereed the game. That he is cognizant of the game is not disputed; but some of his decisions were questionable, if not bordering on the "raw" nature. In this respect our boys were the sufferers and to a considerable extent. A lead of eight goals on the round was a discouraging feature, but the heartiness with which the Belleville players entered into the game from the face-off to the final bell was wonderful. They were not discouraged, neither were they disheartened, if one is to judge from the manner of their play. All the vim of which they are possessed was thrown into the game and there was no lagging. It was a battle royal from which some of the players emerged with scars of the fray.

In the first period Foulis, who is recognized as one of Collingwood's best defence players, was placed hors de combat, when he fell upon the ice, with the result that his left shoulder was dislocated. In this period Green sustained an injury to his knee and in the second period he received a bad cut on the leg. This necessitated his retirement for the period, but Bill was game and resumed play in the third period with as much, or more, vigor than ever. It was a game that will be long remembered by those who witnessed it. While our boys are out of the running they have certainly done much in the way of placing Belleville on the hockey map, and their efforts in this direction are appreciated.

The game:—

FIRST PERIOD.

At 8.20 Lou Marsh, the referee, sounded the bell which brought the teams from their dressing rooms to the ice. To the spectators the members of the visiting team looked almost like giants to our boys, but what the latter lacked in size was made up in quality, and that is what counts. Wood and Arnott faced off and the game was on in earnest. Hardly had the game started when Arnott was sent to the penalty box for two minutes. Play was for some minutes all around Collingwood's goal and shot after shot was made by the Belleville players, but no goal was registered. The play was fast and exciting and after fourteen minutes of actual play had elapsed Green secured the rubber and by excellent manoeuvring and wonderful speed scored the first goal, much to the delight of the spectators. A minute later the forward line of the Collingwood team came up the ice and Belcher tallied a goal. About this time Foulis, of Collingwood went down and out for the balance of the game, as it proved to be, with a dislocated shoulder. He was replaced by Burns. During the next six minutes of play both teams tried hard to score, but could not. In this period there was not the slightest doubt that our boys had the better of the play. Two penalties were handed out in the period, Arnott and Fryer being the offenders.

SECOND PERIOD.

Almost immediately after this period started Whelan was sent to the penalty box, and this seemed to be a signal for our boys to play harder and they certainly did. Arnott, with a rush, carried the rubber into the enemy's territory and scored. Fryer replaced Foulis at defence, Burns taking a wing. Not to be outdone in the matter of scoring, Walton secured the puck and rushed on Belleville's goal, and scored. The game was exceptionally fast at this stage and off-sides were frequent. Some were detected by the referee and some were not. It was during this period that Green, by some means, sustained a nasty cut on the right leg and had to be taken to the dressing room, where his injuries received the attention of a physician. Score at the close of this period was 2 to 2, with both teams going strong and playing fast hockey.

THIRD PERIOD.

When the final period of the game commenced there was much interest manifested by the spectators as to the outcome. The question was which team would leave the ice with victory perched upon their banner. Green of Belleville was back on the job and appeared to be in as good condition as ever. Within one minute of actual play he scored, breaking the tie. It was at this stage of the period that Wood and Draper of the visiting team gave a good exhibition of hockey. They came down the ice and when near Belleville's goal Wood passed the rubber to Draper, who shot it into the net once more tying the score. From centre ice Wood shortly afterward lifted the puck and tallied, giving the visiting team a one-goal lead. From this time on to the close of the period play centred around Collingwood's goal, but a strong defence and good work by Cook, Collingwood's goalkeeper, prevented a score; but "Daw" Whelan, shortly before the bell rang, tallied for Belleville, evening up the score.

It was shortly before the bell rang that an empty bottle was thrown upon the ice from the northwest end of the rink and it was apparently aimed at the referee, but fortunately did not hit him. When Whelan scored the fourth goal for Belleville there was but two minutes to play. The final score was 4 to 4.

The line up of the teams was as follows:

Collingwood—Goal, Cook; defence, Foulis and Belcher; centre, Wood; wings, Fryer and Walton; subs, Burns and Draper.

Belleville—Goal, Boland; defence, Green and Finkle; centre, Arnott; wings, Weir and Whelan; subs, Holway and Canning.

ON-SIDES AND OFF-SIDES

Pithy Paragraphs on Last Night's Hockey Game.

Finkle, who was a great surprise to the spectators as this is the first game he has played this season, put up one good game. He made sensational rushes and created much surprise among the members of the opposing team when they bumped into him. He was right there every time on defence.

"Daw" Whalen played a wonderful game. To do him full justice it would take illimitable space and a dictionary. "Daw" was right "on" all the time. A whirlwind would be about the best word to describe his sensational play. It was hard luck that "Daw" got in the bad graces of the referee as he sure did play hockey for all that was in him.

Holway, a junior, subbing for "Gunner," was a welcome surprise to the spectators. He's solid all the way through and will take the boards for no man, but gave 'em to a few opponents.

Canning was not on for long but while in the fray did good work. He is also a junior and was used as sub for defence.

Vern Weir played, without a doubt the best game ever. Speed, Oh Boy! Weiry has it, and check, it was one great treat to watch that boy sail into any and every mix-up, or single man, a neat body check with plenty of life behind it, a poke at the puck with his stick and another rush gone to glory. Vern's shooting was much better last night, mostly every shot being dead on.

"Gunner" played a peachy game but received so many penalties and was watched so close that he didn't have a chance. Just the same Gunner proved he was no slouch by getting a counter. Several times he carried the disc right to the goal mouth, there to lose it by hard luck. "Gunner" can surely carry that rubber and once he gets his eye on it he never rests content till its landed in the net from his stick.

Bill Greene was a joy sublime to the crowd of fans present last night. It would be difficult to enumerate the rushes pulled off by this star, but every time Bill was off, down the ice like a bullet, and he registered two goals. If luck had been on his side, Belleville's score would have been multiplied seven times over, he also played his position, that of defence, being right on the dot to get his man.

Pat Boland played a splendid game, his eye followed the play every minute and he was never idle for long. He might have thought he was in France the way the shots rained on that goal. He stopped sure-looking goals time and again and has been completely restored to favor. His old place in the hearts of the fans is assured.

Cook, goal tender for Collingwood, is certainly a treasure of pure gold and Collingwood can thank their lucky stars that this man is on their team. His goal was peppered with dead-on shots every period, but he proved himself quite capable of handling the situation.

Fryer who played centre, then fell back on defence, is a neat, crafty player. He's no chicken in the matter of years as he has quite a family, but he deserves credit for his remarkable playing at his age. He is the veteran of the team, but was fast playing out owing to the strenuous pace set by our boys.

All members of the Collingwood team play good combination having one tricky pass, that of flipping the puck back from centre ice in a rush to the man on defence, thus putting one over on the defence and forwards of the opposing team.

It seems a shame that Belleville should lose the championship as they played first class hockey, clean and clever.

Lou Marsh of Toronto refereed and while he, no doubt did his duty as far as he could see it, sure did not give any breaks to Belleville and a good many decisions were questionable to the point of absolute rawness.

Hundreds of fans jammed in the Arena and they were not slow to express either approval or the negative.

Daw and Gunner held themselves remarkably well considering the circumstances.

A crowd of incensed fans tried to locate Referee Lou Marsh after the game but fortunately were unsuccessful. The referee was accorded police protection and was escorted from the rink by Inspector Naphin who had some difficulty getting clear of the crowd seemingly bent on giving the referee a rough passage.

The man who threw that bottle at the referee has murderous instinct which for his own good and the welfare of the community needs checking. The police should lose no time and spare no effort in locating the man who threw the bottle. Any toleration of such tactics might lead to a shower of bottles at the next game and a reputation for Belleville of the place where it is necessary for visiting athletics and officials to wear trench helmets.

FACTORY FOR TURNING OUT DEMOCRATIC CITIZENS.

It hardly seems necessary to call attention to the great good accomplished by the Young Men's Christian Association in developing the bodies, minds and morals of boys and men. The Y. M. C. A. stands for better citizenship and any one who doubts the beneficial effects of this institution has only to pay a personal visit to the various departments where physical, mental and moral developments are in progress to realize the tremendous possibilities of the work.

Li Yuan Hung, former President of China, expressed in a nutshell the value of the Y.M.C.A. as a national and community asset when he said:

"It is a factory for turning out democratic citizens, to make men strong in body, keen in mind, and with a true sense of their responsibility as individual units in society."

Belleville citizens do not have to go to China to learn the benefits of the Y. M. C. A., the magnificent, finely equipped and efficiently [illegible] Y. M. C. A. plant in this city having long been a centre of civic pride.

A call is now being made for funds to carry on the good work in an efficient manner and give the boys of Belleville every opportunity to develop strong, clean bodies and alert, vigorous mentalities. As an investment in good citizenship alone there is no better, and the small amount asked for should be largely oversubscribed.

CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS CAUSES LOSS OF LIFE

Almost daily the press of Canada records disastrous fires causing loss of life and property which might have been prevented had proper precautions been taken. Carelessness in regard to fire risks is criminal and should be combatted vigorously by education through the press and in the schools. The Fire Marshal of Ontario has issued a circular on the subject containing suggestions for fire prevention, including the following:

"Defective flues, broken and crooked chimneys or those surrounded with woodwork are dangerous and frequently cause fire.

"Your life is in jeopardy from such conditions, especially at night.

"Shingle roofs are the cause of most conflagrations. A spark from a chimney on a shingle roof, if it is curled, moss covered and dry, will quickly cause a fire.

Antidote for Fire.

"Care and cleanliness are the antidote for fire as well as the antidote for disease.

"Eighty per cent. of fire and disease is preventable.

"If the recent big fires were all accidental the burning up of Canada is still the favorite foolishness of the Canadian people.

"The use of matches as a plaything is a very dangerous habit. In the province of Ontario, during the year 1919, one fire in every eight originated through children playing with matches, and they thus wantonly destroyed more than $[illegible] worth of valuable property, besides sacrificing several innocent lives. [illegible] the hands of careless men and women many fires are caused by thoughtlessly throwing a match in a waste paper basket, or pile of rubbish before it is quenched. A good plan is to break the stick in two and then you will be sure that there is no fire in it.

The Deadly Coal Oil.

"Pour the oil of encouragement on the wheels of progress and watch 'em whirl, but don't pour coal oil on a fire to light or quicken it. It may cost you your life.

"Keep inflammable material away from stoves, stove pipes and gas jets.

Miss Ontario Pleads.

"Every school room in the province should display in a prominent place, copy of the attractive poster lithographed in colors, representing 'Miss Ontario' pleading with outstretched hand for help to stop the terrible fire waste that is impoverishing the country.

"In her left hand she is holding the shield of the Ontario Fire Prevention League to guard against the 'Sword of Ruin' thrust at her by the fiery dragon who is snorting destruction, suffering and death.

"The dragon is shown pouring into his insatiable fiery furnace human lives, merchandise and buildings as a result of 'carelessness' of the people.

"In the right hand corner a money bag is burning, depicting the monthly loss of one million dollars in Ontario.

"Business men may obtain the 'hangers' to put up in their stores and factories, by applying to the chief of the fire department."

OTHER VIEWS

THE SPLIT INFINITIVE

Calgary Albertan

One year ago the Albertan called attention to the elevation of the split infinitive, which has been a nightmare for all these years to the young and even more mature writers. In the last speech from the throne, two of the most able-bodied split infinitives that have appeared in print in this country, stalked forth boldly and unashamed. When this hooligan can associate in such company, we must assume that he has been taken into the fold of proper expression.

Here is another instance. In a letter on one phase of the many headed controversy in which the minister of education is engaged with the Teachers' Alliance, the officials in the department of education take a hand.

"We welcome this opportunity to publicly declare," concludes this interesting letter. It is signed by John T. Ross, deputy minister of education; G. Fred McNally, supervisor of schools; George K. Haverstock, registrar; G. W. Gorman, chief inspector of schools. That should settle it. The bar sinister must be removed from the escutcheon of the split infinitive. This uncertain member of the family has been received into full standing. Vive the split infinitive!

BORN OUT OF WEDLOCK

Toronto Mail

A very decided change will be effected by the measure respecting the illegitimate child, if the legislature passes it in its present form. The line of the principles by Rev. Peter Bryce is sufficient to indicate a drastic overhauling of the law respecting illegitimacy, and the establishing of full responsibility by the father, when it is possible. The bill will propose state action to establish paternity to require financial support by both parents; to give the child the same inheritance rights as a legitimate one; to give the child the use of the fathers name; to require the father to bear the expenses of childbirth; and to establish a system of supervision over the care of the child, if it is placed in a home. These principles cannot be challenged. At present, the father escapes, nine times out of ten, without any responsibility. The unmarried mother strives, as best she can, to get the child cared for, while endeavoring to avoid the stigma which open acknowledgment of her maternal relationship would bring on herself. The circumstances of desertion in these cases smite on the heart of all kindly people.

POETS' CORNER

IRELAND THE UNKNOWN

Thou whom ten thousand searchlights leave obscure,
The white foam's sister, as the white foam pure;
The dark storm's daughter, guarding long and late
That far-descended heirloom, ancient hate,
I cannot say: "In all things that concerned
Thee and thy hopes I never swerved or turned
Or held with stumbling mind a wavering creed."
But this, at least, I can declare indeed
Through days with tempest packed, with thunder piled,
My dream of an Ireland reconciled;
Not mocked and thwarted, conquering some vain goal
That only baulks the hunger of the soul;
Not still uncheered and in fierce mood unchanged,
The spouse whom wedlock hath the more estranged,
Whom bonds have the more direly wrenched apart;
But after that long solitude of heart,
And all the dissonance of the loveless past,
An Ireland willing to be loved at last;
An Ireland healed with a more sovereign balm
That the old deep hurts have known, and in blest calm
Risen from a hundred shatterings, great and now.
O, that the dream might even now come true!

Scientific Irrigation to Barren Business

Newspaper advertising is to business enterprise what irrigation is to barren lands. It is a vital necessity.

The land has in it the source of fruitfulness. The water alone is required to render it fertile.

Thereafter the thing is a matter of industry on the part of the planter.

Supply does not create demand: nor does demand create supply—in the first instance.

Both are created by Desire: the fruit of Suggestion.

The Daily Newspaper is the most effective channel to propagate the IDEA of Desire and the means of satisfying it.

The upkeep of Demand—the cultivation of a sensitive and responsive ground; or the REACTION of it—is another phase of the subject.

That is the province wherein modern advertising operates.

All the great merchants ever heard of were, and are, bountiful users of Daily Newspaper Advertising. Eaton, Wannamaker, Marshall Field, Selfridge, Harrods, Hudson's Bay Company.

Isn't that your cue?

MAPLE PRODUCTS.

Estimated Value of Yearly Manufacture of Sugar and Syrup.

The manufacture of sugar and syrup from the sap of the sugar maple is an important farm industry in the Eastern Provinces of Canada, and particularly in Quebec. Long before the white man settled in the country, maple syrup was known to the aborigines and apart from wild honey was the only intensely sweet product at their command. The methods of procuring it were naturally of a very crude description. Modern methods have greatly improved the product and have led to an ever increasing demand. Quebec province is the centre of the industry. Of the 20,000,000 pounds, or thereabouts, produced annually in Canada, more than two-thirds have to be credited to Quebec. Ontario is officially reported to be responsible for five million pounds, and the Maritime Provinces for half a million pounds only. The other provinces of Canada do not figure in the calculations. These facts are gathered from a timely pamphlet just issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, of which J. B. Spencer, Director of Publicity, is the author. From this well illustrated and technically detailed publication it is also learned that the production of maple sugar, and its equivalent in syrups of late years has shown a tendency to decrease. From 1851 to 1861, we are told the average yearly production was about 13,500,000 pounds, from 1861 to 1871 about 17,500,000 pounds, from 1871 to 1881, 19,000,000 pounds, and from 1881 to 1891, 22,500,000 pounds. The latter was the pinnacle of annual production, for in the next decade the average per year was 21,200,000 pounds, and in later years, the average has been little less than 20,000,000 pounds. It is thought that perhaps with the increase in price that has taken place recently, greater production may be looked for. It is estimated that the value of the yearly manufacture of sugar and syrup is $2,000,000, and that 50,000 people are employed in the industry at the height of the season, which is of very short duration, extending only five or six weeks at the most. Stringent laws against the adulteration of the product have been passed, especially in Quebec, where schools of instruction have been established and the Pure Maple Sugar and Syrup Co-operative Agricultural Association has been organized.

In the opinion of Mr. R. H. Campbell, Director of Forestry in the Department of the Interior, it is more profitable to reforest with maple than with white pine. In response to an inquiry made by the author of the bulletin of the maple sugar industry, Mr. Campbell writes as follows:

In determining the cost of producing any merchantable timber, there are seven points to be considered, viz.:

The value of the land.

Taxation.

The cost of plant material.

The cost of planting.

The cost of management and protection.

The rate of interest on money invested.

The time for the trees to reach the desirable size.

It has been estimated that white pine planted on sandy waste lands in Ontario will yield, in sixty years, 200 trees averaging 18 inches in diameter, or about 80,000 board measure, per acre. In this estimate the land was valued at $5 per acre; taxation figured at 17 mills; the cost of plants and planting $10 per acre; the cost of management and protection at 15 cents per acre per year and the rate of interest charged was 3½ per cent. The total cost worked out to $165.34 per acre. This does not include the thinnings which would probably produce a revenue after the twentieth year nad somewhat reduce the cost.

Sugar maple grown under normal forest conditions would yield, from 150 to 175 per acre, having an average diameter of 18 inches in about 115 or 120 years. Provided all the other items, i.e., cost of land, taxes, etc., were the same, this increase in the length of time alone would raise the cost of growing maple considerably above that of growing pine. The cost of the plants and planting would probably be 550 per cent. more than the $10 figured on for pine. This is partly due to the heavier nature of the soil in which the maple would be planted and partly due to the higher price for maple seedlings.

It would appear then that if the price of white pine and maple lumber keeps the same relative position, it would hardly be a paying proposition to grow maple for lumber alone. However, when one considers the revenue derived after the thirtieth year from the sap and the higher price obtainable for thinnings as fuel, or making acetic acid, wood alcohol, and charcoal, there seems but little doubt that the maple would in the end be the more profitable tree. This is particularly true in case of the small woodlot owner or farmer, who has many uses for the wood, and especially where the maple already exists in the stand and natural reproduction can be secured.

Owes Leon Trotzky $40.

The Canadian Pacific Railway owes Leon Trotzky $40. This was admitted with a smile by Lord Shaughnessy, of Montreal, chairman of the board of railroad system.

Mr. N. W. Rowell, Canadian delegate to the Assembly of the League of Nations, was speaking of E. W. Beatty, the new president of the railroad, who was also present.

"Mr. Beatty is not the only young man of prominence Lord Shaughnessy has produced. Our guest may not be so proud of it but when Trotzky lived in New York he also worked for the Canadian Pacific Railway here."

"True," interrupted Lord Shaughnessy, "and we still owe him $40."

THE DEADLY CANCER.

Dread Disease Takes Big Toll In This Country.

Hideously high is the death rate from cancer. Barring organic heart troubles, tuberculosis, and pneumonia, which rank ahead of it in the order given, cancer claims more victims yearly in Ontario than does any other disease. The Registrar General's report shows a steady increase in the number of deaths over a long period of years, though this increase is to some extent due to increase in population and to better diagnosis of the disease, which formerly overlooked some cases. In 1910 the scourge slew 1,587 people in Ontario, and in 1919, the last year for which figures are available, it killed 2,182. That is to say 76.9 persons in every 100,000 of the population died of cancer in 1919.

Yet on no other malady has so much money been spent in the way of research. Heavily endowed institutions for the study of cancer exist in various parts of the world. Brilliant men are constantly engaged on the problem. But — unless Dr. Glover's serum refutes the pronouncement of the Ontario Academy of Medicine—practically no progress has been made in the treatment of cancer during the past ten years.

Concerning the nature of the cancerous growth doctors are generally agreed on one thing. They know that certain cells of the human body, which are apparently of a normal character, and have reviously performed normal functions, begin to grow and multiply in an abnormal way in some part of the body. The cells continue this process so persistently that they first invade, then destroy, the surrounding tissues; nothing can withstand their march.

The problem confronting medicine is this: What are these cells, and why do they behave in this way?"

Many surmises have been made, mostly of a very technical nature. Some think that the cancer cells lack some element of healthy body cells which would otherwise restrain their growth and prevent them running wild. Perhaps the most popular theory is that the cells are stimulated to unlimited growth by a parasite, though the observed phenomena of cancerous growths are not in keeping with those of other parasitic diseases.

If a germ does cause cancer that germ has not yet been discovered. The bacteriological miscroscope, which magnifies 3,600 times and which reveals the microbes of many different diseases, has been unable to discover any such germ in any culture made from cancerous flesh. But of course this does not prove that no germ exists. The cancer germ, if any, may easily be too minute for present-day microscopes to find.

Pasteur could not find a germ of hydrophobia. Yet he made the serum which has saved thousands from the agonizing death of hydrophobia. The Connaught Laboratories, operated by the Ontario Government through the University of Toronto, make rabies serum along with others. It is not known to this day whether chemical poison or a germ causes rabies. But to produce the serum rabbits are infected with virus from a mad dog. The rabbits die. Then their spinal columns are taken out, treated by exposure to caustic soda and graduated doses of a liquid made from these spinal columns injected into human beings who have been bitten. If taken in time it is an almost certain cure.

Cancerous tumor in chicken bears a certain analogy to the above. This malady has been transmitted from one fowl to another. Yet, no germ of chicken cancer has so far been discovered. If it does exist it is ultro-microscopic or else invisible through its non-susceptibility to the indigo and red dyes with which certain well-known germs are stained to make them show up on a smear. Nevertheless, cancerous matter from fowl passed through the extremely fine earthenware strainer of a Berkefeld filter, will, when injected into healthy fowl, cause cancer. So that the invisible agent, whether germ or chemical poison, passes through the filter.

But never in thousands of experiments —unless Dr. Glover has been able to accomplish it — has human cancer been communicated to the lower animals. Neither has one human being been known to infect another. Cancer, for which some families seem to have a predisposition, is far commoner in women than in men. Children rarely have it. Cancer is a disease of old age. In people between 65 and 75 it is ten times commoner than in those between 35 and 45. Statistics show that in both mankind and animals cancer is inclined to develop at a time which conforms in a striking manner to the limits imposed by the long or short compass in life in different animals.

Cancer is generally the result of irritation of the part affected. Hard cancer is a fibrous growth which slowly tends to spread and ulcerate. Soft cancer, which looks like brain substance, spreads more rapidly. Epithelial cancer affects the skin, lips, mucuous membrane. In very rare cases spontaneous cures of supposed cancer occur, the tumor gradually drying up and sometimes disappearing altogether. X-ray treatment has been found beneficial in some instances. But removal of the cancer in its early stages by the surgeon's knife is still the recognized best remedy. Cancer starts as a small lump, and its detection and treatment then is imperative. Doctors warn the public against neglecting innocent-looking lumps on the body. Cancer attacks various parts of the body with or without pain. The presence of the dread growth in the internal organs is revealed by X-rays. But sometimes even with incipient cancer of the stomach the victim may not suffer at first, but only lose flesh and strength.

LAST BRITISH OFFICER HAS LEFT SIBERIA

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 24.—Russia has lost the last bit of living, tangible evidence that she once billeted British troops, heard the rapid-fire of British machine-guns, the unfamiliar sound of British orders snapped out on the parade ground. The last British officer has come out of Siberia, and arrived in this city from Hong Kong recently.

His name is Captain N. A. L. Stilling, and he is virtually the only man left of the late General Knox mission which went into Siberia to the relief of Admiral Kolchak, and with the siege of Ekaterinburg and the subsequent death of the admiral, were withdrawn. Captain Stilling was left behind for "special duty."

The captain is absolutely of the opinion that Bolshevism will give way—not this year, perhaps, or next but it will come. He said the people throughout Siberia are rising, declaring against the leaders of the government. They cannot be kept down forever.

Captain Stilling is probably the only British officer who witnessed the recent evacuations of the rebel leaders, notably that of Semenoff from Chita. Semenoff is now under Japanese protection at Port Arthur, Korea. His army, said Captain Stilling, is scattered in the environs of Vladivostock, disarmed but not wholly disorganized for all that.

Edmonton, Feb. 24.—The provincial government will probably undertake a survey into the character of the land in Southern Alberta and a reclassification of farm lands with a view, possibly, to removing settlers from districts unsuitable for operation. This action was intimated by the government in reply to a delegation from the United Farmers that recently held a conference with the executive council.

Boston, Feb. 24.—Cases of foreign gin, rum, whiskey and vermonth stood with tantalizing immunity in a pier house here to-day to the envious admiration of thirsty citizens. The enemy of the Volstead Act entered the port yesterday under a white flag and is safe from capture by prohibition amendment. Within a few days it will complete the last leg of its journey from Europe and be received by the foreign ambassadors in Washington.

No, sir; I never ask personal favors of my friends," answered my uncle, the General Robert, as he held me away from the arms of the Gouverneur Faulkner with a very great determination.

"General Carruthers," then said my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner as he drew his beautiful body to all the height that was possible to him and looked into the eyes of my beloved Uncle Robert with his own, which are stars of the dawn, so that all of his heart and soul and honor shone therefrom in a radiance, "the Marquise of Grez and Bye went a three days' journey into the wilds of the Harpeth mountains with me to rescue my honor and for the welfare of this great state and of France. And because we thought not of ourselves, but of the welfare of Harpeth and of France, and did but what was necessary as two comrades, God has revealed to us his gift of gifts—love. As you see, she is returned to you radiant and unharmed. Have I your consent to try to win her hand in marriage?"

For no more than a long minute my uncle, the General Robert, gazed straight into the eyes of my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner, and then a very beautiful smile did break from under those white swords crossed above his lips as he spoke with a great urgency:

"Would you like to take the baggage along with you tonight, governor? Don't leave her here. I don't want a woman about my house. I can wake up the county court clerk for a license," he said, with a fine twinkle of the eye.

"Oh, but all friends must forgive me my deception. And then must not a courtship of great decorum be made from my Gouverneur Faulkner for the hand of the lady whom he would make his wife?" I asked with an uncertainty as I looked from my uncle, the General Robert, to my Gouverneur Faulkner.

"I'm sorry, sir, but I think the marquise is right, and under the circumstances I'll have to make a very public courtship, which out of consideration for you I'll make as ardent and rapid as possible. Only we three know the wonderful truth, and we'll keep it to ourselves." And as he spoke that great Gouverneur Faulkner bent and laid a kiss of great ceremony upon the hand of Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye.

"Very well, sir; I'll keep her for a few days and have her fitted out in a lot of folderols for you, but only for a short period, mind you—a very short period!" answered my uncle, the General Robert, with a smile that showed much delight in me. I flew to him and gave to him an embrace with my arms and also laid my cheek against his.

"I am for always your most humble and obedient girl, my Uncle Robert," I whispered to him.

"Humble and obedient—no woman would know those words if she met them in her own drawing room," he answered to me, with a great scorn, but he also gave to me a shake that was of a seeming great fierceness, but that I knew to be a caress.

And into that caress came also another interruption of great hurry. My Buzz entered the door with a rapidity and this exclamation:

"What's the trouble, general? I just got your phone and"— Then he, too, stood in a great and sudden stillness, regarding me as I stood from the shelter of the arms of my uncle, the General Robert, and looked into his eyes of great fright.

"My Buzz," I said to him softly.

"Great heavens!" he exclaimed, with terror in his eyes, as he backed away from me. "I haven't had but one glass of draft beer, general!"

"It's all right, Buzz," answered my very wise Gouverneur Faulkner in a voice of great soothing. "This is just—just Robert in a—a"—

"Not much Bobby that," answered my Buzz as he backed farther toward the door. "I think I'll step outside in the cool air. I haven't felt well all day. I"— And with which remark my good Buzz turned himself into the arms of the lovely Mlle. Sue, entering the door.

"I'm tired of waiting out there in that car, Buzz, and"— And again came an awful pause of terror. But is it not that women have a wit that is very much more rapid than is that of men? I think it is so.

"You know, I thought Bobby was a queer kind of man, and he is a perfectly lovely girl," she said as she came toward me with a laugh and her lovely arms outstretched. "I read about two French girls who got into Germany in German uniforms just last night in a magazine. You are some kind of French spy about those dreadful mules, aren't you, Bobby, dear?" And as she asked that question of me my lovely Sue gave to me a kiss upon my lips that I valued with a great gratitude.

"Please make it that my Buzz also understands," I pleaded to her within her arms.

"Brace up, Buzz, and be nice to Bobby, even if he is a girl. Just when did you begin not to like girls, I'd like to know?" questioned my Sue of him with a great emphasis.

"You see why it is that I cannot go into that business of timber with you and be married to"— I made a commencement to say to him.

"That will do, L'Aiglon," interrupted my Buzz with a great haste and a glance in the direction of lovely Sue. "Forget it! It is an awful shame, for you were one nice youngster, and"—

"Be a sport, Buzz, and forgive her and—love her again," said my Gouverneur Faulkner, with a laugh—"that is, as much as Miss Susan will"— But at this point my uncle, the General Robert, caused an interruption in the conversation.

"What are you doing here, sir, when I left you to watch the sidesteps of that French popinjay and the Whitworth woman? Did you hear what all that powwow was about at her tea fight this afternoon?" he demanded of fine Buzz, with a great anxiety. "There's been the deuce to pay since you left, governor, and I think this French scoundrel and Jeff's gang are preparing to put through some sort of private steal if you jump the track on them."

"Madam Pat has got 'em all up at the club, plotting in a corner at the little dinner dance we got up when his high and mightiness refused the rural expedition as soon as they heard you were not to go, governor," said my Buzz, with a great anxiety in his face. "I'd like to see anybody put out Mrs. Pat's light when she is once lit."

"It's all right, Buzz, and don't worry. Something has arrived to stop it all. It's up at the mansion now and is man sized," answered my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner, with a great soothing.

And after that remark there were many very long explanations that made a beginning about the crooked back of the wee Pierre, which, in a letter come to my uncle, the General Robert, that day, was declared by that great Dr. Burns to be of a certainty straight within the year and that ended in the library where my uncle, the General Robert, and my Gouverneur Faulkner, with good Buzz, read and read yet again the papers that my great Capitaine the Count de Lasselles had signed for an honest delivery of the many mules to France. I do not know all that my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner said to my uncle, the General Robert, for I remained in the hall with my Sue in a discussion about the telling without offense of the departure of Robert Carruthers to my Belle and other loved ones. And to us soon returned my Buzz of great curiosity.

"Oh, it will be so exciting and up to date with its spy and war flavor that everybody will forgive you. You are a lovely darling, and they'll all be glad you are a girl—all the boys especially," said to me my Sue, with a defiance at my Buzz.

"Sure, Bobbyette, I'll see that you're no wallflower," he made answer to her in the person of me, with a return of that defiance. "Come on, Susan; let me take you home. Good night, old top—no, I mean belle marquise," and it was a very funny thing to see that Buzz with a great awkwardness bend and kiss my hand at a laugh from my Sue as they left me.

It was not for many moments that I stood alone in the hall after the departure of my Sue and my Buzz before there entered my beloved uncle, the General Robert, and also my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner, who came to stand one upon the one side of me and one upon the other.

"Sure you wouldn't like to take her along with you tonight, governor?" again asked my uncle, the General Robert, with a great fierceness, but also a twinkling of the eye.

"Only as far as your garden for a few minutes, general," answered my Gouverneur Faulkner, with that laugh of a boy I had remarked once before up in those mountains of Old Harpeth, and he took my hand in his as if to lead me through one of the tall windows out into the fragrant night.

"All right; take her, and don't return her until you have to," remarked my uncle, the General Robert, as he handed me in the direction of my Gouverneur Faulkner and immediately took his departure up the stairs.

"His woman is God's gift of truth to a man."

And it was under the light of the old moon in the garden of those grande dames Carruthers that Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, who is the last of their line, walked with the great gentleman who was and is her lover. Is it that those beautiful dead grandmammas each planted her flowers in her own great happiness so that they would give forth a very tender perfume in which to infold the wooings of their daughters then not come into the world? I think it is so, and I was thus enwrapped in their fragrance as I was in the arms of that great Gouverneur Faulkner.

"Now I am a truth that I do love you," I made answer to a question that was pressed upon my lips.

"His woman is God's gift of truth to a man," were the words that were heard by those listening flowers and Roberta, marquise of Grez and Bye, who from a world at war had come home.

SYNDICALISTS' TERROR

SPAIN FACES NEW SORT OF WARFARE.

Deadly Struggle Now In Progress Between Syndicalism and Its Opponents—Shootings Take Place and the People of Barcelona Live In an Atmosphere of Murder and Intrigue.

A FEW days ago Barcelona and all Spain shuddered at the most atrocious murder among all those perpetrated in the deadly struggle between syndicalism and its opponents. Though this murder was committed in Valencia, there seems little doubt that the extremists of Barcelona, the men who constantly meet in secret session to decree the death of those in their path, were responsible for it. And while groups still meet on every street to comment on the dastardly shooting of Count Salvatierra, ex-Governor of Barcelona, his wife and young sister-in-law, a Madrid newspaper is causing a sensation by its revelations concerning the notorious "Baron Koenig" and his "black band" of satellites, who, it is alleged, were employed by the Barcelona authorities to fight syndicalists, and instituted a reign of terror by their illegal and ruthless methods, among which murder was quite as ordinary a thing as it is to the syndicalists who constantly employ it against their enemies.

In the attack on Count Salvatierra, his wife, and his sister-in-law, the Marchioness of Tejares, Spanish syndicalists have for the first time included innocent women among the victims of their hired gunmen, says the foreign correspondent of the New York Evening Post. The count, who had received warnings that his life was in danger, was driving on the avenue between Valencia and El Grao, when a group of men suddenly stepped before the carriage and opened fire with revolvers. The coachman whipped up his horses and drove frantically towards Valencia. Near the city he hailed a passing automobile and begged its occupants to take those in the carriage to the nearest hospital, which they did. On arrival at the hospital it was found that the young marchioness was dead, the count dying and his wife in a critical condition. The count died a few hours later.

Close on the heels of the Salvatierra murder comes the revelation of La Tribuna of Madrid regarding "Baron Koenig" and his henchmen. "Baron Koenig," the hero of a detective story of real life, is a Prussian who was expelled from Spain a few weeks ago. He is a native of Potsdam, Prussia, and was at one time a waiter and later proprietor of a bar in Brussels. Having sold his bar his adventurous disposition asserted itself and he devoted himself to living by his wits in the twilight zone of crime and baffling the police of various countries when his activities brought him into conflict with the law. Eventually he gravitated to Barcelona and secured an introduction to Bravo Portillo, chief of police there, who took him into his employ as an assistant against the syndicalists. Bravo Portillo was soon murdered, his assassination having held first place among the sensational crimes of the Barcelona extremists until eclipsed the other day by the attack on Count Salvatierra. The "baron" then took command of the band of men who had been working under the orders of Bravo Portillo and under him they were spurred on to such a pitch of violence that they became celebrated as the "black band."

From the fate which befell some of the members of the band it is easily seen that whatever the crimes of the "black band" may have been, their syndicalist foes gave them tit for tat, and made their lives while they worked for the "baron" hardly worth a nickel. No fewer than five men, including Bravo Portillo, were killed as a result of the deeds of the "black band." The Barcelona chief of police was shot in broad daylight on one of the streets of the city. Another man, pierced by ten bullets, fell within a stone's throw of Las Ramblas. Another, ten days after becoming a member of the band, was shot to death on the street. A fourth while walking in broad daylight was attacked and killed. And an individual of unsavory record nicknamed "El Mallorquin," who succeeded in getting out of Barcelona when it became too hot for him, and taking ship for America, was murdered on the high seas. Several others, including the "baron" himself, were attacked with murderous intent, but managed to escape alive from their assailants.

The Madrid newspaper gives astonishing details of man-hunts engaged in by "Koenig" and his associates, of which the victims were Barcelona workmen. On one of these occasions, the "baron" himself, revolver in hand, is said to have led the chase against a man who was walking on the street with his mother. When they overtook him the mother threw herself in front of her son, crying, "Shoot, coward, if you dare." The "baron" decided not to shoot. Another accusation is to the effect that a woman who insisted that she had seen one of the "baron's" murderous attacks on workmen, asked to be allowed to testify, and was not allowed to do so by the authorities, who were desirous of shielding the chief of the "black band" and his helpers. When this occurred the Governor of Barcelona was that Count Salvatierra who was murdered recently in Valencia. And so it goes—charges and counter-charges, secret death tribunals and sensational revelations, and always the feeling that men with loaded revolvers may be walking along beside you on their way to fill somebody with lead. Truly one lives in Barcelona in an atmosphere of murder.

THE "FLU" Dare Not Return

The "Flu" will certainly get a warm reception this winter if it dares show its ugly head in our peaceful midst, for the people are confident now that they can deal it such a smashing blow it will never survive. In every village, town and city in Canada, families are fortifying themselves with the greatest "Flu" ammunition known to science—Buckley's Bronchitis Mixture. Colds, coughs, etc.—the advance guards of Flu—are met with withering fire, and relief from these troubles is sure every time. One hundred thousand Canadians are only too willing to testify to the great healing power this remedy contains. It has conquered coughs of 35 years' standing. It cannot fail to do for you what it has done for others. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, as it is sold under a money-back guarantee to banish coughs, colds, bronchitis, bronchial asthma and prevent you from getting the "Flu." It is not a syrup, but a scientific mixture, 20 times stronger than any other cough cure. One dose gives instant relief. Price, 75 cents. Take no substitute. None genuine without my signature. CITY AND COUNTRY

ROYAL TEMPLARS

Friday evening the Royal Templars of Temperance held a Silver Medal Oratorical Contest at Holloway street Church. This is the first of a series of such contests to be held in the city and the winners of each group will compete for the gold medal at a grand contest to be held later in the City Hall. Five contestants entered but one withdrew on acount of sickness, leaving four in the race. The names of the participants in the order in which they recited are as follows: Leonard Gotham, Maude Gillett, Arlene Andrews, Gladys Perry. Each entered into his selection with force and abandon thus making the judges' decision rather difficult.

Mr. J. O. Herity, Miss Merry and Mr. T. Mott were judges, the task of giving the decision falling upon the first named. Mr. Herity expressed his pleasure at the fact of the Templar contests being revived in the city and thought this one had been in every way well carried out. He announced the second contestant, Miss Maude Gillett to be the winner. Mr. Herity who has charge of the contest department in the Belleville Templars, called Miss Gillett to the platform and presented her with the medal, adding a note of appreciation for the work of Miss Rae Farrell who had made the contest possible by training the contestants. Mr. A. E. Bailey was chairman for the evening and the following program was given.

Songs—Mrs. (Rev.) Foster and Miss Mae Kerr.

Piano solos—Miss Kathryn Bailey and Miss Verna Mayers.

Piano duet—Miss Rae Farrell and Miss Winnifred Pearce.

ADDITIONAL TRIBUTES

The following additional names of persons who sent flowers to the family of the late Mr. Thomas Symons should have appeared in the list published yesterday: Mr. and Mrs. Jack MacDougall, Mrs. F. Miller, D. Jose and J. Orr, Leo. Bohan, Norbert Barrett, Chief and Mrs. Brown, Marjorie Pratt and Mary Davison.

SATURDAY'S MARKET

Owing to the inclement weather today there was not a large atendance upon the market and nearly all products offered for sale were disposed of. Fresh dairy butter commanded a good price, namely 62c and 63c. a pound; fresh eggs sold at 42c. and 43c. per dozen. Dressed chickens were still high, selling at from $2.00 to $3.50 per pair according to size and quality. Considerable meat was cut up on the outside and buyers were plentiful. The ruling price for potatoes was $1.25 per bag.

O.T.A. CASE

Ernest and Huyler Akey, brothers, who reside at Bogart, Hungerford Township, were yesterday apprehended by License Inspector Collison and County Constable Ward and brought to the city. They are charged with a violation of the Ontario Temperance Act. This morning Magistrate Masson enlarged the case until Friday next the 4th inst. In the meantime the accused are out on bail.

PLEASANT ENTERTAINMENT

Under the auspices of the Sunday school orchestra in connection with Bridge street church a concert was held in the Sunday school rooms last evening, which was well attended. The program was of a varied nature and the numbers rendered were most pleasing.

Save Your Eyes

[illegible]

No age is exempt from the need of attention to the eyes. Civilization demands excessive use of the eyes at close range. Good eyes are overworked and poor ones made worse by so much study and near work, unless the excess burden be relieved by lenses ground in such a manner as to direct the light into the eye as that eye is best adapted to receive it, and focus it on the eye's retina.

It's our business to make and fit such lenses.

Rich, Red Blood Means Health

Pale Cheeks and Bloodless Lips Are A Danger Signal.

To be pale is no longer the fashion; to be languid is an affliction. Today the most winsome girl is the one with the pink tinge of health in her cheeks, lips naturally red, and eyes sparkling with life. Add to this a quick, active step and everyone can tell the girl whose veins are full of the pure, rich blood of health. How different she appears from her ailing sisters, whose aching limbs and weak backs make them pale and dejected. Anaemia is the cause of so much suffering among girls and women that it cannot be too widely known that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have transformed thousands of delicate anaemic invalids into happy, healthy women. These pills help to put rich red blood into the veins, and this blood reaches every part of the body, giving strength, rosy cheeks and brightness in place of weakness, prostrating headaches and a wretched state of half-health. Miss Edna E. Weaver, R. R. No. 1, Chippewa, Ont., says: "I was very much run down, weak, nervous and troubled with pains in the side. I tried different medicines but without any benefit until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Under the use of this medicine I gained strength, had better appetite, slept better and the pain in my side disappeared. My health has since remained excellent and I advise any one troubled with anaemia, or weakness, to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia and nervousness. Build up your blood and note how the purer and richer blood fights your battles against disease. Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that with the observance of ordinary rules of health will keep you well and strong. Get a box from the nearest drug store and begin the treatment now, or send to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be sent you postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

Social and Personal

Mrs. Orr of Lindsay, daughter of Mrs. Hamilton, arrived in the city today.

Mrs. Clinton and Miss Jean Clinton have returned from Toronto where the latter has been in Wellesley hospital for some weeks.

Mrs. J. O. Byers, of Wellington was the guest of Mrs. Weddell, 34 Dunbar street, for a week.

Mrs. M. Hamilton, Lingham Apartments, 25 Turnbull street, who is very ill with pleurisy at the hospital, is reported as being in a critical condition, so much so that her family have been summoned to her bedside.

Rev. and Mrs. Sills, Anglican, who are visiting Major and Mrs. Sills of Trenton, lunched at the Quinte yesterday.

Winter Hard on Baby

The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stuffy, badly ventilated rooms. It is so often stormy that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air as often as she should. He catches colds which rack his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes peevish and cross. To guard against this the mother should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels and break up colds. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DOUBLE FEATURE BILL

Nazimova will appear at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday in two characters each resembling in some measure the great Russian star's own career. The picture is "Madame Peacock," from a story by Rita Weiman, and it brings Nazimova to the screen first as Jane Goring, a resplendent stage star, and then as Gloria Cromwell, a young girl as naive and charming as Jane is brilliant.

Certainly Nazimova should make this story live, for she has been in the course of her remarkable career both the young girl of great promise and the great actress who has fulfilled promise.

In this her latest Metro picture Nazimova has chosen George Probert for her leading man. The star herself adapted the picture for direction by Ray C. Smallwood. Rudolph Bergquist photographed it and Edward Shulter provided special art settings.

The most novel reel picture of the year is being screened on the same program in "A Trip Through the World's greatest motion picture studio with the famous screen producer Thomas T. Ince as the guide and who brings before your eyes your favorite screen stars and shows you pictures in the making.

A good comedy and other plays of interest will also be screened in addition to the above.

DOROTHY GISH FILM
A NEWLYWED COMEDY

He had only done what a gentleman would have considered his duty under the circumstances. The pretty lady's suitcase was too heavy for her and he had just helped her into the taxi with it, And then, thinking that the grip would be just as heavy at the other end of the ride, he had entered the taxi after her. What happened later and how his wife came to find them sitting rather close together on the divan, he really could not say. But it got him into a frightful mess and when he tried to explain............

Well, you'd better see Dorothy Gish in "Remodelling Her Husband" at Griffin's tonight in order to find out what occurred next. The picture is declared to be one of the liveliest and most entertaining of the recent Gish features.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE
AT NEW REGENT TONIGHT

In Experimental Marriage" a delightful select picture in which Constance Talmadge plays the stellar role, supported by Harrison Ford, this beautiful and charming star plays the role of a young widow who wanted to marry a handsome young lawyer, but dared not.

She did not want to lose her freedom—neither did she want to lose the man, so she devised a plan whereby she could have both, which to reveal here would spoil the spectators enjoyment of the picture, suffice it is to say the New Regent management consider themselves fortunate in securing such a splendid picture for the opening bill.

On the same program with the above offering a selected program of comedy and varied plays will also be screened.

The New Regent opens tonight at 7 p.m., two performances being given the first at 7.15 and the second at 9 p.m.

ELAINE HAMMERSTEIN

"The Daughter Pays," a novel that created a sensation on two continents when it was first published, forms the plot of Elaine Hammerstein's latest Selznick picture, which is announced as the principal attraction at the Regent Theatre this Monday to Wednesday, evenings only.

The adaption of Mrs. Bailie Reynolds' story provides Miss Hammerstein with a role that allows full play for her remarkable capabilities as an emotional artiste. As the daughter who gives herself up to a loveless marriage in order to wipe out an ancient debt of her mother's, Miss Hammerstein is said to present a characterization that will immediately enlist the sympathies of the observer.

The Selznick forces have given the production a presentation which for lavish splendor and artistic settings is said to be surpassed by no other production dealing with a modern theme.

A beautiful Prizma Travelogue in color, a funny Pollard comedy and others of merit will also be screened on the same program.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my darling mother, Mrs. George Duby, who departed this life February 25th, 1915.

In a sad and distant graveyard
Where no trees their branches wave
Sleeps a true and loving mother
In her cold and silent grave;
She bade no one her last farewell
She waved her hand to none
Her spirit fled before we knew
That she from us was gone.

—Sadly mourned by her daughter, Mrs. George Osier.

Suffered Three Years Until She Tried "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

DAME PETER LAMARRE

Pointe St. Pierre, P. Q.

"I think it my duty to tell you how much your medicine has done for me.

I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good.

Then, I used one box of 'Sootha-Salva' and two boxes of 'Fruit-a-tives' and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return. I think it is a marvellous cure because no other medicine did me any good and I tried all the remedies I ever heard of, without benefit until I used 'Sootha-Salva' and 'Fruit-a-tives.'

'Fruit-a-tives' cooled the blood and removed the cause of the disease, and 'Sootha-Salva' completed the cure."

Ironic definitions of articles of feminine apparel now in fashion were given at a conference of the Massachusetts parent-teachers' association by Mrs. Dallas Lore Sharp, chairman of the social community life department. Some of them were:

"Dress: A way not to cover.

"Hat: A way to smother the head.

"Blouses: A way to expose, often indecently, the most characteristically feminine portion of woman's anatomy.

"Shoes: A way to make cripples.

"We women," Mrs. Sharp added, "have surely earned the right to the title of the silly sex."

Canadians Killed in Serious Railway Wreck in Indiana

CASUALTIES REPORTED OF FORTY KILLED AND MANY INJURED IN DISASTROUS ACCIDENT IN INDIANA WHEN TWO PASSENGER TRAINS CRASHED INTO EACH OTHER —MANY BODIES TAKEN FROM WRECKAGE.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

PORTER, Indiana, Feb. 28.—Several Canadians were among the vicitims of the wreck of the New York Central and Michigan Central Chicago-Montreal express-passenger train, which occurred here last night, killing about forty people. Canadians identified up to eight o'clock this morning were: J. Collins and wife, of London; K. Gordon Campbell, of Revelstoke, B.C., and Peter Kane, of Regina.

Relief crews early today had taken thirty-three bodies and scores of injured from the wreckage. At least six bodies were visible entangled in the debris. Darkness and the tangled mass of wreckage prevented rescue work.

The first group of those critically injured were rushed in an ambulance to Michigan City, Ind., two dying on the way. The hospital and private homes at Michigan City and Gary received the injured.

FORTY-TWO BODIES FOUND.

Forty-two bodies had been collected early this morning from the wreck. Three victims were Canadians.

It was a diamond-shaped crossing, permitting the New York Central train, which struck as the other ran derailed across the intersection, to rake the Michigan Central cars instead of cutting them at right angles.

CANADIAN TRAIN.

All the dead were in the two Michigan Central coaches, which carried few through passengers. Upwards of fifty persons bound for Quebec, Montreal and Toronto, were aboard the eastbound Canadian express. Their cars were not much damaged. The New York Central train was bound for Chicago.

PASSED BLOCK SIGNAL.

The tracks intersect where the collision occurred, and the N. Y. C. engine plowed right through two day coaches.

According to railway officials, the disaster was caused by the failure of the engineer of the Michigan Central train to heed a block signal at the cross-over where the Michigan Central and New York Central tracks intersect.

The Michigan Central train left Chicago at 5.05 p.m., for Toronto, Ont., and was made up of C. P. R equipment.

WOODEN COACH IN WAY.

The block signal automatically set a derailing switch. When the Michigan Central train failed to heed the signal set against it, it struck the derailing switch and plowed along the ties for 300 feet before it stopped, with a wooden coach directly across the N. Y. C. track in front of the oncoming train, which hit it squarely, plowing its way through the wreckage before it could be stopped.

The telephone operator at the local exchange sent out an emergency call, and farmers for miles around gathered at the scene to aid in the work of rescue.

The tracks of the two railroads intersect here at a sharp angle, being almost parallel. The Michigan Central train was believed to have started across the intersection and then to have been derailed. The tower man was blamed by railroad officials for allowing the Michigan Central train to attempt to cross ahead of the westbound train.

A few persons living at this junction point immediately began the work of rescue, using lanterns in their search for the dead and injured. Relief trains arrived from Michigan City and Chicago about an hour after the wreck, carrying nurses and doctors.

BURIED IN WRECKAGE.

Scores of passengers, pinned in the wreckage of the coaches, were burned by the fire which broke out immediately but was later extinguished by the volunteer fire department of the village.

At the moment of the crash the dining cars of each train were crowded and hardly a passenger in three coaches escaped without severe injuries.

Twelve cars were wholly or partially demolished. The injured were being rushed to Chesterton, Ind., in automobiles and motor trucks.

Relief trains were sent out from Chicago, Gary and Laporte, Ind. The surgeons and nurses of the Illinois Steel Company at Gary were rushed aboard the Lake Shore Railway trains with full emergency equipment. Ambulances were hastily sent to Gary and Laporte to await the arrival of the relief trains.

New Regent Theatre Formally Opened

The New Regent Theatre, formerly the Palace was formally opened on Saturday night and a large audience was present. Previous to the pictures being shown, Mayor Hanna delivered the following address:

It is with pleasure I take part in opening the New Regent theatre this evening. The Palace theatre was destroyed by fire on Nov. 16th, last and here in a little over three months we are permitted to open a new theatre in the same old stand.

It reflects great credit on Ex-Mayor Riggs and Mr. Fornhan for the energy they have put forth to make this new theatree possible. With other improvements you cannot help being favorably impressed with the fine ventilation, better seating capacity and elegant decoration. No expense has been spared in the reconstruction of this theatre, and all the work has been done by local contractors. The Griffin Amusement Co., employ locally thirty people and at times as high as forty, which alone makes it quite a nice local industry, with a pay roll of over one thousand dollars per month. In addition to this the City derives 368 dollars per year, theatre tax.

The local manager, Mr. Forhan has been with us for four years. It is his intention to show only first grade pictures in this theatre, and I am sure we all hope the Griffin Amusement Co., leave him with us for many years to come.

Last Minute Telegraph Briefs

Division by Thursday

Ottawa, Feb 28.—That western government members will make a concerted drive for the appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate the western grain trade situation predicted on Saturday, became a certainty this morning when it was learned that western members were organizing a direct campaign to insist on such a step being taken immediately. Just what attitude the National Progressives will take toward this drive has not been definitely stated, but it is believed that strenuous opposition will come from that party. In spite of the fact that many members have expressed the intention to take part in the debate on the address this week, division in the house on the opposition motion of non-confidence in the government may be reached by Thursday. As is usual a number of members will waive their right to speak if all parties are ready for a division by Thursday. Party whips are ready for division any time after Tuesday.

Sinn Feiners Executed

Cork, Feb 28.—Six Sinn Feiners held in jail here, who had been found guilty of levying war on Crown Forces and were condemned to death, were duly executed by the military this morning. The men were shot in batches of two each, at intervals of fifteen minutes. An appeal for clemency had recently been made by the Cork corporation.

Splendid Work Of Belleville Y.M.C.A.

The work of the Belleville Young Men's Christian Association this winter has been characterized by real energy. Progress can be reported on every side. The program that has been carried on is one that has appealed to the largest number of men and boys that have ever taken the privileges of the Association. Every effort has been made to make this program attractive and thus counteract the tendency that seems to be prevalent among men and boys to spend their leisure time in ways, that to say the least are not conducive to the development of the highest character.

In order to appraise the work that is being carried on you must use your imagination; for instance, last May 257 boys were given instruction in swimming. 75 of them were actually taught to swim. Supposing this instruction only results in the fact that the life of one boy was saved from drowning, what is the value of that boys' life to the community?

During the recent period of dull times which had its effect on working men particularly, some 40 needy men were given beds in order to tide them over the period until they were able to obtain employment. This was not promiscuous charity but met real temporary need in the lives of these men. Surely this is real community service.

It is extremely hard for those who do not actually see the work of the Young Men's Christian Association to appraise it at its real value, for it has to do with human beings and not with dollars. Behind it all is the deep conviction that the development of Christian character is the best possible foundation for an enlightened and staple society. The local Association needs $4,000 in order to close its year on April 30th, with all its bills paid.

The Board of Directors are confident that the citizens of Belleville will stand behind them in the effort which they are launching on March 1st, 2nd and 3rd, to secure funds necessary to finally close their year with all their liabilities met.

Rotarians and Lions Help Y.M.C.A. Drive

The arrangements for the Y. M. C. A campaign are well on the way to completion. This effort is in the nature of a "clean-up" campaign to supplement the work done a year ago. The objective is $1,000. If this can be secured the association will close its business year, April 30th, with a clean sheet.

The plan is to divide the city into four sections with four teams of at least ten men each, who will work in pairs. The organization consists of the following teams Rotarians, Lions, two Y M.C.A. teams.

The workers will meet at six o'clock for supper at the Y.M.C.A. and the plan of the campaign will be explained by Mr. P. J. Lee, who is directing the campaign. Mr. Harry Ballantyne, General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. for Ontario and Quebec, will be present and will speak. Prospect cards have been prepared and there is ample ground for all the workers. The success of this campaign depends entirely on the meeting tonight and the workers covering the ground as outlined.

The organization for the campaign is as follows:

Campaign Executive—D. V. Sinclair, chairman C. S. Clapp, F. S. Deacon, H. W. Ackerman, H. D. MacFadyen.

Rotarians—H. W. Ackerman, A. P. Allen, S. J. Fisher, G. K. Graham, B. F. Jennings, R. S. Lewis, J. G. Moffatt, C. H. Scott, G. E. McKinnon, Stuart Robertson, Leon Walmsley, Howard J. Clarke, W. E. Schuster, J. A. Kerr.

Automobile Tires Made in Belleville

PLANT OF TIGER TIRE AND RUBBER CO., NOW IN OPERATION INTERESTING PROCESS

Among the newer industries in Belleville the plant of the Tiger Tire and Rubber Co., Limited, contains much that is interesting to the visitor now that the production stage has been reached in this local industry. Automobile tires are now being manufactured here and the Tiger tires are said to be of an exceptionally superior character. In fact, the officials of the company are very much gratified at the success which has attended their efforts to place on the market a tire which is bound to recommend itself by qualities which appeal to the automobile owner.

The buildings comprising this plant are the most modern in construction, well-lighted, spacious and particularly well adapted for the rubber manufacturing industry. The machinery is also of the most modern type and the working staff are carefully selected, all combining to ensure efficiency and the best of results.

An interesting feature of the manufacture of the Tiger Tires to Belleville citizens is the fact that the Wood non-leakable valves made here are used exclusively and are proving an added incentive to buyers to ask for Tiger Tires.

The officers of the Tiger Tire and Rubber Co., Limited, are as follows:

President—A. J. Russell Snow, K.C., of Beaty, Snow & Gash, solicitors, Toronto.

Directors—Wm. Seward, Rubber Expert, Toronto; F. D. Law, Managing Director, Oak Tire and Rubber Co., Limited, Toronto; T. B. Pringle, Managing Director, Pringle & Stark, Limited, Huntingdon, Que.; Jno. Uglow, Farmer, Port Hope.

General Manager—H. H. Hastings.

Plant Superintendent—Monte Davis.

Fiscal Agents—Thos. Knott, Oshawa; F. E. Stokoe, Toronto.

Readers of The Intelligencer will be interested in the following description of the process involved in making automobile tires.

Vulcanizing

What does vulcanization mean? Most automobile owners associate it exclusively with tire repair, but it has a much broader significance. In fact upon vulcanization the whole rubber industry has been built up. Every rubber manufactured article, whether it be a tire, a teething ring, a rubber boot, or a golf ball has to undergo this process. Without the discovery of vulcanization the rubber industry would be impossible.

Failure of Early Rubber Industry

A dreary succession of failures ensued when nearly a century ago some New England manufacturers set out to make rubber goods. They knew nothing of vulcanization then. Lacking this process these pioneers found themselves unable to remove several objectionable qualities in the rubber. Among these was a tendency to stiffen and harden in cold weather and to become soft and decomposed in warm weather. A rubber coat would become so stiff that in winter you could stand it up by itself. In summer rubber goods on the shelves would get soft and sticky and in time become a shapeless mass of odorous decomposing vegetable matter. The odors were so highly offensive as alone to constitute a bar to successful sales.

Did it With Sulphur And Heat

Then when the rubber industry was about down and out, Charles Goodyear after ten years' effort, discovered the vulcanization process, which with improvements, is used throughout the world to-day. It is one of the great discoveries of the past century. For some years prior to the discovery it had been known that sulphur mixed with crude rubber produced some changes for the better. But not until further investigation did they find that this mixture subjected to intense heat produced anything like the necessary change in the rubber, and gave it those qualities of immunity to heat and cold and that durability and elasticity requisite. Finally all the undesirable matter in crude rubber could thus be eliminated and the sought-for product was found.

Vulcanization is generally known as the "cure" in factories. Many efforts have been made to discover a better process, but without success. In every rubber factory a large part of the cost of machinery and labor is applied to

Some time during Saturday night at least four hen roosts of citizens were visited and a number of valuable fowl were taken. The places visited were Messrs. George Moxam, James Dyer and Thos. Meagher situated on Highland Avenue and Lee Ketcheson's on Warham street. Mr. Moxam had seven Rhode Island and one White Wyandotts taken, Mr. Dyer, four barred rocks, Mr Lee Ketcheson some Brown Leghorns and Mr. Meagher eight Rhode Island Reds. The police were notified of the affair and plain clothes officer Trulasch and Sergt. Boyd were placed upon the case. Bandits Made Big Haul in Illinois

HELD UP FLIER—CLEANED OUT $125,000 FROM CHICAGO AND ALTON "HUMMER"

East Quincy, Ills., Feb. 28.—Four men armed with rifles held up the "Hummer" the crack Chicago and Alton flyer near here early today and robbed the mail car of registered letters and packages.

The postal authorities approximate the [illegible] $125,000, but say it may run higher.

The train had just crossed the Mississippi when the four men jumped on the tender and covered the engine [illegible] with their rifles.

"Not a squawk or you are all dead," the leader of the gang yelled at Engineer Donohue and the crew. "Stop this rattler!"

"Come on," another bandit said to Donohue who was grabbed by the shoulder and forced to cut the baggage and mail cars loose, from the rest of the train. Donohue, on commands from the bandits, took the two cars two miles up the track while the bandits looted them. The four desperadoes disappeared in the darkness after looting the cars. The train was en route from Kansas City to Chicago.

Conductor W. A. Longwell and Engineer Donohue told postal authorities today that an attempt was made to hold up the train two weeks ago at Louisiana, Mo., but that the crew fought off two bandits.

Early reports were that most of the loot was currency consigned by a bank in Kansas City to a Chicago bank.

Liquor Freights Will be Raised in Dominion

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—Freight rates on liquor in Canada will be increased [illegible]

The board of railway commissioners have granted permission to the Canadian Freight Association to raise the classification of liquor to double first class in less than carload quantities, and to third class in carload lots. The liquor [illegible] expected to bear the increased cost. No increase is allowed on native Ontario wines.

At the hearing in Ottawa on December 21st last, counsel showed that the Canadian Pacific Railway alone in 1920 lost $127,000 in liquor claims, besides spending $123,000 in policing the traffic. The total loss of $250,000 represents 16 per cent. of their total loss and damage claims. The other railways suffered equally, and conditions are said to be growing worse instead of better.

The board therefore judged that the railways were entitled to greater revenue on the traffic.

Greece Refuses Right to Investigate

The Greek refusal was not taken seriously, it was said, in Allied circles.

"To him that hath shall be given"—

Was the Biblical version of our modern saying: "Nothing succeeds like success." So it was with Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., who, over 50 years ago, gave to the world a Prescription which has never been equalled as a tonic for the weaknesses of women. Many women in every hamlet, town or city will gladly testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did them a world of good. Ask your neighbor.

Another of this great physician's successful remedies is known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and, like the "Prescription," is now sold by druggists everywhere, in both liquid and tablets. This medicine was a success from the start, for the list of men and women all over the universe who have successfully used it for indigestion and as a blood tonic and system builder, makes an amazing total of thousands.

MRS. W. F. BAKER, of Milwaukie, Oregon, who says she has been restored to perfect health by Tanlac after having suffered for twenty years. Her statement is remarkable.

"For the last twenty years I have suffered from stomach trouble in its worst form. I was in misery all the time. If I took a drink of coffee or milk, or even water, it would cause belching and gas. In fact, absolutely nothing would digest in my stomach. I always had an awful burning sensation in the pit of my stomach. I believe I have taken almost a wagon load of soda for stomach trouble. I would have to take it night and day. Gas would bloat me up so badly I couldn't fasten my clothes. At times my heart would palpitate and flutter so badly I would nearly smother and I would have to gasp for breath. In fact, I thought I had heart trouble.

"I was very fond of cheese and the least bite would throw me right into spasms. I was also very fond of onions, but they would upset me terribly.

"My whole system was out of shape and I was also bothered with rheumatism and neuritis. Pains in my arms and other joints were almost unbearable. I had to carry one of my arms in a sling and couldn't raise it up to my head. My hands would swell up and for a long time I was in just an awful condition.

"I told my husband I guessed I would have to give up and die, as the doctors' medicines and other things I took didn't do me any good. Then he got me some Tanlac and said I had to take it. Well, before I finished one bottle, I found the things I would eat did not bother me so much. I kept gradually getting better and finally after taking five bottles, my trouble was entirely relieved. I can now eat onions, cheese or any thing I want. In fact, I am in perfect health in every way. My neuritis and rheumatism have also left me. I know that five dollars' worth of Tanlac has done me more good than a hundred dollars' worth of other medicines. I will sing the praise of Tanlac as long as I live."

The above remarkable statement was made by Mrs. W. F. Baker, whose address is Milwaukee, Oregon, R. F. No. 2.

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store, and by the leading druggists in every town.

Letters to the Editor

THAT HOCKEY MATCH

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your paper to comment on Friday night's game.

The worst feature of the game was the throwing of the bottle at the referee. The people standing by the one who threw it should have had him arrested. The O.H.A. would soon put "the can" on hockey in Belleville if much of this bottle-throwing went on.

Referee Marsh let a lot of things get away; but he is more fit for pro. hockey than O.H.A. In pro. hockey they don't call the small stuff. I don't think he favored one side or the other.

Belleville did not have any team work. I think it was a mistake to change the team around so late in the season. Collingwood had lots of team play and some of it was very bad. They had a habit of bringing the puck out across in front of their own net and stalling in the corners.

A good senior team would beat them by a dozen goals.

There is no doubt, with Boland in goal, Green and Arnott on defence, and Whelan, Swayne and Weir on the forward line, on neutral ice, they would beat Collingwood; that is, if they were playing together a few games and had a little coaching.

Green and Arnott would make a dandy defence; they have the reach and speed. Green is a fine rusher, goes direct for the opposite goal, no criss-crossing for him. He will be 50 per cent. better next year; needs a little coaching on the defence. Arnott should never be played on the forward line. He is a good stick handler and fast skater; has one of the hardest shots to handle I ever saw. He would get lots of goals if he played on the defence, when he could pick his openings to get through.

Whelan has everything—speed, stick handling and shot, and game—all he needs is to hold his temper.

Young Weir is fine lots of speed, and courage, he is a little weak on his shot, does not pick it up quick enough, but a little practice will soon fix that.

Now we have all kinds of clubs in Belleville—Rotary, Lions and Knockers. Why not form an Athletic Club to promote and finance sport? Let everyone join and have a say, elect officers for the business part of it, and men to coach teams.

Our team sure needed coaching worse than anything else, and no one man can manage a team only in play.

I would like to see Mayor Hanna take hold of this and see what he can do.

Thanking you for the space in your paper.

Automobile Tires Made in Belleville

this—obtaining a proper "cure". Some types of thin rubber goods have been successfully vulcanized by chemicals, but generally speaking the sulphur method remains.

One Drop of Water

The laboriousness of vulcanizing auto tires helps to account for their dearness. To illustrate the careful supervision which must be exercised, it may be said that a single drop of moisture in the rubber or fabric, will, when the tire is heated in the vulcanizer, turn to steam, expand into a blister and make the tire unsaleable.

Tire Heated by Steam

After the tire is built it is placed in a big steel mould weighing from 500 to 6,000 pounds. It then goes into the vulcanizer, a big tank. The lid is then screwed down and the steam turned on. The temperature rises gradually for twenty minutes, by which time about 286 degrees Fahrenheit is reached. The tire remains at this temperature for about two hours when the steam is turned off. After about fifteen minutes of cooling the moulds are taken off the tires removed and stripped from the cores on which they were built.

If everything has been done properly, a sound saleable tire is the result. If not, if some carelessness has wrought a flaw the tire is more or less spoiled. Once a tire has been vulcanized it cannot be changed. It is like a jar of pottery which has been baked once baked it's form is permanent and unchangeable. It is true that a tire with some slight flaw can be fixed up and put on the market as a second, but it is damaged goods. Hence a rigid system of inspection has ensued and in one of the greatest American factories the number of imperfect tires has dropped to one in one thousand.

Re-vulcanization

Once vulcanized a tire cannot be subjected to further vulcanization without overcuring which results in rapid deterioration of the rubber. It is for this reason that so many retreading processes have proved unsatisfactory. The new tread must be vulcanized to the old carcass and a certain amount of re-vulcanization of the old carcass takes place causing such an amount of overcure as to take the life out of it.

Welds Parts Into Compact Whole

While in the vulcanizer the rubber in a new tire or other article runs together, so that the various parts of rubber in the structure are firmly welded. The ordinary rubber boot for instance, which is composed of thirty-nine separate pieces thus becomes one compact body. To secure a permanent union of two pieces of rubber vulcanization is necessary. Hence the reason that so many small vulcanization outfits are found in repair shops. And considering the intricacies of the process a remarkable degree of efficiency has been attained by the various repair men.

MR. HARDING FAVORS U.S. NAVAL PROGRAM

Washington, Feb. 28.—President-elect Harding sent word to-day to Senate Republican leaders that he desired adequate appropriations for the navy and favored continuing the present building program without material reductions.

With this definite statement of what was regarded as the new administration's naval policy, Senate Republican leaders declared they would insist upon Senate increases ofer the house totals in the naval appropriations bill, even at the risk of defeating the bill at this session.

Wilson Is a Shy Man

I HAVE long wanted to tell what manner of man this Woodrow Wilson really is, but have refrained because I knew that he himself would not have approved. He who shrinks from self-exploitation would resent exploitation by his friends.

But circumstances have altered. Woodrow Wilson will pass from the stage on March 4. It, therefore, seems to me not improper that just before the curtain rises on the last act I modestly step out from my obscurity in the wings and tell the audience a few things about the leading actor in this great American drama of the past eight years.

I have known Woodrow Wilson for ten years in the intimate relationship of a private secretary.

In these latter years Woodrow Wilson has had but one ambition, to have the United States take the lead in this great work of making secure the peace of the world, including the peace of America.

On his last tour of the country, when he knew he was breaking, he was compelled by conscience to present this great cause to his fellow-countrymen. He one day looked at a lot of school children lining the sidewalks of a Western city, and, in addressing them, he said: "I cannot look at these children without reflecting that I am their attorney and they are my clients. It is my dearest wish that through the League of Nations they shall not be sent upon a similar errand.".

It is as if the great war had diverted his mind from the things of the present hour to the things of the future, to the generations unborn, to secure for them a better, juster, safer, happier world than the world that went to smash in 1914.

From the point of view of superficial politicians, Woodrow Wilson has one dreadful defect — no, not what his enemies say, that he will not take counsel of others. Study the record, and you will find that no other President has consulted so much with Congress, with Senators and with representatives singly and in groups, in the White House and in the consultation room at the capitol. They know it. They find it convenient to deny it for partizan advantage. Their real quarrel with him is not that he would not consult with them, but that he would not do what they told him to do. Nor would he. This is not the Woodrow Wilson conception of the Presidency. He holds that the President should be a leader, not a docile follower of other men's decisions.

He is the despair of the newspaper boys who want human interest stories. Human from his heart to his finger tips, he does not know how to put his humanity on exhibition. There occurred a little incident in a Western state that most Presidents would have had telegraphed all over the country. Exhausted by his public engagements, racked with pain, he nevertheless slipped away quietly one afternoon with Mrs. Wilson to pay a visit to some friends of his first wife living in a little cottage in a side street of the town. Any other man I ever knew would have excused himself from making the effort, but, having made the effort, most men would have dropped a hint to somebody to tip off the newspaper boys. Here was a human interest story. Here was something that would look well in print. He does not know how to turn a kind and self-sacrificing act to political advantage.

As his secretary, and knowing the value of publicity to a man seeking votes, I have often been vexed that he didn't play up better, but as his friend and admirer I have loved him because he didn't. There was something too fine in his nature for the dramatics and posturings of the political game as it is usually played.

It is known to his nearest friends, but not guessed at by the public at large, that this aggressive fighting man is in his own nature a very shy man, too sincere to pose, too shy to make advances. He has not been generally understood. People see his dignity, his reserve, but they cannot see his great heart yearning for the love of his fellow-men. Out of that great loving heart of his has come this passion which has controlled his whole public career, his passion for justice and his passion for fair dealing and democracy.

Woodrow Wilson lacks by temperament the hail-fellow-well-met, slap-you-on-the-back, easy familiarity. It is often one of the superficial aspects of democracy; attractive when it is sincere, but at best only an outward sign. Real democracy lies deep in men's souls. In Woodrow Wilson's inmost heart there burns like a holy fire a passion and a conviction that the Democratic ideal is right, the ideal of equal opportunity for all, not only in the eyes of God, but here on earth in all the processes of Government, and not only among individuals, but also among nations, an intolerance of privileges and exemptions as an abomination and betrayal of the purposes for which the Government of the United States was founded, and a determination with all the iron will that is in him to live for this principle. It is in this service that he enlisted for life, as he himself states, and it is in this service that he broke, and after breaking kept on fighting. The loyalty of the great Democratic rank and file for this man has been the loyalty of millions who have recognized in him a man who meant what he said, and said what they in their hearts and souls believed, and who acted as he spoke; who to vision added will and to will decision, and was, therefore, their natural leader in the struggle between privilege and the aspirations of those who have sought justice in a world too long controlled by chicanery.

SPORTING NEWS

HERE THERE AND EVERYWHERE

RIDING THE REFEREE AN EXCITING PASTIME.

"Riding the referee" may be an exciting indoor sport but it never gets the home team anything but the worst end of the stick if the official possesses any spunk at all, causing him to watch the home team more carefully and penalize with greater strictness, lest it appear that the hostility of the fans has "thrown a scare into him." Legitimate rooting is an essential part of any game and the home players are invigorated by the vocal evidence of the approval of their supporters, while the visiting players are in danger of being rattled by vigorous rooting directed against them by the fans, which, however should be confined within limits decent and fair and sportsmanlike. The fans can help or hinder their favorite team in accordance with the judgment used in the favorite pastime of rooting, but, abusing the officials only creates resentment where it can do the most harm to the team's chance.

MIDWINTER MADNESS OR SPORTING INSANITY

Pugnacious is the word which best describes the feeling of a portion of the crowd which attended the hockey match Friday evening. Acute soreness resulting from the disastrous defeat at Collingwood of the hockey team, aggravated by the reversal of form on home ice, with the additional grievance that the referee seemed a bit too strict in his rulings against Belleville players—and the fans were certainly in a fighting mood.

This was brought forcibly home to Stan Hagerman, one of the best players on the junior hockey team, and one of the squarest sports who ever put on a skate. Stan was sitting with a young lady friend watching the game Friday evening when he saw an empty bottle thrown in the direction of officials and players on the ice.

Stan protested at once remarking that there was no sport in such an action which was nothing but a rotten dirty trick. A fist in the face was Stan's reward for standing up for clean sport followed by an assault in which several grown men are said to have participated against this boy resulting in painful injuries to him. It is hard to understand such an occurrence and there must have been a peculiar madness in the air that night, judging from the crazy incidents reported including the bottle throwing, the assault on Hagerman, the attempts to "get" the referee including the tearing to tatters of Inspector Naphin's overcoat while protecting the said official, and the mob which paraded the streets vowing vengeance against the O.H.A. official. There was also another little party of avengers who searched the restaurants looking for the men who beat up Hagerman, with the avowed intention of giving them a dose of their own medicine in the rough stuff line.

All in all it was a large evening and fully justified the old song "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

"Midsummer madness may be excusable when generated in brains softened by the heat but in good old winter time there is no excuse for departing from fair and square British sportsmanlike methods. There is not the slightest doubt but that the hockey official would have willingly accommodated the hostile fans with a fight, one at a time, and even two at a time one Big one or two small ones he had been properly approached but there are few athletes who care fight an army singlehanded.

Let's get back to sanity and try to develop temper control even under great provocation. The hockey players have to do this or sacrifice their usefulness in the penalty box. Why not the fans?

A TIE GAME.

Many who are interested in the game of basket ball were on Saturday evening present at the Y. M. C. A. building to witness a league game. It was a match between Belleville Y.M.C.A. and Peterborough Y.M.C.A. teams, and it proved to be close and exciting; in fact it resulted in a tie, both teams scoring 25 points. It was an O.A.B.A. game, in which three teams are entered for this group, namely, Belleville, Kingston and Peterborough. In the first half of the game the score was decidedly in favor of the Peterborough players, namely 17 to 10; but in the second half the Belleville team redeemed themselves, scoring 15 points to Peterborough's eight. The final score was 25 to 25. Both teams gave a fine exhibition of the game and during its progress played hard. The lineup of the teams was as follows:

Belleville—Forwards, Finkle and Yeomans; centre, Jas. Marshall; guards, J. Alexander, Morden; subs, John Marshall and V. Weir.

Peterborough—Forwards, Seeley and Pogue; centre, Stewart; guards, Sutherland and Darling; subs, Jobbitt and Nichols.

Mr. D. Loomis was referee and was kept busy watching play.

PRELIMINARY GAME.

Previous to the big game a match took place between employees of the Y. M. C. A. and a Belleville High School team. The employees won out by a score of 29 to 23. It was a good game and created much interest. The players were as follows:

Employees—Forwards, Angus Buchanan and Alf. Buchanan; centre, Allen; guards, McCallum and J. Herity.

B. H. S.—Forwards, Hart and Maddens; centre, Cole; guards, Deacon and McFarlane.

Mr. Loomis refereed the game.

AURA LEE WINS

At Whitby on Saturday night Belleville junior hockey team played against Aura Lee of Toronto. It was a close and exciting game, and was finally won by the Toronto team. In the first period the score was 2 to 1 in favor of Belleville; second period 4 to 3 in favor of Aura Lee and final 6 to 5 in Aura Lee favor. With but two minutes to play in the third period the winning team scored the goal that told the tale. The lineup was as follows.

At Trenton tonight Queens junior team of Kingston and Aura Lee team will play.

CHINESE FAMINE RELIEF FUND

We continue to read in the papers day by day the great necessity for further contributions to the China Famine Relief Fund for the famine-stricken districts in China.

The local treasurer has forwarded all the funds received so far to the Honorary Treasurer, Mr. D. A. Cameron, Canadian Bank of Commerce, Toronto and has a letter from him expressing their appreciation of the gifts from Belleville as follows. "On behalf of the Committee please extend to your citizens my sincere thanks for their generous contributions." (sgd.) D. A. Cameron.

The local treasurer would like to say that the fund is still open in Belleville and any contributions from individuals, churches, businesses or other organizations would be gratefully received and forwarded to the proper source in full, free from all expense.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Health in Spite of Winter Stuffing

MONDAY HEALTH TALK No. 13
By WM. P. REDICK, D.C. Ph. C.

The penalty of gluttony is suffering, at any time, but in winter the penalty for stuffing is colds, coughs, kidney trouble, and when resistance is low, such serious winter diseases as influenza and pneumonia.

Nearly every one is guilty of overeating in some degree. When the spine is in good order and there is no interference with nerve impulses to the stomach, lungs, liver and kidneys, Nature is usually able to take care of the excess eaten without discomfort. If you suffer from winter colds, and find it hard to throw them off, chiropractic spinal adjustments will bring you back to normal health and strength.

WELL OF DIGESTIVE BREAK-DOWN.

"Though doctoring constantly I kept getting worse. From 212 pounds I dropped to 168. I spent twenty days in a Martinsville sanitarium. Different specialists pronounced it intestinal indigestion, catarrh of the stomach and bowels, and two called it Bright's Disease. After taking chiropractic spinal adjustments for more than two months I was again able to do all my farm work and back to my usual weight and strength."—John Briney, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1251.

ACT FOR HEALTH TODAY.
Delay adds to suffering. Consultation is without charge or obligation.

Nine Reasons Why Spinal Neglect is a crime

1. The backbone is the foundation of the body.
2. It is composed of 26 joints, 24 of which are movable.
3. From between these joints radiate the nerves of the body.
4. When these joints are in alignment the nerve openings are full size and the nerves deliver 100% of their power.
5. A nerve under pressure at the backbone opening causes disease in the part it serves.
6. Chiropractic removes the pressure by an adjustment by hand, and this adjustment opens the way for health (free nerve energy).
7. If chiropractic seems too simple to do all that it can do, remember that every phenomena of growth is caused by as simple a thing as heat.
8. To neglect the backbone invites disease, which is a crime because it is in violation of Nature's laws.
9. Don't be a criminal.

MOTOR AMBULANCE NEEDED FOR HOSPITAL CASES.

Just now when so many people are ill, necessitating frequent use of an ambulance to transfer patients to the hospital, attention is drawn to the fact that one of the pressing needs of Belleville is a modern motor ambulance capable of conveying sick people quickly and comfortably to the hospital. When it is desirable to take a sick person from home to hospital there is always a certain amount of risk involved in the operation, and it is desirable to reduce this risk to the smallest minimum, and to do this speed and comfort are essential.

It cannot be said that the present ambulance facilities are at all modern or adequate, and the attention of The Intelligencer has been called to the situation by citizens who have expressed a desire to contribute to a fund for the purchase of a first-class motor ambulance for the use of the hospital.

In view of the great public service rendered by the hospital, and the fact that a modern ambulance would increase the efficiency of the hospital besides being of great service to the public generally in the hour of need a generous contribution by the City Council would meet with universal approval.

COMPARISON BETWEEN VICTORIOUS AND DEFEATED GERMANY.

Very few of the leading newspapers of the United States express anything but contempt for Germany in this latest exhibition of the yellow streak in lamenting about the size of the reparations bill.

A comparison between what a victorious Germany exacted of France in 1871 and what the Allies are now demanding of Germany in defeat is both pertinent and illuminating, in the opinion of some of the editorial observers. The indemnity paid by France after the Franco-Prussian War was 5,000,000,000 francs, or $1,000,000,000, and the Germans did not retire until it was paid in full. The present bill against Germany for 226,000,000,000 gold marks payable in forty-two years, experts estimate, is equivalent to a present cash payment of $21,00,000,000—which is less than the war debt of the United States alone. Says the New York Tribune:

> "How does the bill of $1,000,000,000 which Germany presented to France compare with the tentative $21,000,000,000 bill which the Allies have submitted to Germany?
> "A great change has occurred in the purchasing power of the gold mark in the fifty years. Gold has depreciated more than one-half. So on the basis of 1871 gold values the bill is not more than $10,000,000,000.
> "Secondly, the present population of Germany is about double that of France in 1871. Measured per capita, then, what is now asked of Germany must be halved again to make a true comparison. The reparations bill, when judged relatively, thus falls to $5,000,000,000.
> "Thirdly, individual wealth per capita in Germany is something like four times what it was in France in 1871. Allowing that half of this is due to gold depreciation, the other half may be ascribed to a positive increase in wealth accumulation, and another cutting in two is needed to arrive at a true comparison. This brings the reparations total down to $2,500,000,000.
>
> "Finally, the German bill in 1871 was not to repair damage (Germany was not invaded or a German brick disturbed), but solely for war expenditures. On the contrary, France is to get nothing for war-expenditures—only about one-half enough to repair her ravaged territories. She is the poorer in actual property by many billions, though Germany pay her bill in full, and longer than forty-two years her thrifty taxpayers will be burdened to meet the cost of expelling the Germans.
> "It is high time to recognize exactly what the new German propaganda implies. It means not only that Germany is to pay relatively little more than did France in 1871, but that an intact Germany, having wantonly begun a war, is to emerge from the conflict in a condition to distance France in economic competition."

If fifty years ago Germany was justified in demanding $1,000,000,000 from France for a brief conflict carried on almost wholly in French territory, remarks the Troy Record, "such demands as Germany is now required to meet are in no sense of the word excessive." And the same paper goes on to say:

> "In the Franco-Prussian War France had suffered to the extent of billions from an invasion by Germany and the prostration of its industries. Still an immense indemnity was asked, an indemnity which in modern figures would be at least twice as great. Its demand was enforced by the presence of German garrisons.
> "Under the plan of the Allied Council Germany is not required, as France was in 1871, to pay the entire costs of the war. Germany is only compelled to pay a small fraction of them. During the struggle Germany kept its enemies out of its territory by crooked interpretations of treaties and by the scrapping of others. It suffered not at all in comparison with its enemies. It is whining now because its babies have not enough food; yet it retains 800,000 cows which it stole from Belgium and France, and which it promised to return. Its whole course has been contemptible and savage from the beginning. The only way it can understand its defeat is by making it pay for that defeat."

CRISP COMMENT

Many a Torontoite now recognizes that a cock fight on Sunday morning is nothing to crow about, remarks the Brockville Recorder, and the sporting editor of that great family journal thinks that, by and large, Old Man's Island is still the best place to stage cock fights. How about it, Tommie?

Dear, oh dear! listen to this, lisped by the funny man of the Brockville Recorder: "And now they are saying across the line that Mr. Mellon, the new Secretary of the Treasury, was picked." However, a picked mellon is preferable, perhaps, to a pickled mellon, and will afford variety and spice to President Harding's Cabinet of assorted essences.

Income tax "blanks" will be well named this year, says the Wall Street Journal.

The best way to elevate the stage is to begin with the audience, in the opinion of the Washington Post.

Doubtless the reparation sum fixed by the Allies will stimulate production of Rhine whines, remarks the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

OTHER VIEWS

HERD IMPULSES AND CREDULITY

Philadelphia Inquirer

Weighted with the years that have brought the philosophic mind, the President Emeritus of Harvard University deplores the "herd impulses" and the credulity" of the American people. Dr. Eliot believes that one serious task of education is to "release individuality.' Observers of the current trend will incline to believe that he is right. There seems to be little danger in these days of the prevalence of what are called "anti-social" tendencies by the Uplifters. On the contrary we are more and more giving our intelligence and our conscience into the hands of the community. That "herd impulses" lead to credulity' is easily conceivable. Nor are the American people singular in believing almost anything if it is repeated often enouyh. "Plain living and high thinking are no more," said Wordsworth many years ago. The connection of the two may not be as inevitable as he implied. But it is at least arguable that we are too much occupied with futilites to think straight. It is easier to have our thinking done for us.

NOT ALWAYS THE RAILWAY'S FAULT

St. Louis Globe-Despatch

Of the 6,975, killed on the railways in 1919, only 1,693 were railroad workers. Who were the others? Some, of course, were passengers, and still on half of our national system, or 125,021 miles of railroad, a greater mileage than all Western Europe, ncluding the British Isles, whose safe operation is often eugolized not a single passenger lost his life. Of the 5,282 killed other than railroad employees the great majority were trespassers on rights of way and persons who met death at crossings and other exposed places in systems of tracks. Within the limits fixed by the conditions of the past, the railroads themselves have applied safety-first principles with unhoped-for success, but the time has come when the public must co-operate for the removal of former limits and a great expansion of the movement. Separation of grades at crossings, physical safeguards at other points of peril, can make possible new records in life-saving even former cheering records.

POETS' CORNER

WHERE THE WEST BEGINS

Out where the handclasp's a little stronger,
Out where the smile dwells a little longer—
That's where the West begins.

Out where the sun's a little brighter,
Where the snow that falls is a trifle whiter,
Where the bonds of home are a wee bit tighter—
That's where the West begins.

Out where the sky's a trifle bluer,
Out where the friendship's a little truer,
Out where everything is newer—
That's where the West begins.

Out where a fresh breeze is blowing,
Where there's laughter in every streamlet flowing,
Where there's more of reaping and less of sowing—
That's where the West begins.

Out where the West is in the making,
Where fewer hearts with despair are aching,
Where there's more of giving and less of taking—
That's where the West begins.

Where there's more of singing and less of sighing,
Where there's more of giving and less of buying,
And a man makes friends without half trying—
That's where the West begins.

Deschanel's Reason Was Affected by Too Much Work Followed by a Tragic Error

MELANCHOLIA, induced by an extraordinary sensitive conscience, was responsible for the tragic end of the Presidency of Paul Deschanel, according to an exhaustive article in the Journal du Peuple.

"President Deschanel's illness," it said, "was directly caused by his noble, rigid conception of Justice. Never believing in capital punishment, he felt the blood of an executed persons to be on his own head where executive clemency had been refused to a man alleging himself innocent.

"Shortly after his election, the President was petitioned to extend clemency to M. Toque, former Colonial Administrator, condemned to death for treason. During the trial he protested that he was innocent. Deschanel desired to grant a pardon, but was prevented by an administration that insisted on the execution as a matter of principle. Deschanel gave in, and M. Toque was executed.

"After the death the attorney of Toque gave the President a memorandum presenting proofs of the executed man's innocence. Remorse for the monstrous judicial error seized Deschanel, who lost his appetite, his sleep and his desire to live.

PAUL DESCHANEL.

"The matter preyed on his nerves until he became the victim of dangerous melancholia. His falling from a train four months ago was not an accident, but an attempt at suicide. Some time later the President, who had outdistanced his friends in a country tour, was found drowning in a lake. A week before his resignation he was hauled out of a canal. Neurologists say the 'mysterious disease' was simply the pangs of conscience, while the entire episode is merely another proof that dead men can kill."

It is at Malmaison, in a sanitarium for nervous derangement, that former President Deschanel is likely to end his days.

During the many years that he presided over the Chamber of Deputies, M. Deschanel was a tremendous worker, and the nervous strain of his office has told much more severely on his constitution than he imagined or would admit. The war, too, had its effect on the man, who was at all times intensely patriotic, and who felt the war tragedy in a peculiarly personal fashion. At the time of his election he was far from being well, and, though it had throughout his life been his ambition to become President of France, he would have withdrawn his candidacy had he not been pushed into the position by those who feared the continuance of Clemenceau rule.

Shortly after he went to the Elysee M. Deschanel began to suffer from a derangement which took the form of what is called the persecution mania. He imagined that his Ministers were withholding information from him and were not treating him with the respect due his position. For some time only Madame Deschanel and his doctor knew the secret, but one evening, after a dinner at the Foreign Office, the President, losing all restraint, launched into a diatribe against his Cabinet, and, in the presence of a large company, asserted that he was being kept in the dark about everything that was happening and a conspiracy was afoot against him.

Cultivation of Melons.

Melons were first extensively cultivated in France early in the seventeenth century, but were known to the ancients from the commencement of our era. The Egyptians grew them. They are said to have been carried to America by Columbus, and to the Malay Archipelago by the Portuguese. No other fruit is so variable in foliage and habit, or undergoes so many metamorphoses by crossing its varieties, all of which are fertile. They are grown extensively in Asia, but little care is bestowed on their cultivation, and they consequently never improve. They grow on sandbanks left dry by the falling rivers; if near a town a portion of the crop can be sold, but most of it is valueless, as it rots if taken any distance by cart or boat.

All the best blotting paper is made from soft cotton rags.

Time for a "forced march"

"A MAN HE SEEMS OF CHEERFUL YESTERDAYS, AND CONFIDENT TO-MORROWS—"

And—there you are! Selling goods or advice is a matter of complete understanding of two things: conveyance of information as to nature and quality to buyers; and the creation of a desire to buy, in their minds.

It is simple.

Like all things essentially simple and apparently easy, it is, however, full of pitfalls for the unwary.

One mistake most readily made by the advertiser who is not a deep student of the subject is to curtail or omit his customary expenditure for advertising in periods of uncertainty.

* * *

Whereas that is the time for a Forced March.

The keener the competition among producers and sellers, and the less eager or more diffident the consumers, the greater is the need for additional activity and intensity by the advertiser.

This is the Time of Times for using Daily Newspaper Advertising.

The Daily Newspaper is the medium of the moment—the axis of opportunity; flexible, powerful and instantaneous in its ability to create sales.

The Daily Newspapers of Canada welcome the challenge of present business conditions. They can be used to overcome them by almost every manufacturer and merchant prepared to make a "Forced March" with his advertising.

Advice as to the best ways and means of doing this will be given to those who inquire of us, or consult any recognized advertising agency—a list supplied on request.

Save Your Eyes

No age is exempt from the need of attention to the eyes. Civilization demands excessive use of the eyes at close range. Good eyes are overworked and poor ones made worse by so much study and near work, unless the excess burden be relieved by lenses ground in such a manner as to direct the light into the eye as that eye is best adapted to receive it, and focus it on the eye's retina.

It's our business to make and fit such lenses.

IN MEMORIAM

Winnifred Harker.

Just one year ago to-day,
Our dear Winnifred went away;
We had her long and loved her well,
We miss her more than tongues can tell;
But she's just across on the other shore
With her sister Georgina who went before;
They are waiting and watching
Till our work is done here below,
Then happy we'll be where parting's no more.

LIBERTY—GRIFFITH

A quiet wedding took place on Monday last, February 21st, 1921, when Violet L. Griffith of this city, became the bride of Frederick B. Liberty of Ottawa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Alex S. Kerr, at the Presbyterian Manse. Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Liberty will reside in this city.

Is the Kaiser Mad?

"IS the kaiser mad?" is the heading on an article in the London Daily Mail written from Spa by G. Ward Price, who says:

"That the ex-kaiser is mad, and has been so for years, is the sincere belief of the good people of Spa, whose unwelcome townsman he was for many months before the day he signed his abdication on the very table—so they say—in the Hotel Britannique at which the heads of the British Peace delegation are now taking their meals.

There is a butcher in the main street of Spa who was walking through the woods on Sunday afternoon in the summer of 1918, and came suddenly upon a fleshy, elderly man in his shirt sleeves, with bare arms, and a pick in his hand, who, in company with others similarly dressed and equipped, was occupied in turning a little stream from its course with all the eagerness of a child making a sand castle on the beach.

The butcher stared in surprise at these elderly mudlarks for it never occurred to him that one of them was the German emperor and two of the others were a famous general and Prince Metternich. Suddenly he was addressed with an imbecile affectation of dignity by one of the drubby diggers.

"Bon jour, monsieur. Take off your hat. You are in the presence of the Emperor of the World. And now," added the kaiser, as the startled butcher sheepishly complied, "go and forget forever what you have seen."

One of his orders was that all the branches overhanging the paths through the woods should be lopped off so that he should not need to bow his head as he rode on horseback. And far and wide every day the forests round Spa were searched by secret service men to ensure his safety.

Though allied airplanes never bombed German General Headquarters here, the great dread of the kaiser's life was air-raids. He had three villas reserved for himself at Spa, and was continually changing from one to the other. At the Villa Neubois, where Marshal Foch and M. Millerand have been staying, the kaiser's dug-out, with its steel strong-room door, made to open in two parts in case a fall of earth jammed it, is the principal sight of the house.

Baron Joseph de Crawnez, the present Mayor of Spa, held the same position all through the war, though imprisoned and threatened with execution. He was one of the leaders of a Belgian secret service organisation which often succeeded in getting early knowledge of the plans of the German General Staff.

Baron de Crawhez has all sorts of souvenirs of the German occupation of his town. One of them is a map with which the German soldiers quartered on him were provided, representing how the German Government would remake the map of Europe when victory was won. He gave the British Premier a copy of it the other day. It shows a Gross Deutschland stretching from Petrograd to the Pyrenees, with Great Britain marked as a German colony and Ireland as an Austro-Hungarian colony.

The mayor tells, too, the story of the emperor's pitiable abdication. The kaiser was playing in the grounds of his villa, where the Peace Conference sat, damming up little streams as usual, when the end came.

Hindenburg sent for him to come down to the General Staff Headquarters at the Hotel Britannique. The kaiser sent a petulant message that he wouldn't come. His generals humored him. "You must come," they said. "The Crown Prince is here."

So the emperor's valets scraped the mud off him, girthed his increasingly corpulent figure into his tunic hung with imperial decorations, henceforth meaningless, and sent him down to the hotel, where Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson has been planning the reduction of the once-proud German army to a police force.

At the door two motor-cars were waiting. In one was a Dutch general. In the other were German revolutionaries, representatives of the republic that had just been proclaimed in Berlin.

The kaiser strutted into the dining-room of the hotel, where his generals were waiting.

"You must abdicate," said Hindenburg.

The kaiser turned a startled and terrified face towards him. "Abdicate!" he exclaimed. "Why? It can't be so bad as that. Surely, I can rely on my generals. You, Hindenburg! Think of the heights to which I have raised you. I count on you, at least."

The burly marshal made no reply and the kaiser made his appeal to Ludendorff. "You then, Ludendorff?" he said. But Ludendorff turned away his face.

"Your majesty has the choice," added Hindenburg. "You can go to Holland in the motor-car that is waiting for you, or you can return to Germany in charge of the republicans."

"No!" said the kaiser with a sigh, and went off leaving the act of abdication that lay on the table.

A Difference.

Apropos of Henry Watterson's retirement from the Louisville Courier-Journal, a Louisville banker said to the great editor: "I understand your idea is to start a paper of your own that will strike a new note." "Well," fenced the veteran, "that would be a welcome change, for papers out here do nothing but note a new strike."

RESENTED BY MASONS

The February number of The Freemason has this to say of the recent Masonic degree bestowed on Premier Drury:

"Who is responsible for the undue publicity given to the raising of the Premier of Ontario in a city lodge? Humorous paragraphs and cartoons in daily papers bring reproach upon the Craft, and tend to destroy the dignified impressiveness of the Masonic ceremonial. Grand Lodge cannot afford to ignore this flagrant violation of the constitution and traditions of Freemasonry."

PASTOR JAILED, WAS IN CANADA

Belfast, Feb. 25.—Rev. J. A. Irwin, a Presbyterian minister who was arrested in January, was today convicted by court martial of having a revolver and ammunition in his possession and was sentenced to one year in prison. A charge of possessing seditious literature was not pressed against him, owing to the discovery that the suspected documents were Hebrew versions of the psalms and not Gaelic publications, as at first supposed.

Rev. Mr. Eriwn delivered addresses in Canada and the United States last year.

SHE TOOK HER MOTHER'S ADVICE

Kessock, Sask.—"My mother has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and upon learning of my troubles advised me to try it, as I seemed all run down after the flu and had leucorrhoea very bad. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and used the Sanitive Wash also Dr. Brown's Capsules and Prescription and am much better in every way. I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial as I recommend your medicines."—Mrs. IRENE NELSON, Kessock, Sask.

It is not always in business that a woman is forced to give up her work on account of ill health. It is quite as often the woman who does her own work at home. When backaches and headaches drive out all ambition, when that bearing-down sensation attacks you, when you are nervous and blue, the one great help for such ailments is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

SPORTING EVENTS

JUNIOR HOCKEY

The Excelsiors and Tigers play off for the championship of the Junior City League. The Excelsiors have a fast team and no doubt with Bill Scott on their side they will give the Tigers a hard run.

The game will be called at 7 o'clock sharp this Monday evening. If the Tigers play in their usual brilliant, fast and clean style, it will prove a battle to-the-death. J. Arnott and Bill Scott start the game from Centre ice.

The line-up for each team is:—

Excelsiors—Goal, M. Latchford; defence J. Hibbard and A. Wardhaugh; Wings, G. Ashley and J. Riggs; Centre, Bill Scott.

Tigers—Goal, A. Hickey; defence P. Arnott and E. Cook; Wings Smith and Starks; Centre Arnott.

JUNIOR FINAL

Quinte Quad defeated High School three goals to one in a Junior hockey fixture Saturday evening, and Excelsiors won from Albert College one goal to nothing. To-night at seven o'clock at the Arena the Excelsiors and Tigers will play off for the championship of the Junior League.

Music and Drama

NAZIMOVA IN "MADAME PEACOCK" AT GRIFFIN'S

In "Madame Peacock," the picture she herself has declared her greatest since "Revelation," Nazimova will appear before local motion picture audiences at Griffin's tonight to Wednesday.

This latest photoplay, from a story by Rita Weiman, will present the Russian star celebrity who finds the heights of fame somehow do not bring the complete happiness she had imagined.

At the same time, and later in the story, Nazimova comes to the front in a second character, as Gloria Cromwell, the gifted, nondescript little girl to whom Jane Goring is rather more than a goddess.

The most novel three reel picture of the year is being screened on the same program in "A Trip Through the World's Greatest Motion Picture Studio" with the famous screen producer, Thomas H. Ince, as guide, who brings before your eyes your favorite screen stars and shows you pictures in the making.

A good comedy and other plays of interest will also be screened in addition to the above.

"THE DAUGHTER PAYS" AT REGENT TONIGHT

Elaine Hammerstein will essay in her latest Selznick picture, "The Daughter Pays," which comes to the Regent tonight to Wednesday evening only, a role that offers greater dramatic and emotional opportunities than any she has yet appeared in. In the screen version of the story Mrs. Baillie Reynolds, the star reveals two striking domestic questions that cannot but retain the interest of motion picture audiences.

Miss Hammerstein is cast in the role of a serious, refined and sensitive girl who is forced to bear untold humiliation in her marriage of convenience with a wealthy man whose one object in life is to make the daughter pay for an injury done him by her mother.

Robert Ellis has an important role in the supporting cast, and he also officiated in the capacity of director. Norman Trevor will be seen in the leading male role and Theresa Maxwell Conover is prominent in the supporting cast.

A beautiful Prizma Travelogue in color, a funny Pollard comedy and other plays of interest will also be screened on the same program.

Charged With Diverting Traffic

MADE ICE TRAIL SAFE AND ACCEPTED REMUNERATION

Can toll be charged persons crossing the ice? This imputed question was up before W. W. Anderson, Justice of the Peace at a Court held at Rossmore Saturday night last. Herbert Lossee and Lucas Lossee who reside on the Prince Edward shore of the Bay were charged with collecting toll and diverting traffic from the Bridge. It appears that large cracks formed in the ice near the Prince Edward shore in which one edge of the ice overlapped the other so that vehicles could not cross the crack and the ice sank so that crossing was dangerous. Herbert Lossee cut the projecting ledge of ice and made a safe road over the hole in the ice and constructed a landing at the shore and collected a small fee from such persons crossing as were willing to pay him. The lessee of the Bay Bridge, claims he was damaged by this and had the accused summoned. The accused's lawyer took objection to the form of the summons, and also claimed that diverting traffic and collecting the toll were not offences under the Code. The Magistrate gave effect to these objections and dismissed the charge. W. C. Mikel, K.C., acted for Herbert and Lucas Lossee.
